AID FOR SCHOOLS OF NORTHERN MINNESOTA PROVIDED BY HOUSE

FAVORS STATE-WIDE PRIMARY ELECTIONS

SENATOR J. E. HAYCRAFT
Of Madelia, Who Is Urging Speedy Action on State-wide Primary Bills.

Warner Bill Taxing State Lands for School Purposes Passed.

Congdon Makes Strong Argument Against the Tonnage Tax Bill.

House Adopts Bill Aimed at False Weights and and Measures.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The house yesterday afternoon, by a vote of 91 to 9, passed the bill by C. H. Warner of Aitkin appropriating $100,000 in aid for the common schools of the state, the money to be distributed in proportion to the number of acres of unsold public land in each school district.

Aside from reapportionment, this is the most important measure, so far as Northern Minnesota is concerned, yet acted upon by either house at this session of the legislature.

In effect, it taxes state lands 5 cents an acre, which is about the rate they would pay for school purposes if they were in private hands and subject to taxation, for the benefit of the schools maintained by settlers who are struggling to make homes and redeem the wilderness, handicapped in every way by the fact that they are surrounded by state lands which pay no taxes whatever, and contribute nothing toward the building of roads and the building and maintenance of schools in which

TONNAGE TAX IN THE HOUSE

Bill Made Special Order for Afternoon of Thursday, March 16.

Reapportionment Bill Will Come Up in Senate on Same Date.

(By n Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Frankson-Johnson tonnage tax bill will be a special order in the house on the afternoon of Thursday, March 16. This was decided by the house this morning when by a vote of 70 to 41 it adopted the minority report of the tax committee, thus overturning the almost unanimous report of the committee against the bill. The proceeding is not particularly significant, in view of the custom into which the house has fallen of freely overturning committee reports where members seek to save their bills from defeat in that way. A number of those who voted for the minority report stated, in explaining their votes, that they would vote against the bill when it came up for passage.

The tonnage tax bill was the first thing before the house this morning and it took up the entire forenoon session. Representative Hoffman presented a minority report recommending that the bill be made a special order for March 16, and Representative Frankson moved the adoption of the minority report as a substitute for Representative R. C. Dunn's motion that the majority report be adopted.

HOLDUP MEN ARE FARMERS

Brigands Who Robbed Southern Pacific Train Under Arrest.

Live at Palms, Mich., and Are Identified By Trainmen.

Detroit, Mich., March 8.—The Southern Pacific holdup near Ogden, Utah, on the night of Jan. 2, is said to be closely connected with the arrest of Victor Clore and Byran O'Hara of Palms, Mich.

The arrests were made by representatives of a private detective agency. Clore was taken to the jail at Mount Clemens and O'Hara was locked up at Sandusky, Mich. The holdup resulted in the death of a porter and the taking of $1,400 cash and $1,600 in jewelry from the passengers of the train.

O'Hara is the son of well-to-do parents of Palms and Clore's father is a farmer.

The arrest of Victor Clore, who is held in the jail at Mount Clemens, was made upon a telegraphic request from the sheriff of Salt Lake City, Utah, who said in his telegram that he held a warrant charging the prisoner with murder and holdup.

It is declared that Engineer Rouse and Conductor Middleton of the train that was held up were brought to Detroit and that they positively identified the two men as the robbers. O'Hara is 30 years old and Clore is 26.

ST. PETER MAN IS STUCK FOR $150

Max Hoefer Invested That Amount in Wireless Stock.

New York, March 8.—George H. Munroe, under federal indictment for alleged misuse of the mails in selling wireless stock which the government contends he failed to deliver, was placed on trial in the United States circuit court here yesterday. Several witnesses called by the government testified to sending money for stock in answer to circulars promising rich dividends.

The prosecution of Munroe is the outcome of the crusade inaugurated by Postmaster General Hitchcock against fraudulent stock speculators, who, it is alleged, realized millions of dollars. As it is the first of a series of trials the government, with a view to presenting a strong case, has brought witnesses from England and from Albuquerque, N. M., Prescott, Ariz., and other points.

Among those who testified yesterday were Mrs. Carmine Vognatl of Boston, who said she invested $100, without return; Miss Margaret Hennesy, Braintree, Mass., $20; Max Hoefer, St. Peter, Minn., $150; and John H. Burns, Peoria, Ill., $2,500.

RIDDER MENTIONED AS A COMPROMISE

Mayor Gaynor Thinks Publisher Man Who Could Break Deadlock.

New York, March 8.—Mayor Gaynor thinks Herman Ridder would make a good compromise senatorial candidate to break the deadlock at Albany. Mr. Ridder, who is publisher of the New York Staats Zeitung and chairman of the paper committee of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, received one vote in the balloting yesterday, and when Mayor Gaynor saw the afternoon papers, he scanned the list and said:

"Why not all join in and elect Ridder? That would be a good day's work."

During the day the mayor and William P. Sheehan had a conference, but it is said that they did not discuss the senatorship.

Governor Dix today made public a letter from Mayor Gaynor of New York, expressing the hope that the senatorial contest will soon be ended and offering to assist in any way possible to bring it about.

The governor said the letter spoke for itself and was evidence "that all Democrats are for harmony."

Today's ballot for United States senator showed no material change in the situation.

PLANS CHANGED.

No New One Dollar Greenbacks to Be Issued at Present.

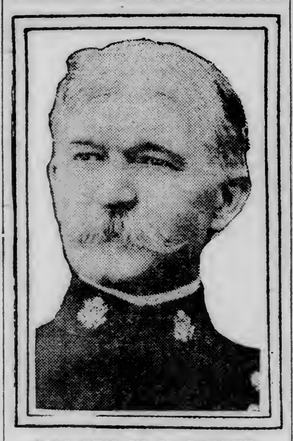
Washington, March 8.—The issue of $1 greenbacks, which was planned by the treasury department several weeks ago to meet the pressing demand for small bills, has been tentatively abandoned.

It was found that the conversion of the large outstanding silver certificates into $1 denominations promises to meet the demands for the present at least.

There are about $35,000,000 in large denomination silver certificates which will be retired and $1 notes will be issued in their places. There has been no $1 greenback since 1885.

RETICENCE OF GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS CAUSES RUMORS

IN ACTIVE COMMAND OF TROOPS IN TEXAS



MAJ.-GEN. W. H. CARTER,
At Head of the United States Soldiers Gathering in Texas.

ENGLAND STILL IN THE DARK

Mobilization of the American Troops Excites Great Interest in London.

London, March 8.—The mobilization of an American army at the Mexican frontier has excited great interest on the part of London politicians and commercial interests, but all are still in the dark as to whether the movement is for political or purely military reasons.

The foreign office denies that the British government suggested the action taken by Washington, but these officials speak in such diplomatic terms that their statements are not necessarily convincing.

There is little doubt expressed by the public and the newspapers that the political situation in Mexico caused President Taft's strong move, but it is questioned whether this government had any share in the matter.

So far as any extension of the power of the United States on the American continent is concerned, it is doubtful that such an outcome would be popular with the British public just at this time. The talk of the future annexation of Canada has created a prejudice on this side, and this prejudice is just as strong against the political expan-

REBELLION IN MEXICO

Believed to Be the Primary Reason for Assembling Troops.

Soldiers Equipped With Ball Cartridges, Unusual in Peace.

Movement of Men to the South Is Proceeding With Much Smoothness.

Washington, March 8.—Telegrams are pouring into the headquarters of the army showing that the movement of troops to the Southern frontier of the country is proceeding with the smoothness and regularity of clockwork. More than 100 telegrams already have been received and the celerity with which the orders have been carried out, it is said in military quarters, would give the impression that the movement was an every-day occurrence. Not a hitch has been encountered and practically the entire force of 20,000 men is now en route to the lower part of Texas and California. The troops are equipped with ball cartridges, although it is the practice to supply troops with blank ammunition for practice exercises or peaceful maneuvers. Notwithstanding this, however, official Washington still maintains that the movement is merely a plan of practice to determine the efficiency of the fighting arms of the country in mobilizing and concentrating on short notice.

While this is held to be true, technically, the general impression prevails that the sudden and extensive military activity has a vital and direct relation to the revolutionary movement in Mexico. The reticence of officials of the state, war and navy departments is accentuating this impression. The idea, which is generally accepted, is that the government of the United States is preparing for an eventuality that may develop with the progress of the revolt against President Diaz.

The orders to the troops stationed at Fort D. A. Russell, Wyoming, have depleted that post and the war department today ordered one battalion of the Second infantry at Fort Assinniboine, Mont., to Fort D. A. Russell to care for that station. This was the only additional order for the movement of soldiers issued today by Gen. Leonard Wood, chief of staff of the army.

The navy department continues its preparations today for the dispatch of the Fifth division of the Atlantic fleet and the large detachment of marines to Guantanamo, Cuba. The marines are being assembled at Philadelphia for transportation on the Dixie and Prai-

DIRECTS MOVEMENTS FROM THE CAPITAL

GEN. LEONARD A. WOOD,
Chief of Staff, Who Remains in Washington to Direct Movements.

EFFECTS MAY BE IMPORTANT

Presence of Troops Likely to Influence Mexican Cabinet Changes.

Washington, March 8.—Whether or not the concentration of a fourth of the standing army of the United States along the Mexican border and the moving of a portion of the navy southward along both sea coasts merely is an extensive maneuver, many persons here familiar with political conditions in Mexico regard the action of the United States at this particular time as likely to have an important bearing on future events in Mexico.

Peristent reports have reached this city that a change in the cabinet of President Diaz soon will be made and the state department also has been so informed unofficially. In these changes the American government is keenly interested. Apart from any moral effect on the treatment accorded American interests in the present disorders, it is suggested that the military demonstration of the United States, whether so intended or not, may have a potential influence on the political crisis in Mexico City.

The keynote of the ordinance is 'cleanliness.' Every section tends in this direction, thereby aiming at the health and comfort of the men who frequent the lodging houses. The provisions are sweeping in their character

ROOSEVELT STARTS ON SIX WEEKS' TOUR

New York, March 8.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt started today on his six weeks' tour across the country to the Pacific coast and back again. It is the first tour the colonel has made since the recent political campaign. His first stop will be at Atlanta, Ga., tomorrow.

"I have nothing to say about anything," said Col. Roosevelt, as he boarded his train on the Pennsylvania railroad, which left at 10:16 for the South.

The colonel said he had not heard of the mobilization of the United States troops and the navy near Mexico until this morning's paper was shown him.

THIRTY-FIVE MEN IN GREAT PERIL

British Steamer Manchuria Hard Ashore Off Norfolk, Va.

Norfolk, Va., March 8.—With their vessel hard ashore, lashed by a 42-mile gale and swept by furious seas which continue to drive her farther on the shore, thirty-five men of the British steamer Manchuria today are in imminent peril.

The Manchuria, bound from Newport News to Tampico, Mex., with a cargo of coal, went ashore yesterday during thick weather. Life savers from the little island and False Capes stations spent the night on the beach and today are on shore awaiting an opportunity to shoot a breeches buoy line over the vessel. The wrecking steamer Rescue is standing by to effect a rescue of the men.

Capt. Traylor and his men refused yesterday to leave their vessel. Today they have been signalling frantically to be taken from their dangerous position.

The ship is full of water, but is believed to be still intact.

CLASH OVER USE OF HALL

Grand Army Post Members Want Commissioners to Settle Dispute.

Culver Post Members Claim They Are Denied Rights By Custodian.

Because the members of Culver post, G. A. R., want to hang pictures of departed comrades on the walls of Memorial hall and because they have been refused permission by Asa Daily, custodian of the hall, a petition was presented at the meeting of the county commissioners this morning by Capt. Smallwood, asking that a committee be appointed to investigate the matter.

It is claimed that partiality is shown to a marked degree and the old soldiers belonging to Culver post want the matter straightened out.

There are two posts and a number of other organizations occupying the hall, and Chairman McInnis, who answered Capt. Smallwood, stated that the hall was for the use of all. In short, it is a public hall and each organization has equal rights. It annoyed the chairman that there should be any friction over the use of the hall and he appointed Commissioners Cummings, Fraser and Tischer to investigate and report at the next meeting.

Capt. Smallwood stated the case of Culver post at some length. He mentioned the fact that there is no feeling between the two posts, but the Culver

WITH WIFE AND MONEY

Ungrateful Brother Skips From Michigan Into Canada.

Proves to Be Deserter From Army, and Is Quickly Brought Back.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The story of a brother's ingratitude was unfolded by the Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., immigration officers today. William Hall, a deserter from the United States army at Fort Snelling, sought refuge at the home of his married brother in Fibre, Mich. Finding his brother was in Saginaw seeking work he induced his wife to elope with him. Before leaving he relieved the household of $50. The couple started for Canada. They were questioned at the boundary and stated that they were going to Blind River, Ont., to visit relatives and were allowed to go. The brother followed in quest of his wife and two small children to Blind River, where it was discovered that a marriage license had been obtained. An affecting scene took place when the father found the children. The brother was placed in custody and returned to the United States authorities in this city.

MUST CHANGE CROSSINGS

County Commissioners Will Confer With Canadian Northern Officials.

Inspect Crossings Along New Line and Find Changes Necessary.

At the meeting of the county commissioners this morning the crossings of the Canadian Northern Railroad company over county roads was taken up and discussed.

In a meeting of a committee of the whole the commissioners visited the crossings beyond West Duluth yesterday afternoon, and they found the conditions not altogether as they would like to have them.

There is one place about half way between West Duluth and Thomson where the construction of the railroad is such that the county road crossed it twice.

The railroad is claimed to have gone ahead with the construction without having consulted the county commissioners and it now looks as though the road will have some changes to make. The commissioners say that it would have been just as easy to have had one crossing in the beginning, and this the railroad company will probably be forced to arrange.

There are two other crossings that do not meet with the approval of the commissioners. They claim that there should be only one crossing in place of the two. A committee composed of Messrs. Ryan, Fraser and Overton will meet with the railroad officials tomorrow to decide on what is to be done. In one place it will probably be necessary for the railroad company to remove some piling and rearrange the road beneath the track. As it now stands the short turns just before going under the railroad make the county road a dangerous place for travel for automobiles or other rapidly moving vehicles.

The Mille-Davis Printing company of Minneapolis was granted the contract for the installation of the furniture in the new district court building at Virginia. The bid was $4,928.45. The bids ran up as high as $7,935.

HURTS HIMSELF; WANTS $35,000

H. E. Speakes Files Suit Against Street Railway for Peculiar Accident.

Harry E. Speakes wants $35,000 damages from the Duluth Street Railway company for injuries sustained when he narrowly escaped being struck by a street car. An action was filed against the traction company in superior court yesterday.

Mr. Speakes claims that he alighted from a south-bound car at Tower avenue and Seventeenth street, Feb. 16, and going back of the car attempted to cross the other car tracks, when a north-bound car came rushing by at a rate of twenty miles an hour.

He stepped almost directly in front of the oncoming car and only by a special effort, in which he strained himself, he managed to throw himself back and clear the tracks. He claims that he was injured internally by the strain, that he incurred $150 doctors' bills and that he cannot secure any life insurance as a result of the injuries. He seeks $30,000 because of the suffering and the effects of the accident and wants $5,000 for continued medical and surgical attention.

Madison, Wis., March 8.—The harem skirt appeared on Monday for the first time in Madison, where a firm is conducting a demonstration of spring apparel and merchandise taken from its Milwaukee store. The harem skirt demonstrated on a living model is one of the features of the exhibit.

All of the 4,300 students of the university and the entire public of the state capitol have received invitations to take advantage of the style show.

The harem skirt instead of meeting with the disapproval of the populace as in Paris and Madrid, is making a decided "hit" here in America.

BIDS FAREWELL TO SWEETHEART AND DIES.

Leavenworth, Kan., March 8.—Quartermaster Sergeant Fred Snyder of the Thirteenth infantry shot and killed himself today immediately after he had bidden farewell to his sweetheart.

Snyder was a native of Berlin, and had relatives in New York. No reason is known for his suicide except that he was despondent over the prospect of being separated from the girl, whose identity has not been learned.

ROADWAY TO PORT ARTHUR

Citizens of Cook County Are Working for North Shore Turnpike.

Ask Aid of Duluth Commercial Club in Securing It.

A well constructed turnpike extending from Duluth to Port Arthur is the project that has been agitated by the citizens of Cook county, and there is promise of work being started some time the coming spring.

Chris Murphy, auditor of Cook county, and one of the prime movers in the scheme of building a road that would place Duluth, Grand Marais, the entire North shore and Port Arthur in closer communication, today placed some facts before the Duluth Commercial club and has asked the aid of that body in furthering the project.

As it is today, there is no through road between this city and Port Arthur. Stretches of the way along the North shore afford a road that is good for wagon travel. Other stretches of the journey are almost impassable. With unanimity of action among the citizens who would be most benefitted by the construction of the proposed turnpike, there would be little difficulty in completing it.

There are, at the present time, a large number of settlers along the North shore line who are entirely shut off from communication with the outer world. The construction of the proposed through road from Duluth to Port Arthur, would prove a blessing to these people.

Electric Line.

Eventually, believes Mr. Murphy, the construction of a turnpike would result in the securing of an electric line between Duluth and Port Arthur. From the very first he states that the road would mean that automobiles would make the route one of the most popular in the Northwest.

Mr. Murphy says the scenery is the most beautiful in the entire Northwest, and that if a road was opened to automobiles, as well as teams, it would mean that hundreds of parties would each summer make the trip. The influence of the Duluth Automobile club has been solicited in the aid of the project.

The distance between Duluth and Port Arthur is 200 miles, by the proposed road, and as there is already fifty-five miles of fairly well constructed road in Cook county, the construction of the road would not seem so very expensive.

From Duluth to Beaver Bay, Lake county, the road is very good and teams and automobiles can drive without any inconvenience. From that point to the county line of Cook county the road is almost impassable, according to the statement of Mr. Murphy.

There is sixty miles of very good road in Cook county, according to the same authority, extending almost to the Canadian line. Near the Canadian line the road is very bad. On the Canadian side of the line there would have to be a good deal of work done.

Already the people of Cook county are thoroughly in accord with the project of constructing a through road from Duluth to Port Arthur, and stand ready to provide funds for the construction of the road in Cook county by the issuing of bonds.

At the present time the only detail necessary for the assurance of the construction of the road is the consent of the citizens of Lake county to raise the funds necessary for the construction of the road from Beaver Bay to the Cook county line.

As before mentioned, the plan has been set before the Commercial club and it is very likely that prompt action will be taken on the plan to bring the entire north shore into closer communication with this city.

"SASSED" THE GOVERNOR.

Former Representative Calderhead Shows President Couple of Messages

Washington, March 8.—An interesting sequel to the recent fight in congress over the matter of increased postage on magazines and periodicals developed at the White House today when Former Representative Calderhead of Kansas showed President Taft an exchange of telegrams between himself and Governor Stubbs of Kansas. Governor Stubbs telegraphed to Mr. Calderhead in part as follows:

"I am advised upon excelent authority that the proposed increase in second-class postage is aimed directly at progressive magazines and periodicals; that the rates proposed are confiscatory and will practically ruin every popular-priced periodical in the country and will therefore deprive the people of their only free press."

Mr. Calderhead sent the following tart reply:

"Dear Governor—Your message at hand and as usual you are wrong. The congress of the United States is not an enemy of the people and the freedom of the press is not in danger. I wish you would get some correct information."

BELTRAN ELECTED RULER OF HONDURAS.

Puerto Cortez, March 8.—Dr. Francisco Beltran, who was agreed upon last week by the peace conference as provisional president of Honduras, was elected yesterday by congress as premier designate or first vice president of the republic.

This is a full acceptance by the congress of the conditions of the peace agreement and Beltran becomes the constitutional as well as provisional president immediately upon the resignation of President Davila.

Rafael Lopez Guiterrez was elected second designate by the congress, which means that in the event of the death of Beltran he will succeed to the presidency.

NELSON ON RECIPROCITY

Senior Senator From Minnesota Refuses to Be "Smoked Out."

Has in Mind Welfare of All People of State."

Efforts of Duluthians to "smoke out" Senator Knute Nelson on the reciprocity question have not as yet been very successful. A number of letters have been written to him, but nothing definite in the way of a reply, has been received.

The following letter written by a Duluth man was sent to Senator Nelson several days ago:

"Hon. Knute Nelson, U. S. Senate,
"Washington, D. C.

"Dear Sir:

"Believing that the best interests of our nation will be served by the passing of the reciprocity agreement at present before the senate, I cannot help writing you, urging you to vote for it.

"I believe that if we do not accept this opportunity to broaden the commercial relations between our country and Canada, we will not get the like opportunity again. There may be some slight objections to it, but it is for the greatest good of the greatest number and that is what all government should stand for, and with this entering wedge, I believe that the time will not be far distant when we can and will drop all commercial barriers with our friends to the north.

"Hoping to see your vote recorded in favor of this treaty.

"Yours sincerely,
"....."

To the letter the following answer was received:

"Dear Sir:

"Your letter of recent date, favoring the passage of the proposed Canadian reciprocity agreement is at hand. I am giving considerable study to this question, having in mind the welfare of all the people of our state, the farmers as well as the millers and railroads.

"Yours truly,
"KNUTE NELSON."

CLAIMS TO BE INSANE

Phil Boeger Says "Beautiful Woman" Unbalanced His Mind.

Phil Boeger walked into the probate court office at the courthouse this afternoon and declared that he was "crazy."

Boeger is 57 years old. He said that he had been in an asylum in North Dakota, but had been released some time ago. He wants to be sent back.

A beautiful woman, Boeger says, is responsible for the unbalancing of his mind. He did not remember where he had seen her, nor who she was, but that didn't make any difference, he had gone insane over her, anyway.

He will have an examination before Judge Gilpin.

"LUCKY" BALDWIN CASE IS ENDED

Anita Baldwin Turnbull Fails to Secure Share of Estate.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 8.—At the conclusion of the arguments in the Baldwin will case at noon today, Judge Rives announced that he would instruct the jury that the evidence adduced "fell far short of making out a case for the plaintiff," and that the jury return a verdict in favor of the defense.

This ends the contest brought by Miss Anita Baldwin Turnbull, the 17-year-old Boston girl, for a daughter's share in the $11,000,000 estate left by the late E. J. ("Lucky") Baldwin.

COMMISSION MAN WILL BE ARRESTED.

A warrant will likely be sworn out by the health department for the arrest of a commission man who sold a veal after it had been tagged for detention by the meat inspector.

It was not condemned, but it could not be sold. It was in such shape that it was impossible to determine whether it was good or not until it had been skinned. When the tag was put on it, the proprietor was told to inform the meat inspector when he sent it to a butcher shop in order that it might be passed upon. This was not done and the department officials state that they cannot allow any infraction of that kind to pass unnoticed.

PREPARING ROCK PILE FOR HUMAN DERELICTS.

Three men were sent to the Point of Rocks this morning by the board of public works to put the place in readiness for the men who will be sent to work there under the direction of the Associated Charities.

Most of the preliminary work will be in the nature of blasting out rock, so that it can be broken by the men who apply to the organization for assistance. This has to be done by experienced men. The council authorized the expenditure of $50 for the work this week, and it is expected that next Monday night a substantial sum will be appropriated for this purpose.

OLEOMARGARINE MAKER IS HEAVILY SENTENCED.

Chicago, March 8.—Judge Kenesaw M. Landis today fined Frank Goll, who was convicted of oleomargarine "moonshining" $5,000 and sentenced him to serve five years in Fort Leavenworth prison. He is the third sentenced to a long term in the federal prison and directed to pay a heavy fine for this offense within two days.

STUDENTS SUPPRESS HAZING.

Madison correspondence Chicago Post: The students have been successful in suppressing all forms of hazing here this year as a result of the agreement entered into last year to discontinue all such practices. For a number of years hazing has been kept in check with a fair degree of efficiency by the student conference committee, the self-government organization.

In consequence there have been few serious cases of hazing in recent years. Last fall, as a result of the fact that one of the football men whom the students desired to have remain on the team was involved in hazing, the student conference committee entered into an agreement with the faculty to abolish all hazing thereafter. This agreement has been successfully carried out during the present year.

CROWS IN WINTER QUARTERS.

Springfield Union: Much attention has been attracted within the last few days by an apparent migration of an unusually large number of crows eastward and over this city. It is believed that by standing in one spot one might count as many as a thousand crows passing over the city within the space of a single hour.

When questioned on this subject yesterday Robert O. Morris, ornithologist, said that of late great numbers of crows have taken to wintering in the suburbs of Springfield, and that this year these birds are more numerous than ever before. The eastward migration Mr. Morris declared to be only apparent, as the crows are just as likely to fly in any other direction and are not at present migrating at all. The birds roost in the branches of trees during the night and during the daytime fly here and there in quest of food. They have come from sections further north, and year by year exhibit a growing preference for the vicinity of Springfield as a winter resort.

"Correct Dress for Women"

Value is a thing that we lay great stress upon!

By "value" we mean the greatest possible amount of quality, expert workmanship and style, that a given price can buy—and this season we feel that we have outdone ourselves, and others, in the values we are able to present.

On account of a permanent New York representation and tri-store merchandising power, we are able to offer better garments at smaller prices than we have ever before offered. This puts us in a position to meet the prices of less particular stores, without jeopardizing the Gidding Standard of Quality.

For instance: We are anxious to have you compare Gidding Suits at $25.00, $27.50, $29.50 and $35.00, with other suits at the same prices, for you will find there is a vast difference in the quality, style and tailoring. This same comparison holds true of other lines, such as Women's Coats at $15.00, $25.00 and $29.50. Foulard Dresses at $25.00, $27.50, $29.50 and $35.00. Women's Wash Dresses at $3.00, $3.50, $4.75, $5.75, $7.50, $12.50 and $15.00.

And again the same argument applies to Misses' and Children's Wear, such as Strictly Tailored Coats at $11.50 to $15.00; Wash Dresses at $1.00 to $5.00, and other lines for Girls' Wear, for they are better values than you have ever seen at such prices.

Waists at $2.75 and $3.75—The greatest range of popular priced styles we've ever had! The two prices quoted cover a score of different styles in Strictly Tailored Linen or Madras Waists, and Dainty Lingerie Styles, in high or Dutch neck, long or short sleeved styles, trimmed in fine laces and embroideries, or daintily embroidered in Floral or Scroll Designs.

COAL STOCKS RUNNING LOW

Nut Coal Out of Market But Supply of Other Varieties Is Ample.

Annual Spring Reduction in Price to Be Made April 1.

Anthracite coal stocks on Duluth and Superior docks are running low, but except in one or possibly two varieties, stocks will be ample to supply the demand until the boats begin to bring their cargoes in the spring.

Nut coal is almost out of the market, over which there is considerable dissatisfaction among the consumers. Nut coal is the most extensively used variety for home consumption and every year about this time, the coal companies run short and the consumer is forced to use some other variety, if he has not a sufficient stock to run through the remainder of the winter. Regardless of the size of the stocks laid in by the coal companies, they never seem able to meet the demand for nut coal.

There is plenty of pea coal, stove coal and other varieties of anthracite on the market and there is no danger of a shortage that will inconvenience consumers.

The coal companies are left this year with heavy soft coal stocks. The almost complete suspension of stripping operations on the range caused an unexpected decrease in the demand for soft coal and the movement of soft coal to the Head of the Lakes during the coming season of navigation is not expected to be so heavy as it was last year.

The annual spring reduction in hard coal prices will probably be made April 1. Coal for city delivery will drop from $7.75 to $7.25 a ton, as usual, it is expected, although the price has not yet been fixed. Beginning May 1, the price will be increased 10 cents a ton each month until the level of $7.75 is again reached. The object of the decrease is to encourage people to lay in their winter coal stocks early in the summer so that the delivery demands on the companies in the early winter months may be lessened.

FORTUNE IN OLD WORLD

Finnish-Americans Have Mining Enterprise in Their Native Land.

Annual Meeting of Close Corporation Is Held in Duluth.

Coming from the Old World to the New in search of fortune is a common thing, but it is uncommon that men should, after doing that, turn back to the Old World for their fortune. But that is what is being done by the stockholders of the Finnish-American Mining company, the directors of which organization held an annual meeting yesterday in the offices of Attorneys O. J. Larson and John Saari in the Lonsdale building.

Dwight E. Woodbridge of Duluth has examined the properties of the Finnish-American company and he says of them many complimentary things in the report he made a year ago. The annual report submitted to the directors yesterday bears out in every visible detail the predictions and optimism of the expert and gives reasonable basis for the expectations of the stockholders.

The Finnish-American company is peculiar, in that its stock is not for sale. It has never been listed anywhere, and never will be, so far as the present stockholders are concerned. It is purely an investment enterprise, and most of the investors are residents of Minnesota and the Michigan Copper country.

At yesterday's meeting the old officers and directors were re-elected. They are: President, John Daniell; vice presidents, Edward Ulseth, J. E. Saari; secretary, Judge C. O. Jackola; assistant secretary, Askel Rauanheimo; treasurer, J. H. Jasberg; directors, O. J. Larson, C. J. Wickstrom, John Saari, Edward Ulseth, C. J. Jackola, J. H. Jasberg, J. E. Saari, Aksel Rauanheimo and John Daniell.

Copper, lead and zinc are the products of the mines. Then there are farms and timber, covering an area of 400 acres, owned by the company. Besides these there are mills and works of different kinds.

Somewhat reminiscent of the mines of King Solomon is this Finnish-American enterprise, and the fancy is borne out by the fact that a trace of gold is encountered now and then in the properties.

More than 100 years ago this mining enterprise was worked profitably. At that time men did not know how to work mines as they know today, and the result is that in the dump heap are vast quantities of valuable ores which will be realized upon through the agency of the concentrator plant that is being built by the company.

Shafting is being put in without a hitch and so rapidly is the work progressing that it will not be long before the Finnish-American company will be doing a lucrative, prosperous business, in the opinion of the men who are watching every step forward that is made.

The meeting was harmonious and the following ticket was nominated: President, D. F. Dumas; councilmen, Henry Carter, Dave Jones, H. N. Harding; clerk, A. F. Ittner; treasurer, Al. J. Hole; assessor, F. L. Gorenflo; justice of the peace, R. W. Koehn; constable, one year, Dan Lilly; constable, two years, Pat Cain.

EXHIBITION OF EVERY HOBBY THAT WILL INTEREST A BOY

THE BADGE THAT WILL BE GIVEN ENTRANTS.

Great interest is being aroused among the boys of the city in the second annual exposition of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A., which will be held in the boys' building at Third street and Sixth avenue east Friday and Saturday, May 5 and 6. Copies of Duluth Boys, a publication of the boys' department, containing a description of the exposition and the terms of entry have been distributed among the boys of the city and every boy under 19 years of age, whether a member of the boys' department or not, is urged to make an exhibit of his work.

The primary object of the exposition is to encourage the boys to work with their hands and the greatest prominence is given works of industry. The promoters of the exposition do not lose sight of the fact that boys' hobbies run in various directions, however, and are not confined to manual arts and the fashioning of articles of utility. Boys are encouraged to enter products of their industry, but they are also encouraged to enter tangible results of their activities in other directions.

In fact, the boys are encouraged to use their surplus boy energy in some direction which is proper and useful and the exposition is intended to show Duluth people that the workers among boys are successful in their endeavor to obtain that result.

Three Classes.

Entrants will be divided into three classes—boys under 13 years of age, boys under 16 years of age and boys under 19 years of age. There will be different prizes in each class.

Exhibits will be divided into five classes, industry, art, collections, pets and domestic science. In addition, there will be contests in music, literature, gymnastics and costumes.

Under the head of industry will come carpentry, metal work and forging, electrical apparatus, mechanical, architectural and marine drawing, and arts and crafts.

Under the head of art will come paintings, drawings, designs for book covers and photography.

In the collection department, boys will be asked to exhibit collections of stamps, coins, buttons, natural history specimens and postal cards.

Pets, such as dogs, rabbits, pigeons, etc., will also be exhibited.

Boys are not ordinarily expected to take domestic science, but many of them do so. Last year there were many exhibits of cooking done by boys, and this year a similar exhibit will be made.

The music contests will include tests on the piano, violin, cornet, in quartet work and in orchestra work.

The literature contest will consist of original stories, original orations and original poems, all of not more than 1,000 words in length.

The gymnastic contests will consist of drills and callisthenics, squads being limited to twelve boys each.

Costuming in Indian and cowboy costumes will also be judged and prizes awarded.

Competent judges will be obtained in each division and first, second and third awards will be made. The awards will be ribbons containing a special design and inscribed with the words "Duluth Boys' Exposition, 1911," the first award being blue, the second red and the third white. A silk banner will be given the school or club winning the greatest number of points.

All entries must be made by April 25, after which the work of assembling the exhibits will be taken up.

The exposition last year was an immense success. Hundreds of people crowded the boys' building during the exposition and Duluthians found that the boys of the city were doing a great deal of useful work in developing their talents. Last year the exposition was an experiment, but the success was such that it is now an annual institution and it will be much more extensive this year than it was last.

TO PROTECT LAKE FISH

Deputy Game Warden Green Reports That Supply Is Being Depleted.

Short Closed Season for Herring and Trout Recommended.

There is great need for protecting trout and herring in Lake Superior, according to the biennial report of the state fish and game commission, which has just come from the printers. J. C. Green, deputy game warden here, has reported to the commission that the supply of trout in the lake has been rapidly decreasing for the past three or four years. The number of nets used to catch the fish during spawning season is given as the reason for this falling off.

The same decrease is noted in the herring, with a consequent annual advance in the price of that fish. There is a market for Lake Superior herring as far east as Buffalo, south to St. Louis, and west to Butte. The nets spread at the spawning grounds are rapidly draining the lake of fish, however, and a short closed season is recommended by the deputy.

The report shows that during 1910 the game wardens seized twenty-seven carcasses of deer which had been shot out of season. They also collected 900 pounds of moose meat, four deer hides, 172 ducks and 136 partridges, in addition to an assortment of furs, headed by 956 muskrat skins. They also took thirty-one guns and 107 nets of all kinds, and captured fifty-eight dozen frog legs and one dog.

This property was destroyed or sold, and the list of purchasers is given in the report. Most of the skins were disposed of to local fur dealers.

During the period covered by the report the various wardens prosecuted 1,006 cases, and fines amounting to $15,832 were imposed on offenders.

Cloquet Marvels at Remarkable Photograph Showing Dead Among Living.

Cloquet, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hundreds of people crowd about E. D. Berg's photographic studio to view a peculiar picture which is displayed in the window. It is a family group, Joseph Gustafson and five children, the mother having died a half dozen years ago. On the left, between the father and youngest son, is a space too wide to correspond with the proportions of the rest of the picture and in this space appears the wraith-like form of a woman, a little in the background of the father, and between him and the youngest son, who is said to have remarked, just as the photographer pressed the button, "I wish mamma was here."

The form is very dim but may be seen, nevertheless, even by the most skeptical. There is a chain around the neck on which is suspended such a locket as the woman had worn. The face is quite distinct.

Photographer Cannot Explain.

Mr. Berg says that not until the pictures were printed and were being put through the necessary changes of water was the freak noticeable and he did not know it was there until he had sent the pictures home and members of the family called his attention. It was not noticeable on the plate when it was retouched, nor did his helper see it during the developing. He says he cannot account for it in any way professionally and that there was no double exposure and the plate was the first out of a new box which he opened for the sitting. For several days the studio was besieged by people wanting to see the picture and it has finally been placed in the window, where the crowd which views the sight cover the sidewalk all day and passing theater goers crowd the window at night. Mr. Berg will have the plate examined by an expert photographer to see if the appearance can professionally be accounted for.

MINISTER NOW A BUM

Tells Story of His Downfall to Police Court Judge.

"Instead of Preaching I Am Begging"—Lays Blame to Drink.

"Instead of a minister of the gospel I'm a bum; instead of preaching I am begging; instead of being a help to my fellow man I am become dependent upon charity, almost an outcast upon society, and I got started on the downward path in a theological institution."

Standing before Judge Cutting in police court this morning, Otto Ringle told the story of his downfall, step by step, until he reached the city jail, arrested for drunkenness and vagrancy.

"Liquor got the best of me," he went on. "I was attending a ministerial college, but I got in with the wrong bunch of fellows. We started drinking. Instead of staying in nights to get our lessons, we were downtown carousing, having 'a good time,' as dissipation is often misnamed.

"Maybe the others were strong enough to withstand the temptations. We all thought we were. I know I did. But I wasn't. I acquired a taste for liquor, and I have never been able to get rid of it. Stage by stage I have been getting lower. I have been arrested before when I was drunk. This is not the first time I have been in the police court. Try as I would I have been unable to shake off the shackles, and now I am weak in body and in mind, unable to get out and do a hard day's work."

Ringle said this morning that he hasn't taken a drink in the last four weeks. He said that he has been stopping at a place on Lake avenue, where he has been getting assistance from a friend. He entered a plea of guilty to vagrancy and was fined $10 and costs, or ten days in the county jail.

FIFTEEN DAYS IN JAIL.

Joseph Austin Found Guilty in Police Court of Beating His Wife.

Joseph Austin was found guilty of assaulting his wife after a trial in police court yesterday afternoon, and given a straight jail sentence of fifteen days. A stay of fifteen days was granted, however, at the request of his attorney, J. B. Middlecoff. Mrs. Austin, a frail woman, appeared in court to testify against her husband. She had a big black eye which she said was inflicted by her husband. Several neighbors testified that they saw Austin strike his wife. He denied that he had done so, claiming she got the black eye in a fall when she tried to run away from him.

MEXICO WILL BE INJURED

War Is a Joke But Will Discredit the Country, Says Visitor.

E. B. Brophy Says Poverty of People Brought on Insurrection.

"About the only result the Mexican war—an insurrection that is a joke even where humor is lightly regarded—will have will be the discrediting of the republic of Mexico throughout the world," is the opinion of E. B. Brophy, a passenger representative of the National lines of Mexico, who is a visitor in the city today.

Since the insurrection, or war, as it has been called in some of the many accouts, has broken out, Mr. Brophy has been down in the "war zone." According to his statement of the situation, the fighting is the least serious part of the whole situation. The greatest injury to the country will come, in the opinion of Mr. Brophy—and he is very well acquainted in the Mexican republic—through the general discredit which will follow an insurrection.

"One of the reasons for the insurrection," said Mr. Brophy today, "is the dissatisfaction of the poorer class of people. When you come to think of it, you will not be surprised. Over there vast tracts of land are held by one man. This land has come down through the generations, and the man holding it today has in many instances done nothing to earn it. This holding of land has caused extreme poverty among the poorer classes, and the real foundation for the revolution may be ascribed to this cause.

"Little real fighting has been done. Compared to the ultimate injury that will be done to Mexico by the revolution, the fighting is not even a drop in the bucket. No country can have a revolution without its reputation for stability being injured, and this will work the only great loss on the land across our southwestern border."

Rice Lake Veteran a Suicide.

Rice Lake, Wis., March 6. — Moses Boudry, a veteran of the Civil war, aged 64, committed suicide Monday by shooting himself. He was an old resident of this city, an officer in the G. A. R. post and a former chief of police. The cause for the act is unknown, but for several days he was noticed to have acted strangely. He had just been shaved by a neighbor and had gone out for an armful of wood. A moment after a shot was heard, and upon rushing out his wife found the body prostrate on the woodpile, the smoking revolver by his side.

BOARD OF TRADE WILL ASK FAIR FREIGHT RATES

Complaint Will Be Filed With Interstate Commerce Commission.

Case Has No Bearing on Lake and Rail Rate Fight.

In a few days the Duluth board of trade will file a complaint with the interstate commerce commission attacking rates from points in Southern Minnesota, South Dakota and Southern North Dakota to Duluth. While the differentials between the rates from the territory indicated to Duluth and Minneapolis will be attacked, the chief fight will be made on the comparative rates to Chicago and Duluth.

The fight has been brewing for some time, and the final decision to file the complaint was reached yesterday afternoon, when meetings of the executive and traffic committees of the board of trade were held.

The filing of the action against Western railroads was not precipitated by the refusal of Eastern trunk lines to consider the petition of the local traffic commission relative to the readjustment of lake and rail rates. The Eastern situation is entirely independent of the fight which will be started by the local grain exchange.

The complaint which will be filed by the local organization is broader than the complaint filed by the Superior Commercial club, a hearing on which will be held in Duluth by Interstate Commerce Commissioner Needham March 20. The Superior club attacked rates to Superior from North and South Dakota, Southern Minnesota, Northern Nebraska and Northern Iowa, on the ground that the existing schedules favored Chicago. Produce and grain rates, according to the Superior complaint, favor Chicago and Minneapolis to the detriment of Superior.

The complaint to be filed by the Duluth board of trade will not cover this territory entirely. It is claimed that freight and business are diverted to Chicago from Southern North Dakota, Southern Minnesota and South Dakota which should come to Duluth, and which would come here if freight rates were equitably adjusted. From the territory indicated it is also claimed that Minneapolis has an advantage under the existing rates on grain.

The complaint will contend that the railroads are interested in maintaining a schedule of freight rates that will divert traffic to Chicago, because on rail-and-lake shipments, or rail-lake-and-rail traffic, the eastbound freight routed by way of Chicago is carried a greater distance by rail than if the routing is by way of Duluth.

The complaint will cite as defendants all railroads affected. In this as well as other respects it is broader than the complaint recently filed by the Superior Commercial club. The Superior complaint cited as defendants only six railroads and one lake carrier.

Whether or not the Duluth board of trade's complaint will be heard at the same time the Superior complaint is heard in Duluth is uncertain. That will be for determination by the interstate commerce commission. Milwaukee has filed a complaint with the commission, alleging that it is discriminated against by railroad rates which favor the Head of the Lakes. This complaint has not been heard. All of these complaints are interwoven, and it is possible that the interstate commerce commission may extend the rules of evidence to apply evidence heard in one case to the disputed elements in another case, even if the hearings are not held jointly.

"CAMEO KIRBY" AT THE LYCEUM

Mack-Leones Present Play Made Famous By Dustin Farnum.

"Cameo Kirby," presented by the Mack-Leone company, opened its engagement at the Lyceum last evening.

The drama is by the authors of The Man From Home," and possesses in addition to its dramatic interest a literary value of more than the usual degree.

The play is perhaps the biggest production the company has attempted. Scenically it is more elaborate than last week's offering, "Salomy Jane," and is one of the most elaborate stock productions that has ever been given by the Mack-Leone people.

In the part of the gambler, "Cameo Kirby," who is unjustly accused of driving the elder Randall to suicide by taking his money and even the deed to his plantation at cards, Willard Mack does one of the best character parts since his return to Duluth.

Kirby, a gambler, but withal possessing the instincts of a gentleman, is hunted by young Randall and his friends for the part he is supposed to have played in causing the elder Randall to kill himself. In the first act Kirby is pursued to the home of Madame Davezac, and by the fate of things is saved from his pursuers by Adele Randall. Given a highly dramatic start in the very first act, the play moves logically to its big climax in the third act, when Larkin Bunce, the friend of Kirby, unmasks the real conspirator against the Randalls.

Mr. Mack made of Kirby a brave and daring chap, who could look at the biggest odds and smile. He did not exaggerate or overdo, and made the character that of a man who though engaging in a profession looked down upon, still held to the principles of honor of the Southerners of the days of 1832.

Miss Leone has the part of Adele Randall, which gives her some excellent opportunities. Miss Leone's two big scenes are well done.

"Cameo Kirby" has provided Mrs. Annie Adams with a somewhat new line of character work. She plays the Creole widow, Madame Davezac, speaking with a slight French accent. Of Mrs. Adams' work it is only necessary to state that it is fully up to the standard that she has established in the other plays produced here by the Mack-Leones.

Jack Montgomery does one of the best bits of the play in the role of Larkin Bunce, friend of Kirby. It is a congenial part, one containing humor, and in the hands of Mr. Montgomery not one effective opportunity was lost to make of the part a well rounded portrayal.

Forrest Taylor as Aaron Randall and G. R. Walling as Col. Moreau, the real scoundrel, are very good, and commendation should be given of the good work done by James Rennie as Tom Randall, the sworn avenger of his father's wrongs.

Several extra people are used in the production. The costumes are typical of the period. The play is laid in New Orleans, the New Orleans of 1832, and Artist Wegner has succeeded admirably in creating the atmosphere of that period by some scenic painting that deserves favorable mention.

"Cameo Kirby" will be the bill for the remainder of the week, with the exception of Saturday evening. There will be a matinee this afternoon and Saturday afternoon.

Green Room Gossip.

Some wonder has been expressed by Orpheum patrons this week at the "freak" voice of Miss Mildred Williams, who is appearing in the opening act on the bill. Miss Williams touches high "G" during her song which is two notes higher than Madam Tetrazinni reaches.

Miss Williams, however, hardly claims to be in Mme. Tetrazinni's class. "My high notes are not reached in the regular manner," said Miss Williams. "I admit that my voice is a freak, and that there is probably not another just like it in this country. That high G is not sung in the regular manner, but is whistled from the throat. It is not a falsetto tone, but a deep throated whistle that comes from the larnyx. That is the only way I can explain it. I can't tell you just how I do it, and I found that I could do it by accident. I awoke in the middle of the night and found myself whistling that way. That may sound like a wild yarn, but it is the truth."

Miss Williams also uses the peculiar notes of her voice to imitate an ocarina.

Many an old theatergoer who has chanced to drop into the Empress this week has felt a mental turning backward as he watched James R. McCann give the delicate, finished picture of "Uncle Charles" in Kate McLaurin's quaint little playlet—"Uncle Charles of Charleston" and suddenly—just as he has gotten far enough back in the path of yester years—up in his mind comes that jolliest of all Hoytian comedies—"A Texas Steer"—and instantly the play is repeated with James McCann as "Maverick Brander" and his charming polished wife as "Bossy."

Unquestionably Mr. McCann is an actor of the old school and the methods that made his Maverick Brander great give that same delightful flavor to his "Uncle Charles," yet Mr. McCann is not of a dramatic family and it was only a case of "Let George Do It" that landed him on a stage.

Thirty years ago Mr. McCann was the general utility "kid" for his brother who ran a hotel. One bright day a troupe of players stopped there and departed—forgetting to pay their bill. James was hustled to the depot with the hope of securing payment. Be it said that James' run was not in vain and an interview with the manager resulted in the lad accompanying him to the next town where, it was hoped, the receipts would cover the bill, pay expenses and keep the show moving. He joined the troupe, married the leading lady and has "lived happily ever after."

One of the novels of Charles Dickens, "A Tale of Two Cities," told in a moving picture film, is attracting much attention at the Lyric theater this week. The idea of presenting standard works of fiction through the medium of the moving picture film is a new one, but judging from the manner in which this is received, it will be a popular move.

ONE OF THE VICTIMS OF THE FAMINE IN CHINA

A million of deaths from famine is the prediction of those now in China who are following the progress of the events there and making an effort to administer relief. China has had famines before and their consequences are pretty well understood. Relief supplies from the United States and other countries have been received and others are on the way. It is greatly feared that an outbreak against foreigners will result from the famine and rumors come from Russia of secret information to that effect received there. Fortunately there are few foreigners in the interior and the legation quarter, which was besieged during the former Boxer trouble, is now surrounded by a strong wall and is much better prepared to resist an attack.

FARGO MILITIA TO HAVE ARMORY

After Several Years of Waiting, Needed Building Will Be Built.

Fargo, N. D., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fargo is to have an armory after several years of delay. The members of Company B of the National Guard formally decided to erect a building this summer. It will cost about $20,000, $5,000 of which will be secured from the state. The organization owns some valuable lots on the foot of Broadway, facing Island park. It is proposed to construct a three-story building, on one floor of which will be a large auditorium. The location is central and it will be convenient for conventions.

Scottish Rite Meeting.

Scottish Rite Masons of high degree are here attending the spring reunion. The degrees from the fourth to the thirty-second are being conferred and the work will continue till Friday night.

The annual banquet and social session of the New England society was held last evening. The menu embraced many of the delicacies of the states represented and toasts were happy features of the affair.

MANY BLINDPIG CASES.

Judge Butts Calls Jury to Try Law Violations.

Devils Lake, N. D., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—In order to try about twenty alleged blindpigging cases, Judge Butts has issued an order for the convening of court March 13, calling a jury.

It is said that out of these blindpig cases the impeachment charges against Judge John F. Cowan of Devils Lake grew. The same persons instrumental in the series of raids that brought before the bars of justice such an exceptionally large class of alleged lawbreakers were also behind the campaign against Judge Cowan.

By reason of the importance of these cases, and the fact that the new judge is to act, the term of court in question will be decidedly interesting.

Baudette Child Breaks Leg.

Baudette, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Oscar Hanson, the 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Hanson, while playing at school Monday afternoon, fell and broke his leg. The fracture is an exceptionally bad one, the limb being broken in two places above the knee.

Worth Weight in Gold.

Abingdon, Va.—Mrs. Jennie McCall, of this place, says, "I had been troubled with female complaint, for over ten years. I could not walk or stand on my feet, and had been almost confined to the house, for a long time. I began to take Cardui, the woman's tonic, and now I can walk anywhere I want to go. Cardui is worth its weight in gold." This is a high estimate on a plain, herb medicine, yet there are thousands of women who would gladly pay this price for a remedy to relieve their suffering. Cardui has helped others. Why not you? Try it. Your druggist sells it, in $1 bottles.

There was nobody at home on the farm at the time, his wife being in St. Paul and his body was not found for at least three days. Olaf Swean and Arthur Hogberg were attracted to the place by the bellowing of the cattle and the whining of the horses, which had been neglected for several days. They made a search for the missing man and at last found his body in the well besides the half finished pumping outfit.

H. W. RICHARDSON, Local Forecaster.

The city was enveloped in fog last night and early this morning and Duluthians wandered through a chilly dampness. The lowest temperature last night was 32 deg., while the mercury went to 38 deg. yesterday. Most of the snow that fell Saturday night has disappeared and some of the old stock has gone with it. Conditions are spring-like, but the damp, heavy atmosphere and the lowering clouds are not conducive to rising spirits. The weather man doesn't know whether rain or snow is due tonight, but he promises some sort of precipitation.

Beautiful weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 6:35 and it will set at 6:03 this evening, giving eleven hours and twenty-eight minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The low pressure over Western Canada has caused further rain or snow throughout the Far West and higher temperature over most of the Northwest. Rain also fell during the last twenty-four hours over the Ohio valley and Middle Atlantic states in connection with the low barometer condition off the South Atlantic coast. An increase in pressure to the westward of the Rocky mountains is attended by colder weather. This drop in temperature may reach the Head of the Lakes during Thursday afternoon and Thursday night."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, March 8. — Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Thursday:

Upper Michigan — Snow tonight or Thursday; warmer in east and south portions tonight.

Wisconsin — Increasing cloudiness with probably rain late tonight or Thursday; warmer in east portion tonight; cooler Thursday afternoon.

North and South Dakota—Cloudy and colder tonight and Thursday.

Montana—Generally fair tonight and Thursday; colder tonight.

Shippers' forecast — Protect 36-hour shipments of perishables against temperature, 15 deg. to 20 deg. above zero in North Dakota, Northern Minnesota and Northwestern Wisconsin.

UNIFORM DEGREE TEAM.

Top Row, Reading From Left to Right—C. J. Goof, Oscar Anderson, Fred Blomquist, Olaf Seaquist, August T. Lind, S. M. Carlson, Carl E. Lindgren, O. S. Carlson. Bottom Row—Theodore Anderson, Albert Melander, Arthur Sundeen, Carl Dahlberg, Gus H. Lindstam, Captain; Jonas Lind, Rev. W. E. Harmann, J. E. Lundberg and Victor Juten.

The Duluth lodge of the Swedish United Sons of America, Order of Vasa, has organized a degree team, a feature which may be adopted by the order at its next annual convention. There are sixteen members in the team beside the captain, Gus H. Lindstam.

The Swedish Order of Vasa is the largest Swedish-American organization in the country, having 170 lodges in seventeen states. Last year in this country there were 13,620 members. In Minnesota there are ten lodges, four in Minneapolis, one at North Branch, two in St. Paul, one at Sandstone, one at Hibbing and one in the West end in this city.

The state convention of the order was held recently at Minneapolis and upon the invitation of Andrew Horngren of the local delegate the next state convention, which will be held in the summer of 1912, was given to Duluth. About fifty delegates and 250 visitors are expected at this time.

At a meeting last evening the local order took in twenty-five new members. The membership of the Duluth lodge is the largest in the state, and is now nearing the 250 mark. The drill team gave several exhibitions last evening.

As a social feature of the lodge work, a series of private dances has been arranged. The first will be given tomorrow evening at Columbia hall.

DENIES THAT MILL WORKERS STRUCK.

Although it is reported that about twenty men quit work and walked out of the Mullery-McDonald sawmill, Twenty-fourth avenue west, last evening, V. J. Mullery, one of the members of the firm, denies the story that there is a strike at the mill.

He said today that men are coming and going continually at the mill and maintained that the men had not quit in a sufficient number, so that it assumed the proportions of a strike.

It was reported that the men had struck for a $2.25 wage and a 10-hour day. The men are receiving $2.

BAGLEY ELEVATOR FIRE.

Whole Village at Time in Danger, But Firemen Triumph.

Bagley, Minn., March 8.—Fire broke out yesterday morning in the Bemer & Pepper Elevator company's building and raged fiercely for an hour, when the fire department succeeded in getting the flames under control.

All Bagley turned out to watch the blaze, and not until the firemen had four streams of water turned on the building was there any let up to the excitement.

Other buildings were threatened many times, and at one time the roofs of five dwelling houses were ablaze, as was also the warehouse of the Hamm Brewing company.

The elevator building contained over 14,000 tons of grain, wheat, oats, barley and flax, in addition to which two carloads of flour and one carload of feed were completely destroyed.

The owners of the elevator were not in the city, and the amount of insurance carried and the estimated loss are not known.

The Foley Industrial track was loaded with cars, but all were removed in time to save them.

The fire was caused by a dust explosion. No loss of life resulted.

Giving a Hundred Point Store Service

POSSIBLY no person or institution owes so much to a community as a retail store. It exists and is operated for the convenience of the public, and its obligations or functions must be zealously performed with unerring skill. The institution should give a 100 POINT STORE SERVICE, and its success is measured in proportion to the degree of its perfection.

This store is a successful store—IT IS A 100 POINT SERVICE STORE. Hundreds of trained minds co-operate and move in one accord to give a perfect store service. Store service does not mean merely prompt attention and delivery—it is a broad term and the store worthy the title must be—

A RELIABLE STORE — Must carry only dependable merchandise; must be fair in all dealings; must establish a good reputation and stand by it at all hazards.

A STORE OF GOOD VALUES —Must buy closely and sell at a reasonable margin of profit; give the greatest value possible for the least money.

A COURTEOUS STORE—Must secure well-trained, intelligent and courteous salespeople; never tire of showing goods until the customer is satsfied.

A PROGRESSIVE STORE — Must cater to the needs of the people first, last and always—give them every convenience and comfort, simplify shopping in every possible way.

The degree of perfection we have attained in these things is the basis of our claim as a HUNDRED POINT SERVICE STORE.

SPRING CLEANING IS DUE TO BEGIN IN DULUTH

Streets and Alleys Almost Impassable With Mud and Filth.

Too Strenuous Flushing Will Clog Sewers, Says Board.

The health department and the board of public works are completing plans for the most thorough spring house cleaning which Duluth has ever experienced.

Not an important street, alley or a single back yard or vacant lot will be overlooked. Gangs of men and inspectors will be worked overtime, and the citizens are expected to take hold of the big job with a willing spirit and co-operate with the officials to the limit of their capabilities.

Duluth streets certainly need a scrubbing. Although the ice and snow are not off them yet, the frozen surfaces are covered with layers of filth. Many crossings are almost impassable to the pedestrian who is not equipped with a set of serviceable boots. The alleys are in bad shape, and yards and lots are not in much better condition.

Nobody can specifically be blamed. It's a condition which confronts the city every spring, when the snow begins to melt. But the authorities realize that the cleaning process must start without the loss of time. The board of public works will have men flushing the streets in a few days. With the sewers carrying off large quantities of water and waste, the members of the board state that they cannot be in too big a hurry, somewhat on the theory that "the longest way around is the shortest way home." They explain that if too much of the dirt on the streets is pushed into the sewers at once they are liable to choke up, which would make conditions worse than they were before. They intend to go at the job in a careful manner, but assert that everything possible will be done at the earliest moment.

Dr. H. E. Webster, health commissioner, said this morning that it is a trifle too early to start his end of the work, but that it will not be long before operations tending toward a "spotless town" will soon be under way

Old Lumber Must Go.

In addition to other cleaning work, Dr. Webster announced that in the future no old wagons, sleighs or old lumber will be allowed in the vacant lots. "They will have to be put some place else in the futdre," he said. "Not only are they unsightly, but they form breeding places for vermin and are dangerous to the public health. I have noticed numerous lots which are used in this way and we will not stand for it any longer."

After most of the snow is gone, the health department will get to work in earnest. Several extra sanitary inspectors will be added to the regular force. Each of them will be given a district to cover and will be held responsible for its condition. Last year after one inspector had covered the territory assigned to him, he was shifted to another, to check up the work of the other inspector. The same plan will likely be adopted this year, as it brought excellent results when tried before.

Later the mayor and health commissioner will name a "cleaning day," as has been the custom in Duluth for several years past. At that time the householders are expected to put on the finishing touches, putting their back and front yards in the best kind of shape. Much has been accomplished in this manner and this season will be no exception to the rule.

THOUSANDS OF VISITORS

Attracted to Viterbo, Italy, to Attend Trial of Cammorrists.

Viterbo, Italy, March 8.—Although the trial of the Cammorrists will not open until Saturday, there already are thousands of visitors here, drawn by the unusual character of the event.

Several times a day the jailers test the iron bars of the windows of the mediaeval monastery of Gradi, where thirty-nine of the accused are imprisoned, and a strong force of carbineers scrutinize the throngs that visit the place.

The spy accuser, Abbatemaggio, and Maria Stenardo, wife of one of the alleged actual assassins of Cuocolo, and his wife, are kept in San Lapparo prison. More witnesses arrived today. They are being closely guarded.

SOUTHERN COMMERCIAL CONGRESS IS IN SESSION.

Seattle, Wash., March 8.—Returns from yesterday's municipal election counted up to an early hour today indicated that the proposition to issue $800,000 bonds to construct and operate a municipal railway carried by an overwhelming majority.

It is certain that a reform council has been elected. All but one of the candidates who were active supporters of Mayor George W. Dilling in the recent recall election, in which ex-Mayor Hiram Gill was ousted from office, are certain of election. Oliver T. Erickson, a manufacturer, is leading the ticket.

Women voters took an active interest in the election.

SPRING 1911

THERE is no picture, no flower, no statue so beautiful as a well dressed woman! A fresh spring flower is more pleasing than a faded autumnal rose—so is it with the art of being well dressed. All nature is busy putting on the garments of Spring—all womankind, in sympathy with nature, has dainty thoughts of spring garments. Naturally, those thoughts turn to Friedman's, "the home of the Friedman-made Suit," where every effort has been made to crystallize those thoughts into the most refined and exclusive spring suits, built in the exquisite new materials and shades which are taking the world of fashion by storm, and tailored with such skill that our customers will hardly credit the extremely low prices, such as:

WORSHIP THE RATTLESNAKE.

Philadelphia Ledger: Kill a rattlesnake in the presence of the average Southwestern Indian and you will invoke upon yourself his eternal enmity and condemnation. In the territory of Arizona there are many instances on record where the slayer of a rattler has been trailed down and brutally murdered by some superstitious Indian snake worshiper. Again, there are Indians who will pay extravagantly a would-be snake killer in order that the creature may be allowed to live.

The annual snake dance of the Indians in the forest reserve of Central Arizona shows how unchanging is their attitude of worshipful respect toward this poisonous reptile. Their absolute indifference toward fear and their perfect confidence in immunity from the rattlesnake are doubtless responsible for the harmless injection of the poison into their bodies. The subtle power of suggestion, employed so unconsciously, lends them an armor of immunity which is broken only on the rarest occasions. The dancer who is bitten in the course of his orgies rushes up to a pot containing a certain crude antidotal mixture. Imbibing freely from this, he again launches himself into the dance.

But with a white man the rattler's poison is generally infallible, unless some efficacious antidote is immediately administered. Of antidotes, the most common, and perhaps best, is whisky. But the efficacy of this remedy is largely dependent upon the way it is taken. For instance, the cowboy who drains his full pint bottle after having been stung will doubtless never be subjected to another sting. Moderate doses taken at successive intervals, while the heart is trying to throw off the paralyzing effect of the poison, will stimulate that organ past the danger period.

The dead body of a Mexican girl was once found on the desert of Sonora, Northern Mexico. The cowherder who made the discovery recognized the girl as the wife of a Mexican whom he knew, living in Naco, a nearby border-line town. Inspecting the body, the white man saw that the left leg was swollen abnormally, and that the imprints of a snake's fangs were plainly visible in the calf. After making certain that the woman was beyond help, he hastened back to the village and related the sad news to the husband. With a stoic concealment of his grief, the Mexican mounted a burro and folowed the American cowman out to the desert to the spot where lay the dead girl. After lashing the body to his burro the Mexican pointed to the backward trail of the woman who had been his wife, scowled, set his jaw, and said: "Come—we find him."

For some time they led their mounts carefully back along the woman's trail, the Mexican walking ahead, his black little eyes scrutinizing the ground beneath every sage and cactus bush. Finally a vengeful little gleam came into his face, and he stopped still, pointing silently toward the sand near a small prairie-dog hole a few feet ahead.

"Homicidio—murderer!" he cried, and at the sound of his voice the huge rattler, sleeping peacefully in the sun after his deed, sluggishly uncoiled itself.

Making a slipknot at the end of a long cord, the Mexican now approached the reptile. When the man was within six feet of him the creature reared himself straight into the air like the trunk of a tree, supporting himself on the coils of his tail. In this attitude he could recoil and strike two-thirds of his length almost spontaneously. With a deft little toss of the looped cord the Mexican soon had the snake lassoed and towing in struggling gyrations after him back toward the mounts. Lengthening the cord to some thirty feet, he tied the end to the harness of the burro and motioned that he was ready to return to town.

The cowboy's wonder grew too strong now to be restrained. "What are you going to do with him when you get him home?" he queried.

The dark little man grinned and showed his teeth maliciously. "Me keep him a while for company," he said brokenly. "Each day me take ax and chop off one inch of tail. He 'bout four feet long. He live maybe month, maybe longer. He no die soon." For a moment after this disclosure he lapsed into silence. Then he spoke again slowly. "Maybe, though, I change my mind and make him sting himself. Then he die like my poor little senora."

NOT A CLEAN SWEEP.

Newport was amused last month over a story that J. Pierpont Morgan told at a luncheon at the Fishing club.

"They talk of the high cost of living," Mr. Morgan said, "but it's just as bad abroad. You all know what Trouville is like in the season!

"An American took in Trouville's grande semaine last year. When his bill was sent up, he paused in his breakfast and studied it with a sarcastic smile. Then he sent for the hotel clerk.

"'See here,' he said, 'you've made a mistake in this bill.'

"'Oh, no, Monsieur! Oh, no!' cried the clerk.

"'Yes, you have,' said the American, and with a sneer he pointed to the total. 'I've got more money that that,' he said."

AFTER 7 YEARS SUFFERING

I Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Waurika, Okla.—"I had female troubles for seven years, was all run down, and so nervous I could not do anything. The doctors treated me for different things but did me no good. I got so bad that I could not sleep day or night. While in this condition I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and began its use and wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice. In a short time I had gained my average weight and am now strong and well." —Mrs. SALLIE STEVENS, R. F. D., No. 3, Box 31, Waurika, Okla.

"I owe my present good health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier which I believe saved my life.

"My doctor knows what helped me and does not say one word against it." —Mrs. MARI JANETTE BATES, Box 134, Huntington, Mass.

Because your case is a difficult one, doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has cured many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, and nervous prostration.

THE VARIETIES OF RHEUMATISM

Do You Suffer From Any Of Them?

Rheumatism is of various kinds. These are the principal ones:
Inflammatory Rheumatic Gout
Chronic Articular Gout
Muscular

There's a little booklet entitled "Medical Advice on Rheumatism." It was written by an expert. He gives an exhaustive resume of much interest to any rheumatic sufferer.

The symptoms of the oncoming of the disease, the parts affected, the age at which one is most apt to contract it and other interesting items of information are given.

Correct rules of diet, which, if followed, will assist in effecting a cure.

Reasonable and reliable rules of exercise bathing, etc., are laid down.

Proper massage treatment is described.

And last, but not least, the use of "6088" is recommended and a history of this wonderful preparation is given. "Not a cureall, not a patent medicine," says the book, "but a prescription put up in convenient form after the physician who first compounded it had demonstrated to his own satisfaction that practically every rheumatic patient who used his 'Prescription No. 6088' was either cured or immeasurably relieved."

The medicine is on sale—the booklet is free.

If your druggist cannot deliver you either one or both, write us and we will send you the literature absolutely free of charge.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

SCHOOL HAS BIG GROWTH

Crookston School of Agriculture Shows Large Gain in Number Enrolled.

Sixteen to Graduate This Month —Governor Among the Speakers.

Crookston, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The commencement exercises of the Crookston School of Agriculture will take place during the week of March 20. The term closes March 25. This has been the most successful year of the school's history. One hundred and forty have been enrolled from nine counties in Northwestern Minnesota. A class of sixteen will graduate, according to the announcement made by Supt. Selvig. Governor A. O. Eberhart and Dean A. F. Woods of the agricultural college have promised to be present commencement day, March 23. The governor will deliver the commencement address to the graduating class.

Since its organization in 1906 the aggregate attendance has been 300 boys and girls from thirteen counties in Minnesota. Polk county has sent the most, followed by Norman, Marshall, Kittson, Red Lake, Roseau, Becker and Clearwater counties.

Dormitories for Both Sexes.

Dormitories have been provided for both the boys and the girls. The legislature of 1907, however, failed to provide sufficient class and laboratory rooms. This has been a great handicap to the institution, curtailing the instruction materially.

According to conservative estimates, judging from the applications which have been received by the registrar, next year's enrollment will be over 250. At the present class rooms are already overcrowded, many will have to be turned away, unless added accommodations are provided.

The school has grown from thirty-one students in 1906 to 141 in 1911. The number has increased more rapidly than necessary school facilities have been provided. The experiment station managed in connection with the agricultural schol is bringing out new facts and information relating to Red river valley conditons. Many valuable experiments are being conducted at this station.

The graduates of the school return to the farms and are putting into practice improved farming methods and securing greater returns therefrom.

ILLINOIS WANTS ST. PAUL GROCER

Former Waukegan, Ill., Treasurer Arrested for Alleged Shortage of $1,400.

St. Paul, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sheriff Price of Lake county, Ill., arrived here today with a warrant for Elmer J. Green, former deputy treasurer of Waukegan, Ill., charged with an alleged shortage in his accounts of $1,400.

Green has been conducting a grocery store here since last December.

He was arrested last night by the local police on advices from the Illinois authorities.

ASPHYXIATED IN THE SMITH MINE

Sam Dozzi, Pumpman in Cleveland-Cliffs Property, Loses His Life.

Ishpeming, Mich., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sam Dozzi, aged 27, having a wife and child living in Italy, was asphyxiated in the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company's Smith mine, on the Swanzel range, two days ago, according to word received here. He was a pumpman and had gone into the mine to turn on the air in the shaft in the hope of driving the gas from a fire out of the workings, when he was overcome.

William Wicklund, who went down on the skip with Dozzi, had a narrow escape, being carried to the surface unconscious.

Another Also Overcome.

The rescuers found Wicklund lying unconscious a few feet from the level landing, but they could not locate Dozzi. Two or three of the rescuers were overcome and it was with difficulty that all were brought to the shaft and hoisted to the surface. Wicklund was in much worse condition than any of the members of the rescue party. The gas was so thick in the shaft that it was impossible for the men to descend again to make a second search for Dozzi and the rescue work had to be abandoned.

Dozzi was one of the men who were implicated in a murder at Princeton two or three years ago. The murder occurred on a Sunday night. A number of shots were exchanged by the parties, who had been quarreling earlier in the evening. Dozzi had been on the range for some years and was well known there.

COMMITTEE SEES CONVICT "HUNG UP"

Legislative Probers Shown How Marquette Prison Officials Tame Bad Ones.

Marquette, Mich., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The legislative investigating committee that has been looking over the Marquette prison and probing the charge of ill-treatment of convicts has about completed its work here.

Punishments are being meted out at the prison, if the necessity demands, in the same manner as if the committee was 1,000 miles away. Monday Charles Robinson, a negro, who was sent up from Muskegon for larceny, was called on the carpet for applying foul and obscene language to officers of the prison.

Negro Is "Hung Up."

He was whisked off to the bull pen, and "hung up" as the prison term goes, that is his hands were handcuffed to the cell door at about the height of his breast and he was compelled to remain in a standing position. Members of the committee were called to see the punishment administered. Robinson had a highly satisfied grin on his face, as if he had pulled off a clever trick by compelling the officers of the prison to "hang him up" when the committee was present, but it had sobered down considerably when no particular solicitude was shown over his plight.

The deceased is survived by a widow and eight children: Arthur, of Washington state; Ross, of Duluth; Mrs. Capt. Hart, of Ronneby; Mrs. Frank Couch, of Minneapolis; Lulu, Frank, Beulah and Albert, who reside at home.

GREAT CATCH OF FISH.

Forty Thousand Pounds Taken From Lake Near Dundas, Minn.

Dundas, Minn., March 8.—Forty thousand pounds of buffalo fish were caught one day last week in General Shields lake near here by Randall Bros., who are operating under the fish commission, according to C. C. Randall of Minneapolis.

Sixteen cars were needed to transport a similar catch of fish to the market recently. The last haul is said to be the largest catch on record in Minnesota.

TO REBUILD AT ONCE.

New Syndicate Block in Minneapolis to Rise From Ruins.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 8.—No time will be lost in obliterating the traces of the Sunday fire which swept the Syndicate block, Nicollet avenue, between Fifth and Sixth streets, wrecking the entire south half of the big five-story structure, wiping out three big mercantile establishments and upwards of thirty offices in that section of the building, dealing heavy losses to two other important retail stores and causing an estimated damage of $1,200,000.

Coincident with the announcement that it had been definitely established that no lives were lost in the conflagration, workmen began erecting scaffolds to start the work of razing the menacing walls of the south portion of the structure, the supports of which had been devoured by the flames. It also was announced that the work of repairing the north wing of the damaged building would begin immediately.

Effect of One Bottle.

Crandall, Tex.—"After my last spell of sickness," writes Mrs. Belle Teal, of this city, "I remained very ill, and stayed in bed for eight weeks. I couldn't get up, all this time, and though my doctor came to see me every day, he didn't do me any good. I had taken but one bottle of Cardui, when I was up, going everywhere, and soon I was doing all my housework." Cardui helps when other medicines have failed, because it contains ingredients not found in any other medicine. Pure, safe, reliable, gentle-acting—Cardui is the ideal medicinal tonic for weak, sick women. Try it.

ROCHESTER PAYS TRIBUTE.

Business Practically Suspended During Dr. Mayo's Funeral.

Rochester, Minn., March 8.—Pursuant to the proclamation of the mayor, this city generally paid tribute to the memory of Dr. W. W. Mayo, father of the noted surgeons, and one of the oldest practitioners of Minnesota, when last rites were said for him yesterday afternoon, as nearly every place of business was closed and a great throng joined in the tribute. The funeral was held from the home of Mrs. D. M. Berkman, daughter of the deceased, and was conducted by Rev. W. W. Fowler of the Episcopal church. The services were simple and were attended by the personal friends of the family and older residents of the city. The casket was left open for the public in the earlier hours of the morning and a constant stream of visitors called at the house. Flags in the city were displayed at half mast.

SAYS PROBE IS POSSIBLE.

Nothing to Prevent Senate Taking Up Stephenson Charges.

Madison, Wis., March 8.—Congressman J. L. Lenroot of Superior, who stopped in Madison on Monday on his way home, where he will remain until the extra session of congress opens on April 4, said there was nothing to prevent the Stephenson unseating case from being considered by the United States senate if it should be sent by the Wisconsin legislature unless the Democrats should decide to consider at the extra session only matters pertaining to the tariff. He declared that the Canadian reciprocity agreement would probably be opposed at the extra session of congress, providing it was amended to meet the views of the opponents in its present form. He also said he would vote for the agreement if the interests of the farmers were properly protected.

EXIT BALLINGER.

Richard Achilles Ballinger at last has done what almost any other man would have done months ago, under the circumstances which surrounded the then secretary of the interior. There can be no doubt that his withdrawal from the president's cabinet will cause no particular grief on the part of the general public. The best that can be said of the former secretary is that he was unfortunate. The worst that can be said of him may safely be left to the men who have made a study of his work and have been opposing him so strenuously during his career in office. There is no use in kicking at a man when he has taken himself out of the way.

By his resignation Mr. Ballinger has accomplished the end sought by his opponents. That he has suffered physically and financially under the strain is not remarkable. Yet that fact is sure to raise sympathy for him, though he could long ago have avoided such losses by taking the step he has taken. He has gained nothing apparently, by remaining in the position he held, and his best friend, President Taft, has lost much by that course.

In the correspondence made public with the announcement of the resignation and its acceptance, the most prominent feature is the evidence that the president himself is no politician. In his letter to Mr. Ballinger the president says:

> I do not hesitate to say that you have been the object of one of the most unscrupulous conspiracies for the defamation of character that history can show. * * * The impressions of you * * * were false and were the result of a malicious and unprincipled plan for the use of the press to misrepresent you and your actions, and to distort every circumstance, however free from detrimental significance, into proof of corrupt motives.

Referring to the opponents of the secretary he uses the words "hypocritical pretense" and "pettifogging methods" and refers to instances of conduct "which were paraded before a hysterical body of headline readers." Turning again to the opponents, the letter says:

> The conspirators who have not hesitated in their pursuit of you to resort to the meanest methods, including the corruption of your most confidential assistant, plume themselves, like the Pharisees of old, as the only pure members of society, actuated by the spirit of self-sacrifice for their fellowmen.
> Every fibre of my nature rebels against such hypocrisy and nerves me to fight such a combination and such methods to the bitter end, lest success in this instance may form a demoralizing precedent.

Such language as this, directed against Gifford Pinchot, a man whose service to the country has been so evident and so widely recognized, even when men have not sympathized with him in all his acts or methods, is not calculated to bring the writer popular support or even popular favor. It is too evidently an expression of pique over opposition to a personal favorite, rather than of personal confidence, such as was to be looked for under the circumstances. It gives the impression that President Taft, in the exercise of his new-found assertiveness, has "slopped over" in an unfortunate direction. Certainly there was no more reason for him to impugn the motives of the opponents of the secretary than there was for them to attack the secretary's actions. At least, the opposition forces had nothing to gain personally by their fight, while Mr. Ballinger was known to have been intimately associated with interests admittedly predatory in character and action.

Nor is the appointment of a man from the high councils of "the enemy" as successor to the secretary in keeping with the tone of the president's letter. As far as Mr. Fisher is known to the public, his selection to succeed Mr. Ballinger must meet with approval. But that selection makes the Ballinger letter look yet more like a venting of personal pride than a mere official acknowledgement of services rendered.

As to the president's assertion that he himself was the real target, that is absurd. No man ever entered upon the presidency with a greater hold on public confidence, a hold that remained almost unshaken until the Ballinger matter and the Payne tariff atrocity came up. There was no reason for an attack upon him, and there was no such attack, directly or indirectly. The fight was upon Ballinger. It led directly to the whitewash tub. It was not a pretty fight. It bred unpleasant personalities and bitter feeling.

The mere withdrawal of the secretary from the cabinet would have gone far to make it a by-gone matter, a part of the dead past. The president's letter will serve to renew something of the bitterness and to shake the fast returning confidence in the executive himself. The letter has very much the nature of a serious mistake, but the retirement of Ballinger is welcome, and perhaps after all that is the main thing to be considered.

FLAX.

Statements and statistics given out by the American Linseed company and by Prof. H. L. Bolley of the North Dakota agricultural experiment station regarding the growing of flax in this country are enough to start some heavy thinking among the farmers of the Northwest. It is claimed that while a part of the shortage in the flax crop of this country this year is due to weather conditions, a large proportion also is attributable to unscientific methods employed by the farmers in selecting, treating and sowing flax. The weather no man can help, but if it is true that a lack of understanding of flax and knowledge of methods are among the contributing causes of the shortage of the crop, it would be well for the farmers to look into the matter from that viewpoint.

There can be no doubt that agricultural affairs in this country have been conducted without due regard to soil preservation. There has been too little rotation of crops, and there has been a skinning of the surface of the soil. It is only in recent years that intensive farming has come to the front, but in those few years that method has become generally recognized. In the South it has led to a movement to cut up the big plantations into small farms. In the North it is bringing about great changes in methods in all lines of agriculture.

Apparently, all that is asked of the farmers is that they apply some of the principles of intensive farming to the raising of flax. The crop is a valuable one, and if by the exercise of more care the farmers can reap greater benefits from it, it clearly is to their own interests and those of the nation at large that they should do so.

In the present crop year, it is estimated, it will be necessary to import a large quantity of flax. The tariff on this is 25 cents a bushel, which makes the price of the imported article in this country, as well as that of the home grown product, something to wonder at. With the vast areas devoted to agriculture in the United States it seems as if it should be possible to raise at least all that is needed for home consumption, and yet this was not done last year or the year before. It certainly looks as if the farmer is overlooking a bet.

WHAT THE TEACHERS WANT.

How would you like to spend three or four or half a dozen or more years in preparation and the accumulation of practical experience for a given line of work, and after having fitted yourself for it, find that you were paid just a few cents more every year than it took to buy most of the actual necessities of life, with nothing left for savings or emergencies or for some other necessities?

To reduce the matter from the form of a hypothetical question to a concrete example, that is the question the Duluth grade teachers are asking the people of the city. There really doesn't seem to be much basis for argument in the matter. The salary provisions are a matter of public record; the expense of existence is a matter of common experience; subtract the latter from the former—or in some cases even subtract the former from the latter—and you get the basis of the teachers' plea.

It is not reasonable to ask that a teacher be paid enough to enable her to retire after a score of years with a comfortable fortune laid aside. It is not such a request that the teachers are making. What they ask for is an income that will enable them to dress and live at least as comfortably as a majority of the people whose children they teach, and such a demand is entirely reasonable.

Anybody who has read the statements of income and outlay made by Duluth teachers must be convinced of the reasonableness of the request. If anything were needed to insure such a conviction, it might be added that it is not possible for a teacher to do her best work for the pupils and the public while she is compelled to worry constantly over a question of how to meet the expenses of her daily life. It is not good business policy for the city to place her under such a strain.

As the matter is presented by the teachers, it is not a question of an increased tax levy, but of the handling of school funds. It is maintained that by making it possible to divert surplus money from other funds to the general fund, an increase of salaries paid to teachers could be provided. The question resolves itself into the possibility of greater economy in other departments of the city's finances so as to admit of such a diversion. On this point, the committee of the board of education is said to be facing a knotty problem.

It is to be hoped that a solution can be reached by which the needed increase in salaries can be made. There is "nothing in it" for Duluth to make her school system a practice ground for teachers from which they will go to other cities as soon as they have gained experience in their profession. Duluth children are entitled to as good training as are those of any other city, and that can be insured only by paying competent teachers enough to keep them here. The money paid to teachers brings the city no tangible income, but it insures better citizens and is one of the best investments possible. The teachers are entitled to at least a living wage.

A CHANCE FOR THE WOMEN.

A few days ago The Herald took occasion to urge the strict enforcement of the ordinance against spitting in street cars. Word from New York recalls the subject and shows how the women may take an active hand in the campaign to put a stop to a filthy practice. In that state a movement with the slogan "Thou shalt not spit" is being started, with 150,000 women taking active part in the battle.

The plan of campaign was laid at a meeting in Syracuse, N. Y., of members of the State Federation of Women's clubs and members of the State Charities Aid association. According to the plan adopted, the women in each club in the federation will be requested to take the numbers of street car conductors in their respective cities who fail to enforce the spitting ordinance in their cars, and at the close of each month the numbers, with the date on which the conductor failed to perform this duty, will be forwarded to the health bureau of the city.

Duluth has public-spirited women who are willing and able to do work for the good of the city. The record of the Woman's council in the last few months has proved that. It would be a good thing for the women to add a campaign against spitting to their other activities. The work need take but little time, and could be carried on while the members of the council are going about other duties, but the value to the city of such service would be incalculable.

There are few practices more disgusting and more menacing to public health than that of spitting in the street cars. Men are not the only offenders, it must be confessed. The law provides as far as it can for the prohibition of the practice, and with the women taking up the matter seriously and earnestly, a great benefit could be secured to the city.

For the rock-pile'll git you ef you don't watch out!

Wanted: Information as to the best way to Ballingerize Mr. Lorimer.

Abe Ruef's consignment to prison robs the headwriters of one of the handiest little names in their vocabulary.

It is to be hoped that the anti-reciprocity forces will not see the deep significance in this sudden mobilization of federal troops in Texas.

Perhaps Mr. Ballinger's cow—remember bossy?—has increased to such proportions that he finds it will need all his time to look after the herd.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

AS A CHILD LEARNS IT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

After reading the letter by "Patriotic" in a recent issue of The Herald, I thought I would inquire if we have any musical pronunciation, either patriotic, operatic, or religious, or only a jumble of sound. The children attend Sunday school, and Kathleen, 2½ years old, readily commits the hymns, and sings them to her dolls. She startled her mother and Dada by singing as follows:

"At the cross, at the cross,
Where I first saw a light
Anybody saw my heart roll away;
For there by Fay, I saw a slight
And now I am happy every day."

"CANUCK."

TEACHERS' SALARIES.

To the Editor of The Herald:

A problem which the grade teacher has constantly before her, and which it would seem, is worthy the consideration of all is, "How is the grade teacher to make her salary cover her needs?"

Take for example a teacher receiving the maximum yearly salary paid below the seventh grade. It is exactly $750, an average of $62.50 a month.

If one wishes a well-heated, comfortable room, within easy access of library, high school and stores, and such food as will keep her in good condition for her work, she must pay from $20 to $25 a month, thus leaving the magnificent sum of perhaps $27 or $28 for all other expenses among which may be mentioned car fares, for few teachers do not have occasion to make use of the street cars. For these, an allowance of between $2 and $3 must be made. The laundry bill is of some consequence, if for no other reason than the regularity with which it appears. Concerning clothing, it seems scarcely necessary to speak. We are all aware that one must be at least warmly clad in a climate like that of Duluth. Unexpected calls for money are continually coming, and happy is he who has no need of doctor, dentist or oculist.

That grade teaching, though interesting, is most wearing, no one who has watched the course of a faithful, conscientious teacher for ten or twenty years can doubt. That no work more requires the inspiration which comes from travel, books and contact with people, none will deny. That the teacher who allows herself any of these luxuries will be unable to make provision for sickness or old age is evident.

Surely the people in Duluth desire the best for their children, and no teacher in these days considers herself prepared for her work unless she has at least the high and normal school training, or their equivalent.

That a school system so well regulated as that of Duluth, with buildings so excellent and well equipped, should be hampered in the selection of teachers because of the salaries paid is unfortunate. That the city is prosperous, all conditions testify.

Again, divide the maximum grade salary by fifty-two, deduct the sum necessary for proper food and shelter, and the teacher has less per week than many a servant in the home. Compare for a moment the expenses of the two with regard to laundry, car fare, dress, preparation for work, health, etc. The figures are striking.

Nothing has been said about what other cities are doing with regard to grade teachers' salaries. Investigation will prove, however, that cities with the means of Duluth are, almost without exception, paying better and that living expenses in those places are less. It is also a fact that many of Duluth's best teachers have now gone to those places and many more are going.

A TEACHER.

Duluth, March 7.

WHY IS A ROCK PILE?

To the Editor of The Herald:

Does the rock pile solve the unemployed problem? Mr. Dinwiddie seems to think so, according to his statement. Supposing a man works six days on the rock pile (that is honest work, Mr. Dinwiddie says so). The man makes 15 cents per hour, or $9 for the six days' work. If he pays 45 cents a day for his board at the Chinaman's and sleeps in the street, he will have enough left to buy an honest job from an honest employment man and go out to work for a very honest lumber company, pay his own fare to the job, pay $1 hospital fee, 25 cents for mail box, sleep in filthy bunks, eat poor grub, work a week and get fired, back to the city and on the rocks again. A great incentive to work, is it not? Mr. Dinwiddie says it drives undesirable citizens out of the city. Is that right? If you can't handle the problem, to shove the undesirables onto some one else? I suppose any one that refuses to work on a rock pile is undesirable. Is this a free country, or is it not? Have the poor no right to be happy? The rich never work. The writer of this is one of those undesirables. He is no good, won't stick to a job, it has been said by some very wise people who ought to know. I refused to make the attempt to support my family on $20 per month and now I only work fifteen hours a day, only seven days a week. No, you masters can't solve the unemployed problem. We slaves will have to do that, and when we do the masters as well as the undesirables will have to go to work or starve.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: It's safer to bet on most anything than judgment.

It's investing when you win and gambling when you lose.

A woman writes sentiment with the same capital letters a man does money.

The more a man works late at his office at night the oftener it would be easy to find him at the theater.

A woman who can write big checks can get admiration without herself going to the looking glass for it.

A New Right.

Collier's: There has been discussion among the friends and enemies of woman suffrage as to whether the ballot would bring to woman troubles now unknown. It has been suggested that woman might be called upon to quell riots, fight fires, or to shoulder arms, but it has never been suggested that there might be given her also the legal privilege of supporting a husband and providing for him in the manner in which he was accustomed to live before marriage. This privilege, however, has been given to women in Utah, where the women have the ballot. The cold words of the United States census in "Bulletin 96," on "Marriage and Divorce," printed at the government printing office under the supervision of the department of commerce and labor for the bureau of the census, offers concise information in plain English: "Non-support or neglect to provide for the husband seeking divorce is not ordinarily an available ground, although the present investigation found six cases in the state of Utah in which the husband obtained a divorce for neglect to provide!" Some magazine ought to be able to get up a good special article on these six cases.

A Watch With a Pendulum.

Having broken the hair-spring of my watch, says a writer in the March Strand, I took out the fly-wheel and the bracket which supports one end of its spindle; I, then drew a strand of wire out of a piece of brass gauze, made a hook at one end, hooked this on to the "pallets," and the other end of the wire I twisted around a small wood screw. By slightly bending the wire until the screw was held in the center, and then starting the pendulum swinging, the watch commenced to go, and, judging by the swing of the pendulum, has no intention of stopping. Since shortening the wire by rolling the screw higher up, the watch has kept excellent time.

THE SENATOR FROM ILLINOIS.

Evansville Courier: The vote in the senate yesterday to declare Lorimer's seat untainted has not vindicated Lorimer, but it has shown "the greatest deliberative body in the world" to have little regard for its own honor. The practical unanimity of public sentiment against Lorimer is in striking contrast with the vote in the senate.

After all, the vote of the senate will no doubt be generally beneficial. Lorimer in the senate can do little good or little harm. But his remaining there is a standing argument in favor of the election of United States senators by a direct vote of the people. If he had been ousted one of the strongest "exhibits" in the case against the present method would be removed. Now he is an object lesson, a modern instance to point a moral and illustrate an argument for a change in the Constitution.

Louisville Herald: By the act of the senate of the United States yesterday afternoon the nation has been disgraced.

The seating of William Lorimer by a majority of six votes constitutes a scandal that is a stench in the nostrils of every decent citizen, every man who loves honor, every patriot to whom the flag stands for more than gain and graft.

The senate has refused to wipe from its own record a blot that the country has looked upon with indignant humiliation. What the senate will not do, the nation must. Its self-respect demands that it resent this indifference to its reputation before the world.

The first thing to do is to take from the legislatures the power to elect senators, and the second to see that men capable of such moral obliquity of vision as failed to find cause for the unseating of Lorimer gain no entrance to congress by consent of the people.

Indianapolis News: This action in the case of Lorimer follows the established precedent. The conclusion, therefore, is pretty obvious that the senate will not find a member-elect guilty of bribery or corruption in procuring his election if it can possibly avoid it. The people will fail in their duty if they do not protest against such action, and repudiate the theory that it is right that they should be represented by a senator who was not chosen by themselves, but who was corruptly chosen by the interests.

Brooklyn Times: There is nothing in which William Lorimer, the Republican party or the senate of the United States can take much pride in the vote of 46 to 39 by which the Chicago banker was permitted to retain his seat in the senate. There are not many Americans, it may safely be assumed, who would care to retain a seat in such a body won in the way that Lorimer's seat was won.

Brooklyn Eagle: Mr. Lorimer's friends convict his election and acquit him. His opponents voted to convict both his election and him as the beneficiary of it. A change of four votes would have unseated him. Escape has been scored by him. Vindication has not been. In moral opinion the senate will be a pillory to him, and his position in it will be far from enviable. To one who likes that sort of thing that is precisely the sort of thing such an one likes.

Spokane Spokesman-Review: The expected has happened, but the American people are none the less grieved and disgusted. Granting, only for the sake of argument, that, perhaps, the technicalities of the case fail to prove that Mr. Lorimer was elected illegally, still the senate has made a mistake of judgment. The almost universal verdict of the country has been that Mr. Lorimer was illegally elected and that admitting him to the senate would be a condonation of political immorality. The verdict is an insult to the moral instinct of the people. With Tuesday's defeat of direct elections and the impending failure of reciprocity it strengthens the prevalent feeling that the majority of the senate represents reactionary and corrupt interests.

New York Post: Lorimer has saved his seat by a squeak. The outcome is most unfortunate and will not redound to the credit of the Republican party; it is some comfort to feel that it will certainly serve further to strengthen the feeling in favor of the abolition of the present method of electing senators.

New York Globe: But what can be done toward stimulating respect for the senate when, as yesterday in the Lorimer roll call, it shows no respect for itself? Its friends are silenced. They can but hang their heads in shame.

DULUTH AND THE HERALD.

Lack of Moral Courage.

St. Peter Free Press: The trouble with our laws in the cities, says the mayor of Duluth, is that they are never enforced. The mayor is right in a way. There are always people opposed to regulation, but this applies only to a minority. It is the lack of moral courage in the officials, entrusted to execute the laws, that gives a color of truth to the above statement.

"Anti-Taft Agitators."

Menahga Journal: The Duluth Herald, that for months has been saying nice things about the so-called Republican Progressive League, now practically admits what the Journal has contended all along, that its members are merely "Anti-Taft Agitators."

A Great Newspaper.

Two Harbors Iron Post-Advocate: The Saturday edition of The Duluth Herald is a great newspaper—ahead of any Twin City journal.

As to Senator Clapp.

Hinckley Enterprise: The Duluth Herald recently accused Senator Clapp of dodging the vote on the ship subsidy bill; but, upon discovering that the senator was paired and really voted against the bill, promptly corrected the error. Some opponents of Senator Clapp, with more animus than honor, have copied the first statement of The Duluth Herald even after it had been corrected. Petty lying can not affect the standing of Senator Clapp with the people of the state.

Importance Recognized.

Brainerd Dispatch: The Duluth postoffice has gone into the wholesale business and hereafter will be the distributing point for stamps and stamped paper for the Northwest. The importance of the Zenith City is being recognized.

Why to Stop Cruelty to Cubans.

Red Wing Republican: The Duluth Herald says the United States war with Spain was not fought because of the sinking of the Maine. Is the esteemed Herald prepared to prove that the war would have been fought if the Maine had not been sunk? Then will it also name the reasons, aside from the sinking of the Maine, this country had for engaging in a war with Spain. These explanations will come in very handy for use if it happens to be shown that the Spaniards did not sink the Maine, but that the vessel was sunk as the result of an internal explosion.

Hardly Progressive.

Stillwater Gazette: There is a chap up in Duluth who is not a progressive citizen. There may be others, but this one in particular desires that all children be made to study books five hours and then add two hours in the manual training school that he says is not practical. He wants all sports like baseball, football, basket ball, etc., eliminated. Nothing but hard work so the children can graduate earlier in life and take up the demnition grind. He talks like the man who gave his children a penny to go without their supper and then charged them the penny for breakfast.

Which Is It?

Greenbush Tribune: It seems too bad to put extra expense on the advertising pages of magazines when those pages so often contain the best reading in the whole publication, says The Duluth Herald. Is that a compliment for the ability of the ad. writers, or a knock for the authors and editors of the reading matter?

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Pardon Only for Innocent.

Laporte News: The house voted to abolish capital punishment by a vote of 33 to 12 and should pass the one restricting pardons without opposition. With capital punishment out of the way, there are men who, under the pardoning power as it exists, would not hesitate to take another man's life, believing they would sooner or later be pardoned out as the Younger brothers were. If there is no pardon, however, for the guilty man, and he has to prove his innocence before pardon can be granted, it might be considered by some even worse than death.

Lumbermen, of Course.

Wheelock's Weekly: Some farmers and all the large lumber interests are working together to save "the states" from the threatened influx of "cheap Canadian lumber." So kind and thoughtful of them.

One Hopeful Sign.

Fergus Falls Journal: Not much is known about Judge Henry L. Meyers of Missoula, Mont., who was elected United States senator Thursday before he knew his name was considered, but there is one hopeful sign in the situation and that is that a man has been elected senator from Montana without paying anything for it. The sixty-day fight was ended by picking him up as a dark horse.

After Tax Title Sharks.

Sandstone Tribune: Representative Hillman of Two Harbors is after the tax title shark and has introduced a bill to do away with tax titles and have land on which taxes are unpaid revert directly to the state. Our tax laws are an awfully complicated mess and full enough of fraud, but we doubt whether Mr. Hillman's bill, as we understand it correctly, will work a real, material improvement. However, we have confidence in the man and the principles he represents as aiming at something better and we are perfectly willing to await complete dissection and discussion of the policy the bill enunciates. If, perchance, it will right any of the wrongs of our present system it will be hailed with delight by the people in general.

Should Become Law.

Detroit Quiver: Mr. Hillman is the only Socialist member of the legislature and his idea in regard to this matter coincides with my own. His bill should become a law. The present system would not be countenanced in an ordinary village police court. If a man violates the law, he is fined, and the money goes to the state. Under the present law if a man fails to pay his taxes his property is taken away from him and absolutely given to someone else. When you come to think of it, can you think of anything else that would be equally foolish?

Not Lumberjacks.

Cass Lake Times: It is a libel on the honest lumberjack to group him with the scamps who have been arrested here for furnishing liquor to Indians; the hard working lumberjack has too much pride of character and too much sense to be lured from the path of right for the pittance that can be obtained from the illicit sale of liquor to the red man. Only the hardened in crime stoop to it; they may have been lumberjacks at some previous time, but at present they are the scum of the earth and take this unlawful method to gain a few pennies to buy whisky for their own consumption. The north country has no need of such miscreants, and the sooner we get them out of the way the better it will be for the public.

Blind Pigs Dangerous.

Brainerd Dispatch: A man had his fingers chewed off at a blind pig in Opole near St. Cloud. This should be a warning that blind pigs are dangerous—keep your hands in your pockets when visiting one.

For Old Maid School Ma'ams.

Princeton Union: There are 300 rural districts in the western part of Nebraska—that portion known as the "cow country"—without school teachers. The reason for this condition is that the school ma'ams, old or young, are annexed by ranchers and cowboys as fast as they put in an appearance—in other words, they get married. This should be good news to the old maid school ma'ams, and there are several of them in Minnesota. Of course a word to the wise is sufficient.

Bailey in History.

St. Cloud Times: Senator Bailey of Texas will go thundering down the ages as having done more than any other senator to lower the dignity of the United States senate and destroy its good name, by defending the election of one Lorimer, in whose interest bribery and corruption were shown to have taken place.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: Many a large hat covers an empty head.

A Little Hero.

Puck: Willie—Don't lick me, mother! I just saved four men and three women from drowning.

Mother—How?

Willie—They was jest going on the ice when I broke through!

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Universalist Leader: "What kind of a man would you like for a husband?"

"Oh, either a bachelor or a widower. I'm not particular which."

Argonaut: A venerable, white-haired parson received a month or so ago several requests from young women for a lock of his hair. The divine, pleased at this expression of respect, gladly complied with the request. It was not long, however, before his wife received a communication that put an end to her husband's pleasant delusion. The note was as follows:

"Dear Mrs. ——: Do please ask your husband to send me just a little lock of his hair. All the girls have been taking lessons in making flowers. So many of the girls have asked him that I thought I'd rather address you. Will you be so kind? It's so hard to get white hair for lilies of the valley."

Louisville Post: Mistress—Nora, I saw a policeman in the park today kiss a baby. I hope you will remember my objection to such things.

Nora—Sure, ma'am; no policeman would ever think iv kissin' yer baby whin I'm around.

University of Minnesota Minnehaha: "Prof. Smart is a man of large mental caliber, is he not?"

"He certainly is a big bore."

Harper's Weekly: "I'm sorry to be critical, my dear," said Mr. Lambkin, "but this pie is not the kind that mother used to make—not by a long shot."

"It's too bad, Henry," said Mrs. Lambkin, amiably. "I don't know what to do about it. Perhaps you'd better ring her up on the 'phone and tell her. She sent it over this afternoon.

Chicago Tribune: "Mamma, hasn't papa made enough money to be able to retire from business?"

"Yes, dear; that's why he doesn't retire."

Hope: A millionaire lay dying. He summoned his lawyer.

"Mr. Tape," said he feebly, "draw my will and make it brief. I want my money so left that not one penny of it shall ever leave this country. How shall I manage that?"

"Easy enough," answered the lawyer. "Leave it all to foreign missions!"

Judge: Stella—Is her coat Persian lamb?

Bella—No; Podunk mutton.

That Feeling of Fullness

Disappears in Five Minutes After Taking a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet.

A Trial Package Sent Free on Request.

All of the unpleasant sensations attendant upon eating too heartily are instantly relieved by a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet. Like sticking a pin into a rubber balloon. The reason is simple and easy to understand.

Inflation Of The Stomach From Undigested Food Quickly Relieved By A Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet.

When you take food into a stomach that is tired and over-taxed the gastric juices do not form fast enough to digest it properly. So the food becomes sour and at once begins to throw off gases. Your stomach becomes inflated just as surely as if you attached a toy balloon to a gas jet. Then the gases and foul odors issue forth and pollute your breath making you an object of nausea to your friends. Your tongue quickly becomes coated and you can taste the foulness that is within you.

Now all this condition is changed almost instantly by a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet. This little digester gets busy at once—supplies all the digestive juices that were lacking—digests the food in a jiffy and opens up the clogged stomach and bowels. It also sweetens and refreshes the mucous lining of the stomach and bowels and restores peace and content.

If you will give Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets a chance they will not only sweeten your stomach but also your disposition and you will never have another stomach ill.

One grain of a single ingredient in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest 3,000 grains of food. This saves your stomach and gives it the rest it needs. All muscles require occasional rest if they are ever over-taxed. The stomach is no exception to this rule.

Try a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and you will wonder how you ever got along without them. They are sold at 50 cents by all druggists everywhere. A trial package will be sent free on request to F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

LAURIER FOR RECIPROCITY

Prime Minister of Canada Strongly in Favor of Trade Agreement.

Says Dominion Would Never Consider Annexation With United States.

Ottawa, Ont., March 8.—The reciprocity agreement was indorsed, loyalty to Great Britain affirmed, annexation scouted, development of Canada proclaimed, and friendship between farmer and manufacturer recommended to Canada in the house of commons yesterday. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, prime minister of the dominion, in the first speech which he has delivered in the reciprocity debate. His views against annexation and for good relations were especially emphasized.

It was once the conviction of every American president, he asserted, that

SIR WILFRID LAURIER.

Canada should become a part of the United States. Although it was flattering, he said, to American pride, that the territory of the republic should extend the whole continent, he urged that his neighbors should remember that Canadians were born under the same flag as the ancestors of the American people, a flag under which Americans may have suffered oppression, but which to Canadians has been and is more than ever the emblem of freedom.

"If you have founded a nation upon separation from Great Britain," he said, "remember that we Canadians have set our hearts upon building a nation without separation and in this task we are far advanced. The blood which flows in our veins is as good as yours and if you are a proud people, though we have not your numbers, we are as proud as you, and rather than part with our national existence, we would part with our lives."

Utterances Important.

The prime minister's speech is regarded in political circles as the most important utterance on the subject that has been made on the Canadian side of the line. The interest with which it was anticipated was shown by crowded galleries and by the fact that scores were unable to gain admission. Among the auditors, the organized farmers of Canada were represented by James Bower, president of the Canadian council of agriculture and Robert MacKenzie, its secretary.

Lady Grey, wife of the governor general of Canada, occupied a seat on the floor of the house.

The premier's remarks were received with approving demonstrations. Describing his ideals of the relationship between the United States and Canada, Sir Wilfrid said: "There perhaps may be a spectacle nobler than that of a united continent—a spectacle which would astound the world by its novelty and grandeur, a spectacle of two peoples living side by side, separated only by an invisible line, with not a gun frowning across it, not a fortress on either side, with no armament one against the other, but living in harmony, in mutual confidence, and with no other rivalry than a generous emulation in commerce and the arts of peace.

"To the Canadian people I would say that if it is possible for us to obtain such relations between these two young and growing nations, Canada will have rendered to old England, the mother of nations, nay, to the whole British empire, unequalled in its present effect and still more in its far-reaching consequences."

ELLIOTT DECLINES THE PRESIDENCY

Wires Directors of Missouri Pacific That He Will Not Accept.

St. Louis, March 8.—Howard Elliott, president of the Northern Pacific railroad, last night wired his refusal to accept the presidency of the Missouri Pacific railroad, to a committee of New York men representing the controlling interests of the road.

He delayed the announcement until a few minutes before stepping aboard a train at Union station for St. Paul. Since Sunday night he had been in consultation with leading St. Louis financiers, all of whom importuned him to avail himself of the new position.

Following is a copy, in part, of his message to the committee, the members of which he declined to name:

"After very careful consideration of the very complimentary offer that you and your associates have made to me about taking charge of the Missouri Pacific, I have come to the conclusion that it is best for me not to accept the offer. I have been with the group of roads with which I now work all of my business life, and I feel that my best work can be done in connection with those roads, and the many friends and fellow-workers in them with whom I have been so intimately associated for many years.

"In coming to this conclusion. I do not underestimate the importance of the Southwest, the relation of the Missouri Pacific to that country, the great growth that is bound to come, and the opportunity to do good work in helping to develop that part of the United States. "HOWARD ELLIOTT."

MADE DULTH COUNTY SEAT

Dr. William W. Mayo Was Responsible for Selection of This City.

Famous Surgeon Formerly Had a Claim in West Duluth.

Dr. William W. Mayo, father of the famous Rochester surgeons, who died but a few days ago, was one of the earliest settlers at the Head of the Lakes.

It was he who selected Duluth as the county seat of St. Louis county, when he was appointed as one of the county commissioners, back in 1855, by Territorial Governor Gordon.

The following from a Rochester paper tells something about the man who was among the earliest settlers in Duluth:

"William Mayo was born May 21, 1819, at Manchester, England, the son of James and Ann Mayo, an old English family. Educated as a chemist, in 1845 he arrived in New York city and later went to Lafayette, Ind., where he commenced the study of medicine. Graduating from the University of Missouri, he started for the West, arriving in Galena, Ill., and by boat going to St. Jaul. In January, 1855, leaving his family in St. Paul, he traveled with a pack on his back to Duluth. He took a claim in St. Louis county, where West Duluth is now situated, and there practiced his profession. While a resident in the northern country, which at that time had few white men, Territorial Governor Gordon appointed Dr. Mayo chairman of the first board of county commissioners of St. Louis county, and in that official capacity he selected the site of the county seat of St. Louis county, where today stands the city of Duluth."

CONFIDENCE IN JUDGE COWAN

Expressed at Large Meeting of Benson County Citizens.

Minnewaukan, N. D., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—A mass meeting of citizens of Benson county was held at the town hall here to express the sentiment of the people of this county and the Second judicial district in regard to the impeachment proceedings now pending in the legislature of North Dakota against Judge John F. Cowan. There was a large attendance of representative citizens at the meeting. The unanimous expression of the meeting was incorporated in resolutions expressing confidence in the honesty and integrity of Judge Cowan and condemning the action of the legislature in reversing itself and the so-called indignation meetings held outside the Second judicial district. The resolutions were signed by over 500 residents and voters of this county, and it is expected there will be from 1,000 to 1,500 signers. Following are the resolutions adopted:

Whereas, Charges were made in the legislature of North Dakota, at the present session, against the Hon. John F. Cowan, judge of the Second judicial district of the state of North Dakota, and a request that he be impeached thereon, and removed from the office of judge of said district; and

Whereas, The committee appointed by the speaker of the house of representatives, to investigate the said charges, reported against said impeachment proceedings, and exonerated the Hon. John F. Cowan, in said report; and

Whereasc, The legislature of North Dakota, acting on said report, sustained the same and voted against said proceedings; and

Whereas, The legislature afterwards reversed their decision and brought impeachment proceedings against said Hon. John F. Cowan, which are now pending for trial before the senate of the state of North Dakota; therefore be it

Resolved, That we heartily believe in the honesty, integrity, manly character and good citizenship of the Hon. John F. Cowan, and his fairness and impartiality, ability and integrity as a judge, and we commend the action of said committee of the house in reporting against the impeachment proceedings, and the manly stand taken thereon and in support of said committee, and also the action of Hon. O. P. Jordhal, the chairman of said committee, and also the action of Hon. Paul J. Moen and Hon. James Kane in supporting said report and the sentiment of their constituents in Benson county, and we condemn the actions of the legislature in reversing its decision and voting for impeachment proceedings, which we believe was wholly influenced by inflammatory newspaper reports, and "political" indignation meetings, and garbled extracts of the testimony given before the legislative committee; and further

Resolved, That the "so-called" indignation meetings, all of which were held outside of the Second judicial district, cast a reflection upon the intelligence, patriotism, dignity and honor of the electors of said district, and we believe that we are competent to judge for ourselves, as to the integrity, fitness and capability of our own officers. We demand the "square deal" and that we be allowed to select our own officers, and not be disfranchised by political manipulation.

BRANDEIS HAS NEW PLAN.

New York, March 8.—In order to make the railway systems of the country pay full value to investors, Louis D. Brandeis of Boston in an argument before the federal railroad securities commission on Monday advocated a new government department. He would establish a bureau of railroads' costs and experimental station in railroad economies. The work of this bureau would be published as are agricultural reports at present, for the benefit of the railroad management.

RESIGNATION OF REV. C. F. AKED IS ACCEPTED.

New York, March 8.—The Rev. Charles F. Aked has resigned the pastorate of the Fifth Avenue Baptist church and will accept the call to the First Congregational church of San Francisco. His resignation, effective April 9, was accepted by the board of trustees yesterday, after Dr. Aked had explained briefly, in line with his announcement of last Sunday, that he saw no great future for his efforts here.

Dr. Aked refused to comment on his resignation, but will issue another statement to the congregation on Sunday.

EX-POLITICAL BOSS NOW IN PENITENTIARY

ABRAHAM RUEF.

San Francisco, March 8.—Having exhausted every legal resource in a three years' struggle to escape the penitentiary, Abraham Ruef, former political boss of San Francisco, was sent to San Quentin late yesterday to begin a fourteen-year term for the bribery of supervisors during the regime of Mayor Eugene E. Schmitz.

As a final concession to the fallen boss, he was removed from the county jail here to the penitentiary in a taxicab, instead of in the regular van.

Ruef anticipated the usual prison regulations by having his moustache removed and his hair cropped closely before departure. Only a handful of his former lieutenants and friends were at the ferry to bid him farewell.

Warden Hoyle of San Quentin has announced that Ruef will be put at work in the jute mill of the prison.

Attorneys for the prisoner will continue their fight for his liberation by making a petition to the supreme court for a re-hearing and, that failing, the intervention of the federal courts may be sought.

Charged With Larceny.

MAKE PLANS FOR CONTEST

Prizes Will Be Offered Boys and Girls for Poultry Raising.

Y. M. C. A., Poultry Association and Commercial Club Offer Encouragement.

If preliminary plans are carried out, the Duluth Poultry association, the Duluth Y. M. C. A., the Commercial club and the extension department of the state agricultural school will unite in encouraging the boys and girls of Duluth to raise poultry. At a meeting of the representatives of the different organizations at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday, the subject was discussed and those interested are now busy working out the terms of a proposed poultry contest and the methods of working up interest among the young people.

The meeting was attended by Prof. N. E. Chapman, head of the poultry department of the extension division of the state agricultural school; A. B. Hostetter, agricultural expert of the Duluth Commercial club; Norman D. McLeod, secretary of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A.; R. C. Coffin, educational director of the Y. M. C. A., and Secretary H. A. Nelson, Assistant Secretary F. P. Hallock and Treasurer E. W. Nelson of the Duluth Poultry association.

A contest, in which any boy or girl in Duluth may enter, will be inaugurated this spring, it is expected, and prizes will be offered for the best record made in raising chickens. A plan will be worked out whereby prizes will be offered for the best results obtained by beginners and also for those who are more advanced in poultry raising. In starting out the contest, ignorance will be taken of the difficulty which some of the young people may experience in getting a start and it is hoped that the assistance of members of the Duluth Poultry association can be obtained in aiding those anxious to enter the contest.

Prof. Chapman said yesterday that the department of which he is head is anxious to encourage poultry raising among children as well as among adults, for nobody can begin to learn the business too young. He said that he would be glad to give talks from time to time to those entered in the contest and to give them literature and instructions on the proper housing and care of chickens.

It is expected the Y. M. C. A. will take charge of conducting the contest, will organize the boys and girls and keep the records.

A. B. Hostetter said that he will place the matter before the agricultural committee of the Commercial club and he expressed the belief that the members of the committee would do all in their power to further the plan. It is hoped that the prizes to be offered in the contest can be obtained through the Commercial club.

The officers of the Poultry association are enthusiastic over the proposed contest. At a meeting of the association the latter part of his week, the officers who attended the meeting yesterday will place the project before the association and ask that the members give their assistance in getting the contest under way. Mr. Hallock, who is one of the most enthusiastic members of the poultry association, said this morning that he has been advocating such a contest for some time. He has obtained data on the results obtained in other cities and he says that there is no reason why a contest should not be conducted here to advantage, for the boys and girls and the poultry raising industry in general.

It is believed that boys and girls in Lakeside, West Duluth, Woodland, Duluth Heights, and other outlying districts, where there is plenty of room for poultry raising, will be especially interested in the contest and it is expected that a large number of entries will be received. The terms of the contest will be announced as soon as they can be worked out and the necessary arrangements for inaugurating the contest can be made.

the children of the settlers may be educated.

It has been found that there is no way under the Constitution by which state lands can be taxed for road purposes, but the Warner bill is the way that has been devised of making the state, the owner of the millions of acres of idle land in Northern Minnesota, contribute to the support of the schools which the settlers are trying to maintain for their children.

When the bill was considered on general orders, a question was raised as to its constitutionality, and because of that question Mr. Warner submitted it to Attorney General Simpson, who gave him an opinion to the effect that, with a couple of amendments, which he suggested, the bill would clearly be constitutional. The only amendment of importance was one which removes from the bill the provision limiting it to schools in organized townships.

Text of the Bill.

The bill, as adopted by the house yesterday afternoon, is as follows:

"There is hereby annually appropriated from the revenue fund of this state $100,000 in aid of the common schools of this state, available, the first annual appropriation, on or before May 1, 1911, and each succeeding annual appropriation, on or before April 1 of each succeeding year.

"The amount so appropriated shall be annually divided among and distributed to the several counties of this state for the use and benefit of and in aid of the common schools thereof, and the county treasurer of each county receiving such aid, shall redivide and redistribute the same to and to the use and benefit of the common schools of his county in proportion to the acreage of lands owned by this state situated therein; provided, however, that in calculating the acreage of unsold state lands in any county, lands which have heretofore been or hereafter may be leased by the state for mineral purposes, shall not be included in the calculation; and provided, further, that the amount received by any school district shall not exceed the equivalent of 5 cents per acre for each and every acre of state owned lands situated within such school district after excluding such leased lands.

"No part of the money hereby appropriated shall be available for or be used for the purchase of any school site or the erection of any school building.

"It shall be the duty of the state auditor to supply to the several county auditors of this state, plats with checkings thereon indicating the location and the descriptions of all unsold state lands situated within the organized townships of his county."

Tonnage Tax Bill.

The house committee on taxes and tax laws yesterday afternoon voted to report the Frankson-Johnson tonnage tax bill for indefinite postponement. The vote was 12 to 1, only Representative Hoffman of Rochester voting for the bill.

Ordinarily, the report would be made to the house and either adopted or rejected. If adopted, that would mean the end of the bill.

The opponents of the tonnage tax bill, however, have no disposition to foreclose any reasonable amount of consideration of the bill, and they were willing to make the measure a special order for this afternoon, in order that it might be voted upon by the house, in spite of the fact that the report of the committee was almost unanimously against the bill.

Frankson and Johnson, however, opposed making a special order for this afternoon on the ground that there is already a special order on the Keefe bill providing for the Oregon plan of direct nomination and election of United States senators, and that they did not want it to appear that their measure was of so little account that it was thrust in after the house had worn itself out on another bill.

Representative Chester A. Congdon of Duluth, who had made a strong and conclusive argument against the bill in spite of the fact that he is still suffering from the effects of the grip, augmented by the results of his arduous work on the reapportionment bill and other important measures, wanted to have the bill disposed of so that he might go home and rest up. The authors of the bill wanted to make it a special order for next Wednesday, but Mr. Congdon feared that he might not be able to get back at that time, as he wanted to get well before he came back to work.

Being unable to agree, the committee and the authors of the bill decided to lay the matter over until this morning.

Mr. Congdon's Argument.

Mr. Congdon's argument was to the effect that the only excuse that could be offered for prosposing a new method of taxing any particular kind of property, is that normal methods of taxation are inefficient

As to that, he said that mining property in Minnesota is about the easiest kind of property to assess properly. It is about as easy to measure the contents of an ore body and to ascertain its value as it is to measure up a load of hay; much easier, in fact, than it is to estimate the value of almost any other kind of property. The location of an ore body is ascertained by drilling, and when the ore body is found, its depth and area are determined in the same way. By taking samples of the ore its value is easily determined. All mines are bought and sold on that basis, and if they can be bought and sold by shrewd business men in that way, it is easy enough to tax them that way. He would much rather, he said, assess an ore mine than a store, because it was much easier to do.

He gave figures showing that mining property is now assessed higher than most other kind of property, but submitted that even if it were shown that mines are not taxed enough, the method of taxing them that has been worked out by the tax commission is so exact that it is the easiest thing in the world to see that they pay their just share of the taxes.

The measure of taxation should be the ability to pay taxes, and he said that the proposed tonnage tax is not measured according to ability to pay but would work in favor of the large mine owners and against the small ones. It is graduated according to the percentage of iron content, when the amount of moisture, the amount of phosphorous and the amount of other ingredients are often more important than the percentage of iron in fixing values. To show the injustice of the proposed method, he showed that in the case of two mines, one containing 10,000,000 tons of ore and the other containing only 100,000 tons, both shipping the same amount of ore a year, the tax would be the same under the tonnage tax, though one mine is really worth a hundred times as much as the other.

Protest Against Principle.

It was not the amount of the tax that Northeastern Minnesota protests against to a man, he said, but the principle. Every man in St. Louis county regards the tonnage tax as a proposed exertion of a tyrannical power over a minority. This is why Duluth rose two years ago, when the bill was before Governor Johnson, as no community in the state ever rose before. It is not the amount of the tax, but the principle, that is objected to. Even if the amount of the proposed tax is reasonable, it will be raised at every session of the legislature, and Northeastern Minnesota will have absolutely no recourse until the tax gets so high that the courts will declare it confiscatory—a thing the courts are always slow to do.

Furthermore, a section of the state that needs so much every dollar's taxes it can raise from its own industries, resents the idea that a rich state should reach in and take for its own uses a special proportion greater than it demanded from the industries or resources of any other section of the state.

There has been less interest, in the legislature and outside of it, in the tonnage tax this year than in any previous session. The attitude of the house and the public toward the bill is in sharp contrast to that of two years ago, before the issue reached its crisis in the veto of the Bjorge bill by the late Governor John A. Johnson. Nevertheless, and in spite of the fact that practically no attempt has been made to make a reasonable argument in behalf of the bill, it will get more votes than most of its opponents from Northeastern Minnesota have expected. It will not pass, and in all probability it will lack at least a dozen votes of passing; but in view of the conditions, it ought to lack a lot more than it will.

Ralph Investigation.

The Knapp committee to investigate State Drainage Engineer Ralph had State Auditor Iverson on the stand yesterday, and developed from him some confirmation of the charges of irregularity in the letting of drainage contracts. He testified that a good deal of responsibility had been thrown by the drainage board on the drainage engineer, and in effect that to a considerable degree he had had matters pretty much his own way.

Drainage Ditch No. 86, in Aitkin county, was let Oct. 6, 1909, and was to be completed by Dec. 1. The records showed ant Foley & Gleason, the contractors who got the job, didn't make verified signatures to their contract until Jan. 6, 1910. Mr. Iverson explained this by saying that the contractors sent in a contract signed but not verified, and that when their attention was called to it they said they would sign properly the next time they came down, which was in January. It was also shown that the board granted an extension of time on the contract without notifying the bondsmen of the contractors; but Mr. Iverson said they had the attorney general's opinion that it wouldn't affect the bonds.

Mr. Iverson admitted that there was but on bidder on each contract for Ditches Nos. 58, 93 and 86, and Representative C. H. Warner called the committee's attention to the fact that these are the ditches on which it is claimed work was begun before the contracts were let.

Woman Suffrage.

The advocates of woman suffrage spent most of last night trying to figure out where they are after the senate's action yesterday afternoon on the Sageng bill proposing a constitutional amendment giving votes to women.

The bill was considered by the senate in committee of the whole, and after Senator Sageng had amended his bill so as to provide the machinery for voting on the proposed amendment to the Constitution, he moved that the bill be recommended to pass. Senator Wallace of Minneapolis moved as a substitute that the bill be recommended for indefinite postponement.

On this there was a tie vote, 23 and 23, and Lieutenant Governor Gordon declared the motion lost.

The question then reverted to Senator Sageng's motion that the bill be recommended to pass, and that, too, was lost.

The usual thing in that case would be to report progress on the bill, but the senate refused even to do that. The effect of the senate's lack of action is to leave the bill just where it was, and it probably will be disposed of in a day or two. The present outlook is that it will be defeated.

The senate in committee of the whole yesterday recommended for passage Senator Rockne's bill authorizing home rule charter cities to provide for payment of special assessments for paving in ten annual installments.

The Knapp house bill, introduced at the request of the Duluth city council, authorizing cities of the first class to trade park or playground property for other property to be used for the same purpose, was advanced to the calendar in the senate yesterday afternoon.

False Weights and Measures.

The house yesterday afternoon passed a bill by Representative Skartum providing fine or imprisonment for the use of false weights and measures. The provisions of the bill are as follows:

"Whoever knowingly buys or sells or directs or permits any person in his employ to buy or sell, any property, and makes or gives any false or short weight or measure; and any person owning or having charge of any scales or steelyards fixed for the purpose of misweighing any article bought or sold and any person having any such scales or steelyards for the purpose of weighing any property, and who knowingly reports any false or untrue weight, and any person, firm or corporation using in the sale of any commodity a computing scale or device indicating the weight and price of such commodity, upon which scale or device the graduations or indications are false, or inaccurately placed, either as to weight or price, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than $25, or imprisoned in the county jail for not less than twenty days.

"It shall be the duty of the sealers of weights and measures of this state to enforce this law in their respective counties."

Reapportionment Bill.

As stated in The Herald yesterday afternoon, the senate committee on reapportionment voted to recommend the Congdon reapportionment bill for passage by a vote of 11 to 6, which was made 12 to 6 later when Senator Gunn of Grand Rapids, who was absent when the vote was taken, appeared and asked that his vote be recorded. It was also voted to propose that the bill be made a special order for a week from Thursday.

The opponents of the bill wanted to have the Murray bill, adding a few house members to several districts, put out with the Congdon bill, but on motion of Senator Cheadle the Murray bill was laid over.

Representative P. J. Mettling of Montevideo has introduced a bill that will, if it becomes a law, work a large advantage to an important part of his district. The bill appropriates $5,000 for a bridge over the Minnesota river on the boundary line between Chippewa and Yellow Medicine counties. There is a large settlement at Stony Run which markets its products at Montevideo, but as things stand now its people must take a long roundabout trip to get over the river. If Representative Mettling's bill passes they will be given direct and easy access to the Montevideo market.

The senate in committee of the whole yesterday afternoon advanced to the calendar the Cheadle bill giving Duluth authority to issue $700,000 in bonds to build a municipal electric lighting plant.

HEIGHT NOT ONLY REQUIREMENT.

One of the biggest men in Duluth was turned down for a policeman yesterday because he couldn't come up to the physical requirements.

Standing 6 feet 7¾ inches in his stocking feet, those who conducted the examination said that under the rules he couldn't pass—not because he wasn't tall enough, but because he didn't have a sufficient chest expansion. The best he could do, was to push his lungs out to within two inches of the requirement for a man of his height. This makes him hollow chested in the classification and not acceptable.

Three others of the twenty-six who appeared were disqualified for various reasons. The remaining twenty-two are taking their written examinations at the city hall today. The physical tests were all finished yesterday at the Y. M. C. A. They consisted of running, gripping and lifting. The marks gained here are averaged up with those attained in the written examination today.

Y. M. C. A. "POP" DRAWS RECORD CROWD.

The "pop" at the Y. M. C. A. last evening was attended by a record crowd, it being estimated that 1,000 people were present to enjoy the evening's program, which was characterized as one of the most delightful which has been given since the entertainments were started.

An orchestra of thirty-five pieces from Flaaten's conservatory played four selections vocal solos were rendered by Mrs. John Batson and Mrs. Eugene Brown; a duet, from "Lakme," was sung by Misses Claire Folz and Ruth Brown, and Miss Doris Mallett gave a humorous recitation of "The Foreigners at the Fair." The gymnastic exhibition on the horizontal bars, by A. F. Olson, E. A. Grochau, A. J. Frey and William Mueller, was of the sensational order. The first three are local men and the last came from Minneapolis especially for the occasion.

DINNIE BROS. TO BUILD THE COMMONS BUILDING.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—A contract for the completion of the commons building at the state university was let by the board of regents to Dinnie Bros. of Grand Forks for $25,000. Two years ago an appropriation was made for the construction of the commons building, but President McVey, desirous of securing a building that would answer the purposes for many years to come, was successful in advocating that only the superstructure be erected out of that appropriation. The new appropriation has now become available and the structure will be made complete in all respects.

COMPANY E IS INSPECTED

Maj. H. V. Eva and staff last evening made the regular inspection of Company E of the Minnesota National Guard at the armory, the citizen soldiers going through their steps with precision and accuracy and acquitting themselves most creditably.

The discipline and the condition of the company were found to be of a high order. The olive drab uniforms, guns, blankets and other equipment were closely examined.

DO NOT WANT THE COUNTY DIVIDED.

A delegation of prominent range residents passed through Duluth yesterday, on their way to St. Paul, to appear before a legislative committee to protest vigorously against the proposed division of St. Louis county, as provided in a bill which has been introduced in the house. Biwabik, Chisholm and Hibbing men were members of the delegation. They did not believe that the division would be for the best interests of the county and state that should the division be authorized, the fight for the county seat would be one of the hottest ever witnessed in this part of the country, as Eveleth, Virginia and Hibbing would be leading candidates.

WOMAN'S REALM.

Miss Mary Fulton returned yesterday from Minneapolis, where she attended the dinner Monday evening at the Hotel Radisson which was planned to arouse interest in the annual convention of the Minnesota State Music Teachers' association to be held in Minneapolis in May.

Miss Fulton says that it was one of the most successful and enthusiastic events she had ever attended in this line and ought to do much to further musical interest in the state. The dinner was attended by nearly 200 musicians and teachers of the state.

Rossetter G. Cole of Chicago, who has been three times elected president of the National Music Teachers' association and who is an authority in musical matters, was the speaker of the evening. T. P. Giddings, supervisor of music in the public schools of Minneapolis, and Caryl B. Storrs also spoke briefly. Hamlin Hunt, president of the state association presided. All of these speeches were well received and those in charge feel that the meeting should result in more activity along musical lines in the state.

The convention will be held on May 9, 10 and 11 when every member is urged to attend and to send as many others as possible.

What Musicians Need.

"What Musicians Need" was the subject chosen by Mr. Cole and the following extracts from his paper which emphasized and illustrated throughout the absolute necessity for co-operation and association between members of the profession, are copied from the Minneapolis Tribune of March 7:

Musicians need self-analysis, not only in order to discover the individual faults but also to bring out undeveloped strength and talent. But above all, music teachers need co-operation. No body of people needs it more and none, it would seem, have less solidarity. The conditions and problems are practically the same for all teachers and yet each insists on individuality, on mental isolation.

The reason that music teachers are the slowest and most reluctant to recognize the need of co-operation is that they inherit a lot of bad traditions and laws. For instance, the old adage, 'Distance lends enchantment,' has such weight with them that to be venerated a musician must bear the label, 'made in Germany,' while the man in the neighboring studio is exceedingly faulty.

"Another reason for the drawing of musicians is tremendous and important activity, the veritable musical and artistic renaissance which is sweeping the country, an awakening comparable to that of the nineteenth century, which produced Schubert, Schumann, Chopin and others." Mr. Cole then showed the astonishing musical growth in this country during the last thirty years by a comparison of the permanent orchestras, choral musical societies and opera companies of 1880 and of 1911. The orchestras had increased from three in 1880 to ten in 1900 and to over thirty in the present year. The growth of choral music had been nearly as rapid, increasing from ten societies of over 125 members in 1880 to forty in 1900, until now there is hardly a city of 50,000 in the country which does not have a society of that size, besides many smaller societies. In addition to the two permanent opera companies in 1880 there have now been added one at Boston and another at Chicago, with the prospect of having permanent stock opera companies in twenty to twenty-five cities. "And we shall have more and more grand opera in good old Anglo-Saxon," was received with applause.

As to Chamber Music.

"Perhaps the greatest proof of the actual condition of musical progress is the increasing enjoyment of chamber music. Grand opera gives no real indication as it speaks with the appeal of all the arts. But the string quartet is pure, unadorned music and is a reliable barometer of real musical culture in a community." Touching on the pedagogic aspect of the subject, Mr. Cole said: "Colleges and universities have come to recognize music as a part of the curriculum and while in 1880 music was elective in seven colleges, it is now credited toward a degree in seventy colleges. In public school music the progress is even more marked.

"The profession has now to consider how to utilize this progressive movement. First they need to make more effective the musicianship they already possess by sympathetic criticism, by getting together and measuring their growth with others, by hearing what others in their profession have to say and by more alertness to what others are doing and a broadening of interest beyond the individual work."

THE EVENING STORY

"WITH THE AUTHOR'S COMPLIMENTS"

By Nella Parker.

"Where are you going, Maisie? I want you for a moment."

"I was going to the beach with the dogs, father."

"Well, read this first." And Mr. Warrender handed his daughter a newspaper, at the same time directing her attention to the list of deaths. Around one announcement a blue pencil line had been drawn.

"There, don't stand staring at it, child!" he added impatiently. "Read it aloud."

Maisie, noting that her parent was possessed of one of his periodical attacks of gout, obeyed.

"'At Prague, on the 7th inst., Sir Gervase Warrender, Bart., aged 46.'

"You are not seriously troubled about it, father? You didn't know him very well, did you?" asked Maisie.

"Haven't seen him for fifteen years," was the reply. "I suppose you realize what this means?"

"Does it mean anything more than it says?"

"How dense you are, girl! Surely you are aware that the title must go to somebody?"

"Yes. And who will be the next baronet?"

"Ah, that's another story. For the moment you are chiefly concerned with the present baronet, who is—your father."

Maisie was surprised rather than gratified. That her irritable, tactless, though really good natured father should be so suddenly exalted was certainly startling and a smile crossed her face as she said:

"I'm afraid, father, that I shall have to take this information in small doses—it's too much to take all at once. It never occurred to me that this dignity would be your lot."

"No I've felt no inclination for the dead man's shoes. It was hard lines for Gervase. His only boy died last year, and now he's taken. There, run along, and—yes, it will be better if you keep the matter a secret for the present. We shall leave Carrington as soon as possible."

"Leave Carrington!"

"Certainly! We shall go to the family place, Brooklands. When you've been Miss Warrender of Brooklands for a few months you'll wonder how you managed to exist in this hole."

"The dogs are getting impatient," said Maisie, faintly, "so, if you don't mind, I'll take them at once."

"Yes, do; and if William gets his work done in time, I'll tell him to rub up the bath chair, so that I can meet you. Before you go I want to give you a hint. Remember this—that you are now the daughter of Sir James Warrender—you'll have to keep the Carrington folks at a distance. Your friends in future will belong to a different class."

He could not resist a wave of the hand, which showed how conscious he was of the marked change in his position.

The girl was sorry to learn that they were to leave Carrington. She had spent all her quiet, uneventful life there and loved the place. Brooklands, with all its grandeur and vastness, could never be home. Troubled at the thought of the changes that were to come, she walked on silently, her pet dogs finding her singularly dull and unsympathetic. It was not until the little animals barked in boisterous welcome that she was roused from her reverie and noticed the young fellow who was approaching.

The smile that dawned upon her face was banished by the remembrance of her father's command to keep the Carrington folk at a distance but really no one could be frigid where Alec Peyton was present, and the checked smile reappeared.

"So you're again making a martyr of yourself for the sake of those noisy little mongrels," he remarked, cheerfully.

"I'm not a martyr, and the dogs are not mongrels! I believe"—this a little doubtfully—"that Tiger is almost—thoroughbred."

"If by thoroughbred you mean that he is a dog show in himself, I'll agree. Great Scott! What's the other animal doing?"

"Oh! Now isn't that tiresome? She's dropped her collar in that pool. I couldn't have fastened it properly."

"Never mind—I'll soon get it," said Peyton as he started off for the pool.

Maisie seated herself on a slab of rock and watched Alec as he searched amongst the seaweed and stones for the missing collar. And he was worth looking at. Tall and straight, with strength in his well-knit limbs, with blue eyes, crisp curly hair, and sunburnt face, he was a fine specimen of a young Englishman. She nodded gaily at him when he held up that collar, and then, kneeling down, proceeded to fasten it round the dog's fat neck.

At that moment something else attracted Maisie's attention — something that drove the color from her face. On the top of the high cliff surmounting the pool a man with a wheelbarrow suddenly appeared, and before she could utter a word of warning he had sent a shower of stones crashing down to the spot where Alec knelt. The dog rushed across the sands, howling with rage and pain, and Alec sank back against the cliff.

The girl hastened to his side.

"Oh, I know he's hurt — terribly hurt!" she cried. "What shall I do?"

Injured as he was, Alec noticed the anxiety in the girl's tone. It was pleasant to think that he had such interest for her, and in the desire to protract this pleasure he hesitated to open his eyes, and by this action caused Maisie to betray her real feelings with remarkable rapidity.

When however he did look up his companion became conscious of her position.

"I was so horribly frightened—I thought you were killed!" she said as she drew back.

"No, I'm not dead yet, and I mean to live long enough to shake the breath out of that old Danvers. I've told him often enough about throwing things over the cliff."

"Then you're not badly hurt?" And Maisie rose.

"Not—badly. Still, to feel a barrowload of stones descend on one's skull from a good height is not an agreeable experience."

"Will you be able to walk home?"

"Not just yet," replied Alec wearily. He meant to follow up his advantage. "And I don't think I could walk home alone," he went on. "If we sit down for five minutes I may be able to recover."

Followed by Alec, the girl went back to her stone seat, and for a short time there was silence.

"I believe you were really startled just now," he began.

"Startled is scarcely the word," she said. "I was terrified!"

Again silence. Then an expression denoting sudden resolve came into the young man's face.

"Maisie," he said firmly, "a racking headache doesn't help a fellow to choose his words, and, after all, if I talked for an hour, it would come to the same thing—I love you, and I want you to be my wife."

"Oh, please don't say that today!"

"But I will say it—I must say it! I'm obliged to go back to town tomorrow, and I may not return here for a couple of months. You won't be so cruel as to keep me in suspense all that time. And I don't think your father will object. You shall have a home as comfortable as the cottage has been. Wouldn't you be content with that?"

"Yes, I should," answered Maisie, to whom the prospective splendors of Brooklands had become curiously distasteful.

"And, if you were to try hard, you could love me a just a little?" he pleaded, taking her hand.

Maisie looked steadily away into the distance.

"Just a little?" he repeated.

Maisie hesitated.

"I don't believe—I could ever—love you—a little."

"Does that mean what I should like it to mean?"

"I'm afraid it does," she answered, forgetting all about baronetcies and Brooklands and other stumbling blocks in the way of true love.

"Don't spoil the admission by that 'afraid,' darling. Now I have you to work for instead of only myself I shall do wonders. I mean you to be the happiest little wife in England. Why, even your father will be satisfied!"

"Oh, but you don't know!" cried Maisie, and then she paused, wishing that Alec had been a little bolder in his wooing. Mr. Warrender might have considered him an eligible suitor, Sir James Wrrender would be likely to meet his request with a cold refusal.

"What is it that I don't know? Naturally your father won't like the idea of losing you, but I shall tell him that the difference will consist in his having two homes instead of one. I'll talk to him straight enough. Why, here he comes! Now I call this fortunate!"

Privately Maisie held the reverse opinion, but she did her best to appear unconcerned, though she knew it was not the gout that brought the frown to her father's face as Alec, with outstretched hand, went towards him.

"Sorry to see that the old complaint is troublesome, sir," began Alec.

"Thank you—it's not worth mentioning!"—this rather stiffly. "Just go up to the farm, Williams, and tell them about those ducks. Miss Warrender will stay with me till you get back."

And Williams hurried off; whereupon Maisie, thinking Alec would plead his cause better in her absence, said something rather incoherently about the dogs and went with him to the water's edge.

For what seemed to her a long time she stood there, too anxious to notice the wet paws that were making havoc with the purity of her white skirt; but at length she started as her father called sharply to her—

"Maisie, come here!" And then, almost before she was within speaking distance, she continued—

"You can guess what this gentleman has just told me?"

"Yes, father."

"Well, now I'm going to ask him in your presence if he has seen the list of deaths in today's newspaper."

"A part of the paper I usually skip, sir. The brief prosaic record of a stranger's passing away is not thrilling reading. Is there any particular reason why I should take special interest in today's list?"

"Yes, sir, there is a particular reason, and that is it."

Alec took the paper that had been dragged from under the seat of the Bath chair, and, having read the blue-lined notice, was quicker to grasp its meaning than Maisie had been.

"I congratulate you," he said quietly, "but until this moment I was unaware of your new dignity."

"In that case I need only say that I do not intend to allow my daughter to determine her future until she has had some opportunity of seeing the world. I need scracely say, Mr. Peyton, that it will be a very different world from that of Carrington."

"Quite so," assented Alec, "but for all that I do not mean to give up my hopes of one day winning her for my wife, and I do not think she will change."

"No, I shall not change," said Maisie, astonished at her own audacity whilst her father smiled grimly.

"Good-bye! And Alec held out his hand. "Be sure I shall not forget, darling. Good morning, Sir James!" and without trusting himself to glance again at Maisie he walked quietly away.

That night Maisie cried herself to sleep. As for Alec himself, his preparations for his return to town kept him occupied until long after the good folk of Carrington had turned out their lights, and then a brilliant idea occurred to him. It was a moonlight night, every plant in the garden was distinctly visible. He would gather a basketful of roses and leave them in the little summer house overhanging the sea where Maisie usually spent half an hour before breakfast. She would understand and appreciate the silent farewell.

It was a long walk, for the cottage stood beyond the village, from which it was screened by a belt of trees. And Alec, suddenly coming in sight of it, saw something that startled him.

A dense cloud of smoke hung over the back part of the house, while little tongues of flame were darting across the window of a lower room. Alec dropped the roses. There was no time to go back for help. What had to be done must be by himself. The house was built on a steep slope, so Maisie's room, chosen for the sake of the view, was the greater distance from the ground.

Rushing to the front door, Alec paused a moment to knock in a manner that threatened to break in the panels; then, clinging to the old ivy, he managed to climb up to the window of Sir James' room, and, raising it, clambered in as its occupant, forgetting his bandaged foot, was opening the door.

"Wake the servants and get downstairs!" cried Alec. "I'll fetch Maisie!" And, snatching up a blanket, over which he had thrown a jug of water, he hurried on.

The smoke on the staircase was blinding, and he had to grope his way past and open three doors before he came to Maisie's apartment. She was insensible and lay a dead weight in his arms as he descended painfully, breathlessly, conscious of little beyond an agonized desire to save her from being hurt. He might not get her out alive. He was not sure that he could do so, but the actual flames must not touch her. And then—then he felt a breath of cool fresh air and became unconscious.

Three days later Maisie stood at the door of a darkened sitting room with her anxious eyes fixed on the old doctor's face.

"Yes, you can see him for five minutes," he said in a tone meant to be stern. "Only remember he's not to talk and you're not to worry!"

"I'll leave directly you tell me."

"Then go in!" And Maisie entered.

"Oh, you must come nearer—much nearer, darling!" said the invalid. "I can't see you there. Did your father mind you coming?"

"He sent me."

"That's good! And what did he say?"

"He said I was to show you this written message."

And Maisie held up a card on which was written:

A Cheap Short Crust.

This will be of use when many pies are the order of the day, and where the average housewife cannot afford to make rich pastry for her robust young family. Required are one-half pound flour, one-half pound of clarified dripping, one teaspoonful of cream or tartar, one-half teasponful of bicarbonate of soda, a small half cupful of water. Dissolve the soda in the water and beat the dripping to a cream; mix it well with the flour and cream of tartar, and then, gradually add the water and soda. Roll out as lightly as possible.

SEEN IN THE SHOPS

A special offer made this morning at one of the trunk stores is a fine large trunk fitted out with a set of our trays that work like a chest of drawers for only $10.

Another thing which the shoppers this morning were interested in, were some scrim goods for curtains shown in a Superior street window. They were all of a cream background with large conventional designs in many colors elaborately worked out. These would be very pretty for over drapes and are selling at from 20 to 35 cents a yard.

Another window of this same shop is given up to the display of new novels which are priced at 50 cents. Many new ones and most of the good books that have come out during the past year are among the lot.

One of the leading furniture shops is displaying a library set in the new "Kenwood oak" which is attracting much admiration. It consists of desk chairs, straight arm chairs, rockers, all with cane seats and backs and the round table has a cane top reinforced with cross bars of the oak. It is a most attractive set and while the oak stain is about the same as the mission stain has been, the cane addition affords a pleasing change from the popular mission furniture.

In this same shop they are showing tapestry rag rugs for $1.95 which are made in pretty colors and the borders are woven in scenes.

VIRGINIA MAYOR WANTS DETECTIVE

Asks Council for $200 to Secure Evidence Against Blindpigs.

Virginia, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—About 100 resident property holders along the line of the proposed route of the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific railroad, the Canadian Northern, were present at last night's council meeting to protest against the building of the line along Lake Boulevard and in other parts of the city. Representatives of the company presented the company's side of the case to the ordinance committee. Several clauses in the proposed franchise were suggested changed, but as the railroad company had not filed a plat of its proposed route with the city clerk the property owners had no protest coming. It was finally agreed that the representatives of the company appear here next Tuesday afternoon and meet the property owners with a view to coming to some agreement on the proposed route of the road.

Going After Blindpigs.

Mayor Hawkinson is going after the blindpiggers and in a communication asked for a continent fund of $200 to aid him in weeding out these aggressors. The blindpiggers have been a source of great worry to the officials for a long time and it will be the endeavor of the mayor to get after them so strong that they will eventually quit the illicit sale of the stuff that puts the best of them under the table. The mayor's idea is to employ a detective to ferret out the guilty ones.

City Clerk Bickford reported the actual indebtedness of the city up to March 1 as $110,738.92.

City Attorney Poirier stated that Mr. Bailey agreed to remedy the matter in so far as possible, but that his company had to have the space in question. The city attorney also said that the city had no jurisdiction and that it was up to the parties in the dispute to agree upon the matter.

Alderman Staff reported that there was considerable rowdyism going on whenever there was a dance held at the Finnish Temperance hall and asked the city to take steps to abate the nuisance. He said that at the Saturday night dances, especially, there would congregate a lot of hoodlums upon the stairway leading to the dance hall and make insulting remarks about the ladies going in and out. The city clerk was instructed to ask the police and fire commission to place an officer at the hall whenever there was a dance in force.

The report of the police department showed total receipts of only $187.42 for the same month, and is said to be one of the smallest months ever known here.

WOMAN LIVED TO BE ALMOST 100

Mrs. John Samson, Aged 98 Years 4 Months, Is Called at Mitchell.

Mitchell, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the oldest women of the Northwest, Mrs. John Samson, aged 98 years and 4 months, died at her home here Monday. Mrs. Samson was born in Bath, Eng., almost a century ago. Her father was Capt. John Byron, a salt water captain of the old days when sailing ships were used, and he lost his life at sea, going down with his ship and never being heard of again, while his daughter, whose maiden name was Louise Byron, was still a small a child. Shortly after this her mother came out to Montreal, Can., in one of the early sailing ships and brought Mrs. Samson, who was then only a very little girl. Her mother only lived a few months and died in the Canadian city, leaving her child to the care of total strangers.

Mother of Twelve Children.

She was, however, well taken care of by friends and educated, and afterwards married John Samson, and became the mother of twelve children, three of whom are still living, the eldest being John Samson of Mitchell, with whom she has spent the last years of her life. Mr. Samson has been in the employ of the Missabe railroad for the past eleven years, and is 65 years old, married and has one daughter, Miss Mamie Samson. Both are well known and greatly respected here. The other two living children of old Mrs. Samson are Mrs. Louise Due of Williston, N. D., and Edward Samson of Ludington, Mich. The funeral took place yesterday and Mr. Samson left for Ludington with the body.

Hibbing, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—An unfortunate old Swede by the name of Al Breider, who has been seen hanging around the back doors of several houses here and eating refuse left around, was sent to the county jail for ten days for vagrancy yesterday. The man, who is 61 and practically past work, admits that he sleeps in barrooms where the men are too kind hearted to throw him out. He has been seen eating from garbage cans and said he was starving when found.

One of the old lumberjacks of this district was buried at the cemetery yesterday afternoon after passing away at the hospital from the effects of acute alcoholism.

Mrs. Lin Arneson of Chisholm was a Hibbing visitor yesterday.

Mrs. Nelson of Chisholm was in the city yesterday.

Mrs. G. R. Fisher of Mitchell is spending a few days with friends in Hibbing. Mrs. Fisher will return on Friday.

Miss Louise Schoen of Chisholm was in the city yesterday.

post has been denied privileges in regard to the use of the hall.

The petition states that many difficulties and embarassments are experienced; that the members are denied rights which they think are reasonable; and it gives instances of alleged unfair treatment.

"It is claimed that Culver post has a large library but that because the shelving was not sufficient, the books were returned to the public library where they were formerly kept. The custodian is said to have stated that by this act the the post forfeited all rights to the use of the shelves.

Some time ago Culver post wished to install in Memorial hall the "Record of the Rebellion." The custodian refused to allow the books on the shelves, it is claimed.

The petition claims that they are denied the right to hang flags and other relics of the war on the walls of the hall. Their charter, they claim, they have always had on the wall of their meeting place. It was refused a place on the wall of Memorial hall. Pictures of deceased comrades have been refused. The post claims that at their meeting place they have always honored J. B. Culver, after whom the post was named, and who was the first mayor of Duluth, by having his picture on the wall. The custodian refused to allow pictures of either him or Rev. C. C. Salter to be hung. The claim is made that the custodian refused to allow anything unless the ownership was transferred to St. Louis county.

The petition states that the pictures and relics might as well be consigned to the rubbish heap or planted away in an attic or the unused room for all the good they do the members at the present time.

The claim is made that it cost a good sum of money to gather them together and that since they have been obtained, they should be given a chance to have them at their meeting place. It states also that it was patriotic inspiration to them to have the articles where they could be seen, and that they brought back fond memories of the old war days and the companionship of men who had long since gone to their reward.

It is stated that the network of red tape defeats every purpose for which the hall was intended and the petition ends by asking permission to decorate the walls with the pictures, flags and relics and that space be allotted to them for their records.

"To us the archives are sacred," reads the petition.

It is understood that Custodian Daily believing that if one organization was given the right to hang pictures, all the others would want the same right and that in the end there would not be room enough, refused Culver post on this ground. Custodian Daily belongs to Gorman post. He ruled that nothing should go on the walls but the American flag.

The room is used by the Women's Relief corps, Culver post, Gorman post and the Spanish War Veterans. He evidently believed that there would not be room enough for all.

The committee will report at the next meeting.

eign affairs. He has long been recognized as an advisor in whom President Diaz placed much reliance. Senor De la Barra, the Mexican ambassador, will confer with Senor Limantour in New York today. The purpose of the conference has led to much speculation and it is believed that the political turbulence in Mexico, especially Senor Limantour's plans for restoring the republic to civil as well as political tranquility, will be discussed.

Senor de la Barra had intended to go to New York last night but changed his plans and left at 9 o'clock today. Before leaving here he declared that the mobilization of troops by the United States along the Mexican border is not interpreted by his country as the forerunner of intervention. He declared Mexico well able to cope with its local disorders.

Many Stores Taken.

Early today three batteries of field artillery left Fort Myer, Va., for San Antonio, Tex. Officers at the fort admitted that the store of provisions and ammunition taken along was larger than that carried on former maneuvers.

The Mexican embassy today issued a statement branding as preposterous reports current that the Mexican government was looking to the United States for aid in regulating its internal affairs. The statement follows:

"The insensate rumor that Mexico had asked or was going to ask American intervention to settle its own internal affairs is ridiculous. The republic has the means and the power and is supported by public opinion to enable it to suppress the insurrection. This embassy affirms catagorically that Blatt and Converse were taken prisoners on Mexican territory and not on American soil as falsely has been represented by the press."

The two prisoners referred to in the statement are both Americans who joined the insurrectos operating along the Rio Grande. They were captured by Mexican federal troops and are now in prison. It has been stated that both men were taken after they crossed the boundary into the United States.

Will Not Lay Down Arms.

Dr. Francisco Vasquez Gomez, confidential agent here for the Mexican revolutionary party today made reply to Jose Ives Limantour, who gave out an interview in New York yesterday on his arrival from France. Dr. Gomez declares the minister of finance to be a part of the "system" of the Diaz government and as such his suggestions in reference to a cessation of hostilities are of little value. The revolutionists, Dr. Gomez said, will not lay down their arms until the Diaz regime is overthrown.

"In regard to damages suffered by foreign interests," says Dr. Gomez in his statement, "the revolutionary party desires it to be distinctly understood that when it shall have assumed control of the federal government it will hold itself strictly responsible in accordance with the requirements of international law, for full compensation for all such damages."

Chicken Pot Pie

The Chef's Favorite

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine

Some folks think that only "colored mammies" can cook chicken, but a trial of this famous chicken pot pie disproves that assertion. Every member of the family will thoroughly enjoy it.

K C Chicken Pot Pie, Baked Dumplings

One fowl cut in joints; ¼ cup flour; ½ teaspoonful salt; black pepper; 2 cups flour; 3 level teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; ½ teaspoonful salt; ¼ cup shortening; milk or cream.

Cover the fowl with boiling water and let simmer until tender, then remove to a baking dish. Mix the ¼ cup flour, salt and black pepper with cold water to a smooth paste and use to thicken the broth. Remove the fat from the top of the broth if necessary before adding the thickening. Pour this gravy over the fowl, until it is nearly covered, and reserve the rest to serve apart. Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt, three times; into this work the shortening and use cream or milk to make a dough, less stiff than for biscuits. Put this by spoonfuls over the fowl in the dish, which it should rest upon and completely cover. Let bake about 35 minutes.

When young, tender chickens are scarce, this presents a most satisfactory way of serving old fowls. Veal or lamb prepared in this manner is more appetizing than when served as a stew. Try this and the 89 other delicious recipes in the K C Cook's Book, a copy of which may be secured free by sending the colored certificate packed in the 25-cent can of K C Baking Powder to the JAQUES MFG. S.S.S. CURES RHEUMATISM

More than forty years ago we said in our advertisements "S. S. S. Will Cure Rheumatism." We believed this because we knew Rheumatism to be a blood disease, and the ingredients and composition of S. S. S. we knew made it an unequalled blood purifier. This claim was a theory based on honest endeavor and belief. Today we say "S. S. S. Will Cure Rheumatism," and the statement is based on fact—on results accomplished; borne out by the unsought testimonials of thousands of persons who have cured themselves with this great remedy. What S. S. S. has done for so many others it will do for you, and we confidently recommend it to every Rheumatic sufferer who may read this article.

Rheumatism is caused by an excess of uric acid in the blood, and while it is a disease which may be inherited, the great majority of cases are acquired as the result of irregularities of the system. The principal causes of the disease are constipation, weak kidneys, and indigestion, or improper assimilation of food. These internal disturbances of the system prevent the proper removal of the bodily waste and refuse matter, which souring in the intestines forms a urate salt which passes into the blood. The fermented acid destroys a portion of the healthful properties of the circulation, and changes the blood from a rich, nourishing stream to a thin, acrid fluid which deposits its sharp, uratic impurities into the joints, muscles and nerves, causing the pain and soreness of tendons and flesh which always comes with Rheumatism.

The danger of Rheumatism is in temporizing in the treatment, or in failing to realize the powerful nature of the trouble. If the blood is allowed to remain infected with the uric acid, Rheumatism soon becomes chronic, and then if not checked it sometimes makes complete physical wrecks of its victims by permanently stiffening the joints and seriously interfering with the bodily nerve force.

An important thing to remember in the treatment of Rheumatism is, that while external applications will often relieve the acute pain of the trouble, such treatment cannot reach the blood. These measures should never be depended on alone to produce permanent good results. YOU CANNOT GET RID OF RHEUMATISM UNTIL YOU PURIFY YOUR BLOOD.

S. S. S. goes into the blood and attacks the disease at its head, and by removing every particle of the uratic matter, and building up the blood to a healthful condition, this medicine destroys the cause and cures Rheumatism permanently. When S. S. S. has cleansed the blood of the acrid impurity, enriched and strengthened the circulation, then the nerves are quieted, the muscles become elastic, the blood tissues are thickened and freshened, all pain disappears, and the feverish, inflamed flesh is made comfortable again. Nothing equals S. S. S. as a cure for Rheumatism, because nothing equals it as a blood purifier. We have a special book on Rheumatism which contains much valuable information to sufferers of this disease; we will be glad to send this book, together with any special medical advice asked for, free of charge. If you have Rheumatism do not waste time with unknown medicines, begin the use of S. S. S. and be cured sound and well. S. S. S. is for sale at all drug stores.

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

RHEUMATISM ALL GONE.

I had been afflicted with rheumatism for twenty years, sometimes being entirely laid up by it and always lame in some part of the body. It grew worse until it was misery to attempt to walk at all; my right knee was nearly twice its natural size. A friend advised me to take S. S. S., which I commenced. I had tried so many things that I must say I had very little faith that it would do me any good, but was willing to try anything that promised relief. Before I had been using it long I was greatly relieved, and continuing the medicine I soon found that I was entirely cured. The lameness and soreness all left. I can straighten, move or bend my leg as well as any one, and I have never known what rheumatism was since. I am 65 years old and feel deeply grateful to S. S. S.

MONEY FOR NEW GROUNDS

Stock Company Will Take Over Craig Property on London Road.

Will Be Leased to Curling Club and New Rink Erected.

Subscriptions are coming in rapidly to the secretary of the Duluth Curling club, for the new curling rink site.

The money is to be used for the purchase of the Craig property, at Fourteenth avenue east and London road, the site selected some time ago as the most practical for the new club building, which is to be erected before next curling season, if possible. The ground will cost $33,000 and every effort will be made to raise the amount required for the first payment.

The land will be temporarily held in Stephen H. Jones' name and it is likely that a stock company, which will really be the members of the curling club, will be formed. While there will be two separate organizations, they will be practically one.

The plan is for the present to take subscriptions and later issue stock to the amount that each man has subscribed. The money does not have to be paid at once under the present plan, there being a number of dates set on which to pay the remainder of the subscription after the first payment has been made.

The stock company will buy the land. Then the grounds will be leased to the curling club at so much per annum. At the rate now being considered, the investment would pay 5 per cent the first year. The curling club would erect the building, maintain it and pay an annual rental to the Duluth Curling association. Those who buy stock would simply be investing their money in Duluth property and the matter would be nothing more or less than a real estate investment.

At the present time the scheme is very well thought of by those who have been approached on the matter, and some fairly large subscriptions have been promised. It seems to be about the only way the club can get a new home and the members of the club are digging in with a will and everybody is pushing for the new rink.

With a larger rink and more curling and more curling ices, it is planned to increase the membership of the club. It is planed to keep the rink as a private institution, however.

There would be "open" nights. On these nights a band would play for the skaters and everybody would be welcome to enjoy the privileges of the rink. There would be hockey nights, a team would be maintained and games arranged with the fastest of the out-of-town aggregations.

Those most interested in the new rink are enthusiastic and believe that it would be a paying institution from the start.

WOLGAST BEST, THINKS REID

Chicago Sporting Man Says Champion Will Beat "Knockout" Brown.

"Doc" Reid of Chicago is in the city today. Monday the genial "doc" met and talked with Ad Wolgast, the little lightweight champion of the world. Wolgast told Doc his opinion of Brown, the boy who has gained two made-in-the-East decisions over the champion.

"Wolgast says Brown is a good, tough boy," said Reid today, "but the champion holds the opinion that he can beat Brown in a long fight. In Chicago the majority of sporting men also hold to this view. I think Wolgast is today one of the greatest long distance fighters in the world and will beat Brown if they ever meet in a fight that goes twenty rounds or over.

"Wolgast has a bad right arm, which was hurt in the last fight with Brown. The arm bothered him some in the fight and Ad is not sure that it is very strong as yet. Wolgast will fight George Memsic in Los Angeles March 17, and I believe Ad will win. It will take one of the best fighters this country has ever produced to beat this boy."

BOUT PREVENTED BY INJUNCTION

Spectators Disappointed and Cashier Disappears With Gate Receipts.

Denver, Colo., March 8.—With more than 1,000 spectators waiting and the principals ready to go into the ring, the ten-round bout between Jack (Twin) Sullivan of Boston and Jack O'Keefe of Denver was abruptly stopped by Sheriff Armstrong of Denver county, who served an injunction on the principals and officials, issued by District Judge Bliss at the request of the Christian Citizenship union of Denver.

Sheriff Armstrong also announced that he would arrest anyone who attempted to conduct the fight.

While the sheriff was parleying with the managers of the bout, the cashier, who had the gate receipts, disappeared. When the patrons demanded their money back it was explained that the money had been taken to Denver for safe keeping.

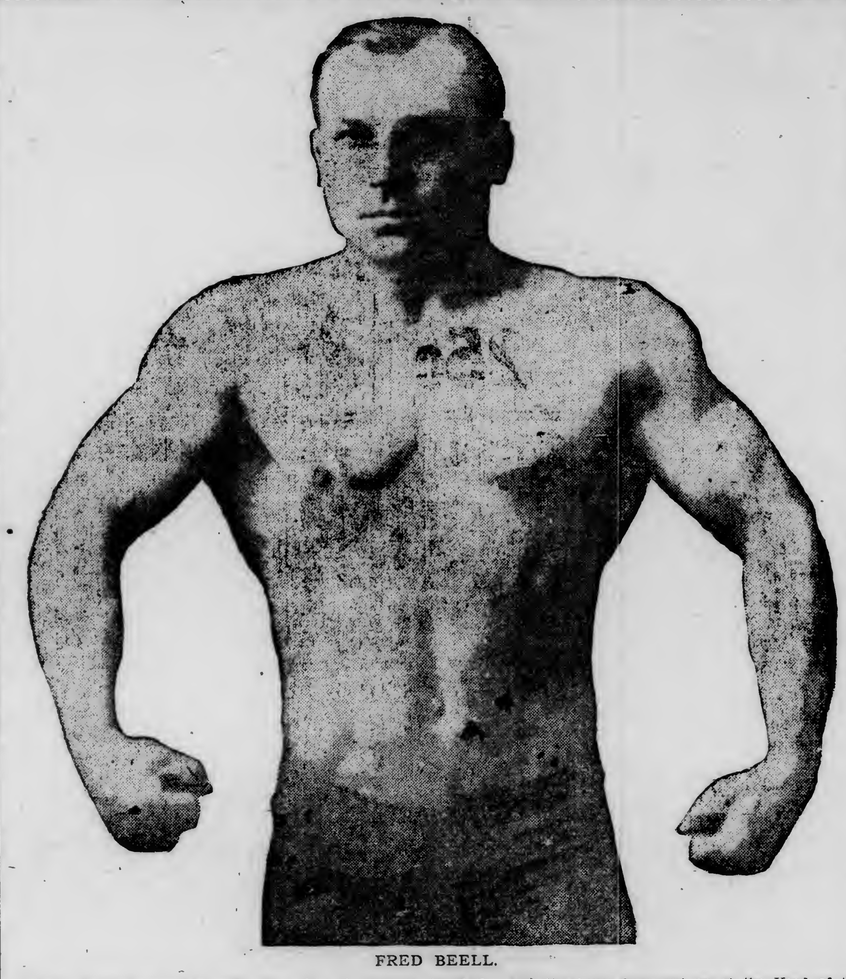
FINISH MATCH BETWEEN GOTCH AND BEELL WILL CLOSE WRESTLING SEASON



FRED BEELL.

Duluth, Saturday evening, will witness the last wrestling match of the season.

Frank A. Gotch, world's champion wrestler, and Fred Beell, considered by many experts of the game to be the American wrestler ranking next to Gotch, will wrestle a finish match, best two in three falls.

Fred's little vacation down on the farm at Marshfield, Wis., has done him a world of good, according to the reports of his work. He wrestled Kid Cutler a handicap match in Chicago the other evening, and according to the account of the match, Beell carried the battle to his opponent at every stage of the match.

Beell has long been a great favorite in this city. He is today the fastest man who ever stepped on a mat, and in addition to his speed possesses wonderful strength and a wide knowledge of every angle of the grappling game.

Gotch left for Winnipeg last evening. The big fellow has cancelled dates at Fargo and Grand Forks to be back here Saturday evening. This will be the last match he will wrestle in this part of the country this season. It will also be the last wrestling match held at the Lyceum the present season.

In addition to the return of the pictures of the Gotch-Hackenschmidt match, there will be a match between Jim Asbel of Kansas City, one of the best heavyweight wrestlers in the country, the same man who defeated Kohler, the German giant, and Yankee Rogers in Columbus recently, and Ole Sampson, the big fellow who has been doing some great grappling in these parts the present season.

This match would ordinarily be the headliner on a wrestling card and with the presence of the finish match between Gotch and Beell will make one of the best wrestling shows that has ever been put on at the Head of the Lakes.

With the coming of spring and the crowding of the winter sports off the stage, the wrestling season will come to an end during the present month in almost every city in the country. The match Saturday evening between Gotch and Beell will be the last contest held at the Lyceum the present season.

The season just past has been the most successful ever held in this city. The prohibiting of betting of any sort and the keeping of the matches clean in every way has been reflected in the increased attendance. The best men before the public have been brought here, and the fans have shown their appreciation of bouts conducted in an orderly manner.

After his match with Gotch, Beell has stated that he will seek a finish match with Dr. B. F. Roller, and he has tipped the information that he will prove the master of the big surgeon from Seattle.

OARSMEN ARE SITTING UP

Crew Candidates Are Getting Busy on Rowing Machines.

Ten Eyck Will Arrive May 1—Wants Some Scullers.

Oarsmen are beginning to sit up and take some notice of the advancing spring-like weather. The exercise room of the Y. M. C. A. has in the past ten days, been the scene of much athletic activity and from the early interest shown on the part of the oarsmen there will be a lot of enthusiasm over rowing the coming season.

Wallace Quimby, one of the best men in the eight last season, has been on the machines the past week, and Eddie Walker, one of the greatest oarsman ever produced by the Duluth Boat club, has been seen working out on the rowing machines once or twice of late.

Henry Talboys is keeping in shape by an occasional workout, while Louis Thompson, one of the real stars of last season, and Lathrop and Slack have been playing basket ball all winter.

"S." Forgette has given it out that he will row the present season, while a letter received from "Bill" Crawford, the past week, contained the information that the long boy would go out for the freshman crew at the University of Pennsylvania, and will be here probably some time in June.

Roy Kent will be back and should make one of the very best oarsmen at the club. Vince O'Donnell may be forced out of the bantam boat because of increasing weight, and in that event would probably become a candidate for the eight.

It is stated that Joe Horack and Eddie Mapp will row doubles the coming season. These boys have practiced the doubles several seasons and should make a formidable pair.

Coach Ten Eyck has written to John MacGregor and stated that he wants some scullers the present season. It is very probable that Si Forgette will go out for some sculling and it is also hoped to have a crack four out this year.

The rowing committee will hold a meeting in the near future and some plans will be made for arousing interest and getting some new candidates out for the crews. It is realized that some new candidates are badly needed, and this will be one of the objects of the club officials.

Definite announcement has been received from Ten Eyck the present week, stating that he will be here the first of May.

Nap Twirlers Cut Loose.

Alexandria, La., March 8.—The Nap twirlers removed the wraps from their salary wings and began burning the ball over. West, Fanwell and Williams placed the most speed behind their shoots. Kaler, Blanding and Mitchell also cut loose and showed they were in perfect condition. Vean Gregg, the youngster whom McGuire wanted to nurse along, is showing the best form of any. The second squad is expected tonight.

White Sox Get Good Workout.

Mineral Wells, Tex., March 8.—Manager Hugh Duffy sent his horde of ball tossers through two hard practice sessions yesterday. The veterans worked out in the enclosed park, while the youngsters got busy on the prairie. When the practice was discontinued each man wore a coat of tan.

Light Work for Champs.

Hot Springs, Va., March 8.—With the weather warmer and Old Sol out in all his glory, the Athletics took a light workout this afternoon. After an hour of fungo batting, the players followed Danny Murphy in a cross country run over the mountains, in which the veteran made more than one quit.

The Athletic youngsters, under Manager Mack, will leave Philadelphia this afternoon for Savannah, Ga. The party consists of Barker, McInnes, Strunk, Houser, Earl Mack, O'Neill, Leary, Collamore, Werder, Hessler and Barker.

Griffith Drives His Charges.

Sot Springs, Ark., March 8.—The Reds enjoyed their best practice of the season here yesterday. Schreiber, Moren and Dougherty cut the corners of the plate with all kinds of speed. Clark and Severoid did the catching. The latter will probably be carried as the Reds' third catcher this season. Fred Beck, the former Boston outfielder, and Art Fromme enjoyed themselves clouting the ball over the fence. Manager Griffith expects his belated players the early part of next week.

Club Officials Meet.

A meeting of the Duluth Boat club officials was held yesterday afternoon to arrange some details of the tennis tournament which will be held at the club courts the coming summer.

Another meeting between President Barnes and some of the officials of the other departments of the club is scheduled for this afternoon, when some important matters in relation to the water events of the coming season may be taken up.

CENTRALS AND AITKIN WILL PLAY SATURDAY.

Saturday evening Central high school basket ball quint will meet the Aitkin team, which is in the running for the state championship. Aitkin followers believe their team has a claim to the disputed state title, which is also claimed by several other teams.

The game will be played in the high school gymnasium and should be one of the best contests played here the present season. Central has been practicing steadily the present week and the team is in very good shape.

Hibbing has also put in its claim for consideration in the scramble for state honors and a return game may be arranged between the Hibbing quint and Central, the game to be played in this city. Central boys are of the opinion that they can defeat the range team in a return game.

YACHT CLUB ELECTS.

Green Bay, Wis., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The following officers of the Green Bay Yacht club have been elected: Commodore, R. B. Power; secretary-treasurer, Chauncey Roebuck; vice commodore, Frank E. Teetshorn; fleet captain, Edward S. Deuster; fleet surgeon, T. J. Reach's Guide Is Out.

Reach's baseball guide, the first welcome visitor of the season, is at hand. The Reach guide is unusually attractive this season, containing pictures of both the Philadelphia champions and the defeated Chicago team, both individually and collectively, and is also well supplied with pictures of the minor teams of the country.

John Elliott, former president of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league, contributes a short account of last year's race in the Minny.

Hockey Game Postponed.

According to weather conditions today there will be no hockey contest this evening between the Big Duluths and Kodahpas. The game is in the semi-finals of the city championship, the winner to meet the Adams for the league pennant.

The officials of the league hope to be able to play off the game some time the present week, the deciding and final contest coming along about the first of next week.

COMMENTS AND OPINIONS ON THE SPORTING PARADE

Baseball Prospects in the Minny League — Frank Gotch for Governor of Iowa—The Curling Club's New Home—Down With the Betting Syndicate.

WITH the coming of spring and baseball, for the two are synonomous and both welcome, it might be stated that there is a growing interest in just what will transpire at the meeting of the Minny magnates. Are Winnipeg and Brandon coming into the league? Will all of the present towns remain in the league?

Long and earnestly have the true fans at the Head of the Lakes hoped that Duluth would break into faster baseball company. That wish will never be granted just so long as Duluth is coupled in the baseball sense with towns of the size of Red Wing, Eau Claire, Rochester and Wausau.

It might be mentioned that these towns have had to petition the fans to contribute to the support of their teams, as the class of baseball, from a financial point of view, has been too fast for the size of the towns. These towns have in the past been forced to reduce salaries and up here we have been howling these past few years for faster baseball, which means more salaries.

That is one of the reasons why the fans have hoped that a city of the size of Winnipeg might be added to the league. It would help in the question of salary and in the end it would mean that faster baseball would be played in the league.

It is stated from several sources that none of the towns in the southern part of the state desire to dispose of their franchises, and in the event of there being no chance for the Canadian cousins to come in, it may be the same old league.

It is said that President Frank E. Force will insist during the present season that all of the managers live up to the salary agreement, and in this case it will make baseball easier for the smaller towns and will also give the little towns a better chance for the pennant, as in the past the larger towns have gone out for the higher priced players when it was seen that they were not coming along fast enough.

Spring is dropping gently upon us. From all sides we are hearing of the teams in their preliminary training. The germ baseballitis is in the air and it will be with interest that the fans over the section of the state will watch the proceedings at Rochester, which are due to come off March 14.

Gotch for Governor, Says Emil.

EMIL KLANK, the big and genial manager for Frank Gotch, was in a very reminiscent mood yesterday afternoon at the Spalding hotel. This big fellow, back in the past days, one of the best wrestlers in the West, has been with Gotch since before the Iowan was the world's champion, and he thinks there is no one in the world like the man who put Humboldt, Iowa, on the sporting map.

"Mark my words," began Klank, "Frank Gotch is likely to be governor of Iowa some day. He is one of the brightest and most level-headed men I have ever met, and I have been running up against men in all walks of life since I began traveling around the country.

"Down in Iowa they are crazy about Gotch. The farmers of that state will stand by Frank until the last dog is hung, and the boys that are growing into young manhood think Frank is the very best fellow in the world.

"Gotch has always been strong for his native state. Senator Cummins is a pretty strong Iowan, but he has nothing on Gotch. In the early days of his first triumphs, Frank used to wire the boys back in Humboldt every time he won a match. Gradually his circle of admirers grew until the matches he has been engaged in during the past years have interested almost every man, woman and child in the whole state.

"Frank could have been elected sheriff of his county, but he believed that he would be away too much of the time to attend to the office. There has been more or less serious talk of sending him to congress, and you just mark what I have told you and watch the career of Frank A. Gotch after he leaves the mat."

Hurrah for the New Clubhouse!

WHILE it has been proven by experiment that it is rather foolish to place the cart before old Dobbin, it might not be amiss at this time to say a few words in regard to the plans for the new clubhouse and curling rink.

The ground has not been paid for at the present time, and until it is there will not be very much talk in regard to the construction of the curling house. However, let it be understood at the present time that the members of the Curling club are about the livest boys in town, and when they start out to acquire a site and build a clubhouse and rink that will make the curlers of the Northwest sit up and take notice, you may believe they will accomplish what they set out to do.

During the curling season that is drawing to a close the greatest amount of interest has been taken in the game. There have been many new members added to the club and some of these members have shown surprising ability.

Interest in curling is destined to increase in the future, and the erection of a clubhouse such as has been planned can only mean that Duluth is going to steal some of the thunder of Winnipeg, which is at the present time known as the greatest curling center on the North American continent.

The right men are at the head of the club, and their spirit and push and energy will result, if many are not mistaken, in giving the city in the not far distant future, perhaps the finest curling house in this country.

Kill the Baseball Betting.

RIGHT here is where we get the hammer out of its cobweb place on the shelf and proceed with energetic action to swing it against the commission that has been formed to make a gambling subject of baseball.

Many years ago the gambers attempted to corrupt both the game and the players. Several of the stars of the game were approached and one player was tempted and fell. The stern and prompt action in expelling this player for life, despite the pathetic appeal of his wife that the father of her children be allowed to earn a living for his family, saved the game at this time from the evil association of the gamblers.

Now a bunch of men down Kentucky way, where they would gamble on anything from a game of marbles to a lynching bee, have formed an association to promote universal betting on the baseball games played in the various leagues.

Betting, if allowed to thrive at the expense of the great national game, will sooner or later injure it. It has been found in the case of every sport where betting is openly allowed that sooner or later the honesty of the sport will be questioned by the public.

Once upon a time we had the best running horses in the country at the track down at Hamline, the state fair grounds. The Twin City Jockey club built one of the finest clubhouses in the country and the sport was apparently on a thriving basis.

Betting got so strong that the gamblers began to double cross each other. The men in the inner circle sometimes awoke to the dull and sickening sensation of knowing that there was no such thing as wisdom or an inner circle in the face of the conspirators.

The gamblers got to fighting among themselves and the result was that running races worthy of the name have been shut out of the state ever since. They have tried to revive the sport, but the memory of the ring of gamblers has been a stench in the nostrils of those in the least acquainted with things the way they were run at the old Hamline track.

Fakes in fighting and wrestling have been caused only when the interests of the gamblers were strong enough to have the participants throw down the public and their personal friends. Wise promoters over the country have found that it pays to cut out the gambling in all athletic games.

Baseball is our great national sport, the greatest game that is played. It is a sport that enjoys to the full the confidence of the public. A strong and determined fight should be made by all those interested, for once let the gambling evil get a hold on the game and its very life is threatened.

TEACHERS IN FAIR WAY TO GET SALARY INCREASES

President Magner of Board Says Their Requests Are Reasonable.

Economy in Buildings and Supplies Will Be the Aim.

"I have no objection to the Congdon bill limiting the total tax levy to 12 mills if we can have a little more elasticity in the general fund so that teachers' salaries may be increased. Our expensive building of the past few years was necessary, but now it be done and paid for. The levy for the building fund will be very low for the next few years and I do not believe the total levy would run over 12 mills, even if the restriction were not imposed. I would like to have the limit of the general fund extended from 8 mills, however, so that if increased valuations would not produce a sufficient amount to meet increased maintenance expenses, we could use as much of the 12 mills as we considered necessary for the general fund."
—President W. E. Magner of the board of education.

The Duluth teachers are in a fair way to obtain the higher salaries which they say they should have to live properly and save a little money while employed in the Duluth schools.

The members of the board of education are with them, and will give relief if the funds can be obtained. The weight of public sentiment is with them, and few taxpayers will have any objections when it is understood that the increases can be granted without any increase being made in the total tax levy for school purposes. In fact, most of the members of the board now believe that the restriction of the total levy to 12 mills, as proposed by the Congdon bill, would not cramp them financially, if they could be allowed to spend the amount produced by a levy of 12 mills as they saw fit.

The situation is this. Under existing laws the tax levy of the school district is limited to 8 mills for the general fund from which teachers' salaries come; 8 mills for the building fund, and there is no limit on the sinking and interest fund.

For several years past the board has been called upon to do a great amount of building to keep up with the growth of the city. The policy of building modern structures and providing modern equipment has been followed. In consequence, the levy for the building fund has been unusually high, and the demands on the general fund have been increased by the additional teachers and other employes required for the new schools and the increased cost of maintenance.

Now the expensive building has been done and most of it has been paid for by taxation. The board members believe that with the increased valuation which may be reasonably expected with increased growth, the school system can be extended to meet the growth by a very small levy yearly. Most of the members believe that in any event the total levy would not run over 12 mills for some years.

The general fund limit offers the obstacle to increasing teachers' salaries. If, in restricting the total levy to 12 mills, the Congdon bill should also remove the limit from the general fund, so that the board might use its discretion in apportioning the amount that could be produced under that limit, the way would be clear. Even under those circumstances the levy might be kept under the 12-mill limit.

Teachers Bear Burden.

"I do not believe the teachers should bear the full weight of retrenchment measures," said President Magner of the board of education this morning. "The efficiency of the teaching staff determines the efficiency of the school system. If we lose our efficient teachers by the failure to pay adequate salaries, we lower the standard of efficiency of our schools, and that is not to be desired. Those teachers whose homes and interests are in Duluth must be considered also, and it is manifestly unfair to underpay them, even if they are willing to accept the salaries we offer rather than seek employment in cities where better salaries are paid. We can see our way clear to retrench in building and in supplies, but the policy should not be carried to the teachers. The efficiency of the system should be maintained, and the first consideration in maintaining it is to obtain and retain an efficient teaching corps."

The meeting of the Duluth Teachers' association yesterday afternoon at the high school was an enthusiastic one. Every teacher in the Duluth schools is behind the movement for increased salaries for grade teachers. Experiences were given by different teachers, and the sentiment of the meeting was that teachers are not being paid salaries commensurate with their training and ability, and adequate to enable them to live comfortably through the twelve months of the year.

What Teachers Want.

The teachers want:
An increase in the minimum salary.
An increase in the maximum salary.
Greater increases after each year's service.

The minimum salary, which is paid to an inexperienced teacher, is $500 a year. The maximum salary for seventh and eighth grade teachers is $800 a year, and for teachers under the seventh grade $750 a year. Increases are made each year of $25 or $50, the $50 increases being given in exceptional cases.

In Minneapolis, Seattle and some other cities which have drawn heavily on Duluth for efficient teachers, the maximum salary for grade teachers runs from $1,000 to $1,200 a year, and increases are made at the rate of $100 yearly.

The teachers say there is room for great improvement in the Duluth system—that there is, in fact, necessity for improvement if efficient teachers are to remain in the Duluth schools.

The standard of efficiency of Duluth teachers is high. Many of the best teachers have their homes in Duluth. Others do not want to teach elsewhere and have accepted the salaries paid here because they like the city. But each year there are many desertions from the ranks and other cities, in which higher salaries are paid, gain efficient teachers who have been trained in Duluth.

The movement started by the teachers bids fair to get results. The teachers have started out determinedly and they have the sympathy of the members of the board. If financial obstacles can be removed—or, rather, if the bookkeeping restrictions which limit the general fund can be removed—teachers' salaries will be increased to more nearly an adequate level.

A committee, consisting of Miss Edith Scoville, chairman; Miss Frances Malthauer, Miss Elizabeth Field, Miss Luella Dace and Miss Gertrude Brown, was appointed to place the teachers' request before the members of the board of education.

sion of the United States generally at the present moment.

Dealings in American securities today indicated that the stock exchange did not consider that the general security of the country was seriously threatened. Mexican bonds remained unchanged, as did Southern Railway shares. Mexican Railway securities ordinary fell 2½ points, first preferred 1¾, and second preferred 1¾. These always have been of a speculative character. Mexican National Railway shares, which dropped several points recently, fell off ¾ today.

Covarrubias Interested.

Miguel Covarrubias, Mexican minister to Great Britain, was more interested than any other man in this city, apparently, in the news of the American mobilization. He was also exceedingly annoyed over the reports that foreign intervention in Mexico was possible. Such an outcome would be wholly unnecessary he said.

"All Mexico is absolutely tranquil," declared Senor Covarrubias today, "except for a number of marauding bands which are making raids in the extreme North among inaccessible mountains, and these the government is holding in check.

"Any steps taken by the United States to patrol their own frontier will be welcomed as preventing insurrectionary movements from the United States across the border. This can be the only object that the government, which is perfectly aware that the most of these movements originated in the United States where Madero still carries on his propaganda.

"There cannot be more than a half dozen British subjects in the region where the bandits are operating.

"There are many Americans there but the authorities on the spot are able to take care of all foreigners. As a matter of fact, the revolutionary leaders in the United States are themselves most anxious that no foreign interests shall be endangered."

Weetman Harold Miller Pearson, M. P., head of the contracting firm of S. Pearson & Sons, Ltd., which is the British concern having the greatest interests involved in the situation in Mexico, asserted today that he did not regard conditions there as in any way alarming. He said:

"We are constantly in receipt of cables from Mexico, which suggest that the disturbances are merely brigandage. We have not heard directly from the affected area but hear constantly from Mexico City, where all the news would be received at once."

RETICENCE OF GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS CAUSE RUMORS

rie. The men, with their accoutrements and supplies, are reaching the Pennsylvania post in perfect order and smoothness.

The four armored cruisers of the Fifth division, under Rear Admiral Staunton, are being supplied with their full complement of bluejackets. There were some vacancies in the personnel of the division when the orders were issued to the vessels forty-eight hours ago. These are being filled promptly from the enlisted force of the navy and the complements of the ships will be complete before the ships sail, which probably will be in a few days.

MOVING FROM NEW YORK.

Marines, Transports and Range Ship Already on Way South.

New York, March 8.—All branches of the military and naval service in New York and vicinity today gave ample evidence that there would be speedy compliance with the mobilization orders which reached them so unexpectedly yesterday.

First to respond with an actual movement, a force of 200 marines, was assembled at an early hour in the marine barracks at the Brooklyn navy yard ready for transfer to Jersey City and entrainment for Philadelphia where they will join the force of marines en route for Guantanamo, Cuba. The transport Dixie, now at the navy yard, had steam up ready for a speedy start for League Island, where it is expected she will be utilized for the conveyance of part of the marine detachment to Southern waters.

At the headquarters of the department of the East, on Governor's Island, from which department, 2,500 coast artillerymen will be utilized as infantry in the Texas operations, preparations are now at an advanced stage and orders for a start in the movement were expected at any time.

Down the bay, coal was still being piled at a great rate into the armored cruiser fleet, the Tennessee, Montana and the North Carolina, but it was hardly expected that they could complete the coaling operation in time to get away before some time tonight. Their coal supplies had run low during their recent cruises. Full supplies of ammunition and provisions are already on board.

The transport Dixie got away from the navy yard shortly before 9 o'clock and steamed down the bay for her destination.

First of the naval detachment to get away was the range ship Lebanon, which puts to sea early this forenoon. Other units of the fleet's division, which, besides the armored cruisers, are the supply ships Celtic and Culgoa, the hospital ship Solace, the repairship Panther and the naval tenders Patapsco, Patuxent and Yankton, were expected to get away at any time.

ADMIRAL FREMONT, SON OF "PATHFINDER," DEAD

JOHN CHARLES FREMONT.

Boston, March 8.—Rear Admiral John Charles Fremont, commandant of the Charleston navy yard, for thirty-six years active in the service of the United States navy and an expert on deep sea soundings, coast surveys and searchlights, fell dead of heart disease in his home at the navy yard last night. Admiral Fremont had been indisposed for two days, but had been able to attend to his duties and was chatting with his wife and two daughters when death overtook him.

Admiral Fremont was born in San Francisco, April 19, 1849, the son of Maj. Gen. A. C. Fremont, "The Pathfinder." He graduated from the United States naval academy in 1872 and in 1875 was appointed to the command of U. S. S. Pinta and assisted in the suppression of the riots in Baltimore in 1877.

During the Spanish war he commanded the torpedo boat Porter and at the conclusion of the war was made commandant of the navy yard at Cavite, P. I., where he remained until 1902. In 1906-7 he was naval attache at Paris and St. Petersburg and for two years was in command of the battleship Mississippi. He was appointed commandant of the Charlestown navy yard, Jan. 1, 1910.

ORDERED TO CUBA.

Believed, However, That Destination of Marines Will Be Changed.

Philadelphia, March 8.—Seven hundred marines fully equipped for any service will sail south from the Philadelphia navy yard late this afternoon on the transport Prairie and will be followed by a like number tomorrow on the transport Dixie.

The order from Washington ordering the marines to mobolize in this city gives the destination of the two transports as Guantanamo, Cuba, but many believe that these orders may be changed and that the marines may be landed at a Texas port and sent overland to the Mexican border to take part in the service practice soon to be inaugurated there.

If the marines go to Cuba they will arrive about the time the Atlantic fleet departs from Hampton roads for spring practice.

The marines who will sail on the Dixie tomorrow are arriving here today from Norfolk, Annapolis, New York and other marine centers along the Atlantic coast. Nearly all of the detachments carried by the Prairie will be from the Philadelphia navy yard.

EQUIPPED FOR WAR.

Tenth Infantry at Fort Benjamin Harrison Ready for Service.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 8.—With haversacks packed and equipped as if for war, the Tenth infantry, stationed at Fort Benjamin Harrison, is being delayed in its departure for Fort Sam Houston, Tex., by the failure to get sufficient railroad transportation. It is not expected to get the last section away from the fort until late today.

The Tenth, under Col. H. A. Greene, was ready to start last night but when it was learned that the start could not be made until today many soldiers were given "city leave" and came to Indianapolis to bid their friends goodby. While the order to move was received with general rejoicing, there was a tinge of sadness, for many believe that when the Tenth leaves there it will be for a long time, as the regiment is due for foreign service and may be sent away direct from Texas.

Ten days field rations have been issued to each company and three days "travel rations." Two hundred rounds of ammunition have been issued, which together with the other equipment will give each soldier about 100 pounds to carry.

The equipment of the Tenth consists of 138 horses and mules, three ambulances, 19 escort wagons and the machine guns of the Third battalion.

WAITING FOR CARS.

Four Railroads Get Contracts to Carry Fort Snelling Men.

St. Paul, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bids were opened and awarded to four railroads at the army building here today for the transportation of the Fort Snelling troops to San Antonio and El Paso, Tex., and all that remains is for the railroads to run the trains onto the siding at Fort Snelling.

Four troops of cavalry will go to El Paso. The squadron consists of 225 men and eight officers and with their horses will fill one train.

The infantry will require a train of three sections and will go to San Antonio.

From the moment when the order to travel came the entire garrison was ready to entrain, but the cars were not at hand, and they have not yet been furnished by the railroads.

Officers at headquarters here say they expect to have a train at the fort which will carry the cavalry some time today, but the hour when the cars will be there is not known.

They expect to entrain the infantry tomorrow. It will require three trains to carry this branch of the service.

In all there are 909 men, forty-three officers and 303 civilians, besides the horses.

Equipped in heavy marching order the men were given their final inspection late yesterday, after which there was a grand leave taking at the fort, relatives and friends coming out to say farewell. Today the garrison is merely waiting.

Limantour Shuts Up.

New York, March 8.—Jose Ives Limantour, Mexican minister of finance, who reached here last night from France where he negotiated a $50,000,000 Mexican bond sale, left his hotel this morning and went down town, where it was said he would confer with several bankers.

Senor Limantour, who was quite communicative last night, saying that Mexico needs no aid in keeping peace or protecting foreign interests within her borders, today sent word that he could not be seen nor would he have anything to say.

Senor de la Barra, the Mexican ambassador at Washington, is due here this afternoon and will join in conference with Senor Limantour on the Mexican situation.

Marines Leave Annapolis.

Baltimore, Md., March 8.—A body of marines numbering 137 men, in command of Lieut. B. B. Lee, left Annapolis this morning for Philadelphia, where they are under orders to board the transport Dixie for Cuba.

At Forts Howard and McHenry, the artillery posts comprising the Baltimore district, all is in readiness to dispatch troops to the South on short notice. One company from each fort has prepared for the service.

Ordered to Texas.

Boston, Mass., March 8.—Maj. Robert H. Rolfe, depot quartermaster for the United States army in New England, received orders today to proceed at once to Texas and report to Maj. Gen. Carter for service as chief quartermaster of one of the brigades in the field.

The cruiser Des Moines, which arrived a few days ago at the Boston navy yard under orders to go out of commission, was today directed by the navy department to sail for Southern waters on Friday next.

county, who was one of the authors of the bill, requested that his name be withdrawn from the bill, and he voted against the minority report.

Chairman Dunn of the tax committee said that the matter might as well be fought out at this time as adopting the minority report only meant that another fight would be necessary, thus unnecessarily taking up the time of the house.

Representative Spooner pointed out that the accumulation of business before the house and in committee made it necessary to save as much time as possible and said that the committee report ought to be adopted and the bill thus disposed of.

Representative Congdon said that there was no reason for postponing action on the bill. The printed copies of the bill have been on the desks of the members for a month, and every member knows as well now how he will vote as he will a month from now.

R. C. Dunn talked against the tonnage tax bill, saying that there was no public demand for it, and that the iron interests are paying a higher rate of taxes now than any other property except banks. A sharp conflict occurred between R. C. Dunn and the friends of the bill because of a circular printed on yellow paper advocating a tonnage tax, which had been distributed to the members, on the back of which was what purported to be an editorial from his paper favoring the tonnage tax bill. He said that the color of the pamphlet was in harmony with the yellow cause it represented, and charged that an editorial in his paper four years ago had been garbled so as to distort its purpose and make him say what he never said. He produced a copy of the paper in question, showing that the extract was made up of parts of sentences without showing any omissions.

After the vote was taken the house took a recess until this afternoon when the Keefe bill proposing the Oregon plan of electing senators is a special order.

The senate this morning made the reapportionment bill a special order for Thursday afternoon, March 16, which is the same afternoon the tonnage tax bill will be voted on in the house.

The state wide primary bills were made a special order in the senate for Monday afternoon, and the special order on the Dunn good roads bills was changed to this afternoon.

The senate passed the Fosseen cold storage bill, 48 to 4.

Senator C. D. Johnson of Brainerd introduced a bill this morning providing for the construction of a barge canal from Duluth to the Mississippi at Brainerd, in accordance with the findings of a commission appointed by the legislature two years ago, which has declared the project feasible. The bill sets apart 5 per cent of the gross earnings and other special taxes and a direct tax of a quarter of a mill for the purpose of building the canal.

Senator Froshaug introduced in the senate a bill proposing a Constitutional amendment providing for state wide prohibition.

Senator Moonan is the author of a new senate bill requiring publicity of campaign committees contributions and expenses, prohibiting contributions larger than $1,000, and requiring those who contribute more than $250 to file statements with the county auditor.

Senator Marden introduced a bill, giving the state board of health authority to prohibit public drinking cups after July 1.

The senate refused to allow Mary McFadden, representing the suffragists, to address it tomorrow morning. Senator G. H. Sullivan made the proposal, but Senator Wilson said that it would establish a bad precedent and the senate voted it down.

Iron Range representatives are here both for and against the county division bill, which will probably be withdrawn today.

STILLMAN H. BINGHAM.

THE FILTHY LODGING HOUSE TO BE WIPED OUT BY THE NEW ORDINANCE

and it made into law will work a revolution in the lodging houses of this city. The purpose of the ordinance is so clearly for the benefit of the public health that there is scarcely a doubt but that it will be promptly passed by the city fathers.

It is proposed to take effect Oct. 1 of this year.

Many Lodging Houses Filthy.

The lodging houses of Duluth have acquired a wide reputation for much that is not desirable. People of extensive experience in the shunning line state that many of them will rank with the worst in the larger Eastern cities. The records at the police station show that they have been the scene of countless robberies and crimes.

A trip through a few of them will sicken the observer who is untrained to strong smells and unnatural modes of living. The rooms will be found to be literally reeking with filth, with ten and twenty men crowded into one small hole without light or air. The bunks are stacked one on top of the other, jammed in from the floor to the ceiling. Vermin abounds. The occupants of the rooms frequently fill the places in which they are found. Even if they wanted to be cleanly it would be impossible in the quarters common to lodging houses on the Bowery and Lake avenue. There are no wash basins worthy of the name, sometimes no water and no toilets, and no plumbing so that they could be installed.

The ordinance prepared by the health department provides that all lodging houses shall be licensed, application to be made to the health commissioner with full description of the premises, and later turned over to the council. No license shall be issued until all the provisions of the ordinance have been complied with to the satisfaction of the health commissioner.

Sanitary Drinking Fountains.

The Duluth ordinance will differ from those of most other cities in that it requires a sanitary drinking fountain on each floor. This will do away with the much condemned drinking cup and will enable the lodgers to get a drink of fresh, pure water at will. In many places, if they can get any water, it is what they dip from a pail.

Under the ordinance the beds must all be of iron or metal construction, and so placed that the air can circulate under them freely. The bedding must be kept clean; the sheets and pillow cases must be changed frequently; every floor shall have at least one wash bowl and a bath with hot and cold water; the floors and passage ways must be in sound condition, and the walls and ceilings whitewashed at least twice a year. Every room and hallway must also be provided with a sufficient number of cuspidors.

The monthly inspection will insure the enforcement of the ordinance. All violations will be punished upon conviction by a fine of not more than $50, with alternative of sixty days imprisonment.

IN INTEREST OF SAFETY.

Supreme Court Hears Arguments Relating to Railroad Appliances.

Washington, March 8.—The nation-wide campaign for legislation to promote the safety of employes and travelers on interstate railroads became centralized today in the supreme court of the United States.

Safety appliance cases from Tennessee, Alabama, Nebraska and Colorado were before the court for oral argument. Each case involved the scope and some the constitutionality of the safety appliance acts of 1893, 1897 and 1903 to compel common carriers engaged in interstate commerce to equip their cars with such appliances as automatic couplers and continuous brakes and their locomotives with driving wheel brakes.

The paramount question in dispute is whether the duty imposed upon the common carrier by the acts is at all times absolute in character or whether the carrier is under an absolute duty only to install the appliances and a qualified duty to merely keep the appliances in repair.

TO ELECT BISHOP.

Kansas City, Mo., March 8.—Twenty Episcopal churchmen and seventy-five laymen are in convention here today for the purpose of electing a bishop of the diocese of Kansas City to succeed the late Bishop Edward R. Atwill.

Lead Wants Commission Form.

Lead, S. D., March 8.—This city is the latest in the state to take up the agitation for a commission form of government. The proposition to establish the commission plan was ordered to be voted on April 19 at the regular election. Lead is the third largest town in the state. Deadwood is expected to take the same action.

PLAYS ROLE OF 'BAD MAN'

West Duluth Shoemaker Is Claimed to Have Pointed Shot Gun.

Angered at Boy Who Threw Missile Through His Doorway.

When Michael Sasso, a shoemaker, at 513 Central avenue, tried to enact a few sketches of Wild West life with a double barrelled shotgun and the vocabulary of a pirate, yesterday afternoon, he was promptly taken in hand by the West Duluth police, who arrested him on a charge of creating a disturbance.

He was not held on this charge, however, and this afternoon he will be arraigned on a warrant sworn to by George P. Miller, a local contractor. Mr. Miller charges that Sasso leveled a gun at his head and threatened to kill him, when Miller passed his place yesterday afternoon.

The affair started, when Sasso became provoked over some prank of a small boy who passed his shop. It is said that the youngster threw something in the door at Sasso, who in resentment of the act, grabbed a shotgun and pursued the youthful miscreant.

The youth had the best of it in the race and when Sasso, it is claimed, aimed the gun at the boy, Mr. Miller who was passing, ordered him to put away the gun. It is charged that Sasso muttered a few choice oaths at Miller and then turned the gun on him.

Mr. Miller notified the police who arrested Sasso. The shotgun was not loaded when the police examined it, but when Sasso's clothes were searched a shell was found on his person.

WANT CROSSINGS CLEARED OF MUD

Many Protests Against Condition of Streets in the Eighth Ward.

West Duluth people are protesting against muddy street crossings.

They have complained to Alderman Barnes that the board of public works has not paid attention to the condition of the street crossings in the business district and that on Central, Grand and Sixty-third avenues and on Ramsey and Raleigh streets, it is practically impossible to cross the street without stepping up to the ankle in water and mud.

Alderman Barnes notified the board of public works this morning and he was given assurance that the matter would be attended to. A crew of men will be put on tomorrow to clean the various crossings of water, mud and slush.

THREW MUD AT WINDOWS.

Police Called to Branch Library to Quiet Juvenile Disturbance.

A complaint came into the police station last evening from the West Duluth public library that boys were plastering the windows of the place with mud and snow and otherwise raising a disturbance about the building. Policemen were sent to the scene, and while no arrests were made, the officers learned the identity of some of the young rowdies.

CLAY COURTS AT BRANCH

Tennis Will Be Played at Oatka Beach This Year.

State Tournament Will Be Held at the New Courts.

Two clay tennis courts will be constructed this season at the Oatka branch of the Duluth boat club. This decision was reached at a meeting held yesterday afternoon. The games of the state tennis tournament, which will be held here in July, will be played on the new courts, as clay courts are more suitable for the sport than the asphalt courts.

Julius H. Barnes, president of the club, at the meeting yesterday appointed C. E. DeWitt, Carroll Graff and C. K. Dickerman as a committee to go ahead with the plans and attend to the construction of the courts as rapidly as possible.

The courts will be ready at the opening of the present season, according to the plans formulated yesterday.

Curly Ulrich returned this morning from Wisconsin, where he won the popular decision from Young Flynn of Milwaukee, rated as some middleweight in Milwaukee fight circles. The fight went for ten rounds, though Curly says he held out for a longer bout.

Ulrich states that he carried the fighting to the Milwaukee boy at every stage of the game and was the aggressor throughout. The boys have been promised a return bout of twenty rounds in the near future.

COPPERS WEAKEN; TRADING LIGHT

Professionals Try to Force Liquidation, But Are Unsuccessful.

The copper market closed weak and lower today. The producers' report was bearish. The reduction in the New York Central's dividend did not have a bearish effect although indirectly it helped to cloud the atmosphere and the entire market sold up under pressure when the news became preponderately bearish.

The local market was a specialty affair. On receipt of news that the last three cars of gold ore shipped from the Keating averaged $96 a ton, the stock went from $2.75 to $3 where it stuck. Denn sold at $5.18¾, Savage at $1, Calumet & Corbin at 90 cents, Cliff at 95 cents, Cactus at 20 cents.

Amalgamated sold at $62.25, $61.37½, $62 and $61.75. Butte Coalition at $17.75, Calumet & Arizona at $51.50, Giroux at $6.12½ to $6.06¼, North Butte at $28.50, Superior & Pittsburg at $15, Greene at $6 to $5.75 to $5.87½.

The directors of the Live Oak met today in the offices of the company in the Lonsdale building and ratified the agreement to sell 12,500 shares at $2½ a share to stockholders of record. Hayden, Stone & Co., will take all stock not sold. The company has developed 7,500,000 tons of ore and the mine has 2,750,000 tons of partially developed ore.

The North Butte has cut a new ore body eight feet wide carrying 5½ per cent copper and has drifted on the vein for fifty feet, copper values being maintained throughout.

The Ahmeek Mining company and its stockholders voted for the Calumet & Hecla merger today. The vote was 35,753 shares for and 280 against.

The eighth level drift at the East Butte property has been opened for a distance of 1,100 feet and the ore body in many places has a width of twenty feet, and in some cases attains a width of thirty-five feet. The ore assays about 7 per cent copper and $2.50 per ton in precious metal values, which largely accounts for the low production cost of around 8 cents. Present earnings are about $50,000 per month.

The Almar Iron Mining company has ordered a 5-drill compressor weighing 16,000 pounds for immediate shipment. George Waters of the Waters-Clark Lumber company has been elected director and treasurer succeeding E. J. Wenzel.

Three more of the companies subsidiary to the Calumet & Hecla Mining company held at Boston today to act informally on the plan for a merger with the big corporation. The first meeting was that of the Centennial company at which the plan was approved by a vote of 67,698 to 430. The Ahmeek and Superior stockholders also favored the proposed merger.

The directors of the New York Central railroad today reduced the quarterly dividend on the company's shares to 1¾ per cent. This is a reduction of ¼ per cent from the previous quarter.

The directors of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern railroad, which is owned by the New York Central, today declared an extra dividend of 6 per cent.

A dividend of 25 per cent was declared on the stock of the Pittsburg & Lake Erie Railroad company, which is controlled by the Lake Shore railroad. The directors of the Pittsburg & Lake Erie voted an increase in the capital stock of $4,200,000.

The reduction in dividend of the New York Central railroad had been foreshadowed for several weeks and was practically without influence on the stock market. Decreased net earnings due, it is said to increased labor costs and heavy outlay for terminal improvements is reported to be the cause for the dividend reduction.

Stocks of copper on hand in the United States on March 1 showed an increase of 14,198,290 pounds over Feb. 1, according to the monthly report of the Copper Producers' association, made public today.

The increase in stock was despite a decreased production for the month of February of more than 5,800,000 pounds. Domestic deliveries for February exceeded those of the previous month by over 8,000 pounds, but foreign demand fell off almost as much. Local deliveries for February aggregated 95,630,000 pounds, a nominal increase over January.

The detailed statement follows: Stocks of marketable copper of all kinds on hand at all points in the United States Feb. 1, 142,439,490 pounds production of marketable copper in the United States from all domestic and foreign sources during February, 109,828,297 pounds; deliveries of marketable copper during February were for domestic consumption, 50,518,998 pounds, and for export 45,111,019 pounds, a total of 95,630,017 pounds stocks of marketable copper of all kinds on hand at all points in the United States March 1, 156,637,770 pounds.

WOMEN AND BIG GAME.

London Times: The Duchess of Aosta's expedition to Central Africa is not her first experience of big game shooting. She was in Africa two years ago on the same quest, and there is a picture in existence representing her standing beside a large dead zebra, a trophy of her gun. It is not surprising when one considers the real dangers and hardships of this form of sport that the number of women who have taken it up seriously should be few.

The Duchess of Aosta, however, has trained herself from childhood in all kinds of open air sport. When her parents, the Comte and Comtesse de Paris, lived at Stowe she hunted with enthusiasm, but unlike her mother she did not care much for covert shooting. She shares to the full her husband's knowledge and love of horses and she was one of the first ladies of rank to take up aeronautics.

The Duchess of Connaught bagged a large rhinoceros this summer during the Duke's sporting expedition to East Africa, but the Duchess of Aosta is, we believe, the only princess who has had much experience of big game shooting.

Lady Delaware, who is on her way to England on a visit to her parents, Lord and Lady Enniskillen, has become under her husband's tuition a notable big game shot. She spent her honeymoon in East Africa, where Lord Delaware has practically made his home near Nairobi, cultivating sugar and cotton on a large scale. Although the equator runs through his estate, yet as it lies some 7,000 feet above the sea the climate is delightful, as Mr. Churchill, who has stayed there, can testify.

Lady Minto is, however, probably the most distinguished big game shot among English sportswomen. In the first year of her husband's viceroyalty Lady Minto and her daughter, Lady Eileen Elliot, each got a black buck while on a visit to the Maharajah of Bikanir. A year later her Excellency took her share of the shooting during the viceregal visit to Kashmir, killing seven out of the thirty-six black bears secured by the party. On a subsequent visit to Bikanir Lady Eileen Elliot got her first tiger.

CARRYING HIS OWN FLY PAPER.

Kansas City Star: A seat near the radiator was the only one vacant in the waiting room of the union depot when an old man came in carrying several packages. He laid all his bundles beside the seat, then he picked up one, a long square package, and looked about in perplexity.

"I don't dare get this near those steam pipes," he explained to the usher. "You see, it's fly paper, and the directions say to keep in a cool place. "I got it to take with me to Mexico. I wasn't sure I could get any there, and I wanted to be prepared. Flies bother me and I like to swat my share of them."

MRS. D. C. CHAMPION WITH "GOLD BANTAM" AND "RED FOX."

MRS. T. O. CROWN AND "PRINCE FRANCOIS."

CHAMPION VOHL'S VULCAN.

The annual dog show was held in New York last month with great success. The final day was devoted to a contest of hunting dogs, which were shown by fox hunters in pink and harriers in green, who made the ring at Madison Square garden brilliant and picturesque. Prizes were awarded in the final contest for the best dogs in their classes. "Champion Vohl's Vulcan" won the prize in the Great Dane class. This is the fourth time he has made a clean sweep in that class. Mrs. Champion's "Gold Bantam" and "Red Fox" were winners and so was "Prince Francois" belonging to Mrs. T. O. Crown of Washington.

SHORTS BUY BACK WHEAT

They Cover Freely in Face of Government's Report —Values Up.

Flour Trade Still Slow—Primary Receipts Are Light.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 8.—Wheat advanced today. May gained ⅞@1c and July went forward a similar distance. Cash wheat was ½c under May. Oats closed unchanged. Rye and barley were unchanged. Durum gained ¾c Flaxseed was dull and stronger on account of light receipts in the Northwest. May closed at $2.65, 1c up. La Plata seed at Antwerp closed unchanged at $2.31 a bu.

Shorts were liberal buyers today, evening up their trades before the report of the government was issued. The upturn was slow and the market was listless.

Wheat worked higher after the early weakness. The market was dull and was simply a trading affair from start to finish. Cables were disappointing. Buenos Ayres showed some strength. Further rains have fallen in the north and plowing and early planting are progressing favorably. Much seeding has been done. La Plata and Australian offers are firmer. Realizing developed on the hard spot.

The cash demand was dull here but fair at Minneapolis. Sales of flour are scattered but the total volume is moderate. The flour is generally for April or May shipment, according to a Minneapolis dispatch. The trade is still unsatisfactory. Shipping directions continue slow.

The Michigan crop report issued today said that no damage was reported last month by its correspondents while 390 report damage. Farm reserves are 7,700,000 bu against 4,000,000 bu last year.

Receipts continue exceedingly light and stocks are decreasing. These factors were partly responsible for today's bulge.

The trade awaited the government's crop report and estimate on farm reserves which was issued at 2 o'clock, Duluth time. There was not much disposition to do anything in the face of the report concerning which much uncertainty existed.

Cash Sales Wednesday.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool. The wheat market opened steady in comparison with the weakness shown in America yesterday, and values were unchanged to ¼d lower, and immediately following the opening advanced ¼d for the distant months. Shorts covered on the strength shown in Buenos Ayres at the close, and the fewer and firmer Australian offers with firmer Plate offers. The continent was a fair bidder for both parcels and cargoes, which were more firmly held. During the morning there was realizing in March, and this month declined ⅝d and the rest of the market sympathetically. The early demand for cargoes abated, and with the dullness prevailing some realizing developed, and at midday the market was dull and irregular and ⅝d to ½d lower than the opening and ¾d lower than yesterday. The corn market was dull, with a lower tendency on the larger American offers and a quieter demand. Our Argentine agent cabled that further rains have fallen in the North and plowing and early planting was progressing favorably and much seeding has been done.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Disappointing Cash Demand and Other Features Weaken Wheat.

Chicago, March 8.—Belief that the government report on farm reserves would prove bearish tended to weaken wheat here today. In addition the Liverpool market was easy because of favorable weather in the Argentine. Disappointing cash demand continued as a reason for depression, and so did the improved outlook in regard to fall sown crops. Opening prices were the same as last night to ⅛c down. May started at 90½ to 90¾c, sagged to ¼c lower, declined to 90¾c and rallied to 90½c.

Export sales together with reports that Hessian fly had badly infected early sown fields in Illinois, led to an advance. The close was firm with May at 90⅜@90⅝c, a net gain of ¼c.

Buying of corn was limited to local traders. Accordingly the market drifted downward. May opened at last night's figures to ⅛c off, at 48¾@48½c and steadied around 48⅝c.

Later the market rose a little when wheat turned strong. The close was firm with May ⅜@¾c net higher at 48⅝@48¾c.

Oats were easier with other grain. May started ⅛@¼c cheaper to a shade up at 30½@30⅝c, and held later at 30¼c.

Provisions sank under unloading by longs discouraged on account of a decline in the hog market. Final sales were 2½@5c to 20c lower with May options at $17.20@17.30 for pork; $9.07½@9.10 for lard, and $9.32½ for ribs.

Cotton Market.

New York, March 8.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 6 to 9 points, with active positions selling 8 to 10 points above the closing figures of last night during the first few minutes on renewed covering and some fresh buying inspired by higher Liverpool cables and reports of an increased spot demand. Sentiment was somewhat unsettled by rumors that a Barcelona cotton house had failed, and realizing by recent buyers checked the advance. Prices eased off six or seven points in consequence, but there was a good demand on the reaction and the market ruled steady during the middle of the morning.

Spot closed quiet; middling uplands, 14.30; middling gulf, 14.55; sales, 245 bales. Futures closed barely steady; closing bids: March, 14.01; April, 14.10; May, 14.21; June, 14.04; July, 14.04; August, 13.56; October, 12.43; December, 12.32; January, 12.29.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Lack of Demand Causes Prices to Drop During the Morning.

Trading Sluggish in Closing Hours and Movement Is Slight.

New York, March 8.—Uneasiness over the Mexican situation resulted in weakness in the stocks of the National Railways of Mexico when the market opened today. Both the first and second preferred dropped a point. The general list was inclined to heaviness. American Agricultural Chemical lost 1 point, United States Steel and New York Central ⅜ and Reading and Southern Pacific ¼. Atlantic Coast Line advanced a point.

The market reached a slightly lower level, and trading was unusually dull for the first hour. The fertilizer stocks were especially weak. American Agricultural Chemical lost 2 points, Virginia-Carolina Chemical 1⅜, and American Cotton Oil 1.

Lack of demand for stocks caused prices to decline during the morning trading, and even at the lower figures there was little business. Uncertainty as to the outcome of events in Mexico restricted trading. Announcement of the declaration of a lower dividend for New York Central than has been paid in the previous four quarters added to the weakness of the general list.

New York Central which has been weak for several days in expectations of the reduction yielded to 105½, a loss of 1⅜. A quick rally of a point and then went off again to 105⅝. Reading, Union Pacific and Wabash preferred were forced a point under yesterday's close and other leaders also lost large fractions. Bonds steady.

The market closed steady. Trading was very sluggish in the closing hour and there was scarcely any noticeable movement to prices.

OREGON METHOD OF ELECTING SENATORS FAVORED BY HOUSE

FOR DIRECT ELECTION OF FEDERAL SENATORS

JOSEPH R. KEEFE,
Redwood County Representative, Whose Bill Embodying Oregon Plan Was Passed Unanimously by the House.

Keefe Bill Passed With Little Debate and Unanimous Vote.

Action of House on Tonnage Tax Bill Report Not Surprising.

One of R. C. Dunn's Good Roads Bills Passed By the Senate.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—By a unanimous vote, 110 members voting the house yesterday afternoon passed the bill by Representative Joseph R. Keefe of North Redwood applying to Minnesota the Oregon plan of direct nomination and election of United States senators.

The bill was a special order in the house for yesterday afternoon and there was little debate and no opposition whatever.

The bill now goes to the senate, where there is a strong sentiment for it. The only obstacle there is the apparent disposition of the Republican members of the senate, who are holding weekly caucuses, to see that Democrats do not get credit for such progressive legislation as the legislature enacts into law at this session. This will hardly prevent the bill from becoming a law, but it may lead to substituting for it some slightly different measure with Republican parentage. Mr. Keefe is a Democrat.

ON DIRECT LEGISLATION

House Takes Up the Initiative and Referendum Measures.

Issue Close and Chances Favor Defeat of the Bills.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The house took up the initiative and referendum bills this morning, and the outlook this afternoon was that though most of the day might be taken up in the consideration of those bills they will be decided today, with the issue close and in doubt. Chances favor the defeat of the bills. The house considered two measures.

One bill, by Representatives Campbell, Spooner, Hillman, Kelly, J. N. Johnson and W. T. Stone, provides the 10 per cent initiative and the 7 per cent referendum. The other, by Representative Pfaender, Democrat, provides 25 per cent initiative and 10 per cent referendum.

The Democrats, in caucus last night, decided to favor the Pfaender bill, except four who are pledged to a low percentage bill.

Something of a sensation was caused by the announcement yesterday afternoon that the State Federation of Labor, through its officers, had decided to release members of the legislature from their pledges to support direct legislation. Other labor leaders pro-

IMMUNITY IS DENIED

Defendants in "Bathtub" Trust Criminal Suit Must Stand Trial.

No Definite Date Is Set for the Trial of the Cases.

Detroit, Mich., March 9.—Judge Denison of Grand Rapids, in an opinion handed down in the federal court here today, overruled the plea for immunity entered by the thirty-four individual defendants in the criminal suit of the government against the so-called "bathtub" trust. The plea of the defense was based on answers filed in the equity suit against them in Baltimore.

A congressional act reads that "no person can be prosecuted for any transaction concerning which he, in obedience to subpoenas, gives testimony under oath, or produces evidence under oath, in any proceeding under the so-called Sherman act, or anti-trust law."

Judge Denison conceded that the defendants had answered under oath in the Baltimore equity suit which was instituted before the criminal proceedings were begun here. It was held, in the opinion, however, that the answers constituted a pleading and not "testimony or evidence under oath."

No definite date has been set for the trial of the cases.

AMBASSADOR CALLED HOME

Government Wants to Consult With David Jayne Hill.

Potash Dispute Said to Be Subject for Consideration.

Washington, March 9.—David Jayne Hill, American ambassador to Germany, has been ordered to Washington to discuss several matters pending between the two governments. The potash controversy, it is learned, will be the principal subject for consideration.

It was made clear at the state department that the instructions to Mr. Hill to come to Washington have no bearing upon the Mexican or any other political situation.

The potash dispute, which is now the subject of diplomatic negotiation between Germany and the United States, it was said, is the principal question upon which the state department officials desire to consult directly with Mr. Hill. There are some other matters, it was added, of lesser importance which also will be discussed.

The reply of the United States to the German government's recent representation on the potash matter will be delivered to Count von Bernstorff today. State department officials were unwilling to discuss its nature. The fact, however, that Mr. Hill has been instructed to return to this country for the purpose of discussing the question is taken to indicate that the matter has not reached a finality and that the reply will be the forerunner of additional diplomatic exchanges between the two nations.

CONTRACT SIGNED BY HITCHCOCK

For Stamped Envelopes and Stamped Newspaper Wrappers.

Washington, March 9.—By affixing his signature to the contract for the manufacture and printing of stamped envelopes and stamped newspaper wrappers today, Postmaster General Hitchcock put an end, for at least four years from July 1 next, to a contest that has waged intermittently for more than a quarter of a century.

The contract is made by the post-office department with Myron C. Taylor, president of the Mercantile corporation of New York city, and calls for the delivery to the government of such stamped envelopes and stamped newspaper wrappers as it may require during the next four years. The Mercantile corporation is the present contractor, but the prices to be paid by the government for the supplies during the next four years will effect a saving of $297,880, based upon the number of envelopes and wrappers used in 1910.

By the terms of the existing and future contract the manufacturer is required to print upon the envelopes, in orders of 500 or more, the return address of the sender with no additional cost to the purchaser.

Postmaster General Hitchcock has held up the contract for several months with a view to the allowance of time to congress to amend the present law if it desired to do so. The measure died with the close of congress.

WILL FIX DATE FOR BIG STRIKE

Fourteen Thousand Miners Will Soon Quit in Tuscarawas Field.

Canton, Ohio, March 9.—The national board of the United Mine Workers of America, in session here today in conjunction with the convention of Eastern Ohio miners, is expected to set a date when 14,000 miners in the Tuscarawas (Ohio) field and a portion of the Pennsylvania fields shall start a strike.

This action follows the decision of miners of the Tuscarawas field at a meeting held at Wheeling, W. Va., yesterday. The proposed strike is alleged to be the result of violations by the operators of their agreement with the miners.

ROBBED OF HIS ENTIRE FORTUNE

Three Alleged Italian Noblemen Swindle American Out of $52,000.

Paris, March 9.—Three men describing themselves as Italian noblemen were arrested today, charged with having swindled Lieven Hart, a young American, out of $52,000. The prisoners gave the names of Bereili, Carminatti and Bordeni and are alleged to be wanted by the police of Italy.

According to the story told by Hart, he met the strangers at his hotel in the Place de l'Etoile and was introduced by them at various gambling clubs. During the visits to these places he says that the men by the use of marked cards and other devices robbed him of his entire fortune.

BOSS COX IS EXONERATED

Of Contempt of Court By Majority of Investigating Committee.

Punishment on Account of Criticism Is Obsolete, They Say.

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 9.—George B. Cox, indicted Republican leader of this city, was held today not to be in contempt of court by two members of the committee of three attorneys appointed by Judge Gorman of the common pleas court to investigate a statement purporting to have been made by him in a morning paper reflecting on the grand jury which indicted him.

The other members of the committee filed a minority report in which it was held that Cox was in contempt.

One of the sentences in the majority report finding no contempt reads: "Punishment for contempt of court on account of libel or criticism of a judge has become obsolete."

The majority report was signed by Edward Barton, general counsel for the Baltimore & Ohio-Southwestern railroad, and Clyde Johnson. Aaron A. Ferris reported that there was contempt.

The three attorneys were named by Judge Gorman to investigate possible contempt of court in a published interview credited to George B. Cox after his indictment on charges of perjury.

Mr. Cox wrote a personal letter to the committee, in which he said that he had been informed that the grand jury had been irregularly drawn and that that was all he intended to say in the published interview. "I disclaim any intention or desire on my part," he wrote, "to speak disrespectfully of either the grand jury or of its members or of the judge who impaneled it."

Amoy, China, March 9.—A severe epidemic of the bubonic plague is reported at Siokhe, a village in the interior on the west side of the Jung Klang, and fifty miles from Amoy.

BRUMAN IS SENTENCED

Must Serve Twenty Years in Prison for Assault on Companion.

First Denies Crime But Later Changes Plea—Robbery the Motive.

After admitting through an interpreter to his attorney, E. J. Kenny, that he knocked Jalmar Aaltonen insensible, took his money and threw him over the cliff at Fifteenth avenue east, about a month ago, William Bruman pleaded guilty to the crime of robbery in the first degree before Judge H. B. Dibell of the district court this morning and was sentenced to twenty years at the Minnesota state prison at Stillwater.

While at first he denied his guilt, he later admitted it and asked to be allowed to plead guilty that he might begin his sentence as soon as possible. Bruman talks only Finnish and all his talking was done through an interpreter.

When first arrested Bruman claimed

SUBJECT OF DISCUSSION

Question of Safety of Foreigners Has Been Before Government.

Several Foreign Nations Have Taken the Matter Up.

Washington, March 9.—The question of the safety of foreign interests in Mexico, in view of the disturbed conditions of affairs, has been the subject of informal discussion by foreign nations with the government of the United States. This information was ascertained from official sources today but it was understood that the discussions had been indefinite and had not reacted the stage of definiteness. The state department was reticent as to what foreign countries had taken up the matter with this government and averred that none of the informal discussions had assumed concrete proportions.

Fred M. Dearing, the American charge at Mexico City, telegraphed the state department that the Mexican government was much gratified at President Taft's communication assuring Gen. Diaz that the maneuvers in the South should give no worry. Minister of Foreign Affairs Creel informed Mr. Deering that the Mexican government had entertained no misgivings over the movement of the troops.

It is generally believed in Washington that the Mexican government was acquainted with the intention of the United States to concentrate troops along the frontier before the orders were issued by the war department.

Troops Moving Rapidly.

Washington, March 9.—Still under the guise of peaceful maneuvers, the advance of the army toward the Southern frontier of the United States is proceeding in perfect order. Innumerable telegrams are being received by Gen. Leonard Wood, chief

ATTORNEY HAS NOT BEEN WITHDRAWN

Governor Dix Denies Rumors Regarding Investigation of Trust Company.

Albany, N. Y., March 9.—Governor Dix today denied the report that he has ordered District Attorney Whitman of New York to withdraw from the investigation of the affairs of the Carnegie Trust company and that the district attorney has been superseded by Attorney General Carmody.

According to the governor no such letter was written, and Attorney General Carmody said today that so far as he is concerned no instructions have come to him from the governor.

"I have received no communication from Governor Dix, and know nothing about such a letter as the governor is reported to have written District Attorney Whitman," was the comment of Mr. Carmody.

Governor Dix said it was his understanding that District Attorney Whitman was coming to Albany to confer with Attorney General Carmody relative to the investigation.

Governor Dix said later that he had sent a note to Mr. Whitman asking him to confer with Attorney General Carmody on the civil side of the situation. It was stated that of the state's deposits with the Carnegie Trust company, $40,000 had been recovered and that there is still due the state between $150,000 and $160,000.

"I simply asked the district attorney," said the governor, "to confer with the attorney general in his official capacity as chief legal adviser to the state. This is merely in conformity with my general theory that state officers should be consulted in matters pertaining to their department. Mr. Whitman is coming up today to consult the attorney general on several matters, and I suppose will include the Carnegie Trust."

MESSAGE OF ASSURANCE

Sent to President of Mexico Announcing Peaceful Intentions.

Diaz Replies, Expressing Gratitude for Courtesy of Explanation.

In Some Quarters Message Is Viewed With Skepticism.

Washington, March 9. — President Taft today assured Mr. De La Barra, the Mexican ambassador to the United States, that the statement issued in Mexico City last night through the American embassy accurately represented the attitude of this government in sending 20,000 troops into Texas. He told Mr. De La Barra that the troops were there for maneuvers and that there was nothing in the movement that should excite alarm or unusual interest.

Taft Sends Message.

Mexico City, March 9.—Setting at rest all rumors that the United States is preparing for intervention in Mexico, President Taft has sent to President Diaz a telegram in which he says the military maneuvers being conducted along the frontier in Texas have no significance which should cause concern to Mexico.

The message was transmitted to the department of foreign relations by Fred Morris Deering, the charge d'affaires of the American embassy. Following is the text of President Taft's message:

"I have the honor to advise your excellency that I am in receipt of in-

BANK OF ENGLAND HAS BIG RESERVE

Directors Reduce the Rate of Discount From 3 1-2 to 3 Per Cent.

London, March 9.—The rate of discount of the Bank of England was reduced from 3½ to 3 per cent today.

The influx of gold and the return of cash from the country during the last week have so strengthened the bank's position that the directors found no difficulty in reducing the minimum rate when they held their weekly meeting today. The bank's reserve is now in the neighborhood of £30,000,000.

The lower rate had been largely discounted on the stock exchange, and the markets there were practically unaffected, with the exception of consols, which advanced 3-16 of a point.

INTEREST IN SKIRTS

Displayed By Members of the Illinois Legislature.

Bill Introduced Prohibiting the Wearing of the Harem Garment.

Springfield, Ill., March 9.—Harem and hobble skirts were made the subject of legislation in a bill presented in the house today.

"Hobbles" measuring less than one and one-half yards and not more than three yards at the bottom are prohibited. An absolute ban is placed upon the "harem" skirt by the bill, which prohibits any woman appearing in public in the garb.

The introduction of the bill raised a big laugh among the members. The text of the first section of the bill follows:

"A bill for an act regulating the wearing apparel of females in public places and on the public streets and thoroughfares.

"Be it enacted, by the people of the state of Illinois, represented in the general assembly, that on and after the passage of this bill it shall be unlawful for any female to appear upon any public street or thoroughfare or in any public place or building wearing what is commonly known as a 'hobble skirt' measuring less than one and one-half yards or more than three yards in circumference at the bottom thereof. No females shall appear in any public place or any street or thoroughfare in the garb of what is known as a 'harem skirt.'"

An additional section provides for a fine of not less than $10 nor more than $50 for each offense.

BOTH WANT EXTENSIONS

New Duluth and Proctor Rival Claimants for Car Line.

West Duluthians Seem to Want New Duluth Line First.

An interesting rivalry has sprung up between Proctor and New Duluth. Both are clamoring for street car extensions and have organized Commercial clubs recently to concentrate action on this project. So far, the city has shown no partiality and has taken steps in each case toward providing a thoroughfare, suitable to carry a street car line to each suburb.

Sentiment at West Duluth, however, seems to favor the New Duluth extension before that to Proctor. Business men in West Duluth say New Duluth is in closer touch with them and argue that what will help New Duluth is bound to boom West Duluth. Property at West Duluth at the present time has no noticeable upward trend and those who are in touch with the situation say that the realty market and business conditions are practically at a stand still awaiting improvements up the river at the steel plant site.

"The people out here in West Duluth," said a business man this morning, "are not adverse to the building of a street car line to Proctor. We would like to see it come, all right, but if we direct our energies over the hill now instead of up the river, I fail to see where we will reap any material benefit. If the Proctor extension comes first, it will mean a setback for the building the car lines to the steel plant site.

"The action of the council in getting busy on the new road to Proctor is very commendable, and it is wise in the building of the highway to make it such, that when the time comes for a street car extension, it can be made without practically rebuilding the road in order to get a suitable grade. The new Getchell road will open up a prosperous farming country and give the farmers an easy road to the city.

"The natural course to follow, it seems, would be to build the New Duluth line first. With but little expense, the road and bridges between West Duluth and the steel plant site could be fixed and the street car people would have little excuse for not building this line. It is the only thing in my mind that will spell "success" for New Duluth, for without a quick and easy means of transportation no community can thrive, to say nothing of booms.

"Why does not the city make some move in the direction of getting water to New Duluth? How can you expect people and business to move in the direction of New Duluth and West Duluth without the modern conveniences? New Duluthians have neither water, gas nor street car facilities, and without them I doubt much whether there will be any great growth there this year.

"Superior people are not closing their eyes to this fact. They have got busy and have built a road to the steel plant site on the Wisconsin side of the river that would do credit to any city. They are also looking for an extension from the street car people and they may get it, I understand. It will only be a matter of time on the Wisconsin side before they will have other public improvements on that side of the river and then watch which way the business and people will go. It's time the people were waking up here."

Alderman L. A. Barnes of the Eighth ward today said that it looks probable that New Duluth would get the street car improvements ahead of Proctor. This he attributed to the fact that less preparation would have to be made in order to put the line up the river. Within the last few years the city has strengthened some of the bridges, filled in others and now, with the exception of three new bridges and a few pieces of work on the road between here and New Duluth, the thoroughfare is in fairly good shape.

Proctor people, however, will fight hard for the extension and with the announcement this week that the new Getchell road was to be started soon, some of the West Duluth Commercial club members were asked by members of the Commercial club at Proctor if a meeting could not be held in West Duluth in the near future to concentrate action on the proposition and bring the matter to a head. No arrangements have yet been made for this conference.

At New Duluth the citizens have a public-spirited organization in the new Commercial club, which was organized for the purpose of securing for the suburb the street car line extension, water and gas. Other projects of interest to that district will also be taken up from time to time.

COUGHED ALL NIGHT

Till This Recipe Was Tried. Cure Followed in 5 Hours.

A prominent medical man who suffered with a severe cough and cold on the lungs, often being kept awake all night, and weakened by loss of sleep, finally discovered a simple formula which will cure any cough in five hours by the clock. It is a laxative tonic cough syrup which can be made at home by anyone, and the formula is here given for the benefit of those who pass sleepless nights in painful paroxysms. Those who have tried it say it is magical and beats any high-priced, slow-acting cough medicine ever sold.

Mix in a bottle one-half ounce fluid wild cherry bark, one ounce compound essence cardiol and three ounces syrup white pine compound. Take twenty drops every half hour for four hours. Then take one-half to one teaspoonful three or four times a day. Give children less according to age. This will tone up and rid the system of deep-seated coughs every time.

As soon as cold weather returns, if it does, the curlers will get busy and double headers will be played in order to close the season before the next thaw. The club members will then prepare for the annual banquet.

MARKET ACQUIRES STRENGTH AT CLOSE

Values Advance Slightly After Early Soft Spot—Trading Dull.

The copper market was slightly stronger although some of the leaders declined fractionally. The general list, however, seemed to have a firmer undertone at the close than at the opening. The government's report on wheat reserves was bearish for the grain market but bullish for the stock market. There was very little news. The Mexican disturbance and the movement of American troops to the border is still regarded with some concern despite President Taft's pacific utterances to President Diaz.

The local market was not very active and there was little news outside of some reports pertaining to specialties. It is said a large tonnage is being blocked out at the Summit and that the values are unusually high. Summit sold at 60c, Calumet & Corbin at 30c, Keating at $3, Cliff at 97c, 99c and 96c, Calumet & Sonora at $7 to $7.12½, Denn at $5.18¾ to $5.12½.

Butte Ballaklava sold at $5.25, Amalgamated at $61.87½, $62.25 to $62, Giroux at $6.06¼ to $6, Greene at $5.75 to $5.93¾ to $5.75, Shattuck at $20, $20.25 and $20, Superior & Pittsburg at $14.87½ to $15.

If stockholders do not care to pay this assessment they can exchange their stock for full paid on a basis of two shares of the part paid for one of the full paid. Either arrangement will make all Butte-Alex-Scott full paid. The retirement of the part paid stock will be undertaken immediately. The retirement will open up the Little Annie claim and continue the development and exploration work at the Butte-Alex Scott. The main shaft of the Scott is down 1,200 feet. Cash on hand amounts to $65,000. The smelter returns in January and February amounted to $35,000.

A compromise has been effected in connection with the Calumet & Hecla situation whereby the Calumet & Hecla interests have agreed to the election of two directors representing the outstanding stock and satisfactory to those opposed to the merger. The men who have been selected are Guy W. Currier, an attorney of Boston and William H. Dwelly, Jr., treasurer of the American Woolen Co. This would seem to remove the possibility of any contest at the annual meeting for the election of directors for the ensuing year.

POPULAR SHAMPOO BEAUTIFIES HAIR

"At last it seems that a genuine remedy for hair and scalp troubles has been found," writes Mae Martyn in the New York American. "The problem of lifeless, unattractive hair and dandruffy, diseased scalps appears to be solved. I find that these conditions disappear almost as if by magic by shampooing the hair with plain canthrox.

"To prepare the shampoo, simply dissolve a teaspoonful of canthrox in a cup of hot water. It makes an abundant lather that cleanses perfectly and rinses easily. The beauty of this shampoo is that it dries very quickly and seems to invigorate and put new life into the hair and scalp. It makes the hair glossy, fluffy and easy to do up. The cost of canthrox is but little and it has the inexpressible approval of every woman who uses it."

WE CURE MEN'S DISEASES BY ASSISTING NATURE

Our Treatments Are Natural and Therefore Are Both Painless and Safe.

We increase the disease-resisting powers of the body.

The day of experiment in medical practice has gone by forever. We know now just how disease is caused, and we know also the way which nature herself takes to cure it. All we have to do, therefore, is to exactly reproduce the efforts of nature. The disease-dissolving process practiced by Progressive Medical Association of this city exactly follows the natural system. When any part of the human body is attacked by disease, that part for a time is a battlefield on a small scale. The battle for supremacy goes on between the noxious germs and the healthy cells of the organ. If the battle is not interfered with, the weakest will go to the wall; and, as the noxious germs have the power of reproducing themselves many millions of times in a very short space of time, the battle is far more likely to go their way. Our dissolving process steps in at this point and enormously increases the vitality of the entire system, while at the same time it increases the disease-resisting power of the attacked organ. So successful have we been with this process that we now issue an absolute guarantee of a cure to all patients whom we accept.

Call and let us examine your case between 9 a. m. and 8 p. m.; Sundays, 10 a. m. to 1 p. m.

WOMAN'S REALM.

"A Legend of Grenada," written by Henry Hadley, one of America's foremost composers of the present day, with words by Ethel Watts-Mumford, will be the principal number of the program which will be given before the Matinee Musicale Monday afternoon at the auditorium of the new Masonic temple.

The rest of the program, which has been arranged by Mrs. R. M. Atwater and Mrs. Stella Prince Stocker, will be an organ program, played on the big pipe organ in the temple. According to the custom of the club, of making up a program mostly from the work of the composer whose birthday anniversary falls on, or nearest, the day of meeting, Alexander Guilmant, who was born March 12, 1827, will be the composer whose organ compositions will be played Monday. Guilmant is the great French organist with whom Miss Isabella Pearson is now studying in France.

In departure from the usual rules of the club of admitting only members to these programs on Monday, each member will have the privilege of inviting two guests to attend with her.

Miss Reynolds is to be the soloist in the cantata with George Suffel, who is assisting the club in this piece.

The program follows:

PRIZES FOR IDEAS.

Women Tell Household Secrets to Lighten Labor.

A unique "New Idea" party at the home of Mrs. J. B. Weston, 1220 East Superior street, was enjoyed yesterday afternoon by about forty-five women of the First Baptist church. This was their regular monthly thimble bee.

New ideas, divided into four groups, were given to the women. The first department was that of needle craft, under which knitting, crocheting and tatting were classed; the second was the department of embroidery; the third was a general invention department, under which all new devices for making housework lighter were classed, and the fourth department was for new ideas in cake making.

Prizes were given for the best ideas in all of these departments. They were won by Mrs. Clement Tounsend for the newest stitch in Irish lace; Mrs. Church, who exhibited a beautiful new way for piecing silk for quilts; Mrs. C. T. Mears, who showed a new device for separating eggs, and by Mrs. R. E. Moore for the best idea in making angel cake.

The affair was a success in every way and interest in the various plans was high.

Trouser Skirt Is Still Exciting Residents of Paris

THE TROUSER SKIRT AGAIN.

The trouser skirt still keeps Paris excited. The only outbreak so far in America has been through the efforts of a press agent to advertise three theatrical young women on Broadway. Up to the present writing no genuine trouser skirt has been worn in public in New York. That they will get to America is beyond all question, but it is more than likely that when they do the police will suppress them as indecent if one may judge by some of the results in Paris.

"LOAN CLOSET."

New Visiting Nurse Tells of the Supplies Needed.

Miss Mary Anderson, Duluth's new visiting nurse, has asked for supplies for the "loan closet" and it is hoped that she will meet with a generous response.

"In opening up the district nursing in Duluth, it is most essential to effective work that a well-equipped loan closet is available," writes Miss Anderson.

"The supplies in the closet are loaned to families under the care of the visiting nurse, for their use, as long as they need them. After their service is ended, these articles are disinfected and laundered and returned to the closet, ready for another errand of help.

"We have a splendid supply to begin with, but as the work grows, and it will very rapidly, we will need more of everything, and if the articles are on hand when the call comes, we will be able to give more prompt service.

"We will need more sheets, pillow cases, blankets and nightgowns for children and adults.

"We must have icebags for the fever patients; hot water bags for the little girl who needs artificial heat to keep warm; air cushions for the tired backs; feeding cups, back rests, rubber sheets, cots, soft pieces of old white cloth—we need everything and we cannot get too many of each article. Our unfortunate brother and sister needs the same aid in luring back wandering health that we ourselves needed when illness came to our home.

"We will also be glad to have jelly and jam contributions.

"We are going to need drugs—alcohol, peroxide of hydrogen, boric acid, disinfectants.

"We can assure you that for every article received there will be many grateful hearts."

WORK OF Y. W. C. A. PRAISED BY SPEAKERS AT BANQUET

Representative Duluthians Attend Annual Affair at Women's Building.

"Love of Fellow Man" Is Keynote of Inspiring Addresses.

One hundred and fifty representative men and women of Duluth were seated at the annual banquet of the Young Women's Christian association, which was served last evening in the dining hall of the Y. W. C. A. building. A splendid dinner was served and the tables were pretty with pink appointments, pink tulips, candles and menu cards lending the color.

Warren E. Greene, whose ability as an after dinner speaker is well known, filled the toastmaster's chair delightfully and his remarks sparkled with keen wit and good natured jokes at the expense of the others on the program.

Rev. Arthur H. Wurtele pronounced the blessing and Miss Ada Campbell was the first speaker introduced by Mrs. A. W. Agnew, honorary president of the association, who presided.

Miss Campbell, who is the general secretary of the association, spoke of her pleasure of attending her first annual banquet and told some of the possibilities of the work before an organization of this kind and of the possibilities in helping and developing the girls throughout the city including those in factories, stores, foreign girls and in the making of the Y. W. C. A. a great educational center which will come to be depended upon for its educational work as well as a home for the girls.

"The real foundation of the Young Women's Christian association," she said, "is something harder and more binding than the structure of wood and stone making the building, it is based upon the common structure of love for the young women."

"Common Foundations."

Mr. Greene then introduced J. K. Lewis, whose toast was on "Common Foundations." Mr. Lewis treated his subject in a most interesting manner and brought out the need of placing one's self on a common foundatio with one's fellow beings in order to be successful.

"As two people who have the most fundamental principles in common get along the best together, so it is in all departments of life," he said. "As the charity worker studies people and places her work on a more common foundation, the more success she will win. The Young Women's Christian association, which recognizes no class and no distinction save that of the brotherhood of man places itself on a foundation as broad as humanity, as deep as the deepest depth of human suffering and as high as the highest good of womanhood."

He said that in his opinion small clubs and organizations did no harm, they were based on common tendencies, common likes and common desires and they should be used to build up a greater humanity. "If we are to make good, we must place ourselves on the common foundation of helpfulness and usefulness," he said. He closed his talk with the following verses by Samuel W. Foss:

"There are hermit souls that live withdrawn,
In the peace of their self-content;
There are souls like stars
That dwell apart in a fellowless firmament.
There are pioneer souls that blaze their paths
Where the highways never ran;
But let me live by the side of the road,
And be a friend to man.

"I know there are brook-gladdened meadows ahead
And mountains of wearisome height;
That the road passes on through the long afternoon,
And reaches away to the night.
But still I rejoice,
And weep with the strangers that moan;
Nor live in my house by the side of the road
As a man who dwells alone.
Let me live in my house by the side of the road,
Where the race of men go by
They are good, they are bad,
They are weak, they are strong,
Wise, foolish—so am I.
Then why should I sit in the scorners' seat
Or hurl the cynic ban?
Let me live in my house by the side of the road,
And be a friend to man."

The Stranger's Trials.

Miss Katherine Post of the faculty of the Normal school responded to "The Stranger Within Our Gates" and told with delightful humor of the troubles of the stranger.

"It is not an easy thing to come to a new city and take up new duties" she said. "There are trials of becoming accustomed to the physical conditions, of assuming new obligations under critical eyes and of being judged entirely on what one does or says; there is no home to go to after the duties are discharged, no home folks or no friends to cheer the stranger; of the difficulty of finding good housing and last of all that arch fiend 'homesickness' which is a combination of insomnia, fever, ague, grip and seasickness."

She spoke most enthusiastically on the hospitality shown by the Young Woman's Christian association and the "homeness" which is found there and also of the hospitality of Duluthians. She closed with the Bible quotation: "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, my brethern, ye have done it unto Me."

Old Fashions and New.

"Old Fashions and New" was the subject to be responded to by C. S. Mitchell and in introducing him Mr. Greene said that he would like to ask a few questions which he wished Mr. Mitchell would answer. They were: "Will our collars and neck ties be safe the coming summer?" "Will the coquisecuttle hat with vegetable trimmings be the more popular?" and "How is it that the women can grow so much hair this season when they have never been able to do it before?"

Mr. Mitchell did not treat his subject along the line of dress in fashions, but spoke of the Young Woman's Christian association as the most important organization in the city and paid a tribute to the women of Duluth. "The women of Duluth," he said, "are both practical and effective and they usually get what they go after. In this organization you come nearer to what is meant by Christian unity than in any other place, and to laying the actual foundations for Christian unity than any church of any one creed can possibly do. It is for this organization to broaden out this field and give full fellowship to all denominations, instead of shutting out some who belong to this or that church.

"When that breadth is obtained you will not ask for creed or doctrine, but simply 'do you want to help or do you want help?' and when you reach this breadth, then you will have Christian unity. Why not go with the hand of helpfulness and sympathy held out and not ask for creed or doctrine or any other pledge than that of help? Christian unity will not come through any of the churches, but through this sort of an organization, which works among the people, and they will compel you to adopt a Christian unity which is like Christ's doctrine, and then your doors will be open to all who want help or who want to be helped."

During the serving of the banquet the Mandolin and Guitar club played an excellent program of well selected numbers, which received much applause.

MISS ADA CAMPBELL.

WARREN E. GREENE.

SEEN IN THE SHOPS

A display of English "Cross" stationery shown in one of the shops interested the shopper this morning. Two tones in writing paper either in the invitation, note or letter sizes seems to be the very best style, and delicately tinted paper is better than the pure white, although some people prefer the white or cream. One combination of tints of pink was most effective. The outside of the envelope was of a delicate day-break pink and the lining was of an orchid pink. Another combination which is pleasing is that of buff and cream. The papers for these envelopes are made of the lighter tint, edged with a narrow bit of the deeper shade.

The envelopes are rather new in shape, the flap for closing being only about a half an inch deep and straight across instead of pointed.

While the shopper was interested in this line she saw some dainty place cards done in hand tinting in various designs, which would be appropriate for any kind of a luncheon or dinner. There were little Dutch scenes, for the "Dutch lunch," cards cut and painted to represent an Irish potato and other cards suggestive of St. Patrick's day; rainy day scenes, which would be fine for an April luncheon and many others.

In another of the stationery shops they have some attractive decks of cards which have different scenes taken on Lake Superior and in the vicinity of Duluth on the face of every card in the deck. They make an attractive souvenir of Duluth or a pretty little favor. They are priced at 50 cents a deck.

At the same store they had decks of fortune telling cards, which are interesting and which sell for the same price.

THE EVENING STORY

A Woman's Privilege

By Sheila MacBean.

"There is news for us this morning, Miss Bridget. The next door house be open, and the people come in this afternoon."

Dumping the coffee pot down upon the table, Sarah Collett regarded her mistress, the gleam of battle in her eyes.

"At least," she added, "when I say people, I should say person; for, as far as I can make out, it is but the one, and that one a him!"

"A him!" Bridget Beecher looked up sharply from the toast rack. "Do you mean to say that we are to have a man—an unmarried man—living next door, Sarah? Why is he, what is he, and where does he come from?"

"That I have not precisely been able to ascertain. It was from the postman I heard it. Some sort of a clergyman he appears to be, with no female belongings, and a game leg, but no doubt we shall be seeing all for ourselves shortly. That sounds uncommon like the furniture van coming up the road."

For a moment Bridget Beecher's eyes rested on the gaunt figure and grim countenance of the woman who had been her sole companion and faithful servant for thirty odd years, refusing to leave her even when stern necessity, in the shape of heavy financial losses, drove her from her old luxuries home to the sleepy town, there to live as quietly and frugally as it was possible to do with dignity.

"I cannot conceive what Mr. Birch can have been thinking about Sarah!" she said sharply. "He knows my views so well, and how very much I most object to such a neighbor. However, I suppose he was anxious to let the house, and if the man is anything approaching a gentleman we shall not be inconvenienced in any way. Did you say our neighbor was in holy orders, Sarah?"

As she spoke, Bridget poured herself a cup of coffee.

"He wears a round collar, and one of them organ-grinding hats, if that be a sign of holy orders—and peaseways, he had them on yesterday when I saw him poking round the flower beds."

Having condescended to impart this fragment of information, Sarah Collett switched from the room, her stiffly-starched print dress standing out like a crinoline round her.

A clergyman, and lame! Bridget Beecher sat lost in thought, memory tugging at her hand, hammering aainst the doors within which she locked her heart thirty years ago, when all the world was young and very, very glad.

"Nonsense — ridiculous nonsense!" Snapping out the words, she turned to her waiting breakfast. It was exceedingly annoying about the next door house, but it could not be helped.

Later on in the morning she sallied forth, her eyes resolutely fixed on the town, and from an oasis of straw and stacking the man with "no female belongings" watched her.

"Who is that lady—the one who has just gone down the hill?" he inquired of the perspiring foreman.

"That little old maid there," he said. "Why, that's Miss Beecher—Miss Bridget Beecher—the manhater!

Miss Beecher! Limping round the van that obstructed his view, the newcomer stood a moment, his eyes riveted on the receding figure. It was thirty years since he had seen the briskly energetic walk—thirty years since she had deliberately turned away from him, leaving him standing alone on the darkening road, because she had chosen to misunderstand him—to mistake love for pity!

"I wonder—I wonder now if she will remember me—if I might go and see her one day, just for old time's sake?"

Wondering greatly, he entered his new home, which he had taken in blissful unconsciousness that his next door neighbor was to be the woman he had loved, and still loved, though the golden summer weather in which they had been much to one another had long since faded into the mists of autumn!

Having interviewed the white coated butcher on the subject of a fillet of beef, Bridget Beecher stood a moment at the kerb, consulting the little ivory tablet which she wore on a chain at her waist.

"Fillet of beef, apples, butter, tea—clergyman—lame."

Puzzled beyond measure over the last two items, she scarcely heard the warning note of a motor horn as a racing car rounded the corner, and, skidding violently on the frosty road, shot over the curb, throwing her to the pavement.

During the days that followed the accident the man with "no female belonging" wandered restlessly about his garden and from the pantry window Sarah Collet watched him in stern disapproval.

"I never saw the like of him, Miss Bridget!" she exclaimed as she deposited the tea tray on the little table beside the sofa on which her mistress lay, her injured ankle still swathed in bandages. "Up and down, round and round he goes, his hair a-blowing about his head, his game leg lagging after him, just wasting of his time, and gathering flowers!"

Bridget Beecher smiled wearily. She had suffered considerably, and—well, it was all very well living alone while you could get about, but when you were chained to the sofa, and in pain, it was lonely.

"I have been requested to give you this visiting card, Miss Bridget. It is from the man next door. He is on the front doorstep, and a lot of flowers in his arms. Shall I say that—"

"That I should like to see him." As she spoke, Bridget Beecher looked up. "Say that I would like to see him, Sarah. He is an old friend; I knew him long ago."

For a moment Sarah stared in blank amazement.

"Why," she exclaimed, bristling with indignation, "I thought that you and me agreed, Miss Bridget, that never a pair of trousers should cross the doors—that we would have no dealings with men folk at all!"

"I am perfectly aware that I said that," was the quiet reply. "But I never for one moment denied the privilege of a woman to change her mind; and I have changed mine. Kindly bring my friend to me, Sarah."

A few minutes later the door opened and closed again, and, with his organ grinding hat in one hand, and a great bunch of red roses in the other, the man from next door stood beside the sofa.

"I thought you might like some flowers," he stammered. "When one is ill, they make a difference, so I brought you these. You used to be so fond of them once."

"It is so still," was the low rejoinder. "It is like that with me still, Basil."

Entering with the lamp an hour later, Sarah Collett stood motionless in the doorway. On the edge of the sofa sat the man with "no female belongings," and Bridget Beecher was looking at him, a new light in her eyes, a new color in her cheeks.

"Sarah," she said softly, "will you stay with me while I am married?"

WRITING TO COMMITTEE

Teachers Placing Salary Requests Before Members of School Board.

Legislators From Duluth Will Probably Be Appealed To.

Duluth grade teachers, who have started an agitation for higher salaries, are conducting their campaign on a systematic basis. At each building a committee of teachers is preparing a letter to the members of the committee on schools and teachers of the board of education. Each letter will set forth the reasons for the teachers in that particular building asking increased salaries, and will ask the members of the committee to do what they can to obtain the requested increases for the teachers.

Within the next day or two the teachers will take up with the members of the legislature the subject of adjusting the taxation limitations so that the way may be opened for the board to increase the salaries of teachers. The Congdon bill in its present form is not satisfactory to the teachers, who want it to include a repeal of the provision fixing the limit of the general fund taxation at 8 mills.

The members of the board believe that, although rigid economy in some departments and the money that will be produced by increased valuation will give some funds to meet increases in teachers' salaries, no general and extensive increases can be made until the limit is taken off of the general fund, or extended to 9 or 10 mills. The board members believe that the district can keep within the 12-mill limitation for the total levy, as proposed by the Congdon bill, but they believe that they should be given discretion in the apportionment of the sum produced under that limitation.

In the meantime, the committee on schools and teachers is considering the election of teachers for the coming year and the salaries to be paid. Until the financial tangle is cleared up, it is doubtful if the committee can make a report that will be satisfactory to the teachers and there may be some delay until a conference is secured with the legislators from this city.

RAILROAD MEN BACK FROM TRIP.

Mart Adson, general passenger agent of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railway, returned this morning from Chicago. A. J. Perrin, special agent of the same railroad, returned this morning from Kansas City, and C. L. Kenboly, commercial agent of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, returned from Chicago on the morning train.

According to the statement of Mr. Kennedy, who attended a meeting of some freight men, business conditions in the railroad world are looking somewhat brighter.

Mr Adson met a number of passenger men in Chicago and returns with the idea that travel will be very good the coming spring and summer.

Mr. Perrin stated that conditions in Missouri are fine and that the people of Kansas City are very well satisfied.

Ice Out at La Crosse.

La Crosse, Wis., March 9.—The ice moved out of the harbor here today, marking officially the opening of navigation on the upper Mississippi river.

A VALUABLE SUGGESTION

Information of Importance to Everyone

A great deal of pain and suffering might be avoided if we had some knowledge of physiology and the care of the body, particularly those parts that do the most work and should always be kept strong and healthy.

In an interview with a prominent physician he states that people should pay more attention to their kidneys as they control the other organs to a remarkable degree and do a tremendous amount of work in removing the poisons and waste matter from the system by filtering the blood.

During the winter months especially, when we live an indoor life, the kidneys should receive some assistance when needed, as we take less exercise, drink less water and often eat more rich heavy food, thereby forcing the kidneys to do more work than Nature intended. Evidence of kidney trouble, such as lame back, inability to hold urine, smarting or burning, brick-dust or sediment, sallow complexion, rheumatism, may be weak or irregular heart action, warns you that your kidneys require help immediately to avoid more serious trouble.

An herbal medicine containing no minerals or opiates has the most healing influence. An ideal herbal compound that has had remarkable success as a kidney remedy is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by mail, absolutely free. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and mention The Duluth Daily Herald.

WHERE DO YOU KEEP YOURS?

A prominent Duluthian lost his life insurance policy a short time ago—hunted everywhere for it—home, office, factory.

Told us about it. Do you know what he had to do to get a new one? Had to advertise the loss for six weeks. Had to establish his personal identity—give bonds of identification for twice the amount of the policy to the insurance company—worried for fear he would die before he could get all of these matters adjusted. He has a new policy now deposited in one of our boxes. No more worry. Cost: $3.00 per year.

HAINES MAY "OPEN UP"

Man Who Muckraked the Legislature Will Speak in Duluth.

Will Talk to Lakesiders, Commercial Club and Church Brotherhoods.

Lynn Haines, the caustic critic of the Minnesota legislature, who published a book a few years ago that sent a few tremors through the state and caused something of a seismic disturbance in the legislative halls at St. Paul, will be in Duluth tomorrow and Saturday. In connection with his visit, the officers of the Lakeside club believe they have a real treat in store for visitors to the club meeting tomorrow evening, when Mr. Haines will give an address on legislative doings and state politics in general.

Mr. Haines has been a figure at the capitol for a number of years during legislative sessions, and he hasn't hesitated at any time to bluntly state his opinion of the affiliations of legislators and the activities of the "brewery interests," and other opponents of what Mr. Haines regarded as desirable legislation. He is expected to speak plainly at the Lakeside meeting and a large crowd is expected to hear him.

Saturday noon at the Commercial club Mr. Haines will be the guest of a few friends at luncheon. He will speak on "The Hold-up Legislature."

Saturday night at the First M. E. church Mr. Haines will address a gathering of members of the different brotherhoods of the city. His subject has not been announced, but he will probably deal with the Minnesota Voters' league, for which he wrote his book, and the objects for which the league is working.

SUPERIOR

"OWL" CARS ON INTERSTATE LINE

Accommodations Proposed for Late Travelers Between Duluth and Superior.

That "owl" cars will be run on the interstate line of the Duluth Street Railway company between Duluth and Superior, is said to have been practically promised by General Manager Herbert Warren to a delegation from the Superior city council headed by Alderman John Schafer yesterday.

The need of "owl" car service between the towns was pointed out to Mr. Warren by members of the committee, who contended that there was no question but what such a service would be well patronized. The Superior delegation also asked for late night service to Allouez.

With Mr. Warren, it was a question whether the improvement in service would be warranted by increased patronage. However, he indicated his desire to comply as fully as possible with every request of the visiting delegation.

NOT MUCH CHANCE TO EXERCISE SUFFRAGE.

Douglas county women, except those living in the city of Superior, who desire to vote in the spring school election will be compelled to register under the new primary and non-partisan election law.

In Douglas county there will be no issue and only one candidate for the women to vote for this year. A. N. Young is the only candidate in the field and the chances are that he will be unopposed.

COMMERCIAL CLUB WILL MOVE TO NEW QUARTERS.

The lease of the fourth floor of the Board of Trade building for a term of years was turned over to the Superior Commercial club yesterday and the deal for the new club quarters closed. The club will occupy the place about June 1.

The association will spend about $2,000 for furnishing the new apartments. Most of this amount has already been subscribed.

Will Play Rice Lake.

The Superior and Rice Lake high schools will meet at basket ball, the winner to represent North Wisconsin at the state basket ball tournament at Appleton. The date of the game has not been set, but it is understood that it must be played some time before March 20. The state tournament will be held in April.

BIG WATER MAIN MAY BE BROKEN

Crew Excavating to Locate Break at Twenty-Fourth Avenue East.

The water and light department has a crew of men excavating at Twenty-fourth avenue east to locate a break in one of the water mains which occurred about 10 o'clock this morning. Both a 6-inch supply main and a 36-inch force main pass this point, and the department is of the opinion that the larger main is broken.

Should this be found to be the case the force main will have to be shut off and the city supplied from the reservoirs at Fifteenth avenue east and West Duluth, which hold approximately a supply sufficient for two days. In the meantime the department requests that consumers use as little water as possible.

TALK ON THE FAMILY COW

McGuire Will Tell How to Make Her Pay Expenses.

Every Consumer of Milk Is Invited to the Lecture.

Prof. A. J. McGuire, director of the state experimental station at Grand Rapids, will deliver a lecture on "The Family Dairy" at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow night, the address being the next to the last of the series being conducted jointly by the Y. M. C. A. and the Commercial club.

Prof. McGuire's subject is regarded as one of the most interesting in the series and special invitations have been sent to all the dairymen in and around Duluth to attend. But not only dairymen, but every dealer in and consumer of milk, should be interested, in the opinion of the Y. M. C. A. and Commercial club officers in charge of the series, and they look for one of the biggest crowds gathered this winter.

"Many people owning cows feed the animals too much and their milk is costing them more than it should," said A. B. Hostetter, agricultural expert of the Commercial club, today. "Some people pay more for their milk by keeping a cow than they would if they bought the milk at 9 cents a quart. They should attend this meeting and hear something about the care of a cow. Every dairyman can learn something from Prof. McGuire's address and we want everybody to join in the discussion that will follow."

The last address of the series will be given March 24 by George H. Maxwell, representative of the American Homecroft association.

TAWNEY HEADS NEW COMMISSION

Will Be Chairman of Body to Define Boundary of Waters.

Washington, March 9.—The international joint commission to define and regulate the boundary waters between the United States and Canada it was announced informally at the White House today, will be made up of Former Representative James A. Tawney of Minnesota, chairman; Former Senator Thomas A. Carter of Montana, and Frank S. Streeter, Republican national committeeman from New Hampshire. The commission is to exist under a treaty of May 13, 1910. The Canadian members have not yet been named.

PREPARING FOR REVALUATION

Good Progress in Arranging Card Index in Assessor's Office.

The preliminary preparations for the complete revaluation of Duluth's real estate property are progressing at a rapid rate in the office of the city assessor. The cards which will be used are being gotten out as fast as possible. There are about 50,000 real estate descriptions in Duluth, and over 50,000 have been entered. The value of the property have not been entered, but the descriptions of the various lots are being listed, together with the last assessed valuation, and the cards arranged in order.

In addition to the real estate descriptions there will be about 10,000 additional buildings to be booked, and approximately as many personal property assessments. The entire office is now being established on a card system, which is found to be far in advance of the system formerly in use.

ARRESTED IN WILLISTON.

Culbertson, Mont., Cashier, Under Suspicion, Is Caught.

Williston, N. D., March 9.—H. C. Delaney, a Montana banker, formerly of Williston, for whom a warrant was issued, was arrested here two days ago by Sheriff Kelly. Simultaneously with the arrest of Delaney came the report that Cashier Bostwick of the Culbertson bank is being sought by the sheriff of Valley county, Mont. This bank is closed and it is alleged that the bank is short $15,000.

Mr. Delaney was president of the Culbertson bank and also of the Citizens' National bank of Havre, having sold his interest in the Citizens' National bank of Williston a few years ago.

FEW CONTAGIOUS DISEASE CASES

No Smallpox and Only One Case of Diphtheria in City.

Duluth is in a most healthy condition, according to the records of the health department. There is not a single case of smallpox and but one case of diphtheria. The scarlet fever has dropped from thirty to eighteen cases in the last two or three weeks. This will enable the officials of the department to devote most of their time to the sanitary complaints and the annual spring clean-up, which is now being planned.

BRIDGES UNDER INSPECTION

Engineer Begins His Annual Search for Weak Structures.

The city engineering department started its annual spring inspection of bridges this morning. All wooden structures inside the corporate limits will be examined for any weak spots, which will be marked and repaired at the earliest possible moment. The inspections of the last few years have generally found numerous improvements necessary, as many of the bridges are old and decaying rapidly.

LOOSE STONE ON POINT OF ROCKS

The board of public works' crew which has been busy at the Point of Rocks the last two days, has found a large quantity of loose stone near the edge and on the face of the cliff.

A large amount of it was taken away yesterday, and more is being hauled away today.

The cliff was examined by the city engineer Tuesday, following the report that a man had been struck on the head by a stone which fell from the cliff, while he was walking along Michigan street near Thirteenth avenue west.

CONFERS WITH FINANCIERS.

Mexican Minister Has Talk With Morgan and Others.

New York, March 9.—Jose Ives Limantour, the Mexican minister of finance conferred today on the Mexican situation with J. P. Morgan, Jr., D. P. Bennett, vice president of the National Railways of Mexico, and several other financiers. It was stated that Cecil Grenfell, a member of the British parliament was expected to join the conference.

Mr. Limantour, during the progress of the conference said he had received from the department of foreign affairs in Mexico City, a copy of the telegram sent to President Diaz by President Taft. Commenting on this telegram Mr. Limantour said:

"This communication from President Taft to President Diaz, will, I am sure, be reassuring to my government and should be to my people, who, naturally, have been greatly discouraged by the sensational statements which have been made by the press. It is impossible for me to understand why sensational developments should be expected with the two peoples whose relations are so well defined as those of Mexico and the United States are and who are living and for a long time have lived as such good neighbors."

New Hill City School.

Aitkin, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—County Superintendent E. H. Hall was at Hill City recently visiting schools. He found four teachers employed and the enrollment trebled during the past year and still growing. Good work is being done, considering the crowded condition. But this crowded condition will probably not last long, as an election is to be held soon to vote upon the proposition to bond the district for $24,700 for a new school building, to be erected on the splendid site recently bought, which is ample for agricultural experiment work.

MINOT WORKING TO GET GRAND TRUNK

Commercial Club Leaving No Stone Unturned to Secure Big Canadian Line.

Minot, N. D., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—A call to the people of Minot to rally to the support of the Commercial club in its efforts to induce the Grand Trunk Pacific railroad to build into Minot was issued Tuesday by Secretary Ellis of the club in accordance with instructions from the board of directors of the club which took up the Grand Trunk Pacific matter.

The directors of the club met with R. E. Barron, cashier of the Second National bank, to whom the proposition of the Grand Trunk Pacific railroad was presented and who referred the matter to the club. The directors agreed that the securing of the Grand Trunk Pacific railroad was of supreme importance to the city of Minot, and they immediately appointed a committee consisting of A. M. Thompson and H. L. Halvorson, who will prepare and circulate a petition to be signed by every business man of the city, addressed to the officials of the company and urging them to steer toward Minot in building south from Regina.

Sufficient information was laid before the club by Mr. Barron to convince the directors of the club that the Grand Trunk Pacific means business, and the directors will do everything in their power to show to the Grand Trunk officials that Minot will welcome them to this city.

HARBOR WILL SOON BE OPEN

United States Report Shows Little Ice in Lake Superior.

St. Mary's River Still Frozen From Bank to Bank.

If the present warm weather continues, the ice in the local harbor will soon disappear. Near the canal there is now but about eighteen inches, and it is becoming weaker all the time. In other parts of the harbor the ice is from twenty-two to thirty-six inches thick and is yet solid.

The local engineer's office reports that the ice in this end of Lake Superior does not amount to very much, and that it is less than last year.

According to the United States ice report for the lakes, there is more ice on the lakes as a whole than there was a year ago. The report states that there is more ice in Lake Michigan than a year ago, but that in Lakes Erie and Huron there is not nearly so much as last year. Ontario is about the same as last year.

At Two Harbors the ice in the harbor is broken, and there are but small moving fields in the lake. At Ashland there is twenty-six inches of ice in the harbor. At Portage the harbor ice is about nine inches thick and large fields extend two miles out into the lake. At Houghton there is thirteen inches of ice in the harbor, and it is yet solid. There is not much ice at Marquette. The field was driven out by the wind recently. There is twenty-two inches of ice at Grand Marais. At Whitefish Point there is no open water visible. There is twenty inches of ice in the harbor at Sault Ste. Marie.

A summary of the ice conditions follows:

"The reports from the regular and display stations of the weather bureau and the meteorological service of Canada indicate that large ice fields are moving with the winds over the middle and western portions of Lake Superior. There is no open water visible from Whitefish Point. Whitefish bay is filled with heavily windrowed ice. The St. Mary's river is solid. In Green bay the ice ranges from twelve to fifteen inches; as there is no snow on the ice it will disintegrate rapidly. In Lake Michigan small fields are reported over the southern and central portions. The harbors are open from Sturgeon bay southward along the west shore and up the east shore to Frankfort. In the extreme northern portions the fields are extensive and slightly heavier than last year. The Straits of Mackinac are covered with ice ranging from sixteen to twenty-one inches in thickness. From Mackinaw eastward the ice is comparatively smooth. From McGulpins Point westward beyond vision it is heavily windrowed. Extensive fields of comparatively thin ice are reported over the northern portions of Lake Huron. Georgian bay reported covered with solid ice. Some heavy ice is reported in the bays and inlets around Lake St. Clair. The last of the solid ice in Detroit river, between Fighting Island and Lake Erie, moved out about Feb. 14. Fields of soft broken ice surround the islands in the western end of Lake Erie. Extensive fields are reported from Conneaut harbor to Buffalo. Very little ice is reported in Lake Ontario over the western and central portions. Extensive fields of ice prevail in the northern portion. The harbors at Charlotte and Coburg are reported open."

FIREMEN WILL SURELY STRIKE

Unless Railroad Company Takes Negro From Preferred Runs.

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 9.—Whether the ultimatum presented late yesterday to the management of the Cincinnati, New Orleans & Texas Pacific railroad by the firemen on the system, declaring that a strike would take effect at 5:20 p. m. today unless white firemen are granted preference over negroes, shall take effect, was dependent upon a conference here today between representatives of the men and the railroad. The men assured Vice President Powell that they would take care of locomotives attached to mail cars, but would not haul passenger or freight cars if the men strike.

Vice President H. O. Treat of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen today said:

"Unless the company agrees to take off all negro firemen from preferred freight runs, as well as passenger runs, we will call the men out at 5:30, according to the order issued last night. The firemen will leave their engines wherever they may be, whether they are passenger or freight engines."

Vice President Powell for the railroad company said:

"This is not a question of wages, but of the interpretation of a printed rule or contract. I do not think there will be trouble."

COMPANY C IS INSPECTED

Makes Creditable Showing Before Maj. H. V. Eva at the Armory.

Regular Army Inspection Will Be Conducted Next Week.

Company C, M. N. G., made a creditable showing last evening at the Armory when it was inspected by Maj. H. V. Eva. Company C can always be depended upon to give a good account of itself and it did not fail last night. With its full complement of seventy-six men, it went through the maneuvers with precision and dispatch and the inspecting officer was well pleased.

Next Tuesday evening, Company A, the last of the companies to be inspected by the battalion commander, will have its inspection.

Beginning next Monday evening, the companies of Maj. Eva's battalion will undergo the regular army inspection, Capt. Branford, U. S. A., who is stationed at Fort Snelling being the designated inspecting officer. Capt. Branford's regiment will probably be on the Mexican border, but Capt. Branford will be here to conduct the inspection unless the militia officers are also ordered to the border.

Company M of Hibbing will be inspected Monday night at Hibbing. Company F of Eveleth, Tuesday night, Company C here Wednesday night, Company E Thursday night and Company A Friday night. The inspection being conducted this week by Maj. Eva is in the nature of a preliminary inspection and muster in preparation for the regular army inspection.

UNION CHURCH IS FLOURISHING

Reports Submitted at First Annual Meeting of the Organization.

At the monthly meeting of the church board of the Union church, reports were submitted showing the work of the past year. The church, though holding services for some time previous, took the definite form of an organization in February, 1910, and the financial report of the past year's work was highly gratifying to the members, showing all bills paid up to date, with a balance in the treasury. Twenty-five new members were added to the church, and both Sunday school and Endeavor societies were reported in splendid condition.

The Sunday school is of peculiar interest in that it has abandoned the international topics prepared for Sunday schools, and has had lessons prepared by a committee on practical every-day Christianity. Rev. Bruce Black, pastor of the church, has charge of the adult class, which numbers about fifty, and there are other classes for all ages. The increase in attendance at the Sunday school hour has been very noticeable since starting with the new topics.

The church is particularly of a union nature and has in its membership members of almost every creed. One peculiar feature of the church and all its branches is that it is supported entirely by free will offerings. The services are held at the K. P. hall, 118 West Superior street, and are open to all.

Following is the list of the Sunday school subjects and references for the next six weeks:

March 12—Poise Between Faith and Work, James ii, 14-26.

March 19—Poise Amidst Confusion, Mark iv, 37-41.

April 2—How to Use Spiritual Suggestion, Matt. v, 13-16.

April 9—How to Develop Your Talents, Acts, iii, 1-6.

April 16—How to Live the Complete Today, Matt. vi, 28-31.

SUICIDE FALLS FIVE STORIES

Man Shoots Himself and Plunges From Roof to Ground.

New York, March 9.—Standing on the edge of the roof of a tenement house early today an unidentified man sent two revolver bullets into his head. His body crashed to the street five stories below, and an ambulance surgeon who examined it said death from the bullet wounds must have been instantaneous.

That the suicide had intended to make sure of dying if his revolver failed him was indicated by the finding on the roof of a bottle filled with a powerful acid.

NEGRO KILLS EIGHT PERSONS IN KENTUCKY.

Glasgow, Ky., March 9.—"Doc" Massey, a negro, believed to be insane, killed a negro deputy sheriff and seven members of a family in Hart county last night. Massey escaped and a posse is scouring the country for him

STREET WILL BE FLUSHED

Pavements Will Be Given the First Washing of the Year.

Board Has No Money to Pay for Carting Away Ice.

The downtown streets will probably get their first flushing of the year tonight.

No attempt will be made to wipe the surfaces clean as a billiard ball. The only effort will be towards making an improvement. The highways have been getting worse at a rapid rate in the last few days, until it is almost imperative that something be done.

The dirt has been accummulating on them since last fall, but has not been apparent because of the snow. But as the frozen covering has been disappearing, the streets have been getting filthier, until now they are almost impassable in places and whole blocks are one mucky puddle several inches deep. It would not be safe to wash the surface entirely clean at one time, as the sewers would be almost certain to clog. Even without the flushing some of them are choked and have to be cleaned out before they will carry away the surface water. Tonight it is expected to turn a large amount of clear water into them and then push a part of the dirt on the streets along with it. It was suggested to the authorities some time ago that the snow and ice on the downtown streets ought to be carted away. But at the mention of the idea they threw up their hands with the query, "Where are we going to get the money? It would cost thousands of dollars to haul the stuff away. We realize that that would probably be the most satisfactory way of solving the problem, but the financial condition of the city will not permit of it. If we spend money in this way we would cripple ourselves so badly that needed work which is of really more importance would have to be abandoned. We couldn't think of it."

The sewer commissioner has looked the situation over and is rather skeptical of the plan to flush the streets, but it is thought that a great improvement can be made with the exercise of proper care.

SAYS DOCTORS ARE NEGLIGENT

Mrs. Lee Complains That Tuberculosis Cases Are Not Reported Promptly.

New cases of tuberculosis are being reported to Mrs. Florence Lee, visiting nurse of the city tubercular committee, at the rate of almost one a day. Notices of them are being sent in by neighbors and friends, and all of them are being investigated by Mrs. Lee as rapidly as possible.

She states that the physicians are not reporting their cases as they should. This makes the work heavier, as instead of getting the information necessary from the physicians, she has to look up the cases and then find the physician, reversing the usual process.

The majority of those who come in are in the advanced stage. They have been traveling about the community, exposing their families, friends and the general public to the dreaded white plague. Were the cases reported in time by the physicians, the nurse would be able in most of them to take precautions to prevent the spread of the disease.

JUMPS INTO SAND PILE, QUENCHING FIRE IN CLOTHES.

Mankato, Minn., March 9.—A small elevator owned by Byrnes Bros. of Wells was burned Tuesday, as a result of a gasolene explosion. The manager, S. H. Grannis, started a fire under the cylinder of the gasoline engine, and then, after warming up the engine, thought he put out the fire. Then he poured gasoline into the engine, but some coals caused an explosion. Mr. Grannis' clothing was set on fire. When he ran out with his clothing blazing, some workmen buried him in a sand pile and saved his life. The loss was about $3,000, mostly covered by insurance.

WARM WEATHER BRINGS WOODSMEN FLOCKING IN

The first warm and gentle spring weather has already sent many of the workers from the camps. They are dropping in and today there is more than the usual number of men on the streets. This, too, in spite of the fact that not one of the numerous camps located in the vicinity of Duluth has broken up for the season.

It is nothing more or less than atmospherical impression. As spring in the more tender walks of life turneth the thoughts of the young man to love, so doth the same old spring turn to errant thoughts of the worker in the woods toward a trip to Duluth and a "time" on the Bowery.

The promise of a number of jobs at railroad work has brought some of the woodsmen in. This morning Duluth employment offices were turning men away, about the first time this season, so many applications were there for work in the railroad gangs.

One office employed thirty-five of the very best men it could select, and turned the remainder of applicants back. During the past two months the offices in this city have been vainly trying to hire men to meet the demands of the big lumbering companies operating the camps.

According to the men coming in from the camps today, the roads are still in fairly good condition, though a week or two of the kind of weather experienced at the present time will make it next to impossible to get the logs to the railroad tracks.

In some camps it has been necessary to repair the roads at various places by hauling snow. There is more snow in the woods than there is in Duluth and logging operations can continue up to the middle of the present month, or even later, with any kind of cold weather.

It is expected that some of the camps will be through in the next ten days, which will mean the coming to Duluth of a large number of laborers. The pulpwood business has employed an unusually large number of men, and when the camps begin to break up there will be a lot of idle men on the market, for a short time at least.

COMPLAIN OF CRUELTY

Two Wives Ask Divorce on Grounds of Inhuman Treatment.

Mrs. Liden Says Husband Is Also an Habitual Drunkard.

Two divorce actions were filed with the clerk of the district court this morning. Bertha Cosgrove, 47 years old, wants a decree from her husband, Timothy Cosgrove, 38 years old, and Agusta Liden, 38, wants freedom from Lars N. Liden, 53.

Mrs. Bertha Cosgrove states in her complaint that they were married at Herrick, S. D., in 1907. At the time of the marriage she was a widow with four children.

She complains that she has been subjected to a long and systematic course of cruel and inhuman treatment. She states that for some months past her husband has not spoken a pleasant word to her.

On many occasions he has gone away and said he would never return; but he has always come back and promised to be good, she says.

At the supper table on March 3, the present year, he jumped up, struck the plaintiff and tried to choke her. When the children interfered he struck them, according to the complaint.

On one occasion he ordered the whole family out of the house, but later reconsidered and allowed the rest of the family to occupy the kitchen while he took possession of the rest of the house. They have been living this way for some time, according to the story of the plaintiff.

He refuses to contribute to the support of the family. The wife claims that she is afraid of him and petitions the court to make some provision for her and the children pending the proceedings.

Agusta Liden claims that her husband, Lars N. Liden, is an habitual drunkard. She claims that on numerous occasions he has struck, beat and bruised her and gives instances of being thrown on the floor and pounded about.

She asks an absolute divorce and allmony in whatever amount the court deems just.

Two large audiences saw "Cameo Kirby" at the Lyceum yesterday. The play will continue tonight and Friday and a Saturday matinee will be given.

Miss Maud Clark, who is appearing at the Orpheum this week with Billy Farnum and the Clark Sisters, was in the party with Rex Beach when the latter first went to Alaska, in 1900. John W. Considine took a company to Alaska to present musical comedy in Nome and other cities in the Far North, and Miss Clark was a member of the troupe. The ship on which they were traveling was partially destroyed by fire, and all of their costumes and scenery were burned. On reaching Nome the plans for presenting musical comedy had to be abandoned because they had no costumes or scenery, and the members of the party all got the prospecting fever. Miss Clark staked out several claims, and she still has one of them, which may yet prove valuable.

"Mr. Beach was the only one of the party who profited by the trip," said Miss Clark. "The material which he gathered there he used in his novels and plays, and they made him both wealthy and famous. George Quigley, who was here last week with the Quigley Bros., was a member of that company."

New bills of photoplay opened at the Odeum and Lyric theaters yesterday for the last half of the week. At the Odeum, "The Heart of the Savage" is the feature photoplay, and other films are "Wedding Gifts" and "The Clock Struck Nine." I. S. Mistachkin is singing the illustrated song, "My Country His First Call." At the Lyric the feature film is a picture showing the funeral of the late Archbishop Ryan. Other films are "Lieut. Scott's Escapade" and "When the Night Wanes." The illustrated song by Miss Maddox is "Come Josephine in My Flying Machine."

"The Lily," David Belasco's dramatic sensation of the season, will be one of the early attractions at the Lyceum, coming here from Mr. Belasco's theater, New York, with Nance O'Neil and Charles Cartwright.

"The Lily" finds its name from a class of women well recognized in France but little known as a special type in America. They are the women who have been denied the joys of love and matrimony, simply to appease the dread worn tradition of sex. In France everything is sacrificed for the advancement of the sons, while in this country it is for the sake of the daughters.

Father of Thief River Falls Press to Start Times.

Thief River Falls, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thief River Falls will have a third newspaper on Friday, when H. E. Mussey, an old newspaper man of this section, will print the first issue of the Thief River Falls Times. He is associated with his son, Homer L. Mussey. It is a peculiar coincidence that Mr. Mussey published the first edition of the Press of this city just twenty years ago the first of last month, in the very building from which he will print the Times.

EASY WAY TO IMPROVE YOUR COMPLEXION

(From Philadelphia Press.)

In an address before the convention of "Beauty Specialists" here today, Mrs. Mae Martyn, the noted authority on beauty culture, spoke of a new and simple method of quickly beautifying complexions. She demonstrated before the large audience a lotion made from 4 ounces spurmax dissolved in ½ pint hot water with 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine added. She applied this lotion gently to the face, neck and arms of a decidedly unattractive young woman. In a few moments all trace of a shiny, sallow, muddy skin was gone and the transformation to that of a really charming, velvety complexion was marvelous.

After much excitement and intense interest, Mrs. Martyn said: "Any druggist can supply the ingredients for this lotion at a small cost. It does not rub off or show like powder and is an unequaled aid to beauty.

BRINGS JOY TO FISHERMEN

Trout Streams May Be Clear By Opening of Season.

The present weather is bringing joy to the hearts of the fishermen, who are already getting out the long rubber boots, the rods and other paraphernalia.

If the present weather continues, about two weeks will put the streams in fair shape, and the hungry trout will be ready to grab the hook when the season opens.

The season opens April 15. As a usual thing there is not much fishing until along after May 1, but in the event of an early spring there may be some good sport on the day the season opens.

The ice is being broken and swept away in the streams at the present time. Later they will be full of muddy water and during that time it will be useless to try to catch the speckled beauties.

When the water begins to grow clear and go down the fishermen will get ready for their annual trip. Many of the streams were stocked last year and there should be some good fishing close to the city this season.

CASS COUNTY EXHIBIT.

First Display to Be Made This Year at State Fair.

Walker, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The county board yesterday appropriated $500 for a county exhibit of agricultural products at the next state fair. A committee of three was named to have charge of the exhibit, the board naming N. Koll, while the Pillager and Pine River agricultural societies are to name the other two members. Cass county has never had an exhibit of any kind at the state fair, and it is thought that by falling in line with other counties in this respect, much good will be accomplished in the way of future settlement when once the resources of this county are better known.

FOURTH WILL BE SILENT

Preparations Being Made for Public Exhibitions of Fireworks.

Duluth Children Will Not Be Allowed to Purchase Crackers.

The only display of fireworks which has been ordered for Duluth for the coming "Glorious Fourth," is that of the country club, which has made a feature of this holiday for several years past.

More elaborate pieces will be seen this year than have ever been set off in the city. An extensive selection has been secured for the club by C. N. Ziegler, who will have charge of the pyrotechnics.

It is estimated that the cost of the display will exceed $500.

Thus far no other celebrations are assured, but many of the patriotic business men are planning a public display, which, if carried out, will rival that of the country club. The funds will be raised by public subscription and the fireworks shown in one of the downtown parks, probably that at Twelfth avenue east and London road, which is the most convenient. The circulation of the list for the wherewithal has not yet been started, but it is stated that it will be on is way in a comparatively short time.

All of which brings to mind the fact that the "kids" will experience their first "silent" Fourth. None of them will be able to make the day loud with firecrackers of any kind, toy pistols, or other noise-making devices. Nor will they be able to gather on the porches or the front yards of their homes to see Roman candles, skyrockets, and other kinds of colored fire light the heavens.

Last year the city council passed an ordinance strictly prohibiting the sale of fireworks of any kind in Duluth. This was done after the city fathers had been given figures showing that the list of casualties from Fourth of July accidents has been constantly growing larger, and that Duluth boys and girls have not been exempt. Public exhibitions of fireworks are permitted under proper conditions.

apolis offerd some slight amendments, which were accepted by Mr. Keefe and adopted by the house. The principal change is that doing away with "Statement No. 2," which simply declares that the legislative candidate regards the vote of the people as advisory and not binding on his action in the election of a United States senator. Experience shows that very few candidates sign Statement No. 2 where the Oregon plan is in effect. Another change requires that in preparing the ballots on which the names of legislative candidates appear it shall be made clear to the voters whether the candidates have pledged themselves to abide by the choice of the people.

Talks for the bill were made by Representative Keefe, who made a brief address which was heartily applauded, and by Representatives Campbell and Mattson.

The Oregon plan is about the best scheme yet devised for anticipating the time when the Federal Constitution will be amended so that United States senators will be elected by the direct vote of the people.

It provides that the parties shall nominate senatorial candidates at the primary election, and that the names of the successful candidates shall be placed on the general election ballot. The voters will choose between them at the general election.

Under the Federal Constitution, legislatures must elect United States senators, and no legislator can be bound legally to vote for the choice of the people. However, the Keefe bill, following the Oregon system, provides that candidates for the legislature may sign a statement to the following effect: "I further state to the people of Minnesota and of my legislative district that, during my term of office, I will always vote for the candidate for senator in congress from this state who has received the highest number of the people's votes for that position at the general election next preceding the election of a senator in congress."

The signing of this declaration is not obligatory, but the system in practice has shown that nearly all candidates do sign it.

The Tonnage Tax Bill.

The action of the house yesterday in refusing to adopt the report of the tax committee recommending the tonnage tax bill for indefinite postponement was not surprising, in view of the fact that the house has adopted the new custom of overturning committee reports wherever the authors have asked for it, particularly if the measures involved were of any importance at all. Many measures have thus been rescued from adverse committee reports when there hasn't been the slightest probability that they would be passed by the house. The state-wide prohibition bill is a recent and conspicuous example.

The vote—70 to 41 for making the bill a special order—looks pretty strong, but it is known that enough members are among the seventy who will not vote for the bill on final passage to prevent its becoming a law.

Yesterday's vote was as follows, the list showing the names of the members voting and the counties from which they come:

For the special order—Andrew Anderson, Washington; A. V. Anderson, Goodhue; J. J. Anderson, Douglas; G. W. Brown, McLeod; Burnquist, Ramsey; Campbell, Hennepin; Christie, Mower; Conley, Olmsted; Converse, Becker; Crane, Mower; Davies, Watonwan; Denzer, Le Sueur; Diessner, Carver; Edwards, Wilkin; Frankson, Fillmore; Greene, Ramsey; Haften, Wright; Harding, Faribault; Hauge, Washington; Herzberg, Blue Earth; Holmberg, Renville; Holten, Polk; Hopkins, Renville; C. Good Roads Bill Passed.

The senate yesterday afternoon passed one of the R. C. Dunn good roads bills, and only failed to pass the other because the hour was late when it was reached, so it was placed at the head of the calendar with the privilege of amendment.

The bill passed was that providing the administrative machinery for a comprehensive system of road building in Minnesota and supplying the money needed for its use. This passed 57 to 2, only Senators Dale and Sageng voting against it.

The bill that was laid over was the proposed constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to levy a tax of 1 mill for roads instead of the present allowance of a quarter of a mill.

The first bill gives the state highway commission $150,000 a year to be used in employing expert road engineers to supervise and in state and local road work. It also increases the road tax levy from one-twentieth of a mill to a quarter of a mill.

Senator J. M. Hackney of St. Paul had charge of the bill and spoke for it. Senator Moonan then moved that as the author of the bill, Representative R. C. Dunn, was present, he be invited to address the senate and explain the bills, which he did. This is a very unusual proceeding, as it is not customary for members of one body to be given the privilege of speaking in behalf of their measures in the other branch of the legislature.

Senator Boyle of Eveleth spoke for the bills. He said that he had not heard a word of protest against the bills from anybody in St. Louis county, though under the 1-mill road tax that county would pay about $300,000 and couldn't get back to exceed $36,000. However, the business men of the county figure that through the development of Northern Minnesota which would follow the application of the proposed system of good roads, Duluth and St. Louis county would be amply repaid.

Senator J. D. Sullivan of St. Cloud said that this is one of the few bills which the legislature could pass and go home confident that its work had been worth while. Senators Stebbins and Duxbury also spoke for the bill.

The only semblance of a fight was on a set of amendments proposed by Senator Swanson, from Mr. Dunn's district. He wanted to amend the bill to limit the pay of the expert engineers to $6 a day, and that amendment was killed. He wanted to knock out the provision for an annual appropriation and appropriate only for the next two years, and his amendment to that effect was killed. So were his amendments to allot to each county the amount of road money it would get under the bill and to eliminate the civil service feature of the measure. A similar fate befell Senator Sageng's amendment to cut the appropriation from $150,000 to $50,000.

The bill was then passed, 57 to 2.

The 1-mill tax bill was taken up, and the senate rejected a proposed amendment by Senator Elwell, providing that the state should pay only half the cost of any road work except where counties contained large amounts of government and state land, and where the valuation of a county is so low that it cannot afford to pay its half of needed road work.

The hour being late, on motion of Senator Rockne the bill was put at the head of the calendar with the privilege of amendment.

County Division Bill.

The delegation from the iron ranges was unable to agree yesterday afternoon, and though a majority of its members were against the county division bill, the advocates of the measure refused to withdraw it and insisted on stating their case before the committee to which the bill has been referred. Both sides of the controversy were given to the committee, which took no action on the bill.

The outcome was a disappointment to those who are working for the best interests of St. Louis county, as there was a tacit agreement at the former meeting that if the St. Louis county delegation took up the range court bill and other matters favored by the delegates from the range, county division would be dropped. Of those who are pushing the county division bill, however, only A. P. Stillman of Hibbing stood by this agreement. V. H. Powers of Hibbing, W. J. Archer of Virginia and Joseph Austin of Chisholm insisted on pushing county division regardless of anything else.

The bill will not, however, become a law.

Those who were here in opposition to the county division bill included Gust Carlson of Hibbing, F. B. Myers and H. G. Seeley of Biwabik, John Gleason and George Whitman of Eveleth and Messrs. Miller of Ely and McNevin of Chisholm.

For Women's Gymnasium.

A bevy of beauty from the state university proved to be an irresistible lobby in behalf of the proposed women's gymnasium at the university yesterday afternoon.

Miss Elizabeth Ware of Minneapolis, Miss Rose Marie Schaller of Hastings, Miss Ruth Elwell of Minneapolis and Miss Freda Rice of Park Rapids constituted the committee which came to the capitol in behalf of the measure, and the first thing they did was to prevail upon Speaker Dunn to introduce it —the first bill he has introduced at this session.

When the bill came in, the enterprising young women were in the house chamber, and the appearance of the bill was applauded. In the enthusiasm of the moment, Representative Lennon of Minneapolis moved that the rules be suspended and the bill passed. This was going rather rapidly, but the house did consent to put the bill at the head of general orders, which does away with getting the consent of the committee on appropriations.

The senate is getting industrious. Today it started a new order of holding its sessions at 9:30 in the morning, instead of at 10.

Chris Murphy, county auditor of Cook county, told the state highway commission yesterday how forest fires had laid that county waste, and as a result was allowed $1,000 for Cook county roads. The highest allowance to any county was $1,500.

The committee on public health having reported without recommendation the Robertson bill prohibiting the bleaching of flour, the house voted yesterday afternoon to put it on general orders.

Representative Spooner yesterday afternoon introduced three bills to provide for paying newspapers for publishing the constitutional amendments last fall. The publication was given to more papers than the law allows and was published once more than the law authorizes in each paper, but the bills provide for full payment.

Representative Knapp yesterday afternoon introduced the bill providing that county agricultural schools can be established by a majority of those voting on the proposition, instead of the present requirement of a majority of those voting at the election, under which recent attempts to establish such a school in St. Louis county failed. This is one of the bills asked for by the iron range communities.

Carlton county—On the first Tuesday in April and the third Tuesday in October.

Lake county—On the first Wednesday of June and December.

The commission which declared this project feasible reckoned the cost of the canal at $9,768,457.31, and the cost of improving the Mississippi at $5,000,000.

My Cure a Miracle

MRS. MILLER WALLIS.

"Wasting away with a complication of diseases, Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey brought me back from the grave."—Mrs. Wallis.

Mrs. Wallis now recommends to every one the great tonic stimulant that saved her life.

"It was in 1906 that I was taken very sick early in the Spring and I went down hill continually until the middle of November. I seemed to have a complication of diseases. My sickness started with bloody flux, then hemorrhage of the bowels, then a cough developed and I had a hemorrhage of the lungs. All this time my bowels were loose, acting as often as every three hours. I became a skeleton, weighing only 89 pounds, while my weight before I got sick was 118 pounds. I had the best medical attention and everything was done for me that could be done, but by the first of November it seemed to be a matter of a few days with me.

"At this time a man told my husband to try Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. My husband went immediately and got a bottle and I began to mend so rapidly that everybody thought a miracle had been wrought—as indeed it had. After I had taken it for a month I was able to do my own housework. I took thirty quarts at that time and still take it occasionally. Of course we think it the greatest medicine in the world and always recommend it to our friends. Truly Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey saved my life."—Mrs. Miller Wallis, Childersburg, Ala.

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

WRITTEN FOR THE HERALD BY REV. J. S. KIRTLEY, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: MARCH 12, II Kings iv, 8-37; Elisha Restores a Child to Life.

THE CONNECTION.

This was perhaps twelve or fifteen years after Elijah's departure. Elisha has been living an active, beneficent life, directing the schools of the prophets, ministering to the erring and the needy, and as occasion demanded, rebuking the wickedness of rulers. His ministry was in contrast with that of Elijah, somewhat as "the still small voice" differs from the hurricane, the earthquake and the fire.

In his travels from place to place he stopped with friends, as there were no hotels in the East; and as he passed through Shunem, a village about four miles from Jezreel and ten from Carmel, where he spent much of his time, he always found lodging with a man whose wife was "a great woman," a woman of dignity, lofty piety, commanding personality, comfortable and liberal wealth and of a marked spirit of contentment. She and her husband built a little chamber for the traveling prophet, on the side of her house, which he could enter from the outside, by means of a stairway, at his pleasure. She had expressed contentment with her lot, when Elisha offered to speak in her behalf "to the king or to the captain of the host" for some favor for herself or her husband. Yet when Elisha's servant, Gehazi, reminded him of the fact that she was childless and the Lord authorized him to promise her that a son should be born to her, her woman's heart leaped with that hope which Jewish women especially cherished and found relief from the shame of childlessness which they so keenly felt.

Now the child of promise has become a lad of ten or twelve perhaps, and while playing in the harvest field has been overcome by the sun and been taken home to die at noon on his mother's knee. The "great woman" is great enough to seal her lips, stay her tears and seek, on swiftest steed, the aid of God's prophet, at Carmel. Calm faith, self control and easy command of circumstances mark her decision to submit the case to the Lord's prophet, through whose word the Lord had at first promised her the child.

THE LESSON.

I.

The Mother's Request. 25-28.

"So she went, and came unto the man of God to Mount Carmel. And it came to pass, when the man of God saw her afar off, that he said to Gehazi his servant, Behold, yonder is the Shunammite: run, I pray thee, now to meet her, and say unto her, Is it well with thee? is it well with thy husband? is it well with the child? And she answered, It is well. And when she came to the man of God to the hill, she caught hold of his feet. And Gehazi came near to thrust her away; but the man of God said, Let her alone: for her soul is vexed within her; and Jehovah hath hid it from me, and hath not told me. Then she said, Did I desire a son of my lord? did I not say, Do not deceive me?"

1. INTELLIGENCE.—Was it instinct or reason that told her exactly what to do? Both. To take the case to the man through whom the promise of a son was first given her is the natural and wise thing. Two forms of pain were in her soul, the loss of her child and the confusion of her mind about the meaning of it. We have guidance from God that takes us into trouble and losses, and, often, the fight for food is a small thing compared with the fight for our faith. Her action was rational in going to him with the matter, in throwing responsibility on him, by putting the corpse into the prophet's room and on his bed, by hastening to let him know what has come of the promise from God, and by delicately telling him of his responsibility in the form of a question.

That she expected one of two things, his recovery or an explanation that would clear her mind, is evident. Her determination is seen in braving adverse comment by going to the prophet, in brushing past his servant, and especially in detaching her mind from the boy to give the ordinary greeting, "Shalom," which we expand into "It is well."

2. HYPOCRISY.—Gehazi, the servant, was an undeveloped hypocrite. Elisha had not seen into his character as yet, but perhaps this woman had, and he may have suspected she had. Perhaps that was the reason he wanted to push her away, though he claimed he wanted to protect the dignity of his master.

II.

The Servant's Failure. 29-31.

"Then he said to Gehazi, Gird up thy loins, and take my staff in thy hand, and go thy way: if thou meet any man, salute him not; and if any salute thee, answer him not again: and lay my staff upon the face of the child. And the mother of the child said, As Jehovah liveth, and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee. And he arose and followed her. And Gehazi passed on before them, and laid the staff upon the face of the child; but there was neither voice nor hearing. Wherefore he returned to meet him, and told him, saying, The child is not awaked."

1. LIFE.—Elisha read the story thus half revealed and half concealed. But why did he send his servant to lay his staff upon the dead boy? He must have thought God would heal the boy through such means as well as through the prophet's contact. The urgency with which he sent Gehazi showed that Elisha was not merely acting a part, to keep up the spirits of the woman or to teach her some finely pointed lesson. He had faith in God; he had little faith in himself; therefore he thought any sort of agency would do. But not so—God does not put such honor on unworthy men. In Elisha's humble view his staff would do as well as himself for a sign of God's presence and power. To have Gehazi reach there as speedily as possible with that staff, he must gird his loins to keep his flowing robes from impeding his strides and to give vigor to his muscles; he must not stop for those long salutations which took up so much time, not even stop long enough to reply to any greetings at all.

2. INSIGHT. — The woman had a clearer view of God than Elisha, or at least, knew the value of the man of God as contrasted with the mere staff in the hands of a bad man. Her determination had a death grip. It was with a most solemn oath that she expressed her determination not to leave him till he himself would in person relieve her sorrow by going with her or by giving assurance there that the child would recover. Elisha's conception of duty was enlarged as he went. He went with her. They met Gehazi returning from his useless task. He had laid the staff on the face of the dead boy and it did not awake him. The two men were disappointed, though the woman does not seem to have been surprised.

III.

The Child Restored to Life. 32-37.

"And when Elisha was come into the house, behold, the child was dead, and laid upon his bed. He went in, therefore, and shut the door upon the twain, and prayed unto Jehovah. And he went up, and lay upon the child, and put his mouth upon his mouth, and his eyes upon his eyes, and his hands upon his hands: and he stretched himself upon him; and the flesh of the child waxed warm. Then he returned, and walked in the house once to and fro; and went up, and stretched himself upon him; and the child sneezed seven times, and the child opened his eyes. And he called Gehazi, and said, 'Call this Shunammite.' So he called her. And when she was come in unto him, he said, 'Take up thy son.' Then she went in, and fell at his feet, and bowed herself to the ground; and she took up her son, and went out."

1. SYMPATHY.—One who does God's work for men must be in sympathy with God and with men, as a wooden staff cannot be and as a bad hearted man cannot be. The family needed Elisha with them. The living friend of God is the vital medium for the transmission of God's power.

2. PRAYER.—He has to be alone, to shut out everything else and get the completest sense of God and the dead child. The power was to come from God and must be sought.

3. STRUGGLE. — Every ounce of power he had went into the struggle for the boy's life. As he exerted his strength, God put forth his power. When he was exhausted, he went into the open air and then renewed the fight. With prayer, self-abasement and the giving up of strength, he sought the end. Its gradual coming trained him in patience and faith.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

The story of Elisha abounds far more in the supernatural than that of of Elijah; his personality is upon the whole softer and more beneficent, inspires less of awe, and the whole tone of the biography is lacking in the poetic and impassioned elevation which marks the episodes of Elijah's history. —Farrar.

The incident is full of teaching concerning the most effectual way of helping. That way is not by proxy, by sending something other than yourself. We are, most of us, very fond of this "staff" way of helping. It is so much easier and less tasking. Organization is a great "staff" method just now. We get together, appoint our officers and committees, and then, delegating our individual service to the organization, imagine that somehow the organization, apart from ourselves, will do the work. But though you lay the finest possible staff of organization on the face of need, if that is all you do the need will lie there as inert and unhelped as lay the dead child of the Shunammite, though Gehazi had placed upon the boy even Elisha's staff.—Hoyt.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

1. Why is it the rational thing to take one's perplexities to God's representative first of all?
2. Why is serving God's people the same as serving Him?
3. Why should all philanthropy be made as personal as possible?
4. How can every one become a personal philanthropist?
5. Why can the most precious things only be imparted, not merely sent or taken?
6. Why is it that secret sin cannot remain secret always?

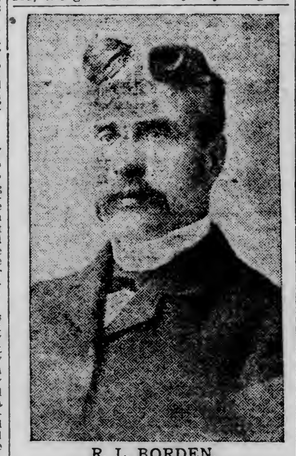
CANADA FOR RECIPROCITY

Test Vote in House Shows Government Majority of Forty-Two.

Motion of Opposition to Delay Action Is Turned Down.

Ottawa, Ont., March 9.—The strength of the government's position on reciprocity was shown in a vote taken in the house on a motion yesterday by R. L. Borden, leader of the opposition, that as American action on the agreement has been delayed, the matter be not taken up by the Canadian parliament "until the electors shall have had an oportunity of passing upon its merits."

The motion to defer action was supported by 70 members and opposed by 112, the government majority being 42.



R. L. BORDEN,
Leader of the Opposition.

Only two Liberals broke away and voted with the opposition. They had been opposed to reciprocity from the first. The interest in the situation was shown by an unusually large number of members present to vote early in the evening.

The motion of Mr. Borden is regarded as the first step in an opposition plan to delay ratification of the agreement by parliament until congress shall have finally pronounced upon it.

In support of his motion, Mr. Borden said that nothing would be lost by delay. The Democrats, who were coming into power at Washington, were pledged to lower the American tariff and it was most inopportune for Canada to confirm the agreement at present. He read a letter of Sir William Van Horne condemning the agreement.

In concluding the opposition leader said he stood for the British empire against the world and within the empire he stood for Canada.

"The president of the United States is loyally keeping his compact with Canada," replied Minister Fielding, "and he has even gone to the extraordinary step of calling an extra session of congress to keep faith with the government of Canada. For parliament to accept the motion made by Mr. Borden would mean that we should have violated our own honor. Shame on the suggestion; it is childish to say that each country should wait upon action by the other. It is our duty to go ahead and pronounce upon this agreement."

Mr. Fielding asserted his belief that a majority of United States senators had been in favor of ratifying the agreement last session, but that its passage had been blocked by the methods of a few filibustering senators, some of whom would never be seen again in the American senate.

"Canada has been trapped before," said George P. Foster, a leading member of the opposition, "into indorsing propositions which the American senate has afterwards rejected, and should not be caught again."

The debate on the resolution to ratify the agreement was resumed after the evening vote by Lloyd Harris, Liberal, who spoke against reciprocity.

(b) Andante Cantabile.
(c) Menuetto.
(d) Adagio; Allegro Vivace.
Vocal—"Nentra Gwen" (Welsh song)
Miss Jean Wanless.
Organ—"Reminiscences of Wales"....
.....Arranged by Godfrey

While the Welsh people are very musical they have not given us very many compositions which can be ranked among the great pieces for instrumental music, but few excel them in vocal music, especially in the choruses and group songs; some of our sweetest melodies have a Welsh origin and, at the same time, some of the most stirring and martial. The program therefore is mixed one, as far as the organ is concerned, but the vocal is thoroughly Welsh and is to be sung in the Welsh language and as given by Miss Wanless it will give a splendid idea of the liquid tones and musical characteristics of such songs.

The first organ number is Saint-Saens "Coronation March" with a good rhythm and melody. Following, as the second of the double number, are two distinct selections from "Il Trovatore," by Verdi. The middle group is made up of the four movements of Beethoven's first symphony, the first of the nine great compositions which stand as the guide and beacon light for all music since they were given to the world in 1823. This first marks the period between 1795 and 1802, when Beethoven had not as yet entirely got away from the influence of the composers who had preceded him, Hadyn, Mozart and others, and the form and make-up resemble greatly the compositions of those earlier composers. For this composition, it is said, he received $50 and it was first presented in Vienna in 1800. It is a charming piece of music and some musicians like it better than some of the later and more pretentious works.

The closing organ piece is a collection of Welsh airs, beginning with the martial "Men of Harlech" and ends with "God Save the Prince of Wales," with "All Through the Night" and other beautiful pieces between.

NOTES OF THE BOYS' DEPARTMENT

Five patrols of the Boys' Department Scouts met at the boys' building last evening for their monthly dinner and arrangements were made for the monthly Sunday meeting to be held next Sunday at 3 o'clock, when Scoutmaster Manville of the Two Harbors Boy Scouts will give the talk. The meeting Sunday will be open to all boys of the city, whether Scouts or not.

A camera hunt will be the outing for Saturday, and a prize will be awarded the Scout who takes the best picture. The patrols will leave the boys' building at 2 o'clock and will take their lunch. A bicycle corps, an overland trip, and a Scout play were some of the things talked over last night, as plans for the summer. The Scout first aid class meets every Saturday morning at 9:30 under the direction of Scoutmaster Batchelor. They are preparing to take the international first aid examination held in April.

Thursday evening the February Boosters will meet for dinner. The Boosters are composed of those boys who got new members during the month. The new members will also be guests.

The Sunday club and Bible study committees will meet for dinner Thursday evening at 6:15.

The minstrel show troupe had a rehearsal last evening. The boys are getting the songs down well, for the big production to be given in the boys' building March 23 and 24.

The committee in charge of the Saturday night program this week has arranged for three basket ball games, the Boys' Department Cabinet vs. Two Harbors Boys' Cabinet, the Two Harbors Boys' Scouts vs. Franklin school, and in the boys' department school league series, the Endions will play the Lakeside five. Before the games there will be music in the clubrooms, and at the close ice cream and cake will be served in the Dutch kitchen. Thornton McLean and Harold Bradley are the committee in charge.

Last night the Jefferson basket ball team defeated the Jackson school in the boys' department series. Thursday at 5:30, the Normals will play the Washington school.

TWO DELEGATES FROM DULUTH

Mayor Cullum and Bert Fesler to Attend Playgrounds Association Meeting.

Mayor Cullum and City Attorney Fesler have been appointed by the Commercail club to represent that body at the meeting of the Northwestern Playgrounds association, which will soon be held at St. Paul.

The two delegates from the Commercial club will represent the city. It is hoped that there will be representatives from the Women's Council and the Duluth Playgrounds association.

At the meeting there will be representatives from several states and nearly all the large or medium sized cities.

Matters pertaining to playgrounds and how they should be managed will be discussed. A number of well-known authorities and speakers will address the meetings.

Rheumatism Cured

Sloan's Liniment is a powerful penetrant, goes to the seat of the pain at once, and gives quick relief for any kind of rheumatism.

HERE'S PROOF.

MRS. MARGUERITE RAU, 634 Franklin Street, York, Pa., writes: "About ten weeks ago a sudden pain came in my right arm. The doctor called it inflammatory rheumatism. My arm was swollen and was black and blue. I doctored for seven weeks, but the pain was so bad I could not sleep. At last I tried your liniment, and the swelling has all gone down, and it isn't black and blue any more. Sloan's Liniment has helped me more than all the doctoring I ever did."

MISS ANNIE KNORR, of 811 Closson Ave., Brooklyn, N.Y., writes: "My mother had rheumatism so badly that she could not sleep at night, and cried from pain. She tried Sloan's Liniment. After using it for one week, she felt better and could sleep at night and she continued to use it and is cured."

THE DIFFERENCE IS VITAL.

Messrs. Moonan and Haycraft, sponsors for the bill introduced in the state legislature providing for restrictions on the number of senators that could be elected from any one county, have addressed a letter to the Pioneer Press in which they object to the criticisms of their bill made by The Herald, the Pioneer Press and the Dispatch, and claim that the attitude of the newspapers is contrary to the principle of equal representation.

Mr. Moonan and Mr. Haycraft evidently have misunderstood the attitude of The Herald. It is not opposed to the principle of equal representation, and even if it were opposed to it, the principle is laid down and established in the Constitution. From this fact there is no escape for the legislators. In their apportionment action they must make the representation equal. That is, on the basis of population. The Constitution's provisions on that point are mandatory.

But to cut down the number of senators from the various counties so that there never shall be more than four from a county is to override the equal representation principle, not to uphold it. Equal representation means that 5,000 inhabitants in one part of the state shall be as fully represented in the legislature as 5,000 in any other part of the state. If the number of senators to be elected from any one county or district is restricted to four, and the basis for senatorial representation were 10,000, for example, then a county or district with a population of 300,000 would have no more representation in the senate than one with only 40,000 population. That would not be equal representation. It would be representation that would operate to disfranchise 160,000 people in the larger county or district, an operation expressly forbidden by the Constitution.

The Moonan-Haycraft argument includes as an example the apportionment of members in the United States senate, and urges that as every state is allowed but two senators, so it would be just and fair to restrict the state senatorial representation to a given number for each county. The argument is absurd for this reason: The county is only an arbitrary division of a unit; the state is an integral part of a union. There is nothing in common between the relation of the county to the state and that of the state to the nation.

The Sixty-third legislative district of the state, for example, includes the counties of Kittson, Roseau and Marshall, and one senator was elected from that district. If the relations of the states to the nation were the same, it would be possible to group Minnesota and North and South Dakota in one district, and give but two senators from the combined states. In congress the senators represent the states themselves, while the representatives represent the people of the various districts within those states; in the legislature the representatives represent the people of their respective districts, and the senators have a sort of condensed representation similar to that of United States senators, but covering an area that comprises often two or three counties or parts of two or three instead of any one such division.

To put the difference in yet another way, the state is a constant division which constitutes a sovereign commonwealth; the county is a changeable division without any such power or right of sovereignty.

Messrs. Moonan and Haycraft are mistaken in their effort to draw a parallel between the state and the county. They are mistaken in the idea that limitation of representation in the senate would constitute equal representation. Their plan, if adopted, would work mischief and unfairness in the state government.

PROTECTING LABOR INTERESTS.

On the eve of the assembling of a new congress, the house of which is Democratic, and whose new members were elected largely on tariff reform platforms, it is interesting to think for a moment of the nature of the tariff as a protector of the interests of the laboring man. Calling attention to this feature, the Portland Telegram says:

> As the average man understands the term, protection to American labor means, or should mean, that the laborer should be steadily employed and will receive good wages. If this is not the correct construction, protection is not worth much; if it is, then the more protection, the steadier the employment and the better the wages. Appertaining to this, we have the news item from New England that at Waltham, Mass., thousands of the employes in the rubber and cotton mills are laid off for a time, and that at Fall River, Manchester, and Lawrence, most of the mills are running only four or five days in the week. There certainly must be something wrong with the protection mill. A cog has slipped somewhere, and the machinery is out of gear.

There certainly must. These two commodities and the products made from them are among the most protected articles in the Payne tariff law, and on that showing, if there is anything to the protection of labor by the tariff, the workmen employed in these mills ought to be getting more benefit from the law than anybody else. And yet, at several periods since the Payne law went into effect, dispatches from New England have told of the temporary closing of mills, and the laying off of thousands of workers. The explanation was always the same—not lack of material on which to work, but an over-stocked market; so much output that the high prices already raised artificially by the tariff, were in danger of being reduced. Therefore, in order that the people might continue to suffer from the bleeding process, and that the manufacturers might continue to make unnatural and exorbitant and unfair profits on their output, the laborers who were being protected by this same tariff were forced into idleness.

Truly, there is a cog loose somewhere, but it is not in the protective machinery. It is in the logic of the men who have been telling the laboring people what a good thing for them protection is. It has been hard to make the laboring men believe that they were not gaining by protection, but the operation of the Payne law has put the matter in a plainer light than ever before.

It does not take a diagram to show a fact like this. High tariff is an enemy to the laboring man, as it is to everybody except the manufacturer who benefits by it to control the market and manipulate prices by the artificial conditions created by the high tariff. The people have come to realize this, by bitter experience. It will take more than flowing oratory to fool them again.

A CREDIT TO CALIFORNIA.

The final lodging in state's prison of Abraham Ruef cannot help but put California in a better light before the people of the whole country than it has been the privilege of the Golden state to occupy since the famous boss first was brought to book for the methods he used in managing the affairs of San Francisco as they came under his hand. Ruef has made a brilliant fight, and the various steps in his prosecution and defense have furnished rich bits of scandal for the rest of the world to wonder at. The affair has been marked by a trail of shattered reputations, disgraceful plots, almost unlimited bribery and corruption, exposures of petty graft and bold blackmail and sensational uncovering of all sorts of encouragement of civil, social and individual vice. It has dragged courts and lawyers in the mire of public contempt, and even has stretched slimy hands to the highest judicial tribunal of the state.

How seriously the California supreme court became involved in the actual scandals of the Ruef case probably never will be known. There is an unpleasant significance in the fact that the court, having once given a decision on the final question in the case, reversed itself after threats had been made to instigate an investigation into the conduct of the court. It is not common for a supreme court, or any other, for that matter, to take such a step as this, and the fact that the step was taken only after the possibility, if not the probability, of an investigation had become apparent, and that the decision was altered to accord with the popular conception of the merits of the case, does not add particularly to the glory of the California justices.

Of Ruef's guilt there never has been any serious doubt. His successive escapes from paying the penalty for his conduct have been won through a juggling of technicalities. His great power and influence are shown by the fact that even after his sentence had been passed, he was given extraordinary opportunity to put his affairs in order. The decision that finally has lodged him in prison is welcome to the nation, a victory for the principles of honesty and good government, a credit to the men who fought to punish him, and a warning to any who might be tempted to try to follow his example.

DASTARDLY AND ILLEGAL.

Duluth has been invaded—it is hard to believe that regular residents would be guilty of such a thing—by a set of men of that peculiarly unprincipled type that is entitled to no mercy at the hands of anybody on earth, who make a practice of handing samples of patent medicines to young children. Within the last few days they have been "plastering" portions of the city with a proprietary article as a means of advertising the stuff.

What they have to sell may be all that they claim for it, or it may not; but in view of the way in which they are going about the process of pushing it, there is reason to believe that it is a fake. They have been throwing packages of this dope on porches or giving them to children to take into the house. In at least one instance a package of it was handed to a boy 3 years old. He showed it to his mother with the words, "See what the man gave me." After some persuasion he was induced to give it up, though he wanted to eat it on the spot. What might have been the result is not pleasant to imagine.

There is a state law against such practices, but like other provisions of the law its violation without police knowledge is easy. It is the duty of every citizen who becomes cognizant of such a violation to report it to the police, that they may be on the lookout for the perpetrators and have them handed over to justice. The law (R. S. 5012) provides "that no person, or persons, either directly or indirectly, by agent or otherwise, shall scatter, distribute or give away any samples of any medicine, drugs or medical compounds, salve or liniment of any kind unless the same is delivered into the hands of an adult person, or mailed to such persons through the regular mail service. Any person violating any provision of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not to exceed one hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for a term not to exceed ninety days."

If there is any fault to be found with this statute it is that the penalty imposed is inadequate, and that the provisions should be made to apply clearly to the distributing agent as well as to the principal. Perhaps the application to the agent is to be construed into the present reading of the law. At least it ought to be.

There is no excuse, no reason for giving a thing like that to a child. It is inhuman and dastardly. It is so contemptible an act that no words can be found to express its character. Only a few months ago a child in this city was killed by swallowing medicine that she found. The unprincipled distribution of such stuff is but a means to repeat that instance.

What does a 3-year-old child know about what is fit to swallow and what is not? And when the stuff is left on porches, what is to prevent any child's finding and eating or drinking it? Nothing. No punishment is too severe for such a practice as this of giving such things into children's hands or leaving them where children can get them. If the men who are doing that thing in Duluth are found, they should be given the extreme penalty under the law, and as soon as they get out of jail should be run out of town, for they are not fit to live in any human and civilized neighborhood. Whoever sees them at their dastardly practice and turns them over to the police will be doing the city a great service.

President Taft has gone South. This also will help to allay the fears that he is planning to annex Canada.

There is much speculation as to why the troops are going to the Mexican border. Our best guess is that it is because they were ordered to.

Anita Turnbull has lost the Lucky Baldwin millions, and the foreign fortune-hunters are deprived of another chance to make a pre-nuptial arrangement.

Next time you feel like envying a teacher her "three months' vacation" remember that she has to spend most of that time in study and doesn't draw any pay during that same period.

THE G. O. P. AND THE NEGRO

By SAVOYARD.

Elihu Root brought the negro into the United States senate the closing days of the Sixty-first congress, not that the New York statesman cared a rap for the negro, but he wanted to use the man and brother as a "handpant," as they say in the tobacco belt of the Kentucky "Pennyrile." Realizing that congress is anxious to pass the joint resolution to submit to the states an amendment to the Constitution providing for the election of senators in congress by popular vote, Northern Republican senators opposed to the amendment seek to make it offensive to the South by loading the thing down with a proposition looking to the enforcement of the Fifteenth amendment in the cotton country. Mr. Root deceived nobody, not even himself, but it is possible that he has defeated the movement for popular election of senators, if not in congress, in legislatures of Southern states, and that was his object.

But it is impossible to enforce the Fifteenth amendment. Its enactment was the greatest piece of folly ever attempted in a free republic. The white man, after centuries of civilization, is hardly fit for the elective franchise. Look at Adams county, Ohio, and the Illinois legislature. The negro does not vote, simply because he is not fit to vote. Can Thersites uplift the club of Hercules? As well reproach the child because he has not the strength to bear a man's burden as to bestow on the negro a right that he has not the strength to exercise.

The Republican party has been a hypocrite in this behalf long enough. I mean the Republican North, that will not allow the negro to work on their side of Mason and Dixon line, and insists that he shall exercise political control on the other side of the boundary. Roscoe Conkling, when he was boss of the United States senate, proposed that the negro should vote at the South and not at the North. He was the greatest intellect the Republican party ever produced, and yet he thought the white people of the South should submit to the political domination of an inferior race, only the day before in abject slavery. Elsewhere I have characterized Southern reconstruction by the G. O. P. as a spawn of hell and Utopia—Thad Stevens representing hell and Charles Sumner Utopia. Of course, the thing could not stand a moment after the bayonet was withdrawn.

The Lodge force bill of 1890, if it had become a law, would have required the army to enforce it, for the South would sooner be governed by the bayonet than by the negro, and if Senator Root shall succeed in his endeavor he will require a force bill to put it going as he pretends he would have it go, and the commercial and financial North will not stand for that a moment.

Young Mr. Borah, a Republican senator from Idaho, colleague of the unspeakable Heyburn, uttered some blunt truths on the negro question in reply to Mr. Root, and Mr. Borah spoke for the North. Here is an extract from the remarks of this admirable man that all intelligent folk seem to be the exact truth:

"The negro has been used as a political football about as long as our own sense of decency and his developing intelligence will permit. We should no longer mistreat him, but we should have the courage to inform him as to the real situation. It does not benefit him to make him the subject of our sophomoric rhetoric. * * * The negro is beginning to realize that the white man of the North is of the same race as the white man of the South, and that in his blood is the virus of dominion and power. He should know that, while his slave chains have been broken, the chains of industry are being forged around him and will continue to hold him, unless he himself can break them."

The North does not understand the negro, but it despises him. A negro barber who could accumulate a handsome competency in New Orleans would starve to death in Boston, if he did not find another job as coal heaver or street sweeper. Many is the time I have seen a white man and a negro working together at the same carpenter's bench or at the blacksmith's forge in Kentucky. A negro may be a hod carrier in Ohio, but he will never be mason.

One thing that makes the problem serious is the lamentable fact that the negro has no pride of race and he curses the fate that made him a negro. That is universal among them. From Fred Douglas and Booker Washington down to the least one capable of reflection, every negro is ashamed of the pigment cell that makes him a negro. The Jew was once of a despised race, but there never was a Jew who would have been of other blood than Jewish for all the wealth of either Ind. If there was such a man as Isaac of York, he felt that Richard Plantagenet and John of Anjou and Ivanhoe were swine in comparison with himself.

The negro is without gratitude, but for compensation he is also without malice. He forgets benefits and injuries with equal facility. The only friend he has is the Southern white man who owned him, or that white man's son and daughter. We all know how it was, who were raised among slaves. With the pleasantest of reveries we recall the old uncle and the old mammy—one all wisdom and kindness, the other all love and kindness—who took us in charge in childhood and petted us, and fed us, and admonished us, and loved us, as though we were of their own flesh and blood, and any one of us would sooner suffer personal or financial injury than see a white man impose on the negro, who was our daily companion in childhood and played with us from dawn to dusk in boyhood.

The friend of the negro! 'Tis he who in youth went hunting for 'possum at night and spent hours in the kitchen with Uncle Remus and grand old mammy of those gone days. He and he alone is the friend of the negro, and being his friend, we sent him to the cotton field, not to the state house.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

SENATOR CLAPP AND THE RECIPROCITY PACT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Your editorial scoring Senator Clapp for the position he has taken on the reciprocity treaty was timely and to the point. I say, keep it up.

The truth in Senator Clapp's case is simply this: He is tied up with Senator La Follette and his crowd to throw President Taft in the next convention, and he stands ready and willing to throw the welfare of the state of Minnesota to the dogs to further his own ends. If he persists in his present attitude on this great measure, he will prove a traitor to his calling.

Duluth, March 8.

AS A TEACHER SEES IT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

When we are told that the only essential thing in the school is the teacher, we wonder why the brunt of retrenchment always comes on her. And yet we know that when these strong, experienced teachers have left for Minneapolis or Seattle, where they pay a fair living wage, that cheap inexperienced teachers can be brought here, and the work will go on in a sort of a way.

I wonder if the best are any too good for the boys and girls. There never has been an age when the teacher's work is more important than it is now. Who, think you, will make those alien people, the peasants from South Europe, American citizens? And who has brought this age of industrial freedom where it is now respectable to work with one's hands? And who will take the educated, trained people back to the land, by interesting them in that fascinating study of soils? Well, all that will be brought about by the teachers, some of whom are now asking at your hands a fair, living wage.

The teacher, more than any one else, needs the inspiration that comes from books and music and travel. "They must see widely who would think wisely," and they must not have this financial problem always confronting them.

How can the necessary funds be raised? Well, first decide that the salaries be raised, then it will be a simple matter to find a way. Possibly the way may be found by readjustment. Why not take that $28,000 for manual training equipment out of the general fund and also some of the other items? Or if that can't be done, strike them all out but the teachers' salaries, keeping in mind always the fact that the only necessary thing in the school is the teacher.

A TEACHER.

Duluth, March 8.

THE SENATOR FROM ILLINOIS.

St. Louis Times: In a way, good will come of the action by which Lorimer has been proclaimed fit. The public has had special evidence tending to prove that Lorimer was fraudulently elected. As soon as the country is made aware of the fact that a man need not be honorable in order to occupy the position of a senator, there will be slighter chance of success for those senatorial processes by which public interests are ignored by the employment of hoodwinking and sophistry.

Utica Press: That a majority in the United States senate should be found willing to cast their votes to whitewash Lorimer is little short of a national shame and disgrace. Politics and political pressure are strong, but the generally entertained belief was that they were not quite strong enough to actually control the United States senate on a moral issue. Lorimer is nothing more nor less than a successful political boss and for years that is all he claimed to be and that was glory enough for him. Then he became ambitious, and the charge was made that he bought his way into the senate. That charge a narrow majority of his associates repudiate. If the effect and influence of this matter could be restricted and restrained merely to Lorimer's personality and his one seat in the senate, the damage would be less than it is, but it is the commentary which this action makes that is bound to be of serious consequences. It is discreditable to the nation's highest legislative body. It is calculated to create suspicion and occasion lack of confidence in a body which ought to be held in the highest reverence and regard. It is an unfortunate ending of a long drawn out controversy.

Toledo Blade: Left to the live men of the senate, men who have a future in politics, Lorimer would have been ousted. The "dead ones" saved him. On the Lorimer side were recorded Bulkeley, Burrows, Carter, Depew, Dick, Hale, Kean, Piles, Perkins and Scott, all of them men who have been dropped by their states or have retired in the face of adverse conditions. They have seen their states swing over to the opposite party or else choose other Republicans to take their places. Dick is a sample of the lot, and Depew is another. The outcome is unfortunate. The senate has accepted as a member a man who is not fit to belong to it, and who will be an object of scorn as long as he remains before the public. It has taken an attitude of defiance toward the people and put a new weapon in the hands of its own enemies.

St. Joseph News-Press: Lorimer, of course, feels that he has been vindicated. So, likewise, Hinky Dink. And Lorimer will stay in the senate, no doubt, unfit though he is. He simply isn't capable of appreciating the significance of the office he holds. And the senators who voted for him haven't any more regard for political ethics than he has.

Sioux City Tribune: This roll of dishonor contains the names Bulkeley, Burrows, Carter, Depew, Dick, Flint, Hale, Kean, Piles and Scott. These men are about to vanish into the oblivion which their public careers have earned for them, and their support of Lorimer was a fitting close to their public life.

The study of the vote by which Lorimer won furnishes sufficient evidence as to the character of the various interests which were pooled to whitewash the accused Illinois member. It will help hasten the day when the United States senate, through the purifying process of a popular vote, will be made a truly representative body.

Buffalo Times: The purport of this action cannot perhaps be more accurately gauged, than by asking the question what the framers of the Constitution would have thought had they known that the powers they delegated to the senate would be used to seat a man whose election is admittedly tainted with bribery. Such an action is either a satire on the Constitution itself, or it is a confession that the senate acted wrongly, and that the intention of the Constitution was contravened by what it did.

There is no question which of these alternatives will be accepted by the people of the United States. The senate having declared that proven bribery does not contaminate an election, puts a premium on bribery. Neither reason nor fidelity to the Constitution and the welfare of the republic had the remotest share in the seating of Lorimer.

Washington Star: This case stands as an additional argument for a more effective and speedy and trustworthy method of electing the members of the upper house of congress.

The Lorimer case has profoundly shaken public confidence in the integrity of at least one of the state legislatures of this country. Yesterday's vote cannot be regarded as clearing that assembly of the charge of dishonorable dealings. The title of the senator to his seat has been affirmed, and the verdict must be accepted, but with regret to remove from the public mind the conviction that there was corruption at Springfield, in whose behalf or with whose knowelge can only be left to the imagination.

Chicago Post: The country did not believe that the senate could do it. The senate has done it. That is all there is to it. Any further words would be wholly weak because they would be wholly superfluous.

Gallois's Admiration of English.

London Chronicle: Foreign critics of the English tongue are common enough; naturally a man swears by and in his own language. But there is one remarkable instance of a foreigner who practically died for English. This was Ynabert Gallios, one of the unhappy submerged of the Romantic movement in France.

He came up to Paris from Geneva, was cordially received by Victor Hugo, Charles Nodier, Sainte-Beuve and the rest of them, who read, praised and criticised his verses. But English literature was his dream and his ideal. He wrote to a friend from Paris: "Since I came here my unhappiness has taken five or six different forms, but the root of all my misery is that I was not born in England. * * * England has everything—fifty authors at least who have led a life of adventure and whose books are full of imagination; in France there are not three."

Galloix, at the age of 22, died of despair and want with an English grammar in his hand.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Tit-Bits: Young Lady—You say you were on a raft for six weeks, and had nothing to eat but mutton. Where did you get the mutton from?

Old Salt—Well, you see, miss, the sea was very choppy.

Washington Star: "Were you nervous when you proposed to your wife?" asked the sentimental person.

"No, replied Mr. Meekton, "but if I could have foreseen the next ten years I would have been."

Washington tar: "Do you think I could keep the wolf from the door by my singing?" asked the musical young man.

"You could," replied Miss Cayenne, "if the wolf had any sort of an ear for music."

Houston Post: "Won't you try a piece of my wife's angel cake?"

"Will it make an angel of me?"

"That will depend on the kind of a life you have led."

Judge: Teacher—To what use is cotton chiefly put?

Pupil—For makin' woolen goods, ma'am.

Puck: Mrs. Highupp—Your husband has changed so that I didn't recognize him.

Mrs. Blase—It isn't that. I've changed husbands.

Toledo Blade: "Nature knew what she was doing when she deprived fishes of a voice."

"How do you make that out?"

"What if a fish had to cackle over every egg it laid?"

Life: "It was very romantic," says the friend. "He proposed to her in an automobile."

"Yes?" we murmur, encouragingly. "And she accepted him in the hospital."

Yonkers tatesman: "But these look like cold storage eggs," said the lady.

"They are cold storage eggs, madam," said the dealer.

"But—"

"Well, you see, lady, the hens that laid these eggs is in cold storage, too!"

Fliegende Blaetter: Shoemaker (who, throwing a shoe at his apprentice, hits a customer instead)—A thousand pardons, madam. Fortunately it was your own shoe, the smallest I have in the place.

Baltimore American: First Physician—Can you make anything out of the patient's trouble?

Second Ditto—I think if we manage right we can make about 500 apiece out of it.

Journal Amusant: She—I would like that lovely pearl necklace. Look what beauties they are.

He—It's better not to have such large pearls, my dear. People always think they are false.

Life: Elderly Gentleman—Now, my boy, what are you going to do with that snowball?

Boy—What would you have done when you were a kid if an old guy had went past with a plug hat on?

Puck: "Business is pretty slow here just now," confessed the Squam Corners merchant.

"I judged so," replied the baking powder drummer "when I observed that they had laid off one of the hands on the town clock!"

Toledo Blade: "Bunt, why do you object to my manners?"

"For one thing, you eat with your knife."

"Well, I have to—I'm left-handed."

Catholic Standard and Times: Reuben—Josh says thet city feller gev him a hundred an' some odd dollars fur thet horse o' his'n.

Silas—You ain't heerds the hull of it. When he took them dollars to the bank he found they was all odd.

Chicago Record-Herald: "My wife is always borrowing trouble."

"What kind of trouble is she borrowing now?"

"She is afraid whiskers will be in style when our little boy grows up, so that he will not have a chance to show the cunning dimple in his chin."

Pointed Paragraphes.

Chicago News: Morality does a lot of unnecessary parading in public.

Vocal teachers are always howling about their work.

Some people grumble about everything, be it right or wrong.

Many a man grasps an opportunity to make a fool of himself.

Consider the silent man and the reputation he has for being wise.

And the more advice you give the more likely you are to get in bad.

A girl's idea of a hero is a young man who asks her father for her hand.

Luck seems to have a mania for calling on people who are not expecting it.

Lots of people pose as peacemakers because of the opportunity it affords them to butt in.

It's a pity that the average detective can't locate criminals as easily as he can find clews.

As a matter of fact a young man is more apt to kiss a girl against her mother's will than against her own.

The trouble with some men who are always willing to help their friends is that they have no time to do things for themselves.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: You trust people more because you do than because they deserve it.

It seems to be a woman's mission in life to like people in spite of their faults.

Temptation, like matrimony, takes off the mask after the contract is made.

The devil wouldn't retire on a pension of twice his salary if he could have it.

There's something about a scolding that makes the person who gets it want to do it right over again and this time escape getting caught.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

The Donkey Will Carry It.

Little Falls Transcript: The Democratic donkey, according to leading newspaper cartoons, is now expected to carry the reciprocity load through to its destination which the Republican elephant refused to pull. The majority sentiment of the newspapers of this state was strongly in favor of the ratification of the agreement with Canada.

Birth of the Moderates.

West St. Paul Times: We knew it would come but we did not expect it so soon. There is another split off of the "progressives," and the hyphenated "moderates" has been born.

As to "Extravagance."

Mankato Free Press: The legislature is about to verbally chastise the state board of health for its "extravagance." Why doesn't the legislature rebuke itself for its own extravagance? There would be some sense in such an act.

Greed!

Winona Independent: "The unreasonable prejudice against the Payne tariff bill," Representative Dalzell of Pennsylvania said in the house last week, "was created and fomented by the newspaper greed for free paper." And Prof. Taussig of Harvard, Prof. Coman of Wellesley, Prof. Willis of George Washington university and other economists whose analysis of the tariff act confirmed that of the independent newspapers—what greed animated them?

Tawney at Large?

St. Cloud Journal-Press: The chances are that Minnesota will have one congressman at large. This will be a chance for Jim Tawney to come back.

Capital Punishment.

Lake Crystal Union: Abolish hanging in the state of Minnesota? Sure! The governor has not as yet set the day to take that man's life. Neither would we if we were the governor. No man, no set of men have the right to take a man's life. Did you ever read the Bible? If you have, what is God's commandment. "Thou shalt not kill!" Abolish the law.

The Chicago Primary Election.

Albert Lea Tribune: The result in the recent primary election in Chicago brings out the value of a good primary election law. The machine politicians in the Republican party did their best to secure the nomination of one of their number for the mayoralty, but were out-voted by the people by more than two to one, notwithstanding the fact that money was freely used to accomplish their end. The people of Chicago now have the choice of a clean, energetic man for the head of their municipal government, and if they fail to elect him on election day, they will deserve to be ruled by the corrupt gang which will have control of their affairs.

A Singing Mouse.

Conyers (Ga.) Times: For the past week Mrs. H. L. White has been puzzled by something singing like a canary bird in her room at night, first in the bureau, then under tables, beds and other parts of the room. It was a little mouse, and Thursday night it was caught in a trap and was singing away cheerfully when Mr. and Mrs. White awoke Friday morning. It sings low and soft and at times trills just as a canary does.

BIG STORM IS RECALLED

Duluth Was Struck By Severe Blizzard Nineteen Years Ago.

Contrast Between Weather Arouses Old Timers to Reminiscences.

"THE GOOD OLD DAYS."

March 9, 1911—Calm and springlike; temperature well above freezing point; no snow on the ground in the downtown district; sun shining brightly.

March 9, 1892.—Wind fifty-eight miles an hour; one foot, three inches, snow fell on the level; street cars, railroads and electric lights out of commission; business suspended.

Nineteen years ago today, without warning, the fiercest storm in the history of Duluth swept down on the city and the old-timers never let the date go by without remembering it. Today, they are contrasting the spring-like conditions of the day with the conditions that prevailed on the same date nineteen years ago and on this day at least they have an argument in favor of their contention that the winters are moderating.

The big storm struck Duluth about 8 o'clock in the morning. The temperature began to drop from 30 deg. and the wind to increase from twelve miles an hour. The snow filled the air and drifted into great piles before the stiff wind. By afternoon, the temperature had fallen to 2 deg. and the wind had increased to fifty-eight miles an hour.

The street cars ran until 10 o'clock in the morning and then the efforts to keep the lines opened failed and not even a snow-plow moved after noon. Railroad lines were similarly tied up. The curling rink, which was then at Third avenue east also, was demolished. Scores of chimneys were blown down and lights, hill boards and other projections were carried away by the wind.

A number of school children were missing during the early part of the storm and it was feared for a time that the loss of life on account of the storm would be heavy, but all were later accounted for and only one life was lost, that being a man who was killed by a falling stack in West Duluth.

Today the Lakesiders and Woodlanders are beginning to poke around in the backyard gardens, wondering when they should begin spading.

LIVED IN DULUTH THIRTY YEARS

Mrs. J. S. Pearce Dies at Her Home on Fifth Street.

Mrs. J. S. Pearce, aged 67 years, a resident of Duluth for over thirty years, died at 7:40 this morning at her home, 14 East Fifth street. She had been ill only about a week, and a stroke of paralysis suffered Monday brought on her death. Mrs. Pearce was well known to many of the old residents of Duluth and her unexpected death is a shock to them.

Mrs. Pearce was born in Canada and came to the United States when a girl, first living at Hancock, Mich., where she was married and where the family lived for a number of years before coming to Duluth.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Pearce is survived by one daughter, Mrs. F. I. Breeze, 1013 East Second street, and three sons, W. W. Pearce of Seattle, Wash., J. S. Pearce of 518 Twelfth avenue east, and Norman J. Pearce, also of Duluth. She also leaves a sister living at Hancock and two brothers, one at St. Louis, Mo., and the other at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

W. W. Pearce has been notified of his mother's death and the funeral arrangements will not be made until he is heard from. The funeral will probably be held Monday, however.

MANEUVERS SHOULD CAUSE NO ANXIETY, SAYS PRESIDENT

structions from my government directing me to inform his excellency, President Diaz, through the medium of your excellency, that the president of the United States wishes and hopes that no misapprehensions will result from unfounded and sensational newspaper conjectures as to the military maneuvers about to take place in Texas and elsewhere, and to give to President Diaz assurance that the maneuvers have no significance which should cause concern to the friendly neighbors of the United States to the south."

Diaz Replies.

To the foregoing Gen. Diaz replied through Minister Creel, and the American embassy, acknowledging receipt and expressing gratitude "for the courtesy of explaining in such explicit terms" the situation.

A calm and dispassionate view of the mobilization appears to have been taken here by Mexicans. No excitement followed the appearance of the news. Dailies in Spanish, as well as the American morning newspapers gave much space to the details of the movement.

In some quarters, nevertheless, the explanation given out from the White House as to the significance of President Taft's order, was viewed with more or less skepticism.

This was particularly true as relating to American residents in the city, many of whom professed to see in it the first step in a move toward intervention.

Mexicans Will Not Talk.

Prominent Mexicans who were approached for opinions declined for the most part to talk for publication, but privately expressed confidence in the good intentions of the American government.

That any protest, regarding damages sustained, has been made to Great Britain by Dr. Pearson, has been denied by his representatives to the state department and to the newspapers, Walter Gow, Dr. Pearson's representative at Toronto sent the following telegrams to the state department:

"Newspaper dispatches from Washington have been published here this morning stating that British government in behalf of subjects having extensive railroad and mining interests in Mexico, has communicated with the state department at Washington with regard to protection. The dispatches state further that the Pearson syndicate, a large British and Canadian construction firm, has complained bitterly of interference by revolutionists and has asked for protection. I presume, if true, this dispatch must have reference to others, but in order to avoid any misunderstanding, after communicating with Dr. Pearson, I consider it better to telegraph, assuring you that if the dispatches refer to our people, they are absolutely without foundation. The only protest made by us has been through you, for the purpose of securing protection. In London we have done our utmost to minimize the extent of the trouble and have made no protest there or at Washington whatsoever."

Has Made no Appeal.

Lord Cowdray, who before his elevation to the peerage some months ago, was known as Sir Weetman Pearson and who also has extensive railway and mining interests in Mexico, took occasion to say that he had made no appeal to his government for protection.

"The statement that we, Pearsons, have asked for protection from our government, is absolutely without foundation," said Lord Cowdray to an Associated Press representative. No better protection than that which the Mexican government itself gives is required."

The press dispatches giving rise to the confusion referred simply to "the Pearson syndicate."

Dr. S. F. Pearson is the principal stockholder in the Mexican Northwestern, the railroad which has been put out of commission by the revolutionists and one of the chief stockholders in the Mexican Light & Power company, which operates the Mexico City street car system. Lord Cowdray is the joint owner with the Mexican government of the Tshauntepec railroad and is the man whose oil land holdings in Mexico have enabled him to become one of the most formidable competitors of the Standard Oil company. Both he and Dr. Pearson are subjects of Great Britain.

of staff, reporting that his sudden and comprehensive orders, flashed from the capital only three days ago, are being carried out with rapidity and precision.

The staff officers, after setting the machinery in motion, enjoy a respite today. The telegraphic advices indicate that all of the men ordered out are now moving rapidly southward with ample commissary and ammunition supplies.

Capt. Johnson Hagood of the coast artillery and a member of the general staff has been ordered to San Antonio, Tex., to join the staff of Maj.-Gen. Carter, commander of the army division which is being concentrated at that point. Capt. Hagood's departure will be delayed a few days in order that he may clear up several odds and ends of military matters—the aftermath of legislation by the last session of congress. He is the legislative expert of the general staff.

The navy is carrying out its part of the operations without semblance of a hitch. The vessels of the Fifth division of the Atlantic fleet have been supplied with their complements and are prepared to sail for Guantanamo at the word of the secretary of the navy.

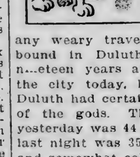
FAIR



Come on in, everybody, the water's fine! Who wants to live anywhere except in Duluth, anyway? The spring pad may tear loose any time the muse moves him—if he doesn't try to get his effusions published. This weather is just great. If any weary traveler, who was snowbound in Duluth by the big storm n...eteen years ago, should drop into the city today, he would think that Duluth had certainly courted the favor of the gods. The high temperature yesterday was 44 deg. while the lowest last night was 35 deg. Continued fair and somewhat colder weather is promised for tonight.

Beautiful weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 6:33 and it will set at 6:05 this evening, giving eleven hours and thirty-two minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the last twenty-four hours rain fell over Pacific states, Utah, and Wyoming in connection with the low pressure now central over the Dakotas. This disturbance also caused warmer weather over Eastern Canada, the Lake region and the Southwest. Somewhat lower temperatures prevail throughout the Northwest as a result of a decided increase in presure. This drop in temperature will probably reach the Head of the Lakes during tonight."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, March 9.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Friday:

Upper Michigan—Unsettled, with rain or snow tonight or Friday; colder Friday and in north portion tonight.

Wisconsin—Cloudy, with unsettled tonight and probably Friday; cooler Friday and in west portion tonight.

Iowa—Generally fair tonight and Friday; cooler tonight and in east portion Friday.

Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Montana—Generally fair tonight and Friday; colder tonight.

Shippers' forecast: Protect thirty-six-hour shipments of perishables against temperatures 5 to 25 deg. above zero in North Dakota, Minnesota and Northern Wisconsin.

HAZE HIDES WARSHIPS.

Squadron at New York Ready to Sail When Fog Lifts.

New York, March 9.—A thick haze lies over New York bay this morning hiding from view the three big armored cruisers which have been making hurried preparations to sail for the Gulf of Mexico to participate in the joint naval and military movement in Texas and on the Mexican border. Coaling of the warships—the armored cruisers Tennessee, Montana and North Carolina—was completed last night and there were apparently no obstacles to the sailing of these units of the war fleet except the adverse atmospheric conditions and the low tide of the early morning hours. The ships were expected to up-anchor and away at any moment.

The lower harbor, where Rear Admiral Staunton's trio of big cruisers were awaiting sailing orders, was the one remaining seat of activity today in this vicinity in connection with the mobilization movement southward.

The detachment of marines ordered from here to join the force headed for Guantanamo left yesterday and last night the 1,500 coast artillery men from the harbor forts mustered into a provisional infantry regiment for service in Texas, sailed for Fortress Monroe on the steamer Jamestown.

Army officials stationed here were congratulating themselves today on the smoothness with which the work of getting men and supplies ready and hustling them off toward the scene of operations was accomplished in the face of difficulties incident to the collection and dispatch, fully equipped, of a widely scattered force on such short notice.

FRANCE INTERESTED,

But No Representations Made to American Government.

Paris, March 9.—The officials of the foreign office today informed the Associated Press that the French government had made no representations to the United States regarding the protection of French interests in Mexico.

News of the American action was received with extraordinary interest by the foreign office, where, in the absence of special advices from Washington on the subject it is assumed that the reasons for the step taken were wholly sufficient.

Local financial interests are somewhat concerned regarding events in Mexico, where, it is roughly estimated this country has $100,000,000 invested.

The explanation of the latest development current on the Bourse is that the United States government has in mind the ultimate possibility of being required to protect the immense American interests in Mexico which might be imperiled in the event of the death of President Diaz, by widespread disorders in that country.

RUMOR NOT CREDITED.

Story That Diaz Had Died Suddenly Refuted By Dispatches.

New York, March 9.—In view of renewed reports concerning President Diaz, it could be stated that a dispatch from the Associated Press correspondent at Mexico City received last night, said that he personally had seen the president the previous night, when he was in apparent good health. Another dispatch received from Mexico City last night referred to President Diaz receiving Admiral Lajareste at 5 p. m. and later conferring at his town mansion with the governor of Guanajuato. No further advices have been received.

He was very sure that if so serious an event had occurred he would have learned of it. The ambassador, as soon as his mother's condition permits, expects to proceed to Washington and return thence to Mexico.

WAR VETERAN PASSES AWAY

George K. Swan Dies Suddenly on Fifth Floor of Courthouse.

Body Found in Chair With Pipe Clutched in Hand.

George K. Swan, 73 years old, a veteran of the civil war, an old-time resident of the city of Duluth and for nearly twenty years employed at the St. Louis county courthouse, died while sitting in a chair smoking his pipe on the fifth floor of the courthouse this morning.

Mr. Swan was in charge of the fifth floor at the courthouse and had just appeared for work. He sat down in his chair, lit his pipe and was discovered a few moments later, sitting back in his chair with his pipe clutched firmly between his fingers, his head hanging back over the chair.

Death was due to heart failure.

Mr. Swan was born in Maine. In September, 1861, he enlisted as a private in the Second California cavalry and was discharged Oct. 4, 1864, a sergeant. He joined Willis O. Gorman post, G. A. R., in 1889.

He had lived in Duluth for twenty-four years, and he had been for years a familiar figure about the courthouse.

He leaves a wife and two sons, Frank L. Swan of Duluth, and George H. Swan of Kinney.

tested and insisted that the pledges should stand.

When the house took up the bills as a special order, Representative Shuler of Winona offered an amendment to the Campbell bill, which was considered first, cutting out its application to municipalities. This amendment was voted down, largely by the opponents of the bill.

Representative Kelly of Blue Earth county offered an amendment making the required percentages 20 per cent on the initiative and 10 per cent on the referendum, and on this the first real fight was made.

Representative Charles R. Fowler of Minneapolis made a strong and able speech for the amendment, showing that the low percentage initiative is subject to abuses, that Minnesota does not need so low a percentage as sparsely settled Oregon, and that Minnesota without the initiative has about as good laws as Oregon with it.

At the conclusion of Mr. Fowler's speech the house took a recess until 2 p. m. If the Kelly amendment is adopted the bill will probably pass, but the amendment will be opposed by the advocates of direct legislation. If it is defeated, the chances are that the high percentage advocates and the opponents of direct legislation will vote down the Campbell bill, and that the low percentage advocates will then join in and vote down the Pfaender bill.

The house this morning voted Representative Robinson's resolution providing for the investigation of last year's state campaign committees.

It was ordered that bills referred by the committee on general legislation, and Robinson tried to rescue it from death by moving that it be passed. First he proposed an amendment providing that the investigation should proceed first with the Democratic committee, and that was voted down largely by Republican votes. Then the resolution was beaten, 61 to 31.

Senator Pugh's bill allowing street railway companies to give passes to policemen and firemen in uniform squeezed through the senate this morning, 32 to 29, with no votes to spare. On the first roll call the bill lacked two votes, but its friends scurried around and got the necessary two. This is a great triumph for Senator Pugh, to whose personal influence the success of the bill is largely due. It has already passed the house.

The senate this morning passed the R. C. Dunn 1-mill road tax bill, after voting down all proposed amendments, except one by Senator Sageng cutting out the Constitutional requirements for a highway commissioner. The vote was 62 to 0.

Representative Ernest Lundeen of Minneapolis has prepared for early introduction a bill providing practically for direct election of presidents of the United States, so far as Minnesota is concerned. It provides that the delegates from this state to national conventions to nominate presidential candidates shall be elected by the people on the first Tuesday in March, and that presidential electors shall be nominated by a direct primary without the intervention of a convention.

The bill creating a state board of reclamation, to select ten forty-acre tracts of swamp and cut-over lands anu to clear half of each tract and sell it, reporting the cost of doing so for the benefit of others who wish to clear land, was reported for passage by the house committee and made a special order for March 15.

The house temperance committee has recommended for passage the R. C. Dunn bill extending the local option law to cities of 10,000 and under, except home rule character cities which now have the right to vote on liquor licenses.

The towns and counties committee of the house recommended the Moyle Edwards bill providing for publication of personal property tax lists.

Senator Handlan this morning introduced in the senate a bill prohibiting the exclusion of colored folks from ice cream parlors and soda fountains.

Senator Rustad offered a bill broadening the definition of intoxicating liquors to include any beverage with more than one-half of 1 per cent of alcohol.

WALKER'S CARNEGIE LIBRARY IS COMPLETED.

Walker, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new Carnegie library will be turned over to the library board by the contractors this week, and preparations are being made for the formal opening of the building on April 1. Walker is probably the smallest town in the state having a free Carnegie library. Mr. Carnegie donated $6,000 for a building here. Great credit is due Attorney Daniel De Lury, who first conceived the idea of this public building and carried the project through to completion. Other members of the library board are George Crow, Gustave Kulander, F. A. Dare, Arthur Lindeke, Archie La Vigne and Charles Kinkele.

NEW CARS ON PARK POINT

Interstate Traction Company Will Improve Its Service Next Summer.

Two New Double-Truck Cars Ordered for Early Delivery.

Car service on Park Point will be better than ever before, according to officials of the Interstate Traction company, and in furtherance of the company's plans, two new double-truck, standard cars have been contracted for. The cars are now being built in the shops of the American Car company at Danville, Ill., and will be delivered in time to be put into service by the beginning of the Traction company's busy season.

None of the cars now in service will be taken out of use, but the new cars will be added to care for the increased business in the summer and the service will accordingly be bettered. The business of the Interstate Traction company has increased greatly in recent years on account of the increased popularity of the point for summer homes and on account of the many visitors to the Oatka branch of the Duluth Boat club. The Traction company has maintained a service that corresponded with the trips of the aerial bridge, but an improvement of the bridge service is expected during the coming summer and the Traction company will make a corresponding improvement.

that he and his partner had left the lumber camp together and that they got off the Duluth & Iron Range train at Lakeside that they might save the extra fare by taking a street car into the city. It was a stormy night and the car service was seriously interfered with. After waiting some time for a car, they started to walk to the city on the railroad tracks. This far his story is thought to be correct.

When at a point about Fifteenth avenue east he claimed that an unknown man attacked them and that he ran. Later he admitted that he struck Aaltonen, robbed him of $58 in money, a time check and a watch and threw him over the cliff where he was found in a badly frozen condition the next morning.

The morning after the crime Bruman walked into the police station and asked about his partner. He admitted that he had been with Aaltonen and he was arrested on suspicion and locked up.

He was indicted by the March grand jury on a charge of robbery in the first degree. Today he made known his wish to plead guilty and he was at once taken before Judge Dibell, where he entered his plea and received his sentence.

While twenty years at state prison is considered a heavy sentence, he was by no means given the limit. He could have been given forty years under the state law.

The case of the state against Bruman was the most important of the present criminal calendar. There are but a few other cases and in a number of them it is understood that the defendants will plead guilty. The criminal calendar for the rest of the month will be very light.

COAT COLLAR WHITE WITH DANDRUFF

Scalp Badly Affected. Itched Terribly. Hair Fell Out. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Now Has Thick Growth of Hair and Is Never Troubled with Any Dandruff or Itching of Scalp.

"I am more than gratified by the successful results I obtained by the use of the Cuticura Remedies. For several years my scalp was very badly affected with dandruff and scales. My scalp itched terribly at times and my hair fell out. My coat collar would be actually white with the dandruff that had fallen from my head. My profession being that of a barber, I was particular about having my hair in good condition, and was also in a position to try many lotions, etc., for the scalp. These had little or no effect. I had heard so much about the Cuticura Remedies that I resolved to try them. I shampooed my head with Cuticura Soap twice a week and after drying my head thoroughly, I anointed parts of my scalp with Cuticura Ointment. I was pleased from the outset, and continued to keep up this treatment. To think that only three cakes of Cuticura Soap and one and one-half boxes of Cuticura Ointment rid my head of this annoying trouble, made me feel quite contented. I have now got a thick growth of hair and I am never troubled with any dandruff or itching of the scalp. There is no question but that the Cuticura Remedies cured me. I frequently recommend them to my customers, and they think a great deal of them, so you see I am very willing to help a good cause along." (Signed) John F. Williams, 307 Norfolk Street, Dorchester, Boston, Mass., July 28, 1910.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

LOWER RATE BIG BENEFIT

It Enables Lignite Coal Producers to Supply North Dakota Markets.

Predicted State Supply Will Strongly Compete With the Eastern Coals.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—That this section of the state has been opened to the lignite coal field of the West by reason of the reduced lignite coal freight rates effective in the state, is the contention of W. P. Macomber of Wilton, connected with the big Washburn lignite mines near that city. He has been here conferring with coal consumers as to the possibility of replacing the present Eastern coal supply with the North Dakota product, and declares that by reason of the lower freight rates, North Dakota's lignite can be used more economically than can the Eastern mined coal.

Under the old coal rate in this state the cost of transporting a ton of coal from the Western mines to Grand Forks was about $2.40, while under the new law that rate is reduced to $1.40. It is the margin that is in that manner created that makes possible the shipment of lignite in the northeastern sections of the state a possibility. This section has heretofore been unable to purchase lignite on a basis of economy because of the existing freight rates.

North Dakota's state institutions are compelled, by law, to burn lignite coal whenever it can be done so economically. It is now contended that the state university, which has heretofore been using Eastern coal, must comply with this law in view of the new state law which has been declared valid in the courts of the United States.

MINORS MUST NOT MISREPRESENT AGE

If They Deceive East Grand Forks Saloon Keepers They May Be Punished.

East Grand Forks, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ordinances governing the conduct of minors in saloons, misrepresentations of age on the part of minors, together with light and water bills, received the attention of the city council at its regular meeting. Both ordinances pertaining to minors were given second readings. The one which prevents minors from frequenting saloons except for such legitimate business as may of necessity take them there, carries with it a maximum penalty for violation of $100 fine or ninety days in jail.

Unless all saloon owners fix up their indebtedness to the city on water and lights bills, they may find themselves without a license to sell liquor in a few days. The time for granting or continuing licenses is drawing near and the council notified City Clerk Gorman to issue none to those who are delinquent in their city accounts.

DISCUSS PLANS TO SAVE FORESTS

Northern Forest Protective Association Holds First Annual Meet at Marquette.

Marquette, Mich., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.) — The first annual meeting of the directors of the Northern Forest Protective association has just been held here. Five of the seven directors were present, as follows: Thorleup A. Green, Antonagon; C. H. Worcester, Chassell; T. B. Wyman, Munising, and J. E. Sherman, Marquette. C. V. R. Townsend, of Negaunee and C. A. Goodman of Marinette were unable to be present.

All of the officers elected at the organization of the association early in the winter were re-elected by the directors yesterday, but two changes were made in the board of directors. Resignations were received from Mr. Wyman, who has accepted the position of chief forester for the association, and C. A. Goodman of Marinette. To fill the vacancies thus caused, F. H. Smith of Traverse City and W. A. Holt of Oconto, Wis., were elected as members of the board of directors.

Work Progresses Satisfactorily.

Reports of the officers showed the work of the association to be progressing in a most satisfactory manner. As fast as the various interests can compute their acreage of land they are being enrolled in the association, and a number of large timber owners have recently been induced to join the association. Among the latter are the Oval Wood Dish company of Traverse City, two large lumber companies at Wausau, Wis.; the Holt Lumber company at Oconto, the mill owners at Grayling and the Hebard interests at Pequaming.

Chief Forester Wyman states that he is actively at work on the executive end of the movement and he expects to have a force of rangers or patrols on the lands of the association by the time the snow is gone. He has received a number of applications for these positions, and though no appointments have as yet been made, he has determined in most instances whom he will employ. In contiguous territory one man will be expected to cover about 50,000 acres of timber land.

VALLEY CITY TO ENFORCE NEW LAW

To Compel Railroads to Stop All Passenger Trains at County Seats.

Valley City, N. D., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Enforcement of the law compelling railroads to stop all passenger trains at county seats will be sought by the Commercial club. A committee has been appointed to bring about the desired result. It was through the work of this club that the passage of this bill was effected for the purpose of gaining a better train service in this city. It is understood that the railroad company construes the new law to mean that the trains must be stopped long enough to allow passengers "on and off," but that it does not require that they shall provide service. Valley City and the Northern Pacific have been engaged in a hot fight for several years over the question of adequate service.

DRIVEN INSANE THROUGH FRIGHT

North Dakota Woman Seeks $25,000 Damages for Invasion of Home.

Hillsboro, N. D., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Traill county grand jury in session in this city has returned bills against A. G. Foogman, a prominent druggist of this city, and Ole Braaton of Hatten. Foogman, charged with operating a drug store without a registered pharmicist, pleaded guilty and was fined $50, while Braaten pleaded not guilty to the charge of assault with a dangerous weapon and will be given a trial during the present term.

The sensational damage action in which Mrs. Jennie Falkenhagen is suing Herman Norby and five others for $25,000 is on. The plaintiff contends that she became insane and was confined in an asylum for eight months as the result of a fright she suffered when Norby and five companions entered her home at Galesburg on Christmas, 1909, and created a disturbance. The first witness called was John Falkenhagen, the plaintiff's husband.

FIND PUMPMAN'S BODY.

Illinois Man Wearing Helmet Invades Gas-Infested Mine.

Ishpeming, Mich., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of Sam Dozzi, the pumpman at the Smith mine on the Swanzy range, who lost his life through asphyxiation, was recovered Tuesday. J. M. Webb, from the government experimental station at Urbana, Ill., arrived Tuesday morning, provided with oxygen helmets and went into the mine, accompanied by William Goyne and Peter Nordine, two of the shift bosses.

All the men wore helmets and they had no difficulty in recovering the body. In just nine minutes from the time the skip left the surface the men had returned, bringing the body of the dead pumpman with them.

William Prin, the coroner, conducted an inquest at Gwinn and the verdict of the jury was to the effect that Dozzi lost his life through his own carelessness and neglect of instructions given him before he and Dicklund went into the mine.

STOP PRIZE FIGHT.

North Dakota Deputy Sheriffs Halt Mill at Minot.

Minot, N. D., March 9.—Acting under orders from Sheriff Kelly, Deputy Sheriffs Dougherty and Slaberg stopped a prize fight between Kid Flanders and "Big Bill." They appeared at the Bohemian hall, north of town, Monday and ordered the fighters to disperse.

When the officers appeared at the hall the two fighters were dressed in tights and three rounds had been pulled off. There was a large crowd in attendance, and from the preparations that had been made it looked as if it was to be a great contest.

The officers informed the promoters of the contest that prize fighting was against the law, and that the sheriff of Ward county would not stand for it. The deputies were sufficiently emphatic in their orders that the promoters decided to abandon the fight without interference, and the crowd quietly dispersed.

NORTHOME PLANS FOR COUNTY FAIR

Koochiching County Board Appropriates $500 for This Year's Fair.

Northome, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The county commissioners have appropriated $500 for the Koochiching county fair to be held here September next. If a satisfactory lease is secured the ground will be cleared, necessary buildings erected, and otherwise improved to provide suitable fair grounds. A first-class race course is also to be built.

Northome Politics Livening Up.

Village politics are livening up. The annual election of village officers occurs next Tuesday, and a finish fight is predicted for some of the places. No one is willing to commit himself just yet and there is nothing definite as to who will be the candidates. The following officers are to be chosen:

President, three trustees, treasurer and recorder, each for the term of one year; assessor for the term of two years; one justice of the peace and one constable, each for the term of two years.

Firemen Save Doctor's Home.

Prompt action and efficient work on the part of the fire department prevented the destruction of Dr. C. R. Ward's residence by fire this week. The blaze, believed to have originated from a spark falling on the roof, was quickly extinguished by the department, the flames being confined to the roof. The damage done was comparatively small, Dr. Ward estimating his loss at about $75.

Minot, N. D., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Senator James Kennedy's claim of $11,000 against the city of Minot promises to become a factor in the coming election of city commissioners. The terms of two commissioners, Vandenoever and Muus expire this year and the election takes place in April. Some time ago when Senator Kennedy, who held the contract for the construction of a city waterworks system, presented his claim for the final estimate, there was a dispute of between $11,000 and $12,000 from the contract price by the commissioners on the ground that the work had not been completed within the contract period.

People of Duluth who suffer with sick kidneys and bad backs want a kidney remedy that can be depended upon. The best is Doan's Kidney Pills, a medicine for the kidneys only, made from pure roots and herbs, and the only one that is backed by cures in Duluth. Here's Duluth testimony:

J. E. Watts, 918 Tenth avenue west, Duluth, Minn., says: "I gladly verify the public statement I gave in 1908, regarding Doan's Kidney Pills. I had an attack of backache and lameness in my loins which obliged me to stop work. There was so much pain in my kidneys that I could not bend over and I was so that the least movement made me miserable. I tried different remedies, but nothing helped me until I used Doan's Kidney Pills. They acted like a charm, and it would have been impossible for me to have obtained better results. Since then I have always kept Doan's Kidney Pills on hand and they have helped me when I have taken them."

Rheumatism Comes From Bad Kidneys

Once Your Kidneys Work Properly, Rheumatism, Kidney Disease and Bladder Trouble Disappear—How to Cure Yourself.

It is no longer necessary to spend months and months undergoing a complicated treatment for rheumatism, kidney or bladder trouble, or spend a good many dollars in doctors' bills.

A new treatment can now be obtained which seems to act more like a marvel than a medicine. This treatment has produced such satisfactory results in a short time that it is now guaranteed from first to last.

There should be no more doubt about the rapid cure of rheumatism, no fears of the fatal termination of treacherous kidney disease or dropsy.

Rheumatism means nothing more nor less than that your kidneys do not work properly. Your blood passes through the kidneys hundreds of times a day to be filtered and purified. When the kidneys are weak, the poisons are not taken out of the blood as they should be. This leads to various diseases, such as rheumatism, terrible Bright's disease, diabetes, dropsy and bladder trouble.

The new guaranteed treatment is Dr. Derby's Kidney Pills. One day's use of them will prove their remarkable effect. M. T. Ridenour of Lima, Ohio, says: "When I feel bad in my back, I just take a couple of Derby's Kidney Pills and get immediate relief."

If you have rheumatism anywhere, back pains, cloudy, foul urine, pains in the bladder, Bright's disease or diabetes put your whole confidence in Dr. Derby's Kidney Pills, and you will not be disappointed.

Dr. Derby's Kidney Pills are sold at all drug stores—60 pills—10 days' treatment—25 cents, or we will send them direct from the laboratory of Derby Medicine Co., Eaton Rapids, Mich., prepaid if you wish. If you want to try them first, just tell your druggist to give you a free sample package.

TOWNSHIP BOARD TO HOLD FINAL MEETING

Eveleth, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The last session of the present Missabe Mountain township board will be held this evening and will mark Clerk S. E. Helps's last appearance after serving fourteen years. Thomas J. Trengrove, supervisor, will also retire, as will Justice of Peace William Moylan and Treasurer Albert Davey, both of this city. The board has been notified by the county commissioners that the four-mile road between Gilbert and Virginia, will hereafter be maintained by the township. Fifty thousand dollars was last year's levy for road work, but this year only $25,000 will be asked, as less road work will be necessary.

The township caucus will be held Saturday and the election Tuesday. At the election the question of changing the polling place from Eveleth to Gilbert will be voted upon. The following candidates are in the field for township offices: Capt. Davey, Virginia, supervisor; W. A. Rutherford, Elba, R. W. Hartley, Gilbert, clerk; J. B. Thompson, Gilbert, treasurer; Matt Sipola, treasurer; J. V. Jones, assessor; overseer of highways, Anton Mustar; village engineer, Frank A. Bowman; alderman, Herman Bodas; Anton Erchul, Anton Erjovec, M. A. Masterson, Frank Sullivan, supervisor.

MARRIED WOMAN TAKES HER LIFE

Mrs. Swonanen Drinks Chloral Upon Retiring at Chisholm and Found Dead.

Chisholm, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Lydia Swonanen, wife of Edward Swonanen, aged 31 years, committed suicide Monday night by poisoning. After drinking chloral she retired, leaving a note on the dresser for her husband, stating that it was her intention to put an end to her existence, and urging him to do likewise.

She was found dead in her bed on Tuesday morning. She was a Finn and had lived in this country a comparatively short time. She lived on Central avenue, near the corner of Lake street. Only her husband survives, as there were no children.

Agitated over the act, Swonanen attempted to cut his throat with a razor. Friends reached him before he could do any serious damage, and he was turned over to the police, who locked him up.

All efforts of the police to ascertain a cause for the action of Mrs. Swonanen have been unavailing, the husband refusing to answer any questions put to him.

STRIVING FOR BETTER ROADS

Settlers in Itasca County South and East of Northome to Be Benefited.

Northome, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Settlers living south and east of Northome, across the line in Itasca county, can look forward to greatly improved conditions in the matter of roads the coming summer if the plans of County Commissioner C. M. King from the First district materialize. Mr. King is taking a keen interest in good roads and proposes to see that the settlers living in the northern part of the district get what is coming to them in the way of passable highways.

He has personally investigated the conditions as they exist at the present time and realizes the urgent need of considerable road work in that end of his district. The idea is to provide roads that can be traveled during the summer months as well as in the winter. The completion and fixing of these highways will mean much to the settlers south and east of here as well as to Northome which is their nearest trading point.

DEER RIVER ENJOINED.

Trustees Cannot Collect License From Motion Picture Show.

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Wright has granted the petition of Higgins & Ryan, who run a moving picture show at Deer River for an injunction to prevent the village board from collecting an annual license fee of $200, which the relators claim is prohibitory. The case will come up for final hearing March 28.

The terms of court will be opened by Judge McClenahan and the civil calendar will be unusually heavy. The criminal cases so far as known are few in number and will include the Yancey case, which involves a charge of first degree of larceny and the Atwood case, in which the defendant is accused of a statutory offense.

Atwood was a police officer at Keewatin and is now in confinement having been unable to furnish bail. It is stated that a number of other arrests at Keewatin may take place as a result of disclosures which have been made to County Attorney McOuat.

New trials have been granted by Judge McClenahan in State vs. Lynch, convicted of manslaughter in the second degree and by Judge Stanton in Melhus vs. Seaman, a civil action growing out of some large cedar operations. Both of these cases will probably be tried at the approaching term.

The 10-months-old daughter of W. Winkelman of Monroe street, died yesterday morning after a short illness, and will be buried tomorrow morning from the Finnish Lutheran church with Rev. P. C. Keranen officiating. Interment will be made at Virginia.

VIRGINIANS ARE AFTER THE PLANT

Mass Meeting Expected to Further Municipal Ownership Campaign.

Virginia, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The petitioners to the request that the city take steps towards taking over the plant of the Virginia Electric Power & Water company do not intend to let the matter go by default as a mass meeting of the citizens interested is planned for some time next week to further discuss the proposition.

The petition started last week for the recall of Alderman Kimball has not laid dormant and according to reports the petition has already received signers enough to warrant its presentation to the city council. Whether this will be done at the next meeting of the council is not known but the talk is that it will be put off until one of the first meetings in April.

VIRGINIANS PLANNING TO HONOR ST. PATRICK.

Virginia, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The parishioners of Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic church are making preparations for a St. Patrick's entertainment, which will consist of a literary and musical program and recitations and speaking by prominent people of the city and county. Among the speakers will be Father Lydon of Duluth and the program will otherwise prove entertaining. On account of not being able to secure certain participants on the night of St. Patrick's day, Rev. Father Powers, who has charge of the arrangements, has set the date for this entertainment for Wednesday evening, March 15, and the program will be rendered at the Fay opera house.

GOVERNMENT OFFICERS ARREST KEEWATIN MAN.

Hibbing, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Federal officers came here yesterday with an Italian miner from Keewatin. No definite information could be obtained as to the crime with which the man is accused, but the presence of revenue officials confirms the rumor of blindpigging. The men left with their prisoner on the afternoon train for Virginia.

Brought to County Jail.

DULUTHIANS MAY ERECT NEW HOTEL

Trying to Buy Choice Property as Site for Building.

Virginia, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mark Eddy, a liveryman, has been offered $17,000 for two lots near the Fay opera house on Chestnut street. The parties making this offer are said to be from Duluth and if they succeed in getting possession of the property will erect a modern hotel building thereon. The lots have a frontage of fifty feet and run to the alley, a depth of 120 feet. They are located in the heart of the city and would certainly make a most desirable location for a first-class hotel.

It is also rumored that the Canadian Northern is contemplating the erection of a modern hotel near the west end of Chestnut street, in order to provide accommodations for the traveling public which will enter the city over its road.

KEEWATIN MEN BUSY

At Nashwauk Township Caucus Held During the Week.

Nashwauk, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The township caucus was held here Tuesday night following the village caucus. A number of Keewatin politicians were present and took an active part. McWilliams was nominated by acclamation as overseer of roads; Max Shurman received the nomination for justice of the peace for a term of two years; Tom Brown also was nominated for a term of two years as justice of the peace; Thomas Vogan was unanimously nominated for the office of constable for two years; Pat Carmidee was nominated as constable for a term of one year.

The local fire department was called out Tuesday night at 11 o'clock and extinguished a small blaze on Fourth street. The fire originated from an overheated stove in a small rooming house on the outskirts of the village. The occupants of the house were awakened by the smoke and fled outside for safety. The department responded quickly and the flames were soon checked. Beside only a few wearables owned by the miners living in the house no other damage was done.

The building formerly occupied by the Unique theater is being remodeled throughout for an automobile garage. The building is located on upper Central avenue and is a fine location for an establishment of this kind. Those who are interested in the new enterprise are Charles West, Adolf Johnson and Charles Carlson. The company owns one auto now, which was used last summer, and they expect to have another new machine which they will use to accommodate their trade.

The ladies' aid society met at the home of Mrs. J. C. Ohles last Thursday afternoon. Many attended and a dainty lunch was served.

Sheriff T. T. Riley of Grand Rapids was a business visitor in the village Wednesday.

HONEST CONFESSION.

A Doctors Talk on Food.

There are no fairer set of men on earth than the doctors, and when they find they have been in error they are usually apt to make honest and manly admissions of the fact.

A case in point is that of a practitioner, one of the good old school, who lives in Texas. His plain, unvarnished tale needs no dressing up:

"I had always had an intense prejudice, which I can now see was unwarranted and unreasonable, against all muchly advertised foods. Hence, I never read a line of the many 'ads' of Grape-Nuts, nor tested the food till last winter.

"While in Corpus Christi for my health, and visiting my youngest son, who has four of the ruddiest, healthiest little boys I ever saw, I ate my first dish of Grape-Nuts food for supper with my little grandsons.

"I became excedingly fond of it and have eaten a package of it every week since, and find it a delicious, refreshing and strengthening food, leaving no ill effects whatever, causing no eructations (with which I was formerly much troubled), no sense of fulness, nausea, nor distress of stomach in any way.

"There is no other food that agrees with me so well, or sits as lightly or pleasantly upon my stomach as this does.

"I am stronger and more active since I began the use of Grape-Nuts than I have been for 10 years, and am no longer troubled with nausea and indigestion." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Look in pkgs. for the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."

"There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

OFFICERS NOT CALLED

Militia Commanders May Yet Be Ordered to Mexican Border.

Duluth Officers Have Not Heard From Adjutant General.

Duluth officers of the Minnesota National Guard are still in doubt as to whether they will be ordered to Texas, where 20,000 men of the regular army forces are being mobilized.

According to the press dispatches, National Guard officers throughout the country were called upon to proceed to the border to watch the maneuvers of the regular army and possibly to command some of the troops. If orders were sent to Minnesota officers, they would go to Adjt. Gen. Wood and he has not yet communicated with the officers of the Duluth companies.

Duluth militia officers are deeply interested in the movements of the regular army and they would welcome an opportunity to witness the developments on the Mexican border at first hand.

REAL CAUSE OF MOBILIZATION

Revolution in Mexico Much Worse Than Had Been Reported.

Feared Anti-American Demonstration Might Occur at Any Time.

Washington, March 9.—The real significance of the sudden mobilization of a quarter of the United States army and a formidable portion of the navy along the Mexican frontier and in the waters adjacent to the ends of the international boundary is gradually leaking out in Washington.

From various sources, yet without the possibility of official verification, credible admissions have been obtained which, pieced together in the light of known facts, make up a whole that goes far to substantiate the interpretation placed by the public upon the great movement of military force now in progress.

Increasing Unrest.

It is said that about the time of the return to Washington of Henry Lane Wilson, ambassador of the United States to Mexico, the administration received advices indicating increasing unrest in Mexico and that the revolution notwithstanding assertions of the Mexican government to the contrary had extended in many directions. The whole country was said to be in a condition made the more serious by what was said to be a precarious state of health of President Diaz.

Anti-American Feeling.

There is known to be no little anti-American feeling among the Mexicans generally, and it was feared that developements at any moment might precipitate a chaotic condition with probable demonstrations against foreigners.

This alleged state of affairs, it is said, was discussed with deep concern at the White House, with the result that a suggestion was made that it would be the part of forethought to concentrate near the Mexican border a force sufficient to meet any situation which might arise.

This movement was to take the form of maneuvers, and all parties to the plan sincerely hoped that nothing else would be necessary.

Administration Disconcerted.

The interpretation which was instantly placed upon the movement by the newspapers and people of the country is said to have disconcerted the administration and the president and his advisers hastened to relieve the tension of feeling in this country and in Mexico by emphatic declarations of the harmless intent of the movement.

Maneuvers it will be, and maneuvers on American soil exclusively, according to this view of the situation. Meanwhile accurate information as to the real condition of affairs in Mexico, especially as to the health of President Diaz, is awaited in Washington with intense interest and no little concern.

CITY'S BIG STATIONERY BILL.

New York has to pay annually what is probably the biggest stationery and printing bill of any municipality. Last year it was over $1,300,000. New York prints a daily newspaper of its own, the City Record, which helps along the bill somewhat. It cost $262,000 to print the City Record in 1909.

Uncle Sam has his own printing shops, so that it isn't possible to compare his printing bill with the bill New York has to settle every year, because New York has to go out and get its printing done like any private corporation.

Of the big city departments the finance department runs up the biggest printing and stationery bill. Last year it was over $200,000. Whenever New York decides to get out a bond issue it makes the man who orders the stationery groan. Those nice looking green and gold bonds cost over $1 apiece, which would mean $35,000 for a $35,000,000 bond issue.

Probably no private consumer, even the largest corporations, has anything like the same number of stationery forms made to order as the city. The department of health, for instance, has no less than 725 different forms to be ordered. Other departments have almost as many.

It requires a big three-story warehouse on Reade street to hold all of New York's stationery. There are $200,000 worth of blank books, ledgers, etc., bought every year and stored there. Everything is carted to the warehouse, whence supplies are drawn by the different departments as they need them.

All the printing and stationery supplies pass through the hands of David Ferguson, supervisor of the City Record, who is also the editor of the city's official newspaper. Mr. Ferguson this year hopes to save over $100,000 alone in printing this newspaper and over $300,000 in the city's general bill for printing.

WORK OF A BOY SCOUT.

Boston Transcript: The practical value of the Boy Scout movement has been made clear to a Providence policeman by two acts of helpfulness in which a boy of 15, a member of the local organization, recently figured.

The patrolman had just managed to stop a runaway team when, glancing around, he saw a boy hanging to the other bridle. "I'll hold the horse, sir, until the owner comes up," said the boy, and he did. The same boy a few days later happened to hear water running inside a house, and finding it impossible to arouse any one, took a long, cold walk to the city hall and notified the water department. Inquiry showed that a pipe had frozen and burst and that serious loss would have resulted had the deluge continued.

NO MONEY FOR RIBBONS.

"Charlotte Cushman was an interesting woman and the first American actress of her time," says Julia Ward Howe in the Woman's Home Companion. "She often came to our house and has told me much of her stage life.

"Her first hit was at the old Park theater. Se was an understudy for the part of Meg Merrilies in an excellent play made from Scott's novel 'Guy Mannering.'

"The leading lady, who was to have played Meg Merrilies, was taken ill and Charlotte was called upon to take the part. Just as she went on the stage she heard one of the gypsies who was repeating his lines say, 'Meg grows merciful.'

"She took her cue from the words and determined to put a new tenderness in the acting of Meg toward the boy. With this original interpretation of the role, which she really created, Charlotte made her first palpable hit.

"Later she played with Macready in Byron's 'Werner' and had a certain success. Macready made her an offer to go with him to Paris; the terms were so unsatisfactory that she refused.

"I remember her telling me of the first really great impression she made. It was in England in the provinces. She was to appear that evening for the first time in 'Fazio,' a play that had a great vogue. Charlotte's devoted maid Sally, a mulatto girl, was her standby. The morning of the play Charlotte said to Sally:

"'I would like to spend three and sixpence for ribbons to dress up that part tonight; can we afford it?'

"'No, Miss Charlotte, we can't afford no three and sixpence for ribbons,' said Sally.

"Charlotte went on the stage in the old dress without the ribbons. She was playing the part of Fazio's neglected wife. In one of the scenes, when the unfaithful husband returns to her, she gave the line, 'Fazio, you have been with Wilhelmina!' After she had gone so far she heard a great noise and looked to see what it was; to her astonishment it was applause!

"It was some minutes before she could go on with her part. From that time she went up and up, till she very quickly reached the top."

DIDN'T THINK BRIDE NECESSARY.

Rumford Times: "A queer thing happened here last week," said Lawyer Nathan G. Foster. "A few weeks ago a fellow and girl came here and asked me to marry them. They did not know that a license was required, so I went with them to the clerk's office and they arranged the matter. I told them to come back at a stated time and I would marry them.

"The day designated the fellow came alone and said he was all ready to be married. 'Where's the young lady?' I asked. 'Why,' replied the fellow, 'has she got to come, too?' The fellow thought it queer I could not perform the ceremony unless the lady was present, but went out and soon returned with her."

Reliable Rheumatic Prescription

At this season many people suffer with rheumatism, which is likely to assume a chronic form unless carefully treated. The following prescription possesses great virtue and has been known to relieve and cure many of the most hopeless cases. Any good druggist can fill it. The true ingredients, and pure, must be used to insure success.

Iodide of Potassium	2 drams
Sodium Salicylate	4 drams
Wine of Colchicum	½ oz
Comp. Ess. Cardiol	1 oz
Comp. Fld. Balmwart	1 oz
Comp. Syrup Sarsaparilla	5 ozs

Mix in a half pint bottle and begin by taking one teaspoonful after each meal, and one at bedtime; after the first week gradually increase the dose to two taspoonfuls. While somewhat more expensive than ordinary patent medicines, it is really to be desired if results are the goal.

USE SECOND-HAND GRAVES.

New York Herald: Because social standing reaches to the grave, a new business, which has the merit of novelty, has been developed in Brooklyn. A six months' trial has proved that it fills a long-felt want, and reports of the success which has rewarded the efforts of its originators, a firm of undertakers, are likely to spread throughout the country and convert many undertakers into skillful real estate manipulators. It was simply the old proposition of demand for something exclusive and desirable that started the venture, and the Brooklyn firm promptly made it an important adjunct to its business.

In the course of their long career the undertakers frequently had noted that prospective customers had longed for a final resting place which would be consistent with their material life. They were of the class who are particular about the appearance of their homes and the attractiveness of the neighborhoods in which they dwelt, and they wanted to make sure when they passed away that all the ideals of their material life would be reflected in the selection of their last abode.

Among these inquirers the one great trouble that confronted them seemed to be a doubt as to what certain cemeteries would be transformed into before it came their time to pass into another world. Among many there was an insuperable aversion to buying plots in the newer sections of burying grounds, as a result of the reasoning that one never can tell who one's next-door neighbors are to be, and whether their social position in life will be such as to induce them to make provision whereby their graves will be adorned with imposing tombstones or kept up in a manner which betokens a full realization of the niceties of worldly existence.

Rather than take chances of being buried in a new section, which to the most hopeful only held forth a possibility of being developed up to the desired standard, many persons expressed their wishes for plots which might have been in use for generations, but which, for divers reasons, the owners were willing to sell. Such graves were in demand if their surroundings were of a character which betoken prosperity and social worth once held by those buried in neighboring plots.

So great seemed this inclination to acquire graves which might be termed second-hand, if they were in a portion of the cemetery which appealed to the eye of an aesthetic person, that the Brooklyn undertakers converted the idea into a business proposition and established a "cemetery bureau." Acting on the truism that it pays to advertise when one has anything of merit to sell or buy, the Brooklyn undertakers advertised their readiness to purchase cemetery lots that the holders wished to dispose of. It was necessary to acquire cemetery lots from present owners before a market could be established for the sale of lots or plots to those who were particular about where all that was mortal of them would repose after death.

Many persons who held title to desirable lots were found willing to dispose of them. Various reasons were assigned for the willingness to sell. The most frequent was that survivors of families who had once lived in Brooklyn or Manhattan had moved to distant parts, had purchased burial plots in their new home cities, and had had the bodies of their departed relatives removed to new resting places.

Some cemetery officials at first frowned upon the new business, mainly because the idea was novel, and incidentally because it deprived them of certain revenues. They themselves could not engage in the transaction of real estate operations which involved the sale of second-hand burial plots, for the law does not give them such a privilege. But with outsiders it was different, and the Brooklyn firm took up the new branch of its trade with energy.

"There is nothing surprising in second-hand burial lots," said a member of the firm. "Why should any one think it strange or unusual? When a man purchases a dwelling which has been occupied in a desirable section, no one considers it a strange transaction. Then why should there be any surprise if people want a burial plot which has been used, but from which every trace of its former occupant has been removed? People want to be sure that when they die they will be buried amid surroundings that would have been congenial to them in life, and that is the reason why cemetery lots which have been used, but are desirably located, are so much in demand."

The Irish lakes have yielded several fish of fifteen pounds or more in recent years. A trout of twenty-one pounds was caught in Loch Rannoch in 1904 by a young lady, and in the same year a youthful angler of 10, got one in the Test at Broadlands which weighed sixteen pounds. The largest trout caught in the southern streams of late, however, was the eighteen-pounder from the New river, which fell a victim to a lobworm in 1908. The record Thames trout was caught in 1880, and weighed sixteen pounds, fifteen ounces.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

FANS WANT NEW TOWNS

Believe Admission of Winnipeg and Brandon Will Mean Better Ball.

Wausau and Eau Claire May Be Dropped at League Meeting Tuesday.

From the present indications it looks as if Eau Claire and Wausau are the only teams that will possibly be persuaded to give up their franchises in the Minnesota-Wisconsin league.

For one thing, reliable information states that Rochester, Red Wing, Winona and La Crosse are anxious to hold their franchises and to continue in the league, though there was talk at La Crosse for a while of dropping baseball, according to the news that came via the way of Minneapolis.

For a while there was strong talk of stopping Sunday baseball in this state. The people in the southern part of the state fought against the bill, and for this support of the game it has been declared that the southern towns are deserving of every consideration at the hands of the league officials.

That is the political phase of the situation as it has been put up to some of the baseball men. For that reason and perhaps others, it looks very much at the present time as if each of the four cities named will have a team in the league the coming season.

The Twin City Plans.

Here is another phase of the baseball situation. There is no doubt that this league can in the very near future break into the Twin Cities—provided that the magnates of the league can show the baseball men of St. Paul and Minneapolis where such a venture would pay.

Cantillion and Mike Kelley have promised to support the move, when the owners of Minny league clubs can show a profit. That is one of the reasons why there promises to be a very hard fight made for the admission of Winnipeg and Brandon.

Winnipeg is one of the very best baseball towns in the country. It is a city of nearly 200,000 people. Let Winnipeg and Brandon in and let the teams show where baseball in this league can be made profitable, and there may be the chance for entering Twin City territory.

Wausau was dropped unceremoniously from the Wisconsin-Illinois league. It showed that it could not support baseball in that league, and since it has been a member of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league it has also shown conclusively that baseball does not pay—at least the class of baseball that has been played in the Minnesota-Wisconsin league for the past two years.

Eau Claire, with one of the fastest class D teams ever organized in this country, failed to support baseball, leaving an alarming deficit for its directors to face at the close of the season. Under the circumstances, it would seem that Wausau and Eau Claire were the towns to be dropped and that it would be a very wise move on the part of the directors of the league to devise some means of substituting two stronger members of the league.

The political obligation does not apply to these towns. They had nothing to do with the fight on the Sunday baseball bill. They are not Minnesota towns and it has been definitely proved in the past that they cannot support class D baseball.

For their own interests it would seem the logical course to pursue to drop Eau Claire and Wausau, and the news that such a course had been taken at the meeting of next Tuesday would be very welcome for the fans in this neck of the woods, for the simple reason that to the man on the fence it looks like better baseball in the end.

It is known that Superior is strong for Winnipeg. When Will Sommers returned from a trip, just the other day, he declared that Superior was in favor of the very best baseball and that the directors of the club were out for the best that money could secure.

With two good towns in the league and two burdens removed, there will be the chance for better baseball. That is the only reason the fans are in the least interested in the removal of two of the weakest members of the league. There is nothing personal in the matter, on the other hand. It is simply a matter of clear business sense and good baseball management.

That is the reason why the two cities at the Head of the Lakes will fight for the admission of Winnipeg. John Desmond, who has the right idea in regard to the future of Duluth in the national game, has worked hard for better baseball for this city, and he has instructed Mr. Sommers to use the Duluth proxy in favor of the admission of Winnipeg.

The meeting Tuesday promises to be interesting and also very vital to the interests of the league. The club owners are naturally the men most interested and they are in the best position to judge of what course of action they think it the wisest to pursue. It does look as if the admission of Winnipeg and Brandon would mean the playing of better baseball, not to mention the increased profit, or immunity from deficits, it might be better said.

Fans here are anxious for baseball of the best kind and believing that the admission of a large and prosperous city like Winnipeg would mean faster baseball, the fans are pulling for the "Peggers."

HAS BUILT UP THE RACING GAME IN CZAR'S DOMAIN

Frank Caton of Cleveland has been the manager of the trotting horses owned by Count Baschkoff of Russia for many years. Caton is credited with building up the trotting game in Russia, but he is getting rather tired of it and would like to return to his own country. Count Baschkoff will not listen to him, however, and says he would give up his stable if Caton left him. The count is the owner of the largest stable in Russia and is really the backbone of the trotting association. Caton will soon return to Russia.

MILLER IS THROWN BY HENRY GEHRING.

St. Paul, Minn., March 9.—Henry Gehring of Cleveland, middleweight, last night defeated Young Miller of St. Paul, champion welterweight wrestler, in two straight falls. Gehring won the first fall in 1 hour 47 minutes with a jackknife and armlock and the second fall in 1 hour and 17 minutes with a toehold. Gehring's superior weight and strength was too much for the St. Paul man.

LOOKING FOR NEW GROUNDS

So prosperous has the Northwestern Gun club of this city become, that already plans are afoot for the securing of new grounds. Whether these grounds will be secured the present season or not, it has not been definitely decided as yet. But the officials of the club have reached the decision to secure new grounds and construct one of the finest clubhouses in the Northwest.

The growth of the club has been one of the features of amateur sport in this part of the state. By energetic action the officers of the club have created an increased interest in shooting, and today the Northwestern Gun club is not only one of the biggest clubs in the country, but it also is one of the most progressive.

PROTEST AGAINST BILL.

Duluth Hunters Against Prohibition of Repeating Gun.

A petition has been signed by practically every prominent hunter in this city protesting against the bill introduced into the legislature for the purpose of prohibiting the use of the repeating gun.

Sportsmen here argue that the law provides for the number of birds that can be killed in a day, and ask what difference it makes what kind of a gun is used.

The petition has been signed by a large number of Duluthians and will be forwarded to the legislature. It is said that hunters in other cities of the state have taken similar action and that the bill for the prohibiting of the use of the repeating gun will have the opposition of a large majority of the hunters of Minnesota.

HACKENSCHMIDT AND ROLLER WIN

Ordemann and Americus Defeated in Kansas City Matches.

Kansas City, Mo., March 9.—George Hackenschmidt defeated Henry Ordemann and Dr. B. F. Roller threw Americus in a double event wrestling club here last night. Both matches were fast.

Roller threw Americus the first time in one hour, thirteen minutes and fifty-eight seconds, and won the second fall in thirty minutes and twenty seconds. Each fall was secured with a combination half-Nelson and crotch hold.

Hackenschmidt was the aggressor in the second match and during the entire time had Ordemann on the defensive. He secured the first fall in one hour, two minutes and eight seconds, with a half-Nelson and the second in fourteen minutes and thirty-one seconds with a double bar-arm hold.

PORKY FLYNN LOSES TO BOMBARDIER WELLS.

London, March 9.—The fight at the Olympic last night between Bombardier Wells and Dan (Porky) Flynn of Boston, went twenty rounds but the Englishman won the decision on points by a large margin.

In the sixth round Wells sent the Bostonian to the boards twice. He put him to the floor again in the ninth and in the twentieth knocked Flynn through the ropes.

Illinois A. C. Wins.

Chicago, March 9.—The Illinois A. C., hockey team defeated the all-Niagaras of Canada in the first game of the international series last night, 7 to 4.

WITH THE WRESTLERS

A wire came this morning from Jack Wendell, who at the present time has charge of Billy Schober. Wendell wants to match Schober against Sailor Jack or Billy Jenkins, the latter being the man who issued a sweeping challenge in this city only recently.

In his wire to The Herald sporting department, Wendell states that his man will wrestle at 143 pounds and that it makes no difference to him which of the two men is selected.

It is too bad that all these wrestlers waited until the sailor left this part of the country before directing challenges against him. Within the past two weeks Jenkins, Gehring, Joe Carr, Ed Adamson, Billy Schober and a few others have hurled challenges at the husky marine. If the sailor were here there is no doubt but that he would wrestle any or all of them, for as far as is known he has never sidestepped a wrestler during his mat career.

Following the Wendell wire comes a letter from Marcus Nelson of Hopkins, Minn., in which he states that he has George Whipps in charge and that he would like to match Whipps against the Sailor Jack man.

Nelson claims that Whipps wrestled Matsuda the Jap two hours and a half to a draw the other evening, and has been defeated but once. He also claims that Whipps is open to meet all comers.

As far as matches at the Lyceum are concerned, wrestling in Duluth for the present season will close with the Gotch-Beell finish match, best two in three falls, of Saturday evening.

The present season has been the best the sport has ever enjoyed in this city, but with the coming of early spring and the booming of baseball on the horizon, winter sports will be slowly crowded from the stage.

It is expected that the Beell-Gotch finish contest will be by far the best ever wrestled in this city, while the contest between Asbel and Sampson is also expected to be one of the best ever held in this city.

COMMENTS AND OPINIONS ON THE SPORTING PARADE

Duluth Must Stay With the Minny League for Time—Golf Prospects in Duluth—Westergaard's Chance—Lehto Should Be Given Credit for Good Showing.

(BY BRUCE.)

LET US all gather around, calm our hastily formed opinion and have a good and honest talk on the sporting parade.

Yesterday three men who have followed athletics were talking. One of the first things they discussed was baseball. Here we are, a town of Duluth's size, sticking around in Minny league baseball. Somebody might get impertinent and say right out—"What's the difference?"

Right here is the difference—Duluth wants baseball and it wants the best baseball it can support at the present time. If we can break into the Twin Cities' class, all well and good, and if we can't let's do the best we can.

Here is the proposition straight and true:

Duluth has been fighting the past year for better baseball. This issue will be decided at the meeting of the Minny league March 14. Whether or not we get into a higher baseball company the coming season, there is the assurance that the baseball prospects of the next year hold something good for us.

This column has fought for higher class baseball for this city and still maintains that Duluth is entitled to better baseball than Eau Claire and Wausau can afford. The logical and most businesslike course for the league to pursue would be to ask Wausau and Eau Claire to drop out of the league. With these two dead towns out, and they are out of the inner circle of baseball politics, there would be the chance for the admission of Winnipeg and Brandon.

Right here at this time, before the meeting of the magnates of the Minny league, it might be stated here that it looks doubtful for the admission of either of the Canadian towns. If that is the wisest possible policy of the Minny league directors, it may in turn be the best possible course for us to pursue to learn wisdom from our city friends and stick around until we see something better in sight.

There is the old saying that a man is known by the company that he keeps. For the past six or seven years Duluth has been keeping baseball company below the level that should be eventually attained by this city.

In the past, when baseball players have hit this town after a hard trip on the road, they have stated that they are "hitting a pretty big town." They have been hitting the biggest and best town on the circuit.

That's neither knocking or criticising; we are simply putting the proposition in a calm and collected way. Is this town not entitled to better baseball?

But whether we do get into a better league or not, let us stick 'er out, for there is positive assurance that Cantillon and Kelly are lined up for Duluth, providing that we can show them another live town.

If Winnipeg goes in at the Rochester meeting, March 14, it looks as if we are going to break into a bigger and better league at the end of the present season. In the event that the big Canadian city does not break in, we must hope for the very best.

Some Golf, Yes.

IF THE early present plans of the Northland Golf club are carried out, this city the present season will see the best exhibitions of the game that have ever been given in Duluth.

Two of the greatest players of Scotland are planning to make a tour of the United States during the present season, and it is planned to bring these players, or at least one of them, here for a series of match games.

Golf has become one of the popular games at the Head of the Lakes. If the plans of the Duluth Boat club are carried out, it will mean some time in the future another golf course for this city. But, for the moment forgetting the plans of the boat club in regard to golf, it may be said that the coming season promises to be the most interesting, not only from the point of view of the players, but also that of the general public.

Let Big Jess Show His Class.

NEXT Monday in Minneapolis Jess Westergaard of Des Moines will meet Zbyszko in what should prove one of the most interesting matches of the season.

There are just the proper proportions of population in Minneapolis to make the match awfully exciting from the point of view of the audience.

Westergaard is a Swede and Zbyszko is a Pole. There are innumerable Swedes in Minneapolis and the Poles over on the South side compose a large part of the citizenship. It is expected that the nationalities will rally to the support with arguments and aggressive cheering from both sides of the house.

All through the present season Westergaard has shown some of the best form of any of the American wrestlers. Just the other night Hackenschmidt undertook to throw him twice in an hour, and failed to pin the big Iowan once in the sixty minutes of actual wrestling time. After such a showing against the Lion it is to be expected that big Jess will make a mighty good showing against Zbyszko.

It is hoped for the sake of the showing of American wrestlers that the big boy from Iowa, one of the very best in the business, will come mighty near to throwing the man from Poland, who during his remarkable career on the American mat has beaten all of the American wrestlers with the exception of Gotch.

Just a Word About Lehto.

LEHTO has been beaten and the trick was turned apparently easily by Gotch. In the excitement of contest men are apt to judge hastily. In the slower opinion that comes after more mature deliberation, it might not be out of place to add a word of praise for the young Finn.

Here is a boy 23 years of age. By his strength and speed the past winter he has made a creditable showing against the best wrestlers in the business. For a wrestler of his age and experience he has accomplished wonders.

Along comes Gotch, a man noted for his rough tactics, and in the very first grip nearly twists the arms off the youngster. Why Gotch should resort to these rough tactics is not apparent to the man on the outside. He did and the result of this was a very poor showing for Lehto.

Lehto was disabled from the first and was after the injury helpless in the giant hands of Gotch. It was only a question of how long Lehto would be able to hold out against the champion of the world, and the fact that he was badly affected with stage fright, was bruised and battered, should be considered for the young man, who has by far the brightest side of his future ahead of him. He has just really started on the wrestling ladder and he and his friends will do well to remember that even Gotch, great as he is, received his bumps before he reached the pinnacle of his success.

O'Keefe, have been engaged by the board of education to take full charge of the training of the high school track and field teams that will represent Grand Forks in the annual interscholastic meet to be held at the state university in May. The high school has some splendid material this year and under the efficient training of these two capable athletes ought to give all competitors a close race for the banner.

CATHOLIC HIGH SCHOOL AND ATHLETIC CLUB WINNERS.

Last evening the qint of the new Catholic Athletic club defeated the Invincibles of Superior by the score of 27 to 7. This was the second regular game the Catholic boys have played the present season, and considering the inexperience of some of the players, some very good playing was shown last evening.

Joe Boyle's playing was one of the features of the Catholic club. He threw six baskets from the field and one from foul. Vince O'Donnell, who has been coaching the club team, got three baskets and Kelly two.

The Catholic high school defeated the naval militia boys by the score of 10 to 7. Patt pitched a very good game for the high school boys and his twirling was one of the features of the contest. Patterson at first for the high school boys also played a very good game.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 9.—The regulars of the Brooklyn team played errorless ball yesterday against the second team of the same club and won, 3 to 1.

LA CROSSE WILL HAVE NEW BASEBALL PARK.

Word comes from La Crosse that a downtown baseball park will probably be constructed in that city. The street car company is said to have withdrawn all opposition to the building of the park, and from the statement that comes to The Herald, work on the park will be started within a short time.

The construction of a downtown park in La Crosse means increased attendance for that city and also the probability that the game will be placed on a paying basis. With John A. Elliott as one of the directors of the club and some of the most influential business men of the city behind the club, baseball should have a very thriving season.

HAUGEN WINS HIGH KICK CONTEST AT "Y."

At the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium last evening A. Haugen won the high kick, kicking the pan at the distance of six feet and eleven inches. This is one of the best standing high kicks that has been made at the gymnasium the present season. Jessie Giddings won second place with a 6.10 kick, Phil Moore registered 6.08, Beckwith 6.02 and Johnson 6.01.

The athletic events are being held three times a week. The next event will be held Friday evening. The various forms of athletic contests will be continued until the middle of next month.

SATURDAY NIGHT LEAGUE FORMED FOR BASKET BALL.

Six teams will be in the Saturday night basket ball league of the Y. M. C. A. There will be a team from the noon class, two from the afternoon and one from the evening, while teams from the board of trade and Marshall-Wells company will complete the league.

OBJECTIONS TO NEW ENGINEER

Fifth Ward Club Believes One Engineer Is Enough for City.

In the opinion of the Fifth Ward Hillside club, one engineer is enough for Duluth. The club at its meeting last night decided to send a resolution to the Duluth representatives at the state legislature asking them to oppose the pending bill which, if passed, would authorize the water and light department to employ a second engineer for the city.

A resolution was also passed which indorses the appointment of a representative from the western part of the city to serve on the water and light board and look after the interests of the consumers of that locality.

At the next regular meeting of the club on April 4 the commission form of government will be discussed. The election of officers will take place at the next meeting.

CRUSHED BY STEAM SHOVEL.

Charles Cummings, Injured on Canadian Northern, Dies at Hospital.

Charles Cummings, 52 years of age, who was brought to the city Feb. 28 suffering from injuries caused by a steam shovel operated on the Canadian Northern right-of-way construction work, died last night at St. Mary's hospital. The blow from the shovel crushed his chest, and after he had been examined by Dr. C. H. Clark, it was announced that he had small hopes of recovery. As far as known he had no relatives. The body was removed to the undertaking rooms of J. L. Crawford.

Jamestown, N. D., March 9.—With scientific and diversified farming as the object of all its efforts and teachings, the organization of the Stutsman County Better Farming Congress has been perfected in this city. It is the result of the interest created among the farmers by the various speakers at the farmers' institute recently held and the organized effort promises to bring forth most beneficial results. John McGinnis was chosen president of the congress, J. O. Gaal secretary and Thomas Pendray treasurer.

INSTITUTES ON WHEELS

Special Train Will Carry Staff of Agricultural Experts.

Cars Equipped for Class Rooms and for Demonstration Work.

The farmers in this county will be given an opportunity to attend institutes held by a staff of agricultural experts, who will travel on a special train over the Duluth, Missabe & Northern, and the Duluth & Iron Range railroads, from March 27 to April 10.

The railroads will provide the train which will carry C. E. Brown of Elk River, a farmer who grows potato crops that make Aroostook county, Me., look like a beginner O. M. Olson, agricultural expert of the state's school at St. Anthony Park N. E. Chapman, poultry expert of the state university's agricultural extension staff; A. B. Hostetter, superintendent of agriculture for the Duluth Commercial club, and Harry A. Hopkins, manager of the Producers' Co-operative Market association. Two cars will be equipped for class rooms, another for demonstration work and other cars for the accommodation of the staff and guests.

The following towns will be visited in the order indicated: Two Harbors, Brimson, Fairbanks, Tower, Embarrass, Aurora, Biwabik, Lake Junction, Cook, Hibbing, Eveleth, Forbes, Zim, Kelsey, Meadowlands, Alborn, Burnett, Adolph, Floodwood and a few other agricultural communities in nearby territory. The trip will end with a day's session in Duluth for farmers who are within driving distance of the city.

Instruction will be facilitated by the division of classes into three groups. Mr. Brown, Mr. Olson and Mr. Chapman will conduct classes simultaneously. Mr. Hopkins will exhibit standard packages and crates and will explain the workings of the market association and the benefit that it has been to the farmers. He and Mr. Hostetter will answer inquiries concerning the preparation, grading, packing and shipping of fruit in such a manner as to obtain for them the best market prices.

Mr. Brown of Elk River potato fame was in St. Louis county last year and made a hit with the farmers. Mr. Chapman has just concluded the supervision of a six days' poultry school held here by the university extension department. Mr. Chapman hopes to be a factor in the doubling of the production of eggs and fowls in Minnesota by giving scientific instruction to farmers. Mr. Hostetter is well known to farmers in this region, visiting them frequently. Mr. Hopkins will endeavor to round up a few more recruits to his market association.

HORSE'S KICK MAY BE FATAL

James Vilet of Cromwell, Minn., Brought to Duluth Hospital.

James Vilet was brought to St. Mary's hospital last evening from Cromwell, Minn., with a fractured skull, the result of a kick from a horse. He was still unconscious today with little chance of recovery. It is stated that for some reason a team which he was driving balked at a railroad crossing, and that when he alighted to ascertain the trouble and to try to lead them across, one of them kicked him, knocking him to the ground and causing probably fatal injuries.

OBITUARY

Werner Koch, editor and publisher of the Washington, D. C., German Journal, died March 8 at the age of 77. He came to Washington from Germany in 1853 and served as a second lieutenant of the Fifty-eighth regiment of the New York volunteers during the Civil war. He was known in German-American circles throughout the country.

W. W. Paddock, the last surviving first settler of Mankato, Minn., died of heart failure. He was born in New York Nov. 4 1828, went to St. Paul in 1851 and in February, 1852, joined a party there to make the first trip to the mouth of the Blue Earth river to found the present city of Mankato. The party left St. Paul on Feb. 15 and after eight days' travel reached the mouth of the Blue Earth and made camp there for the night. The next day the party proceeded to build a log shack, the first white habitation in Mankato.

Rev. Oscar Justus Stead, one of the most distinguished clergymen in the Swedish Methodist Episcopal church in the West, died on March 8 at his home in St. Paul. Mr. Stead, who for four years had been retired from active work, suffered a stroke of apoplexy last May and had been an invalid ever since. He had a second stroke a few weeks ago and gradually sank to his end. He was born in Sweden on Jan. 4, sixty-three years ago, and came to this country early in life for his education. His first charge was at Ishpeming, Mich. Thirty-two years ago he came to Red Wing, Minn., and two years later became pastor of the First Swedish Methodist church of St. Paul. He had held various charges in Minnesota since that time and for six years he was presiding elder of the Minneapolis district, which includes St. Paul.

AFTER NEW WITNESSES.

Grand Jury in Alaska Cases Awaits Serving of Subpoenas.

Chicago, March 9.—The government's federal grand jury investigation into alleged frauds in connection with the Alaska coal land claims came to an abrupt halt today when new evidence was turned up by investigators of the department of justice. The grand jury took a recess while United States marshals hastened out to serve new subpoenas.

Extraordinary secrecy as to the identity of witnesses and the nature of their testimony is being maintained, the seven witnesses here from Alaska being attended by secret service men constantly. Assistant United States Attorney-General L. R. Townsend, who is preparing the evidence, refused to announce the progress made or the nature of the new evidence.

Washington, March 9.—Archibald W. Butt aide to President Taft will soon discard his title of captain for that of major. Capt. Butt last night took the last of the examinations for the higher grade. It is expected that a recess appointment of Capt. Butt will be made by the president.

JACK JOHNSON A NEW OUTFIELDER

JACK JOHNSON.

Reports from Marlin, Tex., predicts a great future for Jack Johnson, the young outfielder recruit of the Giants. It is not likely, however, that Johnson can make the team this year and the Giant outfield will probably consist of the same at last year, Murray, Snodgrass and Devore, with Becker as a substitute. If Johnson is not carried by McGraw he will be farmed out to some minor league with a string attached to him.

With the Bowlers.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 9.—Sharp rivalry has developed between the Eastern and Western bowlers at the fifth international tournament of the National Bowling association and the men from the West freely predicted today that the high score of 666 in the individual series made yesterday by Jacob F. Huller of the Ardsleys of New York would not stand until the end of the week.

The record-breaking score of 2,969 made by the Bonds of Cleveland in the five-man division seems likely to stand until the end of the tournament, no team having bowled within 100 pins of it this week. In the two-man division plenty of teams are bowling close to the 1,200 mark and it is predicted that the high score of 1,249 held by Kilpatrick and Waldecker of Detroit will be beaten.

The best scores made by the first squad of two-man teams today were: Johnson and Stough, Canton, Ohio, 1,129; Frombgen and Boots, Lockport, N. Y., 1,121; Eddowney and Peal, Clinton, Ohio, 1,079; Johnson of the Canton team bowled 247 in his first game but could not maintain the pace.

Randall Signs.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 9.—Outfielder Frank Tarrant, who played in the Michigan trolley league last season, was today signed by Manager Burrett of the Milwaukee American Association Baseball club today. Newt Randall, outfielder of last year's team, has renewed his contract.

GREAT FUTURE FOR THE SOUTH

Will Enjoy Period of Prosperity Never Dreamed of, Says Wilson.

Atlanta, Ga., March 9.—James Wilson, secretary of agriculture, in his address to the Southern commercial congress declared that the most pressing problem the Southern states have to consider at this time is their agriculture.

The South will soon be living in a period of prosperity undreamed of by the age preceding you," he said. "I expect to see in a short time the south credited with more cotton than is now produced and with 2,000,000 or 3,000,000 bushels of corn instead of 1,000,000. Dairy products will amount to millions and your poultry products will supply a nation. Of fruits no man can conceive of what you may do for the world.

"The South in order to keep her money at home must raise all her food supplies. The greatest agricultural need of the South," asserted Secretary Wilson, "is more and better livestock.

"We have heard much about the increased cost of living and conserving our food supplies," said Secretary Wilson. "The country's beef supply has been diminishing in proportion to population at an alarming rate in recent years. Here in the South is plenty of unused land that could be used in cattle raising; here is a temperate climate and pastures that can be grazed practically the year around.

"I notice that the South is getting the best machinery and trying to make every one-horse farmer a two-horse farmer."

AGED CLOQUET MAN DIES.

Cloquet, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—David Bloomgreen, 80 years old, died last night at the home of his son, Andrew D. Bloomgreen of the county road. Death was due to old age.

The deceased came here four years ago from Sweden, where he has two daughters. The funeral will be held Friday afternoon from the son's home, Rev. C. O. Swanson officiating.

Price of Wire Advanced.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 9.—Announcement was made here today that prices of wire and wire products had been advanced $3 a ton. Sharp demand over previous estimates of spring business is assigned as the cause. This is the second advance since Jan. 1. The prices became effective last Monday.

Fire in Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 9.—Fire, early today, destroyed the five-story building occupied by the Murdock Manufacturing company, makers and dealers in plumbing supplies, entailing a loss estimated at from $50,000 to $75,000.

One More Juror Secured.

Albany, N. Y., March 9.—One more juror for the trial of Mrs. Edith Melber, accused of the murder of her little son by poisoning, is needed to complete the jury. Mrs. Melber appeared in better spirits today and had apparently recovered from her indisposition of yesterday.

In Favor of Reciprocity.

Winnipeg, Man., March 9.—The Saskatchewan legislature voted with great enthusiasm for reciprocity with the United States today. A vote in favor of single tax was recorded.

No Change at Albany.

Albany, N. Y., March 9.—The forty-fourth ballot for United States senator showed no change in the deadlock situation.

New York Women Champion Indoor Tennis Players

CLARA KUTROFF AND MARIE WAGNER.

Practice is going on in one of New York's armories for the national indoor tennis tournament. Among those hard at work are Marie Wagner, a former champion, and Clara Kutroff. Miss Wagner and Miss Kutroff are the champions in doubles. But they have not shown themselves up to their old standard as yet in practice work.

TWO GOOD BEAR STORIES.

A Westerner owned a stumpy lot, with woods on three sides of it. The field had been seeded to clover and fifteen or twenty woodchucks dug holes in the ground, where they lived in peace and plenty until a bear, late in the month of July, formed the habit of stealing out of the woods just before sunset every day, crouching in the tall clover and pouncing on a woodchuck while it was at supper. The owner would not shoot the bear, because at that season its fur was good for nothing, and besides, he wanted to thin out the woodchucks.

When the bear had killed a number of the woodchucks and carried them into the woods, a wise old woodchuck in the upper end of the field began to be suspicious, and whenever the bear stole out of the timber the old woodchuck would sit by its hole and whistle to warn the other woodchucks of the bear's presence. Then he and all the woodchucks in the lot would run into their holes and the bear would slouch back to the woods looking sheepish.

When the old woodchuck had played this trick a few times, the bear apparently set to thinking; for at noon one hot day it was seen to shamble out of the woods and to climb a tree just above the old woodchuck's burrow. Not a woodchuck was in sight, and that made those who were watching the performance wonder what the bear was up to. He stayed in the tree all the afternoon, and just before sundown the old woodchuck was seen to crawl out of its hole and take a survey of the field. The bear's presence was unperceived, so very soon the old woodchuck scampered off some distance from his hole. Then the bear nabbed him and squeezed him to death in a hurry. With the wise old woodchuck out of the way, the bear had an easy time, and before the end of the next month he had killed every woodchuck in the lot.

A Galveston man, together with several friends, was hunting for wild turkeys in a part of Texas where the birds were numerous. He had heard that powdered red pepper, set floating in a stiff breeze at night under the trees in which turkeys were at roost, would cause them to drop sneezing, and leave them staggering at the hunter' feet.

The trees selected by the birds proved to be evergreen live oaks. The foliage was thick and it was thought best to wait until the moon rose. The Galveston man selected a promising tree, and on going under it saw three turkeys on one limb not more than ten feet from his head. There were others above. As he must not shoot till the signal was given it occurred to the Galveston man that now was a favorable opportunity to try the red pepper. He unwrapped the box and went cautiously to the limb on which the three turkeys were sitting. Lifting the box he gave it a shake to throw the pepper into the breeze, and the same time starting it upward by a vigorous puff. Then came a surprise. The hunter stepped hastily back a few feet to avoid a dose of his own medicine and saw something approach him in an upright posture. At first he took it to be one of his friends, and he stood gazing at it until it was too near for him to retreat. Then he saw that it was a full-grown bear. It was at this juncture that the pepper proved its efficacy. As the bear was proceeding most affectionately to embrace his new acquaintance, sniffing as if delighted to meet him, the Galveston man emptied the contents of the box in his face. At the same moment he jumped back and made for his gun, about ten steps away.

The moon having risen by this time the hunter could plainly see the antics of the bear. The turkeys, too, had inhaled enough of the pepper to make them restless, and were coughing and sneezing incessantly.

Then followed about as ludicrous a scene as was ever witnessed by a hunter. The bear was as good as chained, as he was almost rubbing his eyes out, and was so prostrated from his exertions as to be beyond doing any mischief. The turkeys were by this time getting into an equally bad case, and in a few minutes nine of them had fallen out of the tree and were flapping on the ground. It was, of course, easy for the hunter to dispose of the bear and, with the aid of a boy to gather up his turkeys.

PAID A GHOST'S DEBTS.

Westminster Gazette: An amazing story of an old woman's superstition came before Judge Drummond at Bailleborough, County Cavan, in the course of an action brought by Miss Anne Grady against a local farmer named Connell.

The plaintiff said that in June last the defendant told her that the ghost of her brother Phil, who had been dead twenty-six years, was haunting him because he forgot to pay defendant 70 shillings he owed him. The witness was frightened and paid the money, which the defendant swore on "the poker and tongs" was due. The defendant said he, after Phil died, walked nine miles to the wake to see if he could get an opportunity of mentioning the debt, but he was not given a chance. He denied having said anything whatever about Phil's ghost. His honor, in giving judgment for the plaintiff, said he firmly believed the story.

ALL THERE WAS.

New York Mail: The revelations of wholesale vote selling in an Ohio county recalls a colloquy said to have taken place between a political scout and a farmer into whose territory he had driven. Here is the dialogue:

"How many doubtful voters in this district?"

"'Bout 400."

"How many men likely to vote the Democratic ticket?"

"How many likely to vote the Republican ticket?"

"'Bout 400."

"'Bout 400."

"How many purchasable votes here?"

"'Bout 400."

"You don't say! By the way, what is the total vote here?"

"'Bout 400."

NOTICE OF PROPOSED VACATION.

Notice is hereby given that there has been filed of record in my office a petition for the vacation of that portion of the alley in Block 20, London addition, lying between the easterly line of Forty-third avenue east and the northerly boundary line of the Duluth & Iron Range Railroad right-of-way.

A portion of the alley sought to be vacated being bound on the easterly end thereof by the right-of-way of the Duluth & Iron Range Railroad company, makes it impossible to obtain an outlet in that direction, thus precluding the use of the alley by the general public as a thoroughfare.

Said petition will be heard and considered by the Committee of the Common Council on Streets, Alleys and Sidewalks on Monday, April 17, 1911, in the City Clerk's office in the City Hall, in the City of Duluth, at 3:30 o'clock P. M., at which time and place said committee will hear and consider the testimony and evidence on the part of parties interested.

City Clerk.

REPORT IS BEARISH

Market Yields to Effect of Estimates After an Early Bulge.

Manitobas Exported---Weather Favorable for Winter Wheat.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 9.—Wheat declined sharply today, the bearish effect of the government's statistics of yesterday and the extremely favorable weather in the winter wheat states producing heavy selling after the early firmness caused by a reaction from the initial break and sympathetic strength derived from the corn market.

May wheat lost 1⅞@2c and July declined a similar distance. Cash wheat was ½c under May. Oats closed unchanged, rye was unchanged and durum wheat lost 1½c.

Flax seed was dull and lifeless. May was unchanged at $2.65. Data seed at Antwerp was unchanged at $2.31.

Wheat opened sharply off, the government's report on farm reserves being interpreted as bearish. Values were finally 2c to 3c under yesterday's closing values, when the American markets opened today. A quick recovery was natural and the reaction proceeded according to schedule. The upward movement caused some buying and a few shorts covered. The trade seemed to be well evened up, however, as was proven when heavy selling developed on the bulge and values slumped sharply and the early gain was entirely wiped out.

A portion of the early firmness was caused by larger domestic flour sales and export business in Manitoba wheat.

Cables closed lower. Argentine shipments this week will be larger. Crop reports from India are less favorable. Plata corn is cheaper, but Australian parcels are more firmly held.

Receipts continue exceedingly small and stocks at primary points are decreasing. The primary movement is running slightly in excess of last year except in the Northwest, where bad roads make deliveries at country elevators almost impossible. The shortage in the spring wheat crop is also apparent, the mills think, because of the sharply decreased receipts.

The freezing line has moved north of Duluth although it veers to the Southwest into the Rockies at Colorado. The weather and the absence of alternate thawing and freezing in the winter wheat district caused the market to sag toward the close. Conditions are favorable and a heavy yield is certain if normal conditions continue.

Crop advices from abroad are favorable. Sowing of wheat is being carried on in the United Kingdom slowly. Otherwise the outlook for the crop is satisfactory. Plowing has commenced in Germany. Supplies of native wheat have been released. The crop outlook in Russia continues favorable. Arrivals at ports are light but stocks are liberal. Navigation on the sea of Azoff will open about the end of the month. Field work has been resumed in Roumania and there is every indication of fair supplies and a good crop. Supplies in Hungary are small and crop conditions show improvement under favorable weather. In Italy and Turkey the crops show improvement and the weather is favorable.

Cash Sales Thursday.

MARKET GOSSIP

Railroad officials agree that flour shipments from the Northwest to the East through Chicago are only about 50 per cent of those of this time last year. Local millers report that the lower basis the road are 30c below a workable basis on export patents. There was no domestic demand of any sort here.

Chicago Record-Herald: A prominent grain man of the Canadian Northwest estimates that there is now but little more than 15,000,000 bu of wheat in country elevators and farmers' hands above seed requirements west of Winnipeg, as against about 30,000,000 bu at this time a year ago. The estimate is based on the assumption of a crop of 160,000,000 bu. The recent estimate by Secretary Fowler of the Northwestern Grain Dealers' association was 19,800,000 bu, but these figures were based on a total crop of 104,563,000 bu.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool—Notwithstanding the bearish American government report and the decline in America on the curb in New York together with the forecast of larger Argentine shipments this week, the market opened steady at ¼d decline. There was some support on the closing steadiness in Buenos Ayres, tighter Australian offers and less favorable reports from India. During the morning the market developed heaviness and prices declined ¼d to ⅜d with some realizing on the favorable reports from Argentina and cheaper Plata offers but just before mid-day there was further slight support although the market was dull. The continent was bidding for cargoes which were offered at 1½ to 3d decline.

Somers, Jones & Co., of Chicago say: "The government report is considered moderately bearish. The reserves show about a standoff between the estimates of the bulls and the bears, but the bears' estimates more closely. The reserves are as follows: Wheat, 25.8 per cent, 179,690,000 bu against 23.5 per cent, 173,344,000 bu one year ago; Corn, 40.5 per cent, 1,265,624,000 bu, against 37.9 per cent 1,050,865,000 bu one year ago. Oats 37.4 per cent, 421,-135,000 bu against 36.1 per cent, 393,-155,000 bu one year ago. Barley, 19.1 per cent, 31,062,000 bu (no estimate given one year ago). A larger proportion than usual of the barley reserves is being considered available for this market on account of the price.

"The seeded area in the Southwestern winter wheat states is slightly larger than one year ago and the December 1910 condition lower than the April condition of 1910, latter referring to the crop seeded in the fall of 1909. The April condition is usually lower than in December and if this proves true this year it points to a very small crop unless weather conditions continue favorable all the way through. The poor crop start in December last rather points to further deterioration and it is a question whether recent favorable rains have improved the situation enough to be really reassuring. The deficiency in moisture in the spring wheat belt is still very great and good spring rains are needed or the crop start at best will be under the average. Continuously favorable weather from now until harvest in both spring and winter wheat is hardly to be expected and yet without it average crop results will hardly be realized.

"The bearish report, we do not believe, will influence heavy country selling of corn or oats at present prices, and short sellers will probably find to their cost that they cannot continue to sell this grain down without breaking with the market and we are inclined to think that the trade will find the entire list a purchase on all soft spots and that values will do materially better, especially so if the unsettled weather predicted by the department materializes. The longer deferred the probable spell of seasonably severe weather remains, the more severe it is likely to be when it comes and the more bullish in its effects. The Southwest has had hot weather, resulting in forced growth of the winter wheat. It will not be in shape to withstand late spring frosts, such as are likely to strike us at any time."

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Government Report Showing Large Farm Reserves, Weakens Wheat.

Chicago, March 9.—Decided weakness in the wheat market today resulted from the government report showing that farm reserves were larger than had been generally expected. In addition, Liverpool reported that both shipments and offerings from the Argentine were more liberal than had been looked for. Bearish feeling here increased because of fine weather and on account of the fact that a majority of advices from the Southwest indicated excellent crop conditions. The opening was ½ to ¾@⅞c lower. May started at 90c to 90¼@90⅜c and same change from last night as the market taken altogether, but steadied at 90⅜@90½c.

Quite a number of shorts covered and caused a brief rally, but stop-loss selling led to a fresh slump. The close was weak, with May at 89½c, a net loss of 1¼@1⅜c.

Corn turned strong in consequence of purchases by leading bulls. The government figures were construed as favorable to the buying side. May opened ¼@⅜c down to a shade up at 48⅝@48¾c and rose to 49⅜c.

Fine weather eased the market somewhat. The close was steady, with May ⅛c net higher at 48¾@48⅞c.

Shorts were busy covering oats. Offerings remained scant. May started unchanged to ¼c off at 30½c to 30⅜c, and then advanced to 30½c.

With hogs lower and the week's packing much heavier than a year ago, provisions drooped. First sales were the same as last night to 7½c down, with May ribs at $9.37½. There was practically no business in pork or lard.

DULLNESS IN STOCKS

Open Strong and Advance But Decline to Wednesday's Figures.

Trading in Last Hour Even Duller Than Any Other Period.

New York, March 9.—The stock market opened strong and moderately active today. The Gould issues were especially strong, Wabash preferred advancing 1½, the common ¾, and Missouri Pacific ¼. United States Steel and Reading gained ½ each and Union Pacific ⅝.

Opening prices were the best of the first hour, and the market receded on slightly better distribution of selling orders. Atchison sagged to ½ below yesterday's closing, and St. Paul, New York Central, Missouri Pacific and Southern Pacific a fraction. The tone was better at 11 o'clock.

Trading was without a guiding motive in the stock market this morning and after a slight advance prices drifted back to about yesterday's last quotation. The Mexican situation was not a factor, assurances from various quarters serving to check any apprehension, and Mexican stocks showed no further weakness. Reduction of Bank of England rate had been discounted in the London market and had no effect there or in New York. The Bond market was firm with considerable activity and strength in Wabash 4's.

The market closed slightly more active and steady. Trading in the last hour was even duller than at any other period of the session. Prices showed a trifle with increased weakness in Missouri Pacific, which fell to the lowest price of the day. Pennsylvania, Lehigh Valley, American Agricultural Chemical and the Interborough-Metropolitan stocks also showed distinct heaviness.

PFAENDER INITIATIVE AND REFERENDUM BILL MAY PASS THE HOUSE

Third Half Day Spent in Discussing Direct Legislation Bills.

Sharp Exchange of Personalities Between Nolan and Kneeland.

Provision Allowing Legislature to Refer Measures to People Defeated.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—At noon today the house took a recess until this afternoon, after its third half day spent on the initiative and referendum measures. At that time the probabilities were that the bill by Representative Albert Pfaender, Democrat, of New Ulm, as amended, would be passed by the house, though that was not a certainty.

The morning was spent in considering amendments, the most important amendment that was adopted being one by Representative Campbell changing the percentage of the voters required to initiative legislation from 25 per cent to 20 per cent. This was adopted, 57 to 54, after another amendment by Campbell, making the percentages 10 on initiative and 7 on referendum, had been voted down, 50 for and 63 against.

There was a sharp exchange of personalities between Representatives Nolan and Kneeland of Minneapolis. Mr. Nolan had been quoted in a morning paper as stating that the defeat of the Campbell bill was brought about

LIMANTOUR IS PLEASED

Right-Hand Man of Diaz Gratified By Movement of Troops.

New York, March 10.—Jose Ives Limantour, the Mexican minister of finance and right hand man to President Diaz, grows daily more gratified as the intent of the administration in dispatching 20,000 troops to the Mexican frontier discloses itself. Today he said:

"The ideas regarding this matter which President Taft is reported to have expressed yesterday while en route to the South, will have a further reassuring effect. I consider it quite untrue as reported that representations have been made by responsible persons to President Taft or to other high officials in Washington of a general uprising in Mexico in the near future, or that President Diaz's health is precarious.

"My government will protect not only the interests of our own people, but those of foreigners as well.

"It is generally known that the insurrectos in Mexico have smuggled arms and supplies across the Texas border. Obviously the stationing of a large force of United States troops in that section will lessen and probably stop the smuggling altogether. The presence of troops there will also have a decidedly salutary effect on the insurrectos in Northwestern Mexico. More than this I cannot believe that the United States government contemplates in the mobilization of troops."

AUTHORIZED OVER BILLION

Last Session of Congress Passed Bills Carrying $1,025,489,662.

Report Made By Former Representatives Tawney and Livingston.

Washington, March 10.—Appropriations at the last session of congress aggregated $1,025,489,662, according to the statements issued today by Former Representatives Tawney of Minnesota and Livingston of Georgia, who were respectively chairman and ranking Democrat of the house appropriations committee in the last congress. Mr. Tawney says this is less than $1,000,000 in excess of the total estimates of President Taft on which the appropriations are based, pays high tribute to the executive for good faith in scrutinizing estimates, and computes that the surplus of revenues next year will be not less than $26,542,000 which with any part of the treasury cash balance may be applied to the sinking fund.

Against this Mr. Livingston says the last session record demonstrated that when the Democratic party comes into complete control of the government, "this billion dollar mark for one ses-

CAMPBELL BILL BEATEN

Division Among Advocates of Direct Legislation Causes Its Defeat.

House Votes It Down After Whole Day Spent in Debate.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A division among the advocates of direct legislation yesterday afternoon defeated the bill providing for the initiative and referendum which had been introduced by them.

As it stood, and as it went to a vote in the house, the bill provided that any measure could be passed, or any amendment made to the Constitution, by a mere majority of those voting on the proposition.

To suggest an extreme and perhaps impossible case, if an amendment to the Constitution were pending that reached to the foundations of popular government as it is understood and accepted in this country and state, and only 1,000 people were public-spirited enough to vote on the proposition, 501 votes would make the proposed change.

Amendments providing that it should require a majority of those voting at the election to make such a change were proposed by Representative C. R.

PRESIDENT TAFT IS GUEST OF ATLANTA

Attends the Morning Session of Southern Commercial Congress.

Atlanta, Ga., March 10.—President Taft is the guest of Atlanta today. This evening he will address the Southern Commercial congress on "A Greater Nation Through a Greater South." The president arrived in the city at 10:30 o'clock this morning over the Southern railway. The Fifth regiment, national guard of Georgia, served as his official escort here.

Mr. Taft attended the morning session of the commercial congress and later was entertained at lunch at the Capital City club. After the lunch he and visiting state executives were tendered a reception at the governor's mansion.

This afternoon the president addresses the negroes of Atlanta. After his address at the organization tonight the president will dine at the Piedmont Driving club. At the dinner Judge Beverly D. Evans of the Georgia supreme court will assure Mr. Taft of the Georgia bar's appreciation of the high compliment paid it by the elevation of one of its members to the supreme court of the United States.

At midnight the president will leave for Augusta, where he will take a rest before the reassembling of congress.

MRS. MELBER SHOWS BUT LITTLE INTEREST.

Albany, N. Y., March 10.—The state continued its efforts today to prove that Mrs. Edith Melber on Jan. 6 last killed her 5-year-old son, George, by giving him carbolic acid in a lonely swamp in the outskirts of Albany. Six witnesses have been sworn and District Attorney Sanford expected today to get before the jury the confession made by Mrs. Melber to the Rochester police following her arrest in that city. Mrs. Melber exhibits little concern in the evidence that is being produced against her.

JAPS DENY RUMORS OF CONCESSION

Said to Have Been Obtained From Mexico for Coaling Station.

Ambassador Uchida Makes Emphatic Declaration on the Matter.

Steamship Lines May Have Made Some Purely Commercial Arrangements.

Washington, March 10.—"Japan has never made the slightest effort to obtain from Mexico any concession for a coaling station for naval uses at Magdalena bay or All Saints bay or indeed at any point on the Pacific coast of Mexico."

This today was the emphatic declaration of Baron Uchida, Japanese ambassador to Washington, when his attention was called to published statements that through secret treaties or other arrangements with President Diaz's government Japan either had acquired or was about to acquire a coaling station or naval base on this side of the Pacific.

Alluding to the fact that a new line of Japanese steamers was to ply between some Mexican ports on the north and Peru on the south, the ambassador stated that if this company had made any arrangements for taking on coal for its vessels in Mexican territory, which naturally would be necessary, of course such an arrangement was on a purely business basis and was such as is entered into by all commercial lines of maritime nations.

With such arrangements, he said, the Japanese government had had nothing to do nor had had any attempt been made to extend Japanese sovereignty to any Mexican port where the commercial line steamers took on their coal.

The ambassador's statement was directed to a charge by Mexican revolutionary agents in this country that President Diaz had sought to secure Japanese support by making traffic arrangements with Japanese steamship lines. These arrangements, it was alleged, would give the lines practical control of the Tehuantepec railroad—that valuable connecting link between the Gulf of Mexico and the Pacific coast.

EIGHT HORSES BURNED.

First Disaster to Troop Trains Occurs Near Durant.

Durant, Okla., March 10.—Eight head of horses were burned to death early last night when a stock car attached to a troop train on the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad was destroyed by fire near here. The train was en route from Fort Leavenworth to San Antonio. None of the soldiers aboard the train were injured, and the journey to the border was continued shortly after midnight. A hot box, it is believed, ignited the stock car.

LANDS WASHED INTO THE OCEAN

Heavy Rains Cause Great Damage in Southern California.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 10.—The storm which has been creeping south over the state for the last week reached a climax around Los Angeles last night. The floods tore out wagon bridges and inundated great areas.

With the exception of the Southern Pacific the railroads running into Los Angeles have not suffered serious interruption.

In Santa Barbara county over 1,000 acres of rich bottom land has been washed into the sea. The damage has been estimated at $1,000,000. Beet fields have suffered great damage near Santa Maria and Lompoc. The loss of livestock has been heavy.

A report has been received that five persons were drowned in the Arroyo Grande, but this has not been confirmed.

Lakewood Pumps Stopped and Part of Hillside Is "Dry."

Break in Big Main Leaves City in Critical Condition.

Proctor Supply Shut Off—Twenty-Four Hour Supply on Hand.

The break in the big thirty-six-inch water main at Twenty-fourth avenue east has been located and a crew of men is working as rapidly as possible on the replacing of the broken section. The water and light department hopes to complete the repairs and resume the pumping of water from the Lakewood station some time tonight.

In the meantime, the upper part of the downtown section of the city is out of water, the supply in the middle system is low and the entire city is dependent on the supply in the West Duluth reservoir, which will probably hold out until the mains is repaired.

The lack of water is felt mostly along Fourth and Fifth streets in the central part of the city, and down as low as Superior street in the East end. The pressure from the West Duluth reservoir is not sufficient to carry the water up on the hill to the division between the central system and the middle system, and a belt there is out of water.

At 9:30 this morning there was a supply of 8,000,000 gallons in the West

BRITISH CREW STILL ON SHIP

Twenty-Eight Men Refuse to Be Taken Off By Life Savers.

Norfolk, Va., March 10.—After a night of terror, to be greeted by a day of sunshine and warmth, twenty-eight members of the crew of the British steamer Manchuria, stranded three miles below Little Island on the Virginia coast, refused to leave the vessel yesterday and from the deck of the ship waved their hands to their eight shipmates who Wednesday night risked their lives in the breeches buoy to reach shore.

With shifting of the wind the sea was almost as calm as a mill pond. Wreckers expect to float the vessel soon.

NEAR RIOTING IN COMMONS

Taunts and Insults Are Hurled Fast and Furiously.

Participants Finally Worn Out After Nineteen-Hour Session.

London, March 10.—After a continuous sitting of nineteen hours the house of commons rose at 10 o'clock this morning. A stormy scene marked the session right up to the close.

The whole night was occupied with the discussion of the land clauses of the budget and the debate was the most bitter that has been heard in the lower chamber in ten years.

Taunts and insults were hurled fast and furiously, anger flared up dangerously and at one moment a riot was threatened when in the midst of an excited demonstration on the part of the Nationalists, Capt. James Craig, Unionist member for the east division of Down, sprang to his feet and, addressing the chairman, remarked that if the presiding officer would give the word, the opposition would gladly throw the whole Nationalist party out of the house.

This remark drew a hurricane of angry shouts from the Irish benches, and it was some time before the chairman was able to restore order. The scenes reminded one of that night of 1901 when the police were called in to make the Nationalists behave themselves.

Home Secretary Churchill stood in the breach for the government in the absence of Premier Asquith, who had been called to Switzerland by the illness of his daughter, Elizabeth, and of Chancellor Lloyd George, whose bad throat makes it impossible for him to take part in an ordinary debate.

The home secretary and the leaders of the opposition exchanged caustic remarks that were frequently personal, and several times he was called to order by the chair. Frequently the government leader resorted to closure, but the discussion was continued until the participants were fairly worn out.

MILLIONS SPENT FOR TRAVELING

Government Disbursed Over $12,000,000 During the Year 1910.

Washington, March 10.—President Taft, having learned from the work of the board which has been investigating the question of economy in the administration of the government departments that more than $12,000,000 was expended in 1910 for traveling expenses, has informed Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh that he would like to make his "initial test of economy on the question of traveling expenses." He has asked Mr. MacVeagh to have the travel vouchers for the department for the year 1910 analyzed in accordance with a plan suggested by the economy board. He expressed his desire to have this analysis ready for him by the time he returns from his Southern trip, on which he started Tuesday.

The economy board was formally organized at the White House yesterday by the selection of Dr. F. A. Cleveland as chairman and Merritt O. Chance, auditor of the postoffice department, as secretary. W. F. Willoughby, assistant director of the census, was made a member of the commission and three vacancies remain to be filled.

Five Magazines at Dupont Works in Wisconsin Blow Up.

Only One Life Lost But Hundreds Are Badly Bruised.

Buildings in Chicago Rock and Windows Are Broken.

Pleasant Prairie, Wis., March 10.—Hardly a house in the thickly populated farming country in a radius of five miles from here is habitable today as a result of the explosion last night of five magazines filled with dynamite and black gunpowder.

One man, E. S. Thompson, was killed, one was seriously injured, several hundred were painfully hurt, and the greater number of residents of this village, Bristol and the surrounding farming country have packed their remaining household goods and moved away.

There is still practically unprotected and liable to instant explosion sufficient gunpowder to cause great additional damage to the community.

The five magazines which exploded last night contained 150 tons finished dynamite, 120 tons dynamite unfinished, 80,000 kegs finished giant powder, 8,000 kegs unfinished giant powder.

There are eight small cars of dynamite stored on a spur near the plant today, according to Sheriff Stahl. Supt. Bumstead refused to state the amount of powder in the buildings, but said

BODIES OF FOUR FOUND IN DEBRIS

Search of Ruins Reveals Remains of Missing Workmen.

New York, March 10.—An all night search of the wreckage in the basement of an eight-story building under construction, an upper section of which collapsed late yesterday, resulted in the recovery of four bodies of workmen, who were buried beneath a mass of concrete, steel and timber that crashed into the cellar. It is believed this completes the list of victims.

ARRIVAL OF THE TROOPS

On Texas Soil Now Awaited By the Army Officials.

Gen. Wood May Go to the Border Early in April.

Washington, March 10.—With all the details of the movement of troops completed and the scene of activity shifted from Washington to the Texas field, the headquarters of the army today is awaiting complacently the arrival of the units of the moving commands at their objective points.

Maj.-Gen. W. H. Carter, commander of the division which is concentrating at San Antonio, is expected to arrive at the Texas port tomorrow. Reports to the war department indicate that by that time nearly all of the troops which will form the division will have reported.

Of the posts from which the soldiers are being drawn to make up the division, Fort D. A. Russell, Wyo., is the farthest removed from the places of rendezvous. It is thought that the troops from that post will reach San Antonio not later than Monday.

Maj.-Gen. Leonard Wood, it was announced at the war department today, probably will go to the border in April. The purpose of his trip will be to inspect the camp and commands thrown along the frontier.

The navy is carrying out its part of the operations just as though the sudden and extensive preparations of war vessels for active duty was a part of the humdrum of very day life.

Three ships of the fifth division of the Atlantic fleet are now en route to Guatanamo, Cuba. The armored cruiser Washington, the remaining unit of the division, which is undergoing repairs at the Portsmouth, N. H., navy yard, will be ready for duty on March 15, when she will be sent to join her division.

The admissions in administration circles that the military activity is inspired by conditions in Mexico were read with deep interest today by officers of the army and navy, a majority of whom had accepted the earlier explanation that the operations were merely technical exercises and drill in the art of warfare.

"THE HELMET OR THE CAP?" DULUTH POLICE HAVE KNOTTY PROBLEM

"To be bald, or not to be bald," is not exactly the question, but it's very pertinent to the subject which is bothering the policemen just now.

The old, troubles problem as to whether or not the cops shall wear helmets during the summer months is up again. They don't want to, but maybe they'll have to, anyhow.

Much deep thought has been given the matter by the superior officers of the department. They have cogitated long and deeply upon it, and yet 'tis not settled. The nearest it has come to a conclusion was the arrival of a sample helmet, gray as to color, roomy as to crown, and with a sharply depressed brim.

One of the men saw it reposing peacefully on the desk of Capt. "Tony" Fiskett. At once, he saw the whole force adorned with similar pieces of headgear. With excitement in his voice he communicated the fact to the next man he met. The two spread it further, until every man on the job had been apprised of the impending disaster.

Without loss of time a petition was started, asking the men to state whether they preferred the helmet or the cap. Out of forty men who went on record, but two were in favor of the helmet, and one of these was an inside man who wouldn't have to wear the helmet in any event. The petition was sent to the captain, who says that despite this expression of sentiment, Duluth policemen may yet be decorated with the helmets.

As to the bald feature. Not so very long ago an alderman, either thoughtlessly or with the courage of his convictions, informed the city dads that many of Duluth's policemen are getting bald headed. He explained that he noticed quite a few of the city's finest who had come on the force with luxuriant hirsute crops beginning to show shiny, bald domes on the upper story. He claimed that the continuous use of the warm, close fitting caps was to blame, and suggested that helmets be provided. At that time it was explained that the cops had voted against the helmet, and the subject was dropped until recently, when it was revived at headquarters.

However, if the Duluth men don't care whether or not they get bald headed in the service, the men at West Duluth are of a contrary opinion. Through Lieut Wilcox they have informed Capt. Fiskett that they want the helmets during the summer months. They state that they are more comfortable, and that the solicitous public will fail to notice them after they have been in use a few weeks. They hint that the headquarters men do not want them because they are afraid of the comments which they will excite in the minds of the people, adding that it is really bashfulness and not a desire for a glistening pate which induced them to vote against the helmets.

MAY ASK FOR FIFTH JUDGE

Bar Association to Consider Asking Legislature for Addition to Bench.

Four Judges Are Rushed and Amount of Work Is Growing.

At a meeting of the Bar Association of the Eleventh judicial district, to be held Saturday noon at the Duluth Commercial club, the matter of an additional district judge will be discussed. It is thought that the bar association will decide that another judge is necessary. If this proves to be the case, steps will immediately be taken to get a bill introduced at the state legislature giving this district another judge.

For some time past it has been apparent that Duluth needs another judge. It was thought that with the addition of Judge Martin Hughes that the work could be more easily taken care of. It has developed since that Judge Hughes has enough to do on the range without ever holding court in Duluth. There are a number of terms a year in both Hibbing and Virginia, with the prospect of terms in other towns on the ranges, so that Judge Hughes will be unable to help out with the work in Duluth.

For some time past Judges Dibell, Ensign and Cant have been rushed. The cases have piled up, it is said, and while the judges have held many night and late afternoon sessions, they continue to get in deeper all the time. Their time is so taken up with work in the courtroom that they have little time to look up legal questions out of court.

In addition, the work of the juvenile court is growing all the time and it is now taking a good deal of Judge Ensign's time. He is busy with the juvenile court every Saturday morning and cannot listen to motions and arguments at the weekly special term.

The three local courts are busy all the time and it has been some months since any one of the judges has had a rest. The work is a grind and when once allowed to drop behind it is almost impossible to catch up again.

A number of local attorneys have been heard to remark that another judge is needed and the meeting tomorrow is called for the purpose of discussing the matter.

CLOQUET FACING PROSPEROUS YEAR

Successful Logging During Winter Insures Big Payroll at Lumber Mills.

Cloquet, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the most successful logging winters in the history of Cloquet is closing, the warm weather of the past week breaking up many of the camps. The early winter, deep snow and continued cold prospered the logging business.

All the Northern Lumber company camps on the reservation, with the exception of Camp 11, are broken. The logs from this camp are being shipped to Cloquet over the Northern Pacific, and by the fifteenth of the month operations here will cease.

Camp 2, was broke up two weeks ago, landing their logs on Stony Brook.

A. J. Moran's camp, No. 3, landed their logs directly on the St. Louis.

John Hartnett's camp which broke up March 4, also landed on the St. Louis.

Percy Vibert's camp, No. 9, broke up a day or two later, but the logs will not be taken into Cloquet until later in the season, when they may be needed. They have been landed on Big lake, to go into the water as soon as the ice breaks, protecting them from insects or destruction by fire. When needed they will be hoisted onto cars and railed to Cloquet. The logging on the reservation has been in charge of Z. B. Hoyt of this city.

Camps Still Running.

Maurice Erwin of Cloquet is in charge of all the logging operations of the Northern Lumber company. The camps still running are: Henry Glassaw, Camp E, who has been landing an immense number of logs on the Little Cloquet, tributary to the St. Louis; Camp G, on the Cloquet river, where William Fleming is foreman; John Hott's camp, H, where the logs are being loaded on Duluth & Iron Range trains, and transfered to the Duluth & Northeastern, and shipped to Cloquet; Charles Keller's camp on Bug creek, tributary to the main Cloquet.

Several jobbers are still running. John Cedarberg is operating a half dozen camps with full crews, but will soon be through, and is shipping logs over the D. M. & N. and the D. N. E. John Connors, another contractor, is operating on Stony Brook; Ed Randall on the White Face river, and John Long, with two camps on Bug creek, shipping over the Duluth & Northeastern.

The upper mill of the Northern Lumber company, Joseph Peacha foreman, has been running night and day all winter, and will continue to run until the St. Louis river opens enough to allow the logs to come in sufficiently for the lower mill to start up for the season's run.

The upper mill will then close the night run, but will run days all summer. During the winter the logs have been shipped over the Duluth & Northeastern and landed in the hot pond, which holds enough logs at one time to run the mill for three days. The upper mill is the most up-to-date mill in the country, as well as the most comfortable for the men to work in.

Lower Mill Overhauled.

Joseph Peacha, foreman at the lower mill all winter, has been superintending a thorough overhauling of the plant, getting ready for the summer run.

The planer of the Northern Lumber company has always been a record mill, running steadily the year round, with the exception of one week at Christmas time, when the men are given a vacation. Alfred Norman has been foreman here for two years, succeeding W. H. Wilson, who has large lumber interests near Couer d'Alene Idaho, and who superintended the mill for twenty-five years. Most of the heads of the mills are old timers with the concern, C. B. Watkins, who is superintendent of the yards, John Atkins, who is shipping clerk, and his assistant, P. E. McGugin, Anthony Koch, foreman at the lath mills, and "Billie" Merrigan, the timekeeper. Some of the men began as errand boys. It is expected that by April 1 the mills will begin the summer run, with about 3,000 men employed. Nine logging trains are busy on the Duluth & Northeastern, and there are enough logs piled up at the landing here in the city, to keep the mills running until May, when there should be water enough in all of the streams to float the drives.

RUNS AMUCK WITH KNIFE

Hjalmer Peterson Claimed to Have Tried to Carve Restaurant Patrons.

Stabs One Man and Escapes to Railroad Yards But Is Captured.

Hjalmer Peterson, arrested at 1 o'clock this morning on a charge of stabbing John Maki, went on a murderous rampage in the restaurant at 216 Lake avenue south about midnight and tried to carve several other countrymen who were in the place at the time.

Alfred Kotka saved himslef from being slashed by smashing Peterson in the head wtih a convenient chair as he rushed for him with a drawn knife and Emil Anderson escaped the bloodthirsty woodsman by running behind the lunch counter. When he turned upon the two or three others in the place they fled through the door into the street in a panic, but not before Peterson had sunk his knife into Maki's abdomen.

It appears that Peterson had been drinking considerably during the day and until the saloons closed their bars at 11 o'clock. Stamping into the restaurant he challenged the men there to fight and immediately started to make things interesting, heading for Kotka, who grabbed the chair on which he was sitting for a weapon of defense.

He made a lunge for Anderson, who lost no time in getting out of his road behind the counter. As Peterson was turning to follow him, Maki went to Anderson's aid, grabbing Peterson's arms. While he had hold of them Peterson turned the knife on him, ripping it through his heavy mackinaw and other under clothing, penctrating the abdomen. Maki fell to the floor, releasing his hold, and Peterson escaped through the door before the police reached the scene. He was picked up about an hour later by Lieut. Fritz in the alley back of the Bethel on Lake avenue, heading for the railroad yards.

Maki was taken to the police station in the patrol wagon, where his wound was dressed by Dr. Ignatius J. Murphy of the health department. Unless an infection sets in, it will heal in a short time. He was around without assistance this morning.

Peterson was arraigned in police court this morning on a charge of assault in the second degree. He asked for an examination, which was set for 2 o'clock this afternoon.

The many uses of Gold Dust

If you were to use, for each kind of washing, cleaning, scouring and scrubbing, one of the so-called special preparations which are made, you would have an imposing and expensive array of chemicals, washing compounds, cleaning pastes, etc.

There is one cleaner that can take the place of them all, and without the need of borax, ammonia, kerosene or naphtha, and that is GOLD DUST.

GOLD DUST is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package offers greater economy.

VEGETABLES ARE LOWER

Fresh Greens Now Within Reach of the Average Purse.

Eggs Touch New Low Point —News of Commission Row.

Fresh vegetables appeal most strongly to the housewife at this time of the year, when the members of her family are longing for something green, and the prices are getting down now so that the woman with a limited account with which to set her table can feel that she is not extravagant.

Home grown leaf lettuce, which has been selling for 7 cents a bunch, is down to 5 cents now and the head lettuce is priced at 15 cents a head. Shoppers this morning were offered fine Florida celery at 10 cents a bunch, or three bunches for 25 cents; long radishes at 10 cents a bunch and the little round radishes at 5 cents a bunch; green peppers, which are so nice stuffed and baked, or which give such a nice touch to a salad, are selling for 10 cents apiece, or three for 25 cents. Chives are in market and are used a great deal mixed with the blue label cream cheese for sandwiches. Nice, large, sound cucumbers can also be had for 25 cents apiece, and fresh mushrooms at 80 cents a pound are displayed. Fresh tomatoes are 30 cents a pound now, but they look very tempting. These last three vegetables named, however, would hardly come within the purchasing list of the woman who tries to keep her grocery account within certain limits.

Nice, big cauliflowers for 20 and 30 cents, new carrots and beets at 10 cents a bunch, sweet potatoes at 10 cents a pound, or three pounds for a quarter, are also tempting.

Oh, yes, and fresh mint, almost the first of the season, costs only 5 cents a bunch now, and is in great demand for sauces and jellies with spring lamb.

In the fruit line, oranges are now at the height of their season, and the women who want to make orange marmalade will do well to buy their fruit now. Often a grapefruit is cut up with the oranges, to add a bitter taste, which is not given by the orange rinds. Oranges range in price from 25 to 50 cents a dozen.

Malaga grapes, which are so nice for salads, are selling now for 25 cents a pound, and limes are also shown for 50 cents a dozen.

A man in one of the markets said that fresh eggs, which have been selling for 23 cents a dozen, will be on sale for 20 cents tomorrow. This is cheaper than eggs have been for many months.

Down along commission row a healthier undertone pervades the market for butter and eggs and both commodities show strength as the week closes, although the market, from a price standpoint, is low. The poultry trade is quiet. Cheese values are steady. Potatoes are weaker.

Production of butter and eggs is larger in volume and receipts for the week show an increase. Lenten requirements have taken a large quantity of eggs off the market, however, and prices display a disposition to advance. In the middle of the week values in some instances were advanced, although later the gain was lost on account of heavy receipts and moderately warm weather over this state and others in the Central West.

It is reported that nearly all of the storage holdings of eggs have been disposed of. This market is cleaned up, but elsewhere there have been large stores. The rumor that these have been sold could not be confirmed here. The reports caused egg handlers to take a more cheerful view of the situation. The market seems more favorable to holders and it is expected that prices for both butter and eggs will advance in the immediate future.

The receipts are large but the demand for butter and eggs is extremely broad and there are no accumulations pressing for sale. The local situation has received additional strength because of the advance in values in Eastern markets. A favorable development in the butter market has been the cleaning up of accumulations of butter in stores and cellars. Practically all of the creamery makes which have been carried from day to day by commission merchants for a month or more have been sold out and a big reduction has been made in holdings of dairies and packing stock.

Considerable cold storage butter has found an outlet and the general condition of the market as the week closes is more favorable to sellers than at any time this year.

There is still considerable butter in warehouses in the Central valley that must be disposed of, but holders have until next June to get rid of it. If the movement continues as large as in the last few days a complete clearance at steady to firm prices is expected.

The cheese trade continues lethargic with more stock pressing on sale than the immediate wants of the trade require. Prices have not been lowered appreciably as such a course, it is believed, would not relieve the situation. Buyers in search of large blocks of goods, however, have little difficulty in filling orders at slightly lower than current market quotations.

Potatoes are easy and the outlook is for lower prices. Receipts are not particularly heavy but the demand is slow. Soft weather in the fore part of the week made it imperative that receivers should give concessions in order to keep the stock moving. There are good sized farm reserves of potatoes to be disposed of before the opening of the season for new crop goods. It is believed essential that prices shuld be kept down to a level where the consumptive demand will be unrestricted. Supplies from this state are large and receipts from Wisconsin are pressing heavily on the market.

Prices of chickens have been too high to permit a free and unrestricted trade and receipts of only moderate volume cleared slowly until receivers shaded prices. The reduction was too late to prove of material benefit to the trade but the market is expected to show more life as the week closes. Ducks, geese and turkeys are selling at stationary prices.

Warmer weather has had a stimulating effect on the demand for green goods. Increased receipts from Southern points found a broader outlet at steady to firm prices. Holdings of hot house green stuff are in demand and the market has a healthy tone as the week draws to a close. It is expected that if the warmer weather prevails the demand for green goods will expand largely.

On account of the Lenten season fish is in demand. Fresh halibut, frozen Lake Superior trout, whitefish and pickerel are meeting with a ready sale.

CARE OF THE FAMILY COW

Prof. A. J. McGuire Will Deliver Address at the Y. M. C. A.

The man who owns one cow, which he keeps primarily to supply milk and cream to his own family, will be the man most interested in the address which will be given at the Y. M. C. A. tonight by A. J. McGuire, director of the state experimental station at Grand Rapids.

"The Family Dairy" will be Prof. McGuire's subject and he will deal principally with the care of one cow—not with the big commercial dairy. Experts have found that many people who keep cows to supply milk for family consumption do not give the animal proper care and do not get the best results. They feed too much or two little, do not give the milk proper attention and by neglecting other essentials cause themselves many annoyances and pay more for their milk than they should.

A large number of special invitations have been sent out by the Commercial club and the Y. M. C. A., under whose auspices the lecture is to be given, but those invitations do not reach everybody interested and the people in charge of the series are anxious that everybody who is interested in the subject attend.

DR. CHARLES MITCHELL WILL SPEAK IN DULUTH.

Dr. Charles Bayard Mitchell of Chicago, one of the foremost speakers to men in the country, will address the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. next Sunday. His subject will be "The Devil and a Man." Dr. Mitchell visited Duluth last year and those who heard him at that time will doubtless be present again.

The vested choir of the First M. E. church will have charge of the musical part of the program Sunday.

Fashion's Wheel Is Turning Merrily.

Seems like mid-season the bustle on the garment floor. We have not heretofore shown such a wide diversity of New Apparel for women and girls this early.

The keynote of the assemblage is individuality.

You are cordially invited to look them over—if you haven't already done so.

Becoming Millinery.

Paris is foremost in the art of creating the hat beautiful. The knack of picking out the form of hat becoming to individual types of women is a gift secondary in importance only to the creative art.

Our new Millinery department is showing photo types of their Paris originals these days. Mrs. Cate will fit the one best suited to your particular cast of features.

Not the least interesting thing about these hats is their conservative pricing.

A few are displayed in our east windows.

Interesting Silk News.

Plain black 26-inch messaline—hair line stripe messaline—26-inch black chiffon taffeta—24-inch colored cashmere crepe—fancy stripes, checks and floral effects—changeable chiffon taffeta—gray and natural pongee and other weaves will be sold tomorrow at 69c.

When one remembers the standard quality of these 85c and $1 silks, also that they include many new spring designs and colors, this silk news is significant.

Wash Goods Remnants.

We have had the best early-season Wash Goods trade the store has known.

It has left many short lengths of the most desirable new 1911 Fabrics in—voiles, ginghams, tissues, foulards, batistes, shirtings, percales and plenty of other materials in waist and dress lengths.

Prices are lowered to a scale of economy that will interest every woman who has goods of this sort to buy.

Suits.

Take the $25 and $27.50 models—those black, blue, gray and pin striped serge and suiting are faultlessly tailored. The lines, you will notice, are the same as the higher grade suits—new 24-inch coats with pretty inset pleats in gored skirts.

Our $35 Suits are the focal point of the suit question here. We believe people who know values will concede them the palm. The long shawl collar in those trig, diminutive coats takes everybody's eye—the way they have of buttoning to one side is irresistable. At least, that is the conclusion we have come to—the way they are going.

Other Suits—the kind exploited by foremost New York shops today are shown in many different models, at as many different prices.

Before the Gown, The Corset.

Our efforts have been to bring to Duluth women, the best selection of skilfully designed Corsets made.

We are pleased with our success.

The New Spring Models are lower busted, long over the hips, with skirt extension—thereby giving a decided nip at the waist line and a flattering hip effect.

These long skirt models are so accurately designed that there is no restrictions or discomfort in ones movements, whether sitting, standing or walking.

We are now showing complete spring lines in—Redfern, Modart and S. & B. Special. Patrons are giving prompt and exhaustive attention by expert corsetieres.

Special values in C-B, American Lady and S. & B. Special for Saturday: values to $2.50 to be sold at the low price of $1.

A QUESTION OF FINANCE

Distribution of 500,000 Bushels of Flaxseed Proving a Problem.

Banks Urged to Be Liberal —Fear Third Flax Crop Failure.

One of the most difficult problems connected with the distribution of 500,000 or 600,000 bushels of flaxseed among Northwestern farmers by linseed oil crushers is the question of finance. Five North Dakota counties have bonded themselves to buy seed for farmers, but in the other counties there has been no provision made for the purchase of seed except through private initiative.

Crushers today sent requests to many country banks in the Northwest, asking them to be liberal in their extension of credit to farmers who are not financially able to buy first-class seed. In about two months the planting season will begin and the crushers regard it as imperative that the farmers of the Northwest shall not meet with any obstacle if they desire to buy first-class seed.

"The prosperity of the Northwest would be menaced seriously by a third successive failure of the flaxseed crop," said a crusher writing to his local representative. "You had curtailed crops of nearly all grains last year and in two successive years your flaxseed crop has been practically a failure. The farmers of the Northwest can guard against another crop failure by planting only first-class seed. The plant from healthy seed can overcome with more chances of success the climatic obstacles to its growth than the plant from diseased seed."

E. H. Smith of the American Linseed company is in Minneapolis today on business connected with the distribution of flaxseed throughout the Northwest. Farmers and elevator men either desiring seed or knowing where it is needed are requested by the crushers to communicate with Mr. Smith at once.

Flaxseed can be grown in the agricultural region near Duluth according to Mr. Smith who thinks the farmers near here should procure some good seed and plant it this spring. On account of the proximity of the leading flaxseed market in the world they would be able to get a top price for their crops.

Woodland Avenue Property Owners Say They Were Damaged By Walk.

Notices of appeal from the sidewalk assessments for the walk on Woodland avenue between Fourth and Sixth streets have been filed with the board of public works. The appellants claim that their property was damaged instead of benefited by the work. Several of them have stated that the building of the walk prevented them from making sales which had been contemplated. The walk was laid on a grade above the level of the lots.

RAILROADS

NO DOCK WORK THIS SEASON

Canadian Northern Will Not Begin on Docks Before Next Year.

Ballasting on Virginia Line Will Be Begun Very Soon.

Chief Engineer Hazen of the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific, announced today that no construction work would be done on docks planned by this road, during the present season. He also stated that he was unable to tell with any degree of certainty when the work would be started.

"I can say definitely that the work will not be started the present season," was the statement of Mr. Hazen.

Mr. Hazen said that the ballast work on the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific, between Duluth and Virginia would begin in the next two weeks and that the work would necessitate the employment of something like 200 men.

"The officials are not at the present time decided on the dock plans," said Mr. Hazen. "Only a rough plat has been made of the docks and absolutely nothing has been decided upon. Until the plans have been agreed upon, it will be impossible for the officials of the railroad to give out any information to the public."

RUSH OF SETTLERS TO WESTERN LANDS.

Today the rush to the lands of the West started.

The sale of colonists' tickets at the various railroad offices of the city began, and from the large number of tickets sold, the rush to the new lands of the West will be very heavy.

Reports from some of the cities where the sale opened today, are to the effect that lines of settlers and homeseekers have formed at the ticket office windows.

Andy Thompson, traveling passenger agent of the Erie, who is in the city today, says the indications are for one of the heaviest demands for colonists' tickets in the history of the Western movement.

UNDER INFLUENCE OF AN EVANGELIST

Count Leo Tolstoi Tells Something About His Late Father.

New York, March 10.—"What do you want to know about me?" asked Count Leo Tolstoi, son of the late Count Tolstoi. "I am only the son of a great man."

Count Tolstoi came here today on the Mauretania and is visiting America to study social conditions. He will meet President Taft, John D. Rockefeller, Andrew Carnegie, Col. Roosevelt and other eminent Americans.

At the concert given on shipboard last night, Count Tolstoi told of the last days of his father and repudiated stories that the elder Tolstoi left his home to die because of domestic dissension.

"His life was a very happy one," said the young man. "He loved his home and his family, but in the later days of his life Lord Redstock, the English evangelist, obtained great influence over him. Lord Redstock persuaded my father that the life he lived in his comfortable home was not in accordance with the theories he professed. Acting on this, my father left his home. The end of that weary pilgrimage is known to the world. There was no less affection on his part toward his family. His action was take nto demonstrate the theory of life he had always urged."

How I Made My Hair Grow

Woman With Marvelously Beautiful Hair Gives Simple Home Prescription Which She Used With Most Remarkable Results.

I was greatly troubled with dandruff and falling hair. I tried many advertised hair preparations and various prescriptions, but they all signally failed; many of them made my hair greasy so it was impossible to comb it or do it up properly. I think that many of the things I tried were positively injurious and from my own experience I cannot too strongly caution you against using preparations containing wood alcohol and other poisonous substances. I believe they injure the roots of the hair. After my long list of failures, I finally found a simple prescription which I can unhesitatingly state is beyond doubt the most wonderful thing for the hair I have ever seen. Many of my friends have also used it, and obtained wonderful effects therefrom. It not only is a powerful stimulant to the growth of the hair and for restoring gray hair to its natural color, but it is equally good for removing dandruff, giving the hair life and brilliancy, etc., and for the purpose of keeping the scalp in first-class condition. It also makes the hair easier to comb and arrange in nice form. I have a friend who used it two months and during that time it has not only stopped the falling of his hair and wonderfully increased its growth, but it practically restored all of his hair to its natural color. You can obtain the ingredients for making this wonderful preparation from almost any druggist. The prescription is as follows:

Bay Rum, 6 oz.; Menthol Crystals, ½ drachm; Lavona de Composee', 2 oz. If you like it perfumed add a few drops of To-Kalon Perfume, which mixes perfectly with the other ingredients. This, however, is not necessary.

Apply night and morning; rub thoroughly into the scalp.

Go to your druggist and ask for an eight ounce bottle containing six ounces of Bay Rum; also one-half drachm of Menthol Crystals, and a two-ounce bottle of Lavona de Composee'. Mix the ingredients yourself at your own home. Add the Menthol Crystals to the Bay Rum and then pour in the Lavona de Composee' and add the To-Kalon Perfume. Let it stand one-half hour and it is ready for use.

W. A. Abbett, the well known and popular druggist of this city, has filled this formula for many of his patrons and states that the satisfaction from its use is so great that he has found it necessary to make special provision to fill the prescription promptly and carefully.

FLOCKING TO FLORIDA

Towns Springing Up in a Day, Says a Duluth Man.

Settlers Going in By Trainload and Buying Small Farms.

W. R. Wasson, deputy clerk of the district court, has just returned after a six weeks' trip through the Eastern states. He also spent some time in Florida, where he owns a fruit farm.

Mr Wasson was greatly impressed with the rush of Northern people into the state of Florida. He says they are going in by the trainload, and nearly all of them are buying small farms and settling on them.

At Hilliard, Fla., the town near which his farm is located, 3,200 farms have been sold during the last few months. In nearly every case the purchaser has gone on the land, made it his home, and improved it.

The rush in the building line is so great that an order for lumber must be placed weeks before the purchaser can hope to get it. The towns are springing up from nothing, almost in a day, and the rush is as it was to the West a few years ago.

Another thing that struck the Northern man was the high class of settlers who are going to Florida to make their home. They are mostly people with money, and are going there more to get away from the severe Northern winters than anything else.

"The old-time settlers of the country are a queer lot," says Mr. Wasson. "They speak with a drawl, do only enough work to live, and spend most of their time in the shade 'knocking' the country. They grow a few sweet potatoes and a small supply of sugar cane, and spend the rest of their time with their pipes and gossip."

NO CAUSE FOR COMPLANT.

No Proper Privileges Denied Thaw, Says Superintendent.

Albany, N. Y., March 10.—Harry K. Thaw, the slayer of Stanford White, the architect, has been denied no proper privileges and subjected to no ill-treatment at Matteawan because of complaints he has made through his counsel, Clarence J. hearn, of brutality to inmates by attendants at the hospital ,according to the statements made today by State Prison Superintendent C. V. Collins, in the course of a hearing before Governor Dix, on the subject of Mr. Collins' administration of his office.

IS WHISKEY DRINKING A SIN?

Where Does the Blame Lie, When the Husband Wrecks His Home.

Many claim that the hard drinker can stop drinking if he chooses; that his willingness to continue the habit and spend money which his family sorely needs for the comforts and, perhaps, the very necessaries of life is nothing but pure selfishness; that in doing so he deliberately chooses what he considers to be his own pleasure and places it above the needs of his family. While there may be some truth in this belief, yet without question the hard drinker is in many cases an absolute slave to his habit and if he is to be set free from the habit must receive assistance from without. The wives and sisters and mothers of such men are ordinarily the ones upon whom the responsibility lies for saving the drinker from this habit.

The White Ribbon Remedy put up by the White Ribbon Remedy Co., of Boston, is honestly made by honest people who desire to help the families that are being injured by drink. That they are succeeding is proven by letters breathing heartfelt gratitude of loved ones of men who have been saved by the White Ribbon Remedy. One such woman writes:

"Dear Sirs:—As I feel I owe you a debt of gratitude I can never pay, thought I would drop you a few lines and tell you what your medicine has done for my husband. He has not touched a drop of anything to drink in over a year. My home is like a heaven on earth since that awful curse has been removed and I feel that I can never thank you for your kindness in being so prompt in sending the medicine. Husband took it willingly and is more than proud to think he can go to town and not want to visit the hotels and saloons. When I think of the years I lived with a drunkard when so little would have stopped it, I cannot help but feel that I cannot thank you for what you have done for me."

Without question the makers of this Remedy deserve the gratitude not merely of the families helped, but of the community at large, for the work they are doing.

The White Ribbon Remedy is odorless, tasteless, contains absolutely no habit-forming drugs, may be administered secretly if desred, and has prove its efficacy so many times that those who earnestly desire to win the drinker from the alcohol habit may begin treatment with confidence that excellent results will follow.

White Ribbon Remedy costs $1.00 per box, or 6 boxes for $5.00; and may be obtained of all the Hegeman & Co. stores, New York city, or direct from the White Ribbon Remedy Co., Boston, Mass.

CAMPAIGN IN FULL SWING

Grade Teachers Enlisting Support for Their Higher Salary Requests.

Committee on Schools Holding Nightly Sessions on Salary Question.

The grade teachers' campaign for higher wages is going on with a rush. Although the teachers are having many personal interviews with members of the board of education, the campaign is largely one of letter writing.

Yesterday, at the direction of the executive committee, each teacher wrote to the Duluth delegation in the legislature, setting forth their request for higher salaries and uring the legislators to use their influence to obtain legislation so that the general fund may provide money enough to meet proposed increases. If it is considered necessary, the letters will be forwarded.

The teachers are also working among the members of the committee on schools and teachers, which is holding nightly sessions to consider the election of teachers and the salaries to be paid. It is expected that the committee report will be ready for the next meeting of the board and that, if the financial difficulties can be satisfactorily surmounted, substantial increases will be granted the grade teachers.

Some time ago, a conference between members of the board of education and the senators and representatives from Duluth was proposed, but the legislators have been acquainted with the situation and have assured the board that nothing would be done which would handicap the schools. The opposition to the 12-mill limitation proposed by the Congdon bill is not so strong as it was at first, but the campaign of the teachers is arousing greater interests in the proposed elimination of the limit on the general fund tax levy. The teachers are most concerned with the general fund, which is now limited to 8 mills, and the members of the board believe that if that limit is taken off, they can find a way to pay the teachers higher salaries, even if the total levy is limited to 12 mills.

Some of the statements of expenditures made out by the teachers are interesting. Every teacher in the city made out such a statement yesterday and turned it over to the committee of the Teachers' association. The statements will be used as arguments with the members of the school board and the delegation in the legislature, if the latter course is necessary.

Helps Father and Sister.

One teacher, who is on $750 a year, the maximum salary for teachers under the Seventh grade, is helping her father, who is old, and a sister. She sets forth her expenses as follows:

Board and room (ten months)	$300.00
Laundry	25.00
Car fare	25.00
Charity	10.00
Clothing	125.00
Expenses incidental to teaching	10.00
Amusements	5.00
Stationery	6.00
Physician	10.00
Dentist	5.00
Oculist	10.00
Christmas expenses	15.00
Help at home	50.00
Total	$596.00

"This leaves me a balance of $154, with which to pay $50 life insurance premium, teachers' endowment fund dues, church dues and to pay my traveling and summer expenses. I make no allowance in the statement for extraordinary expenses, and I certainly cannot save anything during the summer out of the balance," she adds.

Gets Help From Home.

In order to live comfortably, another teacher on a salary of $600 a year must receive assistance from home during the school year and must live at home during the summer vacation. She sets forth her expenses as follows:

Room (two in a room)	$ 80.00
Board	200.00
Laundry	35.00
Car fare	30.00
Stationery and postage	5.00
Amusements	5.00
Doctor and dentist bills	20.00
Christmas expenses	15.00
Incidental clothing expenses	50.00
Expenses incidental to teaching	25.00
Total	$465.00

She has a balance of $35 with which to buy clothes, pay summer expenses and railroad fare to and from the southern part of the state.

"By actual reckoning, the maid in our kitchen receives higher wages than a teacher getting the maximum salary, after deducting board, room, car fare and other expenses incidental to her work," says one teacher, who lives at home and is on that account able to show a surplus at the end of the year.

Haven't Saved a Cent.

A well known Duluth young woman, who has taught in the Duluth schools for eleven years, writes: "My salary is turned over to the support of our family and from that I take only what is necessary for my own personal expenses, such as clothing, dentist bills and car fare. I have taught in the Duluth schools eleven years and am receiving this year $800 for the first time. I have not been able to save or invest one cent at this period of the present school year and I have saved absolutely nothing for the coming summer. It is only by the closest economy that I have been able in the past to worry through the summer. The Teachers' Retirement fund, which would appear to offer a partial solution of my difficulties, is out of the question, for I cannot even consider that extra expense."

Another teacher, who lives at home, is attending business college in the evening in order to obtain summer work. She contributes to the support of her family and does most of her own sewing in order to get along. She figures her expenses for this year at $722, while her salary is $725.

WANT HELP FOR ORPHAN GIRL

Duluth Doctors Interested in Young Cripple Who Can Be Cured.

Miss M. P. McLeod, a trained nurse, and a number of Duluth doctors are interested in the case of Miss Margaret Curry, a Duluth girl, 19 years old, who is suffering from a peculiar affliction of the joints, which leaves her crippled. Her arms and limbs are cramped so that she cannot straighten them out. Duluth doctors have given their services free of charge, and Miss McLeod has for some time donated her services as nurse.

It is thought that if she had the means to go to Chicago, a specialist of that city would be able to cure her. Photographs of her limbs, taken with the aid of an X-ray, have been forwarded to him, and he says he can cure her. He has offered to perform the operation free of charge.

Just now Miss McLeod, with a number of others, is interested in obtaining the money with which to send the little girl to Chicago. Miss McLeod has taken charge of the subscription list. She lives at 224 Second avenue east, and those who would like to contribute are invited to call and investigate.

The girl is an orphan and has been supported by charitably disposed people. She believes she could support herself if the operation were performed.

MEETING OF COUNTY CLUB

Representatives of Commercial and Farmers' Organizations to Meet.

T. W. Hugo Will Read Paper on Municipal Water Plants.

It is expected that over 100 representatives of Commercial clubs and Farmers' clubs of the county will attend the meeting of the County club, which will be held in the Commercial club rooms next Wednesday afternoon and evening.

The attendance will undoubtedly be unusually large at the coming meeting, as the annual gathering of the school trustees of the county will be held on the same day. The school trustees are interested in the Commercial clubs and Farmers' clubs in their respective towns or districts and, as they are paid a per diem and traveling expenses for the purpose, as many as can get away will come to Duluth for the trustees' meeting. They will also take the opportunity of attending the County club meeting, or the evening session at least.

The plans for the County club meeting is incomplete, but J. H. Hearding, the president, says that the papers and subjects for discussion will be of vital interest to the delegates. T. W. Hugo, former mayor of Duluth, will read a paper on municipal water plants and it is expected to be of great interest to the delegates from the range Commercial clubs. Another paper will be on paving, which will also greatly interest the range delegates.

Good roads have always been discussed at meetings of the County club and the club has had much to do with obtaining beneficial road improvements during the time it has been in existence. The present condition of the roads of the county will be discussed at the meeting next week and plans will be advanced for opening greater territory by the building of good roads.

The County club was organized two years ago in Duluth by representatives of the different Commercial and Farmers' clubs. Several meetings have been held and they have been of great profit in advancing public projects and in creating a beneficial intimacy between the members of the different clubs. The club met in Duluth a year ago and the program was an excellent one. An effort will be made this year to have as many Duluth business men as possible attend the meetings in order that they may meet the delegates from outside of the city and get an idea of the projects which are interesting them.

"PUGS" MAY GO TO WORK

Henry Polinski, known to fight enthusiasts of the city as "Kid Sharkey," and Morris Paul, who clings to the appellation of "Kid Paul," were arrested at 11:30 o'clock last night by Patrolman Musolf.

"Kid Sharkey" was charged with being a vag, and "Kid Paul" was booked for interfering with the officer when he placed his partner under arrest.

At one time, when quiet little bouts were being pulled off regularly, the amateur pugilists were able to pick up some easy sheckels in the preliminaries. But in recent months "chuck" has not been floating towards the breadbaskets so easily. They apparently haven't been able to land any "goes," and according to the police, have been hanging about town doing little or nothing. Both entered pleas of not guilty when arraigned with the police court grist this morning, and their trials were set for this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

La Grippe and Catarrh

MR. NUMA ALLEN.

At this time of the year grip is most prevalent, and all catarrhal, nasal and throat troubles become more aggravated.

As shown by the gratifying letter received from Mr. Numa Allen, these dreaded diseases can be prevented, overcome and cured by Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, the great body builder.

Mr. Numa Allen, of Wilmot, S. D., who was troubled with catarrh of the nose and throat and had an attack of grip, has stated that Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey cleansed the mucous membrane and supplied the right tonic for the weakened tissues, and further added that he wished this testimonial as to this great tonic stimulant added to those already published. He says he is convinced by his own experience that the statements from men and women that he has seen are honestly based on the use of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as prescribed.

"It is with great pleasure I write you and add my letter of praise to the great list you already have in your possession and to some extent have published. In my case of catarrh and grip your medicine was superior in cleansing the membrane and supplied the right tonic for the weakness attending this complaint. The amount of good accomplished by using Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is certainly wonderful." Numa Allen, Wilmot, S. D.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

is a wonderful remedy in the treatment and cure of all diseases of the lungs, throat and stomach and for all weakening and wasting conditions. It is an absolutely pure, gentle and invigorating stimulant and tonic. When taken at meal time it stimulates the mucous surfaces and little glands of the stomach to a healthy action, thereby improving the digestion and assimilation of the food and giving to the system its full proportion of nourishment. This action upon the digestive process is of great importance, as it brings to all the tissues and organs of the body the nutriment necessary to their sustenance and indirectly to the whole system strength and vigor. It is prescribed by doctors and recognized as a family medicine everywhere. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is the only whiskey that was taxed by the Government as a medicine during the Spanish-American war.

The genuine Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is SOLD IN SEALED BOTTLES ONLY, at druggists, grocers and dealers, or direct, $1.00 a large bottle. Doctor's advice and medical booklet containing testimonials and common sense rules for health sent free on request. The Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y.

TAFT'S METHODS NEW IN POLITICS

Conference With Democratic Leaders Shows He Wants Results.

Chicago, March 10.—A Washington special to the Record-Herald says: It certainly can mean no harm to the public welfare, but it is indeed an interesting departure from the previous political methods at the national capital when a Republican president holds midnight conferences with the Democratic floor leader of the house of representatives to discuss the program of action respecting a subject at once so partisan as the tariff. That is what happened last night, however, and the presence at the conference of the tariff board, to which have just been added two Democratic members, gave the meeting extra significance. There is marked reticence as to the discussion that took place, but enough has become known to indicate that the talk had a bearing on the scope of legislation which will be attempted at the coming extraordinary session of the Sixty-second congress.

One thing that has been brought to particular notice is that President Taft may have to pass upon the Canadian reciprocity measure, which it is expected congress will pass, along with a feature of tariff revision not directly involved in the agreement with the Canadian officials. The president would like to have the reciprocity matter disassociated from everything else, and it may be that it will be so. But Representative Underwood, who is to be chairman of the ways and means committee, is not certain that the Democrats will not insist on making the revision of one of the general tariff schedules part and parcel of the measure embodying the agreement with Canada.

The Democratic incentive to joining reciprocity with a measure revising the woolen or cotton schedules, for instance, would be to show the country that the party in control of the popular branch of congress also is "on the job." It is believed President Taft would not reject a measure of the combined sort if the attached general revision matter met his views. An interesting question arises, however, in connection with the possible situation involving a measure passed through the senate wholly by Democratic and insurgent Republican votes. Close friends of the president think he would not hesitate to sign a measure thus passed if he thought it was the right thing, no matter what the majority of his party might say by its vote.

MANY LIVE ON $400 A YEAR

One-Third of Methodist Ministers Get Less Than $600.

Efforts Made to Raise Superannuation Fund of $100,000.

"Can a minister live on $400, support a family and save money for his old age?"

Joseph W. Robinson, formerly pastor of the Grace Methodist Episcopal church of this city, but now identified with the Northern Minnesota conference of the Methodist Episcopal churches as corresponding secretary for the superannuate fund, is here trying to raise a part of the $100,000 that is sought for a permanent fund for retired ministers and their families, and he asks that question in making his appeal for funds.

This fund will take care of ministers who are no longer able to work. The conference includes Duluth, Minneapolis and all the towns and villages in Northeastern Minnesota. There are in all 131 ministers in the conference.

Some of these religious workers are getting as low as $400 a year. Forty of them are getting less than $500 and fifty are getting less than $600. The highest salary paid in the district is $6,000. Several get as much as $5,000 and a few get $2,000.

These figures show that on the average the ministers are very poorly paid. Many of them have families and it takes all the salary to barely exist. It is impossible for them to save money and many times after death or when the time comes when they are unable to work, the family suffers.

It is to give relief in such cases that the fund was started some time ago. At the present time there is $60,000 in the fund. Of this amount $30,000 is conditional on raising $100,000.

There are three sources of income. The local conference's share of the profits from the book publishing house in Chicago is about $1,500 annually. The collections from congregations and the interest from the permanent fund are the other sources.

Under the plan the retiring pastor or the family gets $8 a year for every year of service. If he has been twenty years in service, the amount is $160 annually. Each dependent child under the age of 16 gets one-fifth of this sum, and the widow, in case of death, gets one-half.

There are now forty-three families drawing money monthly from the fund. One family gets as high as $424 a year. The lowest amount paid is $36.

There was $6,708 paid out in 1910.

Judge Denies Divorce to Woman Wittingly Wedding Drunkard.

Pittsburg, Kan., March 10.—When a woman knows, prior to her marriage, that her fiance is a drinking man, she cannot, in after years, in Crawford county, Kan., at least, obtain a divorce on the grounds of habitual drunkenness.

This was the decision handed down in the district court here by Judge Andrew J. Curran. Judge Curran was hearing the testimony of a young Pittsburg woman, who admitted that when she first became acquainted with her husband he was drunk frequently. She asked for a divorce upon the grounds that her husband drank constantly.

Louisville, Ky., March 10.—The identity of a 3-year-old girl discovered living with a negro family on Seventh street has been disclosed by the child's mother, who says that she was forced to abandon the child because of poverty. The mother's name is Maggie Murphy. Since the death of the child's father two years ago, she says, she has been forced to earn her own living. The mother took the child.

Dominion Parliament to Confirm Reciprocity Agreement Soon.

Ottawa, Ont., March 10.—That the reciprocity agreement with the United States will be confirmed by parliament as soon as it is possible to reach a final vote, was the decision reached by the Liberal supporters of the government in a caucus behind closed doors yesterday.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the other members of the government were present and it is understood were heartily commended for the agreement made with the American authorities.

William Gorman and Lloyd Harris, two of the Liberal reciprocity bolters, attended the meeting and stated that while they were against the agreement, they were loyal on all other issues and would continue their support of the government. Debate on reciprocity continued in the house.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY.

Boy Evidently Killed His Mother and Sister.

Maldstone, Vt., March 10.—With a rifle slung over his shoulder, Arthur Bean, an 18-year-old youth, entered the home of a neighbor yesterday and calmly announced that his mother, Mrs. George Bean and his sister, Nina, had been shot and killed. The neighbors rushed to the Bean home and found the bodies of the girl and her mother, marked with bullet wounds, lying on the floor. A physician said both had been dead for more than an hour.

Young Bean refused to talk about the shooting and was arrested and was taken to the county jail at Guild Hall.

The only account of the crime has come from Bean's grandfather, a centenarian widely known as "Grandfather Sweet." He said that during the day his grandson came into the house and made him get into a closet and close the door, with the command: "Stay there if you do not want to get hurt."

A few minutes later the old man said, he heard shots.

Cut the Cost of Living By Raising Chickens!

It's a fact that the more non-productive consumers there are in the world, the higher the price of food products will climb and it is the realization of this fact that has started the "Homecroft" movement.

The chief aim of this movement is to make producers out of a vast army of city dwelling consumers—to induce them to utilize whatever ground they have at their disposal (and few homes are without a fair-sized yard or garden, particularly in the suburbs) to cut down their own cost of living.

A few dollars invested and a little spare-time work will produce wonderful results, if applied intelligently—and no field of effort offers greater opportunity to the small-tract owner than chicken farming!

Five hundred hens can be successfully handled on one acre of ground and will pay the owner a clear profit of from $1 to $2 a year on each hen, according to the management shown.

This gives a clear profit of from $500 to $1,000 a year on one acre—from one to two hundred times the profit on an acre of wheat, since a profit of $5 on one acre of wheat would be considered good.

Realizing that a number of people in Duluth and the vicinity are strongly interested in this most profitable business, we have devoted considerable time and expense to the effort to secure a line of incubators and brooders which would be as nearly perfect as it is possible to make them.

This we have found in the Jewel Incubators and Jewel Brooders, which we consider have shown the best results of any on the market.

The incubators are very easy to operate, are most economical—utilizing every atom of heat, are metal-covered, top, sides and bottom and every contact point is perfectly insulated with asbestos.

The brooders are made to secure equally perfect results in foul or fair weather, special attention having been paid to making them absolutely fireproof. We have both outdoor and indoor brooders.

So confident are the manufacturers of the Jewel line of brooders and incubators of the superior quality of their product, that they actually offer two months' free trial, and back this offer with a five million dollar guarantee. That means, that if you buy one of these incubators or brooders, and after trying them out for two months find that there is something wrong with the construction of either, you may return them and receive back full amount you paid for them. We do not know of another manufacturer in the United States who is making as sweeping an offer as this and it certainly speaks very highly for his justifiable confidence in his own product.

We Have Just the Thing for Beginners at $15!

A 125-Egg Size Incubator

We invite you to visit this department of our store, look over our stock of Incubators, Brooders and sundry appliances necessary on the chicken-farm, and will be glad to give you any information, both as to the exact cost of starting a chicken-farm of the size you require, and as to approved methods for securing the best of results after you commence operations. Come in and ask questions. That what we're here for.

THROWS SOME HOT SHOT INTO SENATOR CLAPP

P. E. Dowling Gives His Views on Senator's Stand on Reciprocity.

His Spotless White Insurgency Has Assumed a Yellow Tinge.

To the Editor of The Herald:

A recent communication from Senator Moses E. Clapp to a citizen of Duluth, on the question of Canadian reciprocity, clearly denfonstrates the necessity for the people of this state to express in no unmistakable terms their sentiments on the McCall reciprocal bill.

The senator's letter is a most audacious effusion, calculated to imbue the people with a belief in a non-existing sincerity as to his position. It is, in fact, an apology, an attempt at justifying a motive fearful of the possibility of censure, an illogical deduction which might be accepted if written by an entrance graduate to the high school.

After a two months' session, the major part of which was occupied by a wrangle over the question of the fitness and cleanliness of an Illinois senator, a Mr. Lorimer, the senate adjourned, and forced President Taft to call an extra session to deliberate upon questions which should have been passed upon in the two months' session, which closed March 4. By this extra session and the possibility of opening up the entire tariff problem, the nation finds itself in the midst of more or less business uncertainties while the large manufacturing and industrial operators probably question the wisdom of operating under a full head of steam. It would therefore seem incumbent upon the people of the country to demand of their representatives in congress quick and immediate action on the "question before the house," Canadian reciprocity.

Senator Clapp for the past two years has masqueraded as an insurgent, and this position has been construed by a number of people as meaning progressive statesmanship. But, however, when called upon to show his insignia, give evidence of the faith within him, and stand by the people and his state, he is found to have changed his color and yellow instead of the spotless white is the only real evidence of his insurgent mask. Senator Clapp reminds one very much of the patriot who was just waiting and watching to get a chance to go to war, in time of peace. When war was declared he was found to be making his way for the tall timber, and pleading for home and mother.

Standing on Thin Ice.

The thin ice upon which the junior senator stands is clearly evidenced by his apparent anxiety to couple Canadian reciprocity with the Payne-Aldrich bill, and give his attitude on the latter as an excuse for opposing the former. It is passing strange why Senator Clapp desires to impress the people of Minnesota with his burning aversion to the Payne-Aldrich bill, for contemporary history will not substantiate the senator in this particular. Now while Senator Clapp would have us believe that he was the most bitterly opposed member of congress to the passage of what he calls the vicious Payne-Aldrich bill, and that had he a thousand tongues, with the right to use each and every one, he would doubtless have set the whole bundle in action, shouting "no," to the roll call of this "vicious" measure, his apparent opposition to this tariff bill is submitted as evidence to the people of this state as reasons for opposing Canadian reciprocity. Did Hon. James A. Tawney, chairman of the house appropriations committee, bear false witness against his neighbors and his insurgent friends of the Minnesota delegation, when he accused them of political dramatization of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, upon their return from congress, and before the people of this state after the passage of the Payne-Aldrich measure?

Did not Congressman Tawney accuse the insurgent band with solemn intentions of voting for the "vicious" measure, until excused by the party leaders after a counting of noses, in which said count caused them to be relieved of this grave responsibility, and permitted them to return to their own beloved state, and proclaim their indignant disgust with the measure that the party leaders had forced upon the people of this country? Up to this time it will be remembered that the deluded element of our citizenship, led on by the political managers of the delegation were about to review the insurgent parade and enter into an almost state wide demonstration at the Twin Cities, when Congressman Tawney exploited their political chicanery and promised to tear off their mask if the treachery did not cease. The result of this declaration was sufficient to have the fete buried, the thing fizzle, and the last strains of the big brass band die out. Upon this bit of questionable sincerity, Moses E. Clapp proclaims loyalty to the people and snatches from the political scrap heap the old dogma of the interests of the consumer "the dear people."

If Canadian reciprocity is not in the interests of the consumer, then congress never can and never will formulate a bill which can redound to the benefit of the consumer. If the agricultural fields of Canada and the United States cannot produce food products at a reasonable cost to the people by the methods of free interchange of these commodities, then the future so far as the cost of living goes, offers a mighty dark and dismal picture. Has not the cost of living been the cry of the people of this country for some time? Has not the great meat combine declared that the cause of the advance of meat products is due to the scarcity of the product, thus giving the meat trust an additional opportunity of arbitrarily dictating the price? If under the proposed reciprocity bill, cattle, hogs, sheep, poultry, and fish, butter, eggs and cheese were admitted free, could the meat combines force the people to pay such high tribute? If they could, then our case as a people is pretty nearly hopeless.

If Senator Clapp is looking to the interests of the farmers of this state and for this reason opposes the McCall bill, how does he explain the very rapid decline of these products in the New York and Chicago markets during the early part of January of this year? Here was a time when the farmer was not going into the market glutting it with his products. In fact he had scarcely anything to sell which he produced. Yet down tumbled the prices of meats, butter, eggs and poultry. Was the farmer benefited by these high prices in November and December when as a matter of fact he was out of the market? Or was it not the very institutions which Moses E. Clapp, standing under cover, desires to protect, the packing houses and cold storage plants?

Little Wheat for Export.

Our wheat export trade is rapidly falling off and the time is less than ten years away when this nation will be an importer of wheat instead of exporter. Our supply of this cereal is not increasing while our consumption is rapidly growing.

Should Canadian reciprocity fail at this time it will be a dead issue in Canada for at least the life of the present generation. The reason for this is plain. Premier Laurier, it is very generally conceded, is serving his last term and with his retirement from the Canadian house of commons may go the Liberal party's control in the Dominion government. The Liberals, of course, will be succeeded by the Conservatives, whose policy is one bitterly opposed to any economic measure that tends toward freerer trade with this country. It is, therefore, Canadian reciprocity now or not at all. But beyond any reasonable doubt there is a method in all this political madness of Senator Clapp and some of his colleagues. The senator's make-believe attitude on the Payne-Aldrich bill as justification for his opposition to the McCall measure closely resembles the sheath gown worn by the comic opera girl. It only obscures the vision in spots. Clapp's real object is to avoid as long as possible political confusion and by dexterously riding two horses at the same time perpetuate himself in office.

Suppose for instance the McCall reciprocal bill should become law and the listed farm products come across the imaginary line free of duty. Would not the farmers of this country at once demand a substantial reduction in the highly protected manufactured goods? Would not this be the real outcome? A happy solution of a vexed problem. The passage of the McCall bill would mean the lining up of the farmer with the consumer and an immediate demand for a revision of the tariff downward. At present and for many years in the past, the large corporations and trust companies have had a powerful ally in the farmer. He has stood by them in their avaricious greed for an unreasonably high tariff and they adroitly and perniciously through press agencies and subservient politicians portrayed the benefits accruing to him from such an economic policy. However the cost of living has grown so high and the farm products have advanced so much at seasons when the farmer had nothing to sell, that the wage earner finds it difficult to even modestly sustain his family. Is it not time then (as Senator Nelson puts it in a suspiciously brief letter to a Duluth citizen) that all the people should be considered in the adjustment of tariff legislation? This is the principle at which President Taft aims. He seeks justice for all the people and desires to have the burdens removed. It is therefore up to the people of this state to get busy and see that the Minnesota delegates, when in extra session April 4, are among the real statesmen and lined up with President Taft in his great fight for the consumer.

P. E. DOWLING.

STUMP PULLING MACHINE FOR SETTLERS.

The Soo Line has announced that $25,000 has been donated by the company for the development of a high power stump pulling machine to be built on the plan of the power skidders now used by timber companies.

The object of the appropriation is to give the settlers of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan a stump pulling device at a low cost that will reduce greatly the cost of clearing wild land of the stumps.

To determine the merits of the machines that may be developed through this fund, the Wisconsin Advancement association will hold a prize competition at Superior about the first of June. A prize of $1,000 will be given the owner of the most practical plan.

After the machine has been selected it will be manufactured and placed with the settlers at a price lower than the cost.

STREETS ARE NOT FLUSHED

Break in Water Main Causes a Delay in the Cleaning.

The downtown streets were not flushed by the board of public works last night, at the request of the water and light department officials. It was stated that a break in the supply main at Twenty-fourth avenue east has caused a temporary shut down until the break can be located and repaired. This leaves the reservoirs at Fifteenth avenue east and West Duluth to supply the city, and to flush the streets would be too big a drain.

SEEKS POSITION BY COURT ACTION

Albert Woolson Would Force Governor to Appoint Him Boiler Inspector.

Albert Woolson, a civil war veteran, yesterday began mandamus proceedings in district court against Governor Eberhart in an effort to force the granting of his application for the position of state boiler inspector for the counties of St. Louis, Cook and Lake in place of Lois Boo of Hibbing, whose appointment was recently announced.

Woolson claims that under the law an old soldier must be given the preference when has shown that he is competent to fill the position.

He states in his petition that he was a private and musician in Company C of the First Regiment of heavy artillery volunteers and that he was honorably discharged at the close of the war.

He states that he has thirty-five years' experience in the operation of steara vessels and boilers and was for two years inspector of steam vessels and boilers and was for two years inspector of steam vessels and steam boilers for the Second congressional district of Minnesota.

THERE IS HEALTH IN HAVING A FAD

Any Hobby Is Cure for Mental or Physical Depression.

New York, March 10.—New York has just about wrested the palm from Boston as the home of fads.

Hardly a week goes by in the metropolis nowadays that some new-fangled cult is not sprung on a now expectant public. The authors come from all over the earth, Persia, Hindus, English women of title, women from Western mining camps, Bostonese and native sons and daughters, all with some "message" that will reduce the fearsome pursuit of happiness to a lead pipe cinch.

But wherever they hail from, the creators of these cults and vagaries wait until they reach this fertile spawning ground before giving their "boons" to the world. Next to a flimflam business proposition, there is nothing that will thrive quicker in New York than some new turned psychic bunk. Only a few days ago a bunch of Hindus began preaching that a certain brand of music, extracted from a queer stringed instrument, was the cure for all ills. They are still all the rage in select gatherings of soul perfection aspirants.

This week it is "triumphant energy" that is being put forward as the means of becoming beautiful and rich, with luxuriant hair, pearly teeth and a full of all things sweet. The "discoverer" is Mrs. Mary E. Chapin.

Dr. Carlos MacDonald has a possible explanation of why New York is such a hotbed of these vagaries: The large number of men and women who live in idleness. These persons must have some vent for their energies, and being averse to going into the usual occupations they give themselves over to these esoteric pursuits.

"If you have a hobby," Dr. MacDonald says, "you are on the high road to health and sanity no matter how depressed mentally and physically you may be. If you haven't a hobby, beg, borrow or steal one, whether it's collecting beetles, old coins or postage stamps. Join the company of illustrious persons who dedicate their leisure hours to the pursuit of some harmless object of amusement or curiosity.

"Many of our rich women lead butterfly existences which bore them to death. They should have some real occupation, some genuine responsibility, some definite duties and some hobby, no matter whether it's philanthropy or golf, collecting curios or engaging in some new found mental processes."

"The House Where Your Credit Is Good."

IN 1898

reported that "the preparation fulfills ALL the requirements and presents ALL the conditions of a very satisfactory emulsion. In appearance and consistency it is not unlike cream and under the microscope the fat globules are seen to be of perfectly regular size and uniformly distributed. So well has the oil been emulsified that even when shaken with water the fat is slow to separate. The taste is decidedly unobjectionable and the Emulsion should prove an excellent food as well as a tonic."

We believe no other preparation of Cod Liver Oil has received such weighty commendation and if the same high authorities were to examine it now they would find it even finer, more digestible, more palatable and more satisfactory in every way; in fact, SCOTT'S EMULSION has so long been the one satisfactory and perfect Emulsion that it is accepted as the standard by medical practitioners all over the world, by the public and by hundreds of imitators, for it is the one and only Emulsion imitated.

The imitations are in name only for no other preparation of Cod Liver Oil is so pure, so perfect and so beneficial.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

has become the world's Standard Body-Builder because of the perfect purity of its ingredients, its absolute freedom from ALCOHOL or any other harmful substance and because the results from it are uniform and far greater than from any other preparation.

DULUTH HERALD FREE BEAUTY COUPON

Good Tomorrow for This World's Most Famous Beauty Specialist.

An opportunity is now offered every reader of this paper to consult the world's most famous beauty specialist, Harriett Meta, of Paris, London and Syracuse, absolutely free.

A little over three years ago there was nothing known which, in our judgment, would actually remove wrinkles, but at that time Mlle. Meta made the important discovery which has since made her famous in two continents.

She demonstrated the great power of her new process by taking her own wrinkles out with it in three nights, after face massage, masks, straps, steaming pots, etc., had all failed, and today Mlle. Meta's face is still free from wrinkles, her cheeks full and plump and her skin and complexion is a delight to behold. In fact, by many she is considered the most beautiful woman in all Paris.

Her remarkable discovery was brought before the judges of the Paris International Exposition and the Rome Exposition Internationale for their investigation, and in both instances they quickly awarded her Gold Medals thereon. The French government also honored her with a patent on her new process, and patents are now pending before the U. S. government at Washington.

London journals sent their Beauty Editresses to investigate her methods, and their high indorsements of her discoveries made her famous almost overnight, so that she was eagerly sought after by French countesses and English ladies of high ctlle and rank. The Beauty Editress of the London Onlooker wrote: "An interview with Mlle. Meta left me persuaded that here at last might be found the secret to restore youth and beauty."

Many of those who have used her process report most astonishing results. Mrs. Mary J. Davis of 24 South Fourth street, East St. Louis, Ill., says: "My wrinkles were very deep and of long standing, so you can imagine my surprise when, after only two applications they entirely disappeared." Mrs. L. E. Haskell of San Francisco, Cal., writes: "I am 50 years old. Consequently my wrinkles were of long standing and I had not thought it possible to erase them, but now when I view my changed reflection in the mirror I can scarcely realize the transformation that has been wrought." FISHING INDUSTRY ON GREAT LAKES REVIEWED

Superintendent of Fisheries for Wisconsin Gives Short History.

How Supply of Food Fishes Is Maintained and Increased.

Madison, Wis., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—James Nevin, superintendent of fisheries for the state of Wisconsin, has compiled an interesting history of the fishing industry on the Great Lakes, going back to the commercial catch of 1885. Mr. Nevin says:

A review of the work of the commissioners of fisheries of Wisconsin will naturally raise the question whether the returns justify the state in the expenditures for the propagation and distribution of fish in Wisconsin waters. Only a few of the people realize the vast importance and extent of the commercial fishing industry of the state, or the manner in which the supply of food fishes is maintained and increased. Since the creation of the universe the fish increased by natural reproduction, and upon the advent of man the waters contained multitudes of fish. Their diminishment began with the value of fish for commercial purposes, and men made an enterprise of catching, marketing and devising traps and means of every kind to capture them. Before the enactment of laws restricting and controlling the catch of fish, the wanton waste and slaughter of the denizens of the deep was shameful. The fishermen soon came to realize that they were quickly destroying the supply of fish, and that in a few years they would undo the work nature had nourished from time immemorial. The natural sequence was the enactment of laws for the protection and increase of the fish. Closed seasons were provided to afford them opportunity for natural reproduction, the size of the mesh was fixed by law to regulate the size of fish caught and to give the small ones a chance to mature. To maintain and increase the supply, fish hatcheries were established, as artificial propagation is far more successful than the natural process. Fish, breeding under natural conditions, impregnate only a fraction of 1 per cent of the eggs deposited; artificial propagation fertilizes and hatches from 80 to 100 per cent of the eggs. The ingenuity of man has devised ways and means, now firmly established in fish culture stations, which, if assisted by wise laws and regulations properly enforced, will maintain the supply of food fishes for all time to come. If we are to realize all the benefits of the work of the department of fisheries, fish protection must go hand in hand with fish production. Unfortunately we find, among men engaged in the fishing industry, those who consider the matter of personal gain only and give no heed to the future.

Lake Superior's Production.

Lake Superior, a little ocean in itself, may be described as a great mudhole or mill pond, with only a few bars and reefs off the points of the mainland presenting favorable feeding and breeding grounds for the fish. This limits the area of productive territory for the commercial fishermen to ply their vocation. Every available space is continually fished, driving the fish from the grounds, and they have learned the danger of the nets and traps constantly set in the water for their capture. The catch depends greatly upon the weather and the condition of the water. If the water is clear, the day calm, and the night bright moonlight, the fish can see the nets and do not swim into them. On dark days with a heavy wind and the water murky, the catches are heaviest. The water is practically clear at all times; this condition and the limited area of productive fishing grounds, will explain why this lake is the smallest producer of fish of any of the chain of Great Lakes. The impression is often voiced that the lake is depleted of whitefish and lake trout. This I believe to be wrong, especially as to lake trout, shown by the following statistics. Lake trout fry were first planted by the state in 1896. The government hatchery at Duluth has planted lake trout fry in the lake for the past twenty-four years, and we have maintained the supply. I believe that more fish inhabit the lake today than twenty years ago. Off years will be found when the catch was not as large as the previous year. Capt. Swanse, who was one of the most observing fishermen on the lake with whom I ever came in contact, stated to me several years ago that on bright, calm days he saw great schools of fish covering the surface of the lake as far as the eye could reach—more fish than in his most vivid imagination he ever thought could be in the lake. The same story is told by other fishermen who, when on the lakes tending their nets, saw multitudes of fish swimming on the surface of the water every summer, at the same time very few being caught in the nets.

Lake and Siscowet Trout.

From the government reports, which are carefully collected by a personal canvass of the commercial fisheries, we find the catch of lake and Siscowet trout as follows: 1880, 1,464,750 pounds; 1885, 3,488,177 pounds; 1890, 2,612,378 pounds; 1893, 4,342,122 pounds; 1899, 3,118,169 pounds; 1903, 4,954,830 pounds. In 1880 the catch was very light. In 1903, the last report issued by the government, it is indicated that after a period of twenty-three years the catch was increased 3,490,080 pounds. From the reports of the state game warden department covering the catch in Wisconsin waters from 1885 to 1909 show an increase of 104,325 pounds in the catch of lake trout, a period of twenty-four years. Twenty-four years ago 50 per cent of the lake trout caught were of the Siscowet variety, today they are practically extinct. These conditions are accounted for in that the commission has not propagated the Siscowet and has planted only the present species of lake trout.

The waters of Lake Michigan and Green Bay gave great results from the state's work in hatching and planting millions of lake trout each year. It is really wonderful that the lake trout have held their own in these waters, especially when we realize the methods in vogue to catch the fish, and the thousands of tons of small trout less than a pound in weight caught by the fishermen during the past twenty-five years and for which they received practically nothing. The following statistics are by the United States bureau of fisheries: The catch of lake trout in Wisconsin boundaries in 1885 was 2,767,820 pounds valued at $69,195.50. In 1909 the catch of lake trout in the same waters was 4,211,012 pounds valued at $308,721. Few people realize the importance of these figures. After being fished for twenty-fours years, untold millions of undersized trout wantonly destroyed, these waters show an increase of 1,443,292 pounds in the catch of lake trout and an increase of $239,525.50 for the fishermen. This is absolutely accounted for only by the planting of lake trout fry by the Wisconsin and Michigan commissions of fisheries. During the same twenty-four years the catch of whitefish fell from 1,702,425 pounds to 93,212 pounds, representing a loss of 1,611,213 pounds and over $75,000 in value. What whitefish were planted during that time were only such as the state could get from the government—2,000,000 to 20,000,000 yearly — hardly a sufficient number to make record of. Statistics indicate a slight increase in the whitefish catch along the Lake Michigan shore during the past few years.

Lake Michigan and Green Bay.

Different varieties of whitefish eggs taken from fish in the waters of Lakes Ontario, Erie and Champlain were transported, hatched and planted in Lake Superior. The product of these plantings have been recognized as fish from the above named lakes when caught in the vicinity of the Apostle islands.

Following are statistics of whitefish and lake trout caught in Lake Michigan and Gren bay from 1885 to 1909:

The great depreciation in the catch of whitefish can only be accounted for in the lack of sufficient food in the water to sustain the life of the infant fish. The small fry swim well towards the top of the water until several months old, and the water should contain an abundance of daphnia, upon which they thrive. The lake trout fry are bottom feeders and subsist on crustaceans and other insect life. The entire success or failure of propagation of fish depends upon the natural food supply in the waters in which the fry is planted.

The sturgeon, a fish quite common in all outlying waters thirty years ago, has become very rare, as the fish was afforded nothing in the way of protection or propagation. Today the sturgeon brings the most in value per pound of any fresh water fish on the market.

The demand for fry to plant in our inland lakes is more than double the amount the state hatcheries can furnish. Brook trout were native only in streams tributary to the Mississippi river, Lake Superior and the Oconto river. They were not known to exist in streams in other parts of the state until planted by the commission. Today there is hardly a spring water stream in the state that does not contain brook trout, and some of the best trout streams we have are those in which they were first planted by the state. Rainbow and German trout are new to Wisconsin waters. Twenty-five years ago not a trout of these species was known as native in our streams; now they are found in most of our larger streams.

Constant Planting of Fry.

Although we do not allow net fishing in our inland lakes, and the closed season is well observed, thus giving the fish every opportunity for natural reproduction, and the game warden department is constantly on the alert to check all violations of the game laws, it is possible to maintain the supply of food and game fishes only by the constant planting of fry by the department.

The board of fish commissioners has become a very important branch of the state government. The state of Wisconsin has been extremely fortunate in the organization, membership and policy of its board of fish commissioners almost from the beginning. The board is non-partisan and is composed of successful business and professional men who have always insisted on practical reult for the money expended, some states make larger appropriations of money for the propagation of fish than Wisconsin; but after visiting, as I have, the hatcheries of the principal states engaged in fish cultural work as well as many private and government hatcheries, I am convinced that our state possesses more large, up-to-date, well equipped hatcheries; a larger acreage of land and water devoted to fish culture, and receives more for the money expended than any other state in the Union. Wisconsin deserves all that has been done for it in fish culture work, for it is doubtful if any other state in the Union possesses greater natural advantages, a larger acreage of highly productive water, a greater variety of fine fish, more streams and inland lakes, or more beautiful and enchanting inland waters than ours. These splendid possessions deserve to be fostered, protected and improved in every possible manner not only for the food products they yield, but as health-giving places of recreation and rest; and as means of livelihood of many citizens depending directly on the fisheries or upon summer tourists who are attracted hither by the beauty and excellence of our waters, spend thousands of dollars in our state each year. I believe that the public in general derives greater direct benefit from the money expended for fish cultur, dollar for dollar, than any other appropriation of money made by the state.

DEFIANCE SHOWN BY JOE BAILEY

Will Quit Senate Before Giving Up Fight Against Theories.

Washington, March 10.—"I will give up my seat in the senate before I will give up the fight against these Populistic theories."

With this positive statement Senator Bailey of Texas announced that he intended to keep up his fight against the Arizona Constitution as it stands today, and against the adoption by the Democratic party of the principles it upholds.

Mr. Bailey says he is encouraged by assurances of support given him by Democratic members of the senate and will fight against the initiative, referendum and recall. If the majority of the Democrats stick by him in the same cause, well and good; but if the majority of the Democrats in the senate take the other side, then Mr. Bailey has indicated that he will give up his seat in the upper house of congress.

Not only will this issue cause a division among the Democrats in the senate, it is now predicted, but it will cause a split among the Democrats throughout the country.

The issue will come to a head in the next national convention of the Democrats, and Mr. Bailey hopes to continue his political career at least long enough to urge the delegates to that convention not to adopt "such Populistic theories," as he termed them in his telegram to the governor of Texas, as a part of his party principles.

Mr. Bailey believes that the Arizona Constitution in its present form, providing for the initiative, referendum and recall, will be defeated in the senate, and he bases that belief, it is understood, on assurances of opposition to it which have been given him since his bold and positive stand last Saturday.

HEARING AT COURTHOUSE

Commissioners Will Appraise Land Wanted By Power Company.

Dams Will Be Constructed to Provide Water in Dry Seasons.

The commission consisting of E. D. Field, O. L. Mather and William Getty, appointed some time ago by Judge Dibell of the district court to appraise the flowage lands needed by the Northern Power company, is meeting today in the grand jury room of the courthouse.

The lands to be appraised by the commission are in townships 52-15 and 52-16. A score of witnesses, mostly settlers, were examined and they testified that the lands are worth anywhere from $10 to $50 an acre, depending on whether or not the land had been cleared.

The power company has a great deal of flowage land back of the city and has title to most of it. The land which will be appraised is only a small tract which the company and the settlers were not able to come to terms on.

The commissioners recently spent a number of days looking over the land for themselves. After the present evidence taking is over, a price will be set upon it and a report will be made to the court.

The object of having the lands owned by the power company is simply to have storage lands for water so that in a dry season the company will have the surplus of water to fall back upon. Last season the water became very low and it was with difficulty that sufficient power for the city was furnished. As soon as it owns the land, the power company will build one or two more dams and will then be in fine condition to stand a dry season.

One dam is already built at Rice lake. The next dam will be built below that and will hold the water back in Moose lake Nos. 1, 2 and 3. The water will finally flow into the Cloquet river.

Only a few more witnesses are to be examined. It is expected that the evidence taking will be finished today.

COMPLAINT SENT TO COMMISSION

Duluth's Case Is Filed With the Interstate Commerce Board.

The complaint of the Duluth Board of Trade against rates on grain and other commodities from South Dakota and some portions of Southern North Dakota to the Head of the Lakes was mailed late yesterday for filing with the interstate commerce commission.

The complaint attacks the rates on the ground that the differentials in the tariffs from the territory indicated are in favor of Chicago and tend to divert traffic to that city. Indirectly the rates to Minneapolis are also attacked but the chief assault is directed at Chicago. Railroads, the complaint avers, have fixed rates so that rail-and-lake or rail-lake-and-rail traffic is routed by way of Chicago instead of the Head of the Lakes so that the railroads will get a longer haul.

FARMING PAYS IN COOK COUNTY.

Chris Murphy, auditor of Cook county, says that farming pays there. Mr. Murphy was in the city yesterday.

To prove his assertion, Mr. Murphy stated that two years ago he planted one acre of fodder corn, with which, in addition to one ton of hay, he kept four head of cattle all winter.

Last year he took 1,000 bushels of potatoes from three acres of ground. The acre that had the year before been planted with fodder corn yielded 515 bushels.

D. Wallace, editor of an Iowa agricultural journal, is in the city, the guest of C. P. Craig.

He, too, is enthusiastic over the agricultural possibilities of this section.

The editor owns a farm in Kenabec county, Minn., about seventy miles from Duluth. He proposes to conduct it as a model farm.

Fowler of Minneapolis and Representative G. W. Brown of Glencoe.

Representative Campbell, one of the authors of the bill, was ready to accept the amendment; but J. N. Johnson of Canby, another author, refused to accept it. It went to a vote and was lost, and there is little doubt that the failure of the friends of the bill to agree on the acceptance of this amendment resulted in the defeat of the bill, which was by a vote of 64 for and 62 against after a full day of debate.

The Pfaender bill, providing for 25 per cent initiative and 10 per cent referendum, still remained alive when the house adjourned last evening, but there seemed then to be little doubt that it would be killed, disposing for this session of the issue of direct legislation. The Pfaender bill, because it was too late to consider it when the house got through with the Campbell-Johnson-Hillman bill was put over to this morning.

The Kelly Amendment.

When the house resumed consideration of the direct legislation bills yesterday afternoon, it had before it the amendment proposed by Representative Kelly of Blue Earth county, proposing 20 per cent initiative instead of 10 per cent, and 10 per cent referendum instead of 7 per cent.

Before the real discussion of this amendment was resumed, Representative Campbell took a fall out of George B. Howley, president of the Minnesota Federation of Labor, and G. H. Becker, a member of the joint labor legislative board, who had issued a statement releasing the members from their pledges to organized labor to vote for initiative and referendum. He presented a letter from John J. McGrath, secretary of the joint labor legislative board, repudiating the pretended release and stating that as the pledges had been made to the board, only the board could release members from their pledges, and that this had not been done.

This disposed of, debate on the Kelly amendment proceeded. J. N. Johnson said that the purpose of the amendment was to kill the bill. W. I. Nolan charged that those who pretended to be for high percentage initiative and referendum were insincere. Representative Klemer read a speech in favor of low preentage initiative and referendum.

Representative Burnquist of St. Paul made the best speech that was heard yesterday in favor of the low percentage bill. He said that if he were representing some special interest, seeking special privileges from the legislature, he should oppose the bill. If he believed that the people were not capable of handling their own affairs, he should oppose the bill. But those who favor it believe in progress, in popular government, and in freedom from the domination of special interests.

Representative Campbell said that in the arguments against the bill he heard the voice of Aldrich, the voice of Hale, the voice of Cannon—the voices of those who had wrecked the Republican party and brought about Democratic victories.

The Kelly amendment was then beaten by an overwhelming vote, advocates and opponents of low percentage initiative and referendum joining to do it. Only 25 votes were recorded for the amendment, and there were 92 against it.

Fowler Offers Amendment.

The climax of the fight was reached on an amendment by Representative Fowler of Minneapolis, providing that instead of laws and constitutional amendments being enacted by a majority of those voting on the proposition, the bill should require a majority of those voting at the election.

Representative Campbell said: "Just to show you that we are broad, we will accept that amendment." The death knell of the bill was sounded when Representative J. N. Johnson refused to join with Mr. Campbell, and insisted ...at the Fowler amendment be defeated. The amendment was voted down.

Representative G. W. Brown of Glencoe then proposed an amendment reaching the same result. He showed that on some of the constitutional amendments that have been referred to the people only 44 per cent of the voters who voted at the elections have voted. In such a case, he said that under the bill as it stood one more than 22 per cent of those voting could amend the Constitution.

Representative Lennon raised the point of order that this amendment had been disposed of when the Fowler proposal was voted down, and that it could not be considered again. Speaker Dunn sustained the point of order.

Later in the afternoon Representative Spooner said that the Brown amendment was vitally necessary, and that without it the bill was a joke. The house was placed in a ridiculous position by the fact that so important an amendment had been defeated on a point of order.

Speaker Dunn said that though he was clear that he had ruled correctly, he would be glad to have an appeal taken, because he would rather be right and have the house over-rule him than to let wrong exist.

Representative Lennon, to be magnanimous to the friends of the bill, moved that the vote by which the Fowler amendment had been defeated be reconsidered; but his motion was lost, 48 for and 55 against. That was the last hope the bill had of passing.

Other Amendments Adopted.

Representative G. W. Brown, before that had proposed several other amendments which went pretty directly to the meat of the case, and some of them had been adopted. The bill as it stood provided that the legislature might refer pending measures to the people. Mr. Brown said the effect of that would be that the legislature would shoulder responsibility for ticklish measures off on the people, and he proposed an amendment changing this provision, which was adopted, 55 to 33.

The bill also proposed that the legislature might call special elections on direct legislation, and Mr. Brown proposed that this provision should be cut out. This amendment also was adopted.

Representative Hopkins of Fairfax also had a couple of amendments adopted. As it stood the bill provided that the initiative could be exerted only on measures that had been introduced in the legislature and failed to pass. One of Mr. Hopkins's amendments required that such measures must have had the votes of at least 25 per cent of those voting on them before they could be submitted to the people; and this was adopted. So was his amendment providing that in enacting the machinery for carrying the initiative and referendum into effect the legislature must require that petitions for initiative must have "not less than" 10 per cent of the voters instead of "not moro than" 10 per cent; a very vital change.

Representative Kneeland, who has favored the bill, by this time had discovered that as it stood the Constitution might be amended in any respect by a minority of the voters, and he proposed that the bill be amended so as to eliminate constitutional amendments. Without that amendment, he said, the bill was dangerous. His amendment was lost, however.

An amendment by A. J. Peterson of Lac Qui Parle county, providing that initiative petitions must have 10 per cent of the voters instead of "not less than" or "not more than" was also adopted.

On the roll call Representative G. W. Brown said that as the bill stood it was the most vicious measure before the legislature, and Representative Knute Knutson of Swift Falls charged that the friends of the measure had surrendered their judgment to what they believed to be popular clamor, and had killed its chances of success.

How the Vote Stood.

DEPRESSIONS IN PAVEMENT.

Horses Lamed on Fifth Avenue East Near Fourth Street.

Complaints were made to the board of public works yesterday afternoon that depressions in the pavement of Fifth avenue east between Third and Fourth streets, have lamed several horses. It was also reported that one man had been jarred out of his buggy near the corner of Fifth avenue and Fourth street. The depressions are said to have been caused by the settling of a water main put in this winter while the ground was frozen.

TO PAINT PORTRAIT OF FORMER VICE PRESIDENT.

Freeman Thorp of Duluth has received a commission to paint the portrait of Former Vice President Colfax, which will be hung in the capitol, Washington; D. C. Mr. Thorp was notified late yesterday of the honor conferred upon him. Accompanying the order was a message of congratulation from Representative Burleson of Texas, who is a personal friend of Mr. Thorp.

The Duluth painter knew personally Schuyler Colfax, who was three times speaker of the house of representatives before he became vice president in the first term of President U. S. Grant. The government built Mr. Thorp a studio on the roof of the capitol and the vice president was a frequent caller. Mr. Thorp will go to South Bend, Ind., where Schuyler Colfax conducted the leading Whig newspaper of his time, to study photographs of the former vice president. Colfax, incidentally, died of heart failure at Mankato, Minn., while on a lecture tour.

Mr. Thorp has completed a half length, life size portrait of Miss Dorothy House, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. House of this city. Critics declare the portrait to be one of the best of Mr. Thorp's creations. It is distinguished by its excellence of composition, line, expression and color.

Mr. Thorp will paint the portrait of Representative James A. Tawney of Winona, Minn., which will be hung in the room of the house committee on appropriations in the national capitol. Mr. Tawney is entitled to this distinction because he is a former chairman of the committee, his term having expired March 4.

AN EXCELLENT PROPOSITION.

There should be no hesitation on the part of the council about enacting into law the proposed ordinance concerning the management of lodging houses in Duluth It is a measure that would bring about a badly needed revolution in the conduct of such places in this city, and since it will go to the city fathers with the unqualified indorsement of the city health department, it is reasonable to assume that the officers of that department have studied the situation and know that they could enforce the provisions proposed.

No feature of the city's life is more easily made the means of spreading disease than the lodging houses. Men from all points gather there, making these places natural incubators of disease. It is impossible to determine in advance either the character of the patrons or their state of health. Without the strictest of supervision it is easily possible for a victim of some disease to spend a day or night or several days and nights in such a place, and to pass on to some other occupant an infection that will be carried out into this city or to some neighboring or remote part of the country. The conditions that have been allowed to develop in the lodging houses have been such as to breed disease when it once has gained entrance, and to encourage its entrance. Under the old form of management the lodging houses have thus become a menace to public health.

It possibly will be urged that the men who occupy the lodging houses are satisfied with conditions as they find them there. It might be urged with equal justice that the child is satisfied with his natural ignorance of reading, writing and the other elements that go to make up a common school education. Yet we compel the child to attend school, and go to great expense to insure his education. These men are as greatly in need of instruction in cleanliness and health as the child is of instruction in the elements of education; we owe them quite as much as we do the child; and the fact that the conditions with which they are surrounded in the lodging houses constitute a menace to public health makes our duty to them even more imperative, if anything, than that owed to the children.

To teach these men the theory of cleanliness and health is good; to furnish them with surroundings that are a continual object lesson in the line of that teaching is a logical and invaluable step in such instruction. By cleaning up the lodging houses the city will insure better citizenship on the part of a lot of hardy, able fellows and will give them a better chance in life by the encouragement they will get from such surroundings.

A REMARKABLE VOTE.

Those politicians and theorists of the effete East who have been holding up their hands in horror at the very mention of the Oregon plan for nominating United States senators will get another jolt when they hear of the action of the house of representatives of the Minnesota legislature. It is rarely that any measure passes any legislative body by a unanimous vote, and yet that honor was accorded to the bill introduced by Representative Joseph R. Keefe of North Redwood.

The remarkable vote in the house stamps Minnesota as not only one of the most progressive states, but as one in which the conception of really popular government has not been lost. The state already has a primary law, but the adoption of the Oregon plan of senatorial nomination will mean that the people will approach as nearly as may be to the desired goal of direct election of senators. Minnesota has been fortunate in having escaped senatorial election deadlocks. But she is willing to profit by the experience of other states, including New York, Illinois, Iowa, Colorado and Montana.

The Oregon plan will remove neither the desire nor the necessity for direct election of senators. At the best it is but an extension of the former primary system to a point at which it will serve as a makeshift until the country can amend the Constitution so as to make senatorial elections direct. But it is a step in the direction of the amendment, and the vote in the Minnesota house was a good showing, one that should give satisfaction in every quarter of the state.

LABOR'S BIG MISTAKE.

There never was a more short-sighted action taken by any organization than that adopted by the miners when they forbade any member of their union to be affiliated with the National Civic Federation. Since the formation of that body, John Mitchell has represented the miners' interests in its deliberations, and his character as a man as well as his position in the labor body have given him a powerful standing in the work of the federation. His relations there with capitalistic interests have enabled him to understand both sides of all questions of labor and capital to an extent that is impossible to one not admitted to such relations, and have made it possible for him to accomplish things in the interest of the workmen that otherwise would have been impossible.

It has been the purpose of the National Civic Federation to consider and, as far as might be, secure state and federal action on matters relating to the relations of labor and capital. In the outline of work for the coming year, just made public, the federation proposes to take up, among other questions, that of reform in legal procedure so as to insure justice and freedom from technicalities that cause delay and unmerited decisions; the prevention of strikes and lockouts on street railways and other public utilities; compensation for industrial accidents; industrial conciliation; employers' voluntary relief associations, and welfare of employes. It would be greatly to the advantage of the miners to have an influential representative present at the discussions and active in the work for the accomplishment of these purposes, but by their action in forbidding Mr. Mitchell or any other member of their organization to take such a part, they have cut themselves off from that advantage.

The problems raised by the relations of capital and labor in this country are mutual, and they never can be solved by any body of men which represents only one side of the interests involved. There are points on each side of the controversy that cannot be understood by the other without full and calm discussion. The National Civic Federation offers a means to the accomplishment of just that end, and the action of the miners indicates a lack of good faith, an attitude that will, if persisted in, prevent for many years the settlement of matters of vital importance to the industrial and economic development of the country. It should be the task of the more reasonable element among the miners to see that the action recently taken is rescinded at the earliest possible moment.

THOSE "MILITARY MANEUVERS."

The troops are on the border and the cat is out of the bag. And really, it doesn't look like such a fearfully dangerous animal, when you get a good look at it.. It takes on more or less the appearance of a domestic pussy that has been forced to earn part of its own living instead of having a diet of cream served in a gold-rimmed saucer. The only thing that can make it look like a monster is a distortion of the imagination.

According to President Taft, as his views are given by Associated Press dispatches, there is no contemplation of an American invasion of Mexico. Uncle Sam is getting tired of the fighting down there, and intends to do what he can to stop it, short of an actual crossing of the Mexican threshhold and thorough spanking of the bad boys down there. He has grown weary at other times of similar situations in the Central American republics, and has done his best to make peace. The two instances are all of a muchness.

But in this Mexican matter it is different because there is reason to believe that the fighting would have stopped long ago if it had not been that the insurrectos have had access to arms and ammunition from within the boundaries of the United States. This being the case, Uncle Sam has said to himself that the best way to end the rumpus is to cut off this source of supplies, the existence of which, indeed, is contrary to the rules of international law and courtesy. In order to make sure of cutting off that business, a goodly number of troops are being scattered along the international boundary line, whose duty will be to put a stop to the contraband business, and by that means to bring an end to an unsavory mess that is liable at any time to bring disaster to big interests in which men and money of this and other countries are involved.

Of course there are a good many men included in this military movement, but that is explained by the statement that the nation is being given a needed object lesson anent the charges of military unpreparedness that have been made in the last few months. Also, the gathering of these troops is to be turned into a peaceful manoeuver camp proposition, a common thing in army circles.

So why get excited? We don't want Mexico. The country is not about to enter on a war of conquest. That would mean more troops, volunteers, and there would be no chance of getting Americans to volunteer for such a war. The president's statement of the situation sounds reasonable. Let us accept it and keep cool.

PRESIDENT ELLIOTT DECLINES.

There is ground for congratulations for Duluth and the Great Northwest in the fact that President Howard Elliott of the Northern Pacific has declined the offer of the interests in control of the Missouri Pacific of the presidency of that road. The offer opened the way for Mr. Elliott to enter a field that is recognized as one of the most important and one of the greatest possibilities in the American railway field. The system with which he would have been allied is extremely powerful, and with the development now in progress in the country it serves, there was ample reason for the acceptance of the offer.

But Mr. Elliott evidently saw the truth of what for years has been claimed by the men who best understood the Northwestern country—that it is the land of opportunity. His keenness and ability were recognized by the men who sought to secure his services for the Missouri Pacific, and that same keenness has enabled Mr. Elliott to recognize and appreciate the opportunities of the vast region with which he already is allied, and to realize that it is worth developing. That such recognition should come from so well informed a source and in so unmistakable a way is gratifying.

Duluth is entitled to a share of pleasure at the decision of President Elliott. Duluth has a vital interest in the future and development of the vast territory of the Northwest, and it is valuable to the city to have the possibilities claimed for that region get such a character of recognition. But in a more intimate sense the decision of the Northern Pacific's president should be pleasing to Duluth because it means that one of the principal traffic interests that links this city to the North Pacific coast and all the territory between here and the coast is to continue to have at its head a man who is thoroughly informed on conditions and who has the judgment to appreciate and the ability to further the advantages of the whole region.

Duluth has had occasion many times to find fault with the treatment the railroads have given her. Even now there is a movement afoot to seek redress for unjust conditions, before the interstate commerce commission. But with a man at the head of the Northern Pacific who not only is familiar with the conditions but who has had nearly eight years of experience as the head of one of the big roads involved, there is an infinitely better outlook for Duluth to get her just dues than there would be were the direction of the road's affairs to fall into the hands of a stranger alike to the Northwest and to the road itself.

With her constantly growing commerce and the development of the country inland from this center, the advantages of Duluth as a railroad as well as a marine point are steadily increasing. President Elliott, as a man who would fill the requirements that he "eat and sleep on the job" with the Missouri Pacific, is one who will see and appreciate the Duluth situation, and that in itself means better things for Duluth.

The net result of President Elliott's rejection of the Missouri Pacific offer is that Minnesota will keep a man whose ability is beyond question, and whose personality has won him many friends during his work in this state.

Gifford Pinchot has gone to Europe. He evidently feels that the country's natural resources are safe now.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

SOME "WHY'S."

To the Editor of The Herald:

Why didn't Lorimer resign and propose a new election when the bribe charge came up?

Why didn't he give his constituents a chance to ratify his election, if it was legal?

Why did the senate allow him to retain his seat when fraud was proven?

Why don't the people raise a howl that will force him out even now?

Why do the voters allow themselves to be hoodwinked into believing that they can't make their own laws and elect their own representatives?

Why don't we cleanse the corrupt political life of the day?

Why don't we rise up and do something?

Are we afraid to attempt the purging of our legislative system?

If so, why? CURIOUS.

Phillips a Hard Worker.

People who thought that the late David Graham Phillips had a rapid, slap-dash way at times overhasty appen were very far from the truth, says a writer in the Bookman. Mr. Phillips himself admitted freely that from first to last he always found literary composition a labor; a labor of love, that he could not have shirked if he would, but none the less a labor.

A story which he sometimes told at his own expense illustrates this. It was shortly after his graduation from Princeton that he sought work as a reporter, and gained by offering his services for nothing obtained a chance to show what he could do on the leading daily in a Western city.

The weather was cold and the temperature of the office somewhere below 60, yet hour after hour Mr. Phillips would sit at his desk with the moisture rolling from his brow in the anguish of trying to make literature from such material as: "Yesterday afternoon John Jones fell off a stepladder and dislocated his shoulder."

One day—it was the tenth of Mr. Phillips's services — the presiding genius of the paper happened to pass through the city room and stood for some minutes watching him.

"Who is that young man?" he presently asked the city editor.

The latter explained.

"Get rid of him!" came the curt editor, "we are getting him for nothing!"

"I don't care!" rejoined the higher power. "I don't care if he is paying for the privilege! Get rid of him at once; I can't bear to see any human being work so hard!"

When a Dead Whale Sinks.

From the March Wide World Magazine: It happens on rare occasions that a dying whale, "sounding" deeply, fails to rise again to the surface, and remains in the sea-depths after death. The "fish" is not lost, however. From some unexplained cause the gases set free by decomposition inside the carcass find their way to the whale's tongue. This organ becomes inflated, resembling a huge balloon, and by its buoyancy brings the body of the dead whale to the surface, when it is picked up by the crews. The process of inflation and flotation commences within a few hours of death, and the lapse of two or three days will generally suffice to bring the body of a "lost" whale up from the sea-floor.

San Francisco Argonaut: There are more than 4,000 miles of lines of communication in the Washington-Alaska military cable and telegraph system. There have been few interruptions, due, as usual, to storms, landslides and forest fires. The latter have always been prevalent in summer along the Yukon river west of Fort Gibson, but are yearly becoming less destructive with the passing of the forests. The system comprises 2,592 miles of submarine cable, 204 miles of double and 1,150 miles of single land line, and 854 miles of wireless.

THE CHANGE IN THE CABINET.

Boston Transcript: Secretary Ballinger after two stormy years at the head of the interior department has thrown up his place and retired to private life. His retention of the place so long after the country had voted him logically unfit for it was in the worst taste, hurtful to the department and disastrous to the administration. Even assuming that he has been honest and disinterested in the Alaska coal land affair and his contest with Pinchot, the revelations of his unprofessional connections with the Cunninghams soon after leaving the interior department under Roosevelt's administration made it plain to everyone that he ought not to have accepted the post of head of the department, and that President Taft could not have known all these circumstances when he offered it to him. • • • In the contest it was Ballinger who was the aggressor. It was he who kept running to the president with complaints about Pinchot and irritated the latter—not too patient himself—to the point of retaliation. Had Ballinger any tact or even shrewdness this split would not have occurred. The president got rid of the wrong man. It is with relief, that we learn of the resignation, but it is with enthusiasm that we welcome the new man. His record is one of the finest and cleanest in the history of American municipalities. He is one of the powerful, earnest and enlightened leaders of America. There will be no more scandals involving the head of the interior department. Scandal will be replaced by energy and efficiency.

Cleveland Leader: If there was any hope for political gain in the resignation, it has been destroyed by a too great delay. It is an event the shadows of which had been cast too far before. There has never been any hope for a rehabilitation of Ballinger since he testified before the congressional investigation, in a manner so lacking in frankness and so obviously evasive that even his well wishers were left in doubt as to his sincerity. And the typewritten rage of the chief executive, however courageous it may be, will add no whit to the strength of an all too freely bolstered cause.

The bright spot in the situation lies in the character of the man chosen to succeed Ballinger. Disappointment in the method and spirit of the Ballinger exit will be general. But the country's approval of the president's selection of his new cabinet officer will be none the less hearty and universal.

Pittsburg Dispatch: Thus ends the public service of a man whose official service caused the first cleavage in the Republican support of the administration. The virulence of the Ballinger dispute is now much allayed, but still the division of beliefs concerning him is positive.

The public at large has hardly the definite knowledge for a positive judgment between these irreconcilable beliefs. Probably the truth is somewhere between the two extremes, namely, that Secretary Ballinger took office not with an opposition to conservation itself, but with a belief that some of the steps taken by the Roosevelt administration were ultra vires. On this basis he was led to acts which were subsequently taken back, and took steps that aroused criticism and in conection with some displays of partisanship by the congressional investigation produced an unfavorable impression.

Whatever the general verdict on Ballinger, the fact that he is to be succeeded by Walter L. Fisher, who has been prominent in the conservation movement, will be taken as a promise that the work of maintaining the nation's natural resources is to be kept up.

Nebraska State Journal: Better late than never, Richard A. Ballinger retires from the cabinet. This corrects one of the most costly mistakes President Taft has made even if the very appointment contained seeds of evil.

Fortunately conditions were such—and Gifford Pinchot at the head of the forestry bureau was such—one such condition—that the conservation policy could not be overturned or relaxed without public knowledge of the fact. From the first it was evident that Mr. Ballinger was to be a millstone about the neck of the administration. The series of events ending in the investigating committee destroyed entirely Mr. Ballinger's opportunity for good or ill in his department. He may have been honest, but he was a misfit in Ethan Allen Hitchcock's shoes. His retirement a year ago would have been better for the administration and equally good for himself.

Mr. Taft is twice blessed in this matter. He is as fortunate in the man he gains as in the man he loses. With Fisher in the cabinet it will not seem necessary to watch lest the public domain slip away from us over night.

Evansville Courier: Things are coming Taft's way. Ballinger has resigned. Altough the president reiterates confidence in his departing secretary, he at the same time appoints a follower of Pinchot to succeed him. Yesterday morning's papers contained the information that Ollie James would move in congress at the coming special session the impeachment of Ballinger. That probably precipitated the resignation. It is true that the resignation was dated Jan. 19, but it will be remembered that other documents in this affair have been found later to have been dated back. We must admire the president's loyalty to his secretary, but it has been at a heavy expense to his own political fortunes and to those of his party.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: Richard A. Ballinger is gone. Speed the parting guest. It was as guest only that this man's presence in the cabinet could be explained without uncomplimentary reference to the administration. Yesterday, by the resignation of the secretary of the interior, was made one of the brightest days in the Taft occupancy of the White House. Ballinger has been, almost from the beginning of his term in the cabinet, a ball and chain attached to the ankle of the Taft administration. It is well for the administration, it is well for the Republican part, it is well for good government that Richard A. Ballinger has ceased to be Secretary Ballinger and will go back to Seattle.

Chicago News: Richard A. Ballinger is out as secretary of the interior and Walter L. Fisher of Chicago has been named as his successor! The public will rejoice even more over the selection of Mr. Fisher for this important position than it will over the retirement of Mr. Ballinger, which has been delayed too long already for the good of the administration. Ill health is assigned as the reason for the retirement of Mr. Ballinger, but the public criticism of which he has been the center cannot but have been a factor.

Louisville Herald: It is useless to dissemble the fact that the resignation of Richard Achilles Ballinger, secretary of the interior, will occasion a sigh of relief from the whole country. The only regret will be that he did not take this course at a time when it would have meant more to the Republican party and the president. Be that as it may, however, his going is grateful. Even on the hypothesis, adopted by his loyal friend and admirer, President Taft, that he is the victim of a huge and malevolent conspiracy, his withdrawal is none the less an expedient step; for the alleged conspiracy was so effective that it destroyed public confidence in Mr. Ballinger, and once a cabinet officer, the head of an important department, has lost the faith of the people as a whole, for whatever cause, there is an end to his usefulness.

As to Cats.

Puck: Cat is the first syllable in catalogue and cataract, and differs from the common housefly in many respects.

The cat is useful for many purposes. For one thing it affords an ideal spot to place little odds and ends, such as old shoes, bricks, etc.

Cats usually grow under one's window at about 12 o'clock at night, at which time the difference between the clam and the cat families is very distinct—very, very distinct.

The cat has nine lives, each of which is one-ninth of a life in duration.

The cat may be divided into three parts—bass, alto and soprano.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1891.

•••When the Highland Improvement company was organized about two years ago, it agreed to give the street railway company a bonus of $200,000 for building an incline road up Seventh avenue west, and it has turned over to the railway company $215,000 in stocks and property. It also agreed to secure a right-of-way up the hill and to hold the railway company free from all damages to abutting property. The sum of $22,000 has been awarded to property owners by the commissioners in condemnation proceedings, and the Highland company claims this is exorbitant and intimates that unless the amounts are reduced the incline road will not be built.

•••Duluth is fast drawing to itself the evidences of culture. The public library is purchasing books for a full study of English and foreign literature and higher science; a noted teacher from one of the greatest conservatories of Europe has come from Milan to Duluth to teach the voice; Xaver Scharwenke puts Duluth in the list of twenty American cities in which he appears; students of St. Cyr, France's noted military academy, corresponding to our own West Point, are recent arrivals to teach their language; a splendid instructor on the violin will soon locate here, and we have now the best of talent in other branches of music, art and languages.

•••At the chamber of commerce meeting this morning a letter was read from S. O. Sargent of New York, who owns considerable property on Park Point, soundly berating the city authorities for allowing the West Superior sansculottes to dig a trench across the point.

•••Lieut. Joseph Dodge and Sergeant Thomas Moore are actively at work organizing a minstrel entertainment to be given April 24 and 25 by local talent. The money will be for the benefit of Company K's armory fund.

•••Young people of the First Baptist church last evening organized a Christian Endeavor society with the following officers: L. L. Cloyd, president; Miss Lettie Cromwell, vice president; R. C. Kinnaird, treasurer; Miss Jennie Cornell, recording secretary; Mrs. A. J. Mathewson, corresponding secretary.

•••The president has signed the order detaching Beltrami and Itasca counties from the St. Cloud land district and attaching them to the Duluth district.

•••Mr. and Mrs. George O. Horne returned today from a trip to England and the continent.

•••Waddell & Clark, architects, have dissolved partnership, Mr. Clark retiring. C. E. Willoughby, who came here a short time ago from McKeen, Mead & White, New York, has joined Mr. Waddell.

•••Shortline service was impeded somewhat today by the heavy snowfall, the Fond du Lac trains being a good deal hindered.

•••J. W. Miller of the Ideal restaurant has returned from his visit to Scotland.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Should Be Passed.

St. Cloud Journal-Press: There are pending before the legislature three bills relating to the great white plague, and which would, if enacted into laws, help to mitigate the evils of this disease. It is to be hoped that the legislature will take the wise view, and pass these bills.

Give the Officials a Hearing.

Stillwater Gazette: There will be several red faces and flights of oratory before Red Wing will give up the state training school. Because the officials are charged with whipping boys is no particular reason for removing the school. If the officials are proven brutal and unfair, remove the officials. That would be the cheapest move of the two. But before either is attempted give the officials a hearing. Sometimes boys and their friends will prevaricate so strong that it closely resembles a lie.

The Future Pittsburg.

Warroad Plaindealer: Within the next few years Minnesota will have—at Duluth and in the iron range country—a hive of industries equal to the western district of Pennsylvania.

Prevention of Panics.

Red Wing Republican: It seems a strange thing that, knowing the cause of panic and also the remedy for them, the country cannot prevent their recurrence. Everybody agrees that panics result from an overuse of credit, and it seems easy to remedy this evil. But the whole modern system of credit is based upon the multiplied capitalization of debt and civilization cannot dispense with it.

Settling State Lands.

Bear River Journal: As an index of how state land that has been sold help settle up the county, the towns of Morcum and Fern, this county, are shining examples. The state holdings in these townships, most of which is desirable for agricultural purposes, compose nearly one-half their area; considerable of it has been sold, but from these sales not a settler has been added to the population of either of these towns. The same rule maintains nearly all over Northern Minnesota. Had these lands been subject to entry under a state homestead law, practically every quarter section within their boundaries would have been occupied by pioneer settlers several years ago. Even now were the present legislature to enact a homestead law that would enable the state to dispose of its swamp lands as fast as they are drained, to actual settlers, it is very doubtful if the state of Minnesota would have a single piece of desirable agricultural land on its hands at the end of five years.

Lower the Bars.

Red Wing Republican: Nobody entertains the notion seriously that Canada will be annexed to the United States. But President Taft is right in his desire to see all trade bars lowered so that each country can do business with the other with less trouble and add to their mutual prosperity.

Suspend Judgment.

Little Falls Transcript: Better suspend judgment on the charges made against the officials of the boys' training school at Red Wing until all sides are heard from. Many times rumors receive in transmission much exaggeration from the original foundation of fact on which the stories were based. Give all sides a hearing.

Not One Imitator.

Fergus Falls Journal: Thus far none of the Minnesota senators whose seats have been the subject of a contest have followed Senator Lorimer's example and declined to take a financial reward from the state.

Coming to His Own.

Albert Lea Tribune: President Taft has appointed a progressive to be secretary of the interior. The president is coming to his own.

Should Treat All Alike.

Moorhead Citizen: The lawless trusts could be made to behave themselves at once if the men you have selected to office wanted to make them respect the law. Portugal's new government has expelled the religious criminals and confiscated their property. That is right. Now let the property of every corporation that violates the law be confiscated, and see how quickly and humbly they will respect the law. But so long as the fool people elect men who are in the pay of the trusts, the trusts will violate the law and extort from the people. And they are not to be blamed. Confiscate the trusts. That is what the law does to the poor when the poor man violates the law. The poor have their bodies confiscated and put into jail or prison. Why not treat all alike?

Farmers.

Collier's: No printed pleadings for a return to the land or to stay there have been so convincing as the spoken arguments of contented farmers. Besides being themselves the successful examples in the flesh—the proposition, solution, and the Q. E. D. combined—their custom has been to open the debate with a grin and a grip of the hand at the introduction. Forthwith they often bundle their audience into a wagon or a motor car and begin appealing to all five senses. They talk simply and earnestly, with humor for punctuation; and, when they point, the audience gazes with appreciation at seas of wheat or corn, or follows the plowman over a hillcrest. The smell of fresh-turned earth, the sight of bulging cribs and bins, the sound of the farmer's hearty voice, the tingling inspiration when the wheat runs through the audiences' fingers, the taste of fresh eggs and bacon, and cold, creamy milk; these are the best persuaders; and this is as good a place as any to say that, even among the printed arguments for the land, the best have been genuine letters from farmers themselves, and they come often.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Nashville Banner: He—I will get married when I meet a woman who is my direct opposite.

She—There are many wealthy, intellectual girls in this vicinity.

London Opinion: Mr. X.—Oh, I've been doing quite a round of calls and I've been so unfortunate!

Mrs. Y.—What, everybody out?

Mr. X.—No, everybody in.

Pearson's Weekly: Visitor (in the magazine sanctum)—Who is that mournful looking individual smoking the horrid clay pipe?

The Great Editor—Oh, that's "Aunt Mary." He edits the children's page.

Ide: "Had a puncture, my friend?" The chauffeur looked up and swallowed his feelings with a great gulp. "No, sir," he replied; "I'm just changing the air in the tires. The other lot's worn out, you know!"

Catholic Standard: "Were you ever on a motor car?"

"Yes, once."

"What make was it?"

"I don't know. I was only on the front of it for a second or so, and it got away before I could pick myself up."

Harper's Magazine: Baby Florence was much annoyed when her mother would not allow her to get to see her little cousin, who had the measles.

"Why, mamma, you know I theldom take the measthles," said Florence in a pleading tone.

Nashville Banner: "So that's the baby, eh?"

"That's the baby."

"Well, I hope you will bring it up to be a conspicuous, God-fearing man."

"I'm afraid that will be rather difficult."

"Pshaw! As the twig is bent the tree's inclined."

"I know, but this twig is bent on being a girl, and we are inclined to let it go at that."

Tit-Bits: The motorist emerged from beneath the car and struggled for breath. His helpful friend, holding the oil can, beamed upon him.

"I've just given the cylinder a thorough oiling, Dick, old man," said the helpful friend.

"Cylinder!" said the motorist, heatedly, "that wasn't the cylinder; that was my ear!"

Washington Star: "What some men manages to mistake foh a clear conscience," said Uncle Eben, "is merely loss of memory."

Boston Transcript: Mrs. Blueblood—John, who was that man who just bowed to us?

Blueblood—Er—that is my tailor.

Mrs. Blueblood—Such insolence! You should make him keep his distance.

Blueblood—I've done my best, dear. I've stood him off now for two years.

Harper's Weekly: "Now, Johnny," said the Sunday school superintendent, "can you tell me what it was that caused the prophet Elijah to go up?"

"Yeth, thir," replied Johnny, "it wath the Payne tariff bill."

BANQUET PLANS TO BE DISCUSSED

Commercial Club Will Consider Many Projects at Its Weekly Meeting.

Several matters of importance may come up at this evening's meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club.

A report is expected from the banquet committee. With the exception of the program most of the arrangements have been completed. The speakers for the affair have not been selected as yet, but it is understood that a number of prominent men have been invited and that several will accept.

The banquet will be held this year on April 20 at Wade's hall, Central avenue and Ramsey street. The supper will be served by the Ladies' Aid Society of Asbury M. E. church, and in order that there will be no crowding, the number of tickets to be disposed of will be limited to 400.

The depot question at West Duluth may also come in for some discussion at the session this evening. A committee on the Soo depot has been active lately and may have something of interest to report to the club. There is also a committee on the rebuilding of the Northern Pacific depot to be heard from.

The committee on the Getchell road will report the progress that has been made the past few weeks. Other matters may also be taken up.

VETERAN AND PIONEER DIES

William Henry Miller Passes Away at St. Luke's Hospital.

William Henry Miller, ager 68, Civil war veteran and a resident of New Duluth for twenty years, died late yesterday afternoon at St. Luke's hospital, following an operation. The body was removed to the Richter undertaking rooms, 425 Central avenue.

Mr. Miller was born Oct. 14, 1842, in Pennsylvania, and enlisted in the army from that state when the Civil war broke out. After the war he made his home at Michigan City, Ind., for several years. Prior to coming to Duluth he resided in Eau Claire for one year.

A widow and two children survive him. A daughter, Mrs. Walter A. Dash of New Duluth, and a son, John B. Miller of Chicago, are the children. The latter has been notified of his father's death and will probably be here to attend the funeral.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Masonic temple at West Duluth. Mr. Miller was a member of the local Masonic order, Euclid lodge No. 198, A. F. and A. M., and also belonged to the Riverside lodge, Knights of Pythias, and to Willis A. Gorman post, of the Grand Army of the Republic.

For the last fifteen years Mr. Miller had been engineer for the fire department at New Duluth.

BELIEVED TO BE SUFFERING FROM MENTAL COLLAPSE.

Thomas Swinnerton, 35 years old, will be examined in probate court this afternoon on a charge of insanity, which was filed against him today by Lieutenant C. E. Wilcox of the West Duluth police department.

Swinnerton, it is alleged, is apparently suffering from some sort of a mental collapse and it is thought that his mind is unbalanced.

Swinnerton came from Cloquet and but little is known about him. He first came to the attention of the West Duluth police when they were asked to take care of him by people living in the vicinity of Sixty-third avenue west.

He was picked up from the street and brought to the station.

POUNDMASTER IS NEEDED AT ONCE.

A poundmaster is needed at West Duluth.

It is not usual, however, for the mayor to appoint this officer any earlier than April. He holds his office for the summer months.

The West Duluth police have been receiving many complaints lately that stray cattle have become a nuisance in several neighborhoods. Cows, it is said, roam over the lawns, yards, or any place where the grass is visible.

All that the police can do is to advise that a warrant be sworn out by the complaining parties for the arrest of the owners of the cattle. A fine, if only a nominal, would, it is thought put a stop to the practice.

West Duluth Briefs.

Lyle Staples of Minneapolis, a former West Duluth resident, was a visitor here yesterday. He left last evening for Oshkosh, Wis., on a business trip.

Mrs. E. J. Zanft entertained a few of her friends informally at her home, 5810 Wadena street, this afternoon.

COPPERS DULL AND UNCHANGED

Market Opens Strong But Declines Toward Close---Trading Light.

The copper market opened dull but higher and steadily advanced until the report on unfilled tonnage was issued by the United States Steel corporation. The report showed an increase of 289,000 tons. The advance had discounted the report, which was expected to be more favorable. Profit-taking by scalpers caused the market to decline at the close.

Soo and Wisconsin Central were the strongest railroad stocks and their strength helped the market in the early hours. If reciprocity goes through, these lines will be especially benefited.

The local copper market was as dull as a Chinese morgue, although most of the traders who make it a habit to tell the public what the market is going to do have advertised diligently that confidence in the situation.

The public refuses to get in and the result is stagnation.

Butte Ballaklava sold at $5.25, Butte Alex Scott, part paid, at $3 to $3.12½, Giroux at $5.81¼.

In the East Amalgamated sold at $62.50, $62.37½, $62.87½ to $62.50, Butte Ballaklava at $5.25 to $5.37½, Giroux at $5.87½, $5.81¼ and $5.87½, Superior & Pittsburg at $15 to $15.12½, North Butte at $28.50 to $28.37½, Shattuck at $19.75 to $19.25, Greene at $5.37½, $5.87½ and $5.25, Calumet & Arizona, at $51.12½ to $51.50.

The proposed absorption of subsidiary copper mining companies of Northern Michigan by the Calumet & Hecla Mining company was indorsed last night when the counting of the informal ballot of the stockholders of the Osceola company showed that they favored the merger. Calumet & Hecla stockholders approved the plan before the small companies were called upon to vote.

Other subsidiary companies included in the merger plan are the La Salle, Seneca, Laurium, Centennial, Ahmeek, Superior, Allouez and the Tamarack. These companies have all voted on the proposition in the present week.

Opposition to the merger on the part of some of the Osceola stockholders crystallized in the act of G. M. Hyams of New York, who obtained a temporary injunction restraining that company from entering the consolidation, but not preventing the meeting yesterday. The vote, while informal, showed the strenth of the merger supporters, being 59,528 for and 8,797 against.

UNCLE SAM'S CHURCHES.

Although it is the common thought that most of the men now working on the great Panama canal have left their religion behind them in the States those who live in the canal zone, writes a correspondent of the Christian Intelligencer, know there are many who observe the laws of Moses and lead the same pure lives they did at home.

When the canal was begun and President Taft, then secretary of war, made his famous speech, saying: "We must provide for the families of the men who are to build this canal or we shall have a hell on earth," he was even wiser than he knew.

Family quarters were built, many men brought or sent for their wives and children, and it has paid. Family life and the presence of good, pure women in their homes have been powerful influences for good.

These families coming from every state in the Union meant that schools and churches must be provided. Again Uncle Sam met the need, and at every town along the line of the canal built schoolhouses and churches. Teachers were established from the States. Chaplains were employed to attend to the religious needs of Americans.

Eight chapels were built, and every one has at least one service each Sabbath. These are two story buildings with lodge rooms on the second floor. The room on the ground floor known as the church is capable of seating 250 people. A pulpit at one end of the room, piano and some folding chairs constitute the furnishings.

All authority rests in a body elected by the people attending the church.

The executive council of the church in Cristobal is composed of men of every denomination. There are one Methodist, two Baptist, two Presbyterian, and one Congregationalist and one Lutheran.

The membership is made up of "those who love the Lord." Membership in the home church is not changed, for no one in the "zone" expects to stay long. The service is broad; the hymns are those well known in all denominational circles, and altogether we afford a good illustration of the practicability of church union.

The audiences are interesting. There are many young couples here just starting on their married lives coming to the isthmus with the "golden mist" still about them. In the back rows are many keen, clearcut faces among the bachelors. There are a few, a very few, young ladies; nearly all of them are nurses from the nearby hospital, though a few are clerks and stenographers.

In Cristobal church a social is held once a month with a little entertainment or refreshments. These are managed by the ladies interested and are a means of welcoming the never-ending newcomers. As there are no financial demands upon the church (our fuel bill doesn't perplex us in the tropics), these socials are never given for the purpose of raising money. The temporary feeling that prevails on the isthmus is not conducive to an established church, as the average length of time men stay is but two years.

BIG THINGS OF THE WORLD.

The tallest monument is the Washington obelisk, 555 feet high; but the largest monolith is in Warnak, Egypt, being 106 feet high. The highest chimney, measuring 474 feet, is in Glasgow.

The largest aqueduct in use is the Croton of New York, which is thirty-eight miles long, but the longest ever built is in Peru, 360 miles in length.

The deepest coal mine is near Lambert, Belgium, 3,500 feet deep; the biggest dock is at Cardiff, Wales, and the strongest electric light is at the Sydney lighthouse, Australia; while the largest lighthouse is at Cape Henry, Virginia, being 165 feet high.

The greatest bank, says Harper's Weekly, is the Bank of England, in London; the oldest college is University college, Oxford, founded in 1050; the largest library, the National in Paris, containing nearly 3,000,000 volumes.

The largest theater is the Paris opera house, covering three acres; the largest bronze statue, that of Peter the Great in St. Petersburg, weighing 1,100 tons. The biggest stone statue is in Japan, forty-four feet high; the largest college is in Cairo, with over 10,000 students and 310 teachers; Damascus has the honor of being the oldest city.

The most costly book in the world is a Hebrew Bible, owned by the German government, which a few years ago refused the pope's offer of $125,000 for it. The most costly medicine a few years ago was metallic gallium, which sold for $150,000 a pound; but radium is now the priceless gem of the mineral world, selling for more than that price an ounce.

Though orchids frequently bring prices that make the poor man stagger, the highest price for a single flower was given for a tulip in Amsterdam by an enthusiast, who paid $250,000 for it. The Rothschilds smoke the most costly cigars that are made—the Henry Clay Sobranos, which cost $1.50 each. These are wrapped in gold leaf and packed in little inlaid cedar wood cabinets.

THE TAILOR.

Few footsteps stray when dusk droops o'er
The tailor's old stone littelled door;
There sits he stitching, half asleep,
Beside his smoky tallow dip.
Click, click, his needle hastes, and shrill
Cries back the cricket 'neath the sill.
Sometimes he stays, and o'er his head
Leans sidelong his old tousled head,
Or stoops to peer with half shut eye
When some strange footfall echoes by;
Till clearer gleams his candle's spark
Into the dusty summer dark;
Then from his cross legs he gets down,
To find how late the evening's grown;
And hunched up in his door he'll hear
The cricket whistling crisp and clear;
And so beneath the starry gray
He'll mutter half a seam away.

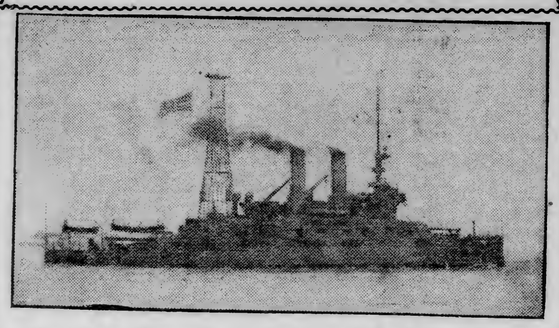
BATTLESHIP TO STEAM UP THE MISSISSIPPI RIVER



The navy department will meet the wishes of the people of St. Louis by sending the battleship Idaho up the Mississippi river to that city in May. At least she will start up the river. Many old rivermen think it possible that she will get through, although her displacement is 13,000 tons and her mean draft when fully coaled is 24 feet, 8 inches. St. Louis has been visited by the gunboat Nashville, the monitor Arkansas, and a torpedo boat Botilla. The present experiment is being made at the request of the Business Men's league.

WARMER

Palm Beach, St. Augustine, the Bermudas, Havana, California, Texas and the other places to which people with the inclination and the wherewithal flock from November to May, haven't a thing on Duluth right about now. If anybody ever heard of any more beautiful weather than this city of the cities on the shore of the greatest inland lakes is now enjoying, let him speak up or forever hold his peace. Yesterday the mercury touched the high mark of the season, 54 deg. It dropped to 18 deg. last night, but that made the walking better this morning. Continued fair and warmer weather is on the cards for tonight and tomorrow.

There was a raw March touch in the air a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 6:31 and it will set at 6:06 this evening, giving eleven hours and thirty-five minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the last twenty-four hours rain or snow fell over portions of the Lake region, St. Lawrence valley and Eastern states in connection with the low pressure central over New England. Temperatures also rose somewhat over the Ohio valley and Atlantic states. Another depression over Alberta has caused warmer weather over Alberta and rains in the extreme Southwest. Colder weather prevails this morning in South Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Northern Michigan, in connection with the high pressure which overlies the upper Mississippi valley. The Western Canada disturbance will cause mild and more or less threatening weather at the Head of the Lakes tonight and Saturday."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, March 10.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Saturday:

Upper Michigan—Fair tonight; Saturday unsettled and warmer with probably rain or snow.

Wisconsin—Generally fair tonight and Saturday; warmer in east portion Saturday.

Minnesota—Increasing cloudiness tonight and Saturday; warmer tonight.

Iowa—Increasing cloudiness tonight and Saturday; warmer in east portion tonight.

North Dakota—Generally fair tonight and Saturday; warmer in east portion tonight; cooler Saturday.

South Dakota—Probably cloudy tonight and Saturday; cooler Saturday.

Montana—Unsettled but generally fair weather tonight and Saturday; colder Saturday and in northwest portion tonight.

Shippers forecast: Protect thirty-six hour shipments of perishables against temperature about 32 deg. in the Eastern Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin and the Michigan Copper country.

WOMAN GETS HER HOMESTEAD

Red Tape Cleared Away By Amendment to Naturalization Law.

Under an amendment to the naturalization laws, prepared by Judge Page Morris and passed at the last session of congress, Mrs. Augusta Anderson was yesterday allowed to prove up on a homestead near Jacobson, Aitkin county.

Mrs. Anderson's husband has been insane for seventeen years. Prior to his becoming insane, he had declared his intention of becoming a citizen of the United States and had filed on a homestead. Although the naturalization laws provided that if under those circumstances, a man died, his widow could prove up on the homestead, there was no provision covering Mrs. Anderson's case, but the amendment to the law cleared the way.

Mr. Anderson has been paroled from the insane hospital at Fergus Falls and will live on the homestead with his family.

20,000 Women Bought It Yesterday

This is an entirely new dish—this Van Camp's Spaghetti.

This is one of the few towns where most grocers have it.

But, even now, 20,000 women are buying it daily. We have never created such a popular dish.

Some people have eaten spaghetti in Rome and wished they could bring a supply back to America.

But our chefs, in two years, have perfected a recipe better than Italy ever knew.

The recipe is secret. We can never reveal it to you. But, of the 17 ingredients, the main ones are these:

Durum wheat spaghetti.
Herkimer County full cream cheese.
Best creamery butter.
The same superlative tomato sauce we use in Van Camp's Pork & Beans.

The dish is prepared in our kitchens and supplied to you ready to serve. Simply heat it or bake it, as you prefer.

It costs you less than to make it yourself, even if we told you how.

This is a dish you ought to know, and know it while it's new. You'll find yourself serving it ten times as often as you serve spaghetti now.

Tell your grocer to send you some.

IS BITTEN BY A PRISONER

City Jailer in Danger of Losing Arm From Blood Poisoning.

Bitten in the hand by a prisoner whom he was taking from the patrol wagon to the city jail, Louis Johnson, jailer at the police station, may lose his arm from blood poisoning, which has set in.

Wednesday, Mr. Johnson was taking Mike Spriggs from the wagon to the lockup. The prisoner was charged with drunkenness, and during the struggle he made against being locked up, he is claimed to have bitten the officer on the hand. Mr. Johnson did not pay much attention to the wound. He washed it in warm water and bound it up, but yesterday it began to swell, and he was unable to go to work. Today the wound is badly swollen, and Mr. Johnson's condition begins to look serious.

Spriggs was sentenced to ten days in the county jail for drunkenness.

sion's appropriations, established four years ago at the first session of the Sixtieth congress, cannot be substantially lowered if at all."

Too Many Committees.

Mr. Tawney renews his recommendation for the consolidation of the appropriating jurisdiction of the house under a single committee of sufficient size to be representative of all sections of the country and of all branches of the public service. Eight committees now consider and report appropriation bills and Mr. Tawney says no reform is more important.

The committee on appropriations, which reports more than half of the total appropriations of congress, reported during the first regular session of the last congress $16,933,925 less than the estimates while the appropriations by all the other appropriating committees, were $27,931,402 in excess of the estimates. Mr. Tawney claims that if this consolidating reform had been effected it would have saved $62,000,000 at that session alone.

Mr. Tawney says one of the evils incident to this divided appropriation jurisdiction is the practice of making appropriations immediately available, large portions of many appropriation bills being in fact designed to cover up deficiencies, in the preceding year. He points out that the aggregate for the past session, which includes $4,000,000 for the Appalachian forest reserve, is $2,500,000 less than the aggregate for the preceding session of congress, and that the aggregate of the entire last congress, which exact aggregate is not given in his statement, is an increase of $600,000 over the preceding congress

Mr. Tawney says that in the six years of his chairmanship of the appropriations committee, the estimates have amounted to $6,061,257,132, of which congress granted all but $165,-662,264.

Militarism a Menace.

Declaring that the Democrats want to save the people of this country "from the danger which threatens them because of the rampant expenditure of their money that has been going on for the past twelve years," Mr. Livingston in his statement contends that militarism is a menace and that Democratic accession will prevent national bankruptcy. He says it is a superhuman task to restore expenditures to a normal level because of the enormous liability fastened upon the treasury "by the statutory increase of the enlisted strength of the army and the navy four fold since Mr. Roosevelt was so unhappily called to the executive office of the republic."

Sounding a note of alarm against a "threatened onerous" direct tax with all its inquisitorial features, Mr. Livingston says that if that day comes, "the people will rise in their might and shake from themselves and their posterity the manacles of burdensome taxation fostered by the Republican party. That day is not distant unless we stop instanter in this precipitous, money-wasting race we are now engaged in."

Mr. Livingston says the nations of the Old World stand agape and wonder over the magnitude of appropriations and increased federal activity. He compares appropriations for the Fifty-third congress, the last Democratic one, appropriating $917,013,528, with those of the last congress for the two fiscal years 1911 and 1912, aggregating $2,-053,391,291 and declares that in twelve years there has been more than 500 per cent increase in all expenditures, the army and navy each increasing more than 400 per cent. He bespeaks for the incoming Democratic house economy particularly in those government departments relating to the "enormous expenditures for war purposes."

TERRIFIC EXPLOSION OF POWER CAUSES WIDESPREAD RUIN

there were three wheel mills, one powder building and twenty smaller separate store buildings, all of which contained explosives.

Pleasant Prairie, Wis., March 10.—Smouldering ruins and wrecked cottages were revealed when dawn struck the little town of Pleasant Prairie today, where last night the powder magazines of the Dupont-De Nemours Powder company exploded, killing at least one person, injuring 200 others, causing damage of $1,500,000 and rocking portions of four states.

The fire in the wrecked powder mill apparently burned itself out this morning. Three holes marked the sites where three of the magazines had stood. The holes were each more than fifty feet across and as deep. One had broken into a spring and was half full of water. Trees for half a mile around were stripped of branches and shorn off even with the ground. Part of the engine house and the hundred-foot brick chimney of the plant still stands.

Three Unaccounted For.

While the officers of the company assert but one man, Foreman E. S. Thompson of the glaze department, lost his life, and that all the other employes were accounted for, three of the men could not be found after the explosion.

Pleasant Prairie is ten miles west of Kenosha, Wis. The powder mill is a mile north of the village which has a population of about 700.

The force of the explosion completely demolished the houses on the Geneva road which were nearest the mills, and every house in the village was wrecked. Almost equal damage was done in Bristol, four miles west.

The wreck of the village was followed by the hegira of the entire population. Blown from their beds and with the wreckage of their houses tumbling about their heads, the residents of the village loaded their half-clad families on farm wagons and moved in a long procession of battered and shivering refugees in search of shelter in Kenosha.

Special Train With Doctors.

A special train was rushed to Pleasant Prairie from Kenosha over the Northwestern railway to remove the wounded and worst injured. All the available doctors and nurses in Kenosha accompanied the train and attended to the wounded. That no greater list of fatalities followed the disaster was due to the small number of men at work at the plant.

Several attempts to search the ruins for more dead were made by Sheriff Andrew Stahl, but on each occasion he and his deputies were driven back by successive explosions as the fire reached packages of powder.

The last attempt just before daybreak was stopped by the heaviest of the following explosions and the sheriff said then that the fire must die out before the ruins could be approached.

"There are eight carloads of loose black powder in a building still standing," said Sheriff Stahl. "It may let go at any moment."

Looting Feared.

At daybreak this morning few of the residents of Pleasant Prairie were attempting to rescue some of their household goods from their shattered homes. A number of the men had stood guard in their door yards over night. Almost immediately after the crash, the village was invaded by curiosity seekers and others, and, asserting that looting and vandalism were beginning, Sheriff Stahl impressed a hundred deputies and cleared the village.

The first work of the army was to get every one out of the town and away from the danger zone as following explosions were feared. In fact, intermittent explosions continued throughout the night accompanied by bursts of flame and showers of flaming cinders.

Blown Up Twice.

The escape of Supt. Clarence Brady was remarkable. He was in the soda house with Engineer Flynn at the time. The men were blown through the building and landed on the roof of the adjoining magazine. This exploded instantly and Brady and Flynn, the latter seriously injured, were thrown 100 feet from the building.

Flynn suffered internal injuries and inhaled poisonous fumes. His condition is precarious. Brady escaped practically unscratched.

Brady's wife of three months in his residence a mile from the works, was badly cut by broken glass and bruised by falling debris. Others of the injured are Night Foreman Frank Bowe, left hand cut, badly burned. Jack Summerton, packer, blown 200 feet, burns and bruises. Joseph Steinbach, blown into field and bruised. Mattie Jensen, maid in workmen's boarding house, bruised by falling debris. Flynn and Miss Jensen are in the hospital at Kenosha.

That the powder in the plant was being rushed through on a hurry order from the government for use in the Texas frontier was denied last night by Supt. Brady.

The magazines contained 8,000 kegs of giant powder, finished; 25,000 kegs giant powder in process of manufacture; 150 tons finished dynamite; 130 tons dynamite, in process of manufacture. All went up in the explosion.

Cause of Explosion.

The cause of the explosion was given this morning by Dr. Arthur J. Lowe of Pleasant Prairie. Supt. Clarence Brady refused to make a statement.

"The explosion took place in the glaze house," said Dr. Lowe. "Over 1,100 kegs of powder are dried at a time in the glaze house in steel cylinders. Each cylinder holds 125 kegs of powder. The cylinders are about 12 feet long and 3½ feet in diameter. They are inclosed in steel jackets through which live steam is forced and as the steel 'glaze' cylinders revolve the powder is dried and brought to a high heat. There were nine of these cylinders in the glaze house.

"The extent of the glaze on the grains of powder determines its degree of explosiveness. When the powder is nearly polished and is dry and hot it is in a dangerous condition. It was then the explosion took place and the initial explosion was followed at brief intervals by the successive explosions of the dynamite magazines." Dr. Lowe has lived for nine years in Pleasant Prairie. He stated that he had often inspected the glaze house. The property occupied by the powder is approximately 190 acres.

There were forty buildings of the plant, according to Supt. Brady. He said there were five main magazines, two lesser magazines and four other buildings, in which the process of manufacture is carried on in which the preparation is highly explosive. Of these eleven buildings, but one, a small corrugated iron magazine for dynamite detonation, now stands about half a mile from where the main buildings stood.

According to Dr. Lowe part of one of the glaze cylinders was hurled two miles and crashed through the roof of a two-story building opposite the railroad station in which a general store is kept by H. H. King. The hole through the roof and ceiling of the King building is eight feet square.

Precautions Taken.

There are still five buildings containing blasting powder and precautions are being taken to prevent further explosions.

Dale Bumstead, superintendent of the Chicago division of the powder company, arrived from Chicago today and a guard was thrown more closely about the 190 acres of the company's property. No one was permitted to approach within a mile of the wrecked plant. Powder men here say that a too high grade of heat might have caused the explosion.

This village is almost completely without women today and the men here went hungry. Not only are most of the stores destroyed, but the supplies of food in larders is scattered and insufficient. The district schoolhouse near the village was wrecked. There was no school today, for of the forty-five pupils, all but a half dozen either inders. Each cylinder holds 125 kegs were too severely injured to attend or had moved with their parents during the night to places of safety.

Everyone Wears a Bandage.

The roads and fields in the vicinity are strewn with boulders, some of which weigh several hundred pounds. Nearly everyone who was within ten miles of the factory when the explosion occurred is today wearing a bandage to cover his injuries. In not more than a half dozen cases, however, are the hurts severe.

A canvass of physicians here and in Kenosha shows except for Engineer Flynn, no one is dangerously hurt. Phil Heas, a farmer living near Truesdell, over two miles from the factory, probably will lose his right ear, which was nearly severed by a piece of flying glass. I. H. Beland of Truesdell, will probably lose his eye from flying glass and E. A. Fox, a farmer lost much blood when a vein in his wrist was cut. The other injuries, according to the doctors necessitated nothing more than a patch of court plaster.

Supt. Brady, who was blown through the air, first to the roof of a magazine, and then to the ground, without being injured, was too startled to realize an explosion had taken place.

Superintendent Dazed.

"I found myself on the ground with the earth shaking and the buildings tumbling around," he said. "Then the blaze from the magazines started and I don't remember getting away from the plant. Next thing I fully realized I was in the village starting back to the fire."

The main offices of the Du Pont company are in Wilmington, Del., and as soon as telegraphic communication opened today local officials received positive orders to make no statements as to the cause or nature of the explosion, the amount of powder destroyed or the amount still in magazines.

The company has had trouble with residents of Kenosha county following previous explosions. Two years ago a suit brought against the company on the ground that it was a public menace was won by the company.

CHICAGO JARRED.

Buildings Tremble and Glass Is Broken By Explosion.

Chicago, March 10.—Further damage caused by the explosion in Pleasant Prairie was reported from various parts of Chicago today. Three hundred men attending a political mass meeting in South Chicago fled to the street, believing that a bomb had been thrown into the hall by political opponents. All the windows in the building were shattered.

The explosion caused the closing of the intake of the pipes supplying to the Illinois Steel company's plant and made necessary the shutting down of the works for three hours. The trouble was finally remedied by divers.

Six persons were injured in a rush for exits by the audience at the Majestic theater in Evanston. None of the victims, however, required more than temporary medical assistance.

Following the explosion, a woman passenger on a train of the Chicago & Milwaukee electric railway gave birth to a child. The lives of both the mother and the infant were seriously imperiled, but both survived the ordeal.

County Building Shaken.

People in the immense county building in this city felt the huge granite structure shake and many of them ran to the street, fearing either an earthquake or that the building had been weakened by some explosion.

In the suburbs of Chicago, along the lake shore, all felt the damage severely, and in Evanston, Winnetka, Glencoe, Wilmette and Highland park, many windows and store fronts were shattered.

On the northwest side of the city panics occurred in several buildings. In the Logan square vaudeville theater, 200 people sprang from their seats and made a rush for the doors, several being knocked down and slightly bruised. The panic was quieted by the ushers, but the audience could not be induced to remain.

At the Crystal theater, 209 West North avenue, several people in the audience rushed for the doors and it appeared as though a serious panic would result. One of the actors, however, made a speech from the stage and the performance was finally resumed.

Hotel Guests Alarmed.

Excitement prevailed at all of the prominent hotels along the lake front, guests running from their rooms and filling the lobbies, many of them carrying suitcases and valuables. At the Auditorium hotel windows were blown in, the front doors were dashed open and the loud rattling of the immense iron doors which act as a fire protection between the Auditorium hotel and the Auditorium theater added to the excitement and for some time it was difficult to convince the guests that a heavy earthquake had not taken place.

PORTERFIELD HELD TO THE GRAND JURY.

John R. Porterfield waived examination when arraigned in police court yesterday afternoon on a warrant charging him with the theft of three coats worth $50, the property of W. D. Williams, and was bound over to the next grand jury.

Mr. Williams claims that Porterfield was in his employ early this winter as a timber estimator, but became so unreliable that he had to let him go. In this manner he says Porterfield came into possession of keys for his office in the Mesaba block, from which Porterfield is accused of having taken the garments. Porterfield served ninety days in the county jail last fall on a larceny charge.

That Feeling of Fullness

Disappears in Five Minutes After Taking a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet.

A Trial Package Sent Free on Request.

All of the unpleasant sensations attendant upon eating too heartily are instantly relieved by a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet. Like sticking a pin into a rubber balloon. The reason is simple and easy to understand.

Inflation Of The Stomach From Undigested Food Quickly Relieved By A Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet.

When you take food into a stomach that is tired and over-taxed the gastric juices do not form fast enough to digest it properly. So the food becomes sour and at once begins to throw off gases. Your stomach becomes inflated just as surely as if you attached a toy balloon to a gas jet. Then the gases and foul odors issue forth and pollute your breath making you an object of nausea to your friends. Your tongue quickly becomes coated and you can taste the foulness that is within you.

Now all this condition is changed almost instantly by a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet. This little digester gets busy at once—supplies all the digestive juices that were lacking—digests the food in a jiffy and opens up the clogged stomach and bowels. It also sweetens and refreshes the mucous lining of the stomach and bowels and restores peace and content.

If you will give Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets a chance they will not only sweeten your stomach but also your disposition and you will never have another stomach trouble.

One grain of a single ingredient in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest 3,000 grains of food. This saves your stomach and gives it the rest it needs. All muscles require occasional rest if they are ever over-taxed. The stomach is no exception to this rule.

Try a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and you will wonder how you ever got along without them. They are sold at 50 cents by all druggists everywhere. A trial package will be sent free on request to F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

MEETING FOR THE FARMERS

Institute at Brainerd on Friday and Saturday, March 24-25.

Well-Known Institute Workers Will Have Charge of the Affair.

Brainerd, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The agricultural extension farmers' institutes division of the University of Minnesota announces a farmers' institute to be held here Friday and Saturday, March 24 and 25 to be conducted by F. B. McLeren of Wrenshall and E. W. Smith and L. H. Bugbee will act as assistants. The local arrangements are under the supervision of the public affairs committee of the Brainerd Commercial club. The management of the Grand theater has offered the use of their playhouse in which to hold the day sessions. The stereopticon can be used for projecting slides on the screen and thus illustrate the lectures. Invitations to attend have been addressed to over 400 farmers of the county by the Commercial club's committee. The complete program will soon be announced and from the interest aroused in the matter a large attendance is counted on at the course of lectures.

May Yet Build Bridges.

The action of the Crow Wing county commissioners in making preparations to build bridges at Dagget Brook, Watertown and across the Mississippi at Fort Ripley which appeared to have been stopped by an opinion from assistant Attorney General Lyndon A. Smith may be cleared up by another opinion promised County Attorney W. A. Fleming. All bridge operations are tied up at present, or "up in the air," until matters are sifted and a correct interpretation of the law covering this particular case is given.

ADDRESS FARMERS IN TWO LANGUAGES

English and German Spoken at Dry Farming Congress at Mandan.

Mandan, N. D., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Using both the English and German languages with which to impress upon the farmers of Morton and surrounding counties the importance of scientific farming methods, the first session of the Morton County Dry Farming congress ended last night.

In the German dry farming congress, S. D. Unkenholz, John Christianson, S. Maser and G. Timmerman were the speakers. Mr. Timmerman is the president of the North Dakota Dry Farming congress auxiliary. Prominent of the speakers before the general congress were Messrs. J. H. Worst, Thomas Shaw, R. F. Flint, L. R. Waldron, Col. R. A. Wilkerson and L. C. Martin.

Crops Could Have Been Doubled.

North Dakota's crop for the years of 1909 and 1910, in the opinion of Prof. Shaw, could have been doubled had the proper farming methods been adopted. He illustrated his point by telling his own experience in the conduct of nearly a half hundred demonstration farms in Montana during the past year, and contended that had the same methods been employed by every North Dakota farmer, that he could have been equally as successful.

Mandan people were very successful in entertaining the congress, affording a very large number of features that proved to be exceptionally unusual and of special interest to the large number of farmer visitors.

SAWYER COUNTY LOGGERS HAPPY

Concerns Cutting Timber in Wisconsin County Had Prosperous Winter.

Couderay, Wis., March 10.—Special to The Herald.)—Logging camps in this section are breaking up, and every outgoing train is filled with homeward bound lumberjacks.

The last few days of mild weather destroyed the ice roads for log hauling for this winter. The loggers are all well satisfied as they have all had an ideal winter for logging operations ever since it froze up the first part of last November and more logs have been cut and landed in Sawyer county this season than for many years past, most of the logs have been shipped out but there are still millions of feet left at landing grounds that will be shipped out during the summer. About 5,000 men are employed in the logging camps in Sawyer county during the logging season. Camps broke up three weeks earlier this spring than usual.

BUYS SEED GRAIN FOR FARMERS' USE

Towner County, N. D., Board of Commissioners Purchase 29,200 Bushels.

Cando, N. D., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—For the purpose of providing the farmers of Taconer county with seed grain, the county commissioners purchased 19,000 bushels of flax and oats, 8,000 bushels of wheat and 2,200 bushels of barley. Last year the farmers sold practically all of their grain, preferring to buy new seed grain this year rather than holding the old grain over, as the 1910 grain was not considered to be of the best for seed purposes. By taking advantage of the law allowing counties to bond for the purchase of seed grain, the condition resulting is very satisfactory to both the farmer and the county.

NURSE'S HEARING MARCH 20.

North Dakota Woman Alleged to Have Been Implicated in Crime.

Langdon, N. D., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Nell Gande, charged jointly with Dr. J. J. Reilly with murder in the second degree in connection with the death of Mrs William Drury of Osnabrock, will have a preliminary hearing before Justice Shanks in this city March 20. She was arraigned here late yesterday, and pleaded not guilty. Her bonds have been fixed at $5,000 which she has been unable to furnish. Dr. Reilly, also, has been unable to furnish the $5,500 bond that was required when he was bound over on the murder in the second degree charge this week. The woman was the nurse in the Drury case.

STEAL HOTEL BIBLES.

Minneapolis Thieves Take Books Provided By the Gideons.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 10.—While a number of Bibles placed in Minneapolis hotels by the Gideons several months ago do not give any appearance of wear, and bear no thumb marks, at least two dozen have been taken from the rooms of the various hotels, managers declare.

Five Bibles have been stolen from the Rogers hotel since the Gideons placed them in the rooms. As many more from each of the other hotels in the city also have been stolen. But hotel managers doubt much wether they have been taken by persons who want to read them or by kleptomaniacs. It is believed the Bibles have been taken from the rooms by souvenir collectors rather than the scripturally inclined.

NEIGHBORS SAVE CHILDREN.

Washburn, Wis., Home Burns, Tragedy Being Narrowly Averted.

Washburn, Wis., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The timely action of neighbors in rescuing the three children of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Anderson from their burning home here yesterday saved the little ones as they were alone, their having gone down town. Boys passing discovered the fire and aroused the neighborhood the little children being hurried outside. The mother was nearly frantic when learning of the fire and went into hysterics until assured her children were safe.

NORTH DAKOTA STATE HIGH SCHOOL DEBATES.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—This evening the second series of preliminaries in the state high school debating league will be held and the ten victorious teams in the first series will be pitted against one another. Cassulton high school will meet La Moure at La Moure. Edmore will meet Minnewaukan at Edmore, Hatton will contest with Hillsboro at Hillsboro, Westhope with Williston at Williston and Minot will meet Bismarck at Bismarck.

Albert Wold of Cummings, Traill county, will represent the university in the state oratorical contest to be held at Fargo on April 21, this honor coming to him by his victory in the annual inter-society oratorical contest for the Merrifield prizes held at the university. Dr. Webster Merrifield, former president of the university gives $30 as first prize and $20 as second prize. Lester Smith of this city winning the latter. Mr. Wold, representing A. D. T. Literary society, won over seven contestants and his subject was "The Common Ground."

Thinness Easily Overcome.

(From "Health and Beauty.").

Further evidence is being presented almost daily that a recent compound of new chemical elements combined in a tablet with hypophosphites is in reality proving a blessing to the abnormally thin men and women, for it can be demonstrated beyond doubt that a regular course of three or four months' treatment brings an increase in weight of from 10 to 30 pounds, with a decided improvement of health and color too. For self administration the most popular form is to be found in three grain hypo-nuclane tablets, obtainable in sealed packages from the best apothecary shops, with full directions.

HEADS ASSOCIATION OF STATE EDITORS

Black of Grand Forks, recently elected president of the North Dakota Press association, is a well known former Minnesota and Wisconsin resident. In Wisconsin he was state factory inspector during Governor Schofield's administration of 1898 to 1902. He was also engaged in the newspaper business at Marinette and a member of the state Republican central committee. Later he lived in St. Paul, being connected with the Minneapolis Paper company. FOR WHITAKER'S PARDON.

Another Effort Being Made to Secure Release of Murderer.

Granville, N. D., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Another effort to procure the pardon of Jefferson Whitaker, serving a sentence in the state penitentiary for the murder of Conrad Steenerson at Upham, is being made here through the circulation of a petition directed to the state board of pardons. The case was before the board last December, but the strong objection raised before the board at that time by the father of the dead boy, resulted in the petition being denied.

PREFERS MINNESOTA FARM TO CANADIAN NORTHWEST.

Cass Lake, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—An interesting land sale was made yesterday by M. N. Koll to John Marks of Regina, Can. Mr. Marks purchased a quarter section of land from Mr. Koll for $3,200. The interest attaches to this sale on account of the fact that Mr. Marks after several years in Canada where he owned a farm, decided that land in Northern Minnesota was preferable to Canadian land and acted upon his belief by bringing his money back from Canada and investing here.

Land sales are a frequent occurrence in Cass Lake and vicinity this spring and already prices are moving upwards.

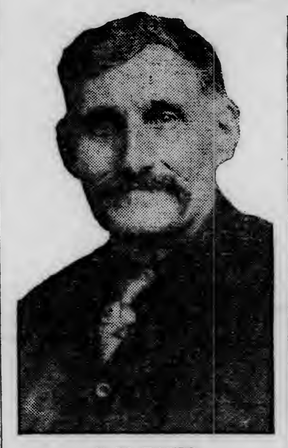
E. W. TOZER, 63 YEARS OLD, IS BAKED IN THE OVEN FOR CATARRH AND RHEUMATISM



E. W. TOZER.

I have just been cured of a severe case of catarrh and rheumatism of 12 years' standing, and I feel like a new man. My head and throat are clear and free from any sign of catarrh, and I had tried a great many remedies recommended as a cure, but without success. The Bake Oven is the greatest treatment any one can take for Catarrh. My rheumatic pains have entirely left me, and I'm not going to stop at that. I'm going to keep on taking bakes till I get my system thoroughly cleaned out; and I wish to testify to the marvelous cures Loughney & Loughney are performing with their Bake Oven treatment. They never fail. I saw people who had to be carried into the office of Loughney & Loughney, suffering terribly, and after one treatment in the Bake Oven come out smiling and surprised at the relief it gave them. Their treatments are very reasonable and within reach of all classes of people, so those who work for a living need not suffer when they can be cured so reasonably. Go there and be cured is the advice I give to my friends who are sick, and especially those who have rheumatism or catarrh.

I live at 2715 West Second street, and I'll gladly substantiate the above.
Yours truly,
E. W. TOZER.

SOME REAL INSURGENTS

Brookston Village Election Promises to Develop an Interesting Fight.

Insurgents Claim Majority If They Are All Allowed to Vote.

In the excitement attending the mobilization of one-fourth of the standing army of the United States along the frontier of Mexico one should not forget the municipal election which will be held in Brookston, Minn., next Tuesday. Brookston will elect a president, three trustees, a clerk, treasurer, constable, justice of the peace and an assessor.

The regulars are in office and are defying the insurgents to put them out. While intervention by Uncle Sam will not be necessary yet a warm time is expected on election day. There are about fifty voters in Brookston and there was some conjecture today as to which voters would be permitted to go to the polls this year. Last year there were only thirty-four votes cast. The insurgents claim that the regulars would not let about sixteen citizens exercise their right of suffrage. This year, according to W. A. Epperson, an insurgent leader, who was in Duluth today, the regulars have been advising some men that they could vote and others that they might as well remain at home or go fishing next Tuesday if the game warden was not on the job.

The insurgents went to war last year and the election was contested in the courts. There being more regular voters than insurgents the preponderance of testimony naturally was in favor of the regulars. This year the insurgents think they will win if all of the faithful are premitted to vote. They estimate their probable plurality at from ten to twelve votes. If this prediction is fulfilled Brookston can take its rightful place in the insurgent procession.

Standard Oil, Joe Bailey and the trusts are not issues in Brookston. Nobody cares anything about the Lorimer case. The burning issues in Brookston, is the administration of the funds of the municipality.

And yet Brookston is peaceable. It is said that the constable, who gets $40 a month and turns on and off the lights, has made only one arrest in several years. The offender was a woodsman, who was toting a gun in his pistol pocket.

Veto Sustained.

Des Moines, Iowa, March 10.—The Iowa house of representatives yesterday afternoon sustained Governor Carroll's veto of the Oregon primary bill. The vote was 37 in favor of sutaining the governor and 69 opposed. It would have required 72, or a two-thirds vote to have over-ruled the governor.

The first big gun in the Greater Duluth carnival was fired today when Julius H. Barnes, president of the Duluth Boat club, announced the appointment of a general carnival committee, which shall have charge of all the details of the big water fete, working hand in hand with the officials of the club and the members of the public affairs committee of the Commercial club.

Bently P. Neff heads the committee and is the general chairman with the following members: M. F. Jamar, Jr.; A. C. Pearson, Hans Haroldson, W. S. Hart, Dr. D. H. Day, W. S. Telford, Guy Warren, J. D. Mahoney and A. S. Ames.

A meeting of this committee will be called at an early date, when definite work will be started on the big carnival plan. Special committees will be appointed from this general committee, which will take up special features that are planned for the big water week.

Plans will be taken up with the public affairs committee for the city, according to the present plan, will take an active interest in the carnival. Special music and special features must be arranged for.

There will be multitudinous duties for the members of the committee, as there is a large amount of work to be done before the carnival program assumes definite shape.

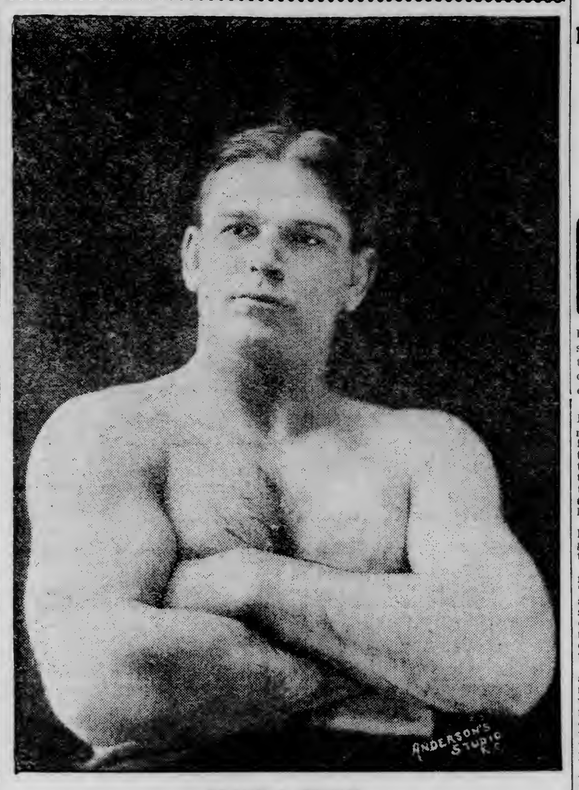
GOTCH'S MATCH WITH BEELL MAY BE LAST APPEARANCE HERE



FRANK A. GOTCH.

World's Champion Frank A. Gotch will arrive here tomorrow afternoon ready for his finish match with Fred Beell of Marshfield, Wis. The match will be the best two falls out of three.

Another contest that would under ordinary conditions be the feature of any athletic card, will be that between Jim Asbel of Kansas City, who in Columbus defeated Yankee Rogers in the match that Governor Harmon attended, and Ole Sampson of this city. Asbel also scored a victory over Ehrler, the German Giant of Columbus.

The Gotch-Hackenschmidt pictures will furnish the opening feature of the show. This show will close the local wrestling season and will naturally be the last appearance of Frank Gotch in this part of the country.

The big fellow leaves for the coast in the near future. He is booked for several finish matches there before the season ends.

TWO NEW MOTOR BOATS ORDERED FOR DULUTH

Two new motor boats for Duluth's growing fleet of fliers.

News leaked out yesterday that Julius H. Barnes would have the Erd hull and would put the engine that he used last year in his new boat into it.

Then comes "Bill" Jones. It is quite impossible to keep him away from the motor boat thing. Report says he will have a new 26-foot boat and that it is going to be one of the fastest boats at the Head of the Lakes. It is said that Jones will have a 60-horse power engine in his boat.

For some time it has been an ambition of some of the members of the club to secure a boat that would defeat the d'Autremont, Dick Schell's wonder. It is rumored that negotiations are under way for the building of a flier that would do better than thirty miles an hour. It is said that this boat will come here some time in June.

Certain it is that the coming season is destined to be the greatest ever enjoyed in the history of motor boat circles. It looks now as if some of the down river boats will come here this summer, in addition to some of the Eastern boats. Some of the people of Duluth are just beginning to awaken to the fact that this city is slowly entering the class with Peoria and Dubuque, when it comes to motor boat racing, and that in another season it is very probable that Duluth will be on the circuit and will hold one of the biggest meets ever held in the West.

But forgetting a year from now, and turning to the coming season, it can be said that several big races will be held here and that a cup will be offered shortly for an open race that is expected to bring together in St. Louis bay several of the big racers of the country.

With the appointment of the regatta committee, the ordering of a lot of circus seats for the pier at the Duluth Boat club, and a few other details as the season enters, it really begins to look as if Duluth was getting the motor boat craze right and would be the scene of some big races the coming season.

CATHOLIC BOYS WIN ANOTHER

New Athletic Club Quint Defeats Superior at Basket Ball.

Last evening the Catholic Athletic club basket ball quint defeated the picked-up team of Superior, made up of players from the Blaine high school and the Superior normal school, by a score of 22 to 8.

The Blaine Alumni quint was to have come over, but owing to a game in the Twin Cities tonight, decided not to take any chances over here.

Higgins got five baskets for Duluth and played a great game. Boyle and O'Donnell also played strong games. The Catholic boys are improving in team work and form a formidable aggregation.

The Cathedral high school team is just breaking into the basket ball circle. Last evening the cathedral boys played their first regular game of the season, meeting and defeating the second team of the Catholic club by the score of 29 to 9. Hock played a stellar game for the high school boys, and the playing of Kelly and Ahern featured.

The teams lined up as follows:

WHITE AND WOLGAST.

Chicago Boy Will Meet Champion Some Time Next Month.

Chicago, March 10.—Jack White, the local featherweight, who so decisively defeated Tommy Gary in Milwaukee recently, will meet Ad Wolgast some time next month. The match was arranged on Monday between Fred Gilmore, White's manager, and Tom Jones, who is in charge of the lightweight champion. Arrangements are under way with the Badger Athletic club of Milwaukee and satisfactory terms will probably be settled on Tuesday. The exact date for the fight has not yet been set, but it will be early in April and will be staged in the Hippodrome at Milwaukee.

Y. M. C. A. TEAM DEFEATS BIG DULUTH NINE.

The Big Duluth indoor baseball team was somewhat outclassed last evening by the strong team of the Y. M. C. A., the association players running up the score of 20 to 2 on their rivals. The game was played in the big gymnasium and was witnessed by a very large crowd.

Simpson twirled a great game for the association players, holding the clothiers helpless in his hands. He pitched about the best game he has twirled the present season, and received good support from his teammates.

In the second inning the Y. M. C. A. team made eight runs, cinching the contest beyond all doubt.

WESTERGAARD DEFEATS LEMM AT LINCOLN.

Lincoln, Neb., March 10.—Jess Westergaard won the match with John Lemm last night in one of the hardest wrestling bouts ever seen in Lincoln. Westergaard won in straight falls, but it took him one hour and nineteen minutes to get the first one and the second in thirty-three minutes.

COMMENTS AND OPINIONS ON THE SPORTING PARADE

Frank Gotch and Fred Beell in Finish Match—Knock-Out Brown's Chances—The Passing of Steinfeldt—Papke May Have to Walk Home.

(BY BRUCE.)

TOMORROW evening Duluth will witness a finish contest between two of the greatest wrestlers in the world. It is possible for Duluth to get just such a match as this because the fans of this city have shown this winter that they care for the best sport and appreciate athletic contests that bring some of the greatest athletes in the world.

True it is that in the past Gotch and Beell have wrestled a number of matches—and why? One of the reasons is that Beell is one of the few men in the world that has taken a match from the able Iowan, and another reason is that the matches wrestled between these two men in the past have proved the greatest wrestling contests that have ever been staged.

Last Monday evening, just before little Beell left for Merrill, Wis., he gave some interesting information to the writer.

"I have been one of the unluckiest fellows in the world," began Freddy. "Because I am small and am moving all the time at a very rapid clip, it seems to have been my lot to have received a lot of injuries. For a while my injuries threatened to keep me out of the game for good. Then I decided to take a whirl at the game.

"Just then there was a lot of talk about Lemm, the Swiss, one of the most magnificently built athletes in the world. He won several of the big tournaments in Europe and came to this country and issued a defi to all the wrestlers over on this side of the water. I was selected as the man to try him out, and I won the match."

Here it was that little Freddy, and when you consider his size you stare at him in awe, stated that he was one of the first, or was in fact the first American wrestler to hurl a challenge at Hackenschmidt.

It was shortly after little Beell went East and wrestled that famous private match with Tom Jenkins, then the American champion. Beell almost put Jenkins in the hospital and when the gang of betting pikers behind Jenkins saw that they were going to lose their money, for Beell was making Jenkins look foolish, they told big Tom to go in and win at any cost. He watched his opportunity and threw Fred into an iron post and saved his title by one of the most discreditable acts in the history of the sport.

At New Orleans Beell beat Gotch. Only one other American ever accomplished this after Gotch became a professional wrestler. Tom Jenkins beat Gotch in one of the most gruelling matches ever held in the country, after Gotch had thrown Tom and was robbed out of the match.

Dan McLeod beat Frank when Gotch was but a green country boy and it was necessary to put Gotch in a hospital to win the match. Beell shares the honor with Jenkins then of being really the only American wrestler to defeat Gotch, and as many of you remember, no foreigner has ever pinned the shoulders of Gotch to the canvas.

Beell has never wrestled a match in his life, win or lose, that he did not give one of the greatest exhibitions of the game that has ever been given, for today this little German farmer stands as one of the greatest wrestlers in the whole big world, not barring weight, size or general disposition.

Shooting an Opinion Across.

OF late many of the fans have been asking an opinion regarding the chances of K. O Brown and one youth from Cadillac, Mich., should fate and matchmakers bring them together in a contest scheduled to travel more than the ten round distance.

Shooting one from the shoulder of true belief, let us come out at this time and state with abbreviation but not embarrassment, that in the humble opinion of one who worships the truth in the sun garden of chance, any time the boys go over the fifteen round route, Wolgast will be returned the winner and it would not in the least be surprising if he were to cause the "Knockout" Brown man to have the K. O. some place else in his record than in the cognomen department.

He may fool the ones of the West; for he may prove to be an Almar, meaning hidden treasure, not having any salted four flush in his system. From the present looks he appears to be a tough boy with lots of confidence and little imagination that the New York yellow press has not given him.

If K. O. is possessed of even one-tenth of the virtues that the New York papers have attributed to him, he has the Pilgrim looking like a Bowery bouncer with an ulcerated tooth, and is so good that he should be given a permanent position on the personal staff of prowling Parkhurst.

When the Brown bruiser gets outside of New York and fights two or three of the tough boys over the long routes, we will know something more about him and will not have to flirt with lurid imagination in arriving at some sort of conclusion as to whether he will have his dome cracked in the first real contest or will shine luridly in the role of the cracker kid.

Goodbye to You, Old "Steinny."

YESTERDAY'S press dispatches from the war correspondents at the baseball frontier told of the asking of waivers by the Chicago Cubs on the great old veteran, Harry Steinfeldt, one of the greatest infielders the mordern game has produced.

For seven years this man has played baseball for the Cubs like a man fighting rattlesnakes on enthusiasm accumulated through a copious collection of home manufactured whisky. Seven of the past years of his baseball service he has given the Chicago team, and, remember, he was supposed to be all in when he was secured from Cincinnati.

The season before the last was not as good as the season before that, and last season was about the worst season this grand player ever had in the big league, unless it be that very bumerino year he put in with the Cincy sons.

Steinfeldt's passing probably heralds the more desperate clutching of the strap hangers on the part of some of the other Cubs. The third sacker was not the only member of the brave band who showed bad moments in the world's series. The passing of a great player is always among men who have followed baseball a somewhat pathetic incident. It means the stepping aside for some younger man; some player who has not gone through the gruelling and collected the scars of battle.

Great has Steinfeldt been in his time, and valiant service has he rendered the Cubs. Great as a man has been, it does not help him one iota when the time comes that his faculties become dulled from the strife of the battle and it is found that he is growing slower, and no longer carries the fierce lust for victory in his soul.

Portly Papke May Have to Walk.

GENTLY listening for the news rumble from Australia way, we are appraised of the fact that Kewanee William Tecumseh Papke, like the other William Tecumseh, a man who seldom sleeps in the ring—has been rudely cut off from all financial connection with Hugh McIntosh of London, formerly of the Never-Never land of the hopping kangaroo.

It is said the American fighters refused to train seriously for their fights in Australia, and this fact may have had something to do with the defeat of Papke at the hands of David Copperfield Smith, who has made a bid for the fame and dollars that in the past have been associated with a champion.

Along in the same news covey comes the statement of the lack of interest of the Australians in the fights of the Americans, after it was observed that they took the fight game about as seriously as a man does a woman who trumps his ace while stating with positive assertion that Mrs. L. has false hair.

Right here it might be stated that the sooner some of the members of the fighting brigade get the idea that they might as well work and work hard for their money, just that soon they will increase the interest in the game in some quarters of the country where the game has been permitted to thrive.

If Papke refused to train seriously for his contests on the other side of the broad Pacific, whose peaceful swing may have robbed him of the ambition to fight, there can be little sympathy for him on this side of the water.

At one time he was one of the greatest of the American middleweights. After his defeat at the hands, or fists, of Smith, he will have to show the augmented Missouri gang, and he may have to walk all the way home to do it.

CLASS TEAMS COME TOGETHER

This afternoon, at the high school gymnasium, the sophomores and juniors of the high school will meet at basket ball to settle the class championship of the school. The battle promises to be one of the hardest fought games ever contested in the cl ss league, and there is a great deal of interest in the game.

Both teams are confident of the result, though so far the present season the second year men have played the fastest game. The sophomore class has captured the championship for the past three years.

The lineup:

Sophomores.	Position.	Juniors.
Harris	f.	Mars
Elder	f.	Hollenbeck, Currie
Duclett	c.	Kelly, St. Clair
Kolstad, Johnson,	g.	Olson
Kerns	g.	Cook

HACKENSCHMIDT IS ROUGH WITH ROLLER.

Wichita, Kas., March 10.—George Hackenschmidt threw Dr. Roller here twice last night, the first fall in one hour and thirty-seven minutes, the second in fourteen minutes and forty-seven seconds. Hackenschmidt threw Roller through the ropes twice and was hissed for his roughness.

ZBYSZKO WINS IN TWO STRAIGHT FALLS.

Salem, Mass., March 10.—Zbyszko, the Polish wrestler, threw George La Grange of France in two straight falls here last night. The first fall was in eighteen minutes and fifty seconds, and the second in seven minutes and forty-five seconds.

Gotch Throws Eberg.

Winnipeg, Man., March 10.—Frank Gotch took two straight falls from George Eberg, a Swiss, in twenty-one and twelve minutes, respectively.

May Cancel Games.

Unless the weather gets colder, officials of the City Hockey league will cancel the championship series and the season will end with the Adams, Big Duluths and Kodaihpas tied for the leadership. At the present time the prospects are not very bright for the finishing of the season.

BLOOD TROUBLES

CONSTITUTIONAL INFECTION

Constitutional Blood Poison is the most insidious of all diseases. It begins in an insignificant manner, usually the appearance of a tiny sore being the only outward evidence of its presence. But down in the blood the treacherous infection is at work, and in a short time its chain of symptoms begin to crop out. The mouth and throat ulcerate, skin eruptions break out, sores and ulcers appear on the body, the glands in the groin swell, and sometimes the hair comes out. Mineral medicines cannot cure Constitutional Blood Poison; they only shut the disease up in the system to smoulder and await an opportunity of breaking out afresh. The only possible way to cure the disease is to REMOVE the germs from the blood. S. S. S. goes into the blood, and while removing the infection makes the blood pure, fresh and healthy. This causes a general upbuilding of the entire system, and when S. S. S. has made a cure there is no return of the hideous symptoms. S. S. S. is made entirely of vegetable matter, containing not the least particle of mineral in any form. It is a perfectly safe medicine and a certain cure for blood poison. We have a Home treatment book which we will be glad to send free to all who write and request it, also any medical advice without charge.

SOME EARLY DANDELIONS FROM THE SPORTING GARDEN

"The trotting turf is in need of reformation in one regard," contends Henry M. Jones, Lexington, a noted Kentucky horseman.

"In early closing events one horse is allowed to outclass the field, to continue through the entire circuit winning the lion's share of the purses. I think some plan should be adopted to remedy this evil."

In 1875 Yale professors wouldn't believe that a baseball could be curved. The highbrows laughed so loud at the idea that Avery, Yale pitcher, demonstrated. "Laughing at me, they said that it was against the law of gravity. We showed 'em. My catcher stood behind a tree. We couldn't see each other, but the ball curved around the trunk, to the amazement of the 'profs.'

"Mann, a Princeton pitcher, was the first college player to use the curve. Batters thought he was crazy. They couldn't figure out at first why they couldn't hit the ball.

Columbia won the Eastern basket ball championship. Final standing of the teams:

Teams.	Won	Lost.	Pct.
Columbia	7	1	.875
Pennsylvania	5	3	.625
Cornell	4	4	.500
Yale	3	5	.375
Princeton	1	7	.125

The stars of the trotting turf may engage in a special match at Kalamazoo on July 20.

Soprano (2.07), Joan (2.04¼), Hallworthy, (2.05), Penisa Maid (2.04¾), Silly Burke (2.06¾), Dudie Archdale (2.06¾), and The Harvester (2.01), are the horses.

Shortstop Moore, who batted .278 in the Three I league last year, is the only Cincinnati player who hasn't signed his contract. Bill Burns and Tom Downey agreed to Griff's terms at Hot Springs.

"I will not pitch a single game this year until I am physically ready," says Russell Ford of the New York Americans.

"When I go in I want to be right on edge. Then there can be no excuses, and I'll come pretty near winning every game I pitch."

Last year Ford won twenty-six and lost six.

In 1884 Old Hoss Radbourne pitched 76 of the 112 games on Providence's schedule and won 66.

When Matt Wells, the English lightweight champion, entered the ring with Freddie Welch he had just $300 in the bank. A few hours later he received $5,000 as his share of the purse.

Eddie Grant is a graduate of Harvard college, as well as Harvard law school. "I learned all my ball playing on the lots," says Eddie. "Never played on the varsity nine or risked my neck on the varsity eleven."

One of the scribes at Hot Springs is a Seventh Day Adventist. He refers to Sunday as the "seventh day of the week."

As a town lot booster, Carl Morris, the pride of Sapula, is an unqualified success, even if he doesn't cut a wide swath in the fistic arena.

In England the prize fighter associates with lords and "belted earls." His social position is much securer than it is in America. The aristocracy patronizes the prize ring.

"I ain't goin' ter fight Mistah Langford until I is ready," declared Jack Johnson in California the other day. "I ain't desirous of fightin' anybody in England, and as for France I know nothin'. Mebbe they'll let me fight somebody out here on the coast after the lawmakers gets through their labors. I'd like to muss Mistah Langford right here in Frisco. If not here mebbe Louis Blot could arrange it for the little Mexican town he's grabbed near the Southern border. Jack Johnson is wise to England, where the dukes and earls and lords and nabobs thinks Mistah Langford is a prince and a champion."

Hot Springs pitchers are experimenting with the "forked ball." The delivery is said to rival the famous "spitter." Only twirlers with large hands can control the new curve. The ball is held between the index and second fingers. This position gives to it the name "forked ball." The ball is said to break something on the style of the "spitter," but drops quicker and shoots more to one side. None of the pitchers have succeeded in mastering it as yet to the degree of perfect control, but that credence is given to the story is proved by the number who are trying to.

"I'll try just as hard to defeat the other teams in the National league as I do the Phillies," says George McQuillan. "I will expend every ounce of my energy to justify Griff's confidence in me. You bet I will do my best for the Rediegs."

"Let well enough alone" is one of the mottoes of the successful manager. "Don't break up winning combinations to experiment or to please the fickle fans" is another. For these reasons Manager Chance of Chicago will hesitate about putting another player in Harry Steinfeldt's place. Harry helped the Cubs win four pennants and two world championships. That's recommendation enough for any manager.

When arrogant minor league managers suspend ballplayers, they must write Secretary Farrell of the National association, Auburn, N. Y., the reasons therefor. This is a new ruling.

Murphy, Oldring, Hartsel, Lord and Strunk are the five candidates for Connie Mack's outfield. Murphy and Oldring are fixtures. Hartsel, Lord and Strunk will have to fight for the other berth.

If Hugh McIntosh will hang up a $10,000 purse, Packy McFarland and Matt Wells will contest for the English lightweight championship.

Soccer football is gaining ground in the Eastern colleges. Harvard is especially enthusiastic about the sport. The Crimson recently printed:

"Association football possesses all the essentials of true sport. In addition, the game certainly offers men without previous experience or special bodily endowments an unrivaled opportunity for healthful exertion and real enjoyment. This opportunity should appeal particularly to that large group of men who for divers reasons get no regular exercise."

PLAYGROUND FOR WEST END

Petition Asking Park Board to Buy Land Opposite Adams School.

A playground is wanted at the West end for the children who live in the vicinity of the Adams school, Seventeenth avenue west and Superior street. Youngsters in this neighborhood have no place to play, except in the streets and then they are endangering their lives, it is claimed.

The nearest playground to the Adams school now is at Lincoln park. A recreation spot is wanted nearer to the school, as the Lincoln park playgrounds are too far away for most of the small children.

A petition will probably be circulated asking that the park board secure the property on the lower side of Superior street opposite the Adams school to be used for a playground. In the winter time, it could be easily converted into a skating rink and in the summer time fitted up with the usual playground apparatus.

IS RUN OVER BY SWITCH ENGINE

West End Man Loses Arm as Result of Accident.

William Brown, aged 22, a West end young man, was run over by a switch engine in the Northern Pacific yards at Eighteenth avenue west late yesterday afternoon. He lost his right arm at the shoulder. The injured member was amputated at the hospital by Dr. A. J. Braden. Brown may not recover from the accident, although today he was conscious.

Brown is not a railroad employe and as there were no eye witnesses to the affair, no one but Brown knows the circumstances which led up to the accident. Brown refuses to tell how he happened to be in the yards. The trainmen, who picked him up, believe that he was jumping cars in the yard at the time.

Brown lives on Twenty-ninth avenue west.

Mrs. Johnson Dies.

Mrs. Helen Johnson, aged 43, wife of Victor Johnson, died of Bright's disease last evening at her home, 1016 Garfield avenue. She had been ill for some time and her death was not unexpected.

She is survived by her husband and three children, all of whom reside in Duluth. No funeral arrangements have been made as yet.

Connolly Funeral.

The funeral of Mrs. J. A. Connolly, aged 25, who died Wednesday afternoon at St. Mary's hospital, will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock from the St. Clement's Catholic church with burial in Calvary cemetery. Her husband is a Northern Pacific engineer. She is also survived by a 9-month-old baby, her mother, Mrs. Cohen, one sister, Mrs. Lanning, and three brothers, John, Lester and Leo Cohen, all of this city. Mrs. Connolly lived at No. 9 Miller's flats.

West End Briefs.

The degree team of the local lodge, Order of Vasa, United Swedish Sons of America, entertained at a dancing party last evening at Columbia hall. This was the first of a series of private dances to be given this season. About 100 couples were in attendance.

North Star lodge, No. 11, Independent Order of Good Templars entertained at a basket social last evening at Sloan's hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street. The proceeds will go towards the fund laid aside for expenses incidental to the state convention this summer in Duluth.

J. H. Finke, a former merchant at Twenty-fifth avenue west and Second street, returned Wednesday from Denver, Colo. Mrs. Finke and children will remain at Denver for an indefinite period in the hope that a change of climate will benefit her health.

Mrs. Charles Ball of 2721 West Second street is back from a visit to Minneapolis.

Mr. and Mrs. James McMillan of 315 Chestnut street are parents of a daughter, born Wednesday.

Miss Ellen Dempsey of St. Paul, is visiting friends in the West end for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. John Eckman of the Greeley apartments, Twenty-third avenue west, have returned from a visit at Eau Claire.

A Men's club will be organized at a banquet which will be held this evening at the Grace M. E. church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street. Among the speakers will be Dr. M. S. Rice and W. L. Smithies.

Have Beautiful Hair.

Soap and water if used too frequently will spoil any head of hair. The best hair treatment is a dry shampoo made as follows: Get six ounces of pulverized orris root and two ounces of vilane powder. Mix thoroughly and keep in a tight box or jar. At night apply a heaping tablespoonful to the hair; distribute with the fingers all through the hair to the scalp. Next day comb and brush until all trace is removed and as a result any man or woman will have beautiful fluffy hair.

This removes dirt, surplus oil, dandruff, etc. It is the best thing ever devised for excessively "greasy" hair.

Many Easterners now use it regularly. Men use it daily and ladies one to three times a week.

Best in Twenty Years:

Mr. J. A. DEPENDENT ON WEST DULUTH RESERVOIR FOR WATER SUPPLY

Duluth reservoir, which should supply the city for about twenty-four hours, although there will be decreasing pressure, which will bring more of the hillside into the "dry" belt as the day advances.

The middle system tanks, holding 360,000 gallons in all, were full this morning, but the supply will probably give out towards evening and all of the territory above Third or Fourth street in the central part of the city, and Woodland also, will be out of water.

The reservoir at Fifteenth avenue east was empty this morning and no relief can be looked for from there. The West Duluth reservoir, with a twelve-inch main running from it for part of the distance, will have to be depended upon.

Lakeside and the East end district east of Twenty-seventh avenue east are supplied from the reservoir at Thirty-fourth avenue east and, being nearer the pumping station than the break, they are in no danger of being included in the "dry" territory.

Proctor is out of water, pumping to that village having been stopped. Nobody is considering the contingency of a fire breaking out. In that case, the water supply would be quickly exhausted and it is doubtful if there would be water enough to fight a fire if one should break out toward evening. There is trouble enough, in the opinion of the water and light department officials, without courting it in worrying about fire.

The break is in the big thirty-six-inch cast iron pipe and was probably caused by a stone in the bed of the pipe. All possible speed is being put on in replacing the broken section, and if there is no hitch in the work, the system will be in operation as usual some time during the night.

The contingency is one that was provided for in the bond issue which the department was unable to sell last year. Under the $300,000 issue voted this year, a sixteen-inch main will be provided to the West Duluth reservoir and a 5,000,000-gallon reservoir will be built for the middle system, so that a supply of water for four or five days will always be on hand. As it is, the shutting down of the pumping station for one day inconveniences a part of the city.

by the domination of the brewers. Mr. Kneeland resented this as an insinuation that those who voted against the bill were working for the brewers, and he criticised Nolan sharply for his remarks, saying that so far as he could see, about all Nolan had done thus far was to raise a mist and make a noise intended for the ears of his constituents.

Representative Nolan said that he had made no charge against any members of the house, but that every member knew that the breweries had had an active lobby around the house for two weeks.

Speaker Dunn rose to remark that if any lobbyists, for or against the saloons, got within the reach of his gavel they could be cleaned out.

Before the 20 per cent amendment was adopted, Representative Moriarity proposed to make it 35 per cent, as it was in the original Pfaender bill, but his motion was lost.

Representative Morton, Prohibitionist, hopefully proposed a compromise at 15 per cent, but that was lost by the narrow vote of 55 for and 57 against.

The house adopted an amendment by Representative Hopkins cutting out the provision allowing the legislature to refer measures to the people, on the ground that by these means the legislatures might evade responsibility by passing all ticklish measures on to the people.

Representative Knutson wanted to require that measures and constitutional amendments initiated by the people must get a majority of those voting at the election instead of a mere majority of those voting on the propositions, but his amendment was lost, 31 to 39.

The house adopted an amendment by Representative Kneeland, providing that constitutional amendments must first be proposed by a majority vote of the people and then submitted for adoption by the people.

At noon Representative Pfaender, saying that there were indications that the house would get together, moved a recess to consider other pending amendments, together with the effect of those already adopted.

The house this morning unanimously repassed the Bob Dunn good roads bills as amended by the senate and they now go to Governor Eberhart, who will sign them.

Senator Boyle of Eveleth this morning introduced the bills requested by the Associated Charities of Duluth, which have been published in full in The Herald, and Representative Knapp will offer them in the house.

Senator Boyle introduced a bill providing for change of venue from one municipal court to another, when there are two or more in a county. This is for the benefit of iron range people who do not wish to be sued in the municipal courts of Duluth or other communities in the county, and gives them a chance to have suits tried in their nome towns or in the nearest municipal court.

The senate passed the following bills:

The house bill allowing street railways to contract for lower rates for mail carriers; the Klemer house resolution approving the non-partisan tariff commission; the Rockne senate bill providing for extending payments of street assessments over ten years; the Knapp house bill allowing Duluth to trade park and playground property for other property to be used for similar purposes.

The following bills came into the senate:

Railroad committee—Requiring railroads to keep their accounts so that the cost of running trains and the proportion of intrastate to interstate business may be ascertained by the state.

Committee on railroads—Acquiring railroads to submit all plans for block signal system to the railroad commission.

Senator Ahmann—Providing life certificates without further examination to teachers of twenty-five years' standing.

Senator Pauly—Giving cities of the first-class the right to establish special schools for habitual truants.

Senator Pauly—Providing that no children between 14 and 16 can be employed in factories, mines, etc., except by permission of the state labor commissioner.

NO INTERVENTION ASKED BY GERMANY

Does Not Propose to Meddle With Affairs in Mexico.

Berlin, March 10.—In reply to current reports that the German government asked for American intervention in Mexico or that it proposes to take independent measures to protect German interests and German subjects in that country, Baron von Kiderlen Waechter, secretary of state for foreign affairs, today authorized the Associated Press to state that Germany has made no representations to Washington on the subject and does not contemplate taking any steps in the matter.

It is officially and explicitly affirmed that this government has not received any intimations from its legation or consulates in Mexico upon which a request for intervention or independent steps to protect German interests there could be founded. No question involving a violation of the Monroe doctrine has been raised.

The official attitude toward the situation is reflected in an editorial in the Vossische Zeitung today. The paper says:

"Germany, like other states, can with tranquility entrust the protection of its great mercantile interests in Mexico to the discretion of the United States. It has no other interests there."

LIMITATION OF ARMAMENTS

International Police Bureau Sends Out Circulars on the Question.

Berne, Switzerland, March 10.—The international police bureau, of which the United States is a member, on Wednesday last sent a circular letter to the foreign ministry of all the powers concerning the question of the limitation of armaments, as proposed in the resolution adopted by the American congress, and which authorized the president to appoint a commission to study the subject.

The bureau calls the attention of the government's address to the text of this resolution, and quotes President Taft as saying in his message to congress on Dec. 6 that he had delayed nominating the members of this commission because he was awaiting the expressions of foreign governments as to their willingness to co-operate with the United States in the appointment of similar commissions.

The heads of the foreign offices are urged to do all in their power to have their governments reply favorably to the proposals of the United States, and to assist that government in a movement which it has initiated. The bureau adds that the appeal is supported by a great number of peace societies.

Allments of Men Happily Overcome

SUCCESSFULLY TRIED BY MANY.

Undoubtedly the following prescription will work wonders for that great class of men who, through dissipation of their natural strength, find themselves in their "second childhood" long before the three score and ten allotted to life's pleasures and enjoyments are reached.

It is presumed to be infallible, and highly efficient in quickly restoring in "nervous exhaustion," weak vitality, melancholia and the functions.

First get fifty cents' worth of compound fluid balmwort in a one-ounce package, and three ounces syrup sarsaparilla compound; take home, mix and let stand two hours; then get one ounce compound essence cardiol and one ounce tincture cadomene compound (not cardamom). Mix all in a six or eight ounce bottle, shake well, and take one teaspoonful after each meal and one when retiring followed by a drink of water.

By mixing it at home no man need be the wiser as to another's shortcomings, and expensive fees are avoided.

Lack of poise and equilibrium in men is a constant source of embarrassment even when the public least suspects it. For the benefit of those who want a restoration to full bounding health, and all the happiness accompanying it, the above home treatment is given. It contains no opiates or habit-forming drugs whatever. Mix it at home and no one will be the wiser as to your affliction.

REPORTS ARE CONFLICTING

Hard to Tell Whether Firemen Went on Strike or Not.

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 10.—With exactly opposite reports emanating from the union and railroad headquarters here today, an accurate estimate of the result of the strike order sent last night to white firemen of the Cincinnati, New Orleans & Texas Pacific railroad was impossible.

The brotherhood officials claimed that the order had been generally observed, while at the office of T. C. Powell, vice president of the road, it was said that there had been no interruption of service and that no reports of train delays due to the strike had been received.

The men are striving to have negro firemen excluded from fast freight and passenger runs.

That the strike may spread shortly to other lines was hinted at union headquarters today.

LYCEUM — Mack-Leone Players in "Cameo Kirby."
ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
ODEUM and LYRIC—Photoplay.

Green Room Gossip.

The Mack-Leones will appear tomorrow afternoon in a matinee performance of "Cameo Kirby." Next week "The Morals of Marcus" will be the bill.

The play is a stage version of the famous novel by William J. Locke. It is a story of London life. Willard Mack will be seen in the role of Marcus, who falls in love with Carlotta, who has been left friendless and penniless in London.

Judging from the box office figures, the present week's bill at the Orpheum is the most popular since the Christmas week program. The audiences have been the largest this year, and the most enthusiastic.

Bert Coote, who is presenting the feature act on this week's bill, will headline the opening bill of the new Winnipeg Orpheum theater. The Winnipeg theater will be opened Monday evening and Mr. Coote and the members of his company will leave here Sunday morning. The majority of the acts for the Winnipeg house will in probability be routed through Duluth.

There will be but three more performances of this week's bill, this evening, tomorrow afternoon and evening. Next week's bill will be featured by another comedy sketch presented by W. H. Murphy, Blanche Nichols & Company, and entitled "From Zaza to Uncle Tom."

A special Saturday matinee will be given at both the Lyric and Odeum theaters tomorrow afternoon. The Saturday matinees are intended to appeal especially to the women shoppers, who are looking for some place to spend an hour or so resting, during the afternoon's shopping. The photoplay theaters are appealing to them in increasing numbers.

Facts About Motherhood

The experience of Motherhood is a trying one to most women and marks distinctly an epoch in their lives. Not one woman in a hundred is prepared or understands how to properly care for herself. Of course nearly every woman nowadays has medical treatment at the time of child-birth, but many approach the experience with an organism unfitted for the trial of strength, and when the strain is over her system has received a shock from which it is hard to recover. Following right upon this comes the nervous strain of caring for the child, and a distinct change in the mother results.

LYDIA E PINKHAM

There is nothing more charming than a happy and healthy mother of children, and indeed child-birth under right conditions need be no hazard to health or beauty. The unexplainable thing is that, with all the evidence of shattered nerves and broken health resulting from an unprepared condition, women will persist in going blindly to the trial.

It isn't as though the experience came upon them unawares. They have ample time in which to prepare, but they, for the most part, trust to chance and pay the penalty.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy, and strong.

Any woman who would like special advice in regard to this matter is cordially invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass. Her letter will be held in strict confidence.

WOMAN'S REALM.

"The Enchanted Garden," a little fairy tale in operetta form, under the direction of Mrs. Stryker, will be presented at the Glen Avon Presbyterian church next Friday evening under the auspices of the Sunday school department of the church as a social entertainment for the people of that community.

The tale was written by Mrs. Stryker and the scene is laid in a rose garden. About forty children of the Sunday school will take part in the entertainment, appearing as fairies. Rehearsals have been going on encouragingly and preparations are being made for attractive decorations.

ARTISTIC PLAY

Is Presented By Pupils of the Nettleton School.

The children of the Nettleton school who took part in the little operetta, "Snow-White and the Seven Dwarfs," which was given last evening at the assembly room of that building, played their parts exceptionally well and the music was excellently rendered. A large audience of parents and friends were delighted with the affair, which was produced under the auspices of the Nettleton School Choral society, led by the following officers: President, Miss Elsie Mapp; vice president, Miss Dorothy Close; treasurer, Miss Florence Robinson; and secretary, Carl Jackson. Mrs. Harriet M. Hoover is the principal of the school.

The play is a production of a fairy tale and was artistically staged. Scene 1 was the celebration of Snow-White's birthday. Scene 2 was in the forest. Snow-White's life is spared and the prince, who is lost in the forest, is met by the forest people. Scene 3 showed the interior of the dwarfs' house and the wicked queen disguised and trying to eat Snow-White's life, and scene 4, near the young prince's palace, showed the wedding of Snow-White and the prince.

The parts were sung by the following: Dorothy M. Close, Mary A. Nelson, Hartwiek Nelson, Rudolph Lilja, Carl Johnson, Mitchell Spearin, Eugene Steen, Henry Fish, Irving Auld, Arliss Heltke, Oscar Nelson, Gladys Terry, Blanche Porter, Ellen Wipson, Alma Halseth, Ida Miller, Belle Nelson, Goldie Levine, Bessie Harris, Margaret Rones, Elsie Mapp.

CHILDREN'S GARDENS.

Will Form Partnership to Raise Flowers and Vegetables.

C. E. Roe stirred up a good deal of enthusiasm among the boys and girls of the Salter school this morning in a talk on home-gardening, which he gave before about 150 students of the upper classes there. He told them about the planting of seeds some of which must be done in a week or two and about the care of the plants and vegetables after they are sprouted.

This talk is part of a plan which is being worked out at the school to encourage the raising of flowers and garden vegetables among the young folks and prizes have been offered to be awarded next fall at an exhibition which will be held there.

Many of the young folks are planning to go into partnership for the raising and care of their gardens and expect to raise some fine vegetables.

A. B. Hostetter will give the second talk of the course next Tuesday morning at the school at 8:30 o'clock and any outsiders who are interested are invited to attend.

THE EVENING STORY

BEHIND THE PALMS

By Wilfrid L. Randell.

He had married, much to the surprise of his friends, a woman many years younger than himself, and, with the arrogance of stalwart and unyielding age, he fully believed that to her he embodied all the vitality of youth combined with the intellectual aggrandizement of maturity.

In his quiet study of an evening she would read to him, and when from her visits to her friends—visits which he found slightly uncongenial on the rare occasions when he accompanied her—she returned with eyes merrily sparkling, he would pride himself on the tact with which he had kept her his, and his only, in spite of the disparity in their ages.

"May and December" was an old fable, a contemptible sneer, which utterly broke down when confronted by a marriage such as theirs. It was the perfection of home and companionship, the life ideal.

But after three years of happiness he began to be disturbed by a growing apprehension, not of any possible flaw in their comradeship, but a danger that measured the sense from which he drew his great satisfaction, that of seeing the one who had given herself to him, of watching her little movements, of emphasizing the knowledge that so superb a woman was his own. The primitive man's idea of possession was strongly perpetuated in him.

It was a strange thing, this secret fear that, after a lifetime of toil and pleasure, had tightened upon his heart as with a slowly clenching hand. None knew of it at first, not even his wife. A short time ago she was calling aloud to him, he knew that a curtain of the filmiest gauze had fallen between her bowed head and filmself. The cluster of electric lights glowed brightly; the air of the room was clear, yet she, her book, and all objects upon which his direct gaze fell were slightly indistinct.

For weeks he went about his daily business or pleasure as usual, not daring to acknowledge to himself, much less to tell anyone else, that anything was wrong; nor had he the courage to confirm or to rout his fears by consulting a doctor; as with a victim of a deceptive disease, there were splendid hours and days when all seemed well, and his sight was perfectly good. But the weeks extended to months, and the dimness increased, until one night as his wife moved about the apartment his wistful eyes found that they could no longer distinguish even the splendor of her beauty, the delicate tint of her arms in the light.

The horror of the darkness that was to be, suddenly gripped him in its strength, and he sobbed. She came to his side instantly.

"What is it?" she whispered, frightened.

He told her, brokenly, holding her hands to his burning face desperately, as though their soft touch might have some mystical healing power.

On the following day he went to see a specialist. He should have come, the great man told him, long before, when the first suspicion of failing vision had occurred to him, even though then he might have had to wait for the development of the complaint before an operation could be performed.

Regrets, however, were of no avail now; the operation must be arranged at once, though the most favorable time for it had passed; there was only the single course to pursue. After that, a month, or perhaps two, must be spent in darkness.

It was done skillfully, and so far as the surgeon could tell, with every prospect of complete success.

Three weeks later, as he paced impatiently the length of his study, blindfolded, feeling like a caged, impotent animal, she mentioned that for once she would be out for the hour of tea—an hour which they generally spent together, chatting over the news she brought from the bright world for a space denied to him. She was dressed ready to go out, and as she touched his cheek with her lips, he stretched out his arms and held her closely to him, whispering the longing that overcame him.

"If I could only see you, Ruth—I shall be young again when this dreary night is passed."

She gently released herself with a murmured phrase of sympathy, and went to the mirror, lifting her gloved hands to her hair, rearranging her fragrant tumbled laces, delicately straightening her large hat. For a moment or two she looked at him intently. Then, giving him a quick good-bye, she was gone.

A tap sounded at the door, and a man entered calling him cheerily by name.

"My dear fellow, this is good of you," the sufferer exclaimed, advancing with hands outstretched to feel for the other hand that met his so heartily. It was Jim Merrilow, his great friend, hardly more than a youngster if you compared their ages, but a kindred spirit by his pursuits and his conversational powers. They sat talking for half an hour or more until the doctor came, when Merrilow took his leave, pleading an engagement. The doctor, after an examination, pronounced favorably, and finishing by thinning the bandage, fitting on a pair of dark, almost black, spectacles, and telling him to come out for a drive.

"Glorious day—my carriage is outside," said the jolly little man in his brusque, pleasant way. "Brisk east wind, by jove; it makes even my eyes water; but we shall be all right inside the carriage. We'll drive you around by the park, then I'll drop you at the Royal for a cup of tea in their palm court, and call for you in an hour after I've been farther on. No nonsense now; it will be better for you than moping in here."

And paying no heed to the remonstrances of his patient at the idea of appearing in public, decorated so curiously, the doctor led him downstairs and drove off with him, chattering.

"Why," he averred, "your own wife wouldn't recognize you; besides, you can retire into a corner like the young couples do, and pretend to read the paper if you are so touchy about your looks."

In the spacious court of the hotel the doctor placed his friend at a little table. Sheltered effectively behind the huge, shady leaves of an immense palm from the observation of the crowd; then he hustled off on the last few of his professional visits. The man pathetically held a paper before him, and occasionally made as if to read it, but he need not have troubled—the dark green spikes screened him well, and he was practically unnoticed.

Laughter and conversation, musical and happy, gently dispersed his reverie. A couple strolled up and took their seats behind him on the other side of the high-backed lounge which he occupied. They were chatting gaily, with the quick give and take repartee which implies the red blood, full and coursing, the head clear, the eyes dashing and indiscreet. The voice which he heard first was his wife's; the second one betrayed itself as Merrilow's deep baritone.

He started for a moment, then recollected and smiled. Of course, they had met in the city; often Ruth and he had run against Merrilow when out together, and doubtless today Jim had asked her if she would join him over a cupt of tea.

Well, old Jim was a fine fellow; it was just the sort of thing he would do, and it was decent of him anyway. He half turned to push back the drooping leaves, lean around the edge of the lounge and disclose himself; but the two went on talking and he hesitated. Afterwards, he was never sure whether to be glad or sorry for that moment's pause.

"You were late, Jim."

"Yes; I went up to see your husband."

"You did?"

"I stayed with him for quite half an hour."

"Jim, you're just sweet. Thoughtful old boy. He doesn't—"

"Not a bit. How could he? That's why I went, darling—to make sure. He's safely boxed up for two or three weeks yet, and we want—"

"Make hay while the sun shines."

Merrilow laughed. The waiter came to them for orders, and the man behind them sat still, bloodless and tingling.

When their conversation was resumed it sounded to him as though it came to him from an immense distance.

"He seemed pleased to have me call on him."

"Yes? It must be deadly slow for him, poor old chap."

"And not able to—see you."

The man behind shivered a little at the tone of that last word.

"Jim, you mustn't say these things just now, dear. I can't stand it." Her voice was unsteady. "You are magnetic this afternoon; your touch thrills me—too much. Unbutton my gloves, will you?"

Drawing off her long gloves, she spoke a little breathlessly.

"Give me some tea, Jim. I feel upset, and it's you."

They took their seats almost in silence, and the listener imagined the eloquences of more than speech, subtle meanings that words could never convey, that might be passing in glances hardly veiled, touches scarcely felt—yet felt how keenly. His hand shook and the paper which he still held mechanically rustled. Merrilow peered around.

"Only some old chap sitting with his back to us," he said, in answer to his companion's lifted eyebrows. "He's reading; he can't have heard us."

Presently the large court gradually became less populous, and twilight began to fall. They rose to depart, discussing a meeting which Merrilow proposed for the following week. He helped her with her cloak, and as she leaned back, her voice came once more to the listener:

"Until Thursday, dear." A minute afterwards they were gone.

The lights were switched on, red and gold in a glamor of green, and the man behind the palm felt their glow, although he could not see them. He waited here as one who sits by a burnt-out fire brooding.

A sentence of the doctor's kept echoing in his brain—"Five minutes of this wind, with your eyes exposed, would blind you for life." He shuddered at the thought, involuntarily, when the words were spoken, but somehow it brought a kind of fascination with it now. In the revulsion of feeling, caused by the bitterness of his disillusion, he distinguished one thought clearly—he did not want to see her again. If he looked in that face, knowing the false heart that its loveliness refused to portray, could he bear the pain? Never to see her again—to live and brood in the dreams of the past happy years, to think of her as she was once; somehow this seemed a solace. And the beautiful world, that did not matter now.

He took off the clumsy black glasses and put them in his pocket; then he removed the bandage, hardly daring to open his eyes. When he did so the agony of the sudden radiance, prematurely given to the quivering nerves, flooded his consciousness; he winced and almost cried out aloud; but within a few minutes he found out that he could perceive the moving forms of the waiters, the tables and lounges, and the gloomy, arching leaves of the plants. He rose, paid his trifling bill, receiving some coin as change that he could not distinguish, and walked unsteadily to the entrance of the hotel.

Like the low pedal-note of an organ sustained and murmurous, the reverberant diapson of the traffic swelled in as the silent revolving panels were swung round for him. That, and the thousand shifting lights, made his brain reel. He grew confused; but through the riot and blur of his thoughts ran one rebellious purpose. He bade the attendant whistle up a hansome.

"Drive," he said, speaking coherently by an effort, "drive up and down the Embankment till I tell you to stop. And drive quickly."

Full square in the center he sat, his eyes wide open and throbbing. Down through Whitehall the horse clipped steadily, until at the curve of Westminster, it swung him into the bleak east wind. Knives seemed to be cutting his face, penetrating his burning eyeballs, but he made no movement.

To and fro the cab whirled at a swift pace. A blackening vapor crushed him, and the lamps of the shadowy cars as they passed dwindled to mere points.

Half an hour went by. The lamps vanished in universal gloom. Then, giving the driver his address, he leaned back with a strange and sullen calm at his heart—blind.

OCCUPIES SEAT IN "GOLDEN HORSESHOE"

MRS. OTTO KAHN.

Mrs. Otto Kahn is the wife of the principal director of the Metropolitan opera house. Mrs. Kahn was Addie Wolff, daughter of a very wealthy New York banker. Through his marriage to her and her wealth, Mr. Kahn became a commanding figure in Wall street. He is a director in many railroads and member of a great banking house. Mrs. Kahn is one of the most beautiful of the young matrons who sit in the "Golden Horseshoe" at the Metropolitan.

Take a plain cake tin or mould—i. e., one that has no pattern on it. Brush the bottom of the mould over very slightly with a little salad oil. Line it round the sides with some savory biscuits that have had a small piece cut off one end and the curved sides cut straight so that they fit closely together. The biscuits should not stand up above the mould. Decorate the bottom of the mould with glace cherries, angelica or chopped pistachio nuts. Now make a plut of blanc mange. Put a quart of milk on the fire to boil with one pinch of cinnamon or a little lemon rind, and two ounces of loaf sugar. As soon as the milk is sufficiently flavored with the cinnamon or lemon, take it out. Put into a basin four large tablespoonfuls or corn flour; mix it with enough extra milk to make it smooth and thin. When the milk boils pour in the corn flour, stirring it all the time. Let it boil gently eight minutes, then stir it till it is just beginning to set, then pour it quickly into the middle of the biscuits. If it was poured in whilst still unset, it would run between the biscuits and show in white lines when turned out. Let the blanc mange in the middle of the biscuit get quite cold, then turn out carefully. It will slip out quite easily. Serve with little heaps of colored jam around, or boiled custard.

Now and then you will see a gown in which the two sleeves are different, an inconsistency that is quite consistent when the two sides of the dress are made of different materials.

SOFT COAL LAW GOOD

Minneapolis Ordinance Prohibiting Its Use in Switch Engines Upheld.

Blindpiggers Must Not Kick If Their Stock Is Destroyed.

St. Paul, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The supreme court this morning dealt the railroads a blow, upholding the Minneapolis city ordinance prohibiting the use of soft coal in switch engines. The case was brought on an appeal by the St. Paul road from a fine of $25 imposed when a switch engine was caught puffing vigorously.

The road maintained that the city does not have the right to limit the sort of coal, that is discriminating, anyway, because stationery engines may use the coal prohibited in switch engines, and the supply of hard coal is rapidly disappearing.

The court upholds the city at practically every point. The court says that the validity of a city ordinance does not depend upon expediency, but whether the measure is within the legislative power.

The ordinance does not enforce the use of hard coal, smokeless soft coal being permitted, but the use of the soft coal which the roads have been burning must stop.

Blindpigger Must Not Complain.

The owner of a blindpig must not complain, if, in addition to a heavy fine, his stock of drinkables is also seized, if a decision of the supreme court this morning is a good criterion. Hans Hanson, in Clearwater county, was fined $100, and in lieu of the fine went to jail for ninety days. The warrant for his arrest included a search warrant and about $600 worth of beer, whisky and glasses were taken and later destroyed when the district court affirmed the action of the justice who issued the warrant.

The supreme court affirms the lower court and says that the actions fell within the police power of the state and the total punishment was not excessive.

CURIOUS CHURCHES.

One of the most extraordinary and fantastic Christian places of worship in the world is the cathedral of Moscow, strange not only in outline and conception but even stranger in its history.

No one knows the architect's name, but the story goes that the czar ordered his eyes to be put out directly the church was completed so that he should never be able to surpass his work.

The idea of the building, says a writer in the Strand, was inspired by the wickedest and maddest monarch who ever sat on a throne—Ivan the Terrible, czar of Muscovy.

The church is known as Vasili Blajenni, or Blessed Basil, and is named after a half-witted vagrant monk who for some strange reason was almost the only person in the empire that the czar feared.

Although every one else trembled before Ivan, Vasili Blajenni would flout him, call him "Ivashka," or "Bad little Ivan," and, most daring of all, would try to protect the victims of the czar's fury. He and another friar of the same calibre named Ivan the Idiot are buried in two memorial chapels beneath the cathedral.

The architecture is in every respect extravagant and barbaric and the coloring is garish in the extreme. It has nine chapels, roofed by nine cupolas, each different and each stranger than the other. One resembles a pineapple, another a melon, a third is said to ape a hedgehog in its appearance, and the rest are more or less grotesque. Some are gilt, others are painted in brilliant hues.

Indeed the only description is that it is a nightmare of a church, the fitting legacy of a ruler who grilled his counsellors in frying pans and clothed his subjects in bearskins in order that trained dogs might worry and tear them to pieces.

Another freakish place of worship is the Church of the Holy Trinity at Baura, in upper Austria. It is built in the form of a triangle and stands on a little hill approached by a winding ascent. If you examine it you will find that everything possible has been done to glorify and commemorate the Three in One.

It has three fronts, three towers, three doors and three windows. Inside there are three altars, three organs and three sacristies. The walls are decorated with three different kinds of marble and the church cost $33,333 florins to build.

Among other luxuries on the trains of the Trans-Siberian railway are chapels which are attached to the principal expresses. Priests travel with these moving churches. The chapels are quite elaborate, panelled with beautiful woods, lavishly decorated and gilded. They are intended not alone for the use of passengers, but at an appointed hour on Sundays the train halts at a wayside station and the peasants living in the neighborhood flock to the service.

JAPANESE COLONISTS.

The most significant feature of the Japanese policy today is its colonization program. On the outskirts of the empire a new race of Japanese is in the making, shaped by the same forces, says a writer in the American Review of Reviews, that have made the pioneers of every zone notable as the most adaptable, open minded and liberty loving of men.

The 50,000,000 population of the empire is being annually augmented by a net increase of 500,000 Japanese. For centuries the population of the main and southern islands has been a "saturnated solution." A given number die and their room is at once reoccupied, but after these are all replaced that 500,000 surplus remains each year without provision.

The expedient most readily hit upon was to aid the emigration of the overcrowded to other countries. Opposition blocked this program, however, immediately in New Zealand and Australia and a little later in the United States and Canada. Thousands entered Mexico and Chile, but the condition of the emigrant was there far less desirable.

Various commissions appointed by parliament were despatched to the Hokkaido, Formosa, Sakhalin, Corea and Manchuria to look the land over and report to Tokio. With much of junketing, more or less questioning of local officers and some personal investigation these groups of colony cruisers returned and Tokio was advised that the Hokkaido could support 10,000,000 additional inhabitants; that Sakhalin was a lean land and her quota must be reckoned only in hundreds of thousands; that Formosa when tamed would absorb specified millions; Corea other millions, and the vast millet plains and forest clearings of Manchuria would accommodate so many millions more.

Wherefore without overforcing the development of these sections, the 500,000 annual emigration on which the computation was based could be placed for fifty years where it would be far more easily within the reach and control of the government, and where it would involve no unpleasant arrangements and possible embroilment with any of the other powers.

MAINE MAN KILLS BLACK FOX.

Lewiston Journal: George L. Worthley of Norridgewock shot a black fox Tuesday, which is estimated to be worth from $250 to $500. Mr. Worthley thought he was on the trail of a red fox.

He had set his Kentucky fox hound on a scent, and in a few minutes after the dog had made a circuit of several miles the fox ran up close to where Mr. Worthley was on the watch. It took but one shot to kill the animal. This is the sixth black fox that has been killed or captured in Norridgewock this season. Three of them have been captured and are still alive.

NEWSBOY IS DISPOSED OF Popular Little Excursion Boat Will Run Out of Kingston, Ont.

Larger Boat Will Probably Be Secured for Local Service.

The steamer Newsboy, on which almost every person in Duluth has taken a trip up the river or around the horn at some time, will carry no more gay excursion parties on St. Louis river and bay. Next season her bow will cut the waters of the St. Lawrence river, carrying pleasure-seekers between Kingston and Cape Vincent.

H. D. Clow of the Clow & Nicholson Transportation company today confirmed the sale of the Newsboy to the Thousand Isles & River St. Lawrence Transportation company of Kingston, Ont., and as soon as the season of navigation opens the little excursion steamer will start down the lakes to the Canadian city.

The Newsboy was built in 1889, is 104 feet long and has a 22-foot beam. She is of 199 gross tons, and is chartered to carry about 350 passengers.

The little steamer will be missed on the local excursion routes. She has been in service for many years and has always been popular for outings and charters. The service of the Clow & Nicholson company will not suffer by the sale, however, for a larger boat will be purchased to run on the excursion route with the steamer Mascotte. The business has grown so in the past few years that the Newsboy was hardly large enough, and a bigger steamer, somewhat on the type of the Mascotte, will care for the large crowds traveling to Fond du Lac and around the horn.

CRITICISES THE UNITED STATES

Madero Says It Has No Right to Help Suppress Revolution.

New York, March 10.—The outward complacency, at least, of Gustave Madero, brother of Francisco I. Madero, leader of the main revolutionary movement in Mexico, did not appear to be disturbed in the slightest degree today by last night's announcement of the United States government's purpose in massing an army on the Mexican border.

Mr. Madero, at his hotel here, after reading the reports of this government's announced attitude, declared that an embargo on the transportation of arms and ammunition across the border would now make no difference to the revolutionists, but he took emphatic exception to the justice of any movement on the part of the American government that would put it in the attitude of a suppressor of the revolution or a supporter of the Diaz government.

"The United States is absolutely within its rights in taking measures to stop the smuggling of arms from this country into Mexico and to move troops as it pleases, but for it to indicate that it wants to end the revolution is leading it beyond its proper sphere and is in effect support of the Diaz government against the will of the great bulk of the Mexican people.

The United States has the right to be in readiness to interfere if there is an attack on property, but it has no right to give its active assistance in crushing the revolutionary movement.

"However," continued Mr. Madero, "any action of the United States in support of Diaz would make him still more unpopular, because the Mexican people would never accept any ruler forced upon them by a foreign power."

PARAGUAY PLACED UNDER MARTIAL LAW.

Buenos Ayres, March 10.—A dispatch from Asuncion states that the government has proclaimed Paraguay under martial law for a period of five months.

There is a revolution in Paraguay against the government of Col. Alberto Jara, who recently secured his election to the presidency and subsequently according to the rather meager reports from that country, established a dictatorship. Partisans of the deposed President Manuel Condra caused a revolt that has gained considerable strength.

THE LAZY CHILD.

Youth's Companion: In many ways the world is growing less cruel. For this we must largely thank the scientific spirit which is daily recognizing more and more of the affairs of life which belong to its department. It is coming into fashion not to kick the man who is down, but to call a committee to inquire into why he is down, and that naturally leads to helping him up. This new method is to be welcomed most of all, as it bears upon the destinies of little children.

The new scientific pedagogics no longer divides children summarily into good and bad, stupid and clever. On the contrary, it takes close cognizance of the wonderful relation between mind and body, stomach and brain, and learns thereby that persons, and above all children, are not much naturally divided into the sick or the well, the hungry or the fed, the weak or the strong.

Both in this country and in Europe investigations of this order have been made, with significant results. One fact proved by them is that there is no such thing as a "lazy" child. The normal child is interested, alert, bright-minded, full of waking curiosities about the world into which he has come and endowed with an almost unquenchable physical vivacity. What then is the matter with all the little inert, stupid, dull-eyed creatures forever at the bottom of the class who never put a question or seem to pass a given point?

The matter is that they are ill. Some of them are hungry, and it is as hopeless to expect a child to study well when he needs food as it would be to expect a fire that needs fuel to burn well. The hunger may be due to an actual lack of food or it may be that the teeth are in such poor condition that the child cannot chew and therefore does not digest. Or it may be that the food offered to it at home is entirely unsuited to its needs.

Some of the children cannot hear well and some cannot see. They do not complain because they do not know what is the matter. They accept the canstant rebuke and defeat with the dumb mystification of ignorance. Many of them have never drawn one natural breath since their birth owing to the presence of enlarged tonsils and adenoids.

These children can never compete with their fellows until all these hindrances have been removed. Some recent investigations made by a French physician show that among well nourished children only 19 per cent have physical defects, while among the poorly nourished over 60 per cent suffer from these defects.

This question of feeding is being met in many cities, both here and abroad, by the supplying of a substantial luncheon either free or at a nominal cost.

OLD TIME SQUIRREL RIFLE.

Madisonville Hustler: When Col. W. A. Toombs returned recently from the old homestead near Colltown he brought back with him his father's squirrel rifle, which has been continuously in possession of the family since 1846. It is handmade throughout and was of that full stocked type common among the hunters of Tennessee and Kentucky three generations ago.

The barrel is forty-seven inches long and is furnished with the finest level sights for long range shooting. Its original caliber was 120 bullets to the pound, but having been dressed out and rerifled several times it now carries sixty to the pound. The lock is of the back action type and is in as good condition today as when it left the maker's hands seventy years ago. The triggers are a marvel of workmanship. They are of that kind known as "double" or "hair" triggers and are governed with a set screw which regulates them until they will respond to the slightest touch.

SAVING LIFE THEIR WORK

Experts on Safety Appliances Return From Trip to Mines.

Say Duluth Steel Plant Will Have Every Modern Device.

Robert J. Young of Chicago and Louis Close of Pittsburg, both with the United States Steel company, returned today from the range where they investigated all the mines with reference to the safety applicances, gave an illustrated talk to the working men of the mines, and in general conducted an educational campaign along the line of preventing accidents.

The two employes of the steel company after checking over in detail the plans of the buildings that are under construction by the steel company at the Duluth site, pronounced them the most nearly perfect they have ever seen.

"In every way the plant at this city will be protected from accident," said Mr. Young. "It is the best I have ever seen. Every modern safety device has been provided and every precaution adopted for the safety of the men."

Mr. Young remarked upon the interest the workmen of the ranges are taking in the protection of their own lives and limbs, stating that this was one of the best indications of an awakening of a sense of responsibility.

According to Mr. Young, the mines of the range are very well protected against any accidents, the machinery that is in the least dangerous being provided with guards.

Mr. Young and Mr. Close were here in July. At that time they placed some of the modern safety appliances in some of the steel company's mines. They report that the result of their efforts is shown and that today there is a very much smaller chance of accidents.

The two gentlemen will leave for Chicago and Pittsburg this evening.

Col. Roosevelt Guest of Former Governor at Breakfast.

Birmingham, Ala., March 10.—A busy day awaited Theodore Roosevelt when he reached here early today from Atlanta. Mr. Roosevelt was Former Governor Comer's guest at breakfast, then he went to the Birmingham high school, where he talked briefly to the pupils. Later he visited the model steel works town of Corey.

Mr. Roosevelt is scheduled for four speeches in Birmingham. Tonight he will address the National Child Labor conference. His subject will be "The Conservation of Childhood."

Mr. Roosevelt goes from here to Jackson, Miss.

FIGHT OCCURS ON THE ST. AUGUSTINE RANCH.

El Paso, Tex., March 10.—News reached here this morning of a fight at the San Augustine ranch in Mexico, directly opposite Fabens, and twenty-eight miles east of El Paso, between a band of sixty-eight insurgents and 135 federals, under Lieut-Col. Pueblita, sent out from Juarez yesterday.

Twenty of the insurrectos came across the river and were captured and disarmed by Capt. Lindsey, U. S. A. Ten were armed with Mauser rifles. About half of the party were Americans.

LOTTERY ROMANCES.

Tit Bits: That the age of lottery romance is by no means over is proved by a singular story which has just come to us from Brussels. For some time no claimant appeared for the principal prize in the Brussels Exhibition Lottery of the value of £8,000; and as weeks passed it became more and more doubtful whether the owner of the winning ticket would ever be traced, until a week or so ago he was discovered in a dramatic fashion.

A few days before the result of the lottery drawing was announced a young Belgian miner had been tragically killed by a stone falling on his head while at work; and, according to custom, he had been buried in his best suit of clothes. The man had been some time underground when his relations recalled that he had purchased a ticket for the great lottery and that it had probably been buried with him. A petition was made to the authorities for permission to exhume the body and in a waistcoat pocket was found the missing ticket which, had he lived, would have made him a rich man.

The recent history of lotteries is full of stories of similar romance, most of which are practically unknown to the public at large. "Rouge et Noir," for instance, recalls how "a few years ago I was at Frankfort on the eve of the lottery being drawn. At a hotel I met several gentlemen, one of whom regretted having spent two florins on a ticket, as he 'never had any luck;' another gentleman offered him two florins for it, which offer was accepted. On the following day the ticket won 10,000 florins."

He also tells another story of a tradesman who had bought four tickets, bearing consecutive numbers, in a big lottery. Thinking it foolish to have so many tickets so close together he took one of them back to the office and had it exchanged for another. His disgust can be better imagined than described when the ticket thus exchanged won a price of £20,000.

A more fortunate experience was that of a French widow, one Mme. Hoser, who was "passing rich," on a few francs a day earned as canteen maid to a regiment of dragons. One day madame decided to invest her very small savings in three tickets for a forthcoming lottery, the chief prizes in which were of dazzling richness. She was offered tickets numbered consecutively 2,171, 2,172 and 2,173. The last of the trio she pointblank refused to accept, as it contained her unlucky number "3." Ticket No. 2,174 was willingly substituted, and it was this very ticket, so quixotically chosen, which won for her the first prize of £40,000.

A few years ago, as the date for the drawing of the annual Christmas lottery at Madrid was approaching, a poor mechanic of Corunna was awakened three consecutive nights by the number 125,568, apparently spoken in his ear. So impressed was he by the repetition of the incident that he wrote down the number and jocularly said to his wife, "That number will win the first prize in the great lottery." "Then why don't you buy the ticket?" his wief answered, jokingly, as she looked at the figures. "Why, see, if you add them together they just come to my age, I shall be 31 on Christmas day."

The ticket, after much trouble, was found (it had been rejected a few minutes earlier by a wealthy citizen of Corunna) and bought, and before many days had passed the mechanic and his wife were made jubilant by the news that the ticket had won the first prize of £200,000.

Of the same Spanish lottery another remarkable story is told. A Madrid crossing-sweeper was plying his brush one morning when he saw an old lady slip and fall on stepping off the pavement. He rushed to her assistance and raised her to her feet, expecting at the most to receive a copper as the reward of his gallantry. "I have no money with me," said the old lady, "but here"—and she fumbled in her handbag and produced a crushed piece of paper—"take this, and may it bring you luck." The piece of paper was a tenth share ticket in the Christmas lottery, which a few weeks later made the crossing sweeper rich "beyond the dreams of avarice," his share of the third prize amounting to £8,000.

Equally romantic was the experience of a poor shopkeeper, a widow, in a Berlin suburb. One day, a shabbily-dressed man entered her shop and, begging permission to light his pipe, produced a piece of paper which he twisted into a spill. After securing a light he threw down the charred spill on the floor and with a "Thank you" walked off.

On the following morning, when sweeping the shop floor, the widow picked up the discarded spill, and, finding that it was a ticket for a coming lottery, the number of which was untouched by fire, she put it in her purse, saying laughingly to her daughter. "There is a fortune in this piece of paper, my dear." Weeks pased and the incident and the ticket were almost forgotten, when she chanced to see the winning numbers of the lottery in a newspaper.

Then it flashed on her that she, too, had a ticket, and producing the charred crumpled piece of paper from her purse she found, to her amazement and delight, that the number on it had won £10,000.

CACTUS CENTER'S RESOLUTIONS.

Down here in Cactus Center we've been passin' resolutions—
We're goin', past all doubtin', to be awful, awful good;
We have vowed there ain't a-goin' to be bullet distributions—
Onless some trouble hunter don't behave as real gents should.

We have vowed we're goin' to show respect for Judges in their ermine,
'Cause we see that necktie parties
is a sign of lack of tact,
There is goin' to be no lynchin's—
gee! the cattlemen are squirmin'—
Onless, of course, some rustler's caught red handed in the act.

We are goin' to cut out gamblin'—all the cyard brigade is only Too glad to burn the tables and to cut out all such play,
Onless it sorter follers that some homeless chaps git lonely
And we start a game, real quiet, jest to while the time away.
And so it is with drinkin', onless some one else is treatin'
(To refuse a social duty is offense
'gainst friendship's laws).
We're opposed to too much harshness —life's black medicine we'd sweeten—
So in each resolve for New Year
we've put in a savin' clause.

What to Do for a Sickly Child--Trial Free

Many a Mother Has Written Thanks After Following These Suggestions.

It has always been a mooted question just what to do with an ailing child, for mothers disagree and few doctors specialize in it. But this much is certain, that in the majority of cases faulty bowel movement is at the bottom of the trouble.

The first thing, then, to do with a complaining child is to give it a laxative, not a mere fruit-stew or such thing but a genuine, scientific laxative. Many are recommended but few have been found worthy. Among the latter none stands out more prominently than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which mothers in all parts of the country have used for a generation.

It can be obtained of any druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle. No child will refuse it as it is not a bad-tasting and violent cathartic pill, but a mild, gentle, non-griping liquid. It has also tonic properties that strengthen and tone the little stomach and bowel muscles so that they begin to do their work naturally again. Mrs. Ella N. Williams of Wathena, Kan., and Mrs. Emma Blakenship of Bedford, Ind., always give their children Syrup Pepsin.

If you hesitate to get even a fifty-cent bottle and do not care to ask your neighbor about it (who probably is a user of Syrup Pepsin), then write Dr. Caldwell and he will cheerfully send you a sample bottle free of charge, and in this way you can make a test without personal cost. Simply send your name and address to the doctor. A great many thousand mothers have had a free sample in recent years, gave it to the children according to directions and now have healthy, romping youngsters.

Dr. Caldwell does not feel that the purchase of his remedy ends his obligation. He has specialized in stomach, liver and bowel diseases for over forty years and will be pleased to give the reader any advice on the subject free of charge. All are welcome to write him. Whether for the medical advice or the free sample address him Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 541 Caldwell Building, Monticello, Ill.

WHY MORE SETTLERS FAIL TO COME TO NORTHERN MINNESOTA

How to Create a Demand for the Land—Let the Outside World Know What We Produce.

By R. C. HAYNER OF BEMIDJI, MINN.

Why don't more settlers come to Northern Minnesota?

Perhaps you have asked yourself the same question many times and nothing but the echo answered "why?"

Now looking at it in a logical manner we will have to admit that there is some reason for the lack of settlers. It surely is not from the fact that the soil, in Northern Minnesota, is not productive, because we can produce as much per acre here as they can any place on the face of the globe. It is not because we are too far north as we have watched the trains carry hundreds, yes thousands of settlers right through our state and land them in Canada.

I can imagine that I hear you say: "For Heaven's sake, Hayner, cut it out, tell me what is the matter?" Well I won't prolong your agony but I'll let you into the secret. You are to blame.

You, the man with a lot of real estate to sell, you don't advertise.

What! Oh yes I read what you had in the paper. You said that you controlled over 100,000 acres of land and that it could be bought for $5 per acre and that you would take any old thing down and give all the time a man wanted on the balance, etc.

Now actually, do you call that advertising?

Have you ever, in your wildest moments, conceived the idea that a settler would want to start in here to farm 100,000 acres of cut-over land? But I hear you say, "Great Scott, that amount of land looks big and should be very impressive and anyhow didn't I tell how cheap it could be bought and what excellent terms I would give?"

Sure you did and when you said how cheap it could be bought the man looking for a home passed you up. He just looked at your ad and said to his wife: "Mary we don't want to go there; the whole gosh darned country is for sale and they will be trying to give their blamed land away in a month or two."

No, you real estate men of Northern Minnesota, you haven't the right idea. What you want to do is to create a demand. Then talk prices.

I would have been proud of you if I could have read an ad. something like this:

"For sale a tract of land that can be improved so that it will produce 500 to 1,000 bushels of onions per acre and those same onions would bring over $1 per bushel on the market today, or if you don't want to raise onions raise celery. This land is the same kind of soil that is producing today, $1,200 worth of celery to the acre right here in this country, and then on this tract you might raise some potatoes; they are yielding as much as 465 bushels per acre. Or, if you don't want to try intensified farming, timothy hay will yield about three tons per acre or alfalfa five tons per acre or $40 to $60 worth of clover seed per acre, according to state reports, in addition to about $40 worth of clover hay per acre each year, or the land will produce wonderful crops of all kinds of cereals, or you might start a dairy farm. William B. Hays, assistant secretary of agriculture, says that 'Northern Minnesota is destined to be the greatest dairying country in the world.'"

That is what I mean by creating a demand. Let the outside world know what we can produce and that it doesn't make any difference what one pays for the land he is getting it all-fired cheap.

Let me illustrate: A party came to this little city a few weeks ago and had for sale land in one of the Western states and he had with him some boxes of as fine apples as I ever saw and also some samples of grain and some pamphlets and other truck and he advertised.

Now do you think that he started out by saying that he owned one-half of the state he represented and that if you would give him a few trading stamps and a bull pup he would give you 160 acres and possibly might throw in forty more acres to show that he was a good fellow?

Not much, he didn't. He advertised what could be made on the land, how much per acre would be, a reasonable yield and what the profits should net the farmer or fruit grower and wound up his ad, by saying that if any one was interested and would call and see him he would quote prices. And when one called he told them that for a short time the prices were only $450 per acre, and he accented the only; and at the same time admitted that one could not hope to get crop returns inside of five years.

That man sold twenty-six pieces of land here in less than three weeks.

Let me try another illustration. You know that some years ago some men made money by selling gold bricks. Let us imagine that one of them came to your office some morning and opened up his proposition about like this: "Good morning, Mr. Brown. I called to see you in order to interest you in an exceedingly good proposition. I have a pushcart standing down on the sidewalk, and in it I have 75 or 100 gold bricks that I would like to sell you, and my advice to you is to hurry and buy some of them, as there is sure to be a big demand for them, as I am offering such great inducements. Why, for a short time I will let you have them at the rate of $10 per dozen, and you will surely acknowledge that such terms can't be beat for gold bricks."

Well, about that time you will break in and tell him that the garbage can is in the rear of the building, and that there is the best place for his worthless stuff.

Oh, nix on that method! More likely he would have begun by telling you that he had one gold brick, and that it was so long and so wide and so thick, and that it weighed so much, and that every particle of it was of the finest gold, and that it was worth so much money, and after you had begun to feel that you just had to have that brick, he would quietly have told you what inducements he had to offer.

Now, if that method will sell a worthless gold brick, won't the same method sell land that can be made to produce as many dollars and cents per acre as any land on the face of the earth?

We have stood still and listened to Canada tell what their land could produce and what profits could reasonably be expected from an acre of well-tilled soil, and we have watched our American citizens hike to Canada.

The West has woke up. They will run an irrigation ditch through a patch of sand, and then every one will begin telling what they can raise on it, and the people will rush in and buy the land at $350 per acre—land that will never see the day it can produce as much per acre as we can right here in Minnesota without any irrigation.

We have watched the South start in to telling what can can be made on their lands, admitting that at the present time the principal crop is crocodiles, centipedes and malaria, but that with proper cultivation the land will yield enormous returns, $1,000 per acre, please, and hundreds of people are buying.

I know of pieces of land right here than can be made to yield $1,000 per acre every year, at the present prices of produce, and I know that the climate can not be beaten for healthfulness, and you know the same thing.

Why don't I advertise it as it should be advertised? Well, I am sorry to have to admit it, but I am shy on the currency. It takes money to advertise. But if every real estate man and every other person interested in the development of this part of the country will begin to let people know what can be raised here, and will forget those awful inducements for a while, there won't be land men enough in Northern Minnesota to take care of the people looking for homes. And don't you forget it.

DUAL PERSONALITIES.

We may accept as quite well established the fact that hallucinations, to people who have them, are real things, and that loss of memory is a real thing, and that double personalities is a real thing.

Of the loss of memory many cases are familiar. One of the most curious was that of a man who had been a cork cutter in England, says the London Daily Graphic, and went out to America leaving a family behind him. He was wrecked and lost all memory of his former life. He became well-to-do and prosperous and it was only by the accident of going over a cork cutting factory that he recovered the clue to his former personality. His thinking brain was unstirred, but that part of the brain which directs muscular action enabled him by an act of unconscious memory to cut a cork—an act which no unpracticed person could do. It was clear then that he had once been a cork cutter, and the institution of further inquiries finally identified him.

To return, however, to the cases of duplex personality. The first one recorded historically is that of a youth named Sorgel, in Bavaria, who was an epileptic, and in one of the relapses into a criminal frame of mine which followed on his epileptic seizures killed a woodcutter. He made no attempt to defend or hide his act, but childishly explained it. He continued thus for a week after the crime, when his first personality was restored to him. He then completely forgot all the occurrences that had preceded or followed the murder. Although this case took place nearly 100 years ago his judges were convinced of his innocence. Sorgal afterward died in a lunatic asylum.

The larger number of these instances of dual personality follow on epilepsy, but one is recorded by Dr. Drewry of Virginia, 1896, of Mr. K. Mr. K., while apparently in perfect health, went to a northern town to transact some business, which he did quite ably and rationally. He then disappeared. He was given up for dead. Then, six months afterward, he was found, brought home again, a changed man in mind and body. The six months interval was a blank to him, and always remained so. He had spent them as an odd job man in a Southern state. His recovery dated from the breaking down of a growth in his auditory canal, which had undoubtedly affected his brain in a physical sense.

But of the more curious cases of double personality, which did not begin and leave off suddenly, but which endured for a number of years, there are a number of instances. One was Miss Mary Reynolds, who for fifteen or sixteen years had two states of existence, in one of which she was a melancholy, morbid young woman and in the other a gay, hysterical, mischievous child.

The alterations, in which the child state lasted from five to six weeks, continued at intervals of varying length for fifteen or sixteen years, but finally ceased when she attained the age of 35 or 36, leaving her permanently in her second or acquired state. The emotional opposition of the two states had, however, become gradually reduced, and the third state at which she eventually arrived was a rational state, removed from both of them.

There are cases of multiplex personality, of which the best known is that of the epileptic Luiso Vive, whose different states were distinguished by different forms of paralysis, as well as by entirely different moral proclivities, and there is the curious case of Miss Beauchamp, a patient of Dr. Morton Prince, a full account of which was given to the International Congress of Psychology, Paris, in 1900.

Miss Beauchamp was a neurasthenic but clever young woman, who overworked at college. She was of a morbidly conscientious and rather reserved disposition. She was hypnotized in order to try the power of suggestion, and out of one of these hypnotic trances emerged a new Miss Beauchamp—a person entirely different from the original Miss Beauchamp in manners, ideals, education and temperament. This new Miss Beauchamp was called "Sally" Beauchamp, and one of the peculiarities of her mischievous temper was a profound dislike of the "other Miss Beauchamp." The case is too complex and too curious for complete summary here, but it presents the amazing fact that in one brain may reside the possibility of the existence of two entirely different beings, different in mind, thought, disposition, health and temper.

Last week a magistrate was called on to deal with the case of a young man who was normally sober, industrious and honest, but who in an interval of relapse from his normal self and consciousness committed a theft. The young man had been an epileptic and was suggested in his defense that he had been and still was subject to states of mind in which his usual, normal, honest self had no existence for him. He forgot it. He was in fact another mind. The magistrate was broadminded enough to accept this explanation, which to psychologists and to specialists in diseases of the brain is a perfectly just and reasonable one. Of double personality, one that is familiar and quite credible to people who have never studied the particular aspect of brain abnormality—known as duplex or multiplex personality—is that of a person who loses his memory through a shock or sudden injury to the brain. Ordinary concussion of the brain often produces complete forgetfulness of incidents which took place during a number of hours before the concussion occurred; and it is followed by similar forgetfulness and often by an inability to distinguish between the real and the unreal.

Quite apart from any attempt to deceive on the part of such "abnormal" cases, one of the symptoms of brain injury or incipient brain affection is the real inability to distinguish between the real and the unreal. One of the authorities in London on brain recently asked a young girl who had been deceiving her parents for some years with fables as to imagined incidents and imagined acquaintances what was the difference to her between these imaginary things and the real existence, for example, of himself and of the room where they were standing. "None at all," she replied, "one's just as real as the other." She was no doubt speaking the truth. People do have hallucinations.

The authority of whom we have spoken has had patients at the London hospitals who have seen ghosts. He does not question their good faith in the least. The ghosts are quite real to them. They do not like to talk about them. They are of course poor people and are a little ashamed of being different from their neighbors—queer, as they would say.

CARE OF CAGED BIRDS.

Caged birds are more absolutely at their owners' mercy than any other household pets. The only way never to forget their food or water is to establish a positive time for giving it to them, either directly before or after a meal time, so that association of ideas will insure remembrance. Select a position for the cage where it is protected from draught or glaring sun.

"Many particular housekeepers cover the bottom of the cage with paper instead of gravel. I suppose they think," says a writer in the Woman's Home Companion, "that the latter is only used as a protection to the bottom of the cage. But gravel has quite another and much more important office. Canaries, like chickens, have no teeth and must have gravel to grind their food.

"Vegetable food of some kind is also a necessity. A lettuce leaf, watercress, a small piece of apple, a grape, or a small thin piece of raw potato, if you have nothing else, should be given every day. The staple should be canary seed mixed with a small percentage of rape and golden millet, but occasionally, in cold weather, add a little hemp seed and a little canary seed.

"Should the bird's nails grow too long take him in your hand loosely but firmly, and hold his feet in a cup of warm, soapy water for several minutes to soften the nail, then cut the extreme end with a pair of sharp nail scissors.

"A bird should be accustomed to having a bath every morning. The best plan is to remove the bottom of the cage, put a small dish on a sheet of paper and set the top of the cage over it. Many birds have to be coaxed into taking a bath, and if your bird has not been accustomed to it it will help matters to remove the seed and water dishes. After he has bathed hang the cage where a little sun will strike it.

PASSING OF THE OLD HAYMARKET DANCE HALL

This is the old Haymarket dance hall in New York which is going the way of all things. A great many anxious fathers and mothers whose sons come to New York to "have a good time" will breath a sigh of relief. For the Haymarket was one of the show places of New York—one to which every visitor who wanted to "see the town" was invariably taken. And it was here that a young Roosevelt met "Dutch Kate" and married her and it was here that a great many young bloods from other cities, as well as New York, picked up acquaintances of very little moral value. It was a resort of the "sporting set" of both sexes. Its sessions began at about midnight and continued until the late morning hours. The property has been bought by a real estate investor and a new building for business purposes will probably be erected on the site.

A BILIOUS FAREWELL.

It brought us two general elections
Which left us about where we were;
We were hustled to make our selections
'Twixt candidates much of a pair;
We were harassed by windy oration,
By language unfit for the pen.
And twaddle of socialization,
In the year nineteen hundred and ten.

We were puzzled by problems bewildering;
Superfluous Form IV., foreign meat,
Proposals for feeding the children,
Accusals of starving the fleet.
The Lords: should we end 'em or mend 'em?
If so, which? If so, how? If so, when?
And a Jack-in-the-box "referendum"
In the year nineteen hundred and ten.

It brought, in due course, Halley's comet,
Of which very few got a sight;
But the people who prophesied from it
Disaster said "Now, who was right?"
It brought us "the conquest of aether"
And death to the "conquering" men;
It brought us detestable weather,
Did the year nineteen hundred and ten.

It brought to our women (while man cursed)
The limit in ludicrous hats,
Brought prison to Christabel Pankhurst,
And plague to East Anglian rats.
Its "sins" which were seventy times seven"
Seven ages may pardon—and then
One's afraid "they will haunt it in heaven."
Poor year nineteen hundred and ten!

It brought death, and debate, and dejection,
And prosperity on the decrease.
But at least it is worth recollection
That it left, as it found, us at peace;
And, in justice, it's right to remember,
Before it is gone from our ken,
That we had a fine day—in November
Of year nineteen hundred and ten.

GOVERNMENT EXPERT HUNTER.

Portland Oregonian: W. R. Hammersly, the government's best expert coyote hutner, who is stationed on the Fremont National Forest Reserve in Lake county, is in the city on his way to Wallowa county to assist in the coyote extermination campaign. Mr. Hammersly has a record of having killed more than any other government hunter. Last year his record was 372 and this year he has killed 390 and practically has five months more, until July 1. He has been instructed to hunt in Wallowa county four months.

Two years ago the agricultural department decided to experiment with official hunters whose exclusive duty would be the killing of destructive wild animals. Hammersly was the fifth appointed and his record for killing coyotes stands far beyond reach of his nearest competitor. The position pays a saalry of $100 a month and expenses. The hunter also gets the bounty on all coyotes killed and Hammersly has augmented his pay to $500 and $600 a month.

"My most successful way of exterminating coyotes is by trapping," said Hammersly. "The biggest catch in one day I ever made was eighteen out of twenty-two sets. The best record I ever made with a rifle was three. I do not go much on poison. Trapping is the best method. It is all in the bait. I mix my own bait, and there is the secret.

"The government hunters have been of more benefit to sheep and cattle men than all other official agencies combined. When sheep and cattle men are troubled with coyotes all they have to do is to request a government hunter and the pests are soon exterminated. There is money in the job, but the standard is high. You must make good. A record of 300 a yera is considered a good average."

Mr. Hammersly was born and reared in Lake county and was always a crack shot with a rifle and an expert hunter. He was formerly a forest ranger and two years ago took the civil service examination for government hunter.

"The situation in Wallowa county is more serious than many suppose," continued Mr. Hammersly. "Rabies among wild animals is more serious than among domestic animals, and the only way to stop the danger is to kill the coyotes. Their extermination will also be a blessing to sheep and cattle men."

THE GLOVE AT CORONATION.

London Daily Graphic: There is still a king's champion or hereditary champion of England. It was once his duty to ride on his horse in full armor into Westminster hall at the beginning of the coronation banquet and three times to challenge formally to combat any person who disputed the sovereign's title to the throne. The champion flung his gauntlet down as soon as the herald had announced the challenge.

On no occasion was any opposition offered. When the champion took the gauntlet up for the third time the sovereign drank to him from a golden cup, which was then handed to the champion, who drank to his sovereign and straightway became owner of the cup.

The last occasion on which the champion appeared in Westminster hall to execute this magnificent duty or privilege, rather, was on July 19, 1821, at the coronation of George IV., when Henry Dymoke performed the ceremony on behalf of his father, the Rev. John Dymoke, rector of Scrivelsby, in Lincolnshire, who deemed the office incompatible with the functions of a clergyman.

The Dymokes of Scrivelsby court are still king's champions, but probably the discontinuance of the coronation banquet in Westminster hall is the reason why they no longer ride in splendor on a mission so splendid as the coronation of the kings and queens of England.

Since 1377 for certain the office has attached to the manor of Scrivelsby, when Sir John Dymoke claimed by virtue of his holding Scrivelsby in right of his wife to act as king's champion at the coronation of Richard II. The Marmions were formerly king's champions, and had been lords of both Scrivelsby and of Tamworth castle. Scrivelsby is situated in a beautiful park not very far from Horncastle. The present champion is Frank Seaman Dymoke.

STILL ON THE WAY.

Chicago News: "You deceived me," protested the woman at the wash tub. "When you married me you said you had a job on the road."

"And so I did, my dear," rejoined her husband, who was hitting the pipe in an easy chair, "but it hasn't arrived yet."

HESSIAN FLY BULL FACTOR

Wheat Market Advances, Shorts Cover—Receipts Are Small.

World's Shipments to Increase—Weather Map Favorable.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 10.—Wheat advanced today. Yesterday's loss was practically made up. May gained 1@1⅛c and July walked forward a similar distance. Oats gained ⅝c; rye and barley were unchanged. Cash wheat was ½@⅝c under May. Durum gained ¾c.

Flaxseed was lifeless and unchanged. May closed at $2.65 asked. Plate seed at Antwerp was off ½ franc, closing at $2.368 per bu.

Wheat displayed considerable strength, although after noon the top of the bulge seemed to be reached and realizing weakened the market. Wheat cables were lower and world's shipments are estimated to be 1,500,000 bu in excess of the shipments of last week. News from Russia and Argentina was bearish. The crop outlook in both countries is favorable. The weather in Argentina is especially favorable. Australian and Argentine shipments are running larger than expected. There was a poor demand for cash wheat abroad and supplies are liberal.

The market was strong on account of domestic advices which told of damage by freezing and the Hessian fly to wheat in Illinois. This same territory was first to bat last year with the Hessian fly, and it scored first again this year, although Oklahoma made a close run for second place, sending reports today of damage from the fly in the central and northern parts. Other Oklahoma reports declared that the wheat was looking in first-class condition and that there has been a sufficiency of moisture.

The weather map is favorable. The Modern Miller observed today that in the greater portion of the winter wheat territory crop prospects are above an average for this season of the year. Moisture has improved the plant in the districts where the weather was dry in the winter and fall. There has been no material damage from the Hessian fly in Illinois or Indiana, according to the Modern Miller. In Oklahoma, said the report, wheat which was supposed to be dead will make half of a crop.

Millers are asking for prices on spring wheat at Chicago, according to advices from that market. Apparently they are not endeavoring to grind the grain when they cannot dispose of the flour. The cash demand does not display any improvement. Receipts in the Northwest are exceedingly light, especially in this market, and stores continue to decrease.

A Russian cable said that the weather in the Southwest is milder and the outlook for the wheat crop is satisfactory. Shipper offers for forward positions are on a liberal scale and a fair increase in shipments is expected. Interior and port stocks are large. In view of the early opening of navigation holders are offering freely.

MARKET GOSSIP

Argentine shipments of wheat were 2,592,000 bu; last week, 2,536,000 bu; last year, 4,064,000 bu. Corn, 68,000 bu against 8,000 bu, against 41,000 bu.

Broomhall estimates wheat and flour shipments this week exclusive of North America at 10,800,000 bu against 9,144,000 bu actual last week.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool—The wheat market at the opening was influenced by the weakness in American cables yesterday and values were ⅛@¼d lower. Australian and Argentine shipments were larger than expected and the estimate for world's shipments this week, other than America are for 1,500,000 bu over last week. Altogether weather and crop news continues favorable and reports from Russia are bearish regarding crop outlook and prospective early shipments. During the morning there was some covering by shorts and prices advanced ¼d for both May and July, while March was unchanged. Support was due to an improved demand from the continent with cargoes and parcels and a fair demand for spot. Receipts for the three days were light and this caused some outside support. At 1:30 p. m. the market was steady and ⅛d higher than the opening and ⅛d to ¼d lower than yesterday. Corn—Market was unchanged.

Australian shipments this week amount to 2,480,000, against 1,130,000 bu last week and 1,608,000 bu last year.

Rates were cut in two by the Portland & Asiatic Steamship company today for the transportation of wheat from Portland to the Far East and a reduction of about 35 per cent was made for carrying flour from Portland to Oriental ports. The new tariff is $1.50 on wheat and $2 a ton on flour. Formerly there was a charge of $3 a ton for the transportation of each of these cereals.

Local elevator stocks decreased 600,000 bu for the week.

Minneapolis today received 160 cars of wheat against 300 a year ago; to-day's receipts of the Duluth, Superior & Minneapolis, 8, against 73, and Winnipeg, 259, against 129.

Cotton Market.

New York, March 10.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 4 to 6 points in sympathy with better cables than expected and after selling for a turn became firm and more active on a renewal of the covering movement and bull support, inspired by expectations of bullish week-end figures, talk of hot weather in the Southwest and predictions that the final ginning report due a week from Monday will be followed by a reduction in crop estimates. Prices during the middle of the morning were about 8 to 10 points net higher, with the new crop relatively firmer.

Spot closed quiet, 10 points higher; middling uplands 14.55; middling gulf, 14.80; sales, 3,200 bales. Futures closed very steady; closing bids: March, 14.27; April, 14.36; May, 14.47; June, 14.30; July, 14.29; August, 13.83; October, 12.71; December, 12.61.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., March 10.—Harrett & Zimmerman report: Good general purpose farm horses and mares from 1,300 to 1,450 in urgent demand, over 100 head being sold to Northwestern points. A peculiar feature of this spring trade is the heavy call for horses from Minnesota Valley points. Carload shipments being made to Mountain Lake, Redwood Falls and Delhi, Minn., also short car shipments to Wells, Princeton and Sandstone, Minn. Big draft pairs found ready takers. The present low prices of horses is an inducement to those users who sold themselves short when horses were $25 to $50 higher a year ago.

TO VOTE ON INCOME TAX AMENDMENT

House Makes Robinson Resolution Special Order for Friday.

Attempt to Adjourn Until Wednesday Meets With Failure.

Flood of New Bills But None of Special Importance.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The house this morning made the Robinson joint resolution ratifying the income tax amendment to the Federal Constitution a special order for Friday, March 17.

A resolution was introduced by Representative Frankson thanking Senators Nelson and Clapp for their stand against Lorimer, but it was put over to Monday by a notice of debate given by Representative John G. Lennon of Minneapolis.

Representative Minette called up his resolution fixing March 17 as the last day for introducing bills and wanted to have it adopted, but the house referred it to the committee on rules.

There was a light attendance this morning and no attempt to pass bills was made. An attempt to adjourn to Wednesday on account of Tuesday's local elections failed, and the house will meet Monday.

There was a flood of bills, none of them of first importance. No bills had been introduced since Wednesday, and the result was that nearly forty new

FOUR OFFICIALS ARE REMOVED

Collector of Customs at Cleveland and Others Are Ousted.

Washington, March 11.—Charles F. Leach, collector of customs at Cleveland; Joseph T. Ball, his special deputy; Miss Ella New, a clerk and William J. Corns, an examiner in Leach's office, were all notified of their removal from office yesterday. Leach being a presidential appointee, was removed by order of President Taft. The others were dismissed by the treasury department.

The discharge of the four follows a long investigation of the administration of Leach's office by a special committee of the customs office. The committee found instances where importers had paid money for favors and reported other irregularities of administration and misconduct in office.

W. S. Chance, special customs agent, has been appointed deputy collector and will take over the office until a collector is appointed.

CLUBMAN WILL MARRY RICH WIDOW

Washington Man to Marry Woman Over Twice His Age.

New York, March 11.—Flying toward La Belle France with Mrs. Albert Clifford Barney, the 57-year-old Washington playwright and society woman, is Christian D. Hemmick, 26 years old, a Washington clubman, whose engagement to the widow of the Ohio banker was announced recently.

According to advices from Washington, the couple will be wedded in Paris the latter part of April.

The ceremony, it is said, will be according to the rites of the Catholic church, of which Hemmick is a member.

Although Mrs. Barney is a Bahaist and her daughter is a high priestess of the cult, the society artist and playwright has consented to yield to the wishes of her future husband in this respect.

Mrs. Barney was Miss Alice Pike of Cincinnati. She is a widow of Alfred Clifford Barney, an Ohio banker, who died about seven years ago, leaving, according to reports, $5,000,000 to his widow and $2,500,000 to each of his daughters.

KEIFER A VOLUNTEER.

Aged General Offers His Services for Work in South.

Washington, March 11.—Gen. J. Warren Keifer, 75 years of age, until March 4 a member of congress from Ohio, hero of many battles in the Civil war and who, at the outbreak of the Spanish-American war went out as a major general of volunteers, called at the White House and offered his services to the president.

Gen. Keifer said he was just as stout of heart and limb as in 1898 and was ready to go to the front immediately. The president declined his offer, saying it was not a real but a mimic war.

The war department is being deluged with offers from officers on the retired list for active service, as well as requests from officers actively engaged in duties which will not permit their going to the "front" for transfer. All are being refused.

PFAENDER BILL FOR DIRECT LEGISLATION IS PASSED BY HOUSE

DEMOCRATIC LEADER IN MINNESOTA HOUSE

ALBERT PFAENDER
Of New Ulm, Whose Initiative and Referendum Bill Was Passed.

Democratic Minority Puts One Over on the Republicans.

Safeguarded By Restrictions to Prevent Abuses in Its Use.

State-Wide Primary Bills Are Made Special Order for Friday.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Democrats in the house, despite the fact that they are in a very small minority, slipped one over on the Republicans yesterday afternoon when the house passed the initiative and referendum bill introduced by Representative Albert Pfaender of New Ulm, the Democratic leader of the house, by a vote of 62 to 50.

The bill as passed is not satisfactory to the extreme advocates of direct legislation, in that it is safeguarded by restrictions which will prevent abuses in its use, and which practically guarantee not only that measures in which the people are vitally interested will be presented and passed, but that only such measures will be considered by the people.

The progressive Republicans in the house had a chance to pass their measure, and if they had consented to compromise they would have succeeded. They failed, and the Demo-

GRAND JURY TAKES UP ARNOLD CASE

Subpoenas Issusd for Those Claiming to Have Seen Girl.

New York, March 11.—A rounding up of the persons who have reported that they have seen Dorothy Arnold since her mysterious disappearance on Dec. 12 was begun by District Attorney Whitman yesterday by the issuance of subpoenas for their appearance before the grand jury. It is intended not only to run down all the clues, but to put a stop to further false alarms.

One of the subpoenas is for Detective Duey of Philadelphia, who, it was said, thought he had seen the missing girl in that city.

OIL MAGNATE SCORES SON

Because He Made $40,000 Net in Stock Gambling.

James H. Alexander Sues Firm for Stock Security Withdrawn.

New York, March 11.—How James H. Alexander, colleague and confidant of John D. Rockefeller, rebuked his young son and left a broker's office in a huff when he discovered that the youth's initial plunge in Wall Street had netted him 40,000, was told in the multi-millionaire's suit against the firm of W. M. Imbrie & Co., brokers, for the recovery of 200 shares of Standard Oil stock, before Justice Blanchard in the supreme court.

The multi-millionaire explained how his younger son, Earle, had entered the Imbrie firm and how he was anxious to start Howard, another son, on a business career.

In 1907 Mr. Alexander deposited the 200 shares, worth $140,000, with the Imbrie concern as security for his own account. Howard manifested a desire to become a broker like his brother, and the father told James Imbrie to

CANANEA MAIL STAGE ROBBED

Official Mail Destroyed, But Private Mail Is Undisturbed.

El Paso, Tex., March 11.—A special to the Herald this morning states that the mail stage between Cananea and Arizpe was held up by insurrectos Thursday. All official mail was opened and destroyed, but private mail was not disturbed. All the mail sacks were opened.

Letters received here from insurrectos state that the Madero faction is promising recruits a homestead and a pension when the war is over. They promise to confiscate all large landed estates and divide them among the soldiers who have fought in the insurrecto cause.

EXPRESSMEN'S STRIKE IS ON

Employes of the Adams Company Fail to Report for Work.

New York, March 11.—The strike of express company employes, threatened for several days past, materialized today with the failure of practically all the drivers and helpers in the employ of the Adams Express company to report for work. A considerable part of the company's office force also was affected. The movement of merchandise was checked, not a wagon leaving any of the company's stations.

The men demand reinstatement of various employes who have been discharged or suspended, alleging discrimination against such men because of participation in the previous strike. The strike likewise affected the Jersey City business.

REAL BLIND MEN'S BUFF

One Hundred and Thirty-Eight Men Use Brooms in Riot.

Philadelphia, March 11.—One hundred and thirty-five blind men swung brooms on each other's heads in a riot on the third floor of the Pennsylvania Working Home for Blind Men at Thirty-sixth street and Lancaster avenue. Two men were knocked unconscious and were taken to the University hospital, and it required ten policemen, summoned by a telephone call from the superintendent of the home, to subdue them. The policemen heard the noise of the conflict and the shrieks of the blind men before the patrol wagon reached the building.

In the broom department of the home the policemen found the crowd of stumbling men swinging the broom handles and clutching each other. Many had fallen to the floor and the crowd raged over them. Despite their blindness the inmates were able to hurt each other severely.

When Police Sergeant Van Horne asked for an explanation it was given to him by every one able to talk. After the tumult had died away he was told that two blind men who had been close friends for several years and who made brooms together at the same bench had disagreed about the division of work and that one had struck the other with a broom handle, knocking him down. The high voices of the quarreling men attracted the attention of the others from their work and when the fight started they all jumped in.

MEMBERS OF MUCH DREADED CAMORRA PLACED ON TRIAL

Italy Will Try to Break Up Secret Society of Vast Power.

Believed Secret of Death of American Detective Will Be Cleared.

Over Two Score of the Terrorists Are Arraigned in Court.

Viterbo, Italy, March 11.—The trial of the forty-one members of the Neapolitan Camorra which has terrorized Italy for many years was begun today. A jury was secured more readily than had been anticipated, and early in the afternoon Cavaliero Bianchi, the president of the court chosen by the ministry of justice to preside, opened the interrogation of the accused. He limited his questions to an inquiry into the personal records.

The prisoners are charged with the assassination of fellow members in the Camorra, Gennaro Cuoccolo and his wife, Maria Cutinelli Cuoccolo, popularly known as the "Beautiful Sorrentina." Behind this charge are allegations of numberless murders and robberies perpetrated by what is perhaps the best organized and most desperate criminal society of modern times.

TWO WOMEN ARE GIVEN WHIPPING

Two Buggy Whips Worn Out on Their Backs By Mob.

Lexington, Ky., March 11.—Garbed as "Whitecaps," a score or more women joined with about 100 men in administering a whipping to two women in Morgan county, according to dispatches that arrived here today. The victims of the mob were sisters, Annie and Mary Combs.

The beating was most severe as attested by the fact that two new buggy whips were worn out on the backs of the women. After that they were forced into a vehicle, sent to the nearest railroad station and put on a train for their former home in Breathitt county under orders never to return.

The Combs sisters were accused of operating an illicit resort in an isolated section of Morgan county.

What Representative Miller Accomplished During the Short Session.

All Bills Introduced By Him Become Laws, Except One.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The short session of congress just closed, like all short sessions, was almost completely occupied with framing and passing the great appropriation bills. Under one of the new rules adopted at the beginning of this last congress, Wednesday of each week is known as "calendar day." On that day the committees are called in regular order, and bills that have been favorably reported by the committee are taken up. The rule also provides that any one committee cannot occupy more than two consecutive Wednesdays. However, if a bill is under consideration and not finished at the close of any Wednesday, it is unfinished business, and in order each Wednesday until finished. By accident or design, at the beginning of the short session the judiciary committee, having the call, presented a bill to reform the judicial procedure throughout the United States. This bill was so long and of such importance that it remained unfinished at the end of the session. Thus the much-prized calendar Wed-

TAFT AND JOHN D. MAY PLAY GOLF

President and Oil Magnate Guests at the Same Hotel.

Augusta, Ga., March 11.—President Taft reached Augusta early today for a brief period of rest before returning to Washington to take up his work on the extra session of congress. Mrs. Taft and Miss Helen Taft will join the president tomorrow.

Mr. Taft expects to golf every morning and motor during the afternoons. He expects to have a very quiet time while here and has asked his many personal friends in Augusta to treat him just like "home folks." At the hotel where he is stopping the president breakfasted in the public dining room. His stay here promises to be marked by informality.

A private telephone line has been set up direct from his room to the White House at Washington.

John D. Rockefeller is a fellow guest with the president at the hotel and there is much speculation as to whether a golf match might be arranged between the two.

WITH A SMILE

Man, Who Was Supposed to Be Dead, Met a Coroner.

Muncie, Ind., March 11.—When the coroner and police arrived at the home of John Van, expecting to view his body after he had supposedly committed suicide with a shotgun, they were somewhat disconcerted to be greeted at the door by a smile and a handshake from Van. He had become angry at his wife, and rushing to a bedroom said he was going to kill himself. The sound of a shotgun was heard and the family sent for the police and coroner. Van said he had merely discharged the weapon in order to frighten his wife.

SUGAR TRUST IS WILLING TO SETTLE SUIT

In Case Standard Oil and Tobacco Trust Lose in Supreme Court.

Will Not Wait for a Decision in Case Filed Nov. 28.

Board of Directors So Recommends to Stockholders of Company.

New York, March 11.—The board of directors of the American Sugar Refining company announces that if the supreme court decides the American Tobacco company and the Standard Oil company are violating the Sherman anti-trust law, it will take immediate steps to comply with the decision and will not wait for the judgment of that court in the case filed on Nov. 28 last by the government to determine whether the sugar company is violating the law.

The board of directors in its statement to stockholders said:

"While these decisions, if adverse to the Standard Oil company and the tobacco company, will not necessarily decide the legal questions against your company, yet if the decisions are adverse to the government it is confidently believed that they will put an end to the litigation against your company."

Owing to large amounts spent for improvements during the year and to unfavorable conditions prevailing in the sugar trade throughout the world, the American Sugar Refining company in its annual report showed a deficit of $1,427,623. The company also paid the United States government during 1910, $700,000 in settlements of the undervaluation suits.

George H. Church was elected a director to succeed Arthur Donner. The other directors were re-elected.

DIES FROM SHOCK OF BIG EXPLOSION

Kenosha Banker Expires From Relapse Following Concussion.

Kenoshia, Wis., March 11.—W. P. Robinson, assistant cashier of the First National bank, died at his home in this city today as a result of shock, caused by the explosion of the powder plant at Pleasant Prairie on Thursday night. Mr. Robinson had been ill, but was convalescent when the shock came. It brought a nervous relapse and Mr. Robinson sank rapidly. He was 66 years old and one of the most prominent men in Kenosha.

State Senator Isaac T. Bishop telegraphed from Madison today that he had a bill ready for introduction into the state senate on Monday which would eliminate powder mills from thickly settled portions of Wisconsin, and especially Kenosha county.

The bill will be presented to both houses of the legislature on Monday morning and it is hoped it will be passed with an emergency clause, making it go into effect at once.

Senator Bishop will come to Kenosha tonight with members of the state senate and they are expected to visit the ruins of the village of Pleasant Prairie on Sunday.

I had a severe backache some time ago which could not be cured by the doctors' medicine. I am glad to say however that Swamp-Root cured me in a few weeks time.

So certain am I that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is a medicine of merit that I send you this testimonial which you can use any time.

CONDITION OF INDIANS ON BOIS FORT RESERVATION

Government Farmer Brewer Makes Reply to William Orr.

Indigent Indians on the Reservation Are Looked After.

George W. Brewer, the government farmer at the Bois Fort reservation, has forwarded to The Herald the following reply to recent statements by William Orr on the condition of the Indians:

Nett Lake, Minn., March 8.—Government rations are issued to the Nett Lake Indians as have been allowed by the government, and more rations were asked for last year than were allowed. Last year the agent asked authority to issue more rations and he was told by the bureau that the allowances allowed were maximum, and that it is the government's object to get rid of these issues at the earliest possible date, and that if the Indians are taught by practice to expect a given amount, that time will be longer put off. But no Indians have been suffering here. I myself have issued the rations, all that have been allowed by the government. If these old Indians were economical in using their rations, they would not be without food; but, instead, other Indians will visit them till the rations are all gone. Ration Indians also often call their friends to a feast to help them eat up the rations as soon as they have gotten them. A case was that of Farmer John the latter part of last May. I had issued him rations, and that same evening the Indians of the town were seen going there with their plates to feast. And then it was reported that the government let the old man starve. In fact he was well taken care of and the agent issued him extra rations and also had the school mess furnish him meals regularly and I again issued him rations the first of July, rations to last him a month, according to the government tables of issue. Then it is reported that he starved to death on July 12. Not a word of it is true.

Dogs, Snuff and Tobacco.

But to come back to the old Indians here. They all have several dogs to feed. They also use tobacco and snuff continually from early morning till they retire at night which is a luxury that the average white man could not afford, the way they use it. Many of them spend their entire annuity money for tobacco and snuff. This is their own statement. Others spend their annuity money for calico and blankets to give to the medicine men, the Indian doctors, when we already have an able white physician furnished by the government for them. Some of the indigent Indians traded their rations for snuff. The indigent Indians actually living on the Bois Fort reservation are not suffering and wood is furnished them by the government when unable to get it themselves. In the case of Peter Drift, at Orr: He has received two quarterly rations since and including Dec. 3, 1910, and had received the same prior to Feb. 1, 1911. He lives at Orr and rations can only be got by him when the team can cross the lake. This accounts for his not having the rations for the second quarter, 1911, sooner than Dec. 31.

Now, about the three Indians at Orr mentioned in the correspondence. Peter Drift has drawn rations since before I came to this place. It was not known where the other two Indians really lived till the time of the annuity payment this year. The Bois Fort Indians live scattered over a wide area from Fort Frances in Canada to Duluth, Superior and even to Bayfield in Wisconsin, and many checks drawn for these Indians by Supt. Jackson and Dr. Rodwell have been returned to the government to be canceled because the payee could not be located—some of the checks being returned on this very mail. When making the payment at Orr Jan. 18, Mr. Orr stated to Mr. Reagan that O. M. Goodsky and Rumbow Drift were destitute and needed rations. The agent had just handed each an annuity check to the amount of $13.24. He told them that they should use the money they were getting to buy groceries, and that next quarter he would try and get them rations; he had no rations then to issue them, as he had issued all the rations he had been allowed for the quarter already.

Traveling Under Difficulties.

On Feb. 2, Mr. Reagan received a letter from Mr. Orr stating that Peter Drift was out of wood. On the same mail Mr. Reagan received a subpoena to appear in court against Andrew Williamson at Virginia. On the following morning he started to Orr with the government team with rations for the three destitute Indians, and also to get some wood for Peter Drift. The snow was found to be about four feet deep. They were all day trying to get to Orr with the rations and on into the night. At about midnight one of the government horses went through an airhole in the ice on Pelican lake, and it was with difficulty that he was saved from drowning. The horse was then hurried back to the agency barn, the rations stored in the government warehouse at Farmer John's landing on the west side of Pelican lake, and the government party went on to Orr on snowshoes, arriving there at about 7:15 a. m., and the train being late they had time to board it and went on to Virginia. But Mr. Reagan left word to have wood cut for Peter Drift and also to be sure the wood would be cut he wrote back from Virginia to Mr. Orr to be sure and have it cut. But the rations he could not get to him, or to the other old Indians there as he could not get them across the lake, and they could not ge got across the lake since then till this week. Neither had Mr. Reagan had time to visit the homes and find out the true condition there. No doubt, the Indians had made a great howl to Mr. Orr about being in a starving condition (Indians are good calamity howlers). But what had each family done with the $13.24 which Mr. Reagan had paid them less than two weeks before?

The trial Mr. Reagan had been summoned on was postponed. So, as he had some business at Duluth, he went there on Monday, Feb. 6. His business was with the county board of commissioners about the Nett Lake-Pelican road. On the way down there, Mr. Orr's first publication about the destitute Indians was handed him. While at Duluth in the courthouse, he chanced to see the poor board and while in conversation with them, handed them the published statement of William Orr. The charity people had explained to them the situation that the rations furnished by the government could not be got to the people mentioned in the article. So they offered to furnish rations for one month, $1 for each family, till rations could be got to them. And I do not see any harm in that. Seventy-three Indians voted in this precinct last fall at the primary and at the election. I am also advised that they voted at Brookston. They are declared citizens of this county, and I think it is a part of the county's business to look after its destitute Indians. The government will look after those on the reservation. But to continue. On Mr. Reagan's return to Orr on the 7th, he and Rev. Frank H. Pequette visited Peter Drift's place and lo! there was a whole 100-lb sack of government flour in the house not even opened, 15 pounds of bacon, 25 pounds of crackers, 20 pounds of beans, all government rations that I had issued him some three weeks previously, and the aged man also stated that he had some of his annuity money left!

Since I came to the place the Indians as a whole have improved; they have better houses, a better way of living, and whisky is kept from them by the government officials, except that which is brought in on the sly. If the present administration is maintained, they will continue to improve.

Gamble Away Everything.

These Indians are great gamblers, with a few exceptions. They will sit on the hillside and gamble when they should be working to maintain themselves, and then they will abuse the government because they have short provisions. They gamble away most everything they have on the games, often. Many of the Indians spent most of last year gambling. They sat on the hillside in the village and gambled the greater part of the rice picking season, while at the same time the rice was breaking down and spoiling. And what little the most of them got, they gambled it away to some Canadians who were here and let them take it away with them. Mr. Orr bought $800 worth of rice for cash, but finding that the money was being used in gambling games and not being used for food for the families, he stopped the cash payment and bought rice only in trade. The Indians then gambled the rice away and their bedclothes and their own personal clothes. The agent remonstrated with them about the gambling and was abused by them for so doing. After the Canadians went away some of thes people had but little left.

As has been noted the majority of these Indians use a medicine doctor a great deal. Whenever an Indian has any money, if none of his family is not already sick, the medicine man makes him believe he or some of his family will be sick if he does not have him perform in his house and if they are sick so much the better, medicine performance is demanded. And the Indian believes it and pays the price. They performed over Tom Farmer's boy till he died. And Tom Farmer's daughter bought between $8 and $10 worth of calico and blankets to pay them when she was able to do so. Also old Indians who have asked the government to support them gave all their annuity money (paid the latter part of January) to the medicine men (or the value thereof in goods) as soon as they drew their checks. The chief medicine men are Daybwaywaindung, Mahjishkung, Ahnahkahmekenung and Kah-ke-way-aush.

Refuse Annuity Payment.

After working nearly day and night and even Sundays to get the papers ready, the agent, by employing every possible help he could, was ready to make the annuity payment to the Indians on Jan. 16 last. A few days before time for the payment he advised the Indians that he would probably pay them on Jan. 16. At once a meeting was called at Chief Mahjishkung's house, Jan. 13, and it was voted not to take their annuity money. On Jan. 16 the agent was too wary for the Indians. It had been planned by them to wait till they met in the school house, as was customary at paying time, and then they would declare that they would not take the money. So the agent paid them in his office one at a time and called in those whom he knew would take the money, if alone. But before noon the chiefs stopped the individual paying of indians and for a considerable time no one would take any money. One young man would not take his money because he said the Indians would abuse him. And one woman, who had got her money, was ordered back by the chiefs to return it, and she came and tried to make the agent take the money back. And the chiefs, principally Daybwaywaindung, did abuse those who had disobeyed their order. Mr. Orr and his clerk, Mr. Clark, also took a hand in the deal and helped in persuading the Indians to take their checks. All finally took their pay but Chief Mahjishkung, and he finally was willing to take his two days ago. But the Indians during their annuity money the first day necessitated the staying a day at the agency longer in making the payment than would have been necessery, a delay that was costly to the government. For it was necessary to go by railroad to pay the Indians at Tower, to meet the Indians there as billed on the trip, instead of by team as had been planned. And these Indians who are reported to be starving refused to take their own money when offered to them by the agent. Did any one ever hear of starving people before who would not take their own money when offered to them?

If the Indians here had some poultry, a cow to each family, a larger garden (there is not an Indian here with one-eighth of an acre under cultivation at the present time) and some fruit trees, less dogs and less ponies that they don't use, also if they used less tobacco and snuff and should adopt the white man's ways as to economy, they would have plenty of food, be healthier and enjoy life far better than they now do. All this we government officials are doing all we can to induce them to improve along this line. And we have seen a marked improvement during 1910, and believe there will be greater improvement during 1911. Two cows are already on the reservation and some Indians have chickens.

Now for the Work.

The majority of these Indians do not wish to work; they wish the government to keep them.

On June 14 last a fire broke out on the reservation. The agent ordered the Indians out to put the fire out, offering them 20 cents per hour for their labor. But they refused to go. They staid in the village and gambled instead. The majority of them would not go at all till the agent threatened to hire white people to put out the fire and had advertised at Orr for men. And then not all answered the call.

Time and again has the agent asked Indians to work and it was with difficulty that he got any one. Oct. 21 last he was looking for plasterers to plaster the chinks in the agency woodhouse and storeroom. The following said they did not wish work: Charles Farmer, O. M. Johnson, Jim Martin, Jim Smith and two other Indians. Messrs. Courtney and Everson, when erecting the school quarters here last fall, offered work to the Indians. Only four or five offered to work and these quit one by one, long before the work was finished. The Indians have pony teams. On Feb. 3 last, the agent tried to hire a team and was refused by every owner of same. Others have been refused also.

Last fall was fine and there was considerable hay on the reservation. Hay was at a good price. Mr. Orr offered to buy all the hay the Indians would put up; but the Indians gambled the fall away and 100 tons of hay was not cut that could have been cut. The government allowance has not been filled yet, though the government will pay a good price for the hay. It is not filled because the hay was not cut by the Indians.

That $1,000 Road Appropriation.

I notice that the agent is blamed for the Indians not being employed in repairing the government road. If the facts were known there would be no censure from anyone.

Mr. Reagan received authority for repairing road from Nett lake to Pelican lake Jan. 17. Immediately he had the following advertisement posted on the door of William Orr's store at Nett lake, the notice being posted there the day it is dated.

"Nett Lake, Minn., Jan. 18, 1911—Notice: I wish bids on furnishing 10,000 cedar poles. The poles must be straight and sixteen feet in length. People having children in school will be given preference, also Day-bway-wain-dung, Mah-jish-kung and Ahnah-kah-me-ke-nung. The office retains the right to reject any and all bids. I will be ready to receive bids as soon as I return from the pay trip. The poles purchased are to be placed sixteen in a pile end to end and straight alongside of the road through the swampy area on the reservation road east of the Pequette allotment. Albert B. Reagan, superintendent and special distributing agent."

Only four days ago did the agent receive a suitable bid to furnish these poles. Many of the Indians are now at work getting them out. I am advised that the chiefs would not allow the people to bid. The Indians could have worked if they had wished. I cannot see how the agent can be blamed for the Indians not bidding.

Now as to the people who have good intentions toward the Indians. If they would lend a helping hand to the closing up of bootlegging joints in the county of St. Louis in the parts of the county where there are Indians and would try to help the poor Indians who live in those remote parts they would be doing a great good and would not be working to death an already overworked agent to look after the interests of the Indians in those remote parts. This is not intended to censure William Orr, who is very kind to the Indians and everybody.

permit Howard to trade in 200 share lots on the father's security in the firm's hands. Howard quickly proved an adept at the intricacies of Wall street.

About two month later the father visited the Imbrie firm. As he entered the cashier's office he saw a check for $10,000 drawn in favor of his son Howard. He summoned the boy to Mr. Imbrie's private office.

Young Alexander proudly told his father he had won $40,000 in a few weeks. He was surprised at his parent's retort:

"Young man, you have been gambling. Your conduct has been outrageous. I left word here that you might trade in 200 shares and you have been plunging in 500 and maybe 1,000 share lots."

Then the irate father, he swore, gave the personal directions to James Imbrie that he would no longer be responsible for his son's trading.

When some months afterward the father made a demand on the firm for his security, he says it was refused. He claims the Imbrie firm informed him young Howard's winnings had dwindled and that the son had drawn on the firm to the extent of $40,000. The father refused to take a balance and brought suit for the securities. The Imbrie side of the controversy is yet to be heard

PATTON TO SPEAK ON PAVEMENTS

Interesting Subjects Chosen for Discussion at County Club Meeting.

W. B. Patton, formerly city engineer of Duluth, will speak on paving methods at the meeting of the County club next Wednesday. The club has had discussions of good roads at different meetings, but Mr. Patton's talk will go farther in describing what constiutes good roads.

"Best Methods of Agricultural Instruction," will be one of the subjects for discussion. It will be introduced by A. B. Hostetter, agricultural expert of the Commercial club, who will report the progress made in the attempt to obtain from the state legislature an appropriation for an agricultural school to be conducted along simple lines in St. Louis county.

Invitations to attend Wednesday's meeting have been sent to the members of the county board and to other county officers. It is expected that the attendance will be larger than at any previous meeting of the County club, for the subjects to be discussed are of vital importance and the interest in the County club has been constantly increasing during the past year.

CONCLUSION OF NEW JAP TREATY

Celebrated By Premier Katsura With Dinner to Americans.

Tokio, March 11.—Marquis Katsura, premier and minister of finance, gave a dinner tonight for Ambassador O'Brien and the staff of the American embassy in celebration of the conclusion of the new commercial treaty between Japan and the United States.

An element of Japanese politicians numbering between 200 and 300 is endeavoring to create a sentiment in opposition to the treaty and to embarrass the government on the ground that it yielded to America's demand for a limitation of Japanese immigration. The movement is generally deprecated and is considered of little significance.

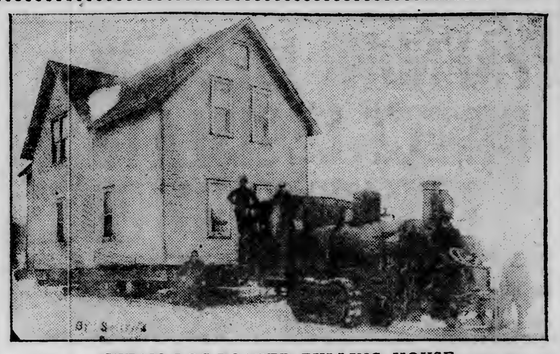
SCANLON BUILDINGS BEING HAULED AWAY



STEAM LOG-LOADER PULLING HOUSE.

Cloquet, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—For more than a year past the village of Scanlon has been gradually desolated of houses, and it has been a hard proposition to get the dwellings moved during the sleighing season rapidly enough to suit the purchasers of the buildings, which have been sold at figures so low as to be almost ridiculous, compared to the cost of building them. B. S. Whitman of Cloquet recently hit upon a scheme for getting the houses over the ground at a much more rapid rate, and the arrangement has met with even better success than was anticipated. Mr. Whitman secured the use of the Johnson-Wentworth company's steam log loader, and attaching this to a large two-story dwelling in Scanlon, had it moved in a few hours to the Whitman farm near Cloquet. Work that took days before the advent of the steam loader, is now accomplished in a few hours. Most of the houses either go to Cloquet or Carlton, though a few of them have been purchased by farmers. Last year it took several weeks to move a church from Scanlon to Cloquet and get it located on the lot, and the work, which before was entirely accomplished with horses, has been very slow, a building often standing in the middle of the street for days at a time.

MAY MEDIATE IN FIREMEN'S STRIKE

Provisions of Erdman Act Likely to Be Invoked By Knapp.

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 11.—Mediation as provided for in the Erdman law may bring about a settlement of the strike of the white firemen of the Cincinnati, New Orleans & Texas Pacific railway. Martin A. Knapp, presiding judge of the commerce court and one of the arbiters under the Erdman act, has wired both the railroad officials and officers of the union for particulars as to the question in dispute.

Both the railroad and union officers today declared that they were satisfied with the strike situation. Vice President Powell said passenger trains were running close to schedule, and that freight was being handled in a satisfactory manner.

On the other hand Vice President H. O. Teat of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, declared that the railroad's passenger trains were badly delayed and no freight whatever was being moved.

HOUR-OLD BABES ARE BETROTHED

Ceremony Witnessed By Medical Staff at Maternity Hospital.

New York, March 11.—In a ward at the JeJwish Maternity hospital, 270 East Broadway, last Sunday, Rachel, the daughter of Mrs. Farina Marcus, and Leonard, the son of Mrs. Mamie Barnett, both children less than an hour old, were betrothed in the presence of the staff surgeons and nurses.

The two women had been close friends from childhood, and when they were married promised to try to bring about the marriage of their children.

When the little boy and girl were both born within a few minutes of each other, and the mothers occupied adjacent cots in the hospital, it seemed as though nature had conspired for the fulfillment of their wish. The fathers of the children were present, and expressed themselves as highly pleased.

CANNONISM AT STATE CAPITOL

Lynn Haines Says C. A. Congdon Is "Biggest Man in House."

The members of the Lakeside club, and other interested citizens, last evening heard Lynn Haines, secretary of the Minnesota Voters' league, roast representatives from this part of the state, Speaker Dunn and others, whom he claimed were identified with "that crowd." The speech was delivered at the town hall, Lakeside.

He charged that the Minnesota state legislature is full of "Cannonism" and that Speaker Dunn is the Cannon of the state body.

It seemed to be Mr. Haines' idea to take as many direct slaps at Chester A. Congdon as he could crowd into the short space of time that he spoke.

"No one admires Mr. Congdon more than I," he said. "He is a fine man; he is interesting, entertaining, of broad mind and an untiring worker, with an intellect away beyond the ordinary. He is a master of men—he dominates them. His fellows have confidence in him—he is the biggest man in the house today.

"At the beginning of the present session of the legislature Mr. Congdon had the greatest opportunity to line up with the progressives and be to this state what many other statesmen have been to theirs. But he chose to line up with the speaker of the house, become a member of his own personal committee—the committee that voiced the sentiments of the speaker.

Speaker Is Master.

"The Cannonism in the Minnesota house makes the speaker the master instead of the servant. You have no idea how much power he and his followers have and how it is possible for them to adopt or reject any measure according to whether or not it strikes their fancy or lines up with the interests which they represent.

"Under this system bills are buried and they are kept buried. This is simply to kill time and make those who are responsible for them, come to terms on other bills before their particular bills are brought forth. They can be buried so deep that they can never be dug up. I have heard men speak for hours on subjects, that to say the least, were unimportant. This was merely to kill time that more important measures could not be taken up.

Overdoes It.

"Speaker Dunn has not been a clever politician. Instead of 'packing' his committees to just the right degree, he has overdone it. It has been so apparent what his intentions are, and where lay his sympathies, that he will soon lose out. His system is as top-heavy as it is unjust. He overdid it and the foundation of his power is crumbling of its own accord."

The speaker intimated that the tonnage tax bill presented this year was a piece of spite work.

"To Dunn and his friends may be laid the present agitation for a tonnage tax," he said. "If they had been fair, I venture to say that the tonnage tax would not have been mentioned at the present session.

"The only way to protect this section of the state from a tonnage tax is to send progressives from this locality.

"Reform is moral impulse. The people are beginning to awaken. Government means more in dollars and cents than any business. We are now on the way back, house cleaning politically as we go and the time is coming when situations such as we have at the present will not be experienced."

The members of the Lakeside club did not seem to warm up to the remarks to any marked degree. At the mention of the names of Senator Cleadle and "Jimmy" Boyle there was some hand clapping but this was the only enthusiasm shown.

After the talk the audience was invited to ply Mr. Haines with questions but there were but few asked.

Alexander G. McKnight acted as chairman of the meeting and introduced Mr. Haines. The meeting was a large one, every available seat in the hall being occupied.

Mr. Haines was entertained at lunch at the Commercial club at noon today by about twenty-five Duluth men. He delivered a short address on "The Hold-Up Legislature," and tonight at the First M. E. church he will address the brotherhoods of the city churches.

San Francisco, Cal., March 11.—One of the anti-Asiatic bills now before the state legislature at Sacramento was refused endorsement by the San Francisco labor council last night. The labor council decided that, though aimed at Asiatics, the bill would affect others.

MEDICAL INSTITUTE MAY LOCATE HERE

Directors of the United Doctors Look Over Duluth—Were Entertained by Committee.

It is probable that Duluth will be selected by the United Doctors as the location for their new Northwestern Medical Institute. Doctors Duckworth, Hover and Russell, three of the directors of the United Doctors, have been making a tour of the larger cities of the state with a view to selecting the location for their new Northwestern Institute. While being shown about the city by a committee today, these doctors expressed considerable admiration for Duluth, and it is hoped that they may be induced to locate here in preference to Minneapolis or other Northwestern cities.

The United Doctors, as the name implies, is an association of medical experts, who have made the curing of chronic diseases their life work. By uniting all the old systems of treatment these doctors have formed a new "united" system of medicine, which has been used with marvelous success in their various institutes of the East and in Canada.

Of late years the United Doctors have been branching out and establishing in Western states. In 1908 they established their first Western institute at Omaha, Neb. In 1909, they established two institutes in Illinois; one at Danville, and one at Decatur. Since then they have established institutes at Wichita, Kan., Joplin, Mo., Waterloo, Iowa, and Oshkosh, Wis. All of these Western institutes are permanently established and are now in a highly prosperous condition.

The many marvelous cures made by the United Doctors' new system of medicine in cases of old chronic and deep-seated diseases has excited comment, both from the pulpit and press, and attracts patients from all over the country. More information of the United Doctors will appear in these columns soon.

If these famous specialists do decide to locate here it will be a great boon to the sick as they can then secure the benefit of this wonderful new treatment without making a long journey away from home.

PUGILIST IS JAILED

"Kid Sharkey" Draws Straight Sentence on Vagrancy Charge.

Judge Catches Him in Misstatement and Imposes Limit.

Don't get caught telling a lie in police court. It's distastrous, as Henry Polinski, alias "Kid Sharkey," an erstwhile pugilist, found out yesterday afternoon.

Because he was detected red-handed in a lie he was handed three months in the county jail, being unable to pay a fine of $100. Of course Polinski was not convicted of telling a lie, being on trial for vagrancy, but if he hadn't told it, the chances are that he would have received a considerably lighter sentence.

Polinski, or "Kid Sharkey," told Judge Cutting that he was working as assistant barn boss for a local liveryman. He claimed that he had put in three days, and that if he hadn't been in jail, yesterday would have been the fourth day. To ascertain the truth of his statement, the police brought the liveryman into court. He testified that he had known Polinski for about seventeen years, but that he had never worked for him. Several other witnesses stated that they have seen Polinski about town all hours of the day and night, but did not know of any work that he was doing.

Polinski claimed that he has been running a shining parlor in Superior, and that he expected to open it again in a short time, when business would be better. The weight of the evidence was against the one-time "pug," and when the court heard the testimony of the liveryman he promptly imposed the maximum penalty. When Polinski gets out again he will have had ample time to reflect upon the worth of truthfulness.

Morris Paul, who has had the appelation of "Kid" Paul applied to him because of a few preliminaries in which he has engaged, got $20 and costs, or twenty days in the county jail, upon being convicted of interfering with an officer. Patrolman Musolf, who arrested Polinski, stated that "Kid" Paul tried to take Polinski away from him when he made the arrest. He also went over the hill, being unable to produce the sheckels necessary to secure his freedom.

UNKNOWN MAN KILLED BY TRAIN

Struck While Walking Along the Track Near Brookston.

An unknown man was killed by a train near Brookston last night while walking along the track, according to information which reached Duluth today. It is stated that the body was horribly mutilated. As far as can be learned, the identity of the dead man has not been established. It is said that there were no papers in his pockets or any marks to aid the authorities in ascertaining who he was.

John McCullough of Crawford's undertaking establishment was deputized as an assistant coroner and has gone to Brookston to bring the remains to this city. It is expected that he will get here with them tonight.

BROWSING COWS GIVE BEST MILK

"Sawdust" Will Probably Be Regular Feed of Family Cow.

The jokesmiths have been busy for several years past constructing sad specimens of alleged humor anent the qualities of sawdust as a breakfast food. Although the day is probably far distant when real sawdust will be inflicted upon the human family as an edible, sawdust as a food is coming into its own—for cows.

Soon lumber will be but a byproduct of saw mills and the mills will be working overtime producing feed for the poor man's cow, if the plan of C. I. Cook of Marinette, Wis., goes through. Agricultural experts in Duluth are watching with interest Mr. Cook's experiment and are awaiting the report of the Wisconsin state agricultural department on Mr. Cook's project.

Mr. Cook has determined that cows which subsist by browsing give better milk than those which stick to the clover field and the hay stack. In fact, according to Mr. Cook, a cow will take to the tips of branches on a tree in preference to a hay stack or clover field.

He has made a pulp of twigs and small branches of trees and has fed it to the cows on his dairy near Marinette with great success. The plan is now being investigated by agricultural experts and if it is pronounced a success, the price of hay should take a sudden tumble and the cost of keeping cows in the settlements of the North woods should be greatly reduced.

GARBAGE CANS CAUSE TROUBLE

Dogs and Cats Fight and Keep Nearby Residents Awake.

Residents in the vicinity of Third avenue west and Third street have appealed to the officials of the health department to help them sleep in peace. Night after night they claim they have been unceremoniously dragged from the soothing arms of Morpheus by unearthly screams and yipps and snarls and howls. They assert that they have begun to grow thin and wan from loss of sleep, being unable to stop the noise which breaks loose as surely as darkness comes around.

Investigation by the health department showed that two or three garbage cans were the cause of the whole disturbance. Several thoughtless dwellers in the vicinity have neglected to cover them. As a result the alley has been the stamping ground of numerous cats and dogs, who have been fighting over the morsels to be found in the cans.

The owners of the garbage cans have been directed to procure covers, and it is expected that henceforth quiet will prevail in that neighborhood, at least until the covers are lost or broken.

Cake Walk at Armory Is Marred By a Stern Command.

Masks Not Allowed But It Was a Lovely Party, Nevertheless.

From several sources of information, the cake walk and advertised masquerade ball at the Armory last evening was a shining success in all but one detail — the dancers were not masked.

It so happened that early in the evening a stern-visaged man appeared at the door and asked for Mr. Gibson. Be it known that Mr. Gibson is some important in colored circles, is an authority on the poetic motion of the cake walk and the Mendelssolin swing, as according to his own words he put over the biggest cake walk that was ever held in Minneapolis.

But back to the thread of the narrative. This mean man asked for Mr. Gibson, and finding Mr. Gibson courteously in attendance at the front door of the Armory where the festivities were celebrated, stated that no persons in masks would be allowed in the hall, even if the assistance of the minions of the law would have to be called in.

Here was a predicament, not to mention quandry and dilemma. It is said the stern mandate issued from Col. Resche of the Armory board. Be that as it may, it struck Mr. Gibson with cruel force, for he had advertised the affair as a masked ball and cake walk and in coolred circles plans had been made and money spent for masks of various designs and unique taste.

In fact, a tragedy almost occurred over the order barring the maskers.

The doorman was tearfully told that he would have to request the ladies and gentlemen to remove their masks. Mr. Gibson said it was a shame, several degrees worse than a measly shame, but there was no dodging the issue.

A Near Tragedy.

One man approached and presented his ticket and was about to wend his way in to mix with the gay revelers.

"Pawdon muh," courteously remarked the man at the door, "but accordin' to ahders, sah, you all will have to take off dat 'er mask."

"Look hare man, be you tryin' to sasperate me," returned the man passing through, making a suspicious move that commands immediate attention in certain circles, "doggone you, I ain't got no mask on."

In war circles they often refer to the crux of the situation. It is one of the favorite words of rising young diplomats. This indeed, was the crux of the situation. The doorkeeper made haste to beg the pardon of the man with the peculiar countenance, and a crisis was averted by skilful diplomacy, following the unfortunate outbreak.

Now that we have got by the door, us for the ball.

"Some Ball."

She was some ball, according to the words of Mr. Gibson, though that gentleman stated that it would have been more successful had the cake walkers and dancers not been obliged to remove their masks.

"Some of de colored gents and ladies sure did pay $3 and $4 for dem masks, and den they jes had to remove dem," and for the moment Mr. Gibson forget the success of the ball to relate some of his own troubles.

Mr. Gibson has been charge d' affaires at some of the best little colored balls given in the West. Over 300 couples provected, glided and undulated in and out under the magic of his movements in that famous Minneapolis ball, and last night Mr. Gibson was right in his element. In every way the ball was a huge success—but those masks.

"Some of mah frens jes turn roight bac at de door, wen dey heah dat no masks is lowed," said Mr. Gibson and he stated that if it had not been for this misunderstanding over the wearing of masks, the crowd would have been much larger than it was.

There was the cakewalk and then the ball followed. In the galleries of the Armory were some very prominent Duluth citizens, who were present at the invitation of Mr. Gibson and they thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

They did some things in that cakewalk that were never seen in other dances. They reeled and swung, and did a shuffling glide, an enchanting swing and a kind of back and forth circle that would make the dip for death look as tame and unromantic as a lazy bear crawling over the brow of a mountain.

There were three prizes for the cakewalk. Mr. Gibson stated that the first prize was carried away by some young man whose name did not just come to his recollection. The second and third prizes were $7.50 and a bracelet, respectively.

So great was the success of the ball that another one may be given in the near future. The barring of the masks somewhat interfered with the success of the party, and this morning Mr. Gibson said he was going to get the legal slant on the situation and then seek reparation.

"I've been wronged somewhat scandalously," said Mr. Gibson, and he is a promoter of both discretion and experience.

DEPOSIT SLIP DISAPPEARED

Senator Bailey Summoned to Tell What He Knows About It.

Springfield, Ill., March 11.—State's Attorney Burke today obtained a subpoena duces tecum for United States Senator Bailey of Texas, summoning him as a witness in the case against State Senator J. J. Broderick of Chicago, who is charged by Former State Senator David H. Holstlaw with paying him $2,500 on July 15, 1909, in Broderick's saloon in Chicago for Hoistlaw's vote for Lorimer for United States senator. Holstlaw produced a deposit slip for that amount on the State Bank of Chicago in which bank he said he deposited the money.

The deposit slip was taken to Washington by the sub-committee investigating Lorimer's election and disappeared during Senator Bailey's speech.

FIFTH JUDGE IS NEEDED

Bar Association Will Prepare Bill Authorizing His Appointment.

At the meeting of the Bar association of the Eleventh judicial district, held this noon at the Commercial club, it was decided that a Fifth district judge is needed and John G. Williams, Howard Abbott, Thomas Wood, R. R. Briggs and Bert Fesler were appointed a committee to draft a bill to be presented to the St. Louis county delegation at St. Paul.

The meeting of the attorneys was well attended. L. C. Harris acted as chairman and outlined the reason for the meeting by stating that the four judges are, at the present time, overworked, and that it is apparent that a fifth is needed.

The local judges, he said, had not mentioned the fact that they have more than they can do and it is not on any suggestion on their part that the action was taken. It is known, however, that they have had more than they could do for some time past.

The matter of voicing their sentiments in the matter of a new judge and the appointment of a committee to draw up the laws was the only business transacted.

It is thought that there will be little trouble in getting another judge for Duluth. Several members of the St. Louis county delegation have been heard to remark that the bill would go through if presented.

Just who the bar association will indorse as its candidate is not known, but the names of S. T. Harrison and L. C. Harris are being mentioned prominently.

WALKER ON THE METAL

Walker's copper letter in Saturday's Boston Commercial says:

"Copper is dull and weaker. Lake is selling at 12¾ cents and electrolytic at 12¼ cents a pound. Anticipation of a possible further decline is keeping consumers out of the market, and the percentage of cash and nearby delivery business is steadily increasing. There is hardly an encouraging feature in the situation, all of the factors which made for cheerfulness during the last half of the past year having collapsed, one after the other.

The copper producers' association statement for February was even a worse showing than had been expected. The American surplus increased 14,198,280 pounds, and the world's surplus, 12,386,120 pounds. There was a gain of almost 8,500,000 pounds in domestic deliveries, a decrease of about 8,000,000 pounds in exports, and a shrinkage of nearly 6,000,000 pounds in production, the latter being the smallest since February, 1909.

From July to December last, inclusive, the world's copper surplus declined steadily. During those six months the total surplus showed a shrinkage of about 23 per cent, or over 91,000,000 pounds. A sudden and unexpected falling off in consumption, however, caused an increase of over 31,000,000 pounds in the world's surplus during the past two months. Production continues to be curtailed, but within the next three or four months new producing mines will begin adding to the output. If the promised improvement in the general business situation materializes soon there will be a sudden and very large increase in copper consumption. There is no good reason for the belief that foreign consumption has fallen off. It would rather appear that the European copper interests have ceased buying temporarily, anticipating a slightly lower range of prices. For a great many years past Europe has always been found ready to buy copper in almost unlimited quantities at around 12 cents a pound.

BARON TO LECTURE.

New York, March 11.—Baron Paul d'Estournelles de Constant, member of the Hague peace tribunal, and former French minister at London, has come to visit America and like his fellow apostle, County Apponyi, a recent visitor, will lecture here on international peace.

Baron de Constant arrived on the La Provence.

"I will show," said the baron, "just what The Hague conferences were, the difficulties they met with, and their achievements. I will comment on their dispositions relating to the rights of man and to the duty of the government to the people."

The baron is insistent on the necessity of preparing a platform for the third conference and of developing methodically the progress of compulsory arbitration.

President Taft will entertain the French statesman and diplomat.

JURY DISAGREES IN CASE OF POLITICIAN.

New York, March 11.—A disagreement of the jury was the outcome today of the trial of Antonio Zucca, a former coroner and prominent Tammany politician, on an indictment charging that he had defrauded the government by the false invoicing and weighing of cheese imports. Zucca is head of the firm of Zucca & Co., importers of cheese and other products.

COMING from CALIFORNIA!

The "SUNKIST" Special, Moving at Express Train Speed, is Bringing TWENTY THOUSAND Boxes of Famous "SUNKIST" Oranges

Special Sale of "SUNKIST" Oranges All Next Week

Another big sale of "Sunkist" oranges will begin Monday next, continuing till the close of the week.

These special sales, which are held from time to time, are proving immensely popular.

Nearly everybody now knows the excellence of "Sunkist" oranges and they look forward with great interest to these announcements. If you and your people have never eaten "Sunkist" oranges, please try them. Until you do so, you can not imagine the delicious taste of fresh picked, tree-ripened oranges.

Special "Sunkist" Train

Two giant locomotives, pulling 48 refrigerator cars laden with fresh-picked, tree-ripened oranges—the select crop of 5,000 groves—will soon arrive from California.

So carefully have these oranges been picked; so rigidly were they inspected and graded; so rapidly are they being transported, that the people of this vicinity will be able to secure oranges as fresh, sweet and wholesome as can be bought in Los Angeles or San Francisco.

Your dealer and all other local dealers will be supplied with "Sunkist" oranges from the "Sunkist" Special Train.

"Sunkist" is the Perfect Orange

"Sunkist" is not a species or variety of oranges—it is a certain grade or quality, the choicest of each of five thousand California Orange Farmers, who produce 60% of the state's entire crop. They pack all their perfect oranges under the one name, "Sunkist," and ship them East by special fast freight.

Every "Sunkist" orange is firm, solid and sound. It is picked by a gloved hand. No orange that falls to the ground or becomes bruised or damaged in any other way, ever bears the "Sunkist" name.

Cheapest You Can Buy

"Sunkist" oranges are not only the finest flavored, freshest and most healthful of all oranges, but they are actually the least costly you can buy. Being seedless, fibreless and thin-skinned, the percentage of waste is extremely small. The tender, luscious pulp comprises 98% of the orange.

So it means economy to buy "Sunkist" oranges.

Buy "Sunkist" by the box. You can obtain a worth-while reduction on a box from your dealer. Because of their excellent condition "Sunkist" oranges keep better than others.

Many Ways to Serve Them

Oranges are the most appetizing and nourishing foods one can serve—at breakfast—in the sick room—between meals—in salads, ices, sherbets and puddings.

There is no limit to the number of excellent dishes of which "Sunkist" oranges form the basis.

Doctors Recommend Them

It is very unusual to find a food that people like and can safely eat as much of as they please. Leading physicians say that to counteract the meats and other heavy foods we eat, one should eat oranges liberally. It is a universally known fact that orange juice is an excellent food for the brain cells and a tonic for run-down nerves. No better laxative than sound, ripe oranges can be found.

There Are "Sunkist" Lemons

The better grade of lemons are now packed in "Sunkist" wrappers. By calling for "Sunkist" lemons, you avoid the kind that are thick-skinned, pithy and insipid. The "Sunkist" lemon contains 50% more juice than any other lemon.

Save Your "Sunkist" Wrappers

By saving your "Sunkist" orange and lemon wrappers you can easily secure a full set of genuine Rogers orange spoons, dessert spoons and fruit knives. The patterns shown are new 1911 styles, designed exclusively for us. They are as attractive and stylish as money can buy. All are Rogers quality, standard A-No. 1 plate and are fully guaranteed by the maker. No advertising appears on any of our premiums.

TAFT TALKS AT ATLANTA

Makes Notable Speech Before Southern Commercial Congress.

Governor Wilson of New Jersey Given an Ovation By Audience.

Atlanta, Ga., March 10.—President Taft, in a notable speech before the closing session of the Southern Commercial congress last night, made a plea to the young men of the South to take up the political issues of the day from a broad and liberal standpoint and to eliminate from their consideration all narrow partisanship and sectionalism.

"Come fully into our national community," said the president, "with the patriotic purpose of stimulating the progress of our civilization in every right direction, maintaining our country's prosperity and accumulating its wealth, but always in subordination to higher ethical standards and to the promotion of righteousness and justice."

The president reviewed briefly the accomplishments of the Sixty-first congress, declaring that in its three sessions just closed it had enacted more helpful legislation than any congress since the Civil war. Mr. Taft asserted that the greatest accomplishment of the short session ended March 4, was the ratification of the Japanese treaty. The greatest disappointment, he said, was the failure of congress to ratify the reciprocity agreement with Canada. In this connection he referred to his action in calling an extra session of congress to convene on April 4.

"My opinion is," said Mr. Taft, "that a majority of both houses, without regard to party lines, will seize a great national opportunity and promptly ratify the agreement before proceeding to other business."

Referring again to the subject of Canadian reciprocity the president said it was one in which the South particularly was interested, inasmuch as vegetables and cotton seed oil are both put upon the free list by the removal of the heavy duties on both.

"But," said the president, "I don't ask your support on the ground of any local advantage. I do it because I regard the treaty, if adopted, as the beginning of a new relation between our rapidly growing neighbor on the North and ourselves, which will inure greatly to the benefit of both."

Other leading speakers at the closing session of the congress were Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey and Secretary of War Dickinson.

The president departed at midnight for Augusta, where he is to have a nine days' vacation. From the moment of his arrival until the moment of his departure the president was busy.

Wilson Given Ovation.

Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey was given an ovation when he was presented by Senator Duncan U. Fletcher of Florida, a former Georgian.

The South is now face to face with the "interests," said Governor Wilson, and on the manner in which it will deal with the great corporations, which he declared were seeking to exploit the resources of the South, depends the South's future.

Governor Wilson stated that this is a constructive age in this country, and it should not be the policy of the nation to embarrass corporations; but so long as they made profits legally and served the public, they should be encouraged. Unless a corporation did serve the people, its profits were illegitimate, and such a corporation should be dissolved.

Governor Wilson declared that the South now was gradually coming back to its old position in the affairs of the nation, bringing its character, its traditions and beliefs to rejuvenate the national political structure.

Preceding the speech-making, the report of the committee on nominations was received and adopted. The new officers elected were: President, Senator Duncan U. Fletcher of Florida; honorary president, J. M. Parker of New Orleans; first vice president, Dr. Francis, ex-governor of Missouri; second vice president, T. S. Southgate, Virginia.

Notice to Fat Women.

Presumably you know, ladies, that the proper caper nowadays is lines. Curves are passe. You have got to take off your fat. This must be done in one of three ways. By dieting, by exercises, or by means of Marmola Prescription Tablets. The two former will keep you busy for months and punish you pretty severely, the latter will cost you 75 cents at the druggist's. The tablets will not make any alteration in your diet necessary, and yet in all probability, before you have used up one case, you will be losing from 12 to 16 ounces of fat a day. Which method do you like the best?

If you fancy this pleasant method of getting off the fat, see your druggist instanly, or else write the Marmola Co., 491 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich., to send you a case by mail. These cases contain so generous a quantity of tables that the treatment is very economical. It is, also, quite harmless, for the tablets are made exactly in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription.

UNION MEN STARTLED

Trades Assembly Member Says the Body Is a Failure.

Unions Do Not Aid Each Other, Says W. E. Towne.

W. E. Towne stirred the members of the Duluth Trades and Labor assembly, when, at a meeting held last night at Kalamazoo hall, he stated that the federation in Duluth is a failure. He said one craft does not help another, and that the members of the assembly are using their membership for personal gain instead of having the welfare of the body at heart.

Many of the members of the body thought the speech untimely and others thought that it was what is needed at the present time to wake up the members and get them working for a better, stronger organization.

State Organizer Bueler of the Bakers' International union gave a short address in which he promised that Duluth people will soon have an opportunity of buying union-made bread. He said there is room for a big organization of the craft in this city.

The assembly is making arrangements for a big conference of all the unions in the city. This will be held some time during the month of April and its purpose will be to strengthen the unions.

CHANGE MADE IN PILOT RULES

Probability of Confusion in Vessels Passing Obliquely Is Eliminated.

John Monaghan and M. F. Chalk, local inspectors of hulls and boilers, have been notified that the board of supervising inspectors at a recent meeting eliminated Rule XI from the pilot rules for the Great Lakes. The change is of importance as a measure to lessen the danger of collisions.

Rule X, which now holds good without conflict, provides that when two vessels are approaching each other obliquely or at right angles, the steamer having the other on her port side shall keep her speed and course and shall have the right to cross the bow of the other steamer, which shall keep out of the way.

Rule XI, which has been eliminated, provided that under the same situation, if there was no apparent danger in the steamer having the other on her starboard bow crossing the bow of the other steamer, it could cross after a proper exchange of signals. It is thought that giving the steamer having the other on her port bow right of way under all circumstances will remove all possibility of a misunderstanding and greatly lessen the danger of collision.

DR. MITCHELL WILL SPEAK HERE

Prominent Chicago Pastor Will Address Sunday Afternoon Meeting.

Dr. Charles Bayard Mitchell of Chicago will be the speaker at the regular weekly men's mass meeting to be held at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow afternoon.

He is known as a dramatic speaker. "The Devil and a Man" will be his subject.

The Sunday afternoon meetings have been very popular this year. There will be but three or four more, as they are discontinued during the summer months.

WOULD DESTROY BUSINESS.

Minneapolis Men Protest Against Grain Bill in Canada.

Ottawa, Ont., March 11.—"If Canada puts through the grain bill in its present form, large investments of capital which we have made in Canada, will be wiped out," declared F. T. Heffelfinger of Minneapolis at a gathering of Canadian senators yesterday. "The bill provides that no one can own or operate a Canadian terminal elevator who deals in grain or who is interested in the storage of grain in any other form."

"We have control of terminal elevators at Fort William and Port Arthur. We own and operate 500 country elevators in Western Canada, and we have invested over $8,000,000 in them. We deal in grain. In fact, we are the largest grain dealers in Canada and we have to buy grain as a part of our business. This bill will prevent our continuing in business and will destroy our investment."

Mr. Heffelfinger was supported in his statement by F. B. Wells, W. D. Douglas and A. N. Searle, the two latter representing Minneapolis grain firms.

Mr. Searle said there was no objection to the strictest inspection of the terminal elevators at Fort William and Port Arthur. He would be willing, he said, to have the employes appointed by Canada, but it was necessary to the continuance of business that a firm be allowed to deal in grain, control country elevators and operate terminal elevators.

The senate will consider the bill Tuesday and efforts to cement it will then be made.

THE DAIRY COW AND HER VALUE

Every Duluth Family Should Own One, Says Prof. McGuire.

Prof. A. J. McGuire, superintendent of the state experiment station at Grand Rapids, stated in an address at the Y. M. C. A. last evening that in his opinion every family in Duluth should own a cow.

He declared that there is an excellent opportunity here for the operation of small dairies. He said that all the suburban dwellers ought to be able to take care of one or two cows, keep a number of chickens and look after a fair-sized garden. In fact, his idea was that the resident who has a few lots could be practically independent.

Prof. McGuire advocated the use of the Guernsey cow, as this breed is a compromise between the Holstein, which gives a large quantity of milk that is low in percentage of butter fat, and the Jersey, which gives a small amount of milk with a high percentage of butter fat.

Considerable attention should be paid to the feeding of the cow, explained Prof. McGuire last night. He stated that one of the great troubles with persons having one or two cows, or even big dairies, was that they didn't know how to feed their stock. He told of one dairyman who found when he weighed the feed he was giving his cows, that he was only getting about half the amount of milk the animals should be producing. He asserted that a good dairy cow ought to produce 5,000 pounds, or 2,500 quarts of milk a year, which, at 10 cents a quart, ought to leave a nice profit.

FOREST FIRES WILL HELP THE FARMERS.

H. Clementson, a resident of Baudette, who is at the St. Louis, states that very few people have left that section of the country as a result of disastrous forest fires last year. He says that because of the clearing of cut-over land done by the conflagration more people will devote their attention to farming. He explained that he knows one man who figures that he is about $2,000 ahead because the fire left 120 acres of his land in such shape that it can easily be cleared with a team. Mr. Clementson asserts that Baudette is being rebuilt on a bigger, better and more substantial scale and that the work is progressing rapidly.

"Foley's Honey and Tar is the best cough remedy I ever used as it quickly stopped a severe cough that had long troubled me," says J. W. Kuhn, Princeton, Neb. Just so quickly and surely it acts in all cases of coughs, colds, la grippe and lung trouble. Refuse substitutes. Sold by all druggists.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL AT ST. BONIFACE BURNS

Winnipeg, March 11.—St. Boniface industrial school was destroyed by fire last night. Eighty occupants of the building escaped. A valuable library of 5,000 volumes, as well as an Indian dictionary in manuscript, were destroyed. The dictionary is said to have been the only one of its kind in America and represented the work of pioneer missionary priests for 100 years. The loss from the fire is estimated at $125,000.

WEST END

WANT MEMBER OF PARK BOARD

West Enders Petition the Mayor for a Representative.

A petition asking that the mayor appoint a West end man to the park board, whenever the next vacancy occurs, was started yesterday at the West end. Today the paper had over sixty signers, mostly business men. It is thought that 200 signatures can be secured easily.

West end people have been agitating for more representation on the park board and the petition points out that although almost half of the population of Duluth resides west of the Point of Rocks, that district has no representation on the park board.

The petition is as follows:

"To his Honor, the Mayor—We, the undersigned, residents of the district west of the Point of Rocks, knowing that the time is near at hand when a vacancy occurs on the park board of the city and in view of the fact that at the present time the western part of the city has no representation on the said board and that nearly one-half of the people of the city reside in said district and further that several of the popular parks are located in this district and that several new ones are proposed, respectfully request that when such vacancy occurs, you appoint a representative man who lives in this district."

Although the petition brings out no particular candidate for the position, there is a movement on foot to urge the selection of James W. Preston, former member of the board of public works, as the West end representative on the board. Other candidates may also be brought forward.

PFAENDER BILL FOR DIRECT LEGISLATION IS PASSED BY HOUSE

cratic measure was passed and will go to the senate, unless a motion to reconsider the passage of the bill is made today. Such a move was suggested yesterday afternoon, and if it is made it will lead to another fight.

The contest over direct legislation is by all odds the big fight of the session thus far. It took almost the entire time of the house for two days, and the oldest member of the legislature does not recall a case where one measure has occupied the time of either branch of the legislature so long.

There were many roll calls on amendments, and one result of that is that so many attitudes were taken by most of the members that almost any representative will be able to satisfy any constituent, by reference to the record, that he voted in accordance with the ideas of that constituent, whatever view he may hold as to direct legislation.

What It Provides.

As adopted, the bill provides that proposed laws, and the submission of proposed amendments to the Constitution, may be initiated by the people if 20 per cent of the legal voters of the state sign petitions to that end. The petitions must contain the signatures of at least 7 per cent of the voters in each of three-fifths of the counties of the state, and the measures initiated must have been introduced at a session of the legislature and must have received 25 per cent of the votes cast on them when they were before the legislature. To be enacted, such proposed measures must receive a majority of the votes cast at the election at which they are submitted.

The bill also provides that 10 per cent of of the voters may cause to be referred to the people any measure enacted by the legislature, and such measures so referred are not to become laws unless the people approve them. The legislature may, if it wishes, order a special election on initiative or referendum measures, but it cannot refer to the people measures on which its members prefer not to go on record.

The most important amendment acted upon by the house was that proposed by Representatives Fowler of Minneapolis, providing that measures referred to the people under the initiative or referendum must have a majority of the votes cast at the election, instead of a mere majority of those voting on the propositions. This was adopted, 77 to 36. After it was adopted, Representative Reneeland of Minneapolis moved that the vote by which it was adopted be reconsidered, and his motion was lost, 31 to 81.

When the Fowler amendment was proposed, Representative W. T. Stone of Park Rapids protested, saying that it enabled the indolent and ignorant voters to defeat pending measures because their failure to vote would have the same effect as if they voted against the measures.

Representative Campbell, one of the radical advocates of direct legislation, said he was for the amendment, and that he hoped nobody would be so narrow as to vote against an amendment that would help pass the bill. He said he had been for this amendment when it was offered to his bill Thursday and that the failure of the friends of his bill to accept the amendment had killed the measure.

Representative W. I. Nolan of Minneapolis asked Mr. Campbell how this amendment helped the bill.

Mr. Campbell said that a majority of the people voting at an election, not a minority, ought to govern.

Mr. Nolan said that the proposed amendment following the rule that applies now to adopting constitutional amendments, and that that provision of the Constitution was slipped through by the brewery interests.

Representative Pfaender joined with Mr. Campbell in urging the adoption of the amendment that the bill might be passed.

Warned by the Speaker.

Referring to nobody in particular, but obviously actuated by Representative Nolan's remarks, Speaker Dunn said that the insinuations against and reflections upon members that had been made were unparliamentary and out of order. It was very regrettable that such things should be said, even in the heat of debate, and he hoped that the members would refrain in the future from such remarks.

"I am not angered very much," said Mr. Dunn, "the necessity of taking action of a harsh nature, but such reflections will not be permitted in the future without a reprimand from the chair."

The amendment was then adopted, and by its adoption the bill was put in the only shape in which it was possible to put it through the house.

Representative Rice wanted to cut out the provision that the people might reject parts of bills passed by the legislature without invalidating the rest, but his motion was lost, 40 to 57.

Representative Kunze of Minneapolis proposed an amendment excepting appropriation bills from the provisions of the measure, and that, too, was lost, though Mr. Kunze said that it was practically impossible for the people to know whether any particular appropriation was needed or not. For instance, the people of all parts of the state could not possibly know whether a new building was needed at the St. Cloud normal school.

An amendment by Representative Hopkins, limiting the initiative to measures which have been introduced in the legislature and secured at least 25 per cent of the vote cast upon them, was adopted. So as an amendment by Representative Pfaender, providing that petitions must have at least 7 per cent of the voters in at least three-fifths of the counties of the sate; though Representative Campbell said that this amendment was objectionable to labor, which lives largely in the cities and must get most of its petitions signed there.

On the roll call there was much explaining of votes. Representative G. W. Brown of McLeod county said that so many amendments had been adopted that he didn't know what the bill provided for, and he doubted if there was a man on the floor that did know. If the house was to pass an initiative and referendum bill, it should pass one it could be proud of, not one that it will be ashamed of. Though it was perhaps a popular thing to get on the band wagon and vote for the bill, for one he refused to have his name affixed to such a measure, and he voted against it.

Representative R. C. Dunn said that the bill was a "conglomeration," and a disgrace to the house.

Representative Edwards doubted if there was a man in the house, except possibly the chief clerk, who knew what the bill provided after all the amendments had been adopted.

Representative W. I. Nolan said the bill had been amended so that it was entirely satisfactory to the opponents of initiative and referendum.

How They Voted.

Senator Nelson yesterday afternoon introduced a bill intended to put a check on state officers and employes going outside of the state at the expense of the state treasury. The bill provides that no officer or employe may take a trip at the state's expense unless the governor has a chance to consider the reasons for the trip and gives his consent.

Though its importance is not great, the bill giving street railway companies the power to give passes to policemen and firemen, passed by the senate Thursday, may have large consequences. It is reported that in the log rolling that put the bill through, trades were made involving reapportionment, women's suffrage and other measures of large importance.

The senate yesterday afternoon in committee of the whole recommended for indefinite postponement the house bill by Ole Peterson requiring that road taxes must be paid in cash instead of being worked out, and then, after the committee rose, rescinded its action on a roll call, and put the bill on the calendar by a vote of 27 to 21.

is to rid the country of this band. It is believed that evidence will be brought out that will throw light upon the assassination of the American detective, Lieut. Joseph Petrosino, at Palermo, in March, 1909, after he had been sent to Italy by the New York police department to secure information regarding Italian criminals.

It was Petrosino who arrested Enrico Alfano, better known as Erricone, the alleged actual head of the Camorra, after the latter had fled to New York city. The American officer sent Erricone back to Europe and he was taken into custody at Havre. Petrosino's death is believed to have been the price paid for running down the man who for years had defied the authorities of his own country.

King Orders Prosecution.

The murders of the Cuoccoios followed by revelations made by one of the Camorrists, Gennaro Abbatemaggio, resulted in the present prosecution, which was ordered by King Victor Emmanuel and presented by Signor Fani, the minister of justice.

At daylight an enormous crowd gathered in the vicinity of the former church of San Francisco, which has been transformed into a court of the Assizes.

Other crowds surrounded the Medieval monastery of Gradi, now a penitentiary where all but two of the prisoners have been confined, and the prison of San Lupara, in which the informer Abbatemaggio and the one woman prisoner, Maria Stendardo, have been held.

There was much excitement when the vans transporting the accused appeared from under the arched doors of the prison. The procession proceeded to court amid angry murmurs of the people. Precautions were taken against an attempt to free the prisoners who had many silent sympathizers in the throng. With the driver of each van were seated a policeman and a carbineer. Another soldier sat just inside the door. Mounted carbineers surrounded each van.

When the doors of the court were opened as many of the crowd as could rushed in, occupying every available place.

The gloom of the old walls within has been relieved by a coat of whitewash. The interior of the building, constructed in the form of a cross, lent itself nicely to its new purpose. At the front end of the cross in the place once occupied by the choir are the benches for three judges, the crown prosecutor and the clerk of the court. The left arm of the cross holds the seats of the jury. The right arm contains the big iron cage occupied by thirty-six of the accused and a smaller cage in which the informer is isolated from his former associates. Today Abbatemaggio appeared to be proud of the distinction of occupying a cage exclusively and did not seem to be disconcerted by the savage glances directed at him from the larger pen.

Between the two arms of the cross are the benches for the lawyers and in the nave are seats for the witnesses. At the opposite end of the church near the entrance is a place reserved for the public and accommodating a few hundred persons. Over the heads of these what was originally an organ loft is a tribune for women. The press gallery extends over the benches.

The prisoners' cages stand directly over the tomb of the famous painter, Lorenzo da Viterbo, whose celebrated picture, "The Marriage of the Virgin," was one of those which made beautiful the edifice.

The building is a lofty one, and in order that the voices may carry better a large awning has been spread at the base of the dome. It was noticed today that the awning hid the inscription which must be seen in every judicial court of Italy, "Law Equal for All," and the spectators were quick to point out that this accidental concealment was a bad omen for justice.

Soldiers Control Crowd.

The crowd in the square before the court building was so great that a company of infantry was called out to reinforce the carbineers and police in maintaining order.

Within, the attention of the onlookers was absorbed by the appearance and behavior of the prisoners. Ciro Vitozzi, the priest who once secured Erricone's freedom by telling the authorities that another man had confessed to the murders under the seal of the confessional, was allowed, when the proceedings opened, to sit outside the prisoners' cage. Abbatemaggio was permitted the distinction of being the only one of the prisoners to go from prison to court without handcuffs.

The court entered at 10:15 o'clock and the selection of the jury was begun at once. Twenty-four men were chosen, twelve for the jury proper and twelve as substitutes, in case of the illness or unexpected incapacity of the regular jurors.

When the jury had been sworn, President Bianchi questioned the prisoners closely concerning their careers. This examination at conclusion, a mass of documents was presented by Cavaliero Santoro, king's prosecutor, who has charge of the prosecution.

The most interesting paper which figured in today's proceedings was a report from the New York police department concerning the arrest of Erricone in that city, and what the American detectives have been able to learn about him and his associates. The report was signed by Joseph Petrosino.

The defendants originally numbered forty-two. Of these, three are fugitives, two have been released under surveillance and one, Ciro Alfano, a brother of Erricone, died in prison.

Three hundred and fifty witnesses for the state were offered and 600 for the defense. The court ruled that only 360 of the latter should be called.

FOR EIGHTH DISTRICT

nesday was blocked by a single bill during the entire session. As a consequence, members had serious difficulty getting local bills through, and success depended more than usual upon a member's resourcefulness. The last two weeks were made suspension days, and this saved a great many local measures.

Miller Does Well.

All the bills introduced by Congressman C. B. Miller for the Eighth district of Minnesota were passed and became laws, save one.

One year ago the general public buildings bill authorized the purchase of a site at Anoka, and the purchase of additional ground for the postoffice site at Duluth. In the sundry civil bill passed in this short session, Mr. Miller secured an appropriation of $5,000 for Anoka and $95,000 for Duluth. These two items are thus made sure.

Mr. Miller introduced and secured the passage of two dam bills, one across the Mississippi river near Anoka and one across the Rainy river at Kettle Falls. The one providing for a dam near Anoka was the first dam bill passed in about three years. The so-called water power trust tried to prevent the passage of this one, but without success. The government has now established a policy with reference to water power sites, and these bills were drawn in harmony with this policy.

A bill was also introduced and passed authorizing the town of Blackberry, Itasca county, to construct a bridge across the Mississippi river.

Judge Page Morris discovered, last fall, a defect in the general naturalization law. It has always been possible for a widow to perfect the naturalization started by her deceased husband, but Judge Morris found she could not complete naturalization started by a husband who had later become hopelessly insane. This discovery was made in the case of a woman who sought to prove up on a homestead. To enable her to save the land for herself and children, Senator Nelson passed in the senate, and Representative Miller in the house a bill changing the general law in this respect referred to.

Indian Supplies.

Annually there has been a fight to discontinue the warehouses for Indian supplies in Chicago, New York, Omaha, St. Louis and San Francisco. The cities thus favored have always been strong enough to win up to a year ago. Mr. Miller then secured an effective change in the law, and he completed it this year, by having these warehouses omitted from the Indian appropriation bill. The change will enable Duluth jobbers to get a legitimate share of the Indian supply business.

The band of Indians located at Nett Lake, St. Louis county, has never received proper attention from the government. This has been due largely to their isolated position. Last fall Mr. Miller visited those Indians, who held two councils while he was there. Since then many things for their relief and betterment have been done. Additional supplies have been sent; a list of the old and feeble members made, and their case provided for; $2,000 appropriated to build a road to the agency; hunting privileges restored to the members; and an improved system of education and civilization started.

The Sioux Indians in Southwestern Minnesota went upon the warpath in 1862, as all the world knows, and the fiercest Indian massacres of all the ages occurred. The inflamed public sentiment called for retaliation, so in 1863 the congress declared forfeited all the rights possessed by these Indians, innocent and guilty alike, and likewise all obligation on the part of the government to pay for the 50,000,000 acres of land ceded by these Indians. Constant effort has been made in recent years to restore these rights, valued at something like $3,000,000 to these Indians. For the first time, the house Indian committee, through the efforts of Mr. Miller, reported favorably a bill to restore these rights. Mr. Miller also secured the passage of the bill through the house. Senator McComber of North Dakota prevented its passage in the senate on the day before adjournment.

Reciprocity.

Canadian reciprocity means much to Northeastern Minnesota, according to Representative Miller's belief, and he has taken a very active part in securing legislation effecting it. The extra session about to convene, will see this subject taken up again.

Many private pension bills, for the relief of old soldiers in the Eighth district, were passed by Mr. Miller during this short session. These three months were busy ones for nearly all the members. Of late years, a member who represents an important district like the Eighth, has vastly more executive than legislative business of a distinctly local nature. A developing region looks to its congressman as its national agent, and he will be a busy man if he meets the responsibilities of his position.

COLDER

No, spring has not came, Gwendolin. Only a few harbingers and spring fever germs and such-like. We will have some more weather, but let us enjoy what we have while we may. The highest temperature yesterday was 41 deg. and the lowest last night was 33 deg., which is mild without developing a distressing slushiness. Continued fair and colder weather is on the bills for Sunday.

Soft, slushy snow descended on Duluth in the midst of a warm spell a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 6:29 and it will set at 6:07 this evening, giving eleven hours and thirty-eight minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The low pressure central over Alberta Friday morning has advanced to the Red river valley, the greatest depression resulting over the eastern slopes of the Rockies, the Red river, Missouri and Upper Mississippi valleys, the Western lake region and Central Canada, and rain over Pacific states and the extreme Southwest. The high pressures respectively centered off the Pacific coast and over the St. Lawrence valley caused colder weather over the Far West and North Atlantic states. Somewhat colder weather may be expected at the Head of the Lakes during tonight and Sunday."

General Forecasts.

ECZEMA BROKE OUT ON FACE AND BODY

When Two Months Old. She Scratched, as It Itched. Did Not Sleep for More than a Week. Was In a Terrible Condition.

Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and In Two Weeks She Was Well.

"When my baby was two months old, she had eczema and rash very badly. I noticed that her face and body broke out very suddenly, thick, and red as a coal of fire. I did not know what to do. The doctor ordered castile soap and powders, but they did no good. She would scratch, as it itched, and she cried, and did not sleep for more than a week. One day I saw in the paper the advertisement of the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, so I got them and tried them at once. My baby's face was as a cake of sores.

"When I first used the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, I could see a difference. In color it was redder. I continued with them. My baby was in a terrible condition. I used the Cuticura Remedies [Soap and Ointment] four times a day, and in two weeks she was quite well. The Cuticura Remedies healed her skin perfectly, and her skin is now pretty and fine through using them. I also use the Cuticura Soap to-day, and will continue to, for it makes a lovely skin. Every mother should use the Cuticura Remedies. They are good for all sores, and the Cuticura Soap is also good for shampooing the hair, for I have tried it. I tell all my friends how the Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured my baby of eczema and rash." (Signed) Mrs. Drew, 210 W. 18th St., New York City, Aug. 26, 1910.

LANGDON MAN IS HIT BY SPECIAL

Head of Canadian Northern's Train Strikes Man Near Baudette, Minn.

Baudette, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—While bound on his way to Pitt, Minn., from here William Ayotte of Langdon, N. D., was struck and hurled into the ditch by the special train of President Mackenzie of the Canadian Northern railway, about 5 p. m. Friday. WHERE DO YOU KEEP YOURS?

A prominent Duluthian lost his life insurance policy a short time ago—hunted everywhere for it—home, office, factory.

Told us about it. Do you know what he had to do to get a new one? Had to advertise the loss for six weeks. Had to establish his personal identity—give bonds of identification for twice the amount of the policy to the insurance company—worried for fear he would die before he could get all of these matters adjusted. He has a new policy now deposited in one of our boxes. No more worry. Cost: $3.00 per year.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

PLANS FOR GREAT FAIR

Northwestern Minnesota Agricultural Association to Make Fine Display.

Meeting at Crookston Elects Officers and Maps Out Work for Year.

Crookston, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Greater and better than ever will be the Northwestern Minnesota Agricultural association's annual fair, to be held here next September, judging by the enthusiasm displayed at the annual meeting of the association just held here. Directors were chosen and officers elected with the exception of a secretary to succeed Thomas R. Brown, resigned. C. G. Selvig, superintendent of the Crookston School of Agriculture, was temporarily chosen to succeed Mr. Brown and at a meeting of the directors being held here this afternoon a permanent choice will be made.

The officers so far elected are:
President—James Cumming, Mallory.
Vice President—Supt. C. G. Selvig, Crookston School of Agriculture.
Second Vice President—Henry O'Neill, Crookston township.
Treasurer—H. D. Reed, cashier Scandia bank, Crookston.
Directors—Chris Houston, Fairfax; D. H. Miller, Angus; Homer Sauve, Kertsonville; F. C. Miller, Andover; J. F. Ingersoll, Lowell; Oscar Wick, Rhinehart; H. O. Bolstad, Garfield; J. E. O'Brien, Crookston; Ed Ralston, Crookston.

May Choose Hitchcock.

A. Hitchcock has been approached by many and finally agreed to accept the position of secretary if it was offered him by a unanimous vote, but stated that if there was one dissenting vote he would not accept, as he wanted a united board behind him. The general sentiment is that Mr. Hitchcock, because of his close touch with the farmers and business men alike, and his experience in such matters, would make an ideal secretary, and it is probable that he will be named. Thus far not a person has offered any objection, but on the contrary favors him for the office, which is a most important one.

FEE QUESTION IS TO BE DETERMINED

Question of Right of County Auditor to Fees Put Up to Courts.

Williston, N. D., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The legality of the retention by county auditors of certain fees paid into their office, practiced throughout the state, will be determined by an action brought by State's Attorney H. W. Bratlein of Williams county against the board of commissioners to secure a judicial order directing the commissioners to check up the auditor's office, determining the amount of such fees that suit may be started. The order to show cause why such writ of mandamus should not issue is returnable March 18 before Judge K. E. Leighton.

In the order it is declared that the action is brought to compel the board of commissioners to take such action as the law provides in the matter of recovering fees, it being contended that the fees paid into the office of the county auditor are not accounted for to the county and that they are in reality the property of such county. Fees received in certifying abstracts and deeds are the ones in question, and it is declared that they total about $1,500.

It is also claimed that in May, 1910, the question of fees was brought to the attention of the county board by the relator, Mr. Braatlein, and that at that time an opinion was asked of the attorney general as to the claim of the county on such fees. Subsequently Assistant State's Attorney C. L. Young filed an opinion with the board to the effect that such fees should be converted into the county treasury. The relator also states that on subsequent occasions he made requests upon the county commissioners that they take action in the matter, but that each time the board refused to do so.

CAN'T "REFORM" THE DRINKER

You Must First Remove His Terrible Craving for Liquor.

NEAL TREATMENT SUCCESSFUL.

Drives the Poison Out of the System and Sets Up Distaste for Drink.

The drink habit is more than a habit. One doesn't drink today merely because he drank yesterday or last week or last month. He drinks to satisfy a craving which previous drinking induces. The more he drinks and the oftener he drinks, the more and the oftener he wants to drink. There must be some other reason for this than merely that he has got into the habit of drinking. It is found in the fact that the taking of alcohol into the system inoculates it with a subtle poison that cries for more. Alcohol creates an appetite, a craving, a mad desire, which nothing but more alcohol will satisfy. That is what makes drunkards and why drunkards are slaves to the habit. Now to reform the man thus afflicted it is of little use to preach to him of the virtues of temperance and the horrors of drink. He probably realizes them better than anybody. The thing to do is to remove the craving. That is the problem to which in recent years practical temperance reformers have applied themselves. And that is the problem which the Neal treatment has solved. It has done more. It has found a scientific method of replacing the craving for drink with an aversion to and distaste for it. The Neal treatment does not do this by hypodermic injections which scar the body, and undermine the system and leave it open to the attacks of disease. It does it through a simple medicinal treatment with harmless remedies. The Neal treatment cures in three days. Absolutely. Unfailingly. The patient takes no risk, as a guarantee bond is given to effect a perfect cure, to his entire satisfaction, or return the full fee paid. The treatment involves no prolonged absence from business. In three days it is all over and the patient returns to his friends, his family and his home safe and sound, with the craving for intoxicants completely dissipated.

If you are afflicted with the drink habit and really want to be cured, or if you are interested in a friend or relative who needs treatment, write to the Neal Institute Co., corner Belknap and Seventh streets, Superior, for their free booklet giving full information and a copy of their contract and guarantee bond. It will be mailed to you under a plain sealed envelope and everything will be strictly confidential. You can be treated at Superior Institute, or the St. Paul, Minn., Institute, 676 Dayton avenue, or at the Minneapolis, Minn., Institute, corner Fourth avenue south and Seventh street, whichever happens to be the most convenient to you.

LASTING CURES OF MEN!

WROUGHT SCIENTIFICALLY BY PROGRESSIVE MEDICAL SPECIALISTS—ESTABLISHED FOR OVER 20 YEARS IN DULUTH.

Few of the doctors who started twenty years ago are to be found in this city. The doctors who have the most completely equipped offices and who have cured more than 20,000 men are to be found in the offices of the Progressive Medical association. Duluth has seen start many doctors and after they had taken all the money they could get, they left Duluth forever. They have made big promises but cured no one. Only last week another one of those "hot-air promising" medical offices has gone up in the air. The methods of the Progressive Medical association, however, have been straight, honest, scientific, and that is the reason they prospered. Their offices are crowded from 9 a. m. to 8 at night and Sundays from 10 to 1.

If you want to see the revelations of science used in the service of suffering humanity, you must see the Duluth specialists. Among citizens of Duluth and Superior the reporter today found in the crowded offices men from Bergland, Mich., Cloquet, Calumet, Mich., Ballard, Wash., Chicago, Bemidji and Aurelia, Iowa, with Tumors and festering Cancers, Gall Stones, crippled from Rheumatism, ulcers of legs and the most rare diseases. Their fame has reached far beyond the borders of our state and crowds their office almost daily.

There are people who bear the mark of pain and suffering from diseases of long standing, and asked why so many men suffer, they explained that constipation and stomach troubles cause self-poisoning. To relieve this trouble, men are forming drug habits and become slaves to it, although they know very well relief is only temporary, and their condition is worse than before. If you feel tired in the morning and you detect your skin to be sallow, your tongue coated and you have a feeling of fullness in your abdomen, you may know that your intestines are diseased and they cannot perform the work of digestion.

You are getting pale and losing flesh and your feeling tells you that you are a sick man. You have started the process of self-poisoning, your blood is diseased and your blood vessels harden, which slowly but surely prepares your grave and your suffering is a long one.

Rectal piles cause cancer and many other diseases. The bad and stagnant blood is forming piles, and these in turn result in a train of other diseases, as cancer, constipation, rheumatism, sciatica, pain in the back, kidney trouble, heart and liver diseases and nervousness. These specialists are most wonderful in curing all these diseases, and also Bright's disease, catarrh and lung trouble, bronchitis, bleed poison, rupture, pelvic and bladder trouble, eczema and all skin diseases. If you have any ailment and you want to know all about it you are invited to consult the Progressive doctors. Consultation is free.

They cure all acute as well as chronic diseases of men, Nervous Debility, unnatural discharges, Contagious Blood Poison, swollen and Varicose Veins, as well as all diseases peculiar to the sex of men. These doctors can cure your disease for they have studied in the best universities here and in the old country. They are well professioned in the science of healing chronic diseases of men. Offices are corner Superior street and Lake avenue, Duluth.

French Method of Developing the Bust

Mdme. DuBarrie Explains How the Bust May Be Developed 2 to 8 Inches in 30 Days.

"I am explaining for the first time to the ladies of America," says Madame DuBarrie, "the French method of developing the bust. It is much more effective, the results appear much more quickly, the breasts become more firm, plump and symmetrical, the method is more simple, the effects more lasting, and altogether beyond comparison with the results produced here.

"You know the French people have the development of the bust and form down to a fine point.

"By this French method, the breasts may be developed from 2 to 8 inches in 30 days. This applies to women of almost any age, from young girls to elderly matrons, whether the bust is absolutely not developed at all, or has grown weak and flabby, and hangs, no matter from what cause.

"It is beauty of form that attracts much more than the features. You will always find it so with both sexes.

"I will be only too glad to tell any woman who is interested what this simple French method is. If she will enclose a 2-cent stamp to pay for the postage, I will send an illustrated booklet in a plain sealed wrapper that will explain it all."

We suggest to our lady readers that they write to Madame DuBarrie for particulars of this remarkable French method, enclose 2 cents in stamps for the illustrated booklet and address it to Mdme. DuBarrie, Suite 2584 Quinlan Building, Chicago, Ill.

LOCAL FARMERS NOT PATRONIZED

The Hibbing Commercial Club Claims Merchants Give Them the Go-by.

Hibbing, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The "Agricultural Prospects of Hibbing and Surrounding Territory" was the keynote of discussion of the Commercial club meeting last night. The crux of the whole matter was contained in the remark of Rupert Swinerton, "the agricultural resources and their development, effect every other kind of business in the community."

These sentiments were ably referred to by O. A. Randall, the chairman and others. One stumbling block to the advancement of the farming community was brought to light in the action of the local merchants refusing to pay their own farming neighbors the same prices that they pay the Duluth commission houses, and on top of this they also pay freight from Duluth. An instance was cited in which a farmer tried all day to sell his produce in Hibbing and finally drove to Chisholm and got 15 cents a bushel better figures for his load. The necessity of letting the people know what can really be grown here and the demand for the stuff was talked of at length.

One remedy for the poor prices offered by local merchants was to secure a place for farmers to sell their produce and steps will immediately be taken to carry the project to fruition.

Question Railroads Act.

The rights of the Missabe and the Great Northern roads to move their tracks or depots without gaining the permission of the state railroad and warehouse commission was mentioned both by the president, Robert Stratton and others. The club will look into the matter in the interests of the community. The visit of the proposed "Potatoe Special," which will visit Hibbing and other points on the range was discussed and steps taken to insure the attendance of those most interested in the production and cultivation of same. The membership of the club is rapidly increasing and many new and energetic members are being enrolled.

The following members were admitted to the club last night: Morris Mitchell, F. H. Halladay, W. L. Galloway, Rupert Swinerton, S. B. Boysen and A. D. Smith. The resolution changing the meeting night of the club from the first Monday to the first Wednesday night of the month was carried at the meeting.

MYERS WORKING FOR GOOD ROADS

Biwabik Man, Chairman of Good Roads Commission, Gets Busy.

Biwabik, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. L. Myers of Biwabik, recently appointed chairman of the good roads committee of the Minnesota Automobile association, is preparing to enter upon his campaign throughout the state.

He will issue circulars to the automobile owners, to the county commissioners, and to the newspapers, asking that they co-operate in making road improvements. His idea is to get the three forces working together, that work may be done where it will do the most good.

Mr. Myers will likely follow the plan adopted in St. Louis county by advising that the county commissioners be given practical illustration of the condition of the roads by being taken on rides by the owners of automobiles. As he told the state association the St. Louis boys simply slapped on all power when they spied a rough spot, trusting to luck that none of the county commissioners would be killed in passage.

The specialty in this plan is to directly interest the newspaper readers, that the condition of the roads may be made known.

BALL CLUB MUST CONTINUE "DRY"

Itasca County Board Refuses to Permit Saloon So Close to Indian Land.

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The monthly meeting of the county board was held this week.

Mrs. Mary Oli, of township 55-23, a widow having a large family, was voted $10 per month out of the poor fund.

The hearing on county road No. 80, in the Popple country, was laid over until next meeting, as was the hearing on road No. 88, located in 55-27.

Pete Oslund made application for the construction of a bridge over the Bigfork river, in 48-27. Commissioners King and Nelson were appointed to view the site and report.

The application of Frank Payne for a license to sell liquor at Ball Club caused considerable discussion and failed to carry, the vote being 2 to 2. It was urged against the granting of the license that the proposed saloon being so close to the Indian country, the board would be laying itself liable in granting a license.

The following were named as assessors for the unorganized territory: District No. 1, Charles Erven of Splithand; district No. 2, Tom Griffin, Hartley Lake; No. 3, David Maturen, Bigfork (residence 60-25); No. 4, Levi Cochran, Effie; No. 5, Herman Anderson, Max.

Invite Bids For Road.

County Auditor Spang was instructed to advertise for bids for the construction of two miles of road on the town line between the towns of Sago and Feeley. The bids on the bridge over the Swan river at the Wilmann place were rejected, and County Auditor Spank authorized to advertise for bids for either a steel bridge or a wooden structure.

The report of the board of audit for the period from Dec. 28 to March 1, was approved.

A petition for the survey of section 24, township 55-25, and section township 56-25 was presented and a hearing ordered.

The plans for the remodeling of the courthouse and the report of Architect D. V. Case on the cost of the proposed improvements were presented by Mr Case.

Mr. Case decided that it would be necessary to have a retaining wall at the rear of the courthouse at the foot of the hill. The auditor was instructed to advertise for bids for the construction of such a wall according to the plans and specifications furnished by Mr. Case. The proposed remodeling of the courthouse was laid over until the next meeting when the matter will be more fully discussed before instructions are given to proceed with the work.

The new town of Lincoln, comprising congressional towns 53-26 and 27, was organized, and the first town meeting will be held on March 25 at Greenfield beach

The next meeting of the board will be on April 4.

FALLS DOWN MINE SHAFT.

Frank Ronicker Is Killed in La Belle Mine at Biwabik.

Biwabik, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Funeral services were held here early in the week for Frank Ronicker, aged 25, an employe of the La Belle mine, who died as a result of falling down a shaft in the mine.

Ronicker, who had worked for the mine for several years, told some companions, with whom he had been working, that he would repair some steampipes in the shaft. He did not return from the task, and a search was made for him.

He was found at the bottom of the 100-foot shaft, barely breathing. He lived about three hours and was able to state that when he attempted to reach the pipes on which he was to work he slipped and fell down the shaft.

William Powers was selected to represent the school at the inter-school declamatory contest at Akeley March 24, but he was not a candidate in this contest for any of the prizes, he having been ruled out owing to his having chosen a piece on which he had received a great deal of drill and with which he had represented the school at an inter-school declamatory contest last year.

The prizes for which the contestants were striving were a gold medal for each of the two first prizes and a silver medal for each of the two second prizes. A silver cup was also awarded to the class scoring the highest number of points, the senior class receiving it.

CHILDREN AFFECTED
By Mother's Food and Drink.

Many babies have been launched into life with constitutions weakened by disease taken in with their mothers' milk. Mothers cannot be too careful as to the food they use while nursing their babes.

The experience of a Kansas City mother is a case in point:

"I was a great coffee drinker from a child, and thought I could not do without it. But I found at last it was doing me harm. For years I had been troubled with dizziness, spots before my eyes and pain in my heart, to which was added, two years later, a chronic sour stomach.

"The baby was born 7 months ago, and almost from the beginning, it, too, suffered from sour stomach. She was taking it from me!

"In my distress I consulted a friend of more experience and she told me to quit coffee, that coffee did not make good milk. I have since ascertained that it really dries up the milk.

"So, I quit coffee and tried tea and at last cocoa. But they did not agree with me. Then I turned to Postum with the happiest results. It proved to be the very thing I needed. It not only agreed perfectly with baby and myself, but it increased the flow of my milk.

"My husband then quit coffee and used Postum and quickly got well of the dyspepsia with which he had been troubled. I no longer suffer from the dizziness, blind spells, pain in my heart or sour stomach.

"Now we all drink Postum from my husband to my seven months' old baby. It has proved to be the best hot drink we have ever used. We would not give up Postum for the best coffee we ever drank." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Vermilion Range Metropolis to Improve Sewers and Do Other Work.

Ely, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council at the last meeting instructed City Attorney Thomas to take the necessary legal steps toward bonding the city for $30,000 for constructing sanitary and storm sewers. The city is already well supplied with sanitary sewers through all the main alleys but the money is to go in constructing the main sewer to the lake, also storm sewers and curbs in readiness for the laying of cement walks this summer. The plans and specifications of the system prepared by the Duluth Engineering company were received this week and the estimated cost is said to be over $24,000.

The council appointed judges of election for April 4 as follows: First ward—J. A. Rothman, J. M. Brown and John Colombo; second ward—N. G. Erickson, Eugene St. Marie and Herman Pete; third ward—J. D. Conan, Martin Skala and John Dinsmore. The usual polling places were designated. Two liquor licenses were granted, the monthly pay roll audited and an adjournment taken to Monday evening, March 13.

LEONIDAS HAS NEW BUILDINGS

Many Improvements Noted in the Addition to the City of Eveleth.

Eveleth, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Many noticeable improvements are being made at the new Leonidas property. The building which is to contain the blacksmith, carpenter and offices is about completed while a large crew of carpenters are at work on the new warehouse. Fifteen residences were built at the location last year, and it is expected twenty-five new dwellings will be erected this year. An $8,000 school building has been completed at the property and is being well attended by the students of that district.

The shaft has reached a depth of over 360 feet, and the mining authorities are confident that the shaft will be completed this year in time to do a little shipping. Drills have been sunk and the mining men of this vicinity are sure that the new property will provide much work in the future.

OPPOSITION TICKET

Will Be Discussed at Meeting in Hibbing Tonight.

Hibbing, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—There will be a meeting of those opposed to the administration caucus village ticket for this evening at 8 o'clock in Tapio hall. Both sides of the liquor proposition are busy. Considerable attention is being drawn to the fact that during the time of rigid law enforcement in Hibbing some years ago the police records showed an increase in serious crimes and a decrease in minor crimes. It is further stated that practically every one of the serious crimes took place on Saturday night or Sunday and mostly within the limits of the locations. The operations of large numbers of blindpigs is being given as the cause at that time and the impossibility of proper police control.

My Dear Mr. Barnes: In writing up my trip on the ranges, I find that I have a vast amount of good material from Ely. I am to use most of it in editorials rather than in a writeup. STREETS WILL BE FLUSHED

Accumulations of Dirt Will Be Washed Off Sunday.

Duluth streets will be flushed tomorrow morning if the weather is warm enough—that is, if it is thawing.

This would have been done Thursday had it not been for the break in the big water main near Twenty-fourth avenue east. The public highways are covered with layers of dirt several inches thick. It will be impossible to clean them thoroughly, as the sewers would not carry off the waste and the ice on the streets if not all melted. The foreman of the sewer gang will work with the crew of the board of public works and it is expected that the flushing will go along without mishap. Close watch will be kept on the sewers, and at the first sign of clogging, they will be cleaned out.

WATER MAIN IS REPAIRED

Only Temporary Inconvenience Is Caused By the Accident.

Reservoirs Again Full and Service in Normal Condition.

The break in the big water main at Twenty-fourth avenue east was repaired at about 4:30 last evening and within the next hour all parts of the city were again supplied with water. This morning, all reservoirs are full and the system is back on a normal basis.

The water supply held out well yesterday and the only portion of the city inconvenienced by the break was a belt along the upper part of the main system, to which the pressure from the West Duluth reservoir could not send the water. The belt included Fourth and Fifth streets in the central part of the city and extended down to Superior street at Twenty-second avenue east.

The tanks of the middle system were not emptied by the time the water was turned into them again and only about half of the water in the West Duluth reservoir was used. As the water was turned into the pipes in time for the people to prepare the evening meal, the people in the "dry" belt were not very seriously inconvenienced, although cold lunches were the rule at noon on Fourth and Fifth streets.

COPPERS STAGNANT; MARKET IS HIGHER

Values Firm in Dull Session —Traders in Waiting Mood.

Trading today, locally and in the East, was duller than yesterday. Only 400 shares changed hands on the local exchange and these were Keating. The news was featureless and the public was not in the market. The professional element held aloof, also.

The market has been fairly well liquidated and traders are prepared to jump either way. It is confidently expected that the supreme court will hand down decisions in the Standard Oil and the American Tobacco cases on Monday. The market hasn't the slightest idea as to what the decisions will be. Consequently it marked time today as traders did not care to do anything in advance of developments that may swing the market either way Monday.

The close was about on yesterday's level to slightly higher.

Keating sold at $2.93¾ to $3, Amalgamated at $62.75, $62.50 to $62.75, Butte Coalition at $17.75, Calumet & Arizona at $51.50 to $51.25, Shattuck at $19.25 to $18.75, Superior & Pittsburg at $15, $15.12½ to $15, Ojibway at $6.25, Giroux at $5.87½, $6 to $5.93¾.

HYPNOTIST STARTS RIOT IN NEGAUNEE

One of His "Subjects" Becomes Unruly in Theater, Trouble Resulting.

Negaunee, Mich., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—McDonald's theater was the scene Thursday evening of an unusual tumult, Prof. Louis Auer, the promoter of a hypnotist show, all but escaping with his life at the hands of an infuriated mob of subjects, all Negaunee boys.

It is said that Auer treated several subjects roughly, used insulting language, when he found that one had "faked" sleep, and attempted to hypnotize a person against his will.

Immediately an altercation was precipitated, causing Auer to be ejected and roughly handled on the street before the police arrived.

Fearing another attack, he cancelled the engagements for subsequent evenings and left Friday for parts unknown.

QUININE DOESN'T CURE BAD COLDS

Tells How to Break a Severe Cold and Grippe In a Few Hours.

You will distinctly feel your cold breaking and all the Grippe symptoms leaving after taking the very first dose.

It is a positive fact that Pape's Cold Compound, taken every two hours, until three consecutive doses are taken, will end the Grippe and break up the most severe cold, either in the head, chest, back, stomach or limbs.

It promptly relieves the most miserable neuralgia pains, headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

Take this harmless compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine, made anywhere else in the world, which will cure your cold or end grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

HORSESHOES AND CALKS WILL BE MANUFACTURED HERE SOON

DIAMOND CALK HORSESHOE PLANT.

A horseshoe and calk factory will be in operation in West Duluth within the next two weeks. The operating company, the Diamond Calk Horseshoe company, has in course of construction a building on Grand avenue between Forty-sixth and Forty-seventh avenues west at a cost of about $8,000.

The concern will turn out the patented "Diamond calk," a recent improvement over the "Giant Grip" horseshoe calk, which was manufactured in the West End about ten years ago. The firm will move next week from its present location on Lake avenue to the new quarters.

Otto Swanstrom, who is at the head of the concern, said today that the improvement at West Duluth would be the first unit of a large plant and would be devoted to the manufacture of calks. A larger and more commodious structure will be erected later in which horseshoes will be turned out.

At the present time the company is having its horseshoes manufactured in the East, but as soon as the steel plant is in operation and the bar steel can be turned out in Duluth, the horseshoes will be manufactured here.

NEW DEPOT IN PROSPECT

West Duluth Club Hopes for New Northern Pacific Station.

Soo Depot Question Will Be Considered at Special Session.

That the Northern Pacific will probably build a new station at West Duluth this year has been practically assured, according to a report, which was made last evening by a special committee at a meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club.

J. J. Frey, who heads the committee, said that he had an interview with some of the high officials of the company in regard to the matter and stated that while he had not received a definite promise that the improvement would be made, that he was given to understand that something would be done in this connection.

The present structure was built over twenty years ago. It is considered insanitary, unsightly and an eyesore to the community. The West Duluth Commercial club started an agitation about two years ago to have the company rebuild its station, erecting a larger structure.

The other members of the Northern Pacific depot committee are W. B. Getchell and E. J. Zauft.

The Soo depot proposition still remains a conundrum to the club. There are some who believe that the Soo should be compelled to build a station at West Duluth at once, according to the provisions of the old Wisconsin Central franchise and argue that the matter should be taken to the courts. Otheds believe that some attempt should be made in a peaceable way to come to an agreement with the railroad. The club will probably take up this matter as special order of business in the near future and recommend that the city take some action on the matter.

L. A. Barnes, P. H. Martin, David Sang and J. B. Flack were appointed as delegates to the annual meeting of the Country club, which will hold its sessions in Duluth Wednesday.

WOULD SERVE 250 WORKMEN

Proctor Men Argue for Extension of Street Car Line.

That there were 250 men living in West Duluth, who worked at Proctor and would be directly benefited by an extension of the street car lines to that suburb, was pointed out by a committee from the Proctor Commercial club, which yesterday afternoon held a conference with Alderman Barnes and other West Duluth business men over the proposed extension of the street car lines to Proctor.

The members of the committee were: C. Rossetter, E. W. McEwen and P. McCabe. They declared that street car facilities were needed at once, that it would mean nearly as much to West Duluth as it would to Proctor, and urged Alderman Barnes to work for the project in the council.

They also claimed that there were 139 houses inside of the city limits and on top of the hill, which would be on the proposed Proctor car line. Thirty-nine of this number were at Bayview Heights and it was claimed that there were at least 100 residents in that part of the Eighth ward which adjoins the village of Proctor.

Other interesting features were brought out by the visiting committee. It is probable that a conference will be arranged in the near future between the West Duluth and Proctor Commercial clubs.

PASTOR REFUSES CALL TO WEST DULUTH.

A call has been extended to Rev. M. O. Sumstad of Minneapolis by the congregation of Immanuel Norwegian Lutheran church, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Wadena street.

The invitation, however, has been declined by Rev. Mr. Sumstad. He is associate pastor of Our Savior's Norwegian Lutheran church of Minneapolis.

The congregation will hold a special meeting at the church Tuesday evening. All voting members are expected to attend as the matter of extending a call to another man will be taken up.

WITH THE CURLERS.

West Duluth Scots Hope to Finish the Remaining Events.

West Duluth curlers are rushing things in order to get the various events finished before the big thaw comes.

Last evening there were five games played and it was after midnight before they were finished.

In the Commercial club event, Judson lost to Evered, 10 to 8; Brown won from Wade's Kids, 14 to 8; and Olson won from Hills, 14 to 12. In the Union Match, Olson won from Macauley, 10 to 8 and in the Hendrickson event, Zauft lost to Judson, 15 to 7.

The games this evening are: Judson vs. Keyes and Buckley vs. Scott in the Hendrickson event and Zauft vs. Method in the Union Match company event.

Mrs. J. T. Martin, who has been ill at her home on Bayview Heights for the past few days, is convalescent.

Dr. L. Q. Greeley of the West end has let the contract for the erection of a $2,500 dwelling house at Fifty-sixth avenue west and Sixth street. It will be completed in May.

Judge J. B. Flack in the West Duluth justice court this morning issued a warrant for the arrest of Andrew Avelich, a laborer at the Zenith Furnace company's blast furnace. The complaint was sworn to by Matt Vuletich, who alleges that Avelich assaulted him.

The revival services which have been conducted for the past week at Asbury M. E. church will be continued next week. Tomorrow night the pastor, Rev. W. Boyle, will occupy the pulpit and Rev. M. S. Rice will preach every evening during the remainder of the week.

Hurst, watch repairing, West Duluth.

CONFERENCE OF LUMBERMEN

Edward Hines and the party of lumbermen who were in the city the present week, going from here to Virginia for an inspection of the plant of the Virginia & Rainy Lake company, have returned from the trip and are holding a conference at the Spalding today. Just what the nature of the conference is, Mr. Hines would not state.

He said that the lumber company was in very good condition at the present time and that the business outlook for this section is fairly good.

SUIT AGAINST THE A. O. U. W.

St. Paul, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Alleging that the grand lodge of Minnesota of the Ancient Order of United Workmen has failed for a number of years to meet its obligations to the supreme lodge, attorneys for William M. Narvis, president of the supreme lodge, filed a bill in equity today in the United States circuit court asking the court to grant the supreme lodge an accounting, and name a trustee to take charge of the grand lodge's funds.

The bill says that the state lodge has about $408,495 properly belonging to the supreme lodge.

It further alleges that the failure of the Minnesota lodge to meet its obligations and its apparent avowed intention to continue in such default in disregard of the rights of the supreme lodge, and beneficiaries of deceased members, is liable to induce other grand lodges to take similar action and tie up the funds of the supreme lodge.

Besides the grand lodge, which is alleged to be a subsidiary of the supreme lodge, August F. Floerkey grand master; C. E. Larson, grand recorder, and J. F. MacGuire, grand receiver, are named as defendants.

CIVIL TRIALS SUSPENDED

Mild Form of Martial Law in Effect in Mexico.

Government Suspends the Constitutional Guarantee.

Mexico City, Mex., March 11.—The government today decided to suspend the constitutional guarantees throughout the republic. This means a mild form of martial law.

Civil trials of those accused of the destruction of railroads, electric light plants, telegraph lines and of raiding plantations will cease. Instead of the ordinary procedure, summary military action will be taken in these cases.

Carter Arrives at Texas.

San Antonio, Tex., March 11.—The boom of thirteen guns today announced the arrival here of Maj. Gen. W. H. Carter, who was accompanied by a numerous staff. He proceeded immediately to the camp and assumed command of the maneuvers division.

Gen. Carter was welcomed by Gen. Duncan, commander of the department of Texas, and the two inspected the camp. Gen. Carter congratulated the department commander on the arrangements made.

While the visit was being made the Eleventh cavalry detrained and marched in. The first work of the Eleventh will be the construction of a telephone system throughout the camp and connection with the barracks.

"No News Is Good News."

New York, March 11.—"To make use of a familiar American expression, 'no news is good news,'" remarked Mexican Finance Minister Jose Yves Limantour, when asked today regarding the latest developments in the Mexican situation. "I can scarcely say, however, that there has been no news over night.

"As set forth in my statement yesterday, my government could not consider intervention for a moment. I think the United States has no idea of intervention and there has been nothing of an authoritative character to indicate that intervention has been contemplated by any other foreign power, having interests in Mexico.

"Naturally, my country desires that the United States shall prevent the insurrectos in Northwestern Mexico from smuggling arms from this side of the border. It now only remains for them to accomplish the task which I have every reason to believe will be within their power.

"To my mind the association of the government of Japan with the government of Mexico is absurd."

LATEST SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

STRONG NINE FOR CENTRAL

Long List of Players Will Be Out for Baseball Team.

Seven of Last Year's Team in School---League Will Continue.

With the approach of spring and the end of the basket ball and hockey season the athletes at Central are naturally turning their attention to baseball and are already considering the prospects of a good team.

Last year Central and Nelson Dewey of Superior were tied for first place in the Head of the Lakes league, Central losing to the Superior team in the championship game.

Seven men of last year's team are in school and several players have entered school this year. Spencer, Kelly, Boyle, Waldron, Greenfield and Wharton played on last year's team and will form a nucleus about which to build a nine this coming season.

The biggest loss is in the pitching department. Larry Boyle and Scanlon, both good twirlers, have graduated. Mel McLaran, who pitched for Galahad last year, and Greenfield, who covered third base for Central, are the likeliest candidates for the position. Mat Brown is also expected to show up well in the box.

There is a wealth of material behind the bat. Kelly, who caught last year, is probably the best who ever received for Central. Nolte of Galahad and Spencer, last year's captain, are also good catchers. It is more than likely that Nolte and Spencer will cover other positions as both are good players.

Greenfield, Wharton, Boyle, Waldron, Harris and E. Harris will all be candidates for the infield positions. Greenfield covered third last year, Wharton second and Waldron first. A very strong infield should be built around these three men.

Spencer is the only outfielder from last year's nine, but there is a wealth of green material from which to choose. Johnson, K. Harris, Brown and Craig are all likely candidates.

The matter of a coach is still undecided. Mr. Schilling, who has been coaching the basket ball team, was formerly a college star at baseball, but it is not known whether he would be willing to coach the baseball team or not. Mr. Phillips and Mr. Carey of the faculty have also played baseball in college and it is probable that one of these three will be willing to coach the team.

As to schedule, it is hoped that the Head of the Lakes league, composed of teams from the Normal and two Superior high schools and Central of Duluth will be reorganized again this year. Games will also be scheduled with Cloquet, Two Harbors and several of the range towns.

As soon as the weather is warm enough a call will be issued for candidates so as to get an early start for the coming season.

CURLERS VIEW WITH GLOOMY EYES WATER COVERED ICE.

Talk about enthusiasm. Here is some of the real kind.

Four complete rinks, sixteen players, were down at the curling club rink this morning at 6 o'clock pathetically yearning for so simple a thing as a little sheet of ice.

The humble band yearned in vain and in the observation room observed gloomily the two inches of water on the ice and departed for breakfast and work, disgusted over the curling outlook.

One more day of ice and the Bagley event will be completed. Is there to be ice, or is there not to be ice? Aye, merrily, there's the rub. It will be a shame if all that jewelry holds over the present season.

GOTCH WILL MEET BEELL

Champion Will Take on Wisconsin Demon at the Lyceum Theater.

Frank A. Gotch, who added to his long list of victories just the other evening by beating a Swiss of wonderful proportions at Winnipeg, wrestling in the new Walker theater to the largest crowd that ever witnessed an athletic event in the Canadian city, will arrive in Duluth this afternoon ready for his finish match this evening with Fred Beell.

Beell was due to get in this morning from Marshfield, where he has been working out with Jack Lewis, a wrestler the little Demon believes will be one of the best heavyweights in the country in another year or two.

When not wrestling Fred has been working out with this man and is today in the best shape he has been in for the past two years.

Jim Asbel will go on with Ole Sampson, the silent Finn, who has never been heard to say more than three words since he came to this country. He neither asks the weight, reputation or strength of his opponent, but is ready to wrestle all comers at any time.

The Gotch-Hackenschmidt pictures will be shown and will make up what the promoters believe will be the biggest and best athletic entertainment given this season.

Tonight's card will be the last of the season.

Both men have a alarge following here. Duluth has seen many of the greatest wrestlers in action, and has never witnessed two men who come up to the form shown by Gotch and Beell in scientific knowledge of the game and speed of movement.

Chicago Team Wins.

Chicago, March 10.—The Illinois Athletic club hockey team last night won the third and final game from the all-Niagaras by a score of 7 to 2.

COMMENTS AND OPINIONS ON THE SPORTING PARADE

Down the Baseball Betting Syndicate—The First Box Score Appears--Gotch and Hack May Yet Meet This Season—Barney and His Lost "Roll"—The White Hope and Cassius.

(BY BRUCE.)

JUST how long long do you think this baseball betting syndicate will live?

Bill, a fairly good source of information, answers that it will be going some, "durn it, if she goes fur."

Hardly had the sport writers over the country finished lampooning the idea when the federal authorities were interviewed. The future of the betting commission will be over the stony path of legal interruption.

The matter has been placed in the hands of United States District Attorney Henry A. Wise and District Attorney Charles S. Whitman of New York. If there is any possible way that the pernicious plan of the commission can be put down by being carried out, you may be sure that the men with the best interests of baseball at heart will take immediate steps to prevent the Kentucky gang of gamblers from collecting their first commission on a piking wager.

Baseball is one of the grandest games that ever the brain of man inspired and has improved along the long furrow of the years. She's a darb; the one little game that the men, women and children of this old land of ours enjoy.

The working man, the millionaire, the women of fashion and the woman who works hard for every little cent, enjoy the great old game as they have taken to no other of the American sports. For their sake, for the good of all sport, keep baseball clean of the betting evil.

Here are a bunch of get-rich-quick Wallingfords, who want to take a running jump out of the corral of industry and light with both feet in the garden of yellow fucre, all through the fondness of fans to get on the outcome of the games in the various leagues.

Inherently the game is honest, has always been honest and will ever be on the square when it is conducted as it has been in the past decade. Keep the gamblers out, for once they get a foothold the game will surely be corrupted. The action of those interested in the sport, in turning the matter over to the legal authorities, should result in the suppression of the plans of the Kentauk conspirators against the welfare of the sport.

The First Box Score at Hand.

CHICAGO papers the other day chased the first box score over Duluth way. After its absence of several months the old boy looks pretty good. We are all glad to welcome old Mr. Charley Hoss Baseball back to the midst of the budding green fields.

From Texas, Louisiana, Hot Springs and several other sections of the South where the most interesting news of the country is being gathered at the present time, despite the disturbance down in the vitriolic vicinity of El Paso, there comes by day and night gladsome messages from the camps of the campers.

Somehow, Bill, the whole surface of this old crust takes on a new aspect with the coming of the baseball season. When we read of the teams down there in the Southland, playing there in the sweet sunshine stuff, a belting the leather and scampering around the bases, it makes us all feel spring has came.

With the baseball news crowding and a cooing on the sport page and the fans harkening with their ear to the ground, it looks like Spring, dear Ignacio, and therefore, with salutation, not to mention homage, we welcome to our midst the baseball thing.

Would Bring Gotch and Hack Together.

STATEMENTS from Chicago indicate that officials of the Empire Athletic club, where the biggest matches of the past few years have been held, will make one more attempt to bring Frank Gotch and Hackenschmidt together some time the present month.

From what has been stated in the Chicago papers, a message has been sent to Gotch in an attempt to get the big fellow's final decision in the matter of a meeting with the Russian the present season.

Gotch will be back here some time this afternoon and he may give out something interesting before he leaves the city. He is due to be in Chicago next Tuesday, and it may be that a meeting will be arranged with Gotch and the representatives of Hackenschmidt, whose interests have been pretty faithfully looked after the present season by Jack Curley.

A meeting between Gotch and Hack is the one big event the wrestling fans have been looking forward to. It is hoped they will hook up the present working season, and the announcement that the illustrious pair of grapplers would meet either this month or in April, would be sweet to the fans over the length and breadth of the country.

Be Still, Beating Heart.

FROM the sunny territory of Los Angeles comes the bold story of the theft of $50,000 in drafts from one soiled and battle worn valise, that once belonged to the very king of publicity pelters, Barney Oldfield.

One hardly knows whether to take this story seriously or not. Barney is the best press feeder in the country, and remember they have invented machines for that very purpose. He has in the past invented several stories that have traveled around the globe and then hiked the other way back again, as they were very strong and quite able to stand the travel.

Oldfield may have lost the money, and if he has he will just naturally curse the day he decided to quit racing for the sum named by the automobile trust, for the price of his cars.

Several men who have lost $50,000 and amounts trailing along in that high class financial company, have stated that the sensation is something awful. Barney Oldfield has felt some thrilling sensations in his rather unique career behind the reckless steering wheel; but, if he has really find that fifty thou in real money removed permanently from his immediate vicinity, here is laying one that it is the worst sensation that Barney has ever received.

We might expect encores on this wager from J. Alec Sloan and one Bill Pickens.

One Grand Time in Sapulpa.

HEATED words of eager interest have been shouted over the wires in telling of the coming fight scheduled between the hopefulest hope of 'em all, Carl Morris, and that champion of the brewery trust, Michael Cassius Schreck, one time conqueror of Benedict Arnold of Superior.

The fans out in the oil field district have long clamored for the Morris monster to fight some good man. By some peculiar form of logic Mike Schreck has been elevated to that proud posish and will travel to the Oklahoma pugilistic pasture with all the glamor that surrounded Bob Fitzsimmons on his way back from Carson City.

March 28 has been selected as the day of battle. There will be joy and pride by the bale if Morris topples the old determined German over. Out in Oklahoma they love Jack Johnson with that tenderness some times shown by a boozed buck for the regulations of the reservation.

They want to see the dinge did; in other and more explicitly clear and precise English, they would not be in the least peeved if John Artha was chastised by the rude and heavy hand of some white walloper who has been feeding these past few years close to the bountiful breast of old Dame Nature.

They think they have the fair-haired child of pugilistic fortune in the brave engineer and to give their confidence in Carl some of the concrete reinforcement of material accomplishment, they have given Schreck two round trip tickets and promise of iron men in return for an engagement with the former engineer.

GIANTS HAVE A NEW PHENOM

J. W. JENKINS.

Pitcher J. W. Jenkins, one of the new Giants, is probably the most promising slab man that McGraw is trying out at Marlin, Tex. Jenkins set the Illinois-Missouri league on fire last year with the best record that a pitcher ever made on that circuit. He won twenty-eight games and lost eight. He had eleven shut-outs and in eight games only one run was scored against him in each game. The most runs made off him in any game of the season was five and this happened but twice. It is altogether likely that McGraw will retain him.

LANGFORD CAN'T MAKE MIDDLEWEIGHT LIMIT.

Recent arguments in London over proposed ring battles have brought out one point sharply. Sam Langford, the doughty little black, is not a middleweight in the strict sense of the term. His manager, Joe Woodman, says the best Samuel will do for any of them is 160 pounds at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

This admission was forced in response to a challenge issued recently by Harry Lewis, the American welterweight, who lately claimed the title of middleweight champion of the world because his frequent offers have not met with any response.

Al Lippe, Lewis' manager, recently proposed to match the New Yorker against Langford, win or lose, for a bout at the middleweight limit of 158 pounds at the ringside. Having it thus put up to him in cold-blooded style, Woodman was forced to make reply. This he did by saying that the little black would do 160 pounds at 2 o'clock, and nothing better. Hence we will have to classify Langford hereafter as a light heavyweight and take him out of the list of eligibles for the middleweight title.

LONG SEASON FOR THE A. A.

The First Game in Big Minor Will Be Played on April 12.

Havenor of Milwaukee Denies He Has Designs on Chicago.

Chicago, March 11.—The American association's baseball season for 1911 opens in the Eastern cities April 12 and closes Oct. 1, allowing 168 games on a four-times around the circuit basis.

This was decided late yesterday by the members of the league after a seven-hour discussion of the schedule drawn up by President Tom Chivington.

Minneapolis will open at Toledo, St. Paul at Columbus, Kansas City at Louisville and Milwaukee at Indianapolis. This program will be maintained until April 25, when Minneapolis will be host to Toledo, Indianapolis the guest of St. Paul, Louisville appearing at Kansas City, and Columbus visiting Milwaukee.

Holiday events are evenly divided. Decoration day the games will be:

Indianapolis at Toledo, Louisville at Columbus, Milwaukee at Kansas City, St. Paul and Minneapolis alternato morning and afternoon.

July 4, St. Paul and Minneapolis will again exchange games, morning and afternon and the other teams line up as follows: Toledo at Louisville, Milwaukee at Kansas City, Indianapolis at Columbus, St. Paul and Minneapolis will take advantage of neighborhood rivalry once more on the last holiday of the season, Labor day.

Other games will be: Columbus at Toledo, Louisville at Indianapolis, Kansas City at Milwaukee.

President Chivington will attend the season's first game at Toledo, where a banquet will be served for Presidente Armour and Cantillon the night before.

Cantillon has not decided on a pennant-raising day, and other clubs are seeking the privilege of opposing his team on that day.

It had been expected that action would be taken toward the threatened menace of betting commissions, but it was the general opinion that adverse newspaper criticism had removed the danger.

No deals in players were reported. The club officials present were owners Grayson of Louisville, Havenor of Milwaukee, Cantillon of Minneapolis, Tebeau of Kansas City, Watkins of Indianapolis and Lennon of St. Paul. President Armour of Toledo was represented by Secretary Wils and President Schoenborn of Columbus by Secretary Quinn.

President Havenor of Milwaukee positively denied that he had contemplated entering Chicago by way of the North side park which has been for sale.

The schedule will be released within a week.

SOME FACTS ABOUT FIGHTERS

That Australian trip of Papke, "Cyclone" Johnny Thompson and Jimmy Clabby is bringing out some secrets.

Down there in Australia they have been weighing the fighters in the ring. The result will be a surprise to some of the American followers of the game, who held to certain beliefs regarding Thompson and Papke.

When Papke fought Smith, the Australian, both men weighed 165 pounds, ringside. And that was the lowest weight Papke could make.

"Cyclone" Johnny Thompson has "Coming Lightweight Champion" printed on his letter heads. Johnny has been getting away with the "lightweight" bluff in America. But in Australia, with that pair of scales in the ring—well, read this quotation from Fair Play, printed in Sydney:

"It was Thompson's bluff that he would bet $500 that he was not over 10 stone 2 (142 pounds) the night before he fought Unholz. He must have been nearer 12 (160 pounds) that journey, for he was fat as a prize hog. Saturday night he was hard as nails. Mohegan was first on the scales. He weighed 9 stone 9¾ pounds (135¾ pounds). Thompson was 11 stone 7 pounds 2 ounces (161 pounds 2 ounces). The little, little Melbournite was up against a world-beater heavyweight, for Thompson was three pounds over the middleweight. He paid his forfeit of $50."

"Cyclone" Johnny Thompson weighs when hard as nails 161 pounds! Oh, those Illinois lightweights!

Now we can understand how Johnny came to give Papke a beating in twenty rounds. He'll beat a lot of other middleweights, too.

In spite of the detection of Johnny's real weight, he has made a tremendous hit in Australia, where they regard him as one of the greatest, cleverest and most dangerous fighters in the game, and even talk about wishing to see him fight Jack Johnson. They say no punch can hurt Thompson, and call attention to the fact that he is three pounds heavier than was Bob Fitzsimmons when he whipped Jim Corbett at Carson.

Under the heading "Wonderful Jimmy Clabby," Fair Play says: "Jimmy Clabby, the most brilliant boxer of modern days, a natural born fighting machine, with all the experience of the ages packed into that bright, laughing noddle of his, met Mark Higgins, a famous welter, as far as fame goes in these times in Australia.

"On the scales Clabby was 10 stone 10¼ pounds (154¼ pounds) and Higgins 10 stone 10. Both were middleweights—only they didn't know it."

NEW AUDITORIUM!

AFTER BERTH AS GIANT CATCHER

CATCHER HARTLEY.

Catcher Hartley, one of the new Giants, is working hard for the position of third catcher. Only three catchers will be carried and according to reports from Marlin the fight for third catcher is between Wilson and Hartley. Hartley's throwing to bases has been exceptionally good for this season of the year. "Admiral" Schlei has got the fight of his life to retain his position as second catcher.

CENTRAL WILL MEET AITKIN

Two Teams Will Clash at Basket Ball—Dance Will Follow.

This evening at the local high school gymnasium the Central quint will meet the Aitkin basket ball team.

Basket ball is the only sport in which the Aitkin high school is represented and for this reason a strong and fast team has been developed.

Central and Aitkin have met before this season in a closely played game in which both teams were about evenly matched, but the luck was with the Duluth team and the local quint won by a 26-to-19 score.

The game this evening promises to be one of the best of the present season and a large number of students of the high school will attend the game.

Next Friday and Saturday evenings the Central team will play two games with the Ashland high school quint at the Wisconsin town.

The line up for tonight's game will be: Harris (captain) and Johnson, forwards; Osman, center, and Solheim and Jeronimus, guards.

Ralph Waldron, who has been laid up with an injured knee, reported for practice yesterday and is expected to be back in shape for the Superior game.

Immediately following the Aitkin game tonight a dance will be given by the management of the basket ball team at Stenway hall. All the students and alumni are urged to attend both the basket ball game and the dance following the game.

MIKE "TWIN" IS GIVEN BEATING

Milwaukee Boy Wins Popular Decision Over Boston Fighter.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 11.—Bob Moha of Milwaukee was given the popular verdict over Mike (Twin) Sullivan of Boston at the end of a 10-round bout at the Shubert theater last night.

Moha had the better of nearly every round of the contest. Sullivan was not in condition and aside from a few clean drives which he delivered to the Milwaukee boy, it was all Moha.

Moha carried the battle to the Bostonian throughout. The first four rounds were very tame and consisted principally of in-fighting.

In the fifth round Moha put three hard right swings to Sullivan's left ear and had the better of body punishment. In the sixth, seventh and eighth rounds Moha did most of the work and kept Sullivan busy stalling and covering up. Sullivan got in a spurt in the ninth, getting a few clean blows, but Moha kept up his rough tactics and had the better of the in-fighting. The contest ended very much in Moha's favor. The Boston man was bleeding from the mouth and his left eye appeared to be damaged.

Danny Goodman of Chicago seemed to have a shade over Kid Graves of Milwaukee in the semi-windup.

OLD PARSON DAVIES NEARING DEATH'S DOOR

Lying on a bed in a small room on the third floor of the Hotel Albany in New York, unattended save for visits now and then from friends of other days, is Parson Davies, known through the world for forty years or more as a sportsman fair and square. Twenty years ago Parson Davies figured prominently in the news of every big sporting event. He saw all the big fights, knew all the fighters, and was regarded as an authority on pugilistic doings. Today he is comparatively forgotten, except by the old-timers. As he says himself, he quit to make room for the younger generation, and the younger generation has literally swallowed him up.

Fortunately the Parson is not down and out. He is not basking in the lap of luxury, although he might well be, yet he has enough to keep the wolf from the door and is not complaining. "I have managed to keep out of debt. I am pleased to say, and everybody I had dealings with is satisfied, and so am I."

Like a Voice From the Past.

It's like going back a lifetime to sit and talk with the Parson of the old days when he managed at different periods such men as Charley Mitchell, Jake Kilrain, Jim Hall, Jack Burke, the Irish lad, Joe Choynski, Tommy Ryan and Peter Jackson. In those days the Parson was mixed up more or less in the show business. He toured the country with Mitchell and Jack Burke, managed John L. in the famous show, "Honest Hearts and Willing Hands," and had Peter Jackson out in "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

"I don't know whether the fighters of today are better than the old-timers," he said, "but there certainly are more of them. The present-day crop have more chances, get good money, have lots of training, and men to wait on them. They don't have to undergo the troubles and anxiety that they did years ago, when good purses were scarce, still where can you get better men than Dixon, Gans and Jackson? These are three old-timers; they're dead, all honorable men. Think of all the years Dixon stood it, and how quickly his success, McGovern, dropped out.

John L. Would Not Do.

"John L.? Yes, he was a good man, but if he were in his prime today he wouldn't last long. He never fought as good men as Jackson or Jeffries, and look what a little fellow like Charley Mitchell did to him in France."

Peter Jackson was Davies' ideal fighter. He will talk for hours about the big black and his fine qualities.

"I managed Jackson for five years. I had him when he fought Corbett that famous 61-round draw. What a night! I watched it for fifty-four rounds. It looked then like it would last a week, so I went out to go to sleep. Jackson should never have fought that battle. He was a cripple. He was thrown from a buggy four weeks before the fight, and was badly hurt. I tried to have the fight postponed, but they wouldn't have it, and Peter said, 'I'll go on with it,' and he did.

Johnson the Better Man.

"They made a great fuss about Jeffries being licked by Johnson, didn't they?" he asked. "And why? Jeffries always had everything and today has plenty of money. He never did anything for anybody. The best man won, and he ought to get all the credit. Five or six years ago the result might have been different, but the men Jeffries fought then were all a lot smaller than he. He beat old Jackson when Peter had one leg in the grave. Peter got about $600 or $700 out of that fight, enough to bring him home to Australia, the only home he ever had, where he died in a couple of months. No, I never saw Johnson. I don't like his way of doing business. He'll probably suffer in the end."

The Parson has seen little or none of the recent boxing shows. He can't get around without help, and without Kid McCoy, or, as the Parson calls him, Dr. Selby, he would lie in bed continuously. The Kid manages to get around daily to cheer the "old sport" up. He dresses him at times and gets him down to the hotel's cafe, where the Parson can sit and talk with old friends and see people passing.

"HOPE" LANG MAY RETIRE

Langford Beating Convinces English Sports That Australian Lacks Class.

London, England, March 11.—Australian Bill Lang, imported to this country from his home in the antipodes by that very astute promoter Hugh McIntosh, as the Britain's white man's hope, has made his last stand as a championship possibility. Eight thousand persons, who paid all the way from $2 to $20 for the privilege, jammed into McIntosh's Olympia annex, and, having watched Boston Sam Langford dispose of his heavier white rival in six rounds, filed out again confident that there is no "white hope" in the ranks of British subjects. Equally confident they were that if Jack Johnson is to be relieved of his championship title the "Boston black," as they call Langford here, is the boxer to turn the trick.

As for Lang, he will never get another fight in this country. In fact, it is altogether possible that he has seen his last engagement in the ring. Just as when he lost his head a month ago while battling P. O. Curran, hitting Curran when he was down, so again this week, when Langford had slipped and fallen in a rush, Lang was guilty of the same offense. Personally Lang is a capital fellow, and has always been famed as the fairest of fighters. The view taken here is that the terrible punishment that he had handed out to him by Tommy Burns and Jack Johnson out in Australia have had a lasting effect from which Lang will never recover. In stances not unlike Lang's case might be cited of several boxers in the states.

Just because the Englishmen really believed that Lang did have a chance for the world's championship he was the popular favorite in sentiment—although not in the betting—when the men entered the ring. Two years ago, when Langford whipped Ian Hague at the National Sporting club, the Boston boxer had the crowd on his side from the start, notwithstanding that Hague, at the time, was the English champion. This time, however, the demonstration before the bout began was all for Lang. Langford's reception could almost be termed chilly.

Financially the bout was viewed as a success by Promoter McIntosh, who had been running behind in his annex scheme. With the purse money of $17,500, amounting to little more than a third of the gross receipts, McIntosh is now on velvet. The rank and file of the fight followers, however, regard it as a disappointment, of which there have been several at the annex since McIntosh christened that resort as a pugilistic palace. The Moir-Wells bout a couple of months ago proved a farce, pure and simple, and the 15-second Lang-Curran engagement was hardly more acceptable. McIntosh, however, will pack the place again if he is able to carry through his plans of bringing Langford and Johnson together in May. He professes absolute confidence to do this, and has been advertising all along that the winner of the Langford-Lang session would surely be matched with Johnson under his auspices. It may be that the meeting will be brought about. Every lover of the fistic game hopes so, but in many quarters the belief will not down that Johnson will hardly dare to step foot on English soil. Litigation awaits him here that it seems altogether impossible for him to escape unless somebody is willing to go deep down into his pocket.

RIBENACKS ORDER BOAT

Hotel Men Will Have Flier From the Moore Boat Works.

How fast they are being built these days—the motor boats.

Report has it that the Ribenack Brothers will have a new boat this season and that the new one will be, or should be, one of the real bear cats when it comes to speed. Moore of Lake Minnetonka, has the commission for the new boat, and the orders are for May delivery, it is understood.

If boats continue to be ordered as they have the past two months Duluth will have one of the finest fleets in the entire country. As it is, the Duluth Boat club can at the present time boast of one of the finest fleet of boats of any club in the West.

There is a rumor going the rounds of motor boat circles which says that a prominent Duluth citizen is contemplating giving orders for one of the finest boats that can possibly be built. If the rumor is correct, this boat should be a speed wizard and one of the very best in the country.

BURNS MADE FRANK GOTCH

World's Greatest Wrestler Was Developed By Ancient Omaha Grappler.

If there is anything in being Johnny on the spot when opportunity comes ambling along, then Frank Gotch, the world's champion wrestler, is the aforesaid John. What Gotch has done to the long list of aspiring grapplers, including the Russian lion, George Hackenschmkit, is ancient history. He met them one and all and when the winning number was posted Gotch was the lucky individual.

The champion broke into the game in a very peculiar manner. About eight years ago Farmer Burns, one of the great wrestlers in those days, was barnstorming through the West, and to convince the public that he was the real noise in his line, offered to toss any ambitious athlete within fifteen minutes. Many climbed up on the different theater stages anxious to joust with the Farmer for a double purpose. One was to show their friends that they could wrestle, and the other was to earn the sum posted by Burns for the lucky man that could pin his shoulders to the mat.

One evening Burns struck the town of Humboldt, Iowa, where Gotch lived. In his village Gotch was known as the strong boy who could throw any of his rivals in jig time. When the Burns show loomed up at the town hall and the deft of the star was announced on large posters, Gotch decided that he would try. Frank and his friends were squatted in the first row the evening of the show.

Gotch Tackles Farmer Burns.

When Burns strutted to the edge of the stage and in defiant tones announced that he would give $25 to the man that would face him and not get thrown within fifteen minutes, Gotch clambered on the stage. For the space of a quarter of an hour the pair grappled. And when time was called, Burns handed Gotch the coin. The farmer boy had given Burns the time of his career, and the veteran only saved his skin through the fact that Gotch did not know the fine points of the game.

Burns was so impressed with the huge strength of Gotch that he prevailed upon the young fellow to pass up tilling and plowing and get into the wrestling game. Gotch studied under Burns and picked up so quickly that Burns toured him through the Western country, and after Gotch had plenty of experience, took him to Gotham.

Wins Title From Jenkins.

Jim Parr was the first man to test his prowess with Gotch. The pair wrestled at Sulzer's Harlem River park and the unknown from Iowa annexed the honors. Gotch then set sail for Tom Jenkins, who was acknowledged to be the real noise. This time Gotch was not so successful and was forced to succumb to the veteran. Another match was made, and at the finish Gotch was acknowledged the American champion. Not satisfied with these honors, Gotch started trailing Hackenschmidt. He followed the Russian lion throughout Europe and was so persistent that Hack finally was forced into a match. The two Goliaths met at Chicago, and the outcome was that Gotch was proclaimed the world's champion. This left no more worlds to conquer, and Gotch retired to the pastoral scenery. He lived the life of a country gentleman, but this season wrestling came to life and the call of battle moved the champion to once more don his togs.

SOPHS WIN FROM JUNIORS

Take Final Class Championship Basket Ball Game By 10 to 7 Score.

In the roughest and fastest basket ball game of the inter-class league at the Central high school, the sophomores defated the juniors, 10 to 7 in the final game of the championship series last evening, thus winning the championship of the class league pennant.

The defensive playing of both teams was the best that has been displayed in any class games this season, while both quints displayed poor form at shooting baskets.

Capt. Harris and Elder of the sophomores put up a very fast offensive game, the latter securing one of the three baskets made by his team. Kerns also put up a good game, shooting two baskets.

Mars made the only basket for the juniors. Kelly, Currie and St. Clair played fast floor games.

Both teams missed several free throws from fouls. St. Clair threw five fouls for the juniors, and Harris threw three and Elder one for the sophomores. Lineup:

Sophomores.	Position	Juniors.
Harris (Capt.)	f	Mars
Elder	f	Stillman, Cook
Kerns	c	Kelly
Johnson	g	Currie
Kolstad	g	(Capt.) St. Clair

Summary: Baskets—Kerns, 2; Elder, 1; Mars, 1. Free throws—St. Clair, 5; Harris, 3; Elder, 1. Referee—Young. Umpire—Schilling.

BAILEY AND CONING TIE IN 220-YARD DASH.

George Bailey and Jess Coning tied last evening at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium in the 220-yard dash, the time being 28 seconds. It was one of the prettiest races ever held at the big gymnasium and brought plaudits from the big crowd.

William Otto, Peter Zillinger, Nasaland, Bert Miller, George Jacobson, Sterling, Bauman, Mondshein, Stevens, Persgard, Broad, Thompson, Stanley, Graff, Patrick, Ulvang, W. Nelson, Kidd and A. Naasland finished in the order named.

The race came in the regular list of athletic events that are being held in the gymnasium. The standing of the contestants to date is as follows:

Jacobson, 309; Bailey, 280; Otto, 264; Berkleman, 255; Stanley, 256; Sterling, 221; Broad, 189; Kidd, 120; A. Naasland, 91.

THE BIG DULUTH HOCKEY TEAM

Though three teams are in a three-cornered tie for the city hockey pennant, the Big Duluth's have the best showing on total scores, being as follows: Big Duluth, 54 goals, 13 against them; Adams, 26 goals, 12 against them; Kodalipa, 25 goals, 11 against them.

BALL PLAYERS HAVE MOST PECULIAR HABITS

A ball player is a sort of a popular individual no matter what way you look at him. When a game is in progress all his energies, efforts and thoughts are concentrated with the one idea in view—to win. But when the last man is out he is a changed person. His first desire is usually to avoid the crowd, the excitement and talk of the game. During an important series, when baseball is the one and only topic of conversation on street corners, in stores, cars, restaurants, theaters, and, sometimes, even in pulpits, it is seldom a player will mix in if it is in any way avoidable. Players who display fiery and high-wrought tempers on the diamond are more frequently of the opposite disposition off the field of battle.

A player's life on the road is not as hard or as strenuous as it is at home. His hour of retirement, speaking from an athletic player's standpoint, is usually understood to be 11:30 p. m., and the time of arising is optional. It is generally made a point to convene in the manager's room daily at 10:30 a. m., so this would permit as late a morning sleep as most any one would desire.

Abroad a player has little to attract his attention, unless it's an abundance of friends throughout the circuit, otherwise a little dissipation in the line of a theater or automobile ride is about all to vary the montony of the daily routine.

However, as soon as it is time to dress for the game the player sheds his coat of inertia and his actions speak.

A ball player cannot go to the grounds fast enough, and any delay makes him peevish. Once the game is over there is still the same atmosphere of impatience to return and rid himself of his uniform. Having completed his toilet and partaken of his evening meal, he can again be found in his recumbent position in the lobby.

His Own Trainer.

A ball player has no coach or trainer to watch over him and restrict his eatings, but he learns by experience to regulate his diet. Not infrequently the tempting menus are too much for some of the youngsters, but one trip over the course from soup to nuts previous to a game is sufficient to convince the most ardent epicure of his folly, and to exercise better care and judgment. Throughout the summer months two meals a day, a late breakfast about 9:30 and dinner at night, are enough to appease the appetites of the majority.

If it is true that the little things in life count, the ball player's score ought to total considerably in the game of life, because of all the people the evening opponents on the diamond pay more attention to the diminutive incidents and are the least perturbed by grave casualties.

An example of nonchalance was given by the actions and words of a pitcher who used to be famous a few years ago. The scene of confusion was a wreck early one morning on the Wabash railroad. When the crash came most of the players were abed, but immediately got up and started to dress. One of the fellows went to this pitcher's berth and said: "Come on, Howard, aren't you going to get up? The train's been wrecked."

"No! What do I care, I don't own the cars," was the reply.

Up in Boston in the Copley Square hotel last summer the elevator dropped with eight or ten players in it, from the sixth floor, and only the presence of mind of the colored operator in throwing on a safety clutch averted a catastrophe. But this was forgotten fifteen minutes after it occurred. While on the road the players always receive the best of accommodations, are housed at the leading hotels and are given every attention. However, if any negligence on the part of the employes in the hotel, whether it be lack of energy of a porter in moving a trunk or laxity of a waiter in serving an order, crops out, leave it to the ball players to notice it.

Not all ball players, but more than half the number engaged in the profession have minds to which superstition is a very heavy prey. Such trivial promonition of bad luck, a poor day, or the loss of a game, one would imagine it foolhardiness and nonesense to give them evidence; nevertheless, they are observed, just as regularly as Christmas.

To meet a load of hay or a wagon full of empty barrels on the day of an important game is worth more than a greenback in its value to an imaginative ball player. The former is an omen of good luck, while the latter deals more strictly with the individual, meaning such as plenty of base hits, etc. On the other hand, to pass a funeral conveys a feeling of melancholy, not tears exactly, but the prospect isn't a brilliant one for a satisfactory game.

Other Superstitions.

Some players are even superstitious about their eating. Pineapples are particularly lucky, so some one mentioned to Connie Mack about noontime of a certain Sunday in October, 1910, date of final engagement between the Cubs and White Elephants, whereupon Manager Mack, not wishing to defy fate in any way, ordered sliced pineapple served for his twenty-three or more players that day—result, Athletics 7, Chicago 2.

An instance where an advertisement acted as an adverse agent to the Athletics happened in Chicago last season.

To use a golf term, an immense sign in Comiskey's new park in direct line with the batter's vision acted as a mental hazard to many on the Athletic team and they all found considerable difficulty in following the course of the ball as it left the pitcher's hand and consequently the batting suffered. It was only after a long, serious talk with Manager Mack that they were able to combat against this. Incidentally it is the only unbecoming thing in the White Sox new home.

Another instance where the golf term "mental hazard" is applicable to baseball is when used as an explanation of frequent so-called excusable errors by infielders. You may have heard it said: "Isn't that man Cobb, or Milan, or Speaker (or whoever the fast man may be) the luckiest guy to reach first on the rawest errors?" But did you ever stop to figure just why the player in question gets on so often because of a fallacy on the part of an infielder? When a ball is hit by one of these individuals heretofore mentioned to an infielder a thought that is very apt to flash through the mind of the latter is: "Why, that's Cobb, or So and So; I've got to hustle this or he'll beat the ball." With any other individual, one who is not reputed to be a whilwind, ordinary care and judgment would be exercised by the fielder and as a result, a clean play. This mental hazard is only another of those necessary obstacles which must be overcome by a fielder to enable him to be gilt edge.

"To still be a little psychological, during a game up in Boston last season Bill Carrigan made a casual remark which I took to be for my special benefit, but which was heard and interpreted altogether too liberally by the imaginative young Red Sox slab artist," says Eddie Collins in discussing this point. "Hunt, a left-hander, had given me two fast ones, both of which were strikes, when Foxy Bill pipes out, can you curve me one now? presumably to throw me off, but at the same time he was signalling for another fast ball. Hunt, however, apparently ignored the sign, and to show Carrigan and myself that he was the proud possessor of a good hook, dished up a curve ball that looked as though it broke a foot. Bill, of course, was expecting a fast ball, and consequently it never touched his mit at all and went clear to the grand stand before the surprised Carrigan could recover and give chase. Fortunately for Boston, our only base occupant was on first, and he could only get to third. But after that you can bet Carrigan kept his mouth shut."

BREAKS HIS ARM TRYING TO ESCAPE.

James Wesley, colored, was arrested yesterday by Patrolman Nels Perry at the rear of a Michigan street saloon after he had fallen downstairs and broken his arm in an attempt to run away.

Wesley grabbed a bundle from the automobile of C. F. Hoyt of the Interstate garage, and started away with it. Some one saw the theft and started after him. He dashed through the saloon and started down the back stairs, falling from the third or fourth step. The bundle contined a pair of overalls. Earlier in the week some sneak thief ransacked Mr. Hoyt's room at the Lenox hotel, stealing a pair of trousers and a suit of clothes. Wesley was taken to a hospital after the fracture had been set by Dr. Ignatius J. Murphy of the health department. He completed a sentence in the county jail a few days ago for larceny.

TWO RACES ARE PLANNED

Road Race to Hibbing for Butchart Cup in Prospect.

Endurance Run to Minneapolis Is Also on the Schedule.

Duluth is assured of two big automobile events as well as a number of smaller ones for the coming season.

There will be a road race to Hibbing about the last of June for a silver cup donated by Dr. G. M. Butchart of Hibbing and an endurance contest to Minneapolis and return for a cup to be hung by E. J. Filiatrault of the Mutual Automobile company.

Both announcements were made during the week. The cup for the Duluth to Hibbing race was donated last year by Dr. Butchart, but the weather was so cold that the event was postponed. The offer was renewed last week and it is probable that there will be more interest than ever.

The offer of a handsome cup to be donated by Mr. Filiatrault for an endurance contest between Duluth and Minneapolis will be hailed with delight by Duluth auto owners. They have long wanted a contest of this kind. The trip is of just the right length and is made many times during a season by those who own automobiles. The endurance contest will probably be run along about the middle of August.

The fast race to Hibbing will be one of the most interesting of the events to be pulled off this summer. A number of owners from the range towns as well as Duluth will enter it and as there are many fast cars owned on the range, Duluth drivers will have to go some to grab the cup. It promises to be a lively and interesting race.

The Minneapolis-Duluth endurance contest will be open to both Duluth and range people. When the news of Mr. Filiatrault's offer leaked out this morning, many at once signified their desire to enter.

These two events will be the biggest ever pulled off at the Head of the Lakes. There had been some talk of pulling off like contests in the past, but most of them faded away.

The events this year will surely take place, it is said, and the automobilists are already talking about them.

There promises to be much doing in the automobile sport line during the coming summer, not only in road races and endurance contests, but in hill climbing contests, pleasure jaunts, parades and other events to be pulled off under the auspices of the Duluth Automobile club.

In the two events mentioned there will be no restrictions. Any one at the Head of the Lakes or on the ranges will be allowed to enter. A 60-horse power car can be entered or the owner of a "20" can enter it. So that there will be no interference, the races will be pulled off at least six weeks apart.

BARNEY OLDFIELD TELLS OF HIS FUTURE PLANS

Los Angeles, Cal., March 11.—Barney Oldfield wires that he is coming to Los Angeles to celebrate the sale of his racing outfit to the "racing trust," as he terms the American Automobile association, for $50,000.

He is coming back to the home of his bosom friend, Jim Jeffries, and is going into business here.

Although he comes without the famous Blitzen Benz, Darracq or the other fast machines which have made him a celebrity, Barney will have just as warm a welcome.

Hundreds of times Oldfield has risked his life. He has thrilled thousands as he smashed world records week after week. He is the peer of all drivers, and holds more world records than any other man in the automobile racing game. He has acquired a pride that will allow him to quit with the honors all in his favor. He sold the Blitzen Benz after the car had done its best, perhaps, and at least, after it had been driven at such a clip that the engine exploded.

During a record trial on the San Antonio track Sunday afternoon, as he was finishing a circuit of the course at a faster speed than it was ever before covered, the engine of the Blitzen Benz exploded and shot parts of the giant motor into the air like a battery of field guns grapeshooting a besieged city.

The strain on the great old car was too much, and for two days it has been in a San Antonio garage, lifeless and helpless.

Two hours after the wrecking of the Benz, E. A. Moross, lieutenant manager of the Jacksonville, Fla., beach races and head of the mile-track division of the proposed national circuit, arrived in San Antonio to negotiate the purchase of the racing outfit of Oldfield. The wrecking of the Benz did not concern Moross much.

It was soon made evident that it was his purpose to have Oldfield retire from racing. Moross paid over the money, and the Benz and Darracq are on the way to Jacksonville. The Benz will be reshipped from there to New York. A new engine from Germany will be necessary to fix the car.

Barney Oldfield has won in the most remarkable battle ever waged between a professional athlete and an organization governing a sport. The famous driver displayed grit and gameness never before shown when he fought against tremendous odds an organization composed of 40,000 members and many affiliated clubs.

Men like Eddie Maier of Los Angeles volunteered to officiate at his meets, and some well-known drivers also helped him out of sheer friendship. The magnetic character of Barney Oldfield won half his battles and his reputation for gameness and daring the other half.

In a wire to this city Barney says:

"Well, the fight is over; I have won, and have in my pocket more money than I ever thought I would have when I quit the racing game. Of course the A. A. A. will say they did not buy me out. But when a man so close to the powers buys cars at a huge price, far more than they are worth, racing cars which are suspended and disqualified, and announces the cars will race at the sanctioned meets all over the country, it is absurd to figure it differently.

"The A. A. A. has never been on the square with the public and promoters. Several years ago it suspended Bill Pickens and reinstated him after imposing a fine of $500. Bill gave them $300 and notes for the balance. Then they put the notes in the hands of a collection agency before they got the money. Some class to a system like that."

Starting at Boston after his suspension last October, Oldfield fought the A. A. A. in many cities and across the continent to Los Angeles. Public sympathy was with Oldfield. Crowds flocked to the tracks to see him race. His meets were more successful than those ever held under the sanction of the A. A. A.

"Three times last season I obtained and paid for sanctions after my meets were run," said Barney. "The organization had better have spent that $50,000 they paid for my outfit for good roads and let racing alone. But I am glad it is all over.

"Many business men have sacrificed principles by selling out to trusts. Now I am going back to Los Angeles, where I know everyone from Mayor Alexander to the newsboys wants to see me live and settle down to business and become a good, substantial citizen. Let them sing the Swan song for Barney Oldfield's professional career. I am going to bring Bill Pickens back, too. They wanted Bill to run the Lewis Strang Case team, but I want Bill with me in business."

SEEKERS OF IRON MINES ON THE VERMILION RANGE

Exploration Work Increasing and Shaft Sinking Becoming the Fashion.

North American Shaft Is Center of Activity in Tower District.

Seekers of iron mines on the Vermilion range do not seem inclined to await the melting of the heavy snows but are heading for the storm center forthwith. Some days the trains are crowded beyond comfort and many of the "sooners" are using snow shoes to reach desired points.

Exploration work is increasing all the time. Shaft sinking is becoming the fashion and, in many cases, takes the form of development rather than exploration. Several new properties will come very near shipping ore this season and there are those who declare they will actually enter the shipping list.

It is almost impossible to secure the entire fee to a property located in the core of the formation that has produced all the shipping mines of the range. Some excellent undivided interests are on the market and quite fees on the feather edge of the range is becoming quite brisk. There is a willingness outside to consider good stock propositions but an investor has to be well convinced, and many of them are following the fashion of visiting the range to see with their own eyes. Most companies which have not fully financed their work follow the policy of urging the investor to make a personal inspection trip.

Those who keep their ears most closely to the ground and who have access to inner sources of information declare that the "Big Fellows" are lying around like fish in the shallow water near the shore, waiting for good things to be found, with the idea of grabbing them quickly and, in some cases, perhaps, following the policy of smothering and covering up the fact that a real mine has been found. There are those who use strategy in the iron business the same as in war or politics.

But, summing up everything, many eyes are fixed on the old Vermilion iron range and some splendid history may be written after the millionaires get back from Florida and California and before they disperse again before dog days.

Some distinguished visitors have called on the Vermilion range recently, despite the cold weather and deep drifts. Allen G. Thurman of Columbus, grandson of the "Old Roman" whose name he bears, recently made a thorough inspection trip with the result that he invested a big bunch of Buckeye state money.

A. Tyler, M. E., a graduate of the Houghton School of Mines and recently back from Alaska, made a tour of the Vermilion with results most convincing to him.

George H. Hutchins of Minneapolis, a heavy investor on the range, made an inspection of property recently and despite heavy snows and bad going, came back so enthused that he dropped in another big bunch of money. He promises to escort an entire carload of people to the range as soon as the ground is visible.

A week ago, Mr. Carmichael of Virginia, who will have charge of ore interests in Minnesota for the Canadian Northern railway, visited the Tower district. He was accompanied by Mr. Hazen who is the engineer in charge of the construction of the Canadian Northern railway extension from Virginia to Duluth. It seems a certainty that the Canadian Northern railway will invade the Vermilion range, for the purpose of securing ore and lumber hauling and, perhaps, actual ownership of iron properties.

John T. Jones of Michigan was on the range a few days ago. His Step Proces iron furnace has stirred up iron men more than words can describe. If ore running 45 to 50 per cent in iron on the Vermilion can be made more profitable than Mesaba ores averaging 60 per cent in iron, it will work a revolution.

L. L. Culbertson, president of the Almar Iron company, escorted a large party to the property in section 15, 62-14 early in the week.

It was not long ago that the E. N. Breitung interests had a confidential agent on the range, and it is known that offers of financial assistance were made to certain interests but the offer was refused, not being desired.

Eugene McIntyre, who is specializing on the Vermilion, made an inspection tour a few days ago and came back in high feather. James Cardle and T. E. Lewis took up a party of investigators and investors early in the week. T. J. Walsh spent several days on the range in the middle of the week.

Since iron ore was discovered in the Lake Superior region, shipments of record aggregate about 500,000,000 tons. Valued at only $1 a ton, net, this half billion tons of iron ore exceeds the value of all the gold produced in the big state of California from the days of '49 up to the present time. Of course the value of this half a billion tons has averaged much more than $1 a ton.

In 1909, the entire Lake Superior region shipped 43,536,869 tons of ore. In 1910, the record ran up to 44,436,889 tons, an increase of 850,000 tons. As years go by, the increase will be steady.

Since the discovery of iron ore in Minnesota the state has sent out over 227,000,000 tons of iron ore. Since 1884, the Vermilion iron range has shipped about 30,000,000 tons of the best hematite ore in the world. That ore today would have a market value of not less than $150,000,000.

In 1910, the Vermilion range was one of the three in the entire Lake Superior region to increase its shipments. The shipping records for the range last year is as follows:

The Mesaba range saw an increase of 1,250,000 tons. The big steam shovels rapidly are taking the cream of that range.

The Gogebic range showed an increase of about 227,000 tons.

The Vermilion iron range showed an increase of about 95,000 tons. This year, the increase will be several times that. Section 30 already has sold 225,000 tons for delivery in 1911, and the old Chandler, which shipped none last year, likely will send out at least 50,000 tons.

Last year the Menominee range saw a decrease of 637,000 tons, compared with the 1909 shipments.

The Marquette range shipments slumped 18,000 tons.

Last year, the Vermilion range mines produced the following tonnage: Pioneer, 526,435; Sibley, 206,386; Zenith, 283,320; Savoy, 59,375; Soudan, 75,511; Section 30, 51,650.

Around Tower, everything is moving along briskly. The North American shaft is the center of activity on that property. The porphyry dike retains its gold values. Three assays recently made, ranged from a trace in gold to over $94 a ton.

The North American Brick, Tile & Pottery company, under the hustling management of Capt. Tom McDougall, has started construction work. A power plant has been purchased from the Red Cliff Lumber company, in Duluth, embracing big engines, boilers and electric light equipment. This company expects to be in operation in May and will have a capacity of over 100,000 brick a day. The company will pay a profitable royalty to the North American Iron company on the deposits of decomposed shale which are especially adapted for vitrified brick and other clay products.

The White Iron Lake Iron company, under the management of James Le Brec, is drilling industriously on the La Chance property and very encouraging results are reported.

The Minnesota Steel & Iron company has not been crowding drilling for some time, owing to cold weather and distance of drills from water supply. Considerable trenching and other surface work have been done during the past few weeks.

Nothing active is in progress at the Roy, but it is rumored that serious negotiations are under way for one of Jones' Step Process furnaces.

Travel from Tower to Pine Island and other properties on the belt of Knife Lake slates east of Lake Vermilion is much better than before the recent freeze. The work on Pine Island has reached a most interesting stage and will be closely watched by all iron men from this time forward.

Drilling has stopped on the Rice Bay property but it is stated that shaft sinking will be resumed soon.

The shaft is being sunk on the Chicago-Vermilion property, between Rice Bay and Pine Island.

Shaft sinking and work with the shot drill are being prosecuted on the Scott-Bevier property in section 35, 63-15. The management reports favorably on results.

The Public Steel company is one of the more recent enterprises launched on the Vermilion. It owns and controls 20,000 acres of land, principally on the Mesaba. There are 600 acres near the Chandler mine, another property near the North American, and 4,500 acres are in Lake county. Some of the holdings formerly belonged to the well-known Cullen Iron company. This new corporation has an authorized capital stock of $5,000,000, a heavy majority of which is held by Richard Cullen of Duluth, one of the most persistent, determined and invincible men in the entire Lake Superior region. The officers are: President and treasurer, Richard Cullen, Duluth; secretary, Andrew Bergquist, Duluth; vice president, C. Cameron of New York city.

Mr. Bergquist is authority for the statement that a campaign of heavy exploration work will be inaugurated in the spring.

The Banner Vermilion Mining company has started some preliminary work in section 27, 62-12, about four miles westerly from Ely. Jain Gunn erected a big tent, despite snows and cold, and has been working four men. Capt. John R. Randall, who is interested in both the company and the fee states that very satisfactory results have accompanied their prospecting work to date.

Other work tributary to Ely is going smoothly. The old Chandler and Section 30 are pursuing the even tenor of their way and making brilliant history.

In section 2, 62-12, the White Iron Lake Iron company has run the crosscut about 150 feet. Indications are that a change in formation is close at hand and Mr. Le Brec hopes that the drills soon will encounter the ore body that was cut over 200 feet deep with a diamond drill. Mr. LeBrec is deeply interested in the reported invasion of the range by the Canadian Northern railway, for it may mean much to this property. A survey made some time ago comes very close to the mine.

On the Lucky Boy, the Anderson and the Asa Camp properties, managed by E. C. Kennedy in the interests of the Vermilion & Mesaba Iron company, two shafts are being put down as fast as men and money can do it. Steam drills now are being used and air drills will be available in a few weeks, as the company has decided to install a compressor plant of at least eight drills capacity. Eugene McIntyre inspected the properties this week.

Mr. Kennedy reports that the third hole on the McCue property, section 10, 62-14, located 450 feet straight north of the old shaft on Minnesota Iron company ground close to the south line, had passed through thirty feet of solid ore at a depth of 200 feet. Of that, twenty-four feet were in one solid body and six feet in another.

In the peerless township of 62-14, most of the operations are going along smoothly. The Irona Iron company in section 5 recently cut some solid ore after which the drill passed into mixed ore.

On the Vermilion Steel & Iron company's property in section 5, the working shaft now is down about 175 feet. Everything connected with this work has gone smoothly. A big coal supply was hauled in last fall and the men work under a bonus system that secures maximum results.

The Marquette & Vermilion Iron company is making fine headway on plans for spring operations. In addition to diamond drill work, considerable trenching, test-pitting and even light shaft work will be done.

At the Almar property a skilled force is kept hustling by Capt. Klug. Latest reports have it that results are all one could ask. The company will install a big air compressor at once. The men who are sinking the shaft by contract are using steam drills at present.

Drilling is proceeding without interruption on the John Bisbee property in section 7, 62-13 and on the John Smith property, section 9, 62-13, under the auspices of J. C. Campbell and associates of Cloquet.

PORCUPINE RUSH TO NEW GOLD FIELD

Excellent Assay Values at Sudbury Create Great Excitement.

Porcupine, Ont., March 11.—One of the wildest stampedes in the annals of the camp set in a few days ago south into the Sudbury division, and there are now probably between forty and fifty parties on the way into the new find, which is located on Muskesenda lake, just on and below the base line of Bartlett. The distance is between thirty-five and forty miles from here.

The first stakes there were put down some months ago by Chris Nelson of Haileybury and the rush was caused by the result of the assay which he recently had made in Haileybury, which ran, it is said, from $4 to $100, and all show a trace of platinum. Tellurides are said to occur, but none of the samples brought in here show their presence.

Free gold has been found in some narrow veins, but the assays that have run so high have all been made on quartz that showed no trace of visible gold.

The quartz, which returning prospectors have brought to camp is deeply stained and does not resemble the bull characteristics of the Porcupine district.

REDUCTION OF COSTS

Calumet & Hecla's Ambition to Reach Basis of "Dollar Rock."

Would Mean Very Much to the Lake Superior District.

Houghton, Mich., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Calumet & Hecla management is credited, in the press, with an ambition to reach the basis of "dollar rock." By this figure is meant a total cost of mining and milling rock carrying native copper of $1 per short ton. This figure never has been reached in the Lake Superior district, and although costs have been decreasing almost since the beginning of mining operations nearly seventy years ago, much further progress must be secured before dollar rock is reached by any mine in this district.

All of the leading mines show substantial reductions in operating costs, per ton of rock stamped, during the past decade. The pioneer of the entire field in low tonnage costs was the old Delaware mine in Keweenaw county, working a conglomerate bed supposed to be a northern extension of either the Allouez or conglomerate lodes of Houghton county, which, nearly thirty years ago, mined and stamped its rock at a cost of $1.27 per ton, under the management of Capt. Charles H. Palmer, a veteran miner, who is still active though in other fields. The Delaware was unsuccessful, however, because of the exceedingly low average contents of copper. Some twenty years ago the Atlantic mine managed to get its costs under $1.50 per ton, and eventually reached a figure of about $1.30 per ton. None of the other mines of the district are yet as low as was the Atlantic before this mine was ruined four years ago through air blasts.

A Variety of Factors.

The matter of tonnage costs, while of supreme importance, is complicated by a variety of prime factors. The first of these to come up for consideration is the matter of development costs. It was the habit of the mine managements, except the Calumet & Hecla, in the early days and until a comparatively recent period, to carry a construction account, to which was charged all extraordinary expenses in the way of opening new shafts, machinery equipment and general surface improvements, beyond ordinary repairs. By reason of this convenient construction account, which proved a catch-all for miscellaneous costs, it was possible for many mines that actually were losing money, to figure out annual profits on production, and great was the grief of confiding shareholders after years of such paper profits, to be faced with the necessity for further assessments absolutely imperative for financing operations. The construction account enjoys less favor than formerly, but it is obvious that the matter of unusual development and construction costs must be taken into consideration in arriving at a just estimate, not only of present but of future possibilities. For instance, the Ahmeek mine, which is one of the very best new mines in the district, showed a cost of almost 15½ cents per pound for finished copper, and as the average price for which the metal was sold that year was only 13.37 cents per pound, the year's results, on their face, were most unsatisfactory, but, as a matter of fact the high cost was due to charging directly to operating expenses very large sums required for sinking new shafts, which were not productive, adding new hoists and general machinery equipment, building, constructing and equipping a new mill and adding a great deal of miscellaneous building. While a considerable amount of outlay is required every year for construction work, including the various items of new shafts, new machinery, new buildings, and remodeling of mining and milling plants, it is obvious that this should be charged direct to operating costs, as such construction expense is a continuing charge. The difficulty in this case lies in striking a fair average, as construction costs necessarily are much heavier in some years than others, at the old mines. In the case of the new mines, such as Ahmeek, having everything to provide, at the start, construction costs necessarily are exceedingly high but as these provide permanent equipment, allowance must be made for the unduly high cost of finished copper, when including the heavy expenditures required to open and equip the mines.

Would Mean Much.

Dollar rock would mean very much to the Lake Superior district, as with copper at 12½ cents per pound, it would permit a developed and equipped mine to wash hands from copper-bearing rock averaging a net mill run of only about ten pounds of blister copper per ton of rock stamped. That dollar rock may be reached eventually, by some of the mines more favorably situated for cheap tonnage costs, it is reasonable to infer, from the steady reduction in figures of costs, per ton of rock, that has been effected since the beginning of mining work in this district. The cost of mining and milling per ton of rock, necessarily varies from the cost of finished copper per pound. In the case of the old Atlantic mine, before referred to, tonnage costs were low, but finished copper costs were high. Tonnage costs were low because the Atlantic ashbed, of about fifteen feet average width, was mined from wall to wall and the entire product stamped, without selection, while finished copper costs were high because the ashbed average a return of only about thirteen and a half pounds of copper per ton of rock stamped. It is obvious that a low grade mine having a wide bed can secure cheap costs per ton of rock, but will be unable to make cheap copper, while a mine having a narow bed or vein, like the branch vein of the Michigan mine, can make cheap copper, though at high costs per ton of rock stamped.

Up to and including the production of mineral, which is the native copper with gangue rock adhering that is produced at the mills, one mine can produce copper about as cheaply as another, making necessary allowances for width of lode, depth of workings and difference in cost between amygdaloidal and conglomerate beds, in both mining and milling owing to the more refractory nature of the conglomerate, but from thence forward, the costs vary according to the amount of copper recovered. It costs little, if any more, to mine and mill a ton of rock from a rich bed than a ton of rock from a lean bed. In fact the Baltic and Champion mines of the Copper Range probably are able to mine and mill a ton of rock cheaper, on the average, than a ton of rock can be mined and milled from the Isle Royale mine, only a few miles distant for the reason that the Baltic lode of the Baltic and Champion mines is considerably wider than the Isle Royale and Portage beds of the Isle Royale mine. From the point of milling onward to the production of finished copper, the Champion and Baltic mines show much higher costs, for the reason that their bed carries 75 to 100 per cent more copper than the beds of the Isle Royale mine, and costs of smelting, freight, insurance and commissions on sales are fairly constant factors.

The cost of preliminary crushing, done in rockhouses at the mines, is 4 to 6 cents per ton, in the case of mines having modern equipments and much higher with some of the small mines having poor crushing plants. The cost of final crushing at the stamp mills has been reduced very largely from the inception of milling, and within the past fifteen years has been practically cut in half at the best mills, being as low as 16 cents per short ton at some of the leading properties. Mining and milling costs at the Osceola were only $1.28 per ton for 1910, cost of finished copper sold for the year being 9.37 cents per pound.

HORACE J. STEVENS.

NEVADA AS A MINING STATE.

(From cables in Chicago Mining World, Jan. 21, 1911.)
Total product of gold in United States, including Alaska, in 1910, $96,055,000; silver, $30,188,000; both, $126,243,000.
Nevada alone produced: Gold, $17,999,000; Silver, $4,999,000; both together, $22,940,000, or 18.1 per cent.

DIVIDENDS PAID BY NEVADA GOLD AND SILVER MINES IN 1910—$9,609,000.

THIS AMOUNT EXCEEDED THE TOTAL DIVIDENDS PAID BY ALL THE GOLD AND SILVER MINES OF ALL THE OTHER STATES AND TERRITORIES COMBINED. Nevada is entitled to respectful attention.

—THE—

SUPERIOR & NEVADA GOLD MINING CO

Recently sent Mr. C. A. Graves, proprietor of the Duluth Testing Laboratory, to inspect its properties, and in connection with his report, makes the following announcement:

LOCATION AND DESCRIPTION OF PROPERTY—

Situated in Clark county Nevada, five miles from Crescent, Nevada, and ten miles from Nipton, California, connected by good automobile road. Nipton is on the S. P. L. A. & S. L. railway, about 400 miles this side of Los Angeles.

ELEVEN FULL CLAIMS (220 acres). SILVER, GOLD, TUNGSTEN—

The property is divided into three groups:

1—TREASURE TROVE—Silver. Five Claims.

The principal shaft (5x7) is on this group. It follows a vein of silver down at an angle of 48 deg. to a depth of 180 feet. Various drifts were made from this shaft. Water was struck at 169 feet. The width of the vein in the drift at this level is three feet.

This shaft is equipped with 6-horse power gasoline engine and hoist, steel cable, ore buckets, steel ore bins, and all necessary attachments.

From many samples taken by Mr. Graves personally, and analyzed by him, the average assay was $39 in silver.

2—EMPIRE GROUP. Three claims. Tungsten.

These claims join end to end, and were secured in 1909, because of a 22-inch vertical ledge of tungsten running lengthwise of the claims. This ledge has been proved by test pits ten and twenty feet deep for a distance of 2,500 feet. It probably extends throughout the whole 4,500 feet of the property.

It may be stated that the total product of tungsten in the United States in 1910 was only 1,824 tons, which sold for $832,992, or an average of $456 per ton. Tungsten is nearly twice as heavy as lead. It is easily mined, easily separated from the waste, right at the mine itself, and is always shipped in concentrated form, so that the freight charges are very low. A carload of tungsten recently shipped east from Nevada was estimated to be worth $25,000.

3—THE WINNEBAGO GROUP. Three claims. Silver and Gold.

A thirty-foot tunnel on this property follows a vein of silver two inches at the top of the tunnel, and six inches at the bottom. Samples taken by Mr. Graves, and analyzed by him, run $60 in silver. Mr. Graves reports that thirty feet north of our line a gold vein of phenomenal values has been struck, and that this vein continues across our property.

Mr. Graves' report in full may be had on application to me. The following extracts are taken from it:

REPORT OF C. A. GRAVES, Proprietor of the Duluth Testing Laboratory.

"Transportation facilities are good. * * * Working conditions are good, now that you have water."* * *

"The surface and workings indicate that you have a valuable property, and one that might easily develop into great value."

"You will note that the average of the assays given is $39 per ton." * * *

"These were not selected pieces, but were average samples."

"A single piece taken from each of twenty-five sacks of ore ready for shipment assayed $46.73 per ton.

"Samples could be selected that would give assays of at least $200 per ton.

"All ore that gives values over $12 or $15 per ton should be profitable.

"I would recommend that you drive the shaft down at least 500 feet more at once. * * * I think as your ore body develops, you will find it profitable to put in a stamp mill, and concentrate the leaner ores.

"From all present indications, your property well warrants further development, and gives promise of a good mine."

Mr. Graves' report also recommends pushing the development of the tungsten ledge, and the silver-gold veins on the Winnebago group.

It is to carry out these recommendations, that the present block of stock is offered, and this statement made:

CAPITALIZATION AND FINANCE

Authorized capital, 1,500,000 shares; par value, $1.00. Issued to date, 860,000 shares. Of this amount, 550,000 shares were used to purchase the original property, and acquire new properties; and 300,000 shares have been sold for development purposes, and the purchase of machinery. No officer of the company has ever asked or received a dollar for his services. There are 640,000 shares in the treasury, and no debts of any kind.

The development work has been carried on for the last two years under the personal supervision of Mr. John Paden, a practical mining man, well known at the Head of the Lakes. Mr. Graves' report speaks in the highest terms of the efficiency and economy of his administration.

100,000 shares of stock have been set aside as ample to carry out all the recommendations of the engineer.

25,000 SHARES AT 30 CENTS A SHARE

As we have now reached a point where conditions may change radically at short notice, only 25,000 shares will be offered at present at 30 cents a share. So much of the rest as may be necessary will be drawn on, and offered for sale from time to time, at such prices as the facts may warrant.

From the remarkably high values and extent of the veins already disclosed on all of the three properties belonging to this company, experts and practical mining men predict another one of those extraordinary mining successes for which Nevada is famous; but as to that, we must every one take our own chances.

We invite no subscriptions except from business people who are qualified to weight the probabilities, and able financially to abide the results. To all such, we shall be glad to afford every facility for investigation.

DISSOLUTION IS ORDERED

Affairs of Boston & Montana Company Are to Be Wound Up.

Butte Copper Production in February Amounted to 21,964,000 Pounds.

Butte, Mont., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Louis Seasongood of Cincinnati failed to appear and make good the allegations he set forth a few weeks ago, in making objection to the dissolution of the Boston & Montana Mining company, and the judge before whom the case was set for hearing has granted the order asked by the corporation, thus putting out of existence one of the best known and best paying mining companies in the country. It will be remembered that the Boston & Montana company was sold to the Anaconda Copper Mining company for 1,200,000 shares of the latter company's stock. Later the stockholders held a meeting and authorized the directors to apply for a dissolution of the company. The law was complied with in regard to paying off all outstanding indebtedness and fulfilling other requirements, and then the directors asked the court to dissolve the company. Notice was given as required by law after the application had been made, and Mr. Seasongood of Cincinnati filed an objection on grounds already told in these columns. The court took notice of the objections and ordered that a continuance be had in order to give him an opportunity to appear in court. After due notice, he failed to do so, although it is stated that he made an effort to secure the services of Attorney Charles R. Leonard, the former Heinze counsel, to represent him. Attorney L. O. Evans of the Boston & Montana company objected to any further continuance, and after testimony had been submitted, the court made the order dissolving the company. In the dissolution order Sidney Chase, B. B. Thayer, John D. Ryan, F. P. Addicks and D. B. Hennessy, directors of the corporation, were named as trustees, with full power to settle the affairs of the company, to execute all grants of real estate owned by the corporation and to wind up the affairs and distribute its property and assets to those legally entitled to the same.

The Boston & Montana Copper company was organized under the laws of Montana in 1887 and reincorporated in 1907 with an authorized capitalization of 3,750,000 shares of $25 each par. Not all of the stock was ever issued, the amount outstanding at the time of the merger being 100,000 shares of a par value of $2,500,000 and a market value of from $40,000,000 to $50,000,000. The company has distributed in dividends $62,425,000. The dividend rate in recent years was from $6 a share in 1902 to $68 a share in 1904. Last year $16 a share was paid.

Production in February.

The copper production of this district during February was 21,964,000 pounds, which includes 1,064,000 pounds turned out by the East Butte company. The Washoe smelter returns shows 14,800,000 pounds of the red metal produced in February and 6,100,000 pounds from the Great Falls smelter, making a total of 20,900,000 pounds as the production of the Anaconda merged mines. This compares with 21,610,000 pounds in January, of which 15,950,000 pounds were from the Washoe smelter and 5,650,000 pounds from the Great Falls smelter. When it is considered that there were thirty-one days in January, as compared with twenty-eight days in February, it will be seen that the February production in the mines was rather increased in comparison to the number of working days. This is in spite of the fact that several of the big mines of the original Anaconda group are down, including the Anaconda, St. Lawrence and the High Ore, together with the Mountain View mine and some other properties which were not operated at anything like the usual force.

Blue Bird.

P. E. Bradshaw of Duluth, and J. B. Foraker, son of Senator Foraker of Cincinnati, president and secretary-treasurer respectively of the Blue Bird Mining company, operating in the Radersburg district, are in the city after a visit of inspection of the property. They report everything progressing very favorably at the mine and expect a good showing to be made this year. While they were there two feet of ore running from $2 to $35 a ton was encountered but their high hopes did not last long for the vein was lost soon afterward. However, there is every prospect, they report, of recovering it, and those in charge of the work have been given orders to push the development work.

Mr. Bradshaw, in speaking of the general mining outlook in the district,

APART from its religious significance, St. Patrick's day serves admirably as a reminder of the part played in the upbuilding of this republic by the Irish race. The annual recurrence and more or less demonstrative celebration also direct attention to the fact that men and women of true Gaelic lineage continue to make themselves conspicuous in the affairs of the nation and that no other race which is a part of our composite nationality has done better service in the common cause.

If you should make a list of the leading men in any sphere of American life today, you would find among the foremost a goodly number of Irish birth or descent. It would be the same whether you looked over the field of law or finance, of politics or diplomacy, of education or religion. Leading positions in each of these fields are held by Irishmen. At the head of some of the greatest industries of the United States stand men of the Celtic race. Irishmen have planned or executed some of the greatest constructive work that has been achieved in this country in the last quarter of a century, most notably in the development of railroads and other means of communication. But not merely in the church or in practical affairs have the Irish risen to eminence in this country. You will find them among those who have won fame in literature, music and the fine arts.

Irish Blood in the Supreme Court.

The man who holds the highest judicial position in this country, Edward Douglass White, chief justice of the United States, is of Irish descent. Associate Justice Joseph McKenna is also of Irish lineage. John Thomas McDonough, formerly chief justice of the Philippine islands, was born in Birdhill, Ireland, and came to this country when he was seven years of age. For many years he has practiced law at Albany, N. Y. He was delegate-at-large to the New York state constitutional convention in 1894 and he was elected secretary of state in New York in 1898 on the ticket headed by Theodore Roosevelt, and he and Col. Roosevelt became warm personal friends as the result of their association in the state government. Col. Roosevelt had formed a very high opinion of Judge McDonough's ability as a jurist, and when the opportunity came four years later he named him for the highest tribunal in our island dependencies.

Justices Victor J. Dowling, John J. Delany, Edward E. McCall and James Fitzgerald of the supreme court of New York state are Irishmen, and Irish also is Former Justice Morgan J. O'Brien, who resigned a few years ago from the supreme court bench to resume the practice of law and is now one of the most prominent active members of the bar in New York city, besides being one of the three trustees of the majority stock of the Equitable Life Assurance society, thus giving him a fiduciary trust of world-wide importance.

Another Irishman holding a prominent judicial position in New York is Chief Magistrate William McAdoo, formerly assistant secretary of the navy and later police commissioner of New York city. Thomas D. O'Brien until recently was an associate justice of the Minnesota supreme court.

The Irish as Diplomats.

Irishmen hold positions of the first rank in the diplomatic service of the United States. There is Richard C. Kerens of St. Louis, ambassador to Austria Hungary, who was born in Ireland, and there is Thomas J. O'Brien, ambassador to Japan, of Irish descent. One of the most distinguished of American scholars, Maurice Francis Egan, who is now minister to Denmark, is an Irishman. Mr. Egan was formerly professor of English language and literature at the Catholic university at Washington, D. C., and he is a voluminous author, his literary output including not only writings on church matters and erudite subjects, but also works of fiction and several volumes of poems. Mr. Egan has made researches at Elsinor, Denmark, that shed some new light on the problems presented by Shakespeare's "Hamlet." His reputation as a profound and brilliant scholar had long been established in Europe when he was named for his high diplomatic post, and his appointment was most gratifying to the learned society of the Danish capital.

No Irish lad that ever came to this country in search of opportunity has had a more remarkable and picturesque career than has been that of Richard C. Kerens. From driving a mail wagon in the raw West of years ago to holding the post of ambassador to the most aristocratic court of Europe is a pretty good climb, though to those who know Mr. Kerens it doesn't seem so remarkable. They would tell you that "Dick" Kerens was bound to make a brilliant success.

The late Senator Stephen B. Elkins, when he was out in New Mexico laying the foundation of his fortune after the close of the Civil war, became acquainted with Mr. Kerens. He took a strong liking to the young Irishman, and there grew up between them a warm personal friendship. There was nothing remarkable in this, for everybody liked "Dick" Kerens. He had a bright cheery way with him that won him friends wherever he went. He was a typical Irish blonde, with a fresh complexion and high color, slightly curling hair and the bluest of blue eyes.

But the most attractive thing about him was his smile, which was, it has been said, as sunny as a May morning. He was well built, though of medium height, and he was perfectly capable of doing a little more than his share of hard work. Mr. Elkins, only a year older than Kerens, though of importance in territorial affairs, found the earnest yet good natured way that young Kerens went about things, and soon came to have the utmost confidence in his character and ability. Their friendship was further cemented by their common admiration for James G. Blaine. Later when they both attended Republican national conventions, there were no more enthusiastic Blaine men that Elkins and Kerens.

As a lad in Iowa, Kerens had found employment that gave him some practical knowledge of the business of transportation. He went further West in his early manhood, after he had fought through the war on the Union side, with the idea of turning this to account, and succeeding in getting a government contract he established a mail route in the Far Southwest. At times he drove the horses himself. He prospered at this business, and after awhile branched out into other lines.

His association with Mr. Elkins led to several business opportunities. Shrewd investments in real estate and mining ventures soon started him on the road to wealth, and sound judgment and application converted a modest competence into an imposing fortune. For although he possesses in a marked degree the sunny and emotional temperament of the Irish race, Mr. Kerens is, and always has been, a cool and clear-headed man of business.

During the investigation of the Star Route scandals which took place under the administration of President Garfield, efforts were made to connect Mr. Kerens in some way with transactions by which the federal government had been defrauded, but the most diligent inquiry failed to disclose anything against him. It was Mr. Elkins who really started the investigation. Having learned that by means of fraudulent mail contracts, obtained through the bribery of federal officials, the government had been swindled out of large sums of money, Mr. Elkins laid the facts before the authorities at Washington. When he heard of the efforts of the authorities to discover some evidence implicating Mr. Kerens, he told them frankly that they would find nothing.

"I have complete confidence in Kerens," Mr. Elkins said. "He would rather cut off his right hand than take a dishonest dollar. I know him, and he is absolutely straight and true."

Charles Edward O'Brien, who has had a distinguished public career, and is well known as a diplomatist, is the son of Irish parents. He has held the position of commissioner of docks in New York city and he was appointed envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Paraguay and Uruguay by President Roosevelt.

Leaders in Finance.

In the realm of finance you will find among the leading and most influential figures many men of Irish stock. Typical are such men as Thomas Fortune Ryan, who rose from a clerk in a Baltimore dry goods house to be a great power in Wall street, a man whose vast financial interests extend to every part of the country. John D. Crimmins, probably the most successful contractor in the county, who has built many important public works in some of the largest cities of the United States, and has large interests in real estate and leading financial institutions in New York. Stephen Kelly, president of the Fifth National Bank of New York; Clarence C. Mackey, son of the late John W. Mackey, and Thomas M. Mulry, president of the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank of New York, the greatest institution of its kind in the country, with deposits aggregating $101,000,000, and surplus and undivided profits amounting to $9,000,000.

By virtue of his position Mr. Mulry, it would seem, should be one of the best known of men to bankers, and yet the fact is that he is not nearly so generally known in banking circles as he is in some other quarters. This is due to a trait of personal character, which he has in common with many other able business men. It might be best described as a disposition to shrink from any merely personal prominence. It is not the result of timidity or any lack of assertiveness, for it is found combined with great vigor and aggressiveness in matters of purely business concern. In a way, it may be said to be a disposition to submerge the personality in the business interest with which it is associated, and something of this sort seems to have happened in Mr. Mulry's case. His personality, in the banking world, appears to be merged in and concealed by the great institution of which he is the head and the guiding spirit.

Mr. Mulry is well known, however, in Catholic benevolent circles, and among workers in charitable lines, for his interest in philanthropic work is intense and he has devoted much of his time and means to it. He has not always been able to prevent his left hand from knowing what his right hand is doing in the matter of benevolences, though it is suspected that he has succeeded in this to a considerable extent. It is understood that he was one of the largest contributors to the fund that was raised to pay of the $800,000 mortgage on St. Patrick's cathedral in New York, thus making the recent consecration of the cathedral possible.

Mr. Mulry is a man of medium height and stocky build, with dark hair and eyes, and a heavy black beard. He is very quiet and unassuming in manner, and though grave and serious in demeanor, is not in the least an austere man. In politics he is a Democrat, and he is affiliated with the local Democratic organization of New York city, with which he is very popular. Mr. Mulry could have had any office for which the New York city Democracy could have named him, but he is adverse to holding public office, and over and over again he has declined nominations and appointments. His recommendation or indorsement of a candidate is known to have great weight.

Mr. Mulry is a man who takes broad views of affairs and subordinates personal or minor considerations to those of a general nature. During the troublous financial times of Cleveland's second administration, when the "endless chain" was draining the United States treasury of gold, Mr. Mulry displayed this quality of his mind in a notable way. To restore the gold reserve in the treasury, Mr. Cleveland resorted to an issue of bonds which were taken by New York bankers. The gold thus obtained was quickly drained from the treasury, and a second bond issue was decided upon by the administration. The negotiations for the floating of this second issue of bonds in New York resulted in some friction and some of the bankers were rather disposed to hold aloof. A conference of New York bankers was called to consider the matter and Mr. Mulry was one of those who participated. When the discussion had revealed that there was something of an undercurrent of adverse sentiment, Mr. Mulry said:

"Gentlemen, this is a matter in which the credit and the honor of our government are concerned. It is our patriotic duty to assist in any way that we can, and no questions of personal feeling ought to stand in the way of our doing so."

The view advanced by Mr. Mulry became that of the conference and the second issue was taken up.

Developers of Great Industries.

James J. Hill, the great railroad builder and developer of the Northwest, was born in Canada of County Ulster parents. Alexander E. Orr, to whose untiring efforts for ten years is due very largely the fact that New York city has a rapid transit subway, was born in Strabane, County Tyrone. As president of the rapid transit commission, Mr. Orr took the chief part in solving the innnumerable difficult problems presented by the rapid transit question. John B. McDonald, the contractor who built the big underground railroad, was also born in Ireland. Thus two of the men to whom the achievement of this gigantic undertaking is chiefly due are of Irish birth, a fact in which Irishmen may surely take a reasonable pride.

The four Cudahy brothers, whose name is famous through the great packing house that is known by it, were born in Ireland. They came to this country with their parents to escape the ravages of the black famine. Two of the greatest cattle raisers in this country, Timothy Kinney of Wyoming and George Russell of Nevada, are of Irish birth. Each has large and varied financial interests in addition to those connected with the beef industry. The prominent cotton merchant and banker, John Flannery of Savanna, Ga., is a native of County Tipperary.

The present head of the greatest manufacturing corporation in the world, James A. Farrell of the United States Steel corporation, is an Irishman. It was explained at the time of his election that he had been chosen because of the wonderful way in which he had built up the export trade of the company while in charge of that branch of the business. One of the directors of the steel corporation, speaking recently of Mr. Farrell, said:

"He is a great merchant, the word being used as meaning one who sells goods. Farrell knows how to sell goods. His gift in this respect is as great as was that of A. T. Setwart, which amounted to genius. Farrell is one of the very greatest merchants this country has ever produced."

There are some people in New Haven, Conn., who remember Mr. Farrell as one of the boys who worked in a wire mill on Grapevine Point, which lies between New Haven and East Haven. Now that he has become famous they like to recall that he used to walk two miles from his home to his work every morning and that he was never late on the job.

Another Irishman who has achieved great business success is Ex-senator Edward Murphy of Troy, New York. Senator Murphy has made a fortune as a manufacturer and banker, and he has had a notable career in politics, having been for several years Democratic state leader of New York, and having served in the United States senate from 1893 to 1899. James B. Haggin, the millionaire mine owner, is also of Irish stock.

Seniors and Mayors.

The Irishman's liking and aptitude for politics are well recognized, and you will find Irishmen among the most successful and influential politicians in almost any place of considerable size in this country. George Tener Oliver, United States senator from Pennsylvania, was born in Ireland, Jan. 26, 1848. John Kinley Tener, governor of Pennsylvania, comes from County Tyrone, landing in America when he was 9 years of age. John Burke, Democratic chief executive of North Dakota, is an Irish-American, Senator Thomas H. Carter of Montana, who managed Harrison's second campaign for the presidency, is an Irishman. The lower house of congress contains a goodly quota of native-born Irishmen and Irish-Americans. Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany hall, and Roger C. Sullivan, Democratic national committeeman from Illinois, each of whom will have a pretty considerable influence at the next Democratic national convention, as things look now, are Irish.

Irishmen are the mayors of some of our best known and oldest cities. John F. Fitzgerald of Boston has all the exuberance of the Irish temperament. Good business man and shrewd politician as he is, he has the high spirits and bonhomie of the heroes of Chauncey Olcott's dramas. If the toastmaster after a dinner should say that everybody would have either to make a speech or sing a song, Mayor Fitzgerald, if present, could tell the company to take their choice. He can do both.

There are other Irish mayors of old New England towns—J. F. Cahill of Lawrence, Mass.; John H. Meehan of Lowell, Mass.; and Mayor Patrick Boyle of Newport, R. I.; to mention only three. In other parts of the country it is the same story. Mayor J. Barry Mahool of Baltimore is Irish. So is Mayor P. H. McCarthy of San Francisco, and you can add to the list Mayor Thomas Maloney of Council Bluffs, Iowa, and Mayor Charles H. Farrell of Kalamazoo, Mich.

Prominent and influential parts in national, state and municipal politics have been played by the two brothers, John C. and William F. Sheehan of New York. John C. Sheehan was for a time leader of Tammany hall, and subsequently was head of the Greater New York Democracy, which in coalition with the reform element defeated Tammany and elected Seth Low mayor in 1901. John C. Sheehan has been out of politics and has been devoting himself to business for several years.

William F. Sheehan as a very young man was speaker of the New York state assembly. In 1891 he was elected lieutenant governor. He was one of the chief managers of the campaign that resulted in the nomination of Judge Alton B. Parker for president, and today he is his party's caucus nominee to succeed Chauncey M. Depew in the United States senate.

Irish Leaders in the Arts.

Among orators, W. Bourke Cockran, who was born in Ireland, is in the front rank. Victor Herbert, the famous composer, was born in Dublin, and is a grandson of Samuel Lover, the Irish novelist. Chauncey Olcott, the actor, was born in Buffalo. Among painters could be mentioned Edward Gay; among authors, Peter Finley Dunne, better known as "Mr. Dooley," and Harvey J. O'Higgins; among inventors, John P. Holland, the builder of submarine boats, and Patrick B. Delany, formerly associated with Edison. John Mitchell, the well known labor leader, long head of the United Mine Workers of America, is of Irish blood. Of Irish birth is Rear Admiral Joseph Trilley, who was in many engagements in the Civil war; Timothy J. Sheehan, a distinguished United States officer and noted Indian fighter, was born in County Cork, and another Irishman by birth is William H. Maxwell, the noted educator, superintendent of public schools in New York city since 1898.

Cardinal Gibbons, at the head of the Roman Catholic hierarchy of the United States, born at Baltimore, was taken to Ireland by his parents in infancy and received part of his education in that country. Of the thirteen archbishops in America, nine are Irish by descent, although only four of them—John M. Farley of New York, John J. Glennon of St. Louis, John Ireland of St. Paul and John J. Keane of Dubuque—were born in the Emerald Isle. Among the ninety-odd bishops of this communion in the United States a large majority are Irishmen, some of the best known being native born. In the latter class are Thomas M. A. Burke of Albany, James Ryan of Alton, Thomas Bonacum of Lincoln, James A. McPaul of Trenton, John F. Fitz Maurice of Erie, Edmond F. Prendergast of Philadelphia, Lawrence Scanlan of Salt Lake and James McGolrick of Duluth.

Thus the list might be continued indefinitely. But already it is imposing, sufficient so to prove conclusively the statement that men of Irish birth and descent are to be found in large number among the leaders in every walk of American life today.

RECIPROCITY FIRST OF ALL.

In his speech at Atlanta last night President Taft said:

"My opinion is, that a majority of both houses, without regard to party lines, will seize a great national opportunity and promptly ratify the agreement before proceeding to other business."

After a pause, he added:

"If it is deemed wise or necessary to proceed to other business."

The president referred to the coming extra session of congress, which he has called in keeping his promise to the Canadian commissioners that he would use every means in his power to secure early action on the reciprocity agreement.

Whatever may have been the basis for President Taft's opinion as to the probability of the prompt passage of the McCall bill, he voiced a hope that is general throughout the country. It is not often that any administration has the privilege of pushing a measure so generally acceptable as this reciprocity agreement. But in his added "if," the president showed a state of mind that he shares with every other American citizen. What will the new congress do at this extra session, besides ratifying the agreement?

There has been evinced by a few members of congress—notably Senators Joe Bailey and Moses Clapp—a disposition to try to force a consideration of matters entirely outside the scope of the reciprocity agreement, and yet to seek to make the fate of that agreement depend on those other matters. There is a disposition to try to twist the simple question of ratification of a compact with a single foreign state into a measure for general revision of the tariff.

This is all wrong. A man may buy a single article of furniture and yet not invest in a whole new outfit for his house. The same principle applies to this agreement and the question of a general tariff. The two are not in any sense interdependent. Our trade relations with Canada cannot, indeed, come properly within the scope of a general tariff bill. If they were so included there would be the necessity of making the terms of reciprocity general instead of specific, and that would multiply the difficulties in the way of getting satisfactory and practical tariff legislation.

Under the terms of the agreement, it can be terminated by either country at will. If congress saw fit to enact general tariff legislation later that would conflict with the terms of this agreement, there would be nothing in the way of such a step. If you want to deal with some particular merchant on certain lines you do not feel obliged to rearrange all your dealings with other merchants on different lines. This pact is with Canada and with nobody else. It will bring us into better commercial relations with our nearest and best neighbor. The advantage is too great to be overlooked or imperilled by needless bickerings over what our relations toward the rest of the world shall be.

It may be that congress will see fit to take up at this coming session some other features of the general tariff, perhaps some like the iniquitous wool schedule. But those matters can be settled by this country alone, while the terms of the Canadian agreement must prove satisfactory to the parliament of Canada as well as to the American congress. The terms have been agreed upon by the respective administrations, and are the best that the representatives of the two countries could reach. Under such circumsances it is the duty of congress to ratify the agreement as it stands, and then proceed to the details suggested by the president's "if."

THE BOND ISSUE VINDICATED.

If anything were needed to prove the wisdom of the citizens in authorizing the water and light board at the recent election to issue bonds for the extension and improvement of the local service, the experience of a large portion of the inhabitants in the last forty-eight hours ought to meet that need. The bursting of a single main left several hundred homes without a supply of water even for drinking purposes. What would have been the result if a serious fire had broken out during that time, either in that part of the city or in any other part, it is terrible to imagine. With the money to be raised from this $300,000 bond issue, according to members of the water and light board, the service can be put into such shape that no single mishap can bring such inconvenience and danger to the city.

But under these circumstances it is well to remember the small majority by which the bonds were authorized, and the reasons for such a close vote. One of the reasons was the provision of law that makes the authorization of such bonds depend on the approval of a majority of all the votes cast instead of a majority of those cast on that subject. That provision operates to make every ballot cast on any other subject in the election and not marked either for or against the bond issue, a negative vote on that proposition. It means that a man who does not take enough interest in the proposal at issue to form an opinion on it is compelled to vote against it. If a little more interest in other issues had been shown at the recent election, without a coresponding vote in favor of the water bonds, they would not have been authorized, and the city would have been left for another long period open to the same peril and inconvenience it suffered yesterday.

The other reason for the close call the bond issue had was the opposition of certain citizens to the proposal, simply because it emanated from the water board, with which those citizens were at outs. They sought to make their own grievance a cause for overthrowing a measure that very evidently was for the good of the city as a whole, and the wisdom of which now stands proved. That kind of business is not worthy of any man capable of forming an opinion, and when applied to matters of public moment it may lead to the adoption of pernicious policies. The city is to be congratulated on the failure of that attempt in this instance.

But the bonds were voted, and the action of the commissioners in asking that authority stands fully justified. The sooner the funds from their sale can be realized and the sooner the needed work done, the better it will be for the city.

THE DOCTORS SHOULD HELP.

Complaint is made by Mrs. Florence Lee, visiting nurse of the city anti-tuberculosis committee, that she is not getting assistance from the physicians of the city; that the information she gets concerning hitherto unknown cases of the disease comes almost exclusively from friends or relatives of the afflicted persons, and that this condition makes it impossible for her to accomplish the good she might otherwise do. She believes that the physicians ought to help her to get track of instances of the disease, that she may give early assistance to the patients.

Unquestionably, Mrs. Lee is right. She is engaged in a work that should be helped by every citizen, and the physicians are particularly able to give the greatest assistance. It is possible, of course, that some failures of doctors to notify the anti-tuberculosis committee of cases of the disease may have been due to the fact that the patients in those particular instances were able to provide means for taking care of themselves, to fight their own sickness and to avoid the danger of spreading the disease. This has not been the case in all such instances, however, and even when the patient is provided with such means it would save time and confusion if the physician would certify the facts to the visiting nurse or to the committee.

But Mrs. Lee's complaint is not the only one made against Duluth physicians. According to Dr. H. E. Webster of the health department, there is a marked laxity on the part of some of the local doctors in making the returns required by law. For example, it is provided in the statutes that every midwife or practicing physician shall file with the proper authorities a notice of any birth at which they are in attendance, the filing to be done within ten days of the event. There are provisions requiring physicians to give notice to the health authorities in case of any instance of contagious or infectious disease. There are statutory provisions requiring that physicians shall, in certificates of deaths, state fully the cause of death.

All of these requirements are ignored by certain of the Duluth physicians, according to the city health office. There can be no excuse for such laxity. If anybody should be interested in questions of public health it is the man who is especially trained in matters of that nature. To fail to take such an interest and act in accordance with it is to belittle both his profession and his personal intelligence.

There are penalties provided by the law for physicians who fail to observe the requirements for filing vital statistics. In the case of non-certification of a birth, for example, a fine of $20 is assessable. It would be a good plan for the health department to enforce that fine in cases where doctors fail to observe the law. Half a dozen such enforcements would work wonders as an object lesson, and whatever expense the proceedings necessary to such enforcement might involve would be well invested. Mrs. Lee has no such recourse. Her request is nothing but an appeal to the humanity of the physicians to help in the fight the race is making against a great common enemy. But the health department has the law back of it. Perhaps a strict enforcement of the law, the application of the penalty in cases of remissness, would help both the health department and Mrs. Lee. Anyway, it is worth trying.

VOL. 1. NO. 1.

It takes either an active imagination or a vivid recollection of personal experience to give a mental picture of the thoughts and feelings of the man or men who put forth a publication bearing the symbols "Vol. 1, No. 1." If one has either of those resources to fall back upon, the receipt of a paper bearing those symbols arouses many different thoughts. If the recipient has a personal acquaintance with the men back of the enterprise those thoughts come with all the greater force.

The Herald is in receipt of Vol. 1, No. 1 of "The Missoula Sentinel," published at Missoula, Mont., and under the title of the paper appear the names "Day & King." They are former Minnesota men, both well known and popular in this state, Frank Day as chairman of the Democratic State Central committee and editor of the Martin County Sentinel, and John E. King as state librarian and editor of the Red Lake Courier. They have cast their lot with the Montana city and the first product of their labor in the interests of their new home glows with enthusiasm.

In their foreword to the readers of the Sentinel the publishers declare their alignment with the Democratic party, but refuse to let their publication be clased as a "party organ." Rather they announce their platform as "fair play and a square deal," with the welfare of Missoula and Montana their great interest. A glance through the pages of the paper shows a live sense of the news of the day and an endeavor to provide interesting matter for every class of readers. The advanced position the paper is taking on civic questions is indicated by the opening of its columns to a discussion of the commission plan of government as a possible step for Missoula.

From its more than a score of years of experience, The Herald extends the hand of fellowship to the newcomer from the West. May it live long and prosper, and find for its fight for "fair play and a square deal" the support to which such high motives are entitled. May "The Missoula Sentinel (Day & King)" come to be recognized as a power in the development of the great region to whose interests it has devoted itself.

THE BOYS AND THEIR HOBBIES.

"I think I might have been an inventor (or an artist or designer or architect or almost anything else—fill it in to fit the occasion) if I had had any encouragement when I was a little fellow. I used to like to dabble in such things."

It is not uncommon to hear such a remark from men of nearly every position in business and industry, and it always means, whether it expresses it or not, that somewhere in that man's life there is a vacancy, an inborn desire that never was satisfied and never will be. His tastes ran to one line of work; circumstances forced him into another line; and however well he may have succeeded under the pressure of those circumstances, his life has been affected to a greater or less degree by the sense of loss, by the conviction that he "might have been" something else, and have made good at it. The boyhood hobbies, of absorbing interest in earlier days, are driven out of realization by pressure of other things, or are killed, or made impotent by the blighting effects of indifference on the part of those who might encourage the youngsters.

A year ago the boys' department of the local Y. M. C. A. undertook to encourage and develop these boyhood hobbies by the opening of an exposition of boys' work. The plan was received with so much favor and its operation aroused so much attention and interest that the exhibition has been made an annual event, the one for this year being set for early in May. The scheme is entitled to encouragement at the hands of Duluth people. It will help the boys to develop themselves along the lines that interest them most, will help them to make the best of their natural abilities and tastes, and to find the calling in which they can be of most service to the world. Or even in cases where the boy's hobby does not lead him directly toward a chosen trade or profession, the opportunity to show his work and compare it with that of others and the accompanying incentive to excel in some line, will furnish him with an occupation and an interest during the years when it is most necessary that he be provided with both.

The boys' exhibition of the boys' department is a good thing. It should be visited by every person in Duluth who has any interest in boys and their affairs. It will show the older generation what the youngsters of today can accomplish, and what they are accomplishing, and so, besides proving an advantage to the boys themselves, it will help the older people as well.

"HOBBLES" AND "HAREMS."

It is no compliment to the common sense of Illinois women that the legislature of that state should bother itself with proposals for laws to regulate the wearing apparel of the female portion of the population. For that matter, it is no compliment to the legislators, either. The women ought to be capable of judging what they want to wear and what it is fitting they should wear. And the men ought to be able to find more vital matters on which to legislate than the freaks of fashion.

If the attempt to secure a law against the hobble and the harem skirt is sought by some man who is afraid his wife will take to wearing them, he is a mighty short-sighted chap, for the proposed law would impose a fine on the wearer, and that would mean that he would have to pay both the price of the illegal apparel, the amount of the fine and costs, and the price of a new garment It is hard to see where he would gain anything by it.

What is the use of making laws against any particular fashion, anyway? When lovely woman takes a notion to make a circus of herself, as well attempt to sweep the ocean from off its sandy, pebbly shelf of beach, as try to make her alter the rules of those who set the style. She might say, "Humph!" But she'd not falter for all the laws men might compile. The absurdity of the "hobble" is sure to be its death. In its extreme form—and it is only the extreme form to which anybody objects—it makes walking difficult, and at times even dangerous. It was doomed to but brief existence from its very conception. That the "harem skirt" ever will become really popular nobody can believe, though as far as the intrinsic value of the article itself is concerned it is worth a dozen of the hobble variety. Reduced to a historical basis, it is nothing but a half-hearted return to the old-time pantalettes, which were abandoned for the sake of appearance. Probably it will follow the pantalettes to oblivion, where it is hoped the thing itself will in turn be followed by those people who are so crazy over it at present.

Meanwhile the women who have the time and inclination to parade in public in ultra-hobble and haremistic outfits might better be doing that, after all, than putting in the same hours over bridge tables or discussing the neighbors. And perhaps it is better for the Illinois legislators to be legislating about the women's dresses than doing the kind of stunts that accompanied the election of Lorimer to the senate. Anyway, the chances for graft and corruption in their present occupation are not quite as apparent as in the Lorimer case.

AN EARLY MANUAL.

Many weeks ahead of its usual time of appearance, the Minnesota Legislative Manual has been published at the state capital. It often has been many weeks after the adjournment of the legislature before the book appeared, but this year Secretary of State Julius A. Schmahl has done commendable work in getting it out in time to be of use to legislators. It contains census figures of the most recent date, the latest available statistics on state and county matters, the list of new members of the legislature and the regular data included in such publications. The first few pages are devoted to portraits and biographies of the three state officers who have died during service in the last two years—the late Governor John A. Johnson, State Treasurer Clarence C. Dinehart and Justice E. A. Jaggard. There are several excellent illustrations in the volume.

Somehow, the more one thinks about the teachers' salaries, the less one thinks of them.

It didn't seem possible that Fisher's appointment to the cabinet was due solely to his interest in conservation. Therefore it is not surprising to learn that he plays golf.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

DRAINAGE AND IMMIGRATION BOARD INVESTIGATIONS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

While the legislature is beating the "tom-tom" of investigation with unusual vigor, most of the pointing and gesticulating is away from, not towards the thief. Mr. Ralph is being investigated for some alleged incompetent work. No doubt there was much "crooked" work done where straight ditches were called for. But from pointers already received, the finding will be that a ditch was dug through a floating bog and the bog drifted together, closing it. No one to blame, so stop shouting about graft.

The real swindle lies in the fact that the drainage board members are using the resources of the state in furthering their own private land speculating schemes and for no other purpose. I remember a couple of years ago something like 100 settlers had petitioned for a certain ditch. It was published that the drainage board would appear in Aitkin on a certain day and give the settlers a hearing at the county courthouse. Mr. Ralph, state drainage engineer, and Mr. Schmahl, secretary of state, represented the drainage board. They came on an early morning train and were met by C. H. Warner, agent of the land speculators, and taken into a remote swamp and stayed out until 5:30 in the afternoon. They were laying the plans for the drainage swindle that is being investigated in the legislature now. Meantime the crowd waited half the afternoon and then began to scatter until there was not more than a dozen left when the drainage board showed up. Then they were given ten minutes of unsatisfactory promises, and that is all they ever did get out of it.

The land speculators' schemes are an accomplished fact, so much so that the legislature has the matter up for investigation. C. H. Warner, chairman of the legislative committee on public lands, is pushing the matter strenuously, while no doubt Mr. Ralph stands grinning by, thinking how that floating bog story or some other "hocus pocus" is going to not only vindicate him, but the whole drainage board and also turn public attention from the point where the cat is hidden in the meal.

Then there is the state immigration board under investigation, too. It is asked to give the names of some of the settlers it has brought in. It answers: "We forgot to write them down." It will likely be let off with a reprimand and be instructed to do better next time.

The immigration department, like the drainage board, is a mere tool in the hands of the land speculators and of no use to any one else. Not but the state has plenty of land that could be profitably settled, but with the state auditor and immigration board on guard, it is folly for the settler to think of that. The homeseekers the state brings in are handed direct to the land speculator. One letter to the state bureau, inquiring for state land, brought no information as to state lands, but dozens of letters from land companies.

The deal the land speculators gives usually breaks the settlers the first year and his departing wails add to the bad name this part of the state already has. It is considered a great crime to gamble in foodstuffs, but I am here to tell you that gambling in foodstuff is mere angels' play compared to the land-gamble. The two carbuncles, immigration and drainage, that have been grafted on to the regular government are mere tools to facilitate the land gambler. The offices of the secretary of state, and state auditor are being prostituted to the same end. This makes the great state of Minnesota a mere bunko-steerer for the land gamblers' shell game.

HOW ABOUT THE "RAINY DAYS."

To the Editor of The Herald:

It is true that a person may live on $50 a month, but for how many months? Not year in and year out for ten, fifteen or twenty years, with no money for recreation or amusement, saving through the ten months in order not to go begging in the long vacation.

No person of ambitious intelligence is content to live such a life in this day and age.

Teachers are obliged to be well dressed or they could neither obtain nor keep a position.

They are obliged to choose their abiding places among educated people of refinement in a high class neighborhood.

All that goes without saying, but it has to be paid for.

What man would be contented and happy in a position from which he could derive only a hand-to-mouth existence?

Everything has risen in price, nothing more so than clothing and $75 now can not be stretched much father than the $50 of a few years ago.

And again, what are these people to do in the "rainy days" with nothing saved?

It does not matter to you? And it is not your business?

You send your child to a private school and what do you pay? To the music teacher—one dollar or more an hour; to the dancing teacher, any price.

The public school teacher undertakes to make a man of your boy and she receives less than $2 a month for the privilege.

If you are interested in private schools the quality of the public school does not appeal to you.

The public school teacher as a rule is a conscientious, hardworking person, not "carried to the skies on flowery beds of ease," nor hoping to achieve what she is not willing to work for.

CHEAP RAW MATERIAL DOES NOT MEAN LOW PRICES.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I am in favor of reciprocity, but don't agree with you when you say that cheap raw material makes cheap living. The price of cattle last August in parts of Minnesota was lower than for years. Did the price of steak come down? No. The beef trust put the new in storage and issued the moss covered at the same old price.

Senator Clapp was right. We have plenty of raw iron. Do we get nails, rails or steel products any cheaper than before the Mesaba was found? If 50 per cent reduction is good on bacon, why not do better, as Canada exports but little? Free pulpwood will not make your paper any cheaper as long as the machinery and markets are in the hands of the trust. There must be something wrong about a reciprocity bill that our "best tariff ever" president is in favor of.

You can buy woolen goods in Canada (that are not 50 per cent cotton) for a fraction of what we pay. Why not let us have cheaper clothes? Where is the sense of a high tariff on wool when we have less sheep in the United States than twenty years back? It is time the G. O. P. came out under its true initials, H. O. G.

PLAN TO ENFORCE LAWS ON WHEELAGE AND OTHER TAXES.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Apropos of all the agitation about the enforcement of the law as applied to the wheelage and other city taxes, allow me to suggest that the mayor set aside a certain day to round up all the delinquents, advertising in the daily papers for weeks in advance that upon a certain day and date the police officials throughout the city will arrest all persons found without the necessary tags or other signs showing that they have paid the required fee. Firmly impose upon the lawbreakers that it is no bluff and let instructions be given every officer that if he is found derelict in his duty it means suspension from the force.

The judges of the municipal court can lend a helping hand by clearing their dockets for the rush of business which will undoubtedly come before them. Instead of setting the cases for further hearing, let the judges summarily dispose of them, giving the delinquents the limit.

The partolmen going after the delinquents in earnest, allowing no guilty person to escape, will accomplish wonders and after the day's round-up, there will not be sufficient left, who have not paid, to make a corporal's guard.

It will cost nothing, other than the advertising, to try this plan and results ought to show a big increase in the city's money chest. GRATIS.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

The Tariff the Cause.

Winona Independent: The high cost of living is no doubt attributable to a dozen different sources; but in the opinion of a great many, its inception was in the tariff. The general advance of all commodities is simply an effort to get even with the special privilege grabbers.

A Little History.

Monticello Times: Senator Burton of Ohio, in answer to those who are saying that the reciprocity treaty will harm the farmers, points out that in 1865, when the fight for the abrogation of that treaty was being waged in congress, it was the farmers who were most active in its behalf and the railroads the treaty's most powerful opponents. During the life of that treaty, from 1854 until 1865, business in both countries grew in volume rapidly and there was great prosperity for all.

About Time.

Moose Lake Star-Gazette: "Reciprocity will benefit only the consumer," wails a producer. Not true. But even if it were true, isn't it about time the consumer was having a little benefit?

Sufficiently Punished.

Morris Sun: It was feared that in the excitement the legislature had forgotten to see to the introduction of a bill to tax bachelors, but it made its appearance last week. Being a bachelor is sufficient punishment in itself, without adding the burden of extra taxation.

Stop Session-End Looting.

Madison Independent Press: The legislature of this state seems bent on investigating and regulating about everything under the sun. While they are about it, they ought to make some provision looking to the prevention of the members of that body carrying away everything loose that they can find about the capitol. The session-end looting ought to be abolished.

Afraid of Publicity.

Breckenridge Telegram: "Nothing pleases the average legislator more than when he can punish the newspaper. He fairly gloats over the opportunity," says the Anoka Union. And the reason is obvious. Such members are crooked and false to the people and their campaign pledges, and they dislike exceedingly to have the newspapers show up their rank dishonesty. Hence the desire to punish the men who turn on the light.

Blue Laws Not Wanted.

Detroit Herald: The state senate turned down Senator Sageng's bill prohibiting Sunday baseball. We prophesied this several weeks ago. The life led by the average laboring man of the country is so strenuous that he is unable to secure recreation and rest during the six working days of the week, and to deprive him of attending a baseball game on Sunday afternoon in an attempt to force him to seek other pleasures, savors too much of New England blue laws ever to become popular in the Western country.

Another Reason.

Foley Independent: The seating of Lorimer should be a powerful reason for electing United States senators by direct vote of the people and will hasten the day when senators will be elected by popular vote.

Needs No Button.

Sauk Center Herald: The "World's Health Organization" is waging a bitter war against kissing and has adopted a button bearing the words, "Kiss Not," for its members to wear. Judging by the facial features of the presidentess of the cult appearing in the public prints, she is immune without wearing the button.

A Billion-Dollar Legislature.

Fergus Falls Free Press: Appropriations exceeding $20,000,000 have already been asked for this year at St. Paul, notwithstanding the fact that the state's total revenue is only $15,000,000. In the days of Tom Reed the people were shocked to wake up and find that the United States had a billion-dollar government. Before long we may discover that our state government is a billion-dollar affair.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: The proof of the bluffer is in his failure to make good.

Hew to the line, but see that the line is in the right place.

The man who pleases only himself has to supply the applause.

The more style some people put on the more collectors they put off.

Sidetrack fair weather friends by saving your money for a rainy day.

How much money have you wasted in trying to get something for nothing?

Women are apt to desire beauty more than brains, but they know their own business.

If a man does well in a small town he soon gets the idea that he could do better in a city.

Some men do a lot of unnecessary work in order to save doing a little work that is necessary.

If the world isn't better for your having lived in it, it ought to help some when you get out of it.

He is truly a foolish man who will praise another woman's baby to a woman who has one of her own.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: Trust a man if you have to.

Stealing doesn't seem to be if it's enough.

It's ever so much easier to shoot straight than to shoot fair.

Women have a lot coming to them from angels for what they don't get from men.

A man has a better memory about the sweet things he used to be able to say to the girls he didn't marry than to the one he did.

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

The Endurance Test.

"We have to have just about so much disagreeable weather along this time of year," said a man cheerfully struggling through the slush the other stormy morning, "and we might as well have it now and get through with it." Sensible man, whose vision sees beyond the immediate situation, who takes into consideration the necessity of storm as well as sunshine if the rivers are to continue to flow and the earth to bring forth its increase. And maybe this particular optimist had in mind also the invigorating effects upon character of all sorts of weather. Perhaps he has read up on New England weather history and has not forgotten those bleak winters at Plymouth of the early years of the settlement of the country, and the hardy virtues developed by the effort to wrest from barren soil a decent living.

Be that as it may, he who takes the weather as it comes, without repining or complaint, realizing that no bad "spell" can last forever, is saved a deal of needless worry, and others will choose him every time as a companion in preference to the man who always finds it either too hot or too cold, too dry or too wet.

To endure the existing situation one must believe that certain things, in themselves rather disagreeable and irritating, have to be, as the world is now constituted, in the interests of something better by and by. Over and over again parents have to fall back upon this belief, when the small boy behaves like a wild Indian, when not even the latest and prettiest picture-book will tempt him to sit still for 5 minutes. You can resort, if you think best—and there may be times when it is best—to forcible measures of repression, or, without yielding any vital point, you can work on the theory that a small boy is first of all an animal, that he must have times of kicking up his heels and of demonstrating how much lung power he possesses. Would you curb that energy if you could? It is the one great sourse of industrial and social progress. If boys and young men had not been animals in the past, who would have fought the wars for freedom, or tunneled the mountains, or bridged the rivers, or devised and administered the great business enterprises?

An old professor has just died at Amherst college, who, for fifty years met generation after generation of college students on this principle of the endurance test. "Boys will be boys" was the most frequent sentence on his lips when he had to plead before the faculty for some young scapegrace. He meant that they could never become men without giving scope to the boy element in them. So this professor became the friend of countless students and the most influential continuous moral force connected with the college in a half century.

But it is not only the small boy who disturbs the parent, but the growing lads and lasses, especially when they are blossoming into young men and young women. Here again a new class of problems confronts the parents, relating to their companions, their evenings out, their amusements. And here, too, it is well to remember that this particular period as well as the earlier stage has to be gone through, that it lays its own claim upon young life, that it cannot and ought not to be avoided, that the principle of wise influence and prudent discrimination should govern parental activity rather than that of harsh and drastic prohibition.

A certain amount of apparently useless talk has to be endured before reforms can get started, or new and promising centures made in the field of philanthropic or religious endeavor. Think of the amount of time that is apparently wasted in connection with preliminary conferences and committee meetings. The point is, the world is not made up of persons who can think at once quickly and wisely, act energetically and harmoniously. We have to put up with a good deal of apparently inconsequential talk, and apparently desultory effort before we can bring things to pass in business, politics in education and in the realm of church activity.

For this reason many persons get discouraged and say "What's the use!" But just here our underlying philosophy helps us out, if we really believe that the present stage, with all its handicaps and barriers, is only a passing phase of the movement with which we are identifying ourselves. Have we courage, faith and patience enough to hold out through this period? If so, we are likely to be among those who will have a joyous part in the later triumphs.

"He that endureth to the end shall be saved." "In your patience ye shall win your souls." "He endured as seeing him who is invisible."

THE PARSON.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

The Hour Glass: "What is the Monroe doctrine?" was asked at a recent examination, and here are three of the answers:

"The religion of America taught by Dr. Monroe on the transmigration of souls."

"The doctrine that people may be married several times."

"One that has to do with vaccination and smallpox; it was brought out by Prof. Monroe."

Rire: Lend you 25 louis? A pretty idea! And suppose you were to die tomorrow?"

"Sir, you insult me. I may be poor, but at least I am honest."

Smart Set: "Mrs. Piffledinger boasts that she is connected with some of the best families in the city."

"Ah! She has a telephone."

Punch: Candidate (who has spent a precious half hour being pleasant to old lady)—Well, goodby, Mrs. Smith. I hope your husband is all right.

Mrs. S.—I 'opes so, sir—it'll be six months come Christmas since 'e died.

Punch: "Is it genuine Chippendale?"

"Absolutely, sir."

"But this looks like a crack right across—"

"Done by Chippendale himself, sir, in a fit of rage when he heard the union had called the men out."

New York Call: Miss Parvenu—I was almost sorry, ma, that you spoke so rudely to that poor little Mrs. Willis.

Mamma—Well, my dear, pray where is the satisfaction of being in the best society if you cannot snub those who are out of it?

Columbia Herald: Mark Twain's story of Horace Greeley's handwriting has a parallel in this, from a railroad conductor in Missouri to the president of the road:

"A farmer has been riding on this pass for about a year. Do you want him to continue to use it?"

The president put on his glasses and looked the paper over carefully. Then he wrote this to the conductor:

"This is not a pass. It is a receipt I gave the fellow for a load of wood a year ago."

Argonaut: While one thing essential to a cultured lawyer is a thorough knowledge of Latin, it is not necessary that he should parade his classical knowledge, for he might be "taken down a peg," as was the young lawyer who displayed his learning before an Arkansas jury. His opponent replied: "Gentlemen of the jury, the young lawyer who just addressed you has roamed with Romulus, canted with Cantharides, ripped with Euripides, socked with Socrates, but what does he know about the laws of Arkansas?"

Quite Satisfied.

Visitor—Your typewriter seems very much taken with her new machine.

Lawyer—Yes. It has a patent chewing gum-wad holder, flower receptacle, bon-bon shelf, rat storage, pin box and a few other things attached.

CASH CLAY AND ABE LINCOLN

By SAVOYARD.

Annually the American people pay tribute to the memory of Abraham Lincoln on the twelfth day of February, and it is an excellent and wholesome practice for a people to celebrate on such occasions the renown of their great dead, and it is a matter of gratulation that the South has come to hold in high esteem the name of this great man. Ere long, but not yet, a generation will arise at the North who will see Jefferson Davis as he was—a very great man and a very good one, but the victim of ill-fortune.

But it is not my purpose to moralize over such things except to say something about the following from Chicago:

"New and what are believed to be hitherto unpublished incidents concerning the politics which gave Abraham Lincoln the Republican nomination for president the first time were told here today in an address before the Hamilton club by Addison G. Proctor of St. Joseph, Mich., who believes himself the only surviving member of the famous 'split rail' convention.

"Mr. Proctor gave to one man, Cassius M. Clay of Kentucky, the credit for forcing the nomination of Lincoln out of a chaotic, disorganized opposition to the regular candidate for the nomination, William H. Seward of New York."

Mr. Proctor goes on to say that Cash Clay was there with "his mountain men from Western Virginia, Tennessee and Kentucky." Then he calls old Cash a mountaineer, which shows that Mr. Proctor has got things considerably mixed. At this time the mountains of the states mentioned cared not a rap about slavery, and they never heard of the Chicago Republican national convention of 1860. The anti-slavery contingent of Kentucky was made up of the blue-blood of the state and had for habitat Danville in the blue-grass, the Athens of the West. The "open clause" of the Kentucky constitution of 1850 got no support from in the mountains. But even the Breckenridges, Marshalls, Harlands, Underwoods and Tompkinses who voted for the "open clause" had nothing but hostility and malevolence to deal out to the Republican party in 1860. Indeed the Lincoln ticket got less than 1,200 votes in the entire state that year, and but few more in 1864.

And Cash Clay, a mountaineer! He was of the very cream of the blue-grass, and an aristocrat from crown to heel. He was a bundle of combativeness and that made him an abolitionist. He had a perfect contempt for the maudlin anti-slavery agitator. He cared not one of his curses for the negro, whom he despised. His endeavor was to emancipate the white man—the slaveholder—from what he held to be the curse of "the institution." Had the North held her peace slavery would have died a natural death and there would have been peaceable emancipation. There were thousands and thousands of anti-slavery men in the Confederate army, and a great many pro-slavery men from Kentucky—at least 60,000—in the Federal army.

Neither Cash Clay nor Horace Greeley brought about the nomination of Lincoln. It was due to many causes. There was a vein of practical politics in the affair that would have excited the envy of Matt Quay, or Arthur P. Gorman, or Dick Crocker. Lincoln himself was the ablest practical politician of that day or any other day of our history. He would have lost the nomination if the convention had been held outside of Illinois. He would have lost the nomination even at Chicago if Thurlow Weed, who had been bossing national conventions for twenty years, had not held in contempt Lincoln and Lincoln's magers—David Davis, Joseph Medill and Leonard Swett.

Governor Curtin, a former Democrat, headed the delegation from Pennsylvania, and Henry S. Lane, a former Whig, was at the head of the Indiana squad. In both of these states Know-Nothing-ism—one of the daddies of the Republican party—was kicking. Seward was very obnoxious in their eyes, he and Archbishop Hughes of the Catholic hierarchy had been mighty thick, and unless the Know-Nothing vote could be brought to support the ticket it could not carry either Pennsylvania or Indiana. Perhaps other states were involved and thus the election might have failed in the college. Curtin and Lane joined Lincoln's managers, and succeeded after the bitterest of struggles in downing Thurlow Weed, Seward's manager, and bringing about the nomination of Lincoln. Of all the men then and there present the two poorest politicians were Cash Clay and Horace Greeley, though both were opposed to Seward, and Greeley was for Edward Bates, who was not even a Republican, but a Southern old Whig and opposed to slavery.

If Seward had been nominated there would have been no war. He would have let the South go, and in ten years the South would have been back in the Union. If Lincoln's matchless practical political tactics—and not very scrupulous tactics, either—had not kept in the Union the border states, except Virginia, there would have been no war. But there is a divinity that shapes our ends, rough-hew them as we will. Had the war come in 1850, as it very nearly did, or at an earlier date, the South would have triumphed. The hand of fate was in it. By 1861 the North's superiority in population and wealth had made the defeat of the South inevitable, doubly so with the blockade of the Southern ports and all Europe for recruiting camp.

Lincoln could manage men. He had the clearest head of his day, and he early discovered that he could not carry the war to a successful conclusion unless he got rid of Cash Clay, whom he had commissioned a major general. Influences were set on foot and old Cash was made to believe that the North would be involved in war with all Europe unless he took the Russian mission and kept guard. So he was packed off to St. Petersburg, and he died in the belief that he saved the Union several times while there.

In the spring of 1891 the managing editor of the newspaper with which I was then connected sent me to Richmond, Ky., to interview Cash Clay on the new Constitution of the state. I got to Richmond about midnight, and after breakfast next morning mounted on horseback and headed for the "White Hall," the old fellow's home. It was a delicious spring day, April 30, and the pastures on either side of the turnpike the richest my eyes ever beheld. There were many herds of short-horns up to their knees in blue grass, and a thousand birds were singing in the branches of the trees. When I got to Foxtown I left the Lexington pike, the finest country road in America, and rode through a rather narrow lane, about two miles, and came to "White Hall."

I had never seen Gen. Clay, but found him overseeing the preparation of a field that he intended for corn. Introducing myself, he very courteously asked me to accompany him to the house, where a servant took my horse, and we entered the spacious hall of the building. After some general conversation I made known my business and he readily agreed to give me the interview. But he would fly off and talk about himself and how Seward and Grant had robbed him of his fame. His denunciation of those two was bitter, terrible. Of course, I agreed with him and tried to lead him back to the new Constitution; but he preferred to discuss the Constitution of 1850, and how scoundrelly enemies had cheated him out of a seat in the convention that made that instrument.

A little after 11 o'clock he produced a bottle and glass and said that I should have a chance at a taste of apple brandy distilled in 1837—fifty-four years before. He warned me that it was not fit to drink as the spirit had departed, and he kept it as a curiosity. In a little while he made restitution with a bottle of real apple brandy, distilled in 1874, under his personal supervision, and it was the stuff. After two "hog drivers" of it we went into as good a country Kentucky dinner as I ever ate. There were fowl and turnip sallet, poached eggs, fresh from the nest, fried country sausage, simply delicious corn bread, salt rising light bread, rich milk, golden butter, excellent biscuit, and what-not besides. If you do not know it of your own experience, I can assure you that pure old apple brandy gives a little keener zest to the appetite than any other tipple, and we fell to like Trojans.

Then we returned to the hall and he showed me portraits of royal personages of Europe, his personal friends. He lauded to the skies the Russian political policy and that people. He dwelt on Siberia as a "fatherland," one day to be the seat of the greatest nation on earth. He spoke of "functions" he had attended and the impressions he had made over there, and he even went so far as to say that the ideal government was an absolute despotism, tempered by assassination.

All the while I was seeking my interview; but he got out his weapons and I make no doubt that he was the most formidably armed man in all America. Later, he installed a loaded cannon in the very hall in which we sat, the muzzle pointing to the door. He told me of his terrific personal encounters, and described minutely one in which he slew his adversary. "I never saw such a man." He must have been a terror when young. At the time I dined with him he was about 80 years of age.

In youth, he must have been exceedingly handsome, of gigantic physical strength and most approved physical courage. His moral courage, too, was extraordinary, while his intellectual capacity was of a very high order.

We shall not look on his like again. The civilization that made him is as dead as that which produced a kindred spirit, the terrible Albert of Hapsburg, whose creed was: "I'm the friend of God and the enemy of man."

But Cash Clay never nominated anybody for president but Cash Clay himself. He didn't think anybody else was fit to be president.

No. 6—Oxen as Motive Power. Many Settlers Near Baudette and Spooner Use Oxen Instead of Horses. The Picture Shows a Settler and His Unique Method of Transportation.

Eighteen militiamen returned this week from several months' special duty at Baudette and Spooner, probably the longest detail ever given to any members of the Minnesota National Guard in a time of peace. They made an excellent record and have received the commendations of their superior officers.

The men had a good time although there was not much opportunity for play. Following the holocaust which blotted out Spooner and Baudette and erased widespread forests, the militiamen were leaders in rescue work and in giving relief to sufferers. After the horrors of the fire and the few succeeding days came the work of rebuilding. In this period most of the militiamen left, a special detail remaining to guard the property of the National Red Cross society and individual property, which could not be placed immediately in a position of safety. The detail was composed of eighteen members of Companies A, C and E of Duluth, under the command of Capt. Stiles.

The Duluthians did not do any police work. They guarded the warehouse, offices, mess building and bunkhouse of the National Red Cross society and scattered property that was portable. They made a clean record and left with the good wishes of the inhabitants.

Settlers are getting out logs and pulpwood and all are employed. Business in the two towns is good and the people are recovering from the effects of the fire.

BUSINESS IMPROVEMENT CONTINUES

New York, March 11.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:

The moderate improvement in industrial and trade conditions since the beginning of the year continues. Two important elements of strength in the situation are the existing low stocks of merchandise and the existing large stock of money.

Certain developments, not directly associated with the trade itself, has caused a more conservative feeling in iron and steel, although evidences of improvements continue to multiply. These signs of progress include a further substantial increase in unfilled orders on hand by the leading producer and an expansion of 35,000 tons in the output of pig iron during February—the first gain reported in nearly a year.

Current advices from leading iron centers indicate somewhat quieter conditions at Chicago and Pittsburg, but more activity in other directions, and some price advances are noted on deliveries extending beyond the first half of the year. In the rail division recent contracts have aggregated close to 40,000 tons with 10,00 tons for export to Manila, and it is expected that considerable business will be received from Canada owing to the sold up conditions of mills in that country.

Business in the primary dry goods markets continues generally in restricted volume and curtailment of operations in mill centers is still large. In spots trade is good and distributors are able to move merchandise in small lots, although price concessions are common in cotton goods.

Some comment was caused by a revision of price in one line of staple prints but other prints did not follow and the printed goods division of the industry is relatively better than trade with bleachers, dyers or finishers. Export trade is fair. The leading producer of men's wear has secured a liberal volume of future business at very close prices and there is a marked tendency among users of dress materials to purchase the better qualities.

Boot and shoe conditions show an improvement. Jobbers are placing larger orders and while the demand is still chiefly for odd styles, specialties and staple lines are now receiving more attention.

Prices rule steady to firm and owing to the scarcity of Russian calf leathers, shoes cut from this material are about 10 per cent higher than a short while ago. Hides are in steady demand.

All of the upper leather tanners have now returned to the old discounts on the basis of 5 per cent off for ten days and shoe manufacturers are endeavoring to accomplish the same in sole leather.

TO ENLARGE THE WELLAND CANAL

Construction of Georgian Waterway Also to Be Begun, Says Minister.

Ottawa, Ont., March 11.—That the Welland canal will be enlarged and a beginning made on the construction of the Georgian bay canal, was a statement made to the Canadian commons yesterday by Railway Minister G. P. Graham in presenting his annual budget.

The minister stated that surveying parties are now working on three routes for the enlargement of the Welland canal and he hoped that a choice of routes might soon be made so that work could be completed permitting large vessels to reach the foot of Lake Ontario without breaking bulk.

Minister Graham reported a surplus of $890,000 on the state-owned intercolonial railways; that $94,000,000 had been already spent in building the national transcontinental railway between New Brunswick and Winnipeg and that it would cost $145,00,000 when completed, and that there will be a substantial appropriation made for the immediate construction by the government of teh railroad to Hudson bay.

One of the most enjoyable events of the season was the annual banquet of the Young Woman's Christian association, which was served Wednesday evening at the Y. W. C. A. building.

About 150 men and women attended and their unanimous opinion was that it surpassed all previous banquets of the association.

Mrs. W. C. Agnew, honorary president of the association presided and Warren P. Greene acted as toastmaster. The committee in charge made a particularly happy selection of speakers and the toasts were responded to in excellent style. The speakers were: Miss Ada Campbell, general secretary of the association; I. K. Lewis whose subject was "Common Foundations"; Miss Post of the normal school, who responded to "The Stranger Within Our Gates"; and Charles S. Mitchell, who talked on "Old Fashions and New." They gave speeches which were full of praise for the organization and its work.

The Cantata Monday afternoon to which the members of the Matinee Musicale are inviting some of their friends will be an interesting event and Henry Green's lecture Friday before the Twentieth Century club will draw the club women.

Adolphe Borchard.

Adolphe Borchard, the distinguished French pianist, who will play at the Endion M. E. church on Monday, March 20, before the Matinee musicale and whose American debut with the Theodore Thomas orchestra in Chicago was followed by triumphal recitals in New York, Boston, Philadelphia and other leading American cities, was born at Havre, France, June 30, 1882.

M Borchard disclosed exceptional musical gifts at an early age and began his first studies under the tutorage of H. G. Serrau, who was one of the most famous pianoforte instructors in Bordeaux. Continuing his work uninterruptedly under Serrau, Borchard was able at the age of 17 to qualify for entrance to the Paris Conservatoire, to which institution he was admitted at this time, becoming a pupil of the great Louis Diemer.

In 1903, Borchard graduated from the Conservatoire, with the first prize in his possession, and during the following season turned to making a special study of the great masters. He appeared frequently in concerts given by such important musical societies as "La Societe des Compositeurs," "La Trompette" and others, holding their functions at the Salle Errard.

It was in 1908 that Borchard decided upon the courageous task of giving a series of recitals in Berlin, where he appeared during March and April of this year before the members of the most critical societies and exact audiences, who united with the critics in pronouncing Borchard a pianist and musician of the first rank. As the result of the success obtained in these recitals, Borchard was especially engaged by the concert director, Herman Wolff, who consequently managed a series of concerts given in the principal musical centers. Having previously played before Queen Alexandra of England, she advised him to give recitals in London, for which she voluntarily offered her patronage. The first of these recitals took place in June, 1910, resulting as all other Borchard recitals do—in an unqualified success.

As soon as he arrived in this country, Mr. Borchard won popular critical favor wherever he appeared, and his future appearances will be awaited with no small interest, not only because of his pianistic abilities, but on account of the choice of his programs, whose interpretation reveals Borchard as a musician of ability and ideas.

MINNEAPOLIS ORCHESTRA PLAYS IN CHICAGO.

Duluth music lovers who heard the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra here last spring and who have heard it in its home city will be interested in the ovation which it received at its first appearance in Chicago on Thursday evening in Orchestra hall. The following are some extracts from the account of the concert given in the Chicago Tribune written by Glenn Dillard Gunn:

"The Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, Emil Oberhoffer conductor, was heard for the first time in Chicago last evening in Orchestra hall. Not since the last visit of the Boston Symphony orchestra has a foreign body of players been accorded a reception that equalled in cordiality that extended to the organization from the Northwest. The hall was sold out and the applause increased in warmth and enthusiasm until at the conclusion of the march from the 'Pathetique' symphony of Tschaikowsky, and again after the 'Tannhauser' overture, which closed the program, it attained proportions that may justly be described as what is popularly known as a 'demonstration.' There is every reason that Chicago's approval should be grateful to Mr. Oberhoffer. The Minneapolis orchestra is a direct descendant of our own Thomas orchestra. Its conductor witnessed the enthusiasm which attended the founding of the Chicago orchestra by Theodore Thomas twenty years ago and was fired to emulate the example of that great worker in American music. Eight years ago his efforts resulted in the establishment of the Minneapolis orchestra. From modest beginning it has grown to a well drilled body of seventy-five players, an orchestra in every way worthy of the local support given it by its home and city, destined, one may well believe, to play an important part in the musical development of the country."

Music for Masses.

"Music in the Public Schools" was the subject of an interesting address given by T. P. Giddings, supervisor of music in the Minneapolis public schools on Monday evening at the dinner given at the Radisson hotel in Minneapolis by the Minnesota State Music Teachers' association for the purpose of arousing interest in the convention of this association which will be held in Minneapolis, May 9, 10 and 11.

Mr. Giddings said in part: "Music should be included in the public school course because it is the best mind trainer and also because it is an art of which every one should have knowledge for his benefit and pleasure. Pupils should have a knowledge of and love for music before they come to the private teachers. The time will come when private teachers will be as obsolete as private teachers in other branches of study. All the teachers will become members of the teaching force of the schools. Some high schools are already offering courses in music and the reason it has not come sooner is that music had not been taught so that the masses have realized its value."

AT THE THEATRES

THE COMING WEEK IN DULUTH THEATERS

LYCEUM—Mack-Leone Players in "The Morals of Marcus."
ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.
ODEUM and LYRIC—Photoplay.

AT THE ORPHEUM

The past week is generally conceded to have set the high water mark for the Duluth Orpheum for the present year. The attendance figures reflected the popularity of the bill, for the Duluth theater did the biggest business since the Christmas week. The bill was an almost straight comedy bill, and in that respect it resembles closely the bill which will be offered for next week at the Duluth theater. Out of the seven acts on next week's bill there are five which might be called straight comedy acts, and the other two have more or less comedy in them.

Like the present week's bill, next week's program will be headed with a comedy sketch entitled "From Zaza to Uncle Tom," and presented by W. H. Murphy, Blanche Nichols and their company. The skit is based on the troubles of the members of a road company. They start out to present "Zaza," but find that the French production does not draw very well in "the tanks," and they decide to give a one-night stand tour of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," in the hope of getting enough money together to return to New York. The tribulations of Mr. Murphy as "Rowland Rant," the manager of the company, in rehearsing his little troupe in "Uncle Tom" furnish the comedy of the sketch, and it is claimed to keep the average audience in a roar of laughter from the time the curtain goes up until it falls.

Whatever success this sketch may meet with in Duluth, it has undoubtedly been a success in other cities. It was presened for more than 1,100 times in New York city alone, which comes pretty close to being a record for a vaudeville sketch. Alan Dale, probably the best known critic in New York, had the following to say regarding it: "Then came W. H. Murphy and Blanche Nichols in the act I like best in vaudeville, 'From Zaza to Uncle Tom.'"

Second in importance on the bill will be George W. Jones and Ben N. Deeley, who will present their comedy skit called "Hotel St. Reckless." These two entertainers are well known to old Orpheum patrons in other cities, although this is their first visit to Duluth. Mr. Jones was formerly the second tenor with "That Quartet," probably the most popular male quartet that ever played the circuit, and Mr. Deeley toured the circuit in "The Valet and The Singer." Their present offering is just a comedy setting for their songs.

The marvelous Millers are a troupe of variety dancers. They are just opening on the circuit and will be new to Orpheum patrons, but they come with the prestige of a success on the Eastern time.

There have been many acrobats on the circuit this season, some good and some indifferent, but none of them, it is claimed, are quite in the class with Work and Ower. These two performers were with the Orpheum Road Show for two seasons, a remarkable record for an acrobatic act. They come out before the front drop curtain with a table and two chairs, and are on the stage but nine minutes all told, but during that time, it is claimed, they are both working at top pressure every second. They do not stop for rest between their stunts, and they are both working all of the time they are on the stage. They are said to have some of the most sensational tumbling ever attempted by acrobats, and the finish of their nine minutes' work leaves them completey exhausted.

The Harmony Quintet will be on next week's bill. The popular musical organization consists of a quartet of male and female voices, and an accompanist. It is the first mixed quartet that has played the Duluth house this season. The members of the quartet are: Miss Leonore Ledden, soprano; Miss Laurie Fanning, contralto; Gordon Allen, basso; and Harry Keesler, tenor. Miss Grace Annette is the accompanist. Among their novel selections are "Close Your Eyes" and "There is Danger in Delay," two original compositions by George R. Stevens, the producer of the act. Another striking number is "The Lightning Bug." Their repertoire also includes some of the old favorites from the classics, such as "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes," the sextet from "Lucia" and the famous quartet from "Rigoletto." The act is presented with special scenery and costumes.

"That Rascal Loney Haskell" is the way he bills himself. He has a monologue which is said to be delivered in a style that is all his own.

The seventh act on the bill will be presented by Le Roy and Paul, two knockabout gymnasts.

The overture by the concert orchestra and the Orpheum motion pictures will complete the bill, which will continue all week with a daily matinee. The opening performance will be given Sunday afternoon.

The new Winnipeg Orpheum theater will open Monday evening. Berts Coote, who has been the feature of this week's bill, will be the headliner on the opening bill. The theater will be managed by Clarence L. Dean, who has been the manager of the St. Paul house.

The bill for the week of March 19 will be featured by "Mr. Hymack, the Chameleon Comedian," as he bills himself.

• • •

Manager H. W. Pierong of the Duluth theater is making efforts to secure Alice Lloyd, the English comedienne, who is now touring the circuit. Miss Lloyd was booked before the Duluth theater opened, and this theater was not included in her tour, but the local manager is trying to have the tour lengthened to include Duluth. She is even more famous in her own country than Vesta Victoria, and will be starred next season in this country in a musical comedy now being written for her.

AT THE EMPRESS

Vaudeville in every sense of the word will be seen at the Empress, commencing Sunday matinee. This show is one of the best that is now touring the Sullivan & Considine circuit and is meeting with great success. There is plenty of variety to meet all tastes.

The big attraction for the week will be the Eight Vassar Girls. This attraction consists of an octette of pretty and accomplished young women musicians, vocalists and dancers. They present one of the newest creations in vaudeville, which is claimed to be most gorgeous in costume and scenic embellishment. The first scene represents the lobby of a college dormitory where the students are seen rehearsing their respective specialties, which they will offer at the May-day exercises. The next scene represents them in effective groupings and original maneuvers and the grand finale includes one of the most beautiful electrical effects ever produced at the Empress. The stage is draped with illuminated floral garlands, surrounding a huge May-pole, which is decorated with ribbons and flowers made up of tiny incandescent lamps. In this scene the maidens dance a floral gavotte, amid brilliantly lighted roses, daisies, lilies and violets. This concluding feet is said to be most beautiful with its hundreds of lights ablaze and is one that would be expected with a large musical comedy.

The Vassar Girls are one of Sullivan & Considine's big feature attractions and was secured at great expense. The Vassar Girls met with great success in the Eastern cities, New York, Boston and Philadelphia.

Mlle. Ani Hlill, "The Queen of American Gymnasts," comes to Duluth direct from foreign triumphs. She has visited most of the cities in England and on the Continent and her work has provoked the utmost enthusiasm wherever she has appeared. It is claimed by Mlle. Hill that the vitality of woman is greater than that of man; her fortitude is greater; the circulation of her blood is quicker; and the production of blood by her body is more rapid—all of which indicate that under similar environment and habits to man she could easily be able to achieve greater physical development and strength, this notwithstanding the popular fallacy of calling her the weaker sex. Her debilitating habits have tended to make her so, says Mlle. Ani, who is a striking example of the muscled woman. It is doubtful if any of the male gymnasts who come in competition with her for public favor can show more symmetrical development. Her muscles, when contracted are as hard as steel and when relaxed, are quite as soft and pliable as those of the ordinary woman. This wonderful development is obtained, too, without the sacrifice of beauty of contour and proportion, so dear to the feminine heart. Mlle. Hill enjoys the distinction of being the only woman in the world to successfully accomplish a double full-arm dislocation. This feat would make it seem that the little performer is really jointless.

Patrons of the Empress will welcome the appearance of Carita Day, a breezy and entrancing comedienne. Miss Day is an artist in the dancing line and she has long been considered one of the best dancers in vaudeville. She gets at her dancing with a snap and vim that is refreshing and which clearly demonstrates that she is doing her best to please. Not only is she a clever dancer but in addition to this, is a clear, sweet singer and an entrancing comedienne, it is claimed. Her part of the entertainment is one that never fails to please and is one that the audience remembers with satisfaction.

Lovers of good singing have a rare treat in store in the offering of Mueller and Mueller, who sing the latest Eastern song successes. These boys are fast working themselves to the top of the vaudeville ladder and are making a reputation as high-class vocalists. "Their selections are particularly adapted to their voices and they display their vocal powers in a captivating and refreshing manner. Both possess a winning personality, which immediately makes them favorites with the audience," says a recent press notice.

The added feature for the week will be Patrice and her company of selected players, who present a clever dramatic playlet entitled: "The Lobbyist," which was written by Herbert Hall Winslow, who has written some of the most clever playlets now being produced. Here is a recent criticism from a Milwaukee paper: "It is tinged with just enough dramatic coloring to make it fascinating and serves to present Miss Patrice in the role of 'A Lobbyist,' a type of character that affords her splendid scope. The unique situations, singular merit of its presentation, and the keen interest it awakens, places this brilliant offering among the season's foremost attractions. Miss Patrice is a winsome comedienne and with her talented company, 'The Lobbyist' is in excellent hands. Miss Patrice is a star of the first water and will be remembered in the leading role of 'Seven Days,' which through her able work, had a wonderful New York run." The following is another press notice from the Cincinnati Inquirer while Miss Patrice was appearing at the Empress theater in that city: "Miss Patrice and company present a brilliant one-act comedy from the pen of Robert Hall Winslow. This little playlet is one of the most cleverly constructed sketches that has appeared in this city in many months and the splendid acting of Miss Patrice leaves nothing to be desired. It is a safe prediction that she will be a great favorite over the entire Sullivan & Considine circuit."

The moving pictures will be especially selected and will close a bill in which there is not one weak spot apparent, from the advance criticisms, and one that should be long remembered by the patrons of the Empress. Matinees are given daily at 2:45, and evening performances at 8 and 9:30. Seats may be reserved one week in advance by either telephone. A special school children's matinee is given every Saturday at 2:30, when all scholars under 14 years of age, are admitted for five cents. Special attention is paid to the amusement and comfort of ladies and children at all times.

MISS BLANCHE NICHOLS,
Who Will Be Seen at the Orpheum Next Week.

AT THE LYCEUM

In writing his famous novel of London life, "The Morals of Marcus Ordeyne," William J. Locke, one of the keenest of the modern school of authors, gave to the world a book that has been one of the most widely read of any of the recent novels.

"The Morals of Marcus" is the name the play has gone by. Like the novel from which it was taken, the play has scored an artistic success. It provided Miss Marie Dore with one of the best roles this actress ever had.

The play tells the story of the dawning love of a man quite satisfied with life without the charm of woman's influence, for a little street waif.

Out of the big and lonely streets of London comes Carlotta, the little Assyrian waif, forsaken and friendless, almost penniless, she comes to the home of Marcus Ordeyne, where the beautiful story that Locke appealed to so many readers with, opens.

This play has been chosen for next week's production of the Mack-Leone company. To Miss Maude Leone will be given the character of Carlotta.

After his two romantic gamblers and the no less romantic portrayal of the dashing sheriff, it will be somewhat of an innovation to see Willard Mack drop the mask of frontier romance for the time being and transport himself to the modern London drawing room.

He will be seen in the role of Marcus Ordeyne, the man of books and dreams, and he will wear a dress suit instead of the flannel shirt of the sheriff, or the romantic clothes of "Cameo" Kirby.

Mrs. Annie Adams will be seen as Antoinette, the French housekeeper, in the home of Marcus Ordeyne.

James Rennie, Jack Montgomery, G. R. Wallings and the other members of the company will be fitted with good parts. The scenery for the production has been especially painted at the Lyceum studio, and the production of "The Morals of Marcus" will be in keeping with the other plays that have been produced under the personal direction of Willard Mack.

"The Morals of Marcus" will open Sunday afternoon and will continue throughout the week.

THE EIGHT VASSAR GIRLS AT THE EMPRESS NEXT WEEK.

NEW PROGRAMS OF PHOTOPLAY

Program for Coming Week at the Odeum and Lyric Theaters.

New programs of photoplay will be shown at the Odeum and Lyric theaters next week.

At the Odeum theater, "Grandmother's War Story" will be the feature film, and the others will be "The Padre" and "Taming a Tyrant." Miss Maddox will sing "All Alone."

The story of the feature film is told as follows:

"Before I met him, your grandfather was in the Confederate secret service. Being an expert telegraph operator, he was detailed to tap the wires that connected two Union headquarters and secure what advance information it was possible to obtain. The Union officers were greatly worried about the leakage of important orders and detailed a squad to inspect the telegraph lines. In the meantime the Yankees planned a decoy message to send over the wires with a view to holding the operator who had been surreptitiously obtaining information intended only for the Union forces. The message read: 'Be ready to receive important dispatch late this evening.' Unsuspectingly your grandfather returned to his post to await the passing over the wire of the important message referred to when all of a sudden a detachment of Union soldiers swooped down upon him and he certainly did have a narrow escape. He got away, however.

"Mother and I were making a new frock when suddenly the door burst open and a Confederate soldier staggered in. In a few words he told us he was closely pursued and asked us to hide him. Although a stranger to us his uniform was a passport to any house in the South. We had just succeeded in hiding him when the Yankee soldiers who were hot on his trail rushed into the house. They were unable to find him, but suspected he was somewhere about and watched the house all day. When night came, however, we fooled them again and aided him in successfully making his flight. He passed through many dangers safely and reported to his general and one day after the war was over he returned to me as I knew he would."

At the Lyric "Captain Barnacle's Courtship" will be the feature film, and the other pictures will be "A Decree of Destiny," and "The Price of Victory." Mr. Mistechkin will sing "Down By the Old Mill Stream."

The story of the feature film is told as follows:

"Old Captain Barnacle, a widower, contemplates a second marriage. His old friend, Captain Bunce, recommends Miss Ivy Leach, a daughter of a widow. Ivy is very much in love with Sam Morton. All done up in his 'glad rags,' Captain Barnacle calls on Mrs. Leach and Ivy. Ivy wants nothing to do with him. To get rid of her mother's entreaties she consents to marry the old 'salt'—but not to become his wife.

"Ivy makes preparations to foil her mother and disappoint the captain. Her brother Billy dresses in her wedding gown and she puts on Billy's clothes. She meets Sam Morton; they drive directly to the parson's and are married. The captain and his bridal party come upon the scene to be married. Billy lifts his veil, removes his wig and gives the captain the merry 'ha-ha,' throwing him and Mrs. Leach in a fit of rage and dismay."

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

Ethel Barrymore's campaign for the ensuing two seasons has been outlined in detail. It comprehends a presentation of repertoire for the remainder of this season and the year to follow, and involves the longest tour that has even fallen to Miss Barrymore's lot. In the scheme of things laid out for her by the end of this season Miss Barrymore will have formed the nucleus of a repertoire which, gradually expanded from time to time, will exhibit her in a variety of widely different roles. "Alice-Sit-by-the-Fire," "The Twelve-Pound Look," "Mid-Channel," "Trelawney of the Wells," and one of two of her earlier successes will go into her repertoire, and it wouldn't be in the least surprising if she should revive "Captain Jenks." Miss Barrymore starts on her tour on March 13.

An interesting company has been gathered together to assist Annie Russell in the production of "The Backsliders." It includes Cyril Keightley, Margaret Wycherly, Bobby Andrews, Oswald Yorke, Orlando Daly, Katherine Florence, Katherine Stewart, Ruth Chester and Katherine Clarendon. Master Bobby Andrews, who has been specially imported, is said to be one of the best of England's boy actors.

Daniel Frohman will put in rehearsal immediately the play by Owen Davis which he recently acquired. The title of the piece has not been determined definitely. For the time being it is known as "Lola." The play is a serious drama. Laurette Taylor probably will have the leading role.

John C. Rice and Sally Cohen will be starred in a new production that will have its premiers in St. Louis early in the spring. The new play, which is a farce-comedy from the pen of Herbert Hall Winslow, is entitled "Just Like a Man." There will be fifteen in the cast and it will be produced under the management of Daniel Fishell.

The new Pepita in "Madame Sherry," now playing at the New Amsterdam theater will be Violet Dale. Miss Dale makes her first appearance in the cast tomorrow night.

William A. Brady's new theater in Forty-eighth street is nearly completed. Mr. Brady has decided to call it The Playhouse. The formal opening will take place on the night of April 17, although it is by no means certain that Grace George will be the opening attraction.

Thomas A. Wise has brought his season in "A Gentleman From Mississippi" to a close, and has begun rehearsals of the new play by himself and Harrison Rhodes. It is called "The Old New Yorker."

The German players will present the popular Viennese operetta, "Der Fidele Bauer," for the third time at the Grand Sunday evening.

Augustus Thomas' latest and much-awaited drama, "As a Man Thinks," was given its first production at the Hyperion theater in New Haven by the Shubert's, with John Mason as the star. For several years Mr. Thomas has been promising to write a play dealing with the American Jew and it is this theme which he has employed in "As a Man Thinks." The play, which is in four acts, met with a very warm reception. Supporting Mr. Mason, who plays the role of Dr. Seelig, a Jewish physician, were seen Amelia Gardner as Mrs. Seelig; Crystal Herne as Mrs. Clayton, a young married woman who believes in a single moral standard for both men and women; Charlotte Ives, Walter Hale, Vincent Serrano, John Flood, Ralph Samone, William Sampson, Gail Kane, Ernest Wilkes and Master Raymond Hackett.

Mable Hite's vaudeville tour has been brought to a close by the completion of the revised edition of "A Certain Party," in which the little comedienne will enjoy the distinction of starring under the direction of Liebler & Co. As originally written by Edward W. Townsend and Frank Ward O'Malley, "A Certain Party" was a farcical comedy of district politics. For immediate purposes Edgar Smith and Robert Hood Bowers turned "A Certain Party" into a musical play. So when Miss Hite opens in New York in a week or so her stage surroundings will be of the musical sort with which she is familiar.

Margaret Illington has closed her tour in "The Encounter," the Berton play she presented some weeks ago. The end came in Toronto. Miss Illington intends to produce a new play in time for a spring tour.

Blanche Walsh has recovered from her recent illness and has resumed her tour in "The Other Woman." Miss Walsh fainted while about to go on the stage at Peoria, Ill, last week, and was compelled to dismiss her audience. It was feared at the time that she was critically ill and could not play again for some time, but she made a quick recovery. She opened again in Bloomington, Ill., and expects to finish her season as usual.

Katharine Kaelred, who created the role of the Vampire in Porter Emerson Browne's "A Fool There Was," sails on Wednesday for London, where she will appear in the same part during a spring and summer run, beginning March 22. The London company will be made up exclusively of English players, headed by Herbert Sleath in the role played by Robert Hilliard in this country.

"Loaves and Fishes," the new play by Somerset Maugham, was produced by Charles Frohman at the Duke of York's theater last week. The play is described as a satire in four acts and is based upon the same writer's novel, "The Bishop's Apron." The leading roles were taken by Robert Lorraine and Ellis Jeffreys. It is half satire and half comedy and is filled with Maugham's characteristic witticisms.

Gustave Charpentier has completed a sequel to "Louise." Like "Louise," the subject is an epic of popular life, the scenes being in a laundry, a tavern and the Miseria Palace.

Nina Morris made her debut in the varieties Monday afternoon in John Carroll's sketch, "Who Shall Condemn?" Arthur Hoopes and Walter Hitchcock appear in her support. As the name implies, the sketch tends toward the sensational.

Ethel Levey has been engaged by Henry B. Harris and Jesse L. Lasky as the leading member of one of the revues which are to make up the opening bill at the Folies Bergere. At the same time the opening date of the theater was announced to be April 17. The revue in question is the work of Harry B. Smith, with score by Paul Lincke. Miss Levey has not been seen in America for three seasons. During her absence abroad she has studied singing under Jean de Reszke.

Mrs. Fiske opens her New York spring engagement at the Lyceum on March 20, in "Becky Sharp," to be followed by a new play later during the engagement. Charles Cherry in "The Seven Sisters" on that night will hie themselves to the Garrick.

Charles Willard, who has been playing the role of Timothy Battles, Mayor of Battlesburg, in "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford," since that play began its Chicago run at the Olympic theater, died at the Palmer house in that city on Monday of Bright's disease.

Nora Bayes and Jack Norworth will begin their starring engagement under the management of Warba and Luescher in Waterbury, Conn., March 9. The production will then visit New Haven, Buffalo, Rochester, Philadelphia and Boston before reaching Broadway.

Through a rearrangement of the plans originally laid for Miss Maude Adams' season in "Chantecler," assigning to other Charles Frohman companies the out-of-town dates which it was originally intended Miss Adams should play this season, it has been made possible to extend the present engagement of "Chantecler" at the Knickerbocker theater four weeks, in addition to the original eight weeks

W. H. MURPHY, BLANCHE NICHOLS & CO. Orpheum patrons had a good laugh with Bert Coote last week, but Mr. Murphy and Miss Nichols in "From Zaza to Uncle Tom," have an act that is just as funny. Don't miss it.

Miss Marie Dressler gives an interesting illustration of some of the methods of the English nobility. She tells the story as follows:

"One afternoon, while seated in my London apartment, I received a note which read as follows:

"'Lord ——— would be pleased to dress your house tonight with a box. May I venture to inquire how much allowance you will give his lordship to provide for the after-theater supper and other necessary expenses?'

"That's the way a lot of them do over there. Fancy a United States senator in America writing an actress to give him a box for nothing and then wanting her to pay for the supper afterwards for his guests."

DISSOLUTION IS ORDERED

said that there was every appearance of a regular boom this year. All the properties are now equipped with electric power, and the success of some of the older mines was the means of giving encouragement to those who had just taken hold of some claims. He said that the Bernato had been leased to Duluth parties and the Republic to Boston people. In both cases ample capital had been provided for extensive development work. The Ohio-Keating, which had been closed for some time, was again in operation under lease to the Argonaut company.

James A. Murray, a Butte millionaire, has invested considerable money in claims of late, but it is stated that it is not his purpose to do any active mining work, but rather to hold the claims in the hope that in the near future some persons will come along and buy him out at a good profit. Mr. Murray is known to have expressed himself as perfectly satisfied that the Radersburg district was one of the coming big gold districts of the West.

Keating.

Reports received from the last four cars of ore shipped to the East Butte smelter from the Keating mine show returns of $69 a ton. This property is working a large force of men and earning a neat profit every month.

Moulton to Ship.

About April 1 the Moulton mine, a W. A. Clark silver property, will probably be shipping ore to the Washoe smelter. The shaft has been repaired down to the 200-foot level and it is not believed any repairs of an extensive character will be required further down

"SMOKE FARMERS" LOSE OUT AGAIN

Attempt to Shut Down the Washoe Smelter Meets Defeat.

San Francisco, March 11.—Another notch was marked in the long litigation whereby Fred J. Bliss, as the representative of a number of other farmers in the Deer Lodge valley, has been seeking to shut down the big Washoe smelter near Anaconda, Mont., when the injunction sought by Bliss against the Washoe Copper company and the Anaconda Copper Mining company was denied in the United States circuit court of appeals, and the judgment of the Montana federal court was affirmed. The opinion of the court was written by Judge Ross, who directs, however, that in view of the importance of the case and the size of the record, the mandate be stayed for six months to enable the appellant to apply to the United States supreme court for a writ of review, should he desire. Judges Gilbert and Morrow concur in the findings.

The decision of Judge Ross is that the evidence does not establish the contention that the fumes of the smelter have materially damaged the farms in Deer Lodge valley, where Bliss' 320 acres lie.

The decision covers eighty-eight typewritten pages, of which the greater part is given to a review of the smelter smoke-consuming improvements. A significant fact which is dwelt upon by the court is that the Washoe smelter cost $4,500,000 and is one of the main industrial supports of the state of Montana, employing thousands of men and distributing enormous sums of money in wages and otherwise.

Briefly, the facts leading to the decision are that Bliss, a resident of Idaho, brought suit in the federal circuit court of Montana six years ago, asking for a permanent injunction. The record of the case, covering 25,000 printed sections, Judge Ross says, is contradictory on all essential points. It is claimed sulphur and arsenic fumes made a desert of his prosperous farm and the entire valley. The smelter people contend that their new stack, with its dust-catching chambers and fume destroyers, costing more than $750,000 and put in before the suit started, did away entirely with the harmful effects. Besides, the Anaconda Copper people settled with the farmers at $330,000 in 1902, and the master in chancery, taking the evidence, assessed Bliss' actual damages at $350 instead of at $20 an acre, as he claimed. The circuit court denied him the injunction and it is this decision which is upheld.

WEST IN CONTROL OF BARNES-KING

Several Properties Examined But Nothing Desirable Yet Found.

Lewistown, Mont., March 11.—The meeting of the stockholders of the Barnes-King Development company, which was held at Kendall, resulted in a complete victory for the Western stockholders, who elected five of the eight directors. The new board of directors will consist of John E. Corrette, A. J. Davis, Walter C. Lewis, John N. Kirk and C. W. Goodale of Montana, and E. G. Hathorn, W. J. Brown and W. H. A. Fischer of New York. C. W. Goodale is slated for president. A total of 310,000 shares were represented at the meeting, and the vote for directors was unanimous.

In the annual report it is stated that several properties had been examined with a view to purchase, but nothing exactly meeting the requirements was found.

The company has about $285,000 in its treasury.

MINING IN THE BLACK HILLS

Much Interest in Development of High Grade Gold Ores.

Deadwood, S. D., March 11.—Not since the early days, when rich strikes were of frequent occurrence, has there been so much interest in the development of high-grade gold ores in the Black Hills. Within a few weeks some sensational strikes have been made, some of the ore being shipped and in other cases the find being quietly developed. For some months the Portland Mining company in the Bald mountain district has been developing some high-class gold ore in its workings and from time to time has made some rich shipments. The latest shipment, two carloads of gold ore sent to Denver, is reported to have yielded $100 to the ton.

In the same mining district, just above Terry, the Mogul Mining company recently encountered some rich ore in the old Carstreet workings, where a tunnel is being driven. The ore body is not large and no figures have been given out, but the samples of the ore show free gold in liberal quantities. The Carstreet has been worked for the last three years by the company and the new find is now being developed in the hope that it will shortly prove to be a body of ore of some consequence and large enough for shipping purposes.

The Homestake Mining company at Lead is crushing better than 4,000 tons of rock daily and making shipments of bullion to the United States assay office at Deadwood heavier and richer than at any time in its history. The last statement of dividends shows that up to the first of the year the company has paid out $26,228,840. These are issued on 218,400 shares of stock of a par value of $100. The total amount of dividends in 1910, even with the partial shutdown and gradual working back to full capacity during the labor trouble, was $1,092,000.

MINING MEN HAVE PLENTY OPTIMISM

Have Cause for It in Dividend Showings Past Two Months.

Certainly there is cause for a feeling of optimism among American mine owners and operators, when, according to reports made to the Mining World, it is shown that, although the year 1911 is but two months old, it has been possible, despite continued general low-price conditions and production curtailment, for sixty-two mines and works to distribute among shareholders $14,020,875. In addition to these satisfactory dividend returns are the disbursements of five securities holding corporations, which, for the two months of the year, have divided among widely scattered shareholders $2,294,027. Comparing these disbursements with those of the same period in 1910, there is shown an increase of thirteen in the number of companies contributing and of $3,-762,234 in the amount of dividends paid.

It is also pleasing to note that the sixty-two companies participating in the 1911 disbursements have been able in the years of their operation to divide among fortunate shareholders the enormous total of $294,198,-195. On the combined issued capitalization of these sixty-two companies —$431,220,909—this make a return equivalent to 91 per cent.

Of the sixty-two mines paying dividends this year, forty-five are classed as gold-silver-lead-zinc producers and their disbursements totaled $8,866,-030, as against the $4,837,131 paid by forty-three companies during the same period in 1910. Since incorporation the forty-five companies mentioned have divided among holders of their stock a total of $125-052,597, a 92 per cent return on their $135,735,459 outstanding capitalization.

SOME NEW IDEAS IN EDUCATION BEING TESTED AT SALTER SCHOOL

Boys and Girls Receiving Instruction Along Practical Lines.

Visiting City's Industries and Studying Manual Training and Cooking.

Some new wrinkles in education are being tried at the Salter school.

Principal Mooney has some ideas of his own which he is working out, and the experiment is one that should be of interest to every Duluth parent.

The school is in many respects a very interesting place.

The children, both the boys and the girls, are given a practical as well as a book education. They are taken on tours of inspection about the city; they are shown the elevators, the woolen mills, the factories and other industries that it is deemed wise by their principal for them to study.

Men prominent in many walks of life are invited out to speak to them on different subjects. The government of cities is studied. How to buy and sell property, locations, and the commercial value of things are taught.

"Do It for Duluth."

The boys of the school are full of the "Do It for Duluth" spirit and they are quick to notice that things could be made here that are manufactured in other cities and shipped here.

After the trips of investigation, compositions are written by the pupils on what they have seen and sometimes debates are held. All this is done with the idea in mind that many boys and girls go through the grade schools without getting much that is of practical, every day value to them in later years. It is claimed that many boys and girls in Duluth grow up without any idea of the commerce of the local port, without any knowledge of the government of the city or what common products are made of, or to what use they are put. All these things are deemed important by Principal Mooney.

An honor system is in vogue at the school. Some of the grades are allowed to keep their own marks. They are put on honor as to deportment and many other things. The scheme works well, it is said.

There is no defacing of the walls; the children take pride in their building and their grounds and the principal thinks it would go hard with any one caught marring the building by the boys.

It is his idea and his aim to give the pupils something new all the time so as to keep them interested. They seem to have a better time in school than they do outside the regular hours. The conduct of the pupils is of the best, he says.

Gardening Lessons.

This spring they are going to take up gardening, and already the youngsters are looking forward to their work in the open with delight. A great part of this will be done outside school hours, however.

There are about 270 pupils in the Salter school and they are all loyal to the institution.

A dainty "yellow" luncheon, prepared by the girls of the higher grades in the school, was served in the domestic science department Thursday at noon and so neat, pretty and in such perfect taste were the appointments that one almost hesitated to spoil the picture by eating the food.

A peep into the room was enough to make one's mouth water and just the slightest trace of an odor of the cooking was more than enough to make one wish that he was on the invitation list.

These young women had prepared the food, planned what they were to have, arranged the table, and selected the decorations all themselves. Of course the food cooked was that which they had been studying this year. The teacher, Miss Laura G. Frick, offered a suggestion now and then, but for the most part the girls did both the planning and the cooking.

There are sixteen girls in the class. The luncheon was served by eight of the girls to the other eight. Later the girls that were served will return the compliment.

The table was a dream. On top of a snowy white table cloth there rested yellow candlesticks. The other decorations were to match and the silverware was most daintily arranged.

Here is what they had: First there was grapefruit. That matched with the yellow decorations, didn't it? Well, then after the grapefruit had been cleared away there were eggs a la Golden Rod. Wasn't that in perfect harmony? And with the eggs there were stuffed potatoes and they did look good. Then there were cinnamon rolls and olives, and the best tapioca pudding, cooked to just the right degree to make it appetizing and enjoyable. And then as a fitting climax there came the quick cake, stuffed to the limit with dates. The cake was one of the biggest successes of the luncheon and it was very easy to take with the cocoa, in which the best whipped cream floated around like an iceberg.

Wasn't that a nice luncheon for the girls of the grade domestic science class? And didn't the girls that served it get just as much keen enjoyment out of preparing it as those who were the women of leisure for the occasion? It is a safe bet that they did and each girl was and had a right to be proud of her work. It didn't take them very long to get it ready and that in itself is a point not to be overlooked.

The young women made natty looking cooks, too. They were clad in dainty white aprons with caps to match. Everything was ready on the stroke of twelve and the luncheon, needless to say, went off like clockwork.

THE GIRLS' COOKING CLASS.

THE TABLE SPREAD FOR THE LUNCHEON.

Senior Girls Hold Memorial Exercises for Their Heroine Dido —Subjects for Senior Essays Given—Open Meeting of Forum—Bird Study Club Meets—Sophomore Class Meeting—Plans of Musical Society—Cast Rehearsing for Class Play.

Last Monday the senior girls held the annual memorial exercises in honor of their Latin heroine, Dido. Following the usual costume, the girls wore black paper on their sleeves and some of them more sorrowful wore black wreaths with long ribbons upon their heads. The mourners formed a procession and marched across the stage of the assembly hall. Miss Chelsie Final carried an image of Dido in this strange procession. The songs which followed were the product of Mr. Custance's fertile brain and caused much amusement, especially among the boys. It has long been the custom to thus honor Dido but this year's exercises were the most elaborate yet given.

LEAD POISONING IN 28 TRADES

Why the Lead Trades Are in Bad Repute—Often Working Force Changes Four Times a Year—How to Make Lead Smelting Safe.

By Dr. ALICE HAMILTON.
Medical Inspector Illinois Commission on Occupational Diseases.

(Exclusive Service The Survey Press Bureau.)

A model white lead factory in Illinois employs throughout the year about 200 men. Medical examination of those who complained, or seemed ill, revealed twenty-five cases of lead poisoning last year. Cookson's White Lead works in Newcastle-on-Tyne, a model English factory, has 187 employes. Careful weekly medical inspection of all on the payroll failed to show one instance of lead poisoning last year. A white lead factory in London with ninety-two men has not had a case of poisoning in five years, while in a slightly larger Illinois factory 28 per cent of all the employes have been leaded, two of them fatally within the last year.

Such facts as these show that the methods used in this country are far more dangerous than those employed in Europe and England. An investigation into the lead trades in Illinois has been made by the state commission on occupational diseases. Instances of lead poisoning have been found in twenty-eight trades and from the records of physicians during the past three years 578 individual cases have been discovered. Information gathered from foremen and physicians points to a much larger figure. There is necessarily only a small fraction of the victims whose names and addresses can be procured, for the majority keep no record of these.

There are very few women on our list, only eighteen out of the total of 578, and the fact that the lead trades in this state employ very small numbers of women is a great advantage, for they are notoriously more susceptible to this form of poisoning than men.

Certain industries stand out as specially productive of lead poisoning. These are the white lead industry, lead smelting and refining, the making of storage batteries and of dry colors and paints and the painting trade. Out of 318 cases of lead poisoning known to have occurred in 1910 all but sixty-five belonged to these five trades. All these are inherently dangerous as carried on in this country, but all could be made far safer than they are without any radical change in method. There are quite unnecessary dangers, due not to the method used, but only to carelessness, to lack of thought. The lead smelting industry is an illustration. As carried on in America, it is a far more dangerous trade than in Europe, and nothing but a change in method could make one of our plants as safe as a German lead smelting works. Unfortunately, however, the American lead smelter—he is usually a newly-arrived Slav, Greek or Italian—is not only exposed to risks which he would escape in Germany, but he is not nearly as well cared for as he would be there. Our methods compel a man to work in an atmosphere of lead dust and fumes which foreign methods have done away with, but while a foreign workman is cared for under a doctor's supervision, our laborers are often completely neglected.

There is much lead-poisoning among the lead smelters in Illinois. One hundred and eighty-one cases have been found. Many instances remain undiscovered because the unskilled foreigners leave the work as soon as they begin to suffer and are, consequently never heard of. Eleven physicians have stated that they see a total of 270 cases a year among the workers in the three largest smelting works. These three factories employ approximately 1,000 hands, but according to the most conservative statements of their foremen there are at least 4,000 men employed yearly because the working force changes continuously.

The making of storage batteries, is everywhere recognized as dangerous. It is not possible to make a storage battery factory entirely safe although the evils can be greatly reduced. None of the factories visited were found to be using all possible precautions to protect the men. One newly-arrived Russian Jew was set to working with the red lead paste and moistened his fingers in his mouth as he worked, because he had never been told that the material was dangerous. He was seriously leaded at the end of ten days.

The white lead industry in Illinois has improved more than any other lead trade during very recent times. Three of our four factories are new and very well constructed and in all but one of them there is a strong effort being made to do away with some of the more dangerous features.

Some of our paint and dry color houses, where dry lead salts are produced and handled, have an inexcusably large amount of lead-poisoning. That this is due solely to neglect is shown by the contrast between two Illinois paint houses. These two factories are both new, well ventilated, admirable externally. They employ about an equal number of men. We have not traced a single case of lead-poison to one of these; we have found eleven which belong to the other. This is an illustration of the results of leaving all such matters to the good will of the employer, for I can find no other cause for this difference except the care given the men in one place, and the neglect in the other.

The painting trade is another in which the American methods are far more dangerous than those in use abroad. The painter acquires lead-poisoning not through chewing lead-smeared tobacco, or eating lead-smeared food, or breathing dry lead dust. The first risk he can avoid by not using tobacco while at work and by careful washing before eating, provided there is a place where he can wash. House and sign painters often have the choice between a lunch eaten with paint-smeared hands and no lunch at all.

The second danger to which the painter is exposed is the dust-laden atmosphere caused by mixing dry white or yellow lead with paint or putty and by sand-papering coats of paint after they are dry. This last is a danger against which a painter cannot protect himself, and it is usually carried on in closed rooms with no system of ventilation to remove the dust.

It is often said that painters cannot be protected from lead poisoning unless we abolish the use of white lead paint as they are doing in France. But even with its use it is still possible to protect them better than we do now. In Germany, the contractor is obliged to provide a warm room, in which his painters may wash, change their clothes and eat lunch, even if the work is done in the country. In Germany and Belgium no lead paint may be rubbed or sand-papered while dry. Water must be used. In England this wet method is used even on the finest carriages and automobiles. I do not know why it is considered impossible in these industries in America.

It is gratifying to note that the evils in the lead trades tend to grow less because machinery is everywhere displacing handwork. Unfortunately the advance in methods of work has not been paralleled by an improvement in the care of the men. In consequence, perhaps, the lead trades are in bad repute with the working class and only the most ignorant and helpless foreigners seek employment in the white lead and smelting plants. There are indications that some of the larger establishments are beginning to recognize the economic waste of this form of labor, and several are planning reforms which will result in some protection for the men against lead poisoning.

Warning to Railroad Men.

Look out for severe and even dangerous kidney and bladder trouble resulting from years of railroading. Geo. E. Bell, 639 Third St., Fort Wayne, Ind., was many years a conductor on the Nickel Plate. He says: "Twenty years of railroading left my kidneys in terrible condition. There was a continual pain across my back and hips and my kidneys gave me much distress, and the action of my bladder was frequent and most painful. I got a supply of Foley Kidney Pills and the first bottle made a wonderful improvement and four bottles cured me completely. Since being cured I have recommended Foley Kidney Pills to many of my railroad friends." Sold by all druggists.

BALL BEARINGS.

The development of the modern ball bearing has not been uneventful. The records of the United States patent office disclose hundreds of ball bearing inventions.

Perhaps the majority of these manifest a thought or an effort in the right direction. But, says Cassier's Magazine, it takes more than one swallow to make a summer.

In the old bicycle days there were many varieties of ball bearing; and there was a great deal of success. But the duty was light both as to load and to speed. And when this device was applied to real machine duties it soon became apparent that something was wrong.

Designs which assumed that the balls where spheres, that the races were round and that steel was incompressible were successes with the small demands of the bicycle in spite of failure to realize every one of these particulars. The same or similar designs proved very poor with the severe requirements of the automobile and other machines.

The best designs of today also assume that the balls and raceways are round. But the necessity for their being so is now very well understood. Steel is no longer implicitly assumed as undeformable.

It is now dealth with on the basis of exactly what it is—a hard, elastic and compressible material. With a frank recognition of things as they really are and not as it would be convenient mathematically to assume that they are, great success is attending the employment of the ball bearing in situations involving the performance of excessively severe duty.

OPEN AIR SCHOOL IDEA IS SPREADING FAST

ROCHESTER PUBLIC SCHOOL IN A TENT.

SLIDE AT ROCHESTER OPEN AIR SCHOOL.

The open air school idea is gradually spreading all over the United States. In fact it is now a world-wide movement. Germany has had them for several years. Two years ago Providence inaugurated the first open air school in the United States. Now there are fresh air schools in many cities. These pictures were made at the open air school for delicate children in Rochester. This school are sent children from the various grades of the public schools. No backward children or those suffering from contagious diseases are enrolled, only children who are delicate. School hours are from 9 to 4. When the children arrive a dish of oatmeal and milk is given to them; at 12 o'clock a glass of fresh milk; at noon a dinner of soup, meat, vegetables, bread and butter and desert; at 3 o'clock, milk and crackers or if the weather is very cold, hot soup. After dinner the children are allowed to go to sleep in their chairs. Those who are awake at 2 o'clock resume their studies; those who are still asleep are not awakened. The study room is in a tent. The children wear thick woolen suits, thick felt boots and rubber suits when playing out of doors. When in the school room they are wrapped in blankets.

MINNESOTA UNIVERSITY

Rev. John Walker Powell to Deliver Lecture Sunday Afternoon.

Demand for Extension Lecturers Is Greater Than the Supply.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. John Walker Powell, who graduated from the Minnesota university in 1893 and is now pastor of the Endion Methodist church in Duluth, will deliver a lecture Sunday afternoon at the university chapel. Mr. Powell delivered the baccalaureate sermon at the university two years ago. President Northrop will preside for the last time during his presidency at a service of this kind. This is the second of a series of vesper services which are being held under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A.

Plans for the Irish banquet are materializing. The West hotel has been chosen for the affair. A true Irish course dinner has been provided with menus of Celtic names for each of the dishes. The decoration committee has sent to Ireland for a piece of the old sod to be used as center piece on the table. President Northrop will be guest of honor.

Extension Lectures.

Extension lectures gain state-wide popularity. The demand for lecturers is greater than the supply. Out-of-town lectures by the professors of the department of economics and political science will have totalled over fifty by the end of March. This branch of university extension has this year included thirty-six different cities and has reached nearly 6,500 people. Five men have taken part in this work. It is necessary that their time shall be devoted to university classes during the first four or five days of the week, leaving the Friday and Saturday evenings for extension lectures. Professors Gray, Thompson, Hess and Young and Dr. Phelan have carried on this work.

In view of the fact that the lectures of this department are not offered free but are made to pay their own way by a charge of $10 each, paid to the university, the urgent requests from all parts of the state reveal a potent demand and a real appreciation of this kind of university service. Where a single lecture was given last year, courses of five or six have been requested this year. The following cities have been included among lecture centers for this year: Duluth, Nicollet, Thief River Falls, McIntosh, Akeley, Grand Forks, Lewiston, Elbow River, Brooten, Dawson, Barnesville, Moorhead, Evansville, Fergus Falls, Cohasset, Osakis, Rush City, Spring Grove, Plainview, Henderson, Franklin, Pine City, Delaware, Lake Elmo, Green Isle, Red Wing, Lake City, Crookston and Faribault.

An invitation to luncheon in Shevlin hall has been extended by the girls of the university to the wives of the members of the Minnesota legislature.

Sham Battle.

Big plans for a sham battle to be given at the Hippodrome by St. Thomas cvollege cadets, university cadets and the regulars from Fort Snelling have been broken up since the Fort Snelling troops have been sent to the Mexican border. The troops have been ordered to equip themselves for a 60-day campaign and may be gone for several months. Two men have been chosen from each cavalry troop to act with a battery of field artillery as a guard for the post.

Next year all Sanford hall girls will pay $225 instead of $200 for their board and rooms; $225 was the original estimate made by the board of regents, but this year a trial was made with $200. While all expenses will be met with some aid from the university, no allowance has been made for breakage and additional expense.

President Cyrus Northrop will give a reception to the seniors of the Academic and Engineering colleges at his home. This will be the last reception that "Prexy" will give in his official capacity as president of Minnesota. It will be given two days before he goes out of office.

A water fete is being arranged which will give university swimmers a chance to show their ability. As a windup there will be an interclass water polo tournament.

In response to a call from several of the Norwegian colleges of the state for a representative of this university in the Norwegian intercollegiate oratorical contest, the Norwegians in college met and organized the University Norwegian Oratorical association. Tryouts for an orator to represent the association will take place soon.

Opposed to Bill.

Capt. Butts is much opposed to a bill introduced in the legislature which calls for an appropriation for a new fair building, which is to be incidentally used for farm school purposes and drill. Capt. Butts says: "The military department at the farm school wants just what the board of regents has put into the budget, namely $50,000, to turn the hippodrome building into an armory. The rooms in the state fair building would be in no way suitable. The hippodrome can be used for tournaments, and will become a useful building all the year round. Such is the idea also of Governor Eberhart."

President Northrop was the guest of 300 fraternity men of the university at a banquet at the Commercial club. The dinner was informal and instead of the customary toasts, a program of singing, dancing, boxing and wrestling numbers was provided.

Registrar Pierce estimates that the registration for the university for this year will be 5641, an increase of about 300 over last year. The colleges of law, mines, chemistry and education have decreased because of increased restrictions for entrance. The college of agriculture has increased about 200 and the other colleges have increased enough to make up the decrease mentioned above. The exact number of students cannot be given correctly until all the catalogues for the different colleges are out.

FEWER FRAME BUILDINGS.

Architectural Record: The detailed figures covering building operations in the cities of the United States during 1909, as compiled by the government geological survey, contain many facts and comparisons of interest. The statistics are those of 128 cities, so that the aggregates may be said to represent practically all of the urban construction in the country.

It was a great building year, both relatively and actually, the total expenditure for this purpose in the cities coming very little short of a billion dollars—$930,529,713. It is interesting to find that Chicago led in the number of new stone structures and also in the number of concrete! that New York led in brick, and Seattle in the number of wooden buildings. But Chicago, for all her stone and concrete, spent more for wooden buildings than did even Seattle. Reading, Pa., was the only city in the country that reported no wooden buildings. New York led in the construction of fire resisting structures, these coming to a cost of nearly a hundred and eighty-two million dollars; Chicago was next, with an expenditure for them of seventy-nine millions; Brooklyn third, at fifty-four and a half millions; and then Philadelphia, St. Louis and San Francisco.

Taking the new building as a whole, all over the country, 73.24 per cent of the total expenditure was for fire resisting structures—an encouraging showing. While New York was first in new brick buildings and Brooklyn was second, and Philadelphia only fourth, the metropolis came next to Chicago in the number of new stone buildings and the average cost of all the construction in New York was enormously greater than in any of the other cities. To the statistics for San Francisco there attaches of course a special interest. In the last five years the cost of the building operations there have been as follows: 1905, $18,268,753; 1906, $434,927,296; 1907, $56,574,844; 1908, $31,668,341; 1909, $26,184,068.

MARVELS OF MOTION.

Strand: Many trades, sedentary in appearance, are the cause of a vast amount of motion. The carpenter who drives his plane over the plank, the polisher who leaves it shining like a mirror, the gardner who sweeps the paths, the carpet-layer who drives his nails, the cellarman who puts the wine into bottles, the house-painter who sweeps the wall with his brush, the wood-cutter who wields his axe, the graceful typewriter who, in striking the keys of her machine, unceasingly raises and lowers her delicate fingers—all these people move or cause movement in a part of their person. Add together all these rapid and apparently trivial movements, and you will discover that they cover at least once in the course of a lifetime the long route round the earth. It has been calculated, and the calculation is easy to verify, that the writer with a facile pen who blackens the paper for five hours a day at the rate of thirty words a minute will thus cover a distance of about 70,000 miles a year by, so to say, mere strength of wrist. That means a much greater distance than that of the circuit of the earth. And yet this unconscious hero has scarcely quitted his desk.

SPEAKING FROM EXPERIENCE.

Gladys, the Cook—I'm leavin', Mr. Peck. I can't staud it bein' bossed by a woman.
Mr. Henry Peck—Try it a little longer and you'll get used to it the same as I did.

THE DAY'S FABLE.

ONCE upon a time the Wolf sought out the Hyena, and after a few remarks on Standard Oil's latest dividend, said to him:

"See here, I am no hog. When I get a good thing I am willing to divide up with a good fellow. I am here to put you next."

"I have had lots of tips on the ponies," replied the Hyena, with a wink.

"Oh, this is no race track racket. This is pork, this is, and fat pork, at that. The peasant down by the creek is going to kill his pig tomorrow, and it will be left hanging in the shed over night to cool. It's our pork if we want it."

"But the Peasant will be on the watch."

"And that's where you come in. He knows that the Wolf and the Hyena don't travel together, and seeing you around he won't be looking for me. You will keep him busy while I get the meat."

The Hyena said that looked good to him, and that evening at an appointed hour he appeared in the Peasant's field and set up a bowling that brought the man out with a club. His attention was held for a quarter of an hour, and then the Hyena disappeared to meet the Wolf elsewhere and say:

"My mouth is just watering for that pig pork. Where is my share?"

"My dear friend," replied the Wolf, "it pains me to inform you that after I got into the shed I found an oversight in our calculations. We agreed that the pork would be there and that the owner would be on watch and you would trick him, but it never occurred to us how the spoil was to be divided. I found myself unable to say which of us was to take the bristles and which the meat, and so I settled it by eating the meat myself. If you don't want the bristles, however——"

"You villain!" shouted the Hyena.

"If you don't want the bristles then we'll kill a porcupine together, and you may have the quills!"

MORAL:

If the other fellow don't do you, you will him. JOE KERR.

False.

His love had grown cold.

"Oh, Harold," she sobbed, "when you married me you said that you loved every hair on my head."

And Harold, cruel and merciless, pointed an accusing finger at the switch and two "rats" near the mirror.

"Yes," he responded heartlessly, "but not every hair on your bureau."

And lighting his cigar the brute strode off to his club.

SURE.

Tom—Lent ought to be a great deal longer?
Dick—Sure. We ought to have at least three times as long to save up for the Easter outfits.

No Chance.

"YOU must see a good deal of human nature, from this platform," he said as he boarded the car and shoved his hands into his pockets and looked at the conductor.

"Oh, yes," was the reply.

"You see the better side?"

"Yes."

"And the selfish side?"

"For sure."

"And I might say the vapid side. I suppose you are asked a hundred silly questions a day?"

"At least a hundred."

"There is the absent-minded man?"

"There is."

"And the woman who takes the wrong car and blames you for it?"

"Yes, I had a case 10 minutes ago."

"And the street car hog?"

"Yes, he is around."

"And—and——"

"And the man who thinks he can talk me out of his fare," finished the conductor as he held out his hand.

The nickel that was fished up and reluctantly handed over was old and battered, but it went, and the man had no more to say about human nature.

Forgiveness.

IT was noticed by other passengers in the street car that two men sitting opposite each other were gazing with unfriendly looks. Finally one of them asked:

"Didn't you used to be a dentist on Sands street?"

"Yes, sir;" was the reply.

"I thought so. Three years ago I had the toothache and called on you."

"I remember you."

"You were a regular butcher."

"And you the biggest booby I ever saw."

"I said to myself that if I ever caught you outside of your office I would make your heart ache."

"And I said to myself that if I ever had the chance I'd cuff your ears."

"Well?"

"Well?"

"See here," put in a third man, "I hope there won't be any row here. Dentist, are you still on the job?"

"No, sir; I quit it and am now blacksmithing."

"And you, sir—does your tooth still ache?"

"No, sir; I had them all yanked out, and have got false ones instead."

"Then neither of you has a case in court. Shake hands and let peace and harmony prevail." JOE KERR.

THE IDEA!

The Kid—Whee! An' to think I wus jes' wishin' I'd spent my penny for somethin' else stead of dis bannaner!

Perhaps So.

"I DON'T know whether I am a funny man or not," said the seedy-looking young man who was looking for a job. "Sometimes I think I am, and again I think I'm not."

"When did you last think you were funny?" was asked.

"About three months ago. I was then in an insurance office and holding down a good salary. One day I came across a lot of calendars of the date of 1890. They had been packed away so nicely that they looked like new. Just for a joke I took down all our calendars for the year and hung up the old ones. I grinned and chuckled and went out to lunch."

"I can see it was quite funny."

"Can you? Thanks; awfully. While I was gone the office force made out and mailed three insurance policies, drew several checks and did a lot of other business under the old date. I quit chuckling when I found it out."

"And something happened?"

"Say, you've seen chain lightning? Well, I got out of that office at just such speed. I went so fast that none of the 12 men could kick me. The old calendars followed me, but I was not to be overtaken."

"And you haven't made up your mind whether it was funny or not?"

"N-o-o, but your saying it was quite funny encourages me. I may get another job and have another chance to make a fool of myself!" JOE KERR.

CHERE'S something in your Sweet repression
That makes me long for Quick possession.

I'LL give up all things
Within reason,
But never you, this
Lenten season.

MAD.

"Jack is in the parlor now. You don't mind waiting till he goes, do you? I'll bring you a book to read."
"Bring me a book on pugilism."

The Other Side.

OH, yes, the public are ready enough to mob the chauffeur," said the young man in the garage, "but you never hear his side of the story. When he takes a lady out for an airing he can't run things to suit himself. He is under orders. He is going along a crowded street when my lady suddenly calls out:

"Henry, isn't that Mrs. Peters on the sidewalk?"

"He turns his head to look and bumps into a kid crossing the street, and my lady calls out:

"'Henry, that must be my husband on the steps of the house.'"

"Henry turns to see and knocks an old woman down. He speeds up for three minutes to get away, and has checked down a bit when my lady exclaims:

"'Henry, that is surely Mrs. Davison.'"

"I look for Mrs. Davison and bump a man and a policeman yells at me. I am ordered to get away, and I do so, and my heart has just stopped palpitating when my lady calls out:

"'I think that was Mrs. Saunders in that taxi. Hurry up, Henry.'

"I hurry and take a wheel off a carriage and graze a stenographer and before I can get away, the police nab me. We are taken to the police station and when my lady is asked if she wants to give bail for me she replies:

"'No, I think not. Henry is a very careless driver and should be taught a lesson. I think a fine of $50 will be a lesson to him.'" JOE KERR.

OF COURSE.

"How is that hen at hatching eggs?"
"A perfect jewel."
"In that case I'd get her a setting."

A BIG DIFFERENCE.

Hix—Death is impartial. It comes to the poor and the rich man alike.
Dix—Not exactly alike. In the latter case it is usually accompanied by a lot of expensive flowers.

HE FELT IT, TOO.

Willie—I hear your gettin' fired from school raised a big breeze at your house.
Earlie—Yes. It was what the yacht fellers call a spanking breeze.

SPRING SIGNS.

The Poet—Which of the various signs of spring impress you most?
The Builder—The signs "For Sale" and "For Rent."

HIS CLAIM TO FAME.

"You say that hard-faced young fellow over there is your most eminent citizen?"
"He shore is. Mebbe you don't believe it, mister, but that there young feller took a spring trainin' trip with the Giants one year."

A GREAT INVENTION.

The Peddler—This is a little device especially designed for use in our spring weather.
The Housekeeper—What is it?
The Peddler—It may be used one minute as a fan and the next to shovel off the snow.

SUPERIOR STREET DEAL SHOWS INCREASE IN VALUE

$50,000 Paid for Property That Brought $20,000 in 1902.

Gopher Realty Company Buys Lot at 313 West Superior Street.

The enormous appreciation in value which Duluth business property has had in the last ten years is shown by a deal made yesterday by which the Gopher Realty company purchased from Jane Fitzgerald, widow of the late Robert J. Fitzgerald, the property at 313 West Superior street. The property, which is described as the west half of lot 53, West Superior street, Duluth proper, First division, fronts twenty-five feet on Superior street and the consideration in yesterday's deal was $50,000 cash.

April 15, 1902, the same property was sold by George W. Sherwood to Robert J. Fitzgerald for $20,000. Since that time an enormous sum has been paid in rents to the owner and his heirs and the consideration in yesterday's deal is two and one-half times the price paid less than nine years ago.

The property is improved with a two-story frame building that is practically worthless. The present company, a shoe firm, has a lease which has three years to run, however, and no improvements will be made until the expiration of that time.

The consideration in the deal, $2,000 per front foot, probably sets a new mark for land values in that district, but is not considered high in view of the demand for business property on Superior street. Some time ago Joseph Sellwood paid $2,000 a front foot for property owned the Sellwood building stands, but the property was required for a specific purpose and the owners placed some value on the buildings. The building on the land sold yesterday is of practically no value and was not considered in the transaction.

The Gopher Realty company owns considerable real estate throughout the city and has been increasing its holdings of late. It is a corporation of Duluth men. C. W. Elston was the agent in yesterday's deal.

Keen interest is being shown in property near the Canadian Northern right-of-way in West Duluth. This week the West Duluth Land company sold to Minneapolis parties thirty-seven lots scattered through two or three blocks on the Canadian Northern line in West Duluth, Seventh division. The consideration is said to have been between $9,000 and $10,000. The purchase is believed to be a speculative one, as the lots almost directly adjoin the railway right-of-way, where it turns from the line parallel with the Northern Pacific tracks.

Richardson, Day & Harrison report a good demand for lots in Oneota, which is probably caused by the interest in the Canadian Northern development also. This week the firm sold seventeen lots in Oneota at about $12,000. The lots are scattered and some were purchased for speculation and some for use at present.

Richardson, Day & Harrison report continued interest in Norton's Steel Plant division and the sale of lots continues brisk. Only a few lots have been sold to outside parties, Duluth people showing a lively speculative interest in the division. The firm has also sold a number of lots in Chamber's First division on the hillside, and has sold two 10-acre tracts up over the hill.

Lotta Paulson has sold to Joseph Overbrook a property 75 by 79 feet on Pittsburg avenue between Second and Third avenues west, for $3,000.

Augusta Johnson has sold to Otto Peterson an undivided half interest in a property on Mesaba avenue between Second and Third streets, for $5,000.

John F. Fredin has sold to Joseph Benda a property 35 by 100 feet on the southeast corner of Fourth street and Eighth avenue west, the consideration not being given in the deed.

Anna Hellberg has sold to Laurence Peterson a property on the upper side of Seventh street between Tenth and Eleventh avenues east, for $2,000.

The man who erects a building of any kind in Duluth this year will be called upon to meet an expense that will be somewhat lower than it would have been if he financed the same building proposition last year, according to the dealers in building materials. The amount of the saving will depend on the size and character of the building. The man who puts up a fireproof building will not save as much proportionately as the owner of a frame building, but he can save something on glass, mill work and perhaps on the plumbing and heating contract, though the latter is doubtful.

The bulk of the building in Duluth this summer will be made up of residences. With lumber lower, glass lower and a downward tendency evident in the market for other materials, with the exception of paint, the builder of a modest home this year will save a considerable percentage of what the same home would have cost him a year ago.

In the face of the rapidly diminishing supply of lumber in this section of the country, the decrease in lumber prices this year is worthy of note. It extends to all grades of rough and dressed lumber and the reduction amounts to about $2 per 1,000 feet in all grades. Mill work has gone down in consequence, the reduction amounting to about 15 per cent. When it is considered that the bulk of the expense of the material for a frame residence is in lumber, the saving to residence builders will be considerable this year.

There has been very little change in the brick market during the year. The market was not as broad as was expected last year, while the production was tremendous, but the heavy stocks are being retained for this year's trade and no effort has been made to reduce them through concessions in prices. The weather was dry in almost all parts of the country last year and the brick makers took advantage of the fact to manufacture more heavily than in any previous year. While the production this year is expected to show a big falling off, the owners in the trade will be injured, but the market shows no reductions.

The market for all grades of brick is opening up well. Dealers report a good demand from the small towns in the vicinity of Duluth. In Duluth the brick trade is not expected to be great this year, on account of the lack of big building operations, but the last few seasons have been exceptional and conditions this year will be about normal.

Cement Prices.

Heavy production during the previous year and the great number of cement factories in operation threatened cement prices early last season, but prices held up well and they are now at about the same level they were a year ago. As brick is beginning to move, cement and lime are expected to follow shortly and a good season is looked for in that trade. The price of the best brands of Portland cement is slight and fluctuations during the season are expected to be slight.

The great increase in reinforced concrete construction and the popularity of concrete walks in all cities of any size throughout the country have greatly broadened the market for cement. Although the demand is great, the supply has more than kept up, for when the demand for cement began to grow, factories sprang up all over the country. In fact, much of the demand was created by the supply and there has been no stiffening of prices, despite the increase in the number of uses to which cement is put.

The demand for cement in Duluth and surrounding towns is very good and dealers are heavily stocked in anticipation of a good season.

Paint has taken the elevator to high levels, the increases since a year ago approximating 20 per cent. The greatly increased cost of linseed oil in the past year is responsible for the condition. A year ago linseed oil was selling at about 50 cents a gallon. Today the price is 90 cents to paint manufacturers and the finished product must bear the increase.

In consequence of this condition, prices of paint have been increasing constantly during the past year and there is no relief in sight. A deficiency in the flax crop, both in the United States and in the Argentine republic, has brought about high linseed oil prices that will not decline until the supply is increased by a new flax crop.

Glass Trust Busted.

The "busting" of the glass trust by the government has sent glass prices downward the toboggan slide with the result that window glass is fully 40 per cent lower than a year ago. The decrease has not been as great in some grades, but there has been an appreciable decrease in all kinds. In big buildings, glass is an important material and the saving in that respect this year will be considerable.

The market on structural steel has shown little change during the past year and steel is at about the same level it was a year ago. The prospect is that little steel for building purposes will be required in Duluth this year. Building hardware prices vary with the steel market and they are at about the same level as a year ago.

The "bathtub trust," against which the government has now directed its "trust-busting" artillery, threatened to make plumbing and heating come higher to builders this year, but the government proceedings have balked the move. There was a heavy decrease in enameled goods last summer, but when the government prosecution was begun, prices were reduced to their former level and they are now about the same as they were a year ago. Lead and iron pipe prices fluctuate during the year, but the general level is about the same now as it was last year at this time.

If a man were to let a contract for the electrical work in a building now he would pay about the same for the work as he would have paid last season. There have been no appreciable changes in the prices of supplies or fixtures and as labor is the same as a year ago, contracts will be taken at about the same figure.

The Labor Problem.

The problem of labor is always one to be reckoned with. The builders' exchange has not yet fixed its scale for the coming year, but there has been no talk of change and the scale will very likely be the same as it was last year. Duluth is not entirely an open shop town, for the open shop does not apply in some trades, but on account of the prospect that the volume of building will be smaller than it was last year, it is doubtful if any of the labor organizations will begin a movement for a higher scale in their respective trades.

There is this difference in the labor situation this year: The builders' exchange scale is the minimum and many men of exceptional ability are paid higher prices for their work. The demand for men in the building trades this year is not expected to be so great as it was a year ago and the men who have commanded wages over the scale in former years may be required to work for the scale this year. There may be some cutting under the scale in individual cases, but on the whole the wages paid last year will be paid again during the coming season.

The builders' exchange scale follows, the figure being per hour, the daily wages being on the basis of an eight-hour day: Stone masons, 60 cents; bricklayers, 70 cents stone cutters, 56¼ cents; tile setters, 50 cents; carpenters, 45 and 50 cents; roofers, 45 cents; lathers, 4c per yard or 50 cents per hour; plasterers, 62½ cents; painters, 45 and 50 cents; plumbers, 62½ cents; steam fitters, 60 cents; sheet metal workers, 45 and 50 cents; electrical workers, 46⅔ cents.

DOCK PROPERTY SCARCE ON BOTH SIDES OF THE BAY

Need for Early Improvement of St. Louis River Channel Shown.

Few Pieces of Property Available West of the Ore Docks.

An Eastern man was in Duluth this week looking for dock property. He prepared a map showing both sides of the bay and the land that was taken up for use, being out of the question for purchase. The map was a revelation. From the Grassy Point bridge to Allouez bay on the Superior side, there is not a foot of dock property to be had. From the aerial bridge to the Grassy Point bridge on the Duluth side, the pieces of dock property that may probably be purchased are so few that the owners are probably justified in holding them at high prices.

It is not more than two or three years since dock property was plentiful, especially west of the ore docks. The Canadian Northern, Hanna Coal company, Carnegie Coal company, dredge companies and other interests stepped in and acquired sites for their docks and today there is very little dock property on the market even in the West Duluth district.

The needs of the steel plant really have very little to do with the question of improving the channel of the St. Louis river so that it may be navigated by the larger freighters. The need for a greater expanse of wharf room is almost upon Duluth and Superior and that need must be supplied by an extension of the dock area up the river. Considerable time is always required for river improvements by the government and the real estate men who saw the map prepared this week are more than ever convinced that the dropping of the agitation for the improvement of the channel last year was a mistake.

If the reciprocity agreement with Canada is ratified, Duluth grain dealers expect to increase their business. The natural result will be in the course of a very few years that more grain elevators will be needed. Where are they going to be placed? Will the scattered pieces of dock property between the ore docks and Grassy Point offer sites for grain elevators as well as new coal docks and other enterprises requiring a place on the waterfront? It isn't very likely.

The need of a deep channel to the land west of the Grassy Point bridge is here right now. Duluth must look for its future growth and prosperity to its strategic position on Lake Superior and to an increase in the volume of commerce of the Northwest, with Duluth as the gateway. Duluth must care for that volume of commerce and it must have additional dock room. The dock room will not be available until the channel up the river is improved for a distance sufficient to open water front property to new industries.

Tunneling under the canals and flanking Minnesota Point on the bay side with docks is a dream of the future. No doubt people have purchased submerged land on the bay side of the Point with that ultimate development in view. But a far greater expanse of dock property could be opened at less expense by the improvement of the river. The improvement must come ultimately. With the completion of the steel plant, other industries will be located up the river. It is not to be supposed that they will all transport their coal in cars as the Steel company intends to do. They will want docks from which to handle their products. As New Duluth and the other communities grow, they will want docks that will receive the big freighters.

Real estate men believe that Duluth cannot set about obtaining the improvement of the channel too soon. The government moves slowly in such matters and the need is likely to be on Duluth before it is provided for. The provision will not be amiss at any rate, for Duluthians are acting on their confidence in the future of the city in many directions and they should also act in the direction of providing sufficient water front space for new industries.

FALLING OFF IN BUILDING

February Totals for the United States Show a Decrease.

February building fell off generally throughout the United States, although some cities showed substantial increases. Duluth showed a falling off of 60 per cent, permits this year being for work estimated to cost $74,425 against $183,865 in February, 1910. The total building throughout the country in February this year was $20,118,020, while in February last year it was $37,000,760. The decrease in New York was about $7,000,000.

The general building situation in Duluth is about unchanged. Architects and builders adhere to the opinion that the volume of home building will be unprecedented in size, while there will be few business buildings and apartment houses built in Duluth this year.

George H. Lounsberry has been awarded the general contract for the rebuilding of the Metropolitan building, which is owned by Eastern parties and which will be occupied by the Gray-Tallant company. The plumbing went to Stack Bros. and the heating to the American Heating company. The Otis Elevator company will install the elevators, and Francis M. Cady of St. Paul will install the revolving doors. American terra cotta goods will be used in the construction. The electrical wiring contract has not yet been let. Mark Fitzpatrick of St. Paul, architect for the owners of the building, prepared the plans.

F. W. Hassenmueller, architect, has let the contract to J. R. Quigley & Sons for a two-family brick flat at 1819 East Superior street, for Gilbert Patterson. The building will be 22 by 70 feet, with pressed brick front, and will contain two apartments of six rooms each.

WHEAT IS UNCHANGED

Values Opened Weak and Advance---Moisture in Southwest.

World's Shipments Increase---Receipts Are Decreasing.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 11.—Wheat closed about unchanged today. May lost ½c and July declined a similar distance. Cash wheat was ½c under May, oats closed unchanged, rye was 3c up, durum was unchanged. Barley was stationary.

Flaxseed was slightly stronger. May gained ½c, closing at $2.65¼. Receipts are at a minimum.

Trading was dull and the market was erratic. Cables were higher but the market was not influenced by conditions abroad, as reflected in prices. The world's shipments of wheat from all exporting countries shuts out wheat from this country. Although American markets have declined precipitately, the European markets have backed away and the American wheat is not on an exportable basis. The continental demand for wheat continues. Pressure of Indian and Australian offers at a decline was heavy. Russia is shipping freely and exports from that nation this week are large. As navigation will open soon, it is expected that Russian shipments will show a heavy increase in the near future. Crop advices from India continue favorable.

Wheat in the Southwest is in a favorable position. There are prospects of rain tonight and tomorrow in the winter wheat belt. The prospects of moisture in the Southwest and indications of it in the Northwest caused selling after the early bulge, which carried values downward. The market seems to be a scalping proposition. There are enough bulls now to make the subject of values debatable and the market is no longer a one-sided proposition.

Receipts in the Northwest are growing smaller. The bulls think the big spring wheat shortage is being emphasized by the small receipts. They think the government's estimate of farm reserves was too large just as they were of the opinion that the government's figures on the spring wheat crop were not small enough.

The cash demand was slow. The flour trade continues dull.

Somers, Jones & Co. of Chicago say: Our Dakota reports show extremely dry conditions there. They have had nowhere near enough rain or snow, and with too little moisture in the subsoil following the drought of last year, we can see nothing flattering in the outlook for new crop conditions in that territory. The fine weather continues and, while it may be considered a bearish influence while it lasts, it does not look bearish in the long run. In fact, it seems to us to be the reverse. Hessian fly is reported doing severe damage in the Tennessee winter wheat and in the territory north of there, reaching into Illinois and Indiana. With the May wheat firmly held and the short interest large, we would not be in the least surprised to see a bull market soon that will astonish the trade.

Corn looks bullish. The surplus states hold less corn than last year despite the larger crop. The railroads are wide open, making quick deliveries, and there is very little corn in transit. A spell of bad weather would show the receipts here light to the point of scarcity, as the winter-shelled corn has been mostly moved out. Outs, on the face of it, looks less bullish, but will, we think, follow the probable advance in corn and in wheat, and holders of oats and corn futures can probably be sure of a moderate upturn, to say the least, from present prices.

The government report on barley, on thorough analysis, seems very bullish. It shows little barley available for malting purposes east of the coast territory and not much of it there. It will probably mean higher prices, as the trade will need from 10,000,000 to 20,000,000 bu of barley if the malt houses are run as late as usual. The reserves are 31,100,000 bu in all positions. Of this, the so-called coast territory holds 10,000,000 and the intermediate territory, that which raises its barley almost wholly for feed, from 3,000,000 to 5,000,000 more, leaving less than 20,000,000 available for commercial purposes and for feed and seed. The usual seeding requirements, from 96 to 110 lb per acre, and the necessary feeding demand at minimum allowances, will leave approximately less than 5,000,000 of malting barley for the balance of the entire season.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: The wheat market displayed a firm undertone at the immediate start today and values were ⅜d higher. Support was induced by the unexpected firmness in American markets yesterday and the closing steadiness in Buenos Ayres and shorts were induced to cover some. The steadiness in Paris and a continued demand from the continent caused further lightening of offers.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Liberal World Shipments and Other Causes Weaken Market.

Chicago, March 11. — Liberal world shipments weakened wheat. Besides crop experts were not disposed to accept as serious the alleged danger from Hessian fly in portions of Indiana and Illinois. It was declared on the contrary that prospects in all countries were uniformly favorable. Prices here opened the same as last night to ¼c down. The start for May was 90½@90⅝c, a loss of ⅛@¼c. A decline to 90⅜c followed.

Hot, dry weather in Texas led to a rally. The advance brought heavy selling from the Southwest and Northwest, but the close was firm with May ⅜c net higher at 91⅛c.

Commission house selling made corn easy. Trade was of fair volume. May opened ⅛c off to 49¾c and sagged to 49⅝c.

Liberal buying later for two leading houses gave the market a turn upward. The close was firm at 50@50⅛c asked, net gain of ⅛@¼c.

There was poor call for oats. Accordingly, the market dropped with other grains. May started ⅛@¼c under last night at 31@31½c and touched 30⅞@31c.

Tameness had possession of the provision pit, dealers not viewing with favor an advance in the price of hogs. First sales were 2½@5c lower to 2½c up with May options at $17.62½ for pork, $9.20 for lard and $9.52½ for ribs.

July unchanged to ¼c higher and September ¼c higher. Local elevator stocks of wheat decreased 60,000 bu for one day. Minneapolis today received 221 cars of wheat against 340 a year ago; Duluth 5 against 75, and Winnipeg 175 against 185. May opened 97⅛@97c; high, 97¼@97⅝c; low, 96¾c; closed, 97⅜c. Cash wheat in slightly better demand and market quoted trifle firmer. Mills good buyers. No. 1 northern sold for ⅞@2c above the May [illegible] Close: Latter and just before the close the market turned lower with a decline of ⅝d from the opening on the increased pressure of both Australian and Indian offers at a decline and a talk of large world's shipments this week with a liberal contribution from Russia. There was a quiet demand for spot with all cargoes offered at a decline. At the close the market was easier and unchanged to ⅛d higher than yesterday. The corn market was at the start ¼d higher and during the session held firm at the advance. Support was due to the strength in America and scarcity of first hand American offers. The advance was checked by better reports from Argentina and a decline of a penny in La Plata spot. Indian weather and crop advices continue favorable.

DULLNESS IN STOCKS

List Shows Easier Tone and Close Is Lower Than Friday.

Some Selling on Reports of Supreme Court Decisions Monday.

New York, March 11.—The stock market was dull and firm at the opening today. Missouri Pacific advanced ½ and Canadian Pacific and Reading ⅝. National Railways of Mexico second preferred and American Car and Foundry lost ½. Otherwise prices were about on a parity with last night's closing.

While prices did not vary much from the opening level, the list showed an inclination to ease off in spots, especially Reading, which receded ½.

The market closed easy. An active demand for Wabash-Pittsburg terminal issues advanced them about 3 points. Stocks were lower with some selling on the prospects of supreme court decisions next Monday. Federal Sugar lost 5 points, Central Leather and Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie lost 1½. The fertilizer stocks were weak and the balance of the list yielded little below yesterday.

SUPREME COURT HOLDS CORPORATION TAX CONSTITUTIONAL

SPECIAL SESSION OF STATE LEGISLATURE IS BEING DISCUSSED

Depends on the Senate's Action on the Reapportionment Bill.

Failure to Reapportion Would Be Repudiation of Party Pledge.

Distinct Promise Made in the Last Republican State Platform.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Will there be a special session of the Minnesota legislature immediately following the close of the present regular session?

That very absorbing question hinges on two things.

First—Whether or not the senate passes the Congdon reapportionment bill; and.

Second—Whether or not if the legislature fails to reapportion the state, Governor Eberhart keeps his implied promise to the people of Northern Minnesota at Brainerd, that if the legislature at its regular session failed to pass a reapportionment law, he would call an extra session for the sole purpose of considering reapportionment.

As to the first proposition, the present outlook is that the senate will refuse to concede justice to the underrepresented portions of the state, and will refuse to cut the terms of its members in two or to take away from Southern Minnesota the unjust power

FORGERY ALLEGED.

Grand Jury Likely to Indict Directors of Carnegie Trust Co.

New York, March 13.—District Attorney Whitman's office was actively engaged today in preparing to present to the grand jury this afternoon evidence of certain transactions in the Carnegie Trust company, which the public prosecutir says affected the solvency of that institution. The grand jury's investigation, it is said, will result in the indictment for forgery of two, and possibly three directors.

It is said transactions through which loans were made to certain directors were carefully concealed from the knowledge of the board of directors.

There is much evidence to be presented and indictments are not expected for several days.

Washburn Young Man Killed.

Washburn, Wis., March 13.—The breaking of a plank in the scaffolding on which he was standing while at work in the burner of the mill at Drummond, resulted in the death of Joseph Velgar Plam of this city Saturday.

Rock Island to Be Home Port.

Rock Island, Ill., March 13.—Capt. Strechfus, who recently bought the Diamond Jo line of steamers, has petitioned the Rock Island city council for permission to erect a warehouse, office building and landing on the levee to make this the home port of the company.

Interesting Facts Related in the Blue Book for 1911.

Seventy-Eight Natives of Minnesota in Senate and House.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The 1911 legislative manual or Blue Book shows some interesting facts about the membership of the legislature.

For instance it shows that out of the total membership of 183 in both bodies, 130 are native born—through many are of foreign parentage—and forty-five are natives of other lands. Thirteen, ten in the house and three in the senate, did not disclose their birthplaces in their biographies. In the senate forty-seven are native born and only thirteen of foreign birth. In the house eighty-three are native born and thirty-two are of foreign birth.

Of the foreign born in the senate, three each are from Norway, Sweden and Canada, and one each from Ireland, Holland, Wales and Germany.

Of the foreign born in the house, ten are from Norway, from Sweden, five from Canada, four from Germany, two from Ireland and one each from Austria and Poland.

There are twenty-two natives of

DECLINES TO RECONSIDER

House Sticks to the Pfaender Initiative and Referendum Bill.

Range Court Bill Favored By the House Judiciary Committee.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The senate this afternoon passed the Cheadle bill authorizing cities of the first class to issue bonds for $700,000 to build city electric light plants.

St. Paul, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The house this morning, by 51 to 31, refused to reconsider the passage of the Pfaender initiative and referendum bill. Resolutions were received from the executive council of the State Federation of Labor protesting against the bill on the ground that it hedges direct legislation about with too many restrictions and, basing his action upon the protest, Representative Knapp of Chisholm moved that the house reconsider the passage of the bill. He said that the measure clearly is not satisfactory to the friends of direct legislation and that the house should either pass a bill showing a real intent to have the initiative and referendum or kill the proposition entirely. The Pfaender bill, he said, ought to be amended so the house could take pride in it, or it ought to be killed.

Opposition to the motion was voiced by Representatives Stone, A. J. Peter-

MOB FIERCELY ATTACKS AUTO

Machine Kills Little Girl in Jewish Quarter of Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 13.—After seeing her 5-year-old-daughter, Esther, crushed to a pulp by being hit by an automobile, picking up the mass of mangled flesh and bone and running four squares to the city hospital, Mrs. Mary Koffmann of this city went violently insane yesterday when informed by the officials of the institution that the child was dead. She was placed in a strong ward and is in a precarious condition.

A riot was narrowly averted by the timely arrival of the police directly following the accident. The little Koffmann girl was playing on Central avenue when the machine, owned by Mrs. W. A. Leach of Norwood, Ohio, ran her down. The car was occupied by Mrs. Leach, a daughter and her maid. The accident happened in the center of the Jewish section and a body of men attacked the car after the child's body had been pulled from under it. The arrival of the patrolmen, however, saved the occupants of the machine from serious injury.

NO PRESENT EXCUSE FOR SENDING TROOPS ACROSS THE BORDER

Says Secretary of War in Discussing the Mexican Situation.

Negligence of Mexico Would First Have to Be Firmly Established.

Insurrectos and Federals Both Win Victories in Battle.

New York, March 13.—"I do not believe there will be any movement of our troops into Mexico," was the statement here today of J. M. Dickinson, secretary of war, who plans to sail for Panama.

"There can be no excuse of intervention," continued the secretary, "unless the Mexican government prove negligent in protecting the persons or the property of foreign residents, and such negligence would have to be firmly established, in my opinion, before any such step could be taken. There are no conditions now present to give us such warrant. In order to maintain the neutrality laws, it has been deemed advisable to send troops to the border, and on account of the immense length of the frontier and the fact that the Rio Grande can be crossed at almost any point a larger number of troops has been dispatched than otherwise would have proven necessary."

Secretary Dickinson said there was a possibility that he might postpone his trip to Panama, but if so it would be because of complications in settling pending agreements between the Panama Railroad company and the steamship lines operating for the government. Mexican affairs would not influence his plans, he said.

Thousands See Battle.

Douglas, Ariz., March 13.—Eleven federal soldiers dead, eleven wounded with the losses to the rebels unknown, is the result of a battle just east of Augua Prieta yesterday. The opposing forces were 500 insurrectos under Gen. Jose De La Luz Blanco and 300 federals directed by Col. Mora.

The battle was spectacular and was witnessed by several thousand Americans, many of whom rushed close to the battlefield while the firing was at its height. After the smoke had cleared away, it was Americans in automobiles who gave the first aid to the injured, hurrying them to Augua Prieta,

GIRL IS SCALPED IN FARGO LAUNDRY

Hair Becomes Entangled in Machinery and Skin Is Torn From Head.

Fargo, N. D., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Screaming in agony, Bessie Morson, an employe of the Prairie laundry, had her scalp literally torn from her head this morning.

The girl's hair became entangled in the machinery in the laundry and every particle of hair and all the skin on the top of her head was entirely pulled off.

She is in a critical condition at a local hospital from the fearful pain, the shock and loss of blood, but hopes are entertained for her recovery.

UNEARTHING BODIES OF MINERS KILLED AT THE NORMAN PIT

Number of Dead Not Yet Known and May Exceed Fifteen.

Expected All Bodies Will Be Recovered Within Twenty-Four Hours.

Twenty Thousand Tons of Rock and Earth Fell Without Warning.

Virginia, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fifteen and perhaps seventeen lives were lost by a cave-in at the Norman open pit mine of the Oliver Iron Mining company here about 5:30 Saturday afternoon, when the earth gave away as a result of the thawing of ice and snow and frozen earth and tumbled into the open pit, falling without warning upon a gang of thirty men who were changing one of the tracks in the bottom of the pit. Many of these escaped, some injured, scampering to places of safety, but it is feared that the number stated was caught and perished.

So far five bodies have been recovered and it is stated by one of the engineers who escaped that there are probably ten or twelve bodies buried under the mass. As two tracks were covered by the debris the mining company has a force of men at work this morning with wheelbarrows clearing the least covered of the tracks. As soon as this is completed a steam-shovel will be run on the track and placed at work moving the pile of earth. A man who looked over the pile soon after the calamity said that he did not believe to exceed 20,000 tons of rock and earth fell into the pit.

The known dead thus far follow:
OSCAR PANONEN.
SIVERT GUSTAFSON.
MARTIN RACKOWICH.
JALMER RIMA.
STEVE MALINKOWICH.

The following are some known to be underneath the mass:
CHARLES MAKI,
PAUL PAULSON,
NICK SCUNDA,
GREGO BIONDICH,
TOM KARI,
MIKE GRATITICH,
SAM DAVIS,
JOHN KLUNCAR.

Among the injured reported are: Ole Anderson, Mike Vagonic, John Marjorie, Mike Bogovich.

CIVIL SERVICE REPORT MADE

There Are 384,088 Persons on List With 222,278 Classified.

Classification of First, Second and Third Class Postmasters Recommended.

Washington, March 13.—President Taft has received the twenty-seventh annual report of the civil service commission. The report states that the increasing effectiveness of the merit system has strengthened the public conviction that it is indispensable to economy and efficiency in governmental affairs.

The report shows 384,088 persons in the executive civil service, 222,278 of whom are in the competitive classified service. The number of competitive classified positions, which does not include mechanics and laborers at navy yards, is shown to have increased by 5,488. On the other hand, an opinion of the attorney general, rendered during the year, that mechanics and laborers at navy yards are not classified though they have been so regarded, gives an apparent decrease by taking them from the figures of the year. The commission urges the classification by executive order of these navy-yard employees, showing that the classification of similar positions in other parts of the service is beneficial, and that the navy-yard mechanics are performing

FALLS ACROSS THE CASKET OF DEAD

Boy Accused of Murder Greatly Shaken on Viewing Remains.

Stratford, N. H., March 13.—After looking into the faces of his mother, Mrs. George Bean, and his sister Nina, who were shot and killed at Maidstone, Vt., Thursday, Arthur Bean, the 18-year-old son and brother, who is charged with the murders, collapsed and almost fell across the caskets. The youth had been permitted to attend the funerals, but when the services were over was taken to the family home in Maidstone and locked up for another night with his guards.

Three daughters and another son of Mrs. Bean also attended the funeral, but no sign of recognition was exchanged between the accused man and the rest of the family.

Members of the family told friends that the cause of the tragedy was the disposal of the Bean home. The house was left to Arthur by his father, and the grandfather recently sent the young man a bill for labor and expenses about the house aggregating more than the house was worth. The youth objected to paying the bill, and members of the family took sides in the matter. It is said by one of the sisters that Arthur went to her house recently and, flourishing a revolver, declared: "Somebody will get hurt if they do not stop nagging me."

DECISION IS FAR REACHING

Every Corporation Having Capital Stock and Shares Is Assessed.

Tax Equivalent to One Per Cent on Net Income Above $5,000.

Law Has Been Attacked From All Points By Corporations.

Washington, March 13.—The corporation tax provisions of the Payne-Aldrich tariff act were sustained today as constitutional by the supreme court of the United States.

The court was unanimous in the corporation tax decision. Thereby a source of income of approximately $25,000,000 annually was assured to the government.

Of all the objections to the tax raised by suits in all parts of the country none of them was found sufficient to nullify the law. The court did not hold that the tax was not applicable to the real estate "trust" of Boston, which is organized not under any statute but under the common law. The law was held not applicable to the Minneapolis syndicate, a real estate concern, on the ground that it was "doing business" within the meaning of the law.

At 12:25 Justice Day began to deliver the decision of the supreme court on the constitutionality of the corporation tax. The effect of the deci-

FATAL SNOWSLIDE AT GOLD KING MINE

Great Mass Comes Down on Boarding House and Kills Four.

Denver, Colo., March 13.—Four were killed and one injured by a snowslide that destroyed the boarding house at Gold King mine near Gladstone, in Southwestern Colorado, Sunday. Wires to that part of the state are working badly and details are meager.

Information received from Telluride, eight miles west of Gladstone, states that hundreds of tons of snow and rock swept the boarding house into a deep canyon. The five occupants had no chance to escape.

Boardinghouse-manager F. E. Drue was held fast by the heavy timbers. Though not seriously injured, he was unable to extricate himself to go to the aid of his less fortunate companions, whose cries were heard for some time after the avalanche.

The dead:
MRS. F. E. DRUE, wife of Manager Drue.
MRS. CARRIE LEWIS.
SAMUEL HOAR.
MARIA FAHNZ.

Residents of Gladstone saw the slide, formed a rescue party and hurried through the deep snow to the Gold King. When they arrived all were dead except Drue. His position was such that he was not released until eight hours later. His feet and hands were badly frozen, but otherwise he was not seriously injured. Working beneath the masses of snow and ice which threatened to come down at any minute, the rescuers late succeeded in recovering the four bodies.

MRS. MELBER NOW IN GOOD SPIRITS

Alleged Murderess Shows Effects of Rest Over Saturday and Sunday.

Albany, N. Y., March 13.—The state continued its efforts today to prove Mrs. Edith Melber guilty of killing her son, George, by giving him carbolic acid in a lonely swamp near Albany, as charged. Buoyed up by the rest over Saturday and Sunday, Mrs. Melber appeared to be in good spirits when she entered the courtroom today.

Profiting by the experiences of last week, when men and women fought for admission to the courtroom, the authorities have arranged to exclude all but those properly authorized to be admitted.

Detective William F. McGuire of Rochester, the first witness today, told of arresting Mr. Melber in that city on Jan. 13.

When told a child had been found dead near Albany, the witness said Mr. Melber exclaimed:

"My God! If my boy has been murdered it must have been Fred Teller (a cousin) that did it. Do you think I would kill my own flesh and blood?"

The detective said Mrs. Melber had denied ever buying carbolic acid except in one instance, a year ago, when she purchased some of the drug in Schenectady. She told the officer she had changed the boy's clothing before giving him to Teller and described the suit in which the child was dressed when found. As to what motive Teller would have in killing the child, the witness said she told him the child was stubborn.

LUNCH CLUB IS FORMED

Free Thought Will Begin to Ooze From Commercial Club.

Insurgents, Socialists and Progressives Band Together in Friendly Discord.

It is a Saturday noon in the near future. A lurid glow suffuses the atmosphere about the Commercial club building. An aurora borealis plays about the flagstaff. Fourth avenue west and First street are packed with eager, wondering humanity. The ambulances are clanging down the street carrying away the dead and injured, weaklings who succumbed in the crush. A cordon of police fight back the mob. At a safe distance the newspaper photographers on the top of the Alworth building train their cameras at a window on the second story of the Commercial club building. Through the shattered panes there drops every little while a battered and limp body. From the room came raucous battle cries of freedom and patriots calling frenziedly for liberty or for death.

The Saturday Lunch club is in session.

At a luncheon last Saturday a galaxy of "advanced thinkers" organized the club which will meet again at the call of an executive committee which will be appointed by the chairman, Alfred Jaques. The club will meet for high-class conversation and a slight repast to guard against weariness of body because of super-activity of the medulla oblongata. All sorts and conditions of speakers will be asked to address the club. Anybody can say anything he likes. He can take a figurative sideswipe at Bill Taft or a running jump and land with both feet on the anatomy of T. Roosevelt. He can view with alarm the encroachments of predatory wealth, or he can point with pride to the unparalleled achievements of that Grand Old Party of Lincoln, McKinley and T. R., to say nothing of Bellwether Bill Lorimer.

There are about twenty members, and the membership will be increased. There are about twenty different political opinions represented. Some people who call themselves Socialists think others who term themselves Insurgent Republicans are too rabid, while some of the advanced Democrats find it difficult to start an argument with their Republican friends. No such difficulty is experienced with the Socialistic bunch, who will argue about anything, even though the other fellow agrees with them.

A meeting of two Kilkenny cats draped over a clothes line is a Quaker communion of silence and calm compared with what may come out of this roster of enemies of the public peace: First, there is Alfred Jaques, who has been a radical Democrat for so long that he is now almost a conservative. He was Democratic candidate for congress at the last election. Out in the country they thought he was trying to destroy established institutions, but in town, where folks know him, he got a plurality, and also carried the ward of his opponent. Mr. Jaques is chairman.

Another lawyer is E. M. Morgan, who fought some important legal battles for the city against the railroads. Mr. Morgan says he is a Republican. Bert Fesler, the present city attorney, is carrying on the same work with just as much fervor. Both find it difficult to agree to disagree. Another Democratic lawyer is Frank Crasswoller, who may be called a democratic Democrat. He was in the council once, but reformed. Watson S. Moore used to be in the council, too. He is a Republican and is also lined up with the so-called law and order forces. A worker in the same fight is E. L. Zimmerman, who runs the Weekly Record, a Prohibitionist paper, and sometimes gets out a sporting extra as a pleasant diversion. G. W. C. Ross is a lawyer, an advanced thinker and a disciple of Henry George and the single tax theory.

Henry F. Greene, an attorney, went down to Washington as civil service commissioner and came back with more progressive ideas than a Mexican insurrecto. Alex. G. McKnight says he is an insurgent Republican, but he has a stock of opinions on everything else, too. He was in the council for a while. George Ebert is a progressive Republican and is in the real estate business.

S. T. Harrison is a progressive Republican lawyer. Shades of Blackstone, but there are a bunch of them. Mr. Harrison believes in the initiative and referendum and the recall and a lot of other things. He is one of the fighters for a commission form of government for this town. John A. Keyes, an attorney, wears a red tie every day in the year and a crimson carnation on May 1. These are manifestations of Mr. Keyes' disposition toward his fellow men. Red, he says, is significant of the universality of human brotherhood. Needless to say, he is Duluth's leading Socialist. When he was in the state legislature he got through some of the first progressive legislation ever put on the statute books of this state.

And still they come. Bert Wheeler is a real estate man and a Prohibitionist. Strange, but true. Mr. Wheeler ran for the legislature recently and got the surprise of his life. He was almost elected in a district strongly Republican. Two progressives are: Dr. R. W. Boden and W. L. Smithies. Neither is quite sure whether he is a Democrat or a Republican. Arthur H. Krieger always manages to be about two laps ahead in the progressive race. When he is not busy slapping down a new-fangled roof he is clamping down an argument on some standpatter.

But enough of these lawyers, doctors and other gentlemen of leisure. Richard Jones is president of the Duluth Trades Assembly. Naturally, he is an exceedingly democratic thinker. He couldn't be otherwise and hold his job. The newspaper push is represented by John Stone Pardee, Allen P. Allensworth and Charles S. Mitchell.

Boy, turn in the riot call.

EARLY ATTACK ON COL. BOGEY

Augusta, Ga., March 13.—Starting in the third day of his brief vacation with an early attack on Col. Bogey, President Taft played the full eighteen hole course this morning. He was followed to the links by Secretary Norton, who had as guests three friends from Chicago.

Shortly after Mr. Taft came in from the course, it was said he had not so much as glanced at the papers in the proposed Morse pardon case. Reports reaching Augusta from New York that the president today would sign a pardon for the convicted banker now serving a term in the Atlanta federal prison, are entirely erroneous.

Papers presented as a basis for the Morse pardon are extremely voluminous and the president up to this time has not examined those documents. He insists on sifting every detail of evidence in all pardon applications or appeals for sentence commutation.

There is little likelihood that any action will be taken on either the Morse or Walsh cases until after Mr. Taft returns to Washington next week. The papers were brought along to be gone over if the president might feel so disposed, but there was no specific plan to take action at this time.

The most favorable recommendation the friends of Morse have expected, according to reports they have received from various sources, is a commutation of sentence to five years imprisonment. Thus commuted the bankers' term would not expire for several years.

N. Y. LEGISLATURE MAY ADJOURN SOON

Albany, N. Y., March 13.—Apparently satisfied that nothing short of the withdrawal of William F. Sheehan can end the deadlock over the election of a United States senator, some of the leaders are said to be considering the advisability of bringing about an early adjournment of the legislature.

They contend, it is reported, that each day's delay in the election of a senator is bringing down criticism on the Democratic party and one report has it that April 6, two days after the time fixed for convening the extra session of congress, is being considered as a tentative date for adjournment.

It has been suggested, according to capitol gossip, that an effort will be made to rush through as much important legislation as possible prior to the adjournment, leaving unfinished matters to be considered at an early session, which, it is believed, will be called by Governor Dix should adjournment be taken without breaking the senatorial deadlock.

CAST INTO JUAREZ JAIL

"Bill" Longstreet of Duluth Has Exciting Experience in Mexico.

William Longstreet of this city, known of hundreds of residents of Duluth, may play a part in some international complications, should there come trouble between Mexico and the United States, for "Bill" was seized by Mexican federal officers and cast into jail and held there, despite his protestations, until the American consul came to his rescue.

Mr. Longstreet, his wife and several members of "The Squaw Man" company, which went out from the office of the H. E. Pierce & Co., of this city, last week went over from El Paso to Juarez, across the Mexican border, to witness the bull fight and see some of the gambling games.

Having his camera with him it was only natural that the Duluth man should take some pictures. He made one of the mistakes of his life when he started to take a picture of the Mexican fort.

Quick as a flash he was nabbed by several Mexican federal officers, who had been watching with lowering and suspicious eyes the actions of the Americans. Right before the wondering eyes of Longstreet his camera was smashed, one of the officers jumping up and down on it. All the time they were talking excitedly in Mexican, gesticulating and pointing at Longstreet, Mrs. Longstreet and the several members of the company.

No explanation would go. Off to the vile jail was "Bill" marched, despite his protests and declarations that he had meant no harm. The federal officers believed that was a spy from the United States, taking photographs of the fort and learning secrets of the strength of the Mexican position in general.

They just naturally wouldn't believe what Longstreet said, though he is supposed to be a rather persuasive and eloquent person. It was not until the consul was communicated with and some regular form of procedure was gone through, that Longstreet was released from the jail and was allowed to pursue his wrathful way across the border to the good old U. S. A. which was on this particular occasion doubly welcome to William.

SOCIAL BILLS ARE DISCUSSED

A meeting of the central council of the Associated Charities was held this afternoon at Memorial hall in the courthouse.

The members discussed the bills that have been introduced at the legislature and also some additional bills that were prepared by the charity workers in the southern part of the state.

Courtenay Dinwiddie has returned from St. Paul, where he explained the laws and why it is desirable that they be passed. He thinks the chances for their passage are very good.

One bill which originated in the southern part of the state is deemed important. It requires that the close relations of a pauper be forced to care for him.

PROPERTY OWNERS APPEAL.

Claim They Should Not Be Assessed for Intersections on Sixth Street.

An appeal has been taken from the assessment levied by the board of public works for the improvement of Sixth street between Cascade park and Fourteenth avenue east. The property owners claim that they should not have been charged for the street intersections, alleging that the assessment was not made until after the passage of the charter amendment providing that the cost of the intersections should be paid by general taxation.

POLICEMAN DOES NOT HAVE TO TAKE ABUSE.

"Offisher, thersh a saloon wide open down thish street, and thish ish Sunday, the Sabbash day," said Albert Guze to Patrolman Hunter yesterday afternoon.

"Show me to it," said the cop, starting Guze in the direction from which he came, and lending a helping hand. And be it borne in mind that the policeman was not looking for a drink. He judged from the condition of his informant that there was a leak some place and he was anxious to find it.

Guze stopped in front of one of the down town drink emporiums and waved a wobbly finger toward the door, coupled with the information that the place was doing business on Sunday. The policeman tried the door and looked down the mahogany through the curtains. Not a thing was stirring. No one was in the place resting a foot on the brass railing, and even the bartender wasn't inside cleaning up. He told Guze so.

"You're a fool," was the unexpected reply, and a torrent of abuse followed.

The next minute Mr. Guze was on his way to the patrol box. He pleaded guilty to using profane language when arraigned in police court this morning and paid a fine of $5 and costs.

WILL LOSE BUSINESS

Employment Agents Say Twin Cities Will Gain By New Ordinance.

Big Companies Will Not Do Business in Duluth, They Say.

Radical action may be expected from several Duluth employment agencies, if the statement made this morning by a prominent agent is an indication of the feeling among those in the business.

This man stated that in the event of the passage of the labor office ordinance in its present form he would be forced to give up his business in this city and move to Minneapolis, where he was in business before coming to the Head of the Lakes.

In the opinion of Attorney Andrew Olsen, who is working in the interests of some of the employment agents, the passage of the ordinance in its present form would result in the loss to Duluth of an immense amount of business that is done at the present time in this city.

"A license is in cases of legitimate business a fee to pay for investigation and the proper supervision of that business on the part of the city or state," said Mr. Nelson. "The proposed license of $200 would give the city much more money than was necessary to provide for the salary of the investigating agent, and it should be remembered that he has other duties that have nothing to do with the employment agents.

"I have gone into the subject thoroughly and believe that the passage of the ordinance in its present form would result in the sensing of hundreds of orders to the employment offices of the Twin Cities, for the big firms who annually employ hundreds of men from this city will not be hedged in and restricted by a lot of useless technicalities that accomplish nothing and yet make it absolutely impossible to do business by the use of the telephone or telegraph. It would mean in fact that we are going back to old century methods of doing business."

It was stated today that in a large majority of cases fare is advanced to the laborers, which is impossible in the case of the state free employment bureau.

Patrolman A. Johnson lost his club and hat Saturday night when he attempted to arrest Charles Anderson for being drunk.

Some men with Anderson came to his assistance when the policeman tried to send him to headquarters and took him away. The patrolman also got assistance and Anderson, together with Gust Berg and John Tilberg, were brought to headquarters. Anderson was charged with being drunk and disorderly and the other two with interfering with an officer. They entered pleas of not guilty in police court this morning and will be tried this afternoon.

DULUTH IS LUCKY TOWN GETS UNITED DOCTORS

Directors Have Decided That This Is the Best Location For Their New Institute.

Details As to Location of Office and Date of Opening Will Be Announced Shortly.

Doctors Duckworth, Russell and Hover, the three directors of the United Doctors, who have been in the city several days looking for a site for their new Northwestern institute, have at last decided that Duluth is the most promising city in the state and will accordingly locate the institute, or office, here.

Duluth is certainly about as well equipped with doctors, hospitals and medical institutions of various kinds as any city of its size in the West. True, the large Eastern cities enjoy some advantages not offered here, yet our medical talent is not far behind them and enjoys an enviable reputation throughout the West.

But Duluth is always looking for advancement, always holding out a welcoming hand to any person or institution who will locate here and further the interests of her people, and it is a most royal welcome which awaits the United Doctors who announce that they are preparing to open a medical office in Duluth within a few days.

The United Doctors, as the name implies, is an association of expert medical specialists who have united to organize a new school of medicines, a new and more scientific and positive system of curing human ailments. For centuries the world has been full of different cults and isms in medicine; we had the old root and herb doctor with his bitter potions; the Allopath with bitter pills and quinine in heroic doses; the Homeopath with his triturations; the Osteopath, the Christian Scientist. We were doctored by heat, by electricity, by baths at Hot Springs, and by a multitude of men and methods. Some of the patients were cured and some died who should have been cured. It was impossible for the ordinary person to say which was the best method of treating disease and the physicians of the various schools were so biased that they could see good only in their own methods—all others were, necessarily, bad. Evidently there is good in all of them, for they all cure some cases, also there is bad in all of them for they all fail at times and allow misery to remain or death to come where a cure should be effected.

A tremendous stride forward was made when the association of United Doctors was formed. The founders of this association consisted of eminent medical specialists from the various schools of practice; Eclectics, Homeopaths, Allopaths, Regulars and Irregulars all met and agree to drop their prejudices and form a new system of treatment that would embrace all the good points of the old methods and leave out the bad. The result of the efforts of these world-famed specialists of the various schools was the wonderful system of treatment now used by the United Doctors. All this was not accomplished in a day or week, but has taken years of patient work by these specialists in their great institutes in the East; Homeopaths, Eclectics, Allopaths, working side by side, each throwing away his old ideas when he was convinced there was something better, until at last out of the old chaos and confusion, came the new and perfect system as is now used only by the United Doctors.

The cost to these specialists was great, not only in the labor of forming the new system of treatment, but also in the effort it cost them to ignore their pride in the various schools in which they were originally educated. But their reward has been great for they have seen health and hapiness restored to hundreds and thousands pronounced incurable by old methods.

As stated above, the United Doctors will open an institute in Duluth in a few days which will be the first of its kind in Minnesota. Details as to location and date of opening will be given in these columns soon.

STREET CLEANING FORCE IS BUSY

City Employes Will Give Duluth Thorough Renovation This Year.

The board of public works has a crew of men working on Superior street today. They will be kept on the job until the city's principal thoroughfare is in good shape and will then be transferred to other downtown highways. It is still almost too cold to do any flushing. The ice thaws during the middle of the day, but during the night it freezes again, making it impossible to do much effective work with the big hose.

The health department has not yet started to do any active spring cleaning work, but as soon as the snow is off the ground the energies of the whole force will be turned in this direction. The authorities state that Duluth is going to have the most thorough scouring it ever experienced, and to this end several extra sanitary inspectors will be put on temporarily.

Although the streets, alleys and back yards are in bad shape, the city is in good shape from a health standpoint. The contagious diseases are at a low ebb, and the officials say that nothing will do more to keep them down than a complete cleaning of the houses and buildings of the city.

AWAIT ACTION ON THE WILSON BILL

Committee on Commission Government Postpone Report.

The sub-committee of the charter commission, appointed to investigate the commission form of government, has done nothing the last few weeks.

The members are awaiting the action of the legislature upon a bill introduced by Senator Wilson of Minneapolis, clearing away several legal obstacles. In the course of its investigations the committee learned that under the Minnesota statutes the commission form might not be possible in this state. It was the original intention to start a test suit in the courts, but this was laid aside when Senator Wilson's bill was brought up.

TEACHERS WAIT FOR RESULTS

Success of Campaign Is Dependent Upon Legislative Action.

Duluth teachers are now quietly waiting for legislative action and for the report of the committee on schools and teachers at the next meeting of the board of education. The committee is still working on its report and is also rather anxiously awaiting any action that may be taken by the Duluth representatives in the legislature toward initiating legislation that will allow the board to provide more funds for the fund from which the salaries of the teachers are drawn.

Members of the board and several of the teachers met Representative C. A. Congdon and other representatives in the legislature Saturday and placed the situation before them. What action will be taken is not known, but some steps toward removing the 8-mill limit from the general fund are expected.

The teachers are greatly encouraged by the support given them in their campaign for higher wages. Few taxpayers have been heard to express themselves against the proposed increases and if they can be granted without the total tax levy being increased it is believed that no criticism will be directed at the board on account of the action.

IRISHMEN TO CELEBRATE

St. Patrick's Day Will Be Quietly Observed in Duluth.

Senator Boyle to Speak at Cathedral Parish Entertainment.

Next Friday, St. Patrick's day, will be quietly observed by Duluth people of Irish birth or descent. There will be no public observance of the day in Duluth, but as in other cities where there is an appreciable number of Irishmen, the day of Ireland's patron saint will not be passed by without notice.

At Sacred Heart cathedral, Friday morning, there will be a solemn high mass at 9 o'clock, with special music in keeping with the character of the day. Rev. Patrick Lydon will preach the sermon.

In the afternoon and evening at Sacred Heart auditorium the young people of the parish will produce a play, "Shamrock and Rose." An added attraction at the evening performance will be an address by Senator James P. Boyle of Eveleth, one of the most eloquent young orators in Northern Minnesota.

A number of Duluth people will attend the banquet of the Irish-American club at Superior, where Senator Boyle will also be one of the speakers. Other speakers are W. D. Lawyer of St. Paul and W. P. Crawford, who are also well known in Duluth.

IT REPRESENTS YEARS OF WORK

Much Labor in Preparing Specimens Secured By Roosevelt.

Washington, March 13.—All possible speed is being used by the Smithsonian institution in preparing the specimens secured by the Roosevelt African expedition.

This is the reply made by officials of the institution to the declaration made several days ago by Col. Roosevelt that he hoped congress would appropriate sufficient money to enable the institution to prepare the collection for immediate exhibition.

It may require two or three years to complete the work, it is said by officials of the institution.

As an illustration of the innumerable details of the work which have made progress appear slow, it was pointed out that one phase of the work, namely the classification of the species and the exact determination of their sexual, individual and geographic variations, means months of study on the part of Dr. Edmund Heller, who before it is finished will have to visit other museums in the United States and in Europe to make numerous comparisons.

DECISION IN OLD LAND CASE

William H. Murphy Wins Victory in United States Supreme Court.

Washington, March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Chief Justice White in the supreme court today denied an application for a writ of certiorari in the cases of William H. Shea vs. William H. Murphy and Malinda Tanner vs. William H. Murphy, the application for review being on the decision of the cofiurt of appeals for the Eighth district, arising in St. Louis county, Minn.

This decision ends litigation of long standing regarding certain valuable lands on Cedar Island Lake.

The parties involved were William H. Shea, Mike Cronin, Malinda Tanner and William H. Murphy, and the litigation was complicated. At the termination of the suit Mr. Shea is left with 111 acres, Malinda Tanner and Mike Cronin with 80 acres between them, and William H. Murphy with 111 acres, as a result of this last decision. The 111 acres which Mr. Murphy secures was the only land in dispute in this case. Shea won a victory in the local United States court before Judge Morris, but lost on an appeal to the circuit court of appeals. A writ of certiorari has now been refused and the case is ended.

OFFICERS ARE AWAITING ORDERS

Militiamen Expect to Be Called to Texas at Any Time.

It is very probable that within a few days a number of Duluth militia officers will receive official orders from Washington to proceed to Texas, where they will be used during the trouble on the border.

Saturday they were officially notified to be ready on a moment's notice. Since the orders came, the men have been ready to go, and they expect the second orders at any time.

The government is short of officers. There are men in plenty, but so many officers are stationed about the country at posts from which they cannot well be taken that the matter of officers is becoming serious and the militia is being called upon. It has been decided which Duluth officers are to go, but the names are withheld until the orders come. Six in all will go, if they are called.

The government inspection was to have been held this week. Capt. Branford of Fort Snelling was to have had charge of it, but he has been ordered to Texas, and it is probable that the inspection will be delayed for some time. He was to have examined the Eveleth militia tonight, Hibbing tomorrow night and the Duluth companies Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights.

WHAT TEACHERS DRAW IN SEATTLE

Minimum Salary $10 More Than the Maximum in Duluth.

With a minimum salary of $810 per year and a maximum of $1,050 for grade teachers, the Seattle school officials are able to limit new teachers engaged to those having a normal school education and at least two years' successful experience in teaching in graded schools, according to information received by the Duluth teachers.

Newly appointed teachers in Seattle are scheduled as follows: With two years' grade experience, $810; with three years' grade experience, $870; with four years or more grade experience, $930. Board and room may be had in Seattle for from $30 to $35 a month.

The Duluth teachers point to the fact that the lowest salary paid teachers in Seattle is $10 a year higher than the highest salary paid grade teachers in Duluth. With such salaries, Seattle is able to impose requirements as to applicants that insure the election of only competent teachers and the maintenance of a high standard of efficiency in the teaching corps.

NO CHANGE IN DRIVERS' STRIKE

Wells-Fargo Men and Chauffeurs Have Not Quit Their Positions.

New York, March 13.—There was no move by drivers of other express companies today to join the strike begun by Adams Express company employes on Saturday. It was said that the Wells-Fargo men had decided not to go out in any event.

Expectations that a strike of 600 taxicab chauffeurs would begin today were not fulfilled this morning. The companies sent out their machines as usual.

Howard Biggs, secretary of the union, said that the men had had no negotiations for a settlement under way and company officials declared that none would be entered into on the company's initiative. If the men persisted in remaining out, the fight would be one to a finish, it was said.

The first real disorder of the strike came today when a crowd of men made an attack on an express wagon manned by a driver and two helpers. The crowd, which had gathered in Park avenue near Fifty-seventh street, threw stones and other missiles and the police had difficulty in dispersing the rioters. One arrest was made.

SUPERIOR HAMMOND SQUARE ADDED TO PARKS

New Beauty Spot Will Be Improved—Boulevard Extension Planned.

The J. H. Hammond Memorial park at Twentieth street and Hammond avenue will be made one of the beauty spots of the city, according to members of the park board and city officials. The work of fixing up the square will be started as the ground breaks up this spring.

Shrubbery and other plant ornamentations will be installed and a memorial fountain or statue of John H. Hammond, one of the early Superior pioneers, will also be erected. The block which serves as a site for the new park has been filled in to the street level with earth and everything is ready for the grading work.

The park board also has other work about the city. It is planned to complete the work of the boulevard extension from Billings park to South Superior this year and also to beautify Nemadji park at the East end.

SETTLERS FROM HOLLAND.

Colony of Dutch Farmers Expected to Help Develop Douglas County.

Superior men interested in the development of Douglas county and Northern Wisconsin will make an effort to secure as settlers some of the 8,000 Holland farmers, who are coming from the old country to America. Many are bound for points in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa and North Dakota.

The immigrants, it is said, are being driven to this country by conditions imposed by the rich land owners of Holland. The Hollanders have a reputation as being excellent tillers of the soil and a strong effort will be made to interest them in the advantages of Northern Wisconsin.

MADE BY WOMEN VOTERS.

People often ask what the women voters in the states where they have the suffrage have accomplished. According to a writer in the Nautilus those of Colorado have "an inspiring record." This writer summarizes it as follows:

Laws forbidding insuring the lives of children under 10 years of age; establishing a State Home for Dependent Children, three of the five members of the board to be women; requiring that at least three of the six members of county visiting boards shall be women; a pure food law; making mothers joint guardians of their children with the fathers; raising the age of protection for girls to 18; establishing a State Industrial Home for Girls, three of the five members of the board to be women; removing the emblem from the Australian ballot, our nearest approach to adopting an educational qualification for suffrage; establishing an indeterminate sentence for prisoners; requiring one woman physician on the staff of the insane asylum; establishing parental or truant schools; providing for the care of the feeble minded; for free eleemosynary institutions by the state board of charities; requiring in public schools lessons on humane treatment of animals; making the Colorado Humane society a state bureau of child and animal protection; making education compulsory for all children between 8 and 16 (with a few proper exceptions); providing for the examination of the eyes, ears, teeth and breathing capacity of school children; making father and mother joint heirs of deceased child; providing that union high schools may be formed by uniting school districts adjacent to a town or city; establishing a state traveling library commission to consist of five women of the State Federation of Women's clubs, appointed by the governor; making the methods of the sweatbox in connection with the examination of prisoners a felony; providing that any person employing a child under 14 in a mine, smelter, mill, factory or underground works shall be punished by imprisonment in addition to a fine; requiring joint signature of husband and wife to every chattel mortgage, sale of household goods used by the family, or conveyance or mortgage of the homestead; forbidding children of 18 or under to work more than eight hours a day in any mill, factory, store or other occupation that may be deemed unhealthful; providing that no woman shall work more than eight hours a day at work requiring her to be on her feet; making it a criminal offense to contribute to the delinquency of a child; making it a misdemeanor to fail to support aged or infirm parents; prohibiting the killing of doves except in August; abolishing the binding out of girls committed to the industrial school; girls to be committed till 21 and then if considered reformed to be paroled—and many others.

In Denver the women voters have also secuerd ordinances placing drinking fountains in the streets, garbage receptacles at the corners and seats at the transfer stations of the street cars, forbidding expectoration in public places, parking certain avenues and planting trees.

RELIC OF LOCUSTS OF 1885.

Bethlehem correspondence Philadelphia Record: James O. Kichline of North Bethlehem has a unique relic of the invasion in 1885 of the seventeen-year locusts in this vicinity. When locusts by the million overran the country there he spent his spare time gathering the insects. Then at his leisure he constructed out of them a wreath and a star. He took a year to do this, and in the construction of the wreath used many thousands of locusts.

The wreath itself is composed entirely of locusts' wings, arranged in flower and leaf fashion. The star's center is also composed of locusts' wings, while the six points are made of whole locusts.

The background of the star is made of leaves of locusts' wings. The wreath and star stand two feet high by three feet wide, and this piece is but one of the many novelties made during his lifetime by Mr. Kichline, who is 74 years old.

A CLOCK OF 1790.

Westminster Gazette: An interesting specimen of a long clock, made in 1790, is owned by a gentleman at Lutterworth. It has an oval face, a hand which points to the days of the week, completing the round in seven days; one which shows the true dead beat, and another which points to the chimes and quarters.

On the upper part of the clock is a small orchestra, which includes a flute, a 'cello and two violins, and a boy and girl in addition to three singers. The hours and the quarters are struck and every three hours a tune is played "three times over either on the bells alone, the lyricord or on both together," while the three figures beat time and the boy and girl dance to the music.

WRONG TRUNK ON HONEYMOON.

Kansas City Star: To the newly married couple, somewhere in Kansas City, whose names are Clifford and Addie, it may be welcome news that the brand new trunk which they packed for their honeymoon at Macomb, Ill., has arrived and is waiting for them at the union depot.

The story is told by three cheese cloth banners tacked to the trunk, on one of which is the following inscription:

When the happy words were spoken
Their hearts were light and gay;
They left this trunk on the platform
And checked the wrong one away.

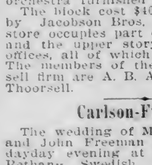
FAIR



There was just a mite too much of the lingering breath of winter in the air of yesterday would have been a great day for a fashion parade. As it was, a glad chorus of fortunate Duluthians sang "Little Old Duluth is Good Enough for Me," and thanked the fates that they were living. If anybody doubted that spring is near at hand, he must be disillusioned now. Today is a little frosty, but fair, and continued fair weather is predicted for tonight and tomorrow.

Fair and rather chilly weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 6:25 and it will set at 6:10 this evening, giving eleven hours and forty-five minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the last twenty-four to forty-eight hours rain or snow fell throughout the Lake region, Ohio valley, North Atlantic states, Western Missouri, Southwestern Iowa, Kansas, Colorado and Utah. Somewhat colder weather prevails this morning over the southeastern Lake region, Eastern Canada, the Ohio valley and greater portion of the Mississippi valley. The low pressure in the extreme Northwest has caused higher temperature over Western Canada, the Dakotas and Minnesota. Moderate temperatures will rule in St. Louis and Douglas counties during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, March 13.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Tuesday:

Wisconsin—Fair tonight and Tuesday; rising temperature.

Upper Michigan—Generally fair tonight and probably Tuesday; warmer in east and south portions tonight.

Minnesota—Fair tonight and Tuesday; moderate temperature.

Iowa—Fair tonight and Tuesday; warmer tonight and in east portion Tuesday.

North Dakota—Fair tonight and Tuesday; moderate temperature.

South Dakota—Fair tonight and Tuesday; warmer in east portion tonight.

Montana—Fair tonight and Tuesday; moderate temperature.

Shippers' forecast: Protect thirty-six hour shipments of perishables against temperatures about 32 deg. in Eastern North Dakota, Northern Minnesota and Northern Wisconsin.

There was a mite too much of the lingering breath of winter in the air of yesterday would have been a great day for a fashion parade. As it was, a glad chorus of fortunate Duluthians sang "Little Old Duluth is Good Enough for Me," and thanked the fates that they were living. If anybody doubted that spring is near at hand, he must be disillusioned now. Today is a little frosty, but fair, and continued fair weather is predicted for tonight and tomorrow.

Fair and rather chilly weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 6:25 and it will set at 6:10 this evening, giving eleven hours and forty-five minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the last twenty-four to forty-eight hours rain or snow fell throughout the Lake region, Ohio valley, North Atlantic states, Western Missouri, Southwestern Iowa, Kansas, Colorado and Utah. Somewhat colder weather prevails this morning over the southeastern Lake region, Eastern Canada, the Ohio valley and greater portion of the Mississippi valley. The low where American physicians were in readiness to assist the Mexican army surgeons. If any rebels were killed or wounded, they were taken back to the mountains by their comrades.

After mystifying both the Mexican officers and the americans on the border for a week, Blanco suddenly broke out of the canyon leading from Canis' Springs and engaged the federal troops that had been rushed into Augua Prieta Saturday night on a special train under command of Col. Mora. Except for a few prisoners taken by the federals the rebels retreated in good order. It is understood that Blanco's entire force did not participate in the engagement.

Blanco's first move was to throw out a skirmish line for the purpose of drawing the federals into action to ascertain their strength.

The battle lasted an hour and it is believed that the retreat that followed was for the purpose of drawing the federals into the canyon where the main body of Blanco's force was stationed. The federals, however, after a spirited pursuit, rallied and returned to Augua Prieta, refusing to be entrapped.

Late last night Capt. Johnson received a telephone message from Commissario Vasquez, stating that Blanco's forces were again advancing on Augua Prieta.

"The United States cavalry has turned out, and will immediately take up its position on the border.

Insurrectos Cut to Pieces.

Mexico City, Mex., March 13.—A body of 120 insurrectos was cut to pieces by state rurales at San Bartolt, Puebla, Saturday, according to information received here. More than 50 were killed, 11 seriously wounded and 27 captured. Owing to the fact that the rurales have adopted the revolutionists' tactics of ambushing their enemy, none of their number was killed and only a few wounded.

Col. Guerrero, in command of the rurales, upon learning that the rebels were marching to attack the municipality of Nativitas, sent 100 of his men to meet them. Fifty others were ordered to cut off their retreat.

Rebels Ambushed.

The first force selected a favorable position overlooking a ravine through which the rebels must pass, and when they were in the trap, opened a merciless fire upon them. The rebels are said to have made a stubborn fight, but at the end of half an hour were completely demoralized.

Reports from Chihuahua delayed several days in transmission relate a distressing state of affairs in that city. Owing to the closing down of some industrial establishments and the running on short time of others, owing to shortage of coal, many workmen have been thrown out of employment and are facing starvation. A measure to their advantage, however, is one initiated by Governor Ahumada, requiring all merchants to present invoices of the provisions in their possession, and regulating the sale of the same, as to quantities to individual purchasers and as to price.

Many of the merchants were said to have advanced their prices 30 per cent. These have been compelled to reduce their quotations to a fixed schedule which is not greatly above normal.

Lack of workmen to prepare for the planting of crops presages a shortage of foodstuffs during the coming season.

REBELS CAPTURE TOWN.

Insurrectos Take Navoja With the Loss of One Killed.

El Paso, Tex., March 13.—A special dispatch to the Herald this morning from Navoja, Sonora, states that there was a spirited engagement at that place Saturday between 150 insurrectos and 50 federals. The insurrectos succeeded in capturing the town with a loss of one killed and two wounded.

The federals rallied near the town and are awaiting reinforcements. It is said, however, that the insurrectos had burned the railroad bridge to prevent the arrival of more federals.

DENIED BY LIMANTOUR.

Mexican Minister Says He Has Not Conferred With Maderos.

New York, March 13.—Jose y Limantour, Mexican minister of finance, made a positive denial today of the reports that he had been conferring with the Maderos and their associates here, with the view of bringing about a cessation of hostilities. Mr. Limantour was apprised of reports that the United States is preparing to send an additional 20,000 troops to the Southwest. The minister said:

"I have not received any official information that such a decision has been reached by the United States government. The report may be true, but there have been no developments in my country during the last few days to warrant doubling the forces which the United States government originally announced it was its intention to mobilize in the Southwest for military maneuvers.

"Of course, your government has the right to send as many troops as it pleases to that section of the United States, but I agree with Prof. Wheeler of Yale university—who, by the way, has given a very clear idea of Mexico's prerogatives as a sovereign both with respect to the direction of her international policy and the management of her internal affairs—that not even 20,000 troops will be needed to stop the insurrectionists from smuggling arms and other supplies across the Texas border.

"My attention has been called to vague rumors that since arriving in New York, I have had conferences with the Maderos and their associates with a view to bringing about a cessation of hostilities in Mexico. There can be no negotiations with insurrectionists or consideration of their alleged grievances except that they first lay down their arms. Therefore, I can only emphatically deny that there have been such negotiations in New York in behalf of my government in which I or any other representative, has taken part. As I have previously stated, also if the insurrectos were to surrender absolutely, my government would then undertake to study the broad questions involved in the alleged grievances of the insurrectionists."

FISHER ASSUMES SECRETARYSHIP

Succeeds Richard A. Ballinger as Secretary of the Interior.

Washington, March 13.—The responsibility of the secretaryship of the department of the interior was shifted shortly before 10 o'clock today when Walter L. Fisher of Chicago, took the oath of office as head of that department, succeeding Judge Richard A. Ballinger, who retired.

The oath was administered in the private office of the secretary by W. B. Acker, a division chief in the department, acting in the capacity of notary public. The formality was entirely without ceremony and only the immediate principals to the change were present. Following the oath-taking, felicitations were exchanged between the new and the retiring secretary.

The new secretary spent the morning receiving bureau heads and division chiefs of the department.

Col. Roosevelt left for Austin, Fort Worth and Dallas early in the day. The colonel is scheduled to speak at each place.

TWO GIRLS ARE JAILED

Love of Finery Caused Them to Steal From Stores.

Plead Guilty When Arraigned on Charge of Shoplifting.

"We didn't care anything about the money we could get; all we wanted was the clothes," said Olga Manttary and Jennie Ollila, the two waitresses arrested for shoplifting Saturday, after they had been arraigned in police court this morning.

They entered pleas of guilty to the charge of petit larceny and were fined $50 and costs with the alternative of thirty days in the county jail. They were unable to pay their fines and will probably have to serve the time.

They said that they knew they were doing wrong, but that they didn't think they would be detected. Both said that they started in a small way, but wanted more clothes than they could afford to buy with the wages they earned.

The two young women were arrested Saturday afternoon on a charge of stealing three skirts and a shirtwaist from the Leader store on Superior street. One of the clerks noticed them acting suspiciously and watched them. They were seen to take the goods and when they reached the door the clerk stopped them with the accusation that they had not paid for some of the goods which they had with them. They didn't deny it and waited while an officer at headquarters was notified.

At the station they confessed to the matron that they had been shoplifting since Christmas. They said that their room on West Second street was filled with goods that they had stolen. The police brought a considerable quantity of goods to the station, where most of them have been identified by local merchants. The girls said that they started in a small way from hearing other girls talk of having successfully pilfered various articles. They appear to be penitent and one of them says that she is glad she was caught, as she didn't know how far they might have gone.

FUR SHIPMENTS ARE HEAVY

Many Skins Being Shipped Through Duluth to London Market.

Fur shipments from the Canadian Northwest through Duluth are exceptionally heavy this spring, judging from the consignments received over the Canadian Northern and sent out on the other lines. Most of the shipments are to London, being routed via New York, but shipments to American fur houses are also heavy.

Although the fur supplies are said to be diminishing, the Canadian Northwest is still supplying pelts of almost every fur bearing animal peculiar to that region. The shipments passing through Duluth show a wide variety of furs of the best known kinds, besides some of the rarer pelts.

ACID AND WHISKY TELL THE TALE

West Duluth Man Found Dead in Superior Boathouse.

John L. Swanson, formerly of West Duluth, where his wife now resides, was found dead in a boathouse at the foot of "L" avenue, Central Park, Superior, Saturday afternoon. A bottle of carbolic acid and a flask of whisky were found beside him and there were evidences that he took his own life.

Swanson was 53 years old and is survived by a wife, who lives at 327½ Central avenue, West Duluth, and one son, George, in Superior. The latter is a driver for the Star laundry. Swanson worked at Allouez and last lived at the Kommers hotel.

He was last seen by his son nine days ago, but others reported seeing him Thursday afternoon. It is believed that Thursday evening he committed suicide and when found Saturday afternoon there were indications that he had been dead for two days.

No motive for suicide other than that of temporary insanity is known. Capt. S. T. Baker of the steamer Mascotte and E. Burnson found the body in a toatsouse owned by Congressman L. L. Lenroot. The funeral was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from Down's undertaking rooms, Superior, with burial at Greenwood cemetery.

BUSY SEASON FOR BOAT OWNERS

Many Already Beginning to Put Their Craft in Shape.

West Duluth boat owners are getting ready for an active season and yesterday a number were out straightening up their boathouses on the Sixty-third avenue west slip and in other places along the bay front.

The freezing of the water under several of the houses has moved them out of place and the recent thaw has enabled the owners to remedy this.

It is reported that a new sand dock and slip is to be made at the foot of Sixty-second avenue west by an Ashland concern. Some of the boathouses on this slip have already been moved and dredging work will commence as soon as the ice is out.

This will be a welcome improvement to the boat owners. The river bottom is shallow at this point and it will be necessary to do considerable dredging in order to get from the shore to the main river channel.

George Govett expects to build another new launch this spring in the 26-foot class. Mr. Govett is a joint owner of the Hazel. He expects to have a new boat that will give all other crafts in the 26-foot class a merry race.

Orders for a number of new boats have been placed with F. H. Wade, who said today that a number of them would arrive here within the next few weeks so as to be in readiness for the opening of the season.

Ingwall Johnson is having a 23-foot semi-speed boat made. It will be ready the first of the season.

THREATENED BY THE FLAMES

Fire Nearly Destroys Plant of Duluth Tar Company.

A fire, set by boys, threatened to destroy the plant of the Duluth Tar company on South Fifty-ninth avenue west near the bay front, yesterday morning. Only by hard work on the part of the firemen from No. 8 department was the blaze held in check.

The blaze was discovered in a pile of rubbish, consisting of waste and other by-products in the manufacture of tar, about 200 feet from the plant. It was the intention of the workmen at the plant to burn the rubbish some day when the wind was blowing in the right direction.

The boys evidently overlooked this requirement and after their bonfire had gained considerable headway, they were unable to do anything with it. An alarm was turned in at 9:30 o'clock. The fire had burned up close to the plant when the firemen got there.

The names of some of the boys are known and their arrest may follow.

FEAR WEST DULUTH MAN HAS BEEN KILLED.

Noah Godmere, aged 55, of 606 North Sixtieth avenue west, is missing and his relatives are becoming uneasy.

He left West Duluth, Nov. 8 for the woods and it is feared that he has met with death or an accident. He was called "Jim" and is described as being 5 feet, 8 inches tall, with dark curly hair slightly tinged with gray and a sandy mustache.

In the lumber camps, he worked as a cook and also as a tie maker.

ARRESTED FOR ASSAULTING WIFE

West Duluth Man Claimed to Have Beaten Her in Public.

Frank Himes was arrested this afternoon for assaulting his wife. The complaint was sworn to by a neighbor, Arthur Hallene, who charges that yesterday afternoon Himes slapped his wife, Mrs. Himes, and then dragged here around on the sidewalk and otherwise misused her.

Himes and his wife have not been living together, the police say. Himes has been boarding at the home of a widow residing on Fifty-eighth avenue west and the alleged trouble is said to have taken place in front of her home.

Himes, his wife, the widow and the neighbors will be in court before Judge Flack this afternoon and their differences will be aired.

MUSICAL DISH PANS.

New York Sun: "For a long time," said the man who sleeps mornings, "I have been hoping that some one would arise and invent dishpans in E flat and kettles in G major. The family above me apparently always washes its dinner dishes the morning after.

"Yet I do not know that the bang of a dishpan is as bad as the Mozartian melodies dispensed by the occasional hand organ. I have about come to the conclusion, however, that two generations hence mankind will be able to relish any metallic noise as music. There is Richard Strauss, you know, and Claude Debussy. We have got wonderfully used to sheer cacophony and some of us maintain, with what truth I do not know, that we like it.

"If I thought that in twenty or thirty years we would be able to enjoy the dishpan and kettle motifs I would never again complain. But I think that since we are making such strides in the direction of enjoying harsh sounds the inventors might meet us half way by inventing sets of housewares keyed to a diatonic scale."

DISTANCE COVERED IN A WALTZ.

Chicago Tribune: Every one has observed that the lady or the beau who objects strenuously to taking any sort of exercise and pleads incapacity to endure the strain will dance through a full and exhaustive program, being in this fashion seduced into a most vigorous and, under proper conditions beneficial, exercise.

It seems that in a normal little dance the parties travel something like eleven and a half miles, and do it in much more strenuous fashion than they would if they calmly set out to walk the same distance. An average waltz takes you over something like three-quarters of a mile, and the various old fashioned square dances are at least half a mile long.

To make dancing beneficial the room should be thoroughly ventilated so that a constant supply of fresh oxygen is available for the overworked heart.

Moab the Isolated.

Christian Herald: Most travelers who visit the Holy land content themselves with a visit to that restricted part west of Jordan. The mountainous regions of Moab, as seen by them from Jerusalem, are lost in the purple haze that constantly hangs over them, and the great stretches beyond are covered in mystery. This is true partly because of the fewer historical incidents connected with the eastern regions, but mainly on account of the great abyss of the Jordan valley that has always acted as a barrier. Few who descend into the valley, 1,300 feet below sea level, undertake to climb the hills beyond, which rise to a height of 3,000 feet.

The most striking thing about Moab has always been its isolation. However much connected by race and vicinity with their western kinsmen, the dwellers in eastern Palestine have always been distinct and their lands have never been occupied by the nations on the west except through acts of aggression and conquest.

Even today this isolation is still felt. In giving an idea of their knowledge of present day geography one of them remarked: "There are only four seas in the world, two of which are the Dead sea and the Sea of Galilee." Both of these are in sight of their own hills.

MAPLE SUGAR TIME IS HERE

Making Sugar Is Becoming an Extensive Industry Near Duluth.

Some Suggestions in Regard to Tapping Trees From an Expert.

Maple sugar time is approaching and settlers in the vicinity of Duluth are preparing for the annual drawing of sap and manufacture of sugar. Although the industry is not as great in this vicinity as in some sections of the country a large amount of sugar is manufactured near Duluth and the homesteaders who add to their income by engaging in the industry is increasing.

A great amount of sugar is made at G. G. Hartley's Island farm every year and some suggestions made by John H. Black, the superintendent, in writing to a Duluth man are valuable.

The weather governs the time to tap trees, but it is usually about the first of April in this section. Warm weather must draw the frost from the tree and start the sap up. A method often followed to determine the time, is the hacking of a white birch tree so that the time the sap begins to flow may be determined.

Maple trees should be tapped on the smooth part of the tree on the sunny side, three feet from the bottom. The hole should be bored through the white of the tree only one and a half inches and the spout should be driven tight. One spout should be provided to the bucket. A tree one foot in diameter will stand two buckets. When two buckets are hung, they should be on opposite sides of the tree. The trees should be tapped in thrifty places, where there are no cuts or hacks above or below.

For boiling, a shallow pan should be used, as two inches of sap in a pan will steam off faster than six. The amount of sap running in will be governed by the amount evaporated. At all times, two inches should be carried in the pan for safety, as sap will burn very easily after it gets thick.

A pan can be made by 3x6 being set edgeways and galvanized iron nailed to the bottom to make it water tight. A pan three feet wide and eight or ten feet long will boil the sap from 100 trees. A stone arch should be made, mortared upright and the pan set on that. A large store barrel can be set near the arch, with a faucet and hose to feed into the pan. The sap should be run into the front end of the pan or over the hottest fire. When the sap is boiled, the product gets thick, it should weigh eleven pounds to the gallon. The sap when boiled should be run through a heavy, white flannel.

The boiling can be done in a kettle, but in a shallow pan the sap boils much better.

THE THEATER IN JAPAN.

New York Sun: The theater regulations now being enforced by the police of Tokio, not without much protest on the part of the lower class newspapers, have little in common with the sporadic attempts of the New York policemen to determine what constitutes a costume in a Sunday performance or what lines in a new musical show are beyond the limit. Theatergoers as well as actors under the theatrical profession in this country will be surprised to hear that one of the reforms instituted by the police in the Japanese theaters is the prohibition imposed upon the actors against leaving the stage and visiting their friends in the audience between acts.

The Japanese theater is one of the few places left in the empire where the foreigner may go to study the ways of the old Japan, which has largely passed away during the last half century. The stage is very like that in Western countries in construction and in the arrangement of the scenery, save that the important actresses make their entrances over an elevated causeway that runs the length of the pit from the back of the theater over the heads of the audience. And when a ghost walks down this narrow passage to the wailing minor notes of a flute, the dramatic effect is necessarily prolonged.

But the pit itself, sometimes surrounded by boxes in a gallery, is far different from that in Occidental theaters. It resembles a checkerboard, being divided into little stalls, each defined by a low fence, built at the top so that travel from stall to stall may be accomplished by catlike walking on the fence tops. Spectators are shown to their stalls over these perilous passages, a delicate judgment of the foot and a stable center of gravity being the necessary elements of sale transit. The stalls are unprovided with seats; they are carpeted with matting and cushions to soften the floor are carried by the theater-goers themselves. Every one checks his shoes, instead of hat and coat, in the lobby outside.

Because some Japanese performances begin at 8 o'clock in the morning and continue until long after dark a necessary provision against famine has to be made by the audience, and in fact that custom probably grew the habit of the actors to make between the acts visits to the stalls. When a party prepares for a pleasant day at the theater the women folk carry luncheons, tea caddies and, if the party is sufficiently broad, gourds of sake. In the larger theaters of Tokio and the modern cities of the empire tea houses situated conveniently near the theaters have runners circulating through the audience to take orders for more elaborate menus than can be carried in a handkerchief, and between the acts boys bearing large trays pass with sure feet over the edges of the stalls.

Up to the present it has always been a mark of courtesy for an appreciative member of the audience to send an invitation to his favorite matinee hero back of the wings to come down to his stall when opportunity affords and partake of a little refreshment. Actors were always eager to accept such invitations and as a consequence it used to be the regular thing to see the man who has just been killed in a terrific sword combat with a mighty emperor rise in his gore, climb down from the stage at the end of an act and squat in one of the stalls over the steaming sake jug. Such conduct did not in the least detract from the dramatic effect; it even put the actor on a pleasurable footing of reality.

Now the police regulations forbid this social intercourse between audience and actors on the ground that such familiarity is bad for the patrons in the audience. This attitude is a return to an ancient estimation of actors as a class, which was once as severe as the old Puritan judgment. Until very recent years the census takers used to enumerate actors under the clasification of beasts; they were considered lower than the lowest class of laborers.

The Tokio police have taken another step in reform which is in effect a censorship of all plays offered for production. All plays offered not in accordance with the old dramatic principle of punishing the bad and rewarding the good are barred. There are to be no slant eyed Jimmy Valentines on the Tokio boards.

The old moralities which the police now stamp as being exclusively the ones from a dramatic point of view had always up to recent years been the stock motive of the Japanese drama. Very thin was the problem that the actors with their wildly rolling eyes presented; very naive the development of situations.

All heroes were very, very good and all villains enormously bad. Expiation of wickedness came through the visible lopping off of limbs and the scattering of gore in satisfying quantity; never through any profundities of regeneration. A demon with knobs on his head and the tusks of a wild boar might prance through five hours of wickedness, but he did not see the light in a mirror held up by a sweet ingenue; he was boiled in oil off stage with appropriate expressions of pain.

In comparatively recent years students at the universities began to attempt Shakespeare at private performances. The novelty spread to the professional stage and versions of "The Merchant of Venice" and "Othello" were produced. The educated classes who knew English affected to enjoy these departures from the classic drama of olden times.

Then Japanese playwrights who had studied English or French literature and had caught to some extent the spirit of the drama of London and Paris began to write imitative dramas of Western flavor, in which the principle of punishing the bad and rewarding the good was not always employed. Several of these plays were distinctly decadent.

This is one of many indications of a decadence in the moral tone of the Japanese which have alarmed the government and excited the fear of some of the old survivors of the feudal days of purity and lofty ideals. Shortly after the war a strict censorship of books was established by the government because of the spread of European atheism and decadence. Now comes the ruling out of plays considered dangerous and the complaint of the Yorodzu Choho, a newspaper of the sensational type, that "the tyranny of the government has even descended to little things."

THE SEVENTH SON IN BELGIUM.

London Globe: In the early days of the reign of the late King Leopold of Belgium a seventh son was born to a Brussels woman, and when the king heard of it and was told that the boy was the seventh successive one and that no girl had come to the family he asked to be the baby's godfather.

Ever since then every seventh son born in Brussels has had the same honor, and the mothers have received gifts in keeping with their station in life. King Albert, in carrying out the old usage a short time ago had some difficulty because the seventh son was twins. He could not stand for both boys, because that would give the family two Alberts. The remedy was found by Queen Elizabeth, who suggested that her little son, the duke of Brabant, be the godfather of the eighth boy, who consequently received the name Leopold.

State Railroad Commission Will Not Act on Ore Rates.

Declines to Adopt the Suggestion of Leon E. Lum.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.) — The railroad and warehouse commission this morning refused to adopt the suggestion of Leon E. Lum of Duluth that it take up the fight before the interstate commerce commission his demand that freight rates on iron ore be cut in two. This action was taken on the ground that the matter is not of sufficient importance to the state at large to warrant the commission in acting, and that its financial resources are so low that it is unable to afford the fight unless the legislature should request that it make it and provide the necessary money.

However, the commission says it will act if the legislature now in session directs and supplies the necessary money.

In the recital of the case, the commission says Mr. Lum appeared before it and asked state aid on the ground that he had valuable ore holdings near Grand Rapids and that the projected working of the same was made prohibitive by reason of the freight rate, 80 cents a ton, demanded by the Great Northern road. Other ore holdings in the same locality, he contended, were similarly affected.

The commission, on investigation, says it learned that Mr. Lum has a one-sixth interest in a state lease, with an investment of about $900 involved, and that he was working entirely alone in the matter. Further, it found that 6,000,000 tons of ore in the piece was of a low grade quality and useless without an expensive washing plant. Not a pound of it had been shipped to date.

In the face of all this, the commission says it came to the conclusion that any state interference would be against public policy.

STILLMAN H. BINGHAM.

CORPORATION TAX IS HELD CONSTITUTIONAL

sion was not apparent in the beginning of the decision.

Justice Day first announced that it was within the power of the senate to insert the corporation tax provisions in the tariff law which originated in the house and of which the tax provisions are a part.

Justice Day said as it appeared to those who listened to him, that the court held the tax as an "excise tax on the doing of business," which is exactly the basis on which the government has defended the law.

Justice Day next seemed to hold that the tax provisions were not the arbitrary exercise of a power. This was urged in argument as one reason why the law should be held unconstitutional.

Tax Upon Business.

Near the outset of the opinion, as it appears in printed form, is the statement that the tax "is imposed not upon franchises of the corporation irrespective of their use in business, nor upon the property of the corporation, but upon the doing of corporate or insurance business and with respect to the carrying on thereof in a sum equivalent to 1 per centum of the entire net income over and above $5,000 received from all sources during the year; that is, when imposed in this manner it is a tax upon the doing of business with the advantages which inhere in the peculiarities of corporate or joint stock organization of the character described. As the latter organizations share many benefits of corporate organization it may be described generally as at tax upon the doing of business in a corporate capacity.

"This tax, it is expressly stated, is to be equivalent to 1 per centum of the entire net income over and above $5,000 received from all sources during the year.

"This is the measure of the tax explicitly adopted by the statute. The income is not limited to such as is received from property used in the business, strictly speaking, but is expressly declared to be upon the entire net income above $5,000 from all sources, excluding the amounts received as dividends on stock in other corporations, joint stock companies or associations, or insurance companies, also subject to the tax. In other words, the tax is imposed upon the doing of business of the character described and the measure of the tax is to be the income, with the deductions stated, received not only from property used in business, but from every source. This view of the measure of the tax is strengthened when we note that as to organizations under the laws of foreign countries the amount of net income over and above $5,000 includes that received from business transactions and capital invested in the United States, the territories, Alaska and District of Columbia."

Answers Objections.

After Justice Day had thus given the interpretation which the court had put upon the provisions of the act, he proceeded to answer the various objections urged against the constitutionality of the tax. He first took up the contention that it was a direct tax and unconstitutional for the same reasons that the famous income tax law was declared unconstitutional in 1895. He pointed out that the income tax was held to be direct because imposed upon property simply because of its ownership.

"In the present case," said Justice Day, "the tax is not payable unless there is a carrying on or doing of business in the designated capacity and this is made the occasion for the tax, measured by the standard prescribed.

"The difference between the acts is not merely nominal, but rests upon substantial difference between the mere ownership of property and the actual doing of business in a certain way.

Justice Day next took up the objection that the provisions in question levied a tax upon the exclusive right of a state to grant corporation franchises in that it taxed franchises which are the creation of a state in its sovereign right and authority.

"We think," said the opinion, "it is the result of cases heretofore decided in this court, that such business activities though exercised because of state-created franchises, are not beyond the taxing power of the United States."

After reviewing cases hitherto decided by this court, Justice Day went on to say:

State Corporations.

"If it be true that the forming of a state corporation would defeat this purpose, by taking the necessary steps required by the state law to create a corporation and carrying on business under rights granted by the state statute, the federal tax would become invalid and that source of national revenue be destroyed, except as to the business in the hands of individual or partnership.

"It cannot be supposed that it was intended that it should be within the power of individuals acting under state authority to thus impair and limit the exertion of authority which may be essential to national existence."

Justice Day next addressed himself to the objection that the tax was unequal and arbitrary. He first considered whether, as claimed, the law made an unconstitutional distinction between corporations and partnerships or individuals.

He said there was a substantial difference between the carrying on of business between corporations taxed and the same business when conducted by a private firm or individual.

Measurement of the tax by the net income of the corporation or the company received by it from all sources was defended next by Justice Day in his opinion, as not being so unequal and so arbitrary and baseless as to fall outside of the authority of the taxing power.

"We must not forget that the right to select the measure and objects of taxation devolves upon the congress and not upon the courts, and such selections are valid unless constitutional limitations are overstepped."

Finds no Such Violation.

The court was able to find no such violation of Constitutional limitations.

Justice Day said it was specially objected that certain of the corporations whose stockholders challenged the validity of the tax were so-called real estate companies.

"We think it clear," said he, "that corporations organized for the purpose of doing business and actually engaged in such activities as leasing property, controlling rents, managing office buildins, making investments of profits, or leasing ore lands and collecting royalties, managing wharves, dividing profits, and in some cases, investing the surplus are engaged in doing business within the meaning of the statute and in the capacity a necessity to make such organizations a subject to the law."

After dealing at length with numerous other objections to the law, Justice Day came to the attack upon it based on the so-called publicity features of the provisions which require certain returns to be made to the government as an aid in the assessment of a tax.

"The taxation being as we have held," said the justice, "within the legitimate powers of congress, it is for that body to determine what means are appropriate and adapted to the purposes of making the law effectual."

The opinion thus summarized covers fifteen of the eighteen cases in which the constitutionality of the tax was assailed. The non-applicability of the act to the real estate trusts was decided in the other three cases.

The Minneapolis syndicate was held not liable to the tax, because the real estate which it held before a recent re-organization had gone out of its control and therefore the syndicate was not "doing business within the meaning of the law."

The fight against the constitutionality of the corporation tax began almost immediately after the enactment of the Payne-Aldrich tariff law of 1909, of which it is a part. During the long days of wrangling in congress over that measure, President Taft originated a plan to raise part of the revenue necessary for the running of the government by imposing a corporation tax. He is said to have made the first rough draft of the proposed law and to have asked the department of justice to perfect it.

Income Tax Unconstitutional.

Scarcely fifteen years before, the supreme court of the United States had declared unconstitutional the income tax measure enacted by congress. In order to have a valid tax, the errors of that law had to be avoided. Finally the attention of members of the house and senate were called to the proposed corporation tax as a constitutional measure. It was urged as preferable to another income tax which, it was argued, probably would be declared unconstitutional and as under the circumstances better legislation than an inheritance tax. When the tariff bill was in the senate, the corporation tax provisions were inserted as an amendment to the Payne bill passed by the house. They remained there and became a part of the tariff act.

The provisions of the law stated that the tax was a "special excise tax with respect to the carrying on or doing business." It was to be paid by "every corporation, joint stock company or association, organized for profit and having a capital stock represented by shares, and every insurance company, organized under the laws of the United States or of any state or territory. It was provided that the tax should be "equivalent to 1 per centum upon the entire net income over and above $5,000 received from all sources," exclusive of amounts received as dividends upon stock of other corporations, joint stock companies, or associations, or insurance companies, subject to the tax.

Law Provided for Returns.

The law provided also that returns should be made by those taxed to the treasury department, to be used as a basis for assessing the tax. These were open to inspection, but in 1910 congress enacted legislation providing that the returns should be open to inspection only upon rules and regulations approved by the president.

The first action in the courts to test the constitutionality of the law was begun in the United States circuit court for the district of Vermont. A woman named E. Stella E. Flint, guardian of the property of Samuel N. Stone, Jr., a stockholder in the Stone-Tracy company of Windsor, Vt., began an action to have the company restrained from paying the tax. She claimed that the tax was unconstitutional. Her attorney, Maxwell Evarts, brought the case to the supreme court, after the circuit court had declined to hold the tax unconstitutional.

When the Stone-Tracy case came up for argument before the supreme court in March, 1910, fourteen other cases likewise raising the validity of the law and decisions likewise sustaining the constitutionality of the tax, had reached the court. They were advanced and heard with the original case. Because presumably of vacancies on the bench, the cases were restored to the docket for reargument. This reargument occurred in January, 1911.

Constitutionality Attacked.

The constitutionality of the tax was attacked from all the points from which any tax possible of enactment by congress could be attacked. Prominent among the objections to the law was the argument that the tax was a direct tax, not apportioned, according to the Constitution. Some dubbed the tax "a corporation income tax" and invalid for the same reason that the income tax was declared unconstitutional in 1895. Others claimed that it was a tax on state franchises and hence was an unconstitutional interference with the sovereignty of the states. Another line of objections was based on the argument that as an excise tax, it was not uniform but contained unconstitutional classifications. The publicity features of the returns were attacked as taking private property without compensation. To all of these objections the department of justice, through the late Solicitor General Lloyd W. Bowers, at the first hearing, and through his successor, Frederick W. Lehmann, at the second hearing, made answer.

After the argument of the fifteen cases, the court took up three other cases involving the tax. In these the principal controversy was over the interpretation of the law. The principal point was whether the tax was to be imposed on "Boston trusts," organized to hold real estate, but not incorporated. The Boston concerns contended that the tax should be assessed only on concerns organized under the statutes of the United States, states or territories. The government argued that business concerned organized under the common law were included within those meant to be taxed.

COPPERS ADVANCE BUT ARE LIFELESS

Little Activity in Stocks—Undertone Good—Dull Locally.

The copper market opened strong and steadily advanced. There was no pressure and shorts covered. Trading was dull in everything. It was thought that important decisions affecting the Standard Oil and American Tobacco companies might be announced by the supreme court, but the court took an adjournment for two weeks without rendering the decisions.

The court, however, decided the corporation intome tax case in favor of the government. The market was not affected, as the government was expected to win. The court sustained every point the government made and the decision was sweeping.

Cliff walked forward several cents, a bidder for a small lot being forced to put the stock up in order to get only 100 shares. The stock went forward further but no offerings came out. It sold at 98c. Denn sold at $5.25, Keating at $2.87½ and North American at $2.56¾.

Amalgamated sold at $62.50 to $63.12½, North Butte at $28, $28.25 to $28.12½, Butte-Ballaklava at $5.37½, Ophway at $6, Shattuck at $19.12½ to $19, Giroux at $6 to $5.87½ to $6, Superior & Pittsburg at $15, $14.87½ to $15, Greene at $5.75 to $5.96¾.

Boston wired Paine, Webber & Co.: In connection with the dividend of $6 per share just declared by the C. & H., the company makes the following statement to the Boston stock exchange: "The C. & H. Mining company has declared a dividend of $6 per share, payable on March 25 to stockholders of record on March 13. This dividend is declared at the usual time, pending the consolidation proceedings and the hearing on the order to show cause in the Hyams suit. It is a part of the proposed consolidation agreement, however, that when finally put into effect it shall take effect as between the consolidating companies and their stockholders as of March 15, and that if any of the companies pay any dividends pending final action, there shall be paid to stockholders of each of the companies at the time of the delivery to them of their certificates of stock in the consolidated corporation such sums of money as will equalize the dividends payment to all."

Boston wired: Calumet & Hecla has reduced its metal price from 12¾c to 12½c, at which level it has booked substantial sales for forward deliveries. This action brings the price of the best Lake copper down to the United Metals level for electrolytic, although none of the latter can be sold at these figures with competitors making concessions. Sales of electrolytic have been made during the past week at 12¾c and 12¾c, thirty days, both foreign and domestic buyers participating, but the most encouraging feature has been the increasing demand from home sources.

Frank Hervey Pettingill, a Colorado Springs broker, has compiled a statement of the financial condition of mining companies operating in the Cripple Creek district. The sworn statements of all companies listed on the Colorado Springs mining exchange are included in the compilation. Investors in Cripple Creek stocks can secure copies at 25 cents each in postage.

The 1,000,000 shares of the Inspiration Copper company have been listed on the Boston stock exchange. The monthly report of the company, dated March 1, gives tonnage at 22,229,000 tons, averaging 2 per cent, of which 18,739,000 tons are developed and 3,490,000 tons partially developed. This compares with 21,737,000 tons Feb. 1. Plans for the erection of a mill will now receive the early consideration of the management. The annual meeting of the company, scheduled to be held at Augusta, Me., today, has been postponed until March 13.

The copper metal market continues very quiet. Sales of electrolytic have been made at 12¾c to 12.40c, thirty days, while small lots have been sold as low as 12½c f.o.b. New York, equivalent to 12.40c. It is said, however, that some of the larger agencies have been able to sell sufficiently ahead to place them in a comfortable position and without the necessity of making concessions from 12½c, unless this price has been shaded on specific business, and then immediately advanced to 12½c again. The best bid for lake copper is 12½c, and not much is changing hands at that price.

At the main shaft of the Giroux the upraise from the 1,400 to the 1,200-foot level has been completed. A station will be cut at this level, but no crosscut will be run from it to the Alpha workings at present, as there is still too much water in the lower levels of the Alpha to make the crosscut safe. The Alpha workings are being gradually drained through the crosscut at the 1,200-foot level of the Giroux shaft. The water is receding in the old workings at the rate of about three feet a day, and is now about ninety feet below the 1,000-foot level in the old shaft pump.

The cost of producing copper for the Anaconda properties of the Amalgamated company for 1910 was probably close to 9½c per pound. It is stated on reliable authority that for certain months of the year the cost was as low as 8¾c per pound.

The Arizona Copper company produced 1,480,000 pounds of copper in February, as against 2,658,000 pounds in the same month a year ago. The output for the two months of the year was 5,384,000 pounds, compared with 5,240,000 for the corresponding period last year.

KILLING COUGARS SAVES DEER.

Portland Oregonian: It is estimated that every cougar in the state causes the death of at least fifty deer during the year. Some expert hunters maintain that a big cougar or mountain lion will destroy as many as 100 deer in a single year. The estimate that the lives of 500 deer have been saved through the killing of nine of these wild beasts is regarded as conservative.

The trip of Winters and Thompson was undertaken for the purpose of killing off as many cougars as possible in two weeks and they returned bringing nine skins as trophies. The huntsmen have already sold the largest skins, one of which measures eight feet seven inches in length and the other almost eight feet. By disposing of these two skins for mounting the hunters are deprived of the state bounty of $10 apiece, because the present bounty laws require the cutting off of a fore paw.

RUSSIAN FURS HIGHER.

Translated from the Russkoye Slovo: Without exaggeration it may be said that the principal supplier of fur to the world's market is our Siberia. Therefore from time immemorial the prices of fur at the Siberian fairs have served as a barometer to the world's market.

One of the largest Siberian fairs is that held in the summer at Yakutsk, with a circulation of millions of rubles. This fair continues for two months, and thereto come fur traders from the most distant points in Siberia, bringing all that has been obtained by them during the protracted winter. Telegrams giving the result of this fair state that the prices of furs have risen, compared with last year's prices, more than 50 per cent.

Referring to data concerning the Yakutsk fair for the last ten years, it is possible to clearly define the present position the fur trade occupies. In 1900 5,000 sable skins were brought to the fair at a price of 7 rubles ($3.61) each; this year only 2,000 skins were listed and at a price of 160 rubles ($82.40) each. In 1900 1,200,000 squirrel skins were sold at 20 kopecks (10 cents) each; this year only 75,000 skins were sold, but at 75 kopecks (39 cents) each.

The vast number of Siberian exiles live mainly on their ability to trap in those regions without molestation on the part of the authorities, and as a consequence fur bearing animals are not multiplying as fast as they are trapped. This declination has been going on for many years, with the result that furs are becoming scarce and the prices are soaring.

England's Queen Has the Homely Virtues of Victoria

QUEEN MARY.

This is a new picture, just received from London, of Queen Mary. The cares and responsibilities of her position have not aged her. She is not emotional. While Queen Mary is not popular with the fashionable set in London, the plain people of England have learned to love her because she is a simple woman and thoroughly domestic in her tastes. Like the late Queen Victoria she stands for all the virtues. Singularly enough the people of Great Britain, while professing to admire their queen for these qualities, spend their time at afternoon teas repeating scandal about her as they do about King George. It is amusing to an American to see the suggestions from an English source that American scandal mongers are responsible for the stories about King George and his reported first marriage. An American who was in London last summer and went to a great many afternoon teas where he met only English persons, brought back to New York an extraordinary collection of bits of scandal about the British royal family not even excepting the late Queen Victoria. So even poor Queen Mary has not escaped calumny from her subjects.

BALKY HORSES.

Horse Shoer's Journal: The incorrigible balky horses of the rural districts find their way to wholesale markets, where under the test of hauling a heavy truck wagon on a paved street with the wheels blocked the vice is immediately discovered.

If the animal has been sold as serviceably sound and guaranteed a willing worker and a cheerful puller the buyer rejects his purchase and the horse is resold without any guarantee except clear title of ownership.

Some horses have learned to balk by being overloaded and abused. Their courage has been overtaxed and they rebel, disheartened at the task they are asked to perform. Other horses appear to balk from natural inclination and appear foaled full of innate stubbornness.

Balking, like wind-sucking, cribbing, weaving and halter pulling, is a vice developed by natural inheritance. In breaking young horses to harness too much caution cannot be observed in asking the youngster to pull light loads to begin with.

The balky horse cannot be conquered by brutal treatment, but may be induced to pull by many devices intended to attract his attention from his resolution not to pull. To lift the forefoot and pound on the shoe, to put a handful of grass or dirt in his mouth, to give him a lump of sugar or an apple to eat all proved successful in some instances in inducing a horse to pull.

To pass a cord around the pastern and pull the forefoot forward until the animal has to move is also a means of starting a balky horse. An electric battery manipulated by the driver gives an animal a shock from a source that he does not comprehend and is the latest device in treating incorrigible horses.

CUFF MUZZLERS.

T. P.'s Weekly: The most curious article in the tramp's outfit bears an appropriately odd name — the "cuff muzzler." It consists of the leg of an old stocking cut up into short lengths and worn over the wrist like a thick mitten, and its object is to increase the circumference of the wrist to such an extent that a constable cannot easily slip a handcuff over it.

Indeed a pair of "cuff muzzlers"—which are worn by none save veteran roadsters—make it very difficult for a constable alone and unaided to handcuff their wearer. Tramps' tools bear puzzling names. Particularly cryptic is "fiddle," the term for a big nail carried by the "spike ranger" or lilnerant who goes from one casual ward to the next. Should he fall into the hands of the police it is used in "oakum worrying," that is separating the strands of hard rope.

THE ALEUTIAN ISLANDS.

New York Press: Few persons are aware that the shortest route from San Francisco to Japan is by way of Alaska. Nearly a thousand miles are saved to vessels trading with the Orient by coasting along the Aleutian islands rather than following the Hawaiian route.

The Aleutian islands, which extend in a chain east and west for more than a thousand miles, are inhabited by the remnant of the Aleuts. Their war of the revolution closed just as the American Revolutionary war began. So patriotic were the Aleuts, so brave in their struggle for independence, that they succumbed to the Russians only after a conflict of nearly fifty years, and then simply because the race was almost exterminated in the struggle. While the Aleutian islands must eventually form an important link in the commerce between the United States and the Orient, other islands link our country with the vast empire to the north. In the narrow Bering straits lie two little islands, one occupied by Russia, the other by the United States, so that citizens of the two great nations live on respective islands within a few miles of each other.

GOVERNMENT RELIEVED.

Decision on Corporation Tax Law Is Good News.

Washington, March 13.—The decision of the supreme court in upholding the constitutionality of the corporation tax law relieves the government from an embarrassing situation. Had the law been declared unconstitutional and favorable to the corporations, the government would have had to return to 262,490 corporations an aggregate of more than $26,900,000 paid by them into the federal treasury by operation of the law and an issue of government bonds probably would have been found necessary.

WELL-KNOWN JESUIT FOUND DEAD IN BED.

Baltimore, Md., March 13.—Rev. Francis X. Brady, S. J., president of Loyola college and pastor of St. Ignitius Catholic church, was found dead in his bed at the church rectory today. Anginia pectoris was given as the cause of death. Father Brady was one of the best known Jesuit priests in the East. He would have celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood next August.

Rush Orders for Gunboat.

Portsmouth, N. H., March 13.—The gunboat Marietta, now at the navy yard here undergoing repairs, received rush orders from Washington today to get ready for sea as quickly as possible. Her destination was not made public. The gunboat will be ready to sail by Friday or Saturday.

No Choice in Iowa.

Des Moines, Iowa, March 13.—Today's joint ballot for senator in the Iowa legislature resulted: Deemer, 50; Kenyon, 43; Porter, Democrat, 45; paired, 6; absent, 14; necessary to choice, 70.

QUEER LANGUAGE.

Chicago News: "Why study ancient languages? Jargon of the Chicago restaurant lunch room is more original and twice as interesting."

A Chicagoan who for the last twelve years has taken his noonday luncheon at various quick-lunch counters in the loop district spoke as above the other day. He declared that in his dozen years of eating where he chanced to be, he had picked up an unchronicled language.

"It's a language in itself," he explained, "and, so far as I have found, it is peculiar to the two classes, cooks and waiters or the men who take your order. In different cities throughout the country these eating-house linguists have different terms for the same article of food. For instance, a 'ham and' and in one city may mean ham and eggs, in another a ham sandwich.

"Chicago lunchroom employes seem to have reached the acme of perfection in their adopted jargon.

"When a half dozen buckwheat cakes are ordered the waiter yells to the cook:

"'A plate o' buck.'

'If you decide that you want some boiled eggs to go with the 'plate o' buck' the waiter fills his lungs and shouts lustily:

"'Two in the water, four.'"

"Sounds like a golf player," was interrupted.

"Yes," said the student of waiters' jargon, "that 'four' means that the eggs are to be left in the water four minutes.

"'Burn some,' is a common expression to take the place of toast. 'Burn and butter' means buttered toast.

"Besides the expressions given above, fried eggs are spoken of as 'sunny side up or down.' If you order the 'sunny side up' it means that the egg is to be fried, but not turned over. 'If sunny side' is down, it is fried on one side, then turned and fried on the other."

TO INSURE BREVITY.

Chicago Post: "We have an unusually long list of speakers tonight," says the toastmaster, glancing at the notables flanking him along the table for the orators of the evening, "and in order that each guest present may know just what he is to expect and can govern himself accordingly, I am going to ask each speaker to whisper in my ear before I introduce him, the number of minutes he will talk"

It went down in history as the Dinner of Ten-Minute Speeches.

THE EVENING STORY

HIGH STAKES

By G. B. Edmiston.

I have a deep-rooted objection to horseshoes and—cards. It may sound silly, but there's the fact. Why? Because they remind me so vividly of a very painful incident that occurred early in the nineties. Listen!

I was engaged to be married to the only daughter of the late Sir Guy Stewart, and preparatory to my regiment going out to India I was making use of all my powers of persuasion to induce Hilda to consent to our marriage taking place without delay, in order that she might accompany me. Judge, then, how terrible a blow it was to me when at our last interview she calmly suggested that our engagement should be broken off. Some one had told her, she said, that I was an inveterate gambler, and she was convinced that no other qualities, however noble, could counterbalance the misery that would eventually be the lot of one united to a gambler. I could not deny her assertions. I could only excuse myself on the ground that I was rich and could afford the stakes I was accustomed to play for. It was of no use. Her mind was unalterably made up.

I was a fool. I should not have waited for her to ask me to give up playing; I should have voluntarily pledged my honor that for her sweet sake I would never touch a card again. And I would have kept my word. But this declaration remained unspoken, and from that day Hilda Stewart and I were free again. The fact was that, in spite of my passionate love, I was too nettled at being called to book by a girl who had condemned me for hearsay, and this feeling of irritation took something from the sting of parting.

I had been in a little out-of-the-way station in the Northwest Provinces about two years when Capt. Graves, a man of about my own age, came out and joined "ours." A capital fellow, he was also an enthusiastic card-player.

One night we sat down to a game which, although neither of us knew it, was to be followed by one of greater import.

We walked over from the mess to our quarters.

"Let's have a night of unlimited 100, Jack, eh?" I suggested. Every one called him "Jack"—possibly because his name was Horace.

"Look here, Pemberton! I vowed last night that I would never touch a card again; but, hang it, I'll play you for all I'm worth!"

"High stakes, old man!" I remarked. "Why this rashness?"

"Because if I double my capital I can pay my debts and have something to boot."

"But suppose you lose?"

"Then the sooner I'm found dead the better!"

"Nonsense! What on earth is the matter with you tonight?" I treated his remarks lightly, but I could see he was in earnest.

He replied with the old quip.

"What's the matter? Never mind!" After a pause he said, "Will you agree to the stakes—I'm worth about $10,000?"

"But suppose you lose?"

"Well, I lose. After that—the deluge, in which I shall be swallowed up," he answered with a forced smile. "My shoe will have one nail more than yours has."

It was the custom, and a ghastly custom too, at this station to have a horseshoe fixed to the door of each officer's quarters, and for every officer who died there an additional nail was driven through the shoe.

At present each of us had two nails. Every man in the regiment knew the exact number on each officer's door.

To get on with my story. As the play proceeded I found I was losing heavily and continually. When I sat down I half hoped I should lose—$10,000 was not so much to me as it was to Jack, but the excitement and the high stakes choked all sentiments of pity and aroused in me an intense desire to win. I knew that the moral and physical destruction of the man before me would follow my success, and—Heaven forgive me!—I hoped and longed for it.

Just before reveille sounded Graves wrote me his last check, and as he handed me this warrant of his death I shall never forget the expression of his face.

"Let some of it stand over," I said. "Pay when you can."

"No, take it; I've done."

"What an ass the fellow is!" I exclaimed as, still in undress uniform, I threw myself upon my bed. But not to sleep. I was assailed by thoughts of the modus procedendi of sending in one's papers. I could no longer remain in the army. I had won from him all he was worth. And what had I lost? All that made life worth living—my profession and any hope of ever winning Hilda Stewart's hand. I listened for the sound of a pistol shot—Graves' room was close to mine. Eventually I dozed off.

Contrary to my gloomy expectations of the early morning, I saw Graves on parade. He looked very drawn and ill—the flush of the gamester had left his face and had given place to a pallid and determined look.

"Idea came into my head; I would act upon it.

When I returned to my quarters I said to my servant, "Go and ask Capt. Graves if he can come over and see me for a minute!"

The man went and speedily returned. "Please, sir, the captain's orderly met me on the way and told me there was another nail in Capt. Graves' shoe. I went to see, and sure enough—

"I didn't send you to count nails, Turner. Is Capt. Graves coming or not?"

"Yes, sir, he is."

"Then that will do."

Eventually Graves came in. He was officer for the day and was delayed.

"Take a seat, old man! Try one of these cigars!"

I took two spills from my writing table, thrust them into the fire, and, having handed one to Jack, our cigars were soon in full force.

"I say, Jack, Turner tells me there is another nail in your door!"

"I know. I put it there."

"But, my dear fellow, whatever made you do such a thing?"

"You'll see in the morning."

"Now look here, Jack—don't talk nonsense! I have a mind to report the whole affair to the colonel."

"I thought, Pemberton, this was a little affair between ourselves."

"So it was at first; but, when you threaten suicide and then advertise the show by sticking another nail in your horseshoe in advance, it becomes decidedly public, old chap, and a matter for the 'C. O.' to inquire into. Moreover, don't you see that it will be awful for me when it is announced that Capt. Horace Graves has been found shot in his quarters and that Captain, the Honorable, Sedwick Pemberton is known to be in full possession of all the deceased officer's money? Have a care, old fellow! Think of others!"

"Think of others—think of others! Why, Pemberton, it is for the sake of another that I elect to quit this world! It is the thought of her that urges me to end my life!"

"Who is 'her'?" I inquired. "A curious love it must be that prompts a suicide! Graves, my boy, you're getting morbid. But I didn't ask you to come here for the purpose of arguing about the quality of the love of some abstract being whom I have never seen. I want to ask you as a favor to agree with me in wiping the last twenty-four hours from life's slate; let us be where we were yesterday afternoon and forget last night. For my part, after the experience I have just had, I solemnly declare that I shall never touch cards again. You do the same, old man. Another thing—I shall not—cannot—present your check."

"Capt. Pemberton, you insult me," cried Graves, flushing with anger.

"Wait till I've finished."

"Finishing insulting me, sir?"

"No, Jack—advising you. I was going to say that I can't present your check if I would; you have lighted your cigar with one half, and the other I have applied to mine."

Graves leaned forward and, snatching the partly burnt spill from the fireplace and beheld his signature of the previous night.

"This is unworthy of you, Pemberton, and it's cowardly!"

"My dear Jack, I was never more serious in my life. Don't let your feelings get the better of you. I never have been and hope I never shall be a coward. Ask yourself who is the coward. It is not an argument in favor of a man's courage that he shrinks from the difficulties of life by self destruction."

"As far as I am personally concerned, Pemberton, I would not shrink from them."

"For whose satisfaction, then, if I have a right to know, would you put an end to your existence?"

Still nervously smoothing out the charred fragments of check in his hands, Graves sat for some seconds gazing vacantly before him; then he suddenly said:

"Pemberton, you have been a friend to me. I see what you mean. I am wrong. For her sake I accept my life and my money at your hands, and I'll tell you the whole story. Then you can judge if I am right or wrong."

I was all ears, to use a colloquialism.

"I am engaged to the daughter of the late Sir Guy Stewart, and—"

"To whom?" I cried, springing to my feet.

"To the daughter of the late Sir Guy Stewart."

I could not speak.

"She made me promise, when leaving England," Jack continued, "never to play for money. I made the promise, and you know how I have kept it. Could I ever face her again?"

He said a lot more, but I didn't hear it. I sat gazing into space, for I had written a long letter, which I had sealed as Jack came in, telling Hilda the welcome news that I had turned my back on gambling, and imploring her not to consider our engagement at an end. I told her that, if she still thought of me, I would get leave and return to England without delay.

"What's the matter, Pemberton—dreaming?" Jack's voice aroused me.

"Yes, Jack, I was."

"Well, what do you think of my case?"

I had heard very little of his case, but now I told him that the reasons for doing away with himself were decidedly weighty.

"By the way, Jack," I went on, as I mixed myself a stiff "peg," and drank it, "has Hilda Stewart ever mentioned my name to you?"

"No. Why?"

"Well, simply because I was once engaged to her myself—wait a moment—don't interrupt me—and she threw me over because some one told her I was a gambler."

"Great Scot, you don't say so!" It was Jack's turn to think now.

"There is no need to offer you a penny for your thoughts, for I've an idea, Jack, that they are the same as my own. Tell me, aren't you thinking that our respective rights to Hilda Stewart's hand are equal?"

"I am."

"And you don't feel disposed to give her up?"

"For heaven's sake, Pemberton, don't mention such a thing! Why should I give her up?"

"Why should you shoot yourself?"

"Because I was not worthy of her; but I am now I have done with cards."

"Well, what would you have me do?" asked Jack—"pistols for two and coffee for three?"

We sat in silence for some moments. We both loved Hilda madly.

"Jack," I exclaimed suddenly, "let's go back on our promise. One more game of cards, and the stakes to be Hilda Stewart—do you agree?"

He hesitated. Did he consider me the better player?

"Our chances," I continued, "are about equal. Do you agree?"

"I do," he answered slowly. "But I have a whim I should like gratified. Will you play pegging 'nap'—once around the board?"

I was an expert and generally a fortunate man at the game.

"Very well," said I, "we play 'nap' tonight after the mess."

I can't describe that game—all the maddening passions filling the gambler when he knows that the stakes he is playing for are the highest he can possibly wager. We were nearing the end. Up to the concluding stage the luck had varied from one side to the other and back again. I was in the worse position. Graves wanted three to game—I lacked five. He dealt. It was my call. I snatched the cards from the table in feverish haste.

One glance at the hand I held, and I shouted—

"She's mine!"

Jack's face was impassive.

I held the ace, the king, the knave, the ten and the six of hearts.

"Ha, ha! I go nap! And my commission to a rattan cane I get it!"

Graves turned pale.

I led the ace and noticed that the color returned to his face. He flung down the three of hearts.

I followed with the king—he responded with the nine.

Then, feeling certain that trumps were good, I thrust forth the knave triumphantly. Graves turned the face of his next card toward me. It was the queen of hearts!

* * *

Graves obtained leave, returned to England and—found that Hilda had married into the church. He lies beneath a mound on the South African veldt. I sent in my papers and became, what I am still—a restless wanderer. Now you know why I hold horseshoes and cards in detestation.

SEEN IN THE SHOPS

Black satin coats for evening wear are one of the very newest fashions. One of the Superior street shops is showing a number of these coats which are extremely attractive. Many of them are lined in white, some in black but the greatest number in linings of bright colored satins. They are all loose and most of them have the kimono sleeves. One especially pretty one was lined with a beautiful coral shade of satin and was made almost like a Japanese robe. It hung in close straight lines with a broad panel in the back and was trimmed with broad bands of lace insertion. These bands formed the hem from the panel in the back to the front and one crossed the back just below the shoulders.

Another pretty coat which they had for evening wear was of tan pongee with a coral lining trimmed with wide black silk braid and fastened with only one button in front. The sleeves in this too, were the kimono sleeves.

A "two in one" coat is shown at the same shop. This is made of blue serge on one side and black and white shepherds plaid on the other side. Both sides are exactly alike and are finished so that the coat is reversible and can be worn with either side out. When the blue side is out cuffs and collar are of the plaid and vice versa.

CAPT. LEWIS IS RECOVERING

Former Duluth Mayor Will Make His Home in Boston.

Capt. Ray T. Lewis, one of the best known of the early pioneers of Duluth, and at one time mayor of the city, is planning to make his home in Boston, Mass., in future.

Capt. Lewis is just recovering from a serious illness in New Orleans. He was taken ill in Havana, Cuba, and his son, Fred Lewis, was summoned from New Orleans. He returned to New Orleans with his son, and was confined to the hospital for some time. He recovered, and is now located at the Grunewald hotel in New Orleans, where he will remain until about the end of April. He then plans to go to Boston, Mass., where he will make him home in the future. His two sisters reside in Boston, and he has many relatives and friends there. If he is sufficiently recovered, he will return to Duluth for a visit this summer, and plans to spend the greater part of each summer in this city, according to a letter received from him by John Megins this morning.

SKELETON IS FOUND.

Woodchopper Makes Grewsome Discovery Near Neche, N. D.

Neche, N. D., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The finding of a skeleton in the timber about two miles west of here has unearthed a tragedy, the solution of which is seemingly very uncertain at this time.

Fred Aumond, aged 17, while chopping wood, made the find, consisting only of bones and a small portion of hair, reddish brown in color. Fifteen months ago an insane man escaped from the immigration authorities here, while three years ago a man disappeared from a thrashing crew, and it is believed that the skeleton is that of one of these men.

BURN SOO LIGHTHOUSE.

Easiest Way to Get Rid of Abandoned Beacon.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The lighthouse at the south end of the international railroad bridge, for many years serving as a beacon for mariners entering the ship canal from the west, was burned today by orders from the lighthouse board. The light was rendered useless by improvements and the new canal, and it was found cheaper to burn it than tear it down.

THE DISASTER ON THE RANGE.

Although open pit mining is by its nature secure against such horrors as have been reported from time to time in localities where the workings are all underground, the disasters of Saturday night help to bring home to this part of Minnesota the fact that the acquisition by man of the wealth of the earth is not a matter of simple taking from the ground. Even when the labor expended in taking out the natural deposits may all be done by the light of nature, there come times when the strange forces that govern human affairs seem to exact a kind of toll of man for his temerity in delving below the surface of the ground. It is as if human lives must be sacrificed to propitiate the powers that guard the hidden wealth.

Minnesota has been fortunately free from such occurrences. Thousands upon thousands of men have labored in her mines, and though there have been occasional casualties with sometimes two or three victims, the instances in which the lives lost numbered a dozen or more have been exceedingly rare. For this reason, too, the tragedies of the last few hours come with greater shock.

"The victims were foreigners," say the dispatches from the range towns. Though probably not so intended, the phrase may easily be interpreted as minimizing the horror or seriousness of the accident. But regarded in a truer light, it rather intensifies the tragedy of the affair. These were not men who, placed here by circumstances, took the first labor that offered rather than seek further for a means of livelihood. They were men who, oppressed or heavily burdened in the lands which they knew as their natural homes, so far overcame the conditions surrounding them that they were able to go away and seek better things elsewhere. And where should the search lead but to the country which the world knew as "the home of the free?"

They came, then, to America; they heard of the great opportunities of Minnesota; they went to the mining district and accepted the hard labor of that region as their portion, content to know that at least they were recognized as human beings, as men, and could work secure from despotism and build for themselves and families homes that would be free from spoliation and opportunities full of promise for younger generations. And here, in a second's time, without warning other than that of a flash of horrible realization of impending death, these "foreigners" who had sought relief from human evil were caught in a mad rush of natural forces and their lives and hopes were ground out beneath tons of insensate matter.

There lies the tragedy of the range disasters. Why should it have befallen these men rather than others, who, though at work with them, escaped? Nobody knows. It is but one of those incidents that make men halt and wonder a moment, and speculate perhaps a little more deeply than usual on the mysteries of life and death. As such it may be useful to us by forcing a trifle more of such thoughtfulness than we ordinarily exercise. But meanwhile the horror and tragedy of it remain, and make an insistent demand on the sympathies of every person who reads of the disasters.

ARGUING WITHOUT FOUNDATION.

It has been said that a fool can state propositions that no wise man can answer. It is a matter of common experience that a baseless plea that appeals only to the imagination is one of the hardest things on earth to meet in an argument. Both these principles are being exercised to the limit by the opponents of the Canadian reciprocity agreement.

If the men who are fighting against the extension of American markets in a manner that will bring immense benefits to our country would confine themselves to facts and figures they would not have a particle of basis for their assertions. Most of them are crying out that the farmers will suffer, and yet, as James J. Hill said in his speech in Chicago, "there has not been one objection made or one fear stated, so far as the American farmer is concerned, to complete reciprocity in farm products, which is not proved groundless by the government's statistical reports. The men who keep harping on this string are either discreditably ignorant or bent upon influencing public opinion by false pretenses."

Everybody knows Jim Hill, and who he is and what he stands for. The prosperity of his great railroad interests depends largely on the prosperity of the Northwestern agricultural regions. Therefore he has made a study of the situation there, and knows what will benefit it and what will not. His word ought to go a good ways in showing the truth about this reciprocity agreement in its relation to the farmer.

Senator Lafe Young of Iowa is one of the latest to resort to delicious absurdity in trying to down reciprocity. In the Des Moines Capital he gives a list of cities "on the Canadian border," with populations aggregating 4,545,462 people, and declares that "provided the Democratic house and the mugwump senate impose Canadian free trade on the farmers of the United States" the "men and women in these American cities will be fed by Canadian farmers because the Canadian farmer is nearer to the cities."

Really and truly, it is to laugh. For example, Duluth is in the list of cities given. Now Duluth is 100 miles from the nearest point in the Dominion, and Senator Young, who by the way, is a dyed-in-the-wool standpatter on the tariff question, would have us believe that the farmers within a 100-mile radius of Duluth are going to sit still and cry while Duluth imports its farm produce from over that distant border and pays the freight on it for that century of distance. And Duluth isn't the only American "border" city that has American farms back of it. And if one is to argue on the Young premises, think how much Illinois farmers lose because Chicago is nearer Wisconsin than it is to some parts of Illinois, and how Iowa farmers are being mulcted because Des Moines is right across the river from Illinois.

The antagonists of reciprocity are arguing from fancies, not from facts. To quote Mr. Hill again: "Not a few nominal representatives of the people are secretly plying their constituents with arguments against ratification which have no foundation, thinking to serve other masters acceptably while appearing to comply with a popular demand."

THE STATUS OF THE UNIFORM.

The Man from Mars, or for that matter any observer of American ways who might view them with a mind unbiased by custom, would find huge amusement in the necessity that calls for legislation to compel recognition of the human rights of a soldier or sailor in the service of his government. To the person of ordinary intelligence, with any interest at all in the affairs of the country, that necessity brings only a feeling of disgust, a sense of agreement with the expression, "The more I see of people the better I like hens."

Why should the fact that a man wears the uniform of the army or navy render him unfit to mingle with his fellows in any public place? It surely cannot be due to the conspicuousness of his attire, for wearers of costumes that attract fully as much attention are admitted unquestioned to the very places from which the soldier or sailor is barred. Nor can it be anything about the man himself, for if he wore the conventional business or traveling suit his right of admission would not be questioned.

To be sure there are soldiers and sailors who are rogues and rascals. But there also are bankers and butchers who are crooks and cheats, and yet these latter are welcomed where the man in uniform is forbidden to enter. Because members of the legal profession are not all of high intellect and character need not cause all lawyers to fall under the ban, nor should all wearers of uniforms be discriminated against for the faults of a few. There can be no logical or reasonable reason. And yet the facts in the matter remain.

Probably the idea of such a distinction is one that we have inherited from our mother country. Time was when the rank and file of the British service was made up of the rag-tag and bob-tail of the poorer districts, men who could be shanghaied into the service and who, serving under compulsion, were quick to avail themselves of opportunities to abuse their occasional freedom, and cared no'er a whit for the honor of the service. When the grade of men who filled the ranks was bettered, the old prejudice remained, and remains to this day, if we are to infer anything from Kipling's verses about "It's 'Tommy this' and 'Tommy that'" and "It's thin, red line of 'eroes w'en the band begins to play."

Today we do not recruit our army in that way or from such sources. Certain physical and mental qualifications are required of those who would wear the blue and the khaki, and there is more honor in accepting the republic's shilling than there used to be in taking that of the king. Because he can stand straight, march in line and rhythm, handle a weapon, and holds himself ready to obey the orders of the government, should not make a social outcast of any man, any more than it should give him certain privileges denied other citizens. The fact that he needs special laws for his protection is a disgrace to our people as a nation. But if such laws will in any degree remove the senseless stigma that, to certain inferior minds, attaches to the wearing of a United States uniform, by all means let us have those laws, and let them be enforced to the limit.

TOO BAD, BUT A GOOD THING.

It is hard not to sympathize with the small boys of Duluth over the prospects that the coming Fourth of July in this city will be "safe and sane," but it would be harder not to sympathize with the small boys' parents over the same prospects. Of course the youngsters are not the only ones whose activities on that day will be curbed if the ordinance is as strictly enforced as present promises indicate. There always are a few score persons who are old enough to know better, but who play the fool on that day and contribute generously to the total list of casualties. For them there can be no sympathy of any kind. It is to the small boy, who realizes nothing of the dangers of the explosives he has been wont to handle so freely on that day, and whose one conception of Independence day is of a time when he can indulge and cultivate untrammeled his natural propensity for noise-making, that the heart of a man goes out when he thinks of the new order of things.

It really is too bad to rob the youngsters of a privilege that belonged to their fathers and older brothers and their cousins and their uncles and their aunts. But when one considers the frightful results of the use of explosives on the Fourth of July there is found ample justification for the restrictions.

For instance: Fourth of July celebrations in the last eight years have cost the lives of 1,662 persons and the injury of 35,620. Of the injured, 122 lost their sight entirely; 551 lost the use of one eye; 432 lost arms, legs or hands, and 1,541 were crippled by the loss of fingers. On last year's glorious Fourth alone there were caused 72 cases of lockjaw, of which 67 were fatal; 7 persons lost the use of both eyes; 33 lost one eye; 26 lost legs, arms or hands and 114 lost fingers. There were 131 deaths due to the day's use of explosives. The "honors" of the day went to the tempting firecracker, which caused 1,050 of the 2,923 injuries; powder and fireworks caused 976; blank cartridges came next with a record of 386 and cannon had 212.

Such things as these may furnish a basis for teaching patriotism to the young, but it is a pretty uncertain and exceedingly expensive basis. And yet these figures are small compared with those of 1903, the last year before the "sane Fourth" idea received any particular impetus. In that year there were 466 deaths and 3,393 injured. The decrease, say the records, took place in the states where restrictive measures were strongest and most rigidly enforced.

Duluth has had all it cares to record of Fourth of July accidents. It is as well to take the lesson to heart now as later. Give the youngsters a good time on that day, and teach them United States history and patriotism. But do not make that teaching ineffective by giving the children, at the same time, the means to blow themselves into eternity, where they cannot make practical use of the things you have taught them.

The explosion at Pleasant Prairie, Wis., has awakened the Wisconsin legislature to action. You see, both a senator and an assemblyman sustained some property damage by the affair.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

NOT INSURGENTS BUT INSURRECTOS.

To the Editor of the Herald:

Your article in Friday evening's Herald, headed "Some Real Insurgents," does the members of the council of this village injustice, and as your publication has always been fair to both parties when any controversy of a public nature arises, I take the libery of writing a few lines about "our side" of the article in question. In the first place, Mr. Epperson is represented as an insurgent leader here, but as a matter of fact he is an insurrecto, "against the government," so to speak. In the second place, Mr. Epperson is not a resident nor a voter in this village at the present time, and therefore he hasn't any more to say about the administration of local affairs than a man in Jerusalem. But, nevertheless, he is a very busy person in his endeavor to oust the administration. When Mr. Epperson did reside here, he was shown every consideration when it came to local politics, but thus far nothing has seemed to satisfy him. He was much chagrined when he was not selected as the first village president, and ever since he has been like a small child, if he couldn't have what he wanted he wouldn't play in our backyard. It has always been the aim of those in control of local political affairs to have representative persons elected to the several village offices, and each year certain people who are financially interested here have been placed upon our ticket and duly elected. When only a portion of those elected will qualify and serve and another portion refuses to quality and serve, it is necessary to appoint officers to fill the vacancies. As there is only a handful of voters here it has been a rather hard matter to find suitable people to fill these vacancies, and many times the council has been "up against it" for suitable timber. There is always more or less opposition to public officers, and up here we have got used to the same. Epperson and his followers continually hounding the village officials. The statement in your columns regarding the number of arrests that have been made in the village is stretched to the extreme, but when you say that Brookston is a peaceable town you hit the nail square on the head. The village records will show that during the past four years the amount of $132.40 has been paid into the treasury by the writer as justice of the peace, so there must have been some arrests made. The revenue of Brookston amounts to only $1,000 each year, and the council usually keeps its expenditures within that amount. There isn't a local tax levy, so no one has any holler about high taxes. Regarding the contest cases of last year, the Hon. Judge Cant decided in favor of those who were duly elected, so therefore the election must have been legal in every respect or Judge Cant would not have hesitated to so decide. Village politics shouldn't have as much publicity as the local affairs have had, but as long as we have been assailed through your columns it is more than right that we would have something to say in our defense. Our village officials are usually business men of ability and integrity, and the writer honestly believes the affairs of this municipality have been manipulated in a business-like manner. Every one is liable to make mistakes, and if we have made them they are errors of ommission rather than of commission.

Thanking you for the space, I am, respectfully yours,

APROPOS OF THE TEACHERS' SALARIES.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I spent my time and money on my education rare;
I did not wear clothes and never wore false hair;
I never rouged by cheecks nor indulged in vanities;
I kept by thoughts above such commonplace frivolities.
I studied Greek and Latin and the Rules of Three,
I never used a "pony," and I passed with a degree.
I placed my application with a school board of renown;
I waited then in fear lest they would turn me down.
I had not very long to wait and soon was notified
I had been favorably considered, if I was satisfied.
I would be paid a salary of not less than forty-five.
I thought it was a fortune, my goodness sakes alive!
I packed my trunk in August, with spirit soaring high,
I took the train and soon was watching guide posts flying by.
I saw a vision of the gold that I would tuck away;
I hadn't counted on the pile for board I'd have to pay.
I worked one year, two years, without a cent of raise;
I worked on for another and all I got was praise.
I paid my board and room rent and did without new clothes;
I needed many other things as goodness only knows.
I give my time, I give my brains from morning until night.
I simply ask you if you think it is entirely right?
I hope you will consider this in the spirit it is sent.
I only hope to save a little ere my life is spent.

PERTINENT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

While the subject of teachers' salaries is being discussed the following might be printed in your Open Court: "At a teachers' conference one of the school principals rose to propose the toast: 'Long live the teachers.'

"And a meager, pallid assistant instructor in a hollow voice asked: 'On what?'"

Fried Things.

Collier's: The American woman's cooking today is less greasy than it used to be. Many of the tales about the marvelous cooking achievements of past times are well-meant dreams. To middle age, the fare remembered from hungry childhood seems entrancing. During the last decade there have been many sane and practical books on the art of cooking, many discussions on the art, and many cooking schools; knowledge has been on the increase, and improvement has been steady. Particularly in the case of frying, has there been a gain. The lard pail is not the resource that it once was.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Should Receive Attention.

Anoka Union: John Kinsella, county attorney of Lake county, Minn., has issued a pamphlet showing up Dr. H. H. Bracken, secretary state board of health. What he prints should receive the attention of the legislature. Attorney General Simpson comes in for a share of criticism, which puts him in a bad light to the Union's thinking.

Great Aid to Progress.

Park Rapids Clipper: The Minnesota legislature is asked to double the appropriation made for the aid of the county fairs. It is a difficult matter to make a county fair sustaining, especially where the county is thinly settled, and the appropriation at the present is not sufficient to permit of offering premiums which will assure the best exhibits possible. County fairs are one of the best aids to progress and development if successful, and to be successful otherwise they must first be successful financially.

Temperance Legislation.

Sherburne County News: Although the legislature chucked the county option matter into the scrap heap, there is considerable good temperance legislation proposed in the house, whatever may become of it when it reaches the senate. A good many people believe that restrictive liquor legislation is better than county option, which could hardly be enforced under present conditions.

Good Reason to Want It.

Red Wing Republican: The fact that Wall street opposes reciprocity with Canada makes the people at large all the more anxious to try it.

Got Themselves Into a Trap.

St. Cloud Journal Press: The Duluth papers are clapping the shingle hard on Clapp. They charge he is inconsistent in opposing reciprocity, after all the protesting shouts he emitted over the Paine tariff bill. It certainly does look as though certain of the progressives got themselves into a trap by their shouting against the tariff and then refusing to help modify it when they had a chance.

Senator Nelsons' Insult.

St. Cloud Times: Some time ago the St. Cloud Commercial club indorsed President Taft's reciprocity agreement with Canada and the secretary was instructed to notify Senators Nelson and Clapp, respectfully soliciting their support of the same. Senator Clapp responded in courteous but non-committal terms. Senator Nelson, who is strongly opposed to the agreement, replied in this curtly insulting manner: "Have you noticed in the market reports how the price of wheat has been going down for the last week or ten days, since the reciprocity agitation began?" Has Senator Nelson noticed that the price of wheat has been going down for about two years? June 3, 1909, wheat in Minneapolis closed at $1.32; June 29, 1910, at $1.17; Jan. 4, 1911, $1.07; March 6, 1911, $1.00⅝. Has he noticed that wheat in Winnipeg has also declined since the agreement? Has he ever noticed that the price of wheat is fixed in Liverpool, based on supply and demand? Secretary Nelson acted the Joe Bailey role in his churlish reply to a respectful letter.

Will Not Be Criticized.

Buffalo Journal: J. A. Tawney is to be a member of the government waterways commission at a salary of $10,000 a year. Tawney was turned down by his own party for being too "regular," but he certainly has been a valued servant of the people for eighteen years in congress, and the president will not be criticized much for giving him a good berth.

Governor Needs Help.

Little Falls Transcript: A Minnesota woman has written a letter—150 pages—to the chief executive of this state for help. It would almost seem that the governor was the one who most needed help.

A Non-Partisan Judiciary.

Albert Lea Times-Enterprise: The measures which are now before the state legislature providing for the non-partisan election of state supreme and district judges, also to take the choosing of county superintendents of schools out of politics, as well as the appointment of the state superintendent of public instruction, are measures which ought to become laws.

Good for the Bad Boys.

Stillwater Gazette: The board of control of Minnesota has had knowledge of the whipping given the boys at the Red Wing training school and tacitly approved of the punishment administered by Supt. Whittier. Catholic priests, probation officers and others testified before the committee of investigation that corporal punishment is a good thing for the bad boys, the kind that are sent to the training school.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Baltimore American: "Does your husband smoke incessantly?"

"Worse than that; he smokes in the parlor."

Judge: Ryker—Is he a chip off the old block?

Stryker—No; he's a joker off the old deck.

Boston Transcript: "My wife is a woman in a thousand."

"What now?"

"I just left her at the bargain counter."

Yonkers Statesman: The Preacher—And does your husband vote as he prays?

The Wife—Oh, yes; about once a year!

Washington Star: "It's jes' about as hard to pick good advice," said Uncle Eben, "as it is to do yoh own thinkin' in de first place."

Chicago Journal: Sophomore—Wonder what makes the telegraph lines hum?

Senior—I've wired dad for dough, and I guess he's talking back.

Philadelphia Record: Mrs. Gnaggs—I'll never forget the night you proposed to me. You acted like a perfect fool.

Mr. Gnaggs—That wasn't acting.

Life: "Why did I ever leave home and mother?" sobbed his wife.

"Chiefly because your family were too stingy to take us in," he answered bitterly.

Pittsburg Post: "Son, I hear you have joined the Boy Scout movement."

"Yes, dad."

"Well, s'pose you scout ahead and see if your mother is sitting up for me."

Washington Herald: "I see your son has gone to work."

"Yep."

"How is he getting along?"

"Oh, fine. Anything in the way of novelty always appeals to him."

Chicago Record-Herald: "Does he inherit his father's genius?"

"No. Only his father's eccentricities of genius. That is why we are giving a benefit for him."

Washington Herald: "So your Shakespeare club is a great success?"

"Yes. We have accumulated enough fines for non-attendance to take us all to a musical comedy."

Punch: Londoner (to Pat, seeing a football game for the first time)—What do you think of it, Pat?

Pat—Begorra, it 'ud be a jewel of a game if they only had shticks!"

Baltimore American: "That woman is a nature faker in her dress."

"How so?"

"She calls it harmonious attire to wear a mouse-colored gown with Angora furs."

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: Excuses go on crutches.

THE CHANGE IN THE CABINET.

Louisville Courier-Journal: The president is showing the manner of man he is in ways that do not at all times conform with the estimation in which he has been held by the public.

It was not in accord with that estimation that he marked time and wobbled as he did on the Payne-Aldrich tariff. It was not in accord with that estimate that he manifested such courage as he did in standing out for Canadian reciprocity at the cost of an extra session of congress. It was not in accord with that estimate that he should shriek in billingsgate that would do credit to the most exaggerative of yellow journals and the most extreme of yellow partisans, as he does in his letter accepting Ballinger's resignation.

There is in that nothing of the dignified emanation that would be expected from the judicial Taft. On the contrary, it is in every sentence the screaming screech of sputtering rage, tearing passion to tatters in adjectives and expletives that would be eschewed by the most desperate of muck-rakers who had not lost his head. It all truly discloses a Taft that no one altogether unaffected by jimjams had ever conceived. It is a most lamentable exhibition of mental and temperamental demoralization. It was impossible in the Taft that we thought we knew. Truly not the least of Ballinger's sins is that he has deprived us of the Taft we thought we had.

Buffalo News: Secretary Ballinger has done the graceful and the proper thing by resigning after he has received all the vindication that anyone could conceive under the circumstances. President Taft certifies that Mr. Ballinger has been a good secretary and is an honest man in the opinion of the president. The nation may well accept that indorsement and regard the Ballinger incident as closed.

New York Post: Had Mr. Taft been as careful in filling the secretaryship of the interior in 1909 as he has been in 1911, many of his troubles would have been avoided. It is not only what a man is ready to do that counts; what he has been and what the sound public opinion of his neighbors and friends based upon his record declares him to be are also of vast importance. Again, Mr. Ballinger was chosen largely for geographical reasons. These Mr. Taft has now discarded, to follow the wiser principle of getting the best man available for the work in hand, without regard to locality.

Springfield Republican: President Taft puts it rather strongly when he tells Mr. Ballinger he has been the victim of "one of the most unscrupulous conspiracies for the defamation of character that history can show." But we may concede that he has been persecuted beyond the limits of his deserving. He was badly placed in the cabinet at exactly the wrong time. Moreover, he began his administration of that office in a manner needlessly well calculated to start the hue and cry of the hysterical Roosevelt-Pinchot propaganda. The high-handed and apparently lawless act of the Roosevelt administration in withdrawing millions of acres of public land by executive order on the night before President Taft's inauguration was no doubt properly to be undone, but it did not have to be undone within a day of Mr. Ballinger's assumption of the office and without any explanation. Nor was he any less fortunate in his conduct after the hue and cry began to beset him. * * * The swing-around from the administration attitude of that fateful Western trip of 1909 is now nearly or quite complete. That former facing of the president may and probably was misunderstood, but there can be no misunderstanding of what it is now. * * * If President Taft at first failed to realize the strength and depth of the popular revolt from the old political and economic order, it will now have to be said that his realization is complete and that he is accordingly shaping his course.

Boston Globe: The end was inevitable, prolong the agony as the president would. Unfortunately it has been delayed until Mr. Taft and his party have suffered the maximum penalty and Mr. Ballinger has "lost health," "been burdened financially" and is overwhelmed in what the president describes as "a cruel tragedy." It is indeed a pathetic spectacle and one which all fair critics of the secretary will regret was not averted by more prudent counsels. May he find health and peace in his retirement.

Sunrise.

I walked among the shadows dark and still.
A light appeared, low in the eastern sky.
And shone upon the purple wood and hill.
And all the hosts of night began to fly.

Men who hate the light in terror fled.
Souls who hate the darkness gave a shout.
Golden beams were flashing over head.
One by one they put the sky-lamps out.

From the budding thicket came a cry,
A thousand joyous song-birds on the wing,
Lifted upward to the crimson sky,
Their melodies made all the welkin ring.

Slowly but surely up the eastern wall,
He climbed with flaming banners all unfurled.
Until he stood exalted over all,
Gazing down upon the blushing world.

Daily wage rates, in United States currency, are: Machinists, 40 to 75 cents; blacksmiths, 38; carpenters, 25; electricians, 40; stonemasons, 15; bricklayers, 15; molders, 60; plasters, 20; Stonecutters, 25; farm laborers, 30; and common laborers, 20 cents.

The cost of foodstuffs such as the natives use are as follows, in cents per pound: Fresh pork, 15; salt pork, 10; sausage, 7; ham, 20; flour (foreign), 3½; flour (native), 2½; sugar, 4; tea, 15; rice, 3.

The character of fabrics usually bought by the natives cost, per yard, about 6 cents for muslins, 7½ cents for calico and 25 cents for woolens, while their cloth shoes cost about 40 cents per pair.

The Fitzwilliam's Norman Scarf.

Truth: One is reminded forcibly of Thackeray's "Hogyn Mogyn of the Hundred Beeves," the ancestor of Sir Alfred de Mogyns (formerly Muggins), when one reads that at the christening of Lord Fitzwilliam's son one of the family relics displayed was a Norman scarf which had been given by William the Conqueror to an ancestor of the family after the battle of Hastings! It is well known that the ancient Yorkshire family of Fitzwilliam of Sprotborough became extinct early in the reign of Henry VIII, when their estate passed (through heiresses) to the Copleys and the Saviles. The ancestor of Lord Fitzwilliam was Alderman Sir William Fitzwilliam, a wealthy London merchant in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, and when he wanted to find a pedigree, the obliging heralds manufactured, by some hocus-pocus, to connect him with the well-known Yorkshire family, but he really had no more to do with them than with the De Veres or the Howards.

FOR DULUTH BEAUTIFUL

Boulevard Sixteen Miles Long Will Be Completed July 1.

Park Board Will Issue 5,000 Pamphlets Advertising City to Tourists.

Duluth will have 16½ miles of the finest driveway in the country by July 1, when the present improvements to the boulevard are completed, said B. Silberstein of the park board today.

Extensive improvements which have been under way will have been concluded. Among them are the Snively drive in the eastern section and the western extension from Lincoln park, at Twenty-fifth avenue west, to Fairmont park at Seventy-third avenue west.

The western extension has been under way for some time. Gulches have been filled, the road widened, and the bed improved until it will rank with the best in the Northwest. The scenery is even more beautiful than that of the original boulevard, which has been pronounced by experienced travelers as among the finest in the world. Not only can a bird's eye of the harbor be obtained, but the whole panorama of St. Louis bay and St. Louis river, with its many dips and turns and islands, is at the feet of the traveler who makes the trip.

The boulevard has done much to advertise Duluth in the past, but there is no doubt but that the tourists who will go over the famous drive the coming summer will spread its beauties from coast to coast. It is the only boulevard of its kind in the country, and the citizens of Duluth have been expressing themselves as highly pleased with the work that the park board has been doing to extend and improve it.

Along the Snively road part of the drive are many spots which have been donated by public spirited citizens and which will prove popular as picnic spots. The board has secured thirty-five acres all told, in this way. They are most adaptable for private parties. To extol the virtues of the Duluth park system the board is having 5,000 copies of a booklet on "The City Beautiful" printed, setting forth fully the attractions of the drive over the boulevard, the picnic spots and the numerous parks and squares.

The Park System.

Duluth now has over 260 acres of parks besides the driveways. Careful estimates put their value at $2,000,000. They cost about $600,000. The great difference is due to the good business judgment of the park board, as well as to the fact that property has been secured before it advanced so greatly in value that the price was prohibitive.

The park board is saving approximately $12,000 by building its own bridges on Snively road, according to Mr. Silberstein.

When the improvement to what is practically an eastern extension of the boulevard was proposed, the lowest bid that was received for seven concrete and stone bridges was $34,000. A careful examination of the plans and specifications has shown that ten bridges, wider than those originally planned, can be built for about $22,000.

The coming year a large part of the boulevard will be treated with calcium chloride, a dust laying material which proved very effective in Duluth last season. The cost was found to be less than sprinkling with water, and the officials who kept close watch of it state that it was much more satisfactory. It is planned to treat the boulevard with the chloride preparation from Fifteenth avenue east to Sixty-third avenue west. This includes the new extension westwards from Lincoln park.

Now that the boulevard has been extended to Sixty-third avenue west, it is intended by the park board to run the driveway as far as Fairmont park. The same general plan looks ahead to a boulevard which will ultimately reach to Fond du Lac and thence to Thompson, Carlton and Cloquet.

RECORDS OF LEGISLATORS

Minnesota in the senate and fifty-six in the house. The other native born members are distributed as follows:

Senate—Wisconsin, 6; Iowa and Pennsylvania, 3 each; Massachusetts, New York, Vermont, Ohio, 2 each; Virginia, West Virginia, Louisiana, Illinois, 1 each.

House—Wisconsin, 8; New York and Illinois, 4; Iowa, 3; Pennsylvania, 2; Massachusetts, Indiana, Michigan, Maine, South Dakota, Connecticut, 1 each.

Occupations.

The occupations given by the members are as follows:

Senate—Lawyers, 25; farmers, 10; bankers, 7; merchants, 6; real estate dealers, manufacturers, 3; druggists, officeholders, 2; nurserymen, capitalists, hotel keepers, doctors, 1 each.

House—Farmers, 34; lawyers, 18; merchants, 16; druggists, 7; real estate dealers, 6; newspaper men, 5; manufacturers, 4; contractors, bankers, doctors, officeholders, land dealers, millers, 2 each; hotel keepers, 3; livestock dealers, creamery managers, insurance men, tailors, undertakers, dentists, automobile dealers, traveling salesmen, retired locomotive engineer, 1 each; not stated, 11. The oldest senator is 80, the youngest, 31. The oldest house member is 66, the youngest, 27. The average age of the senators who confess to their years is 47, and the average in the house is 42. Five senators do not disclose their ages, and eleven house members are equally secretive.

Only two senators admit being single, and five members. A dozen senators refuse to say whether they are married or single, and ten house members are not recorded on that point. One of the house members who states that he is a single man has a divorce suit pending.

Human Interest Stories.

Some touches of human interest are found in the usually dry biographical sketches which are furnished for the Blue Book by the members. For instance:

Senator Fremont Jackson Thoe of Dodge county—"Was born on the farm on which he still resides."

Senator Julius A. Coller of Shakopee—"Was the first native of Scott county to be elected to a county office of the said county, and the first native-born to represent his district in the legislature."

Senator Albert Schaller of Hastings—"Was educated in the public schools of Hastings and at other schools in this country, France and Germany."

Senator Peter Van Hoven of St. Paul—"Was born in the city of Oost Eysden, Province of Limburg, Holland."

Wilson of Minneapolis—"Has been assistant secretary of the state senate, secretary of the senate, county attorney of Winona county, government commissioner of the Southern Pacific railway from San Francisco, south; member of the house of representatives, and attorney general of Minnesota."

Representative John O. Rustad of Fillmore county—"His parents being among the pioneers, having settled there in Fillmore county in 1849."

Representative Ralph E. Crane of Mower county—"His chief interest has always centered in his farm home at Grand Meadow, known as 'Cranewood,' where he maintains a herd of 100 pure bred and registered Aberdeen-Angus cattle."

Representative W. A. Harding of Faribault—"At the early age of 19 years he began working his own way in life. • • • Mr. Harding had always been a deep student of the economic problems and needs of the people. Of late years he has been much interested in the manufacture and sale of a 'side shift' for driving one horse on a buggy so as to take advantage of the double track on country roads."

Was a German Marine.

Representative H. A. Stuggau of Ceylon, Martin county—"Served as a marine in the German navy."

Representative H. G. Skartum of Lake Benton—"Is a self-made man."

Representative George H. Voxland of Goodhue county—"Was born on the farm in Goodhue county where he still resides."

Representative A. V. Anderson of Goodhue—"Has had charge of his farm since he was 21 years of age, which is one of the most progressive farms in Goodhue county. • • • He is a careful and broad-minded student of public problems and has always been vitally interested in public affairs, local, state and national."

Representative T. J. Greene of St. Paul—"Has always been actively alert to the best interests of this home city and is well and favorably known as an enterprising young Republican."

Representative Frank L. Palmer of Minneapolis—"Left fatherless at the age of 13, he was compelled at this early age to assume control of the farm, his mother surviving her husband three years."

D. O. K. K. MEMBERS PLAN CEREMONIAL.

The members of the Dramatic Order of the Knights of Khorassan, a branch of the Knights of Pythias, will hold their ceremonial at the old Masonic temple, March 21.

This ceremonial will be the biggest affair of the kind ever planned by the order. At the coming ceremonial there will be many out of town members present at the entertainment by the Al Sirat temple, the name of the local organization.

The tiger is an animal that is used as an emblem of the organization, and the notices recently sent out indicate that the tiger is becoming restless and will not much longer be kept contented.

A large class will take the journey over the hot sands with Mokanna and his band.

which it now holds under an antiquated and outgrown legislative apportionment.

Not that the friends of reparportionment have abandoned hope. They have not; neither have they relaxed in their fight for justice. On the contrary the fight is being carried on with new vigor all along the line. All suggestions of compromise are being discarded, and the friends of fair play will go to a roll call on the Congdon reapportionment bill about as it passed the house.

Strong pressure has been brought to bear to compromise on a basis that would prevent the necessity of cutting the terms of the senators from four years down to two. It has been stated that it is impossible to win with a reapportionment bill that will take effect at once, and that if a concession is made that will keep the present senators in office for the full term for which they were elected last fall, the bill can be passed.

That might possibly be true, too; but there are one or two very serious stumbling blocks in the way of such a compromise.

In the first place, there is no real assurance, so far, that reapportionment would be enough better off on the compromise basis than it is now to assure its passage.

In the second place, there is very grave doubt whether a bill that would not go into effect until after the 1913 session of the legislature would be constitutional.

In the third place, gains by the proposed concession would surely be partly offset by losses, because there are Northern Minnesota senators who refuse to consider a compromise which they look upon as a confession that the senate thinks more of holding office two years more than it does of yielding justice.

As to what Governor Eberhart will do if the senate beats the Congdon bill, it is impossible to see how he can avoid calling a special session for the sole purpose of considering reapportionment.

He promised that, if he did not threaten it. Failure to reapportion would be a flat repudiation, by a legislature overwhelmingly Republican in both branches, of a flat promise made by the Republican party in its state convention last year when it said in its platform:

> "Believing that each and every section of the state should be fairly represented in the law-making bodies, as is provided in Section 2, Article 4, of the Constitution, WE PLEDGE THE REPUBLICAN PARTY TO THE PASSAGE OF AN APPORTIONMENT LAW BY THE NEXT LEGISLATURE, based on population as shown by the United States census for 1910, TO TAKE EFFECT ON OR BEFORE JAN. 1, 1912, that will give to each county the representation its is justly entitled to in both branches of the state legislature."

Nothing could be plainer than that. Nothing could be more emphatic and flatfooted. The Republican state convention pledged its good faith to the people of the state, and promised that the legislature at its present session would enact an honest reapportionment law, to take effect at once.

If the Congdon bill fails to pass the senate Thursday afternoon, when it is a special order in that body, the promise made in the Republican platform, on which the Republicans elected a full state ticket and an overwhelming majority in both branches of the legislature, will be broken as flatly as any promise ever was broken.

What could a Republican governor do, in that event, except call a special session to redeem that broken promise? Especially a governor who had voluntarily promised, for his own part, that if the legislature did not pass a reapportionment law at the regular session, he would call a special session and bring the matter squarely to an issue, unobscured by other matters.

There are those who think the governor might hesitate to call an extra session for political reasons. That thought is absurd. Governor Eberhart would find it hard to do anything that would help his political fortunes more than to rebuke a broken campaign promise and redeem his own promise to the people of Northern Minnesota by calling a special session.

For no shrewd politician will overlook this important point:

The sections of the state that are seeking justice in the matter of legislative representation may be weak in the legislature, but they are strong at the polls.

THEY ARE SHORT ON SENATORS AND REPRESENTATIVES, BUT THEY ARE LONG ON VOTES!

And no long-headed politician is going to overlook a condition of that kind.

There may be a scattered few in Southern Minnesota who are against reapportionment, and who would resent the passage of the Congdon bill or the calling of a special session if it fails to pass.

But there are not even a few in Northern Minnesota who would not resent the failure of the reapportionment bill and rebuke the failure of the governor to redeem his promise to call an extra session. Republican legislature breaks the promise of the Republican party.

Reapportionment will come to an issue Thursday afternoon, at the same time that the marriage tax comes to an issue in the house.

On that day the Congdon bill is a special order, which means that it will come to a vote. At present it is impossible to reckon more than seventy-eight votes as certainly for the bill, and it needs thirty-two votes to pass. There are nearly as many votes that are counted certainly against the bill, leaving half or more doubtful votes out of which to get the four more needed to pass the measure.

Secretary W. R. Mackenzie of the Northern Minnesota Development association, who has been on the ground constantly since the beginning of the session, and who has done splendid work for reapportionment, both in assisting to draft the Congdon bill and in working for its passage, has summoned the officers of the association, and they will be on the ground early this week and will remain until after the reapportionment issue is decided.

Fourteen years have passed since the last reapportionment, and that was a compromise which took nothing away from Southern Minnesota and did not yield full justice to Northern Minnesota, even as it was populated then. It was accomplished by adding a few members to both branches. Since that time Northern Minnesota has grown rapidly and the injustices of the present apportionment are so glaring that no attempt is made to justify it.

Never before in the history of the state has so long a time elapsed between reapportionments; and if reapportionment fails at this session it will probably fail at the next because of the doubt whether it is constitutional to reapportion at any session except that immediately following a federal or state census. The next census will be in 1915, and the next session of the legislature after that will be in 1917. If reapportionment is postponed until that year, twenty years will have elapsed between reapportionments, and the longest period intervening between reapportionments before was ten years, between 1871 and 1881.

Minnesota was organized as a territory in 1849, and its legislature consisted of a council with nine members and a house of representatives of eighteen members.

Two years later, in 1851, occurred the first reapportionment, which did not change the number of members of either body, though it redistricted that membership.

Four years later, in 1855, there was a reapportionment which gave the council fifteen members and the house thirty-eight members.

Two years later, in 1857, the first state constitutional convention was held, and it provided for a state senate of thirty-seven members and a house of eighty members.

Three years later, in 1860, the senate was reduced to twenty-one members and the house to forty-two members.

Six years later, in 1866, another reapportionment gave the senate twenty-two members and the house forty-seven members.

Five years later, in 1871, there was a reapportionment which provided for a senate of forty-one and a house of 106.

This apportionment lasted for ten years and in 1881 a new apportionment increased the senate to forty-seven members and reduced the house to 103 members.

There was a reapportionment eight years later, in 1889, which resulted in a senate of fifty-four members and a house of 114 members.

The next reapportionment, which occurred eight years later, in 1897, was the last to date, and it provided a senate of sixty-three and a house of 119. That is as it stands today, except that the legislature of 1909 added one member to the house by a change in a single district.

Here is the story in tabular form:

Date	Years Elapsed	Organization	Upper Body	Lower Body
1849	..	Territorial	9	18
1851	2	Territorial	9	18
1855	4	Territorial	15	38

*Proposed in Congdon bill.

This being a representative government, both in nation and state, and the ideal of a representative government being that it should represent the people—not some people, or some sections, but all of the people—the present situation raises some interesting questions.

To be a logically sound representative system, government should be representative of the people, and representation should be equal. A system by which one section lucky enough to be located in one favored part of the state has one senator for 12,000 people, while another section, unlucky enough to be located in a part of the state not favored, has but one senator for 75,000 people, can be justified on no theory not strongly flavored with tyranny.

Which raises this question: Is the present legislature a lawful and constitutional body, and are its acts lawful and constitutional?

Equal representation was the ideal on which the commonwealth was based, and that ideal was borrowed from the sublime theories on which the nation was founded. Representation in the popular branch of congress is equally distributed, and always has been so distributed. If a situation existed in the nation so wretchedly unfair to a section as the present situation in Minnesota is to Northern Minnesota, nobody with the slightest conception of the spirit of the American people could fail to realize what refusal to correct the injustice would mean. It would mean war.

That representation in the upper branch of congress is based on statehood and not on population is due to a compromise which was necessary to reconcile the jealousies existing between the various colonies forming the new nation, and to calm the fear of the little states that they would be swallowed up by the big states. That compromise was not in accord with the spirit of American institutions, but it was necessary, and the concession involved in it was the price paid for the success of the attempt to weld thirteen distinct and inharmonious colonies into a nation.

Aside from this, the history of the nation and of the states shows that the unquestioned conception of representative government has always been that representation should be equal.

The organic act of Minnesota, passed March 3, 1849, said: "An apportionment shall be made, as nearly equal as practicable, among the several counties or districts for the election of the council and representatives, GIVING TO EACH SECTION OF THE TERRITORY REPRESENTATION IN THE RATIO OF ITS POPULATION, Indians excepted, as nearly as may be."

The rule laid down in the organic act never has been departed from in the fundamental law of the state, even though the rapid growth of Northern Minnesota, the cessation of growth in Southern Minnesota, and the refusal of Southern Minnesota to readjust representation according to the requirements of the Constitution, has brought about a situation in which a district in one part of the state has a senator for 12,000 people while a district in another part of the state has a senator for 75,000 people.

When the territory of Minnesota became the state of Minnesota in 1857, the new state adopted a Constitution which, while it put the following words (Section 2 of Article IV): "The representation in both houses (of the legislature) shall be apportioned to the population thereof, exclusive of Indians not taxable under the provisions of law." It does not say "exclusive of inhabitants of Northern Minnesota," or "exclusive of inhabitants of cities of more than 50,000 inhabitants," but that "REPRESENTATION SHALL BE APPORTIONED EQUALLY • • • IN PROPORTION TO THE POPULATION."

If that language means anything, it means that as soon as the enumeration of the population discloses inequalities in representation, such inequalities SHALL be removed by a new apportionment.

The census of 1900 disclosed inequalities in representation, but the legislatures of 1901, 1903 and 1905 failed to reapportion.

The census of 1905 disclosed inequalities in representation still more glaring, but the legislatures of 1907 and 1909 failed to reapportion.

The census of 1910 disclosed inequalities in representation so shameful that it is doubtful if a situation so grossly unjust and so shamefully out of harmony with the American spirit of fair play and equality exists anywhere else in the United States. And yet, shame be it to the state of Minnesota, there is grave doubt at this moment whether the senate will pass a bill correcting these disgraceful injustices.

It is contended by some of the opponents of reapportionment that the Constitution is not mandatory as to reapportionment. Section 2 of Article IV of the Constitution says that "representation in both houses SHALL be apportioned equally • • • in proportion to population." Section 23 of the same article directs how this mandate SHALL be carried out: "The legislature shall provide by law for an enumeration of the inhabitants of this state in the year 1865 and every tenth year thereafter. At their first session after each enumeration so made, and also at their first session after each enumeration made by the authority of the United States, the legislature shall have the power to prescribe the bounds of congressional, senatorial and representative districts, and to apportion anew the senators and representatives among the several districts according to the provisions of Section 2 of this article."

Nothing could be clearer. Apportionment "shall" be according to population. After each census the legislature shall have the power to reapportion. The Constitution does not say that the legislature "shall" apportion; that would mean that it must reapportion whether reapportionment is needed or not. But the two sections read together, as they should be, mean as clearly as language can say it that if the census discloses inequalities, the legislature must reapportion to correct them.

And this is the same Constitution that every member of the senate, no matter what his stand may be today on the reapportionment bill, took a solemn oath to support.

Every senator who votes against reapportionment Thursday afternoon will violate that oath, and thereby will violate the fundamental law of the state and prove unfaithful to his duties as a representative of the people.

When a census, Federal or state, discloses inequalities in representation, it is the duty of the legislature to correct them, and when they are allowed to continue in violation of the express mandate of Section 2 of Article IV of the Constitution, not only have those whose votes defeated reapportionment broken their oaths, but the legislature itself is unlawfully constituted.

Section 8 of Article I of the Constitution says: "Every person is entitled to a certain remedy in the laws for all injuries and wrongs which he may receive in his person, property or character; he ought to obtain justice freely and without purchase completely and without denial; promptly and without delay, conformable to the laws."

Thousands of the inhabitants of this state, if reapportionment is defeated Thursday, will be denied the first and most fundamental right of the citizen—equal representation in the law-making body of the state; a right which the Constitution guarantees every citizen, and which it commands the legislature to extend.

This is the nature of the issue that will be decided by the votes of sixty-three senators Thursday afternoon. Nothing more vital or more far-reaching ever has been before the legislature of the state of Minnesota.

THE NEW BILL AT THE ORPHEUM

Good Comedy Acts Again Feature Excellent Program of Vaudeville.

Probably the most popular musical act that ever toured the Orpheum circuit, was "That Quartet," consisting of four young men with exceptional voices. It was composed of Frank Morrel, Aubrey Pringle, Harry Sylvester, and George W. Jones.

The quartet broke up, and all four are now appearing in their own acts. Pringle was here earlier in the season; Sylvester and Morrell are also on the circuit, and George W. Jones with his partner, Ben N. Deeley, is at the Orpheum this week in "Hotel St. Reckless," a h...e musical skit that is the big hit of this week's excellent bill, largely on account of Mr. Jones' singing, and the clever work of Ben Deeley as a lazy negro. Mr. Jones has a rare tenor voice, and Deeley is one of the best "coons" in the business. His song "I May Be Foolist, But I Got Good Common Sense," was encored last evening until he ran out of verses, and he has a fairly good collection.

The skit itself does not amount to much, and simply provides an excuse for introducing Mr. Deeley in blackface makeup, and permitting Mr. Jones to sing, but that is all that is needed.

The feature act this week is "From Zaza to Uncle Tom," a comedy playlet that tells the adventures of a troupe of barnstormers, who have been stranded in a little "tank town" and are forced to put on "Uncle Tom's Cabin" at a ten hours' notice, without any "props," or dogs, and with only three people in the troupe.

It is a broad burlesque, but it is full of absurdities, and amusing situations. W. H. Murphy is a comedian of the old school. He and Miss Blanche Nichols are presenting the act, and they are two very clever comedians. Mr. Murphy plays the role of the manager of the troupe, and rehearsing his assistants in their parts. It is a clever idea for a vaudeville sketch, and it is well worked out. It might have been funnier to many had it been less broadly burlesqued, but it seems to reach the easygoing, willing-to-be-amused, vaudeville audience, most effectively.

The Marvelous Millers," in spite of their rather flamboyant name, have an act that is worth more than passing mention. They might be a troupe of very mediocre acrobats, judged from such a title, but they are not. They are dancers—a man and a woman—and they have a real novelty, an acrobatic waltz that is a little different from anything seen here in recent years. The act is very brief, probably because of its strenuosity, but it moves some while it lasts. They begin with a slow waltz, which gradually grows more rapid and more strenuous, and which lasts until the limit of their endurance is reached, which is not more than six or seven minutes. The dance cannot be described, but it is well worth seeing.

It is rather refreshing to find a quartet that does not affect the "barber shop" type of harmony. The Harmony Quintet consists of a quartet of mixed voices and an accompanist. The act opens on a darkened stage with the quartet appearing as surpliced choir singers. They resurrect two numbers that ought to be peacefully laid away for a few years and allowed to rest in peace, "The Rosary" and the intermezzo from "Cavelleria Rusticana," but they sing them well, exceptionally well. Other more popular selections follow, after the surplices have been removed and the act leaves a very good impression, is it deserves to do.

Loney Haskell also seemed to leave a very good impression, judging from the applause, but he didn't deserve it. It is a common mistake of monologists—wilful or otherwise—to believe that the only reason why an audience doesn't laugh at a joke is because the point is missed. That is the reason sometimes. More often there is another and better reason. Mr. Haskell makes this mistake—wilfully or otherwise. He has some jokes that are worth laughing at, and others which are not, but he forced the audience to laugh at all of them, which after all may be the test of a good monologist. At least some of the audience laughed at all of them, and all of the audience at some of them.

Two good acrobatic acts, of a widely different type, compiete the bill. Work and Ower are clever knockabout gymnasts, performing with only a kitchen table and a chair for their "props," while Le Roy and Paul are clever bar performers, doing some comedy tumbling on three horizontal bars.

The moving pictures are good as usual and the orchestra is playing an overture from "Fra Diavolo." The bill will continuel all week with a daily matinee.

COLLEGE GIRLS ARE THE FEATURE

New Vaudeville Bill at Empress Pleases Three Large Sunday Audiences.

Featured by a college stunt by eight young women who call themselves "Vassar Girls," and containing a number of other high-class acts, the new vaudeville bill which opened yesterday and pleased three large audiences at the Empress theater is about as classy a show as has been presented at this popular theater this year.

The eight dainty young women do their dancing and singing beneath a bower of roses, which sparkle with miniature electric lights. They furnish music of all kinds. One of the girls plays a cornet solo, another whistles, and there are other special features. The girls were a hit with the audiences yesterday, and they bid fair to retain their popularity the rest of the week. The act is an elaborate one from a scenic standpoint, and the costumes are above the average seen in vaudeville musical acts. The act is bright and entertaining throughout.

For a stirring one-act playlet, "The Lobbyist" is a winner. It tells the story of a man who is representing his district in congress. A young woman, anxious to get a bill passed, visits him in his office at Washington. Falling by other methods, she throws herself into his arms, a picture is taken, and this she holds over his head. The young man at once becomes anxious to get the bill through. This is not for fear of scandal, however, but because he wants to marry the girl. He tells her she can publish the picture in a dozen newspapers, if she chooses, and states that he will be proud of it. Of course, he gets the girl, but not before there have been situations in plenty to keep the audience in good nature for some time. It is an original idea for a vaudeville sketch, and is well worked out. The company is also a capable one.

Mlle. Ani Hill, "fresh from European successes," the "society gymnast," deserves all these phrases that she has hitched to her name, for she accomplishes many difficult aerial feats and in a pleasing manner. Miss Hill gives a good performance, and her work was seemingly appreciated by yesterday's audience.

Carita Day calls herself "queen of dance and song." That may be a slight exaggeration, but she certainly can dance and she certainly can sing after a fashion, at least in her own style. She has pitched to her voice for she accomplishes many difficult aerial feats and in a pleasing manner. Miss Hill gives a good performance, and her work was seemingly appreciated by yesterday's audience.

Mueller and Mueller are songsters who are "somewhat different." Their songs are new and their humor gets safely across. Mueller and Mueller give an enjoyable act, and they could have been heard for a much longer time yesterday. "Too short" was the only criticism heard of their act.

The pictures this week are up to the usual high standard of the Empress. There will be three performances daily, one each afternoon and two each evening during the remainder of the week.

"The Morals of Marcus."

This evening the Mack-Leone Players will begin an engagement of six nights at the Lyceum, with the usual matinees, in "The Morals of Marcus." This play is a dramatization of the novel by William J. Locke, and scored an immense success in London and New York.

This play will afford Miss Leone an opportunity to present an entirely new type on the local stage, that of a London street waif, and will also give to Mr. Mack a new character in the role of Marcus Ordeyne.

It is a "full-dress show," in the parlance of the stage, and should be a very attractive play, as the story is from the pen of Locke, one of the cleverest of modern writers, is original, delicate and charming.

"Mrs. H——, Where Did You Get This Recipe?"

The other night a guest asked that of a hostess—about a wonderful dish of spaghetti.

Countless times she had eaten spaghetti called "Italian style." She had her own pet recipe, perhaps.

But none at the table had ever tasted such harmony of flavor—such an ideal blend.

At a sign from her mistress, the maid brought a can, marked "Van Camp's Spaghetti, Italian Style."

And the hostess said, "I would like to claim credit but I can't. There is where I got it."

That incident is true.

The recipe is secret, but the result is yours. Your grocer has it ready-cooked, ready for instant serving.

It results from the blending of 17 ingredients, each the finest of its kind. Our chefs spent two years in perfecting it.

We use in the making:

MANY CHILDREN VICTIMS OF THIN ICE

Fifty Drowned in New England and Maritime Provinces Last Winter.

Boston, Mass., March 13.—Half a hundred persons, a majority of them children under 12 years of age, went through thin ice to their death in New England and maritime provinces of Canada during the winter just closing. There were seven double drownings. Many instances of heroic attempts to rescue were recorded, some of which resulted fatally to the would-be rescuers.

Josephine Pizroski, 13 years old, looking from a window of her home while changing her wet stockings, saw three other little girls fall through the ice in the Chickopee river. In her bare feet she scampered over the snow and plunging into the water rescued two of the children. Her collie dog sought to save the third, but she struggled so hard that the dog was forced to leave her to die.

Flaxseed Conservation Campaign Will Be Pushed in the Dominion.

Crushers Have Invested $1,250,000 in the Seed Distribution Work.

American and Canadian manufacturers of linseed oil extended the flaxseed conservation campaign today into Canada.

E. H. Smith of Duluth and Z. E. Martin of the Martin-Senour company, paint manufacturers, arrived in Winnipeg today. They have been assured of the co-operation of the four agricultural schools of Western Canada and the assistance of Canadian banks in financing the purchases of first-class flaxseed by farmers for seeding purposes.

About 600,000 bushels of flaxseed will be sent to the Northwestern states of the United States and the Western provinces of Canada by the leading linseed oil manufacturers. Mr. Smith is directing the campaign to find out how much seed is needed by farmers and where it should be shipped. Farmers and elevator men both in the United States and Canada having knowledge of seeding requirements and knowing whether good seed is needed in their immediate localities, are requested by linseed crushers to write to Mr. Smith, who is flaxseed manager for the American Linseed company in Duluth.

A development which will help farmers to procure seed is the decision of the leading oil manufacturers to extend financial assistance, if needed, to banks which give credit to farmers who may need credit in order to buy first-class flaxseed. Crushers have invested $1,250,000, approximately, in pure seed for distribution to farmers of the Northwest at the lowest consistent cost. Crushers do not desire to open several thousand individual accounts with farmers whom they do not know, but they will arrange to help banks dealing with the farmers of their respective communities. The oil manufacturers feel that the bankers know the farmers personally and can attend to their needs more satisfactorily than several corpoartions with officers 1,000 miles distant.

The flaxseed train that is touring the Northwest will go over the Soo this week. Agricultural experts will lecture to farmers on the necessity of selecting only first-class seed for planting and will instruct them in soil cultivation.

LITIGATION IS NOT ENDED

Famous Cedar Island Lake Cases Will Again Be Contested.

When the order of the secretary of the interior directing the Duluth land office officials to issue a certificate to Granville A. Burns for lots 19 and 14, section 4, 57-17, was received here, it was thought that the litigation over the Cedar Island lake lands, which had been in the department and the courts for years, was ended.

Not so. Rosaline Weckey, who was on the losing side in the contest which resulted in Burns being given the certificate, Saturday filed a homestead entry in the United States land office on the land involved, claiming settlement with her husband in 1892. She also filed a protest against a patent being issued to Granville A. Burns and the case will probably be fought out through the department or the courts again.

THINKS BILLS HAVE GOOD CHANCE TO PASS.

That the prospects of securing the passage of the bills prepared by the Associated Charities of Duluth are excellent, is the opinion of Courtney Dinwiddie, secretary of the local organization, who returned Saturday from St. Paul, where he interviewed a number of the senators and representatives in regard to the bills.

The Associated Charities has prepared five bills for presentation to the legislature, and they are now being considered by the house. The bills have been published in full in The Herald. They provide for important changes in the laws regarding wife deserters, inebriates and vagrants, the establishment of a state labor colony, and the appointment of a commission by the governor to study the causes of poverty with a view to eliminating them as far as possible.

WELSH MUSIC AT FREE CONCERT

Miss Jean Wanless Is Soloist —St. Patrick's Day Program Next.

A thoroughly delightful concert was enjoyed by the usual full house at the auditorium, Masonic temple, yesterday afternoon.

While the music in itself was of a high order the program offered an added interest from the fact that the vocal music and that of the latter portion of the organ music was Welsh. The songs were sung in the Welsh language by Miss Jean Wanless, who received many congratulations from the Welsh people present for her mastery of the language as well as her splendid rendering of the music. She was in fine voice, the selections suited her, her conception of the pieces was artistic and her unaffected manner and fine stage presence combined to give a charm to each piece. The first was the "Bells of Aberdyffy," which brought a hearty encore in the old familiar "The Ash Grove." For her second number she sang "Mentra Gwen," in which the double consonants of the language and the liquid flowing of the words blended splendidly with the music and she sang as a second encore one of the sweetest pieces in all music, "All Through the Night," in Welsh "Ar higd y nos," sometimes called "Poor Mary Anne."

The program began with Saint-Saens "Coronation March," which, while a little ragged in spots, makes up for any deficiencies in the main portion and makes a dignified slow march. Following were two short selections from Verdi's "Il Trovatore" in English, "Flee to the Mountains," and the "Chorus of the Gypsies," better known, perhaps, as the "Anvil Chorus," both well played. The classic portion was monopolized by the four movements of Beethoven's First Symphony, each portion of which, previous to the playing was explained by Mr. Custance and the principal themes given on the piano. In this way the listeners had a fair idea of the pieces when played in full on the organ. It was very much enjoyed, even by the musical brethren who scorn classic music, appealing to them by its righteousness, spontaniety and freshness. The concert was ended by the rousing collection of Welsh airs, arranged by Godfrey, the English bandmaster. The collection contained some were sung such as the warlike march of the "Men of Harlech," and ended with "God Save the Prince of Wales."

Next Sunday being as close to St. Patrick's day as could be, the songs and latter portion of the organ music will be Irish; the central group will be Tschaikowsky's collection of pieces which he has called "Casse Noisette," or the Nutcracker, and being a real fairy romance it is thought to be appropriate to the day celebrated; for in no other country does faries flourish as in Ireland.

After Ireland has been taken care of the next concert will be an entire Wagnerian one, vocal and instrumental, and that followed by an entire Beethoven program. The last concert will be given on Palm Sunday, on which occasion the program will be made up of the efforts of volunteers who will each contribute their best selections.

RECEPTIONS FOR DULUTH WORKING MEN.

Efforts to bring the workingmen of Duluth into closer touch with the work of the Young Men's Christian association, are being made by Rev. J. A. McGaughey, religious work director of the local institution.

The first of a series of entertainments for them was held Saturday evening at the main building of the association. Invitations had been extended to the men employed in all the shops where religious services are held by the association, and about forty men and their wives attended the reception. They were shown into the auditorium, where a short musical and literary program was given, and a reception held, after which they went into the gymnasium to witness a basket ball game which was in progress there.

It is planned to hold other receptions of a like nature in the future.

SOCIALIST ORGANIZER

Thomas J. Lewis Will Work for the Party in St. Louis County.

National Lecturer of Socialists to Speak in Duluth Soon.

The Socialist party in Duluth has grown to such proportions that it considers itself of sufficient size to warrant it in engaging a professional organizer. Thomas J. Lewis of Portland, Or., was chosen for the office indicated at a meeting of the four local Socialistic organizations in Kalamazoo hall yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Lewis has acquired a national reputation as an organizer. He will come to Duluth in time to assist in starting the movement to enlarge the local membership. This campaign will begin May 1. There are said to be many Socialists in Duluth who for various reasons are not allied with any of the local organizations. It is probable that all of the locals will be joined into one large organization.

Alexander Irvine of New York city, who was said to be New York's most eloquent clergyman but who now is the national lecturer of the Socialist organization, will probably speak in this city in the near future. A committee was appointed yesterday to arrange for Dr. Irvine's appearance.

Lovesick Youth Ends Life.

Rockford, Ill., March 13.—Heartbroken at seeing his sweetheart walking with another boy friend, Walter E. Cotton, 18 years old, committed suicide yesterday by drinking carbolic acid. A note explaining the reason for the act and imploring all to "be good to Bessie for I love her" was found on the table.

MAYOR TALKS BY PROXY.

Mayor M. B. Cullum spoke by proxy at the meeting of the Sunday morning breakfast club at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday. The mayor was scheduled to appear in person, but he was unable to be present, and, taking the mayor's proxy for granted, C. R. Magney took the floor and delivered the mayor's speech.

He told of the difficulty he had in enforcing the laws on account of the apathy of the public and the fact that people in general did not want some laws enforced. He said that if the citizens would stand by the executive, he would do what he could to make Duluth a model, law-abiding city. The speaker took it upon himself to answer questions and, although he got himself into several bad holes, he acquitted himself creditably.

The club members hope to have Mayor Cullum present in person at a future meeting.

Other talks were given yesterday by Jack Hamilton, Ernest Vor Wiehe of Minneapolis and E. M. Morgan.

IRON AND STEEL.

Large Increase in Business in Finished Material Is Expected.

New York, March 13.—The net result of developments in the steel trade last week, was to increase confidence with the prospect of a larger volume of business in finished material before the close of the month. The statement of the corporation for the month of February was even more favorable than had been anticipated although the increase in unfilled orders was not so large as expected. The most important feature was the large increase in the distribution of finished products.

The railroads are steadily increasing their orders for supplies and equipment. Last week orders included 43,000 tons of rails and 300,000 tons additional are under negotiation. The principal rail contract was 17,000 tons for the Pere Marquette.

There was some improvement in the orders for steel bars and plain structural shapes with sales of 13,000 tons of the latter for export. Even fabricated structural steel gave evidence of improvement although contracts placed were only 12,000 tons. There are pending 30,000 tons and some very heavy contracts developing. The Texas company ordered 50,000 boxes of tin plate.

The output of pig iron in February was at the rate of 2,300,000 tons annually and production at the beginning of March was at the rate of 24,450,000 tons a year. The volume of business last week was more contracted, total contracts being estimated at less than 75,000 tons. However, mainly in the Central West, contracts are pending between 75,000 and 100,000 tons.

That Feeling of Fullness

Disappears in Five Minutes After Taking a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet.

A Trial Package Sent Free on Request.

All of the unpleasant sensations attendant upon eating too heartily are instantly relieved by a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet. Like sticking a pin into a rubber balloon. The reason is simple and easy to understand.

Inflation Of The Stomach From Undigested Food Quickly Relieved By A Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet.

When you take food into a stomach that is tired and over-taxed the gastric juices do not form fast enough to digest it properly. So the food becomes sour and at once begins to throw off gases. Your stomach becomes inflated just as surely as if you attached a toy balloon to a gas jet. Then the gases and foul odors issue forth and pollute your breath making you an object of nausea to your friends. Your tongue quickly becomes coated and you can taste the foulness that is within you.

Now all this condition is changed almost instantly by a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet. This little digester gets busy at once—supplies all the digestive juices that were lacking—digests the food in a jiffy and opens up the clogged stomach and bowels. It also sweetens and refreshes the mucous lining of the stomach and bowels and restores peace and content.

If you will give Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets a chance they will not only sweeten your stomach but also your disposition and you will never have another stomach ill.

One grain of a single ingredient in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest 3,000 grains of food. This saves your stomach and gives it the rest it needs. All muscles require occasional rest if they are ever over-taxed. The stomach is no exception to this rule.

Try a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and you will wonder how you ever got along without them. They are sold at 50 cents by all druggists everywhere. A trial package will be sent free on request to F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

EXHIBIT AT GRAND FORKS

North Dakota Corn and Clover Convention Along With Midwinter Fair.

A Full Week Will Be Devoted to the Show in North Dakota City.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Through the action of the Grand Forks County Agricultural society in voting to back the corn and clover convention movement, the North Dakota corn and clover convention, Feb. 5 to 12, 1912, will be held as the successor of the Red River Valley corn and clover convention, held in Grand Forks during the last two years.

In addition to the convention, the society has also voted to hold an annual midwinter fair, and for that fair a premium list totaling about $3,000 is being made up.

Heretofore the corn and clover convention has been backed by the Grand Forks Commercial club, through committees; but with the Grand Forks County Agricultural society behind the movement, it will assume new importance in that it will be placed on a more firm basis. The society will also continue its affiliation with the North Dakota Fair association of Grand Forks, and will hold fairs biennially when the state fair is held in Fargo.

The premium lists of the midwinter fair will be published with those of the summer fairs, it being the intention of the society to harmonize the two events as much as possible.

Expects Farmers' Co-operation.

In deciding to make the corn and clover convention a full-week affair, it is the belief of the society that there exists in North Dakota a desire upon the part of the farmers to spend some time in pursuit of scientific agricultural knowledge. Grand Forks, being the trade center for the northern part of the state, will be able to attract the farmers from over a very wide section, and with a full week's program, the directors of the society that is now in charge believe that they are affording just the opportunity the farmers could and will take advantage of.

Two Red River Valley corn and clover conventions have been held in Grand Forks, and both were immensely successful. The success that was realized by those conventions is, in part, responsible for the new movement. In conjunction with the convention and the midwinter fair, there also will be held the annual shows of the Grand Forks Auto Dealers' association, the Grand Forks Poultry & Pet Stock association and the Grand Forks Kennels club.

CARLTON COUNTY TEACHERS MEET

Very Successful and Largely Attended Gathering Held at Carlton.

Carlton, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eighty-two people engaged directly in the business of teaching in Carlton county, were present here Saturday at the second semi-annual meeting of the Carlton County Teachers' association, held in the auditorium of the big high school building. The afternoon session was called to order at 1:30, with President Lena Archibald in the chair, and was addressed by County Superintendent E. J. Colovin and others. The main program opened with a general exercise song, "America," followed by an instrumental selection by Moose Lake pupils, Geneva Berquist on piano, and Floyd Carlson and Miles Skelton on violins. Following was a drill in rapid addition by Edith Johnson's pupils, and then by a model lesson in writing, by Miss Dorothy Blake's pupils, which showed almost marvelous skill in ones so young. Then came a dramatization or "Children's Quarrel in Song," by the pupils of Miss Peterson's and Miss Malchow's classes. The next was an address on "Recreation, Game and Plays," given by Mrs. Evelyn R. Lyons of the Duluth normal school, who had been especially secured for this occasion. Her address was welcomed. A very interesting afternoon was put in by all present and the session closed with a vocal duet by the Misses Nellie, Carley and Florence Lansing.

Fine Evening Session.

The evening session was opened by the Misses Mabel and Lottie Olson of Carlton in a vocal duet, "O That We Two Were Maying." It was well rendered and pleasantly received. Next came a reading by Miss Gertrude Fuller, and a very fine instrumental selection by Miss Hilma Larson. The main feature of the evening session was the discussion on the principles of good reading, by P. T. Persinger, which was given with dramatic illustrations. This was especially well spoken of by those present. Following this was an instrumental duet, "Military March," by the Misses Avis and Anna M. Woodworth, which elicited much applause and approval. Then followed the lecture by Prof. Ralph H. Hess of the University of Minnesota, on "Business Ethics." He dealt with the unfair practices of the great business concerns and handled his subject fearlessly. The county association was organized for the purpose of bringing the teachers of the county together in closer unity and in order to help them into a common method of theory and practice, and the general uplift of the profession. The following is a list of those present.

W. K. Sherwin, Nellie Sherwin, Dorothy Blake, Hattie Wheeler, Mabel Weld, Anna Swanson, Carrie Ferguson, Carlton; Darwina Seymour, Anna Johnson, Ella Butters, Wenonah Hare, Ella Schade, Anna Michelson, Paul Derby, Cloquet P. RIVAL VILLAGES IN BATTLE ROYAL Cuyuna and Ironton Scrap at Polls Over School Election and Moving School.

Brainerd, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ironton and Crosby, two rival towns on the Cuyuna iron range, last Saturday had a battle royal over a school board election and changing of a school site. Under the law, only freehold voters are entitled to vote, and everything was proceeding quietly at the polls until the Ironton voters began to troop in. Then, it is claimed, the Crosbyites started a free-for-all vote and after that no lines were drawn and no questions asked. Livery rigs were at once put in commission on each side and automobiles kept busy bringing in drillers, miners and railroaders from all directions.

Women Also Take a Hand.

The women became interested and exercised their right of suffrage, and what they didn't know about elections wasn't worth knowing. They are still talking about it. During the afternoon the fever reached the farmers of the neighborhood and they brought in their wives and eligible daughters to vote. There were no challenges but each side is claiming fraud and threatening injunction proceedings. At last accounts the result of the election is still in doubt. To make matters worse, another election is to be held next Tuesday on other issues and a hot old time is predicted for this section of the Cuyuna range on that day.

BENSON ADMITS DOING KILLING

North Dakotan Pleads Guilty at Benson and Gets Term in State Pen.

Bowbells, N. D., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—An indeterminate sentence of from ten to fifteen years in the state penitentiary was given Oscar Benson, confessed murderer of Henry Johnson, when arraigned before Judge K. E. Leighton, pleaded guilty to manslaughter.

Benson killed Johnson in a fight on a county road near Columbus. The two men had been employed on a thrashing crew, had been drinking, and it was when Benson took a team of horses owned by Johnson for the purpose of securing more liquor that the trouble arose. Meeting on the highway the two men fought, and in that fight Benson pulled a knife which he used with damaging effect. Johnson was taken to Columbus but died before medical attention could be given.

Simon Karnes of Portal, charged with rape, was convicted and sentenced by the state penitentiary for a term of from one to five years. Carl Essen, also accused of rape, was acquitted, while Roy Shong of Portal was given a jail sentence on a stautory charge.

In the malpractice case, the verdict being returned at midnight Saturday, Susie Van Berkom was unsuccessful in her effort to collect damages from Dr. A. L. Doe, the jury returning a verdict for the defendant.

BRAINERD EXPECTS BIG FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

Brainerd, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The farmers' institute to be held here, March 24 and 25 promises to be well attended. The event is being well advertised and the public affairs committee of the Brainerd Commercial club has sent invitation to over 400 farmers. The subjects to be discussed by experts include dairying, swine raising, poultry, corn, clover, potatoes, gardening, horticulture and other farm subjects. Working models, charts and photographs will be shown. In the day sessions, the Grand theater and its stereopticon will be used, as triking innovation for a farmers' institute.

BOTTINEAU COUNTY SHERIFF STRICKEN

R. H. Bond Dies Suddenly While Locking Cells in County Jail.

Bottineau, N. D., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sheriff R. H. Bond, while engaged in locking the cells in the Bottineau county jail after having served the prisoners with supper, suffered an apoplectic stroke and within twenty minutes was dead. Bond had dropped his keys to the floor accidently, and as he was stooping over to recover them, he sustained the stroke.

The deceased was a half brother of Roger Allen of Walsh county, former governor of the state. He had been a resident of North Dakota since 1887, locating in Walsh county, coming to Bottineau county in 1890. He had only served in the capacity of sheriff two months.

LEASES ITS POOR FARM.

Crow Wing County Adopts New Method of Handling Paupers.

Brainerd, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Due in part to the agitation resulting from the publication of Former Public Examiner Schaefer's report on the condition of affairs at the Crow Wing county poor farm, where the county had paid $600 in one year to keep one single pauper, the county commissioners have adopted a new plan and leased the farm to the superintendent, Carl E. Wheeler, for a term of two years. The county and the superintendent are to share equally in the crops and increase and the county is to furnish the seed. Paupers are to be boarded at $20 per month. Specified reports are to be made monthly and according to the terms of the lease drawn up by County Attorney W. A. Fleming, everything is to be conducted on a fair, business-like basis. The farmers of the county appear to be satisfied with the conditions now obtaining.

RUGBY IS EXCITED.

North Dakota Town Has Redhot School Matter on Hands.

Rugby, N. D., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—With a school fight so intense that petitions have been circulated asking the state superintendent of public instruction to take a hand, Rugby is somewhat excited over the outcome of the situation that has arisen. The trouble arose over the request of the board of education for the resignation of Supt. W. A. Scott of the city schools.

The board of education did not lay down any reasons in its request for Scott's resignation, and that fact is largely responsible for the present fight that is in progress.

MISSING WARREN YOUTHS FOUND IN NORTH DAKOTA.

Warren, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—William Johnson, aged 13 years, son of Carl J. Johnson, a hotel keeper, and Richard Olson, 13-year-old son of Peter Olson, a carpenter, left home Feb 3, and nothing was heard from them until Wednesday when a message was received by Mr. Johnson from the chief of police at Bismarck, saying William was in jail there charged with vagrancy and a message to the same effect was received by Mr. Olson from the chief of police at Mandan, N. D., regarding his boy. Mr. Olson took the first train for Mandan and Mr. Johnson wired the Bismarck police to send his boy home.

PROHIBITION LAW VIOLATORS PUNISHED.

Rugby, N. D., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two violators of the state prohibition law were sentenced by Judge Burr of the district court, Ole Rudningen receiving a sentence of 130 days and $200 fine, while J. McFadden received a 90-day sentence with a $200 fine. Both men have been in the local jail several weeks, deciding to enter pleas of guilty although originally protesting innocence.

LARSON ABANDONS CONTEST.

Duluthian Will Not Contest Houghton County Primary.

Houghton, Mich., March 13.—Oscar J. Larson of Duluth, formerly of Calumet, who was a candidate for circuit judge before the late Houghton county primary, and was reported to have plans to contest the nomination of Mr. MacDonald, has apparently abandoned the contest idea judging from the following telegram George C. Bentley, chairman of the Republican county committee has received from him:

"Let the county committee proceed with the campaign the same as though no recount had been contemplated."

Carrington Mayoralty Election.

Carrington, N. D., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—With two candidates in the field for mayoralty honors in Carrington, a fight has been placed in progress that promises to become exceedingly interesting. F. N. Chaffee and O. J. Robertson are the candidates that have been nominated up to the present time and they probably will be the only ones making the race, the present mayor, L. C. Green, having refused to make a campaign for re-election. Thursday is the last day on which petitions can be filed.

Faith in Development Plan.

Ontonagon, Mich., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thornton A. Green, president of the Upper Peninsula Development bureau, has every confidence that the newly organized association would prove a great success and result in the opening up of large tracts of valuable farm lands in this district. He is now giving his attention to the various county committees and is determined to keep the proposition of the agricultural, industrial and commercial development of the upper peninsula before the public.

Richards, commander; W. A. Currie, generalissimo; R. H. Schumaker, captain guard; G. E. Carson, S. W.; G. H. French, J. W.; Earl Gell, treasurer; A. G. Wedge, recorder.

Mandan, N. D., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Falling from a flat car near Cannon Ball on the south line of the Northern Pacific railroad, Joseph Red Leaf, an Italian laborer, met with death. One leg was entirely severed and he was otherwise mangled. Brought to the Mandan hospital he lived only a short time.

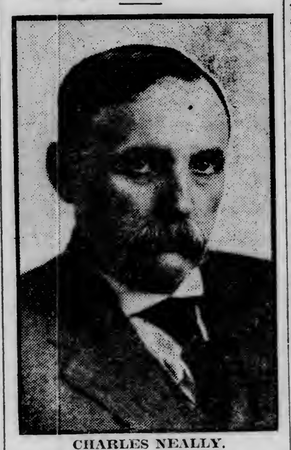
Taken From Hospital Bed Suffering Almost Unbearable Pains From Rheumatism.

From Constant Pain and Agony to Instant Relief, That Is the Experience of Charles Neally, Hotel Man of Chisholm, Minn.



CHARLES NEALLY.

Scores of Duluth people are today sounding the praises of Loughney & Loughney and their famous Bake Oven, that wonderful invention that has been the cause of more permanent cures of chronic cases of rheumatism, stomach, bowel and liver troubles, catarrh, bronchitis, neuralgia, lumbago and nervousness than any other one invention or treatment of modern times.

In the last few months several hundred men and women, many of them prominent in business and social circles of the city, have been brought back to health and happiness because they took the Bake Oven treatments. Without an exception each will tell you of the relief given to them and recommend in highest terms the merits of this great God-send invention. There's no use suffering any longer when the Bake Oven is so close at hand. It's a scientific treatment. It's no experiment. Its value has been proven too often for any one to even suggest that it is merely a thing that cures in certain cases. Will you continue to suffer when relief is so easily and cheaply obtainable?

Read Mr. Neally's statement: "I was laid up and crippled so bad with rheumatism that I could not walk or sleep at night. I was bedridden and in the hospital on my back and could get no relief. I heard of the wonderful cures those drugless healers were performing and I made up my mind I would go and take the Bake Oven treatment. My son ordered the ambulance for me and they carried me out to the ambulance and I had to be carried to the Bake Oven. I began treatments and after the first bake I felt as free from pain as I ever was in my life. The leg that was numb regained its normal feeling and was warm again. I slept eight hours the first night and my appetite came right back to me. Loughney & Loughney are the greatest healers I ever treated with. They do not ask you a single question on making an examination, and they tell every one who goes there for consultation just how they feel and just what the nature of their ailment is and they don't charge one cent for consultation or examination, and they are getting the best of results with the long-standing chronic cases. I am going to continue the treatment till Loughney & Loughney are satisfied that all of the uric acid is out of my system and my rheumatism completely cured. I am in the hotel business at Chisholm and I make this statement that it might be of benefit to other sufferers. My Duluth address is 313 East Third street."

Yours Truly
Chas Neally

CUTS THROAT WITH KNIFE

Woodsman's Attempt at Suicide Will Probably Be Successful.

Andrew Kojo, 35 years old, slashed his throat Saturday night in the rooming house of Mike Nessila on St. Croix avenue with suicidal intent, supposedly in a fit of insanity.

Patrolman John Link heard Kojo's groans as he was passing the place a short time afterwards, and discovered him in a pool of blood. The officer called the police patrol and hurried him to St. Luke's hospital. It is stated that he will probably die. The physicians think that he will develop septic pneumonia.

He cut his throat with an old clasp knife which he had been carrying for a long time. He came to Duluth from the range last Thursday, where he had been working in a lumber camp.

Want Pink Checks, Red Lips?

Some unfortunate men and women are prone to wonder why some of their friends are blessed with an abundance of color—pink cheeks and red lips—while theirs are always colorless. The reason for this last named condition is—there is not enough red blood corpuscles in the blood—under a microscope the blood is thin and watery. The flesh is flabby, too. Well known physicians assert that the regular administration for several months, of three-grain hypo-nuclane tablets will greatly improve the color, add to the weight, make the cheeks pink and the lips red, and in general be very beneficial. For self-administration, obtain from any of the best apothecary shops.

ELBA CAVE-IN; TWO PERISH

Capt. Benny Has Narrow Escape After Being Entombed for Eight Hours.

Are Caught 150 Feet From Surface, Rescuers Saving One of Them.

Gilbert, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The cave-in of a drift in the Elba, an underground mine, here Saturday claimed two lives 150 feet below the surface and came near resulting fatally for Capt. Benny, who was also caught but saved after being imprisoned eight hours under timbers and earth. He sustained three broken ribs and a broken collar bone.

The dead:

WILLIAM J. STONE, single, aged 23, home at Biwabik, native of England.

JOE BABICH, Austrian, aged 35, lives at Biwabik, has wife and five children.

Capt. Benny was saved by being caught under heavy timbers that prevented air being shut off from him, but for eight hours he was in a terrible suspense and assured those digging toward him that some one was still alive in the mass by tapping on the pipe that had been forced in by the rescuers.

The cave-in occurred about 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, when, without warning, a mass of earth and rock was precipitated upon Capt. Benny and his two companions. Although the full working force was in the mine at the time only Capt. Benny and his two companions were caught in the particular drift where the cave-in occured.

Rescuing Parties Soon Busy.

Rescuing parties were promptly on the scene, and after driving an iron pipe into the mass to afford air to the imprisoned men, began digging with might and main in response to the faint tapping on the pipe indicating some one was alive underneath.

The rescuers in eight hours came across the bodies of the two men that perished, and soon rescued Capt. Benny.

Capt. Benny had fallen with his face in a bed of quicksand, but he was able to move by superhuman effort and get himself into a crouching position in a very small space behind an upright near by. Here he was so cramped for space that he was scarcely able to move a muscle. In addition to having broken bones, Capt. Benny was scratched and cut. Although in a terrible state of both mind and body, he insisted, when taken to the surface, on going back to aid the rescuers in finding his fellow workmen. He only was taken to his home at the Elba mining location, where he may be confined for some time.

ONE HIBBING MAN QUITS THE RACE

David Graham Withdraws as Candidate for Treasurer of the Village.

Hibbing, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The day before the village election finds one candidate less for treasurer, David Graham having withdrawn. This leaves four candidates D. D. McEachin, Dennis Healy, William Grekela, and A. D. Smith. The running seems to be pretty even, all four are working hard and while some say the Scotchman will win, Mr. Healy also has many friends and William Grekela, has a very strong pull with a large number of his own people. The fight will be a keen one and unless three of the four candidates draw out before the time comes, no one can say who will be the favored one till the vote is counted.

The administration ticket still remains the same. Dr. Weirick for president; W. C. Barrett, Capt. William Wearns, J. J. Cox for trustees; H. Kleffman for recorder. While it is true that an effort will be made to elect an opposition ticket, the general sentiment seems to be strongly in favor of the administration candidates, and with final vote only one day off it seems fairly certain that the president and trustees will be returned. Recorder Kleffman's chances for re-election are very good indeed.

SOUDAN MINE TO RESUME TUESDAY

About 250 Miners Are Expected to Be Placed at Work in Property.

Scudan, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is great activity at the Soudan mine here in preparation for the resumption of mining at the noted property tomorrow.

The mine has been closed for several weeks for the purpose of strengthening and retimbering the shaft. The shaft had become crooked as a result of extreme pressure and retimbering was decided upon to render it safer. About 250 miners will be employed, and both day and night crews are to be worked and about the same amount of ore will be hoisted daily as before they shut down.

The work of repairing the shaft has gone ahead without any vexatious delays.

UNEARTHING BODIES OF MINERS KILLED AT THE NORMAN PIT

men who scampered away went home and may turn up all right in a day or so as soon as the excitement cools off which will reduce the missing number.

Paulson's Death Sad.

The tragedy fell with heaviness upon the home of John Paulson, one of the victims whose body is being sought, as his wife died only a few months ago, and his death leaves six small children ranging in ages from 2½ to 14 years orphans. Since his wife died Paulson had kept his family together in the small but well ordered home and, with the aid of neighbors and friends and the older of his children, was getting along well. The fact that he was doing a remarkable thing in caring for his family the way he did, was the subject of much favorable comment.

Four of the recovered bodies had been taken from the pile of earth and rocks up to early Sunday and one more was recovered later in the day.

Waiting for Steam Shovel.

As stated, a force of men is at work today removing the debris from one of the two tracks in the bottom of the pit and as soon as this is clear one of the big steam shovels will be run onto the track and started at work scooping up the frozen earth and rocks to find the balance of the victims. Great care will be exercised in manipulating the big shovel so as not to disfigure the remains more than sustained when death came.

Ole Anderson had a narrow escape from being caught by the mass as it came down with a roar Saturday afternoon. He was injured slightly by the masses of frozen earth and rock, but managed to crawl to a place of safety. The mining company is checking up the missing men at their homes and boarding houses, and late this afternoon it is felt that the loss of life will not be as large as at first feared, being confined perhaps to twelve. It is expected the steam shovel will be working late today and then rapid progress in the search will be made.

Deputy County Coroner Crow is an interested spectator about the big pit and will decide whether an inquest will be held to fix the blame, if there is blame.

Recovering the Bodies.

W. J. Olcott, president of the Oliver Iron Mining company, gave out the following statement this morning:

"Only a small part of the ore bank that came away. In all probability, covered any of the men. It is expected that the removal of 2,000 to 3,000 tons will uncover all of the men remaining under the ore. A wrecking train was brought from Eveleth last evening and arrangements were made to start with this at 5 o'clock this morning. By the use of this machine the work will be greatly facilitated and it is expected that the bodies of all of the men will be recovered inside of twenty-four hours, instead of two to three weeks, as has been stated.

"This is one of the most unfortunate accidents that has occurred on the Mesaba range and especially so in view of the fact that it occurred in an open pit mine, which is less hazardous than an underground proposition. In this particular instance, based upon the statements of the men actually employed, there was no warning or indication of the bank giving away, as usually occurs, and all of the dirt slid out from under the base of the slope. It necessarily followed that the men who tried to escape by running directly to the south were overtaken by the sliding mass.

"Everything is being done that human endeavor can accomplish to recover the bodies of the unfortunate men at the earliest possible moment.

"The best judgment of myself and other officials of the company is that not more than 20,000 tons slid out, first reports as to the extent of the slide being greatly exaggerated. Of this 20,000 tons it will not require the removal of over 5,000 tons to entirely clear both the tracks. In view of the approaching warm weather, which will draw the frost out of the embankment, it is not probable that any further work will be done in removing ore through the present approach."

CIVIL SERVICE REPORT MADE

duties whose classification was contemplated by the rules.

Including transfers, promotions, and reinstatements, there were, according to the report, 43,555 persons appointed through examination in the federal service and appointments through examination in the Philippine service and to unskilled laborer positions brings the number up to 46,202.

The recent classification by executive order of assistant postmasters and of clerks in certain first-class postoffices is noted with satisfaction, it being shown that other like positions have been advantageously treated as classified.

The commission joins with the president and the postmaster general in recommending legislation to permit the classification of first, second, and third class postmasters and supports earnestly the president's recommendation to congress that he be given power to classify local officers whose appointments are now subject to confirmation by the senate, favoring the classification of all except those responsible for the policy of the administration.

The commission urges legislation looking to increased efficiency in the service, especially a reclassification of salaries in accordance with the work performed, with enough grades to insure frequent promotions, some provision for retirement, and promotion on merit to the higher positions.

In its argument for a reclassification of salaries, the commission states that the present classification was adopted in 1853, under different conditions, and shows the inequalities resulting at the present time. Such a reclassification as that recommended by the Keep commission, which was reported favorably to the house of representatives by the committee on department methods, is favored by the commission and is considered prerequisite to the establishment of any uniform plan of promotion on merit. After such a reclassification the commission favors promotions in the service on the basis of efficiency records kept and harmonized by a supervisory body.

The portion of the report dealing with political activity of employes shows an increase in the number of cases investigated by the commission, most of them of a minor character, which it ascribes to increased facilities for detecting violations, fuller cooperation of the departments and greater public sympathy, rather than a growth in the actual numbers. It recommends the extension of the restriction on political activity to officers now unclassified.

The report closes with a discussion of opinions rendered during the year by the attorney general on questions arising in the application of the civil service law, among them being that preference on honorable discharge on account of wounds or sickness incurred by soldiers or sailors in the line of duty is the only preference allowed by law; that this preference is not subject to the apportionment and extends over all others on the register irrespective of rating; that the residence and domicile provisions of the census act apply only to the apportioned service at Washington and do not apply to persons already in apportioned positions; and that questions of domicile are to be decided by the commission.

SCOTCH MUSIC AND VOLLEY BALL

An Attractive Program for Tuesday Night "Pop" Is Arranged.

A special feature of the Tuesday night "pop" at the Y. M. C. A. this week will be distinctly "Highland" number presented by members of the "Clan Stewart."

The work that is to be given by this organization Tuesday night is rarely presented in public and it will afford Duluth citizens an opportunity to see something of this very unique and interesting organization. The bagpipes will be played by Messrs. Colin Thompson, Norman McLean and Kenneth McGregor. They will perform in the native costume, which will add to the interest in the number, and will also show the dress of the native "Highlanders."

The number will include a "Highland reel," music for which will be furnished from the bagpipes. Messrs. Alex Graham, Norman Matheson, James Elder and Norman McLean are the dancers.

The Clan Stewart has a large following in Duluth and it is expected that the large gymnasium will be filled.

Another feature of Tuesday night will be the volley ball game between the noon business class, with J. H. Hearding, captain, and the 4:30 business men's class with Joe T. Horak, captain. These teams have played twice and the noon class has won the majority of games thus far. Tuesday night's game will be an intensely interesting and exciting one from the start. The competition is keen on both sides and the teams will include the best players that can be found.

An interesting number will be given by a group of boys from the boys' department who will give an exhibition on the horizontal and parallel bars. The group will be composed of eight gymnasts under the leadership of Physical Director J. R. Batchelor.

A. R. Bjornquist, whose singing is so popularly known, will furnish the vocal numbers. An orchestra from Flaaten's conservatory will furnish the instrumental numbers.

The program follows:

HOMESTEADER IS KILLED BY TRAIN

Peter Yager Meets Death on Track Near Paupore's Siding.

Peter Yager, a homesteader near Paupore's siding, was struck and instantly killed by a Great Northern train some time Friday night. The body was found by the track Saturday morning. It was brought to Duluth Saturday night and taken to the undertaking parlors of J. L. Crawford.

Yager was 35. He leaves a wife and two children.

The manner in which the accident happened is not known. Yager was walking along the track near Brevator. The engineer of the train did not know that he had struck a man. Yager's body was found some time later, lying beside the track, and from the nature of the injuries it was evident that he had been killed instantly.

You Want the Best?
Then Make This at Home.

A splendid quick-acting cough syrup and cold cure. It has no equal for prompt action and permanent effects on children or adults. Immediate results is the pleasing feature. Cheapness is another. Permanent system cleansing another. Not constipating, still another. Those who have used it, swear by it, and recommend to neighbors and friends.

Obtain a 2½ oz package of Essence Mentho-Laxene, empty it into a pint bottle. Then pour a half pint of boiling water over a pint of granulated sugar. Stir and cool. Then fill up the pint bottle with syrup. Full directions for use accompany each package of the essence.

Have You a Rheumatic Friend?

If the reader of this has a friend or relative suffering from rheumatism it would be well to clip this prescription and present it. It is probably the most effective, prompt and reliable treatment for all forms of rheumatism ever prescribed. The ingredients are in common use, but the virtue seems to lie in the exact combination of the true and pure drugs. Have a reliable druggist mix it.

Iodide of Potassium	2 drams
Sodium Salicylate	4 drams
Wine of Colchicum	½ oz
Comp. Essence Cardiol	1 oz
Comp. Fld. Balmwort	1 oz
Comp. Syrup Sarsaparilla	5 ozs

Mix and begin by taking a teaspoonful after each meal and one at bedtime. After the first week gradually increase the dose to two tablespoonfuls. Truly wonderful relief is experienced and if persisted in a cure may be assured.

GOTCH WINS GREAT MATCH

Big Iowan Has to Go Limit to Win From Fred Beell.

Champion Takes Two Straight Falls—Jim Asbel Throws Ole Sampson.

In the cleverest, fastest and best contested bout ever decided in this city, Frank A. Gotch Saturday evening won from Fred Beell in two straight falls, the first fall coming at the end of twenty-nine minutes and the second at the conclusion of eighteen and a half minutes of work. Both falls resulted from the famous Gotch crotch and half nelson.

Towering over little Beell, outweighing him by fully fifty pounds, Gotch won the match purely through superior strength, weight and ability to secure effective holds through his greater reach. In science of the game, there is no man in the world who has anything on the little man from Marshfield, Wis. Saturday evening he brought cheers from the crowd time and time again by some wonderful speedy move and delighted the crowd by his science.

Twice during the first bout little Fred went out from under the big champion's worked behind. Once he got a crotch and nearly dumped the big fellow one point down. But the immense strength of Gotch, his ability to gather his strength and jump from a tight hold, saved him from any real danger.

On the other hand, the big fellow had one merry time in pinning the little fellow's shoulders to the mat. In the last fall, Beell put up one of the greatest efforts ever seen in a wrestling match in this city.

Gotch worked the little man into a crotch and half nelson and yanked Fred's legs to a position where he was clear out of balance. Then he placed every ounce of weight and strength on Beell's shoulders and began to press the smaller man to the canvas.

So game was Beell's struggle and so great his strength that it required Gotch fully three minutes to work both shoulders to the mat. The crowd cheered even before the result was known, so much admiration did Beell bring out by his game fight against an antagonist with every physical advantage.

Gotch's favorite hold was a combination nelson. Several times he attempted hammerlocks, but the little boy was too fast for him. Beell's work, as to blocking and what is known as time wrestling, which in effect means perfect judgment of movement, was about the best ever seen in this city.

Time and again Beell blocked attempted holds of Gotch, and it might be stated that Frank is the best and fastest worker from behind that we have on the mat. By his speed Beell got away from several attempted holds and it is safe to say that there is no man in the world, big or little, who is as fast getting on his feet as the man from Marshfield.

In the preliminary, Jim Asbel, a wrestler who is rapidly coming to the front and today stands as one of the toughest heavyweights in the country, threw Ole Sampson in two straight falls, the first coming as the result of the toehold, after the men had been on the mat but five minutes, and the second also going via the toe torture route, after nine minutes of work.

Sampson claimed to have been hurt after the first fall and an examination of his foot showed that it has been severely wrenched by the powerful grip of the Missourian. But at that Asbel showed immense strength, superior speed and a thorough knowledge of the fine points of the game. The Missouri boy, under the tutelage of Gotch, has arrived at the point where he can challenge any of the heavies in the game.

COMMUNICATIONS RECEIVED.

The following letter is from the Pickford, Mich., rifle club and will be of interest to the large number of shooters at the Head of the Lakes:

"The Northwestern Gun Club, Duluth:

"Gentlemen—I have been following an account of your weekly shoots, as published in The Duluth Herald, and was interested to the extent of writing you. I would like to know what target you use, how many shots you have to each score, whether offhand or rest. I presume the distance is 200 yards. Now, we have a little gun club here and we have not taken up all offhand shooting as yet. I was thinking it would be a good scheme to have a little test shoot, say for ten or twelve men, at 200 yards, half rest, half offhand, at the Standard American Target No. 1, say ten shots each. That would make 100 possible points for each man. You could publish your score in your paper, as usual, and we could publish ours in our paper and send you a copy. I think it would be more beneficial, as each man would be more interested and would probably do better. Our boys do not practice much, but if they had a little defy to shoot against I think there would be no trouble to get them out. We live so far apart we could hardly get together for a shoot, so I have been thinking we could have some interesting shoots at home. We could pick out ten or twelve men to shoot and publish their scores just the same as if we were together. Of course, we would have to be absolutely honest about the score. Talk this over among yourselves and let us have a little sport on the side. As soon as other clubs see it they will get in the race and it will be interesting to read the scores if nothing else. Yours very respectfully,

"JOHN T. RUTLEDGE,
"Secretary Pickford Rifle Club.

WITH THE MAJORS IN SPRING TRAINING

OFFICERS FORGET BALL GAME IS SCHEDULED.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 13.—When Prosecuting Attorney J. B. Wood went scouting for officers to prevent the Sunday ball game scheduled between the major league teams here he could not find a county or township officer anywhere. As a result the game was not interrupted.

The batting of Wheat was the feature of the game yesterday afternoon between the Brooklyns and all-stars, he getting a home run, a triple and two singles in four times up. Brooklyn won by a score of 8 to 4.

The team leaves here Thursday for an engagement with Memphis of the Southern league.

CUBS LOSE AGAIN TO THE PELICANS.

New Orleans, La., March 13. — The New Orleans Southern league team yesterday won its second victory over the Chicago National league team in the second exhibition game of the season. The score was 4 to 1.

BOSTON AMERICANS WIN FROM SAN FRANCISCO.

San Francisco, Cal., March 13.—The Boston American league team took the second game of the practice series here yesterday, the local team of the Pacific coast league barely missing a whitewash. Score:

San Francisco	1	4	4

Batteries — Arellanes, Killian and Madden; Markle, Miller and Schmidt and Ryan.

ST. LOUIS BROWNS EVEN UP WITH REDS.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 13. — St. Louis Americans evened with the Cincinnati Nationals in the second game of the series yesterday afternoon, score 9 to 6. Loose fielding on the part of the Nationals and clever pitching by Flannigan were mainly responsible for the victory of St. Louis.

FORT WORTH TEAM BLANKED BY GIANTS.

Fort Worth, Tex., March 13. — The New York Giants regular team hit freely yesterday afternoon and shut out the Fort Worth, Tex., league club by the score of 13 to 0.

HOUSTON CLUB BADLY BEATEN BY WHITE SOX.

Houston, Tex., March 13.—The Chicago Americans drubbed the Houston club yesterday afternoon, 13 to 2. Ed Walsh opened for the Chicagos, using a slow ball. After Houston had tallied twice he changed his gait and for the next five innings was invincible.

CURLING IS DEAD ISSUE

End of Season Finds Several Trophy Games to Be Played.

Annual Meeting of Duluth Club First Monday in April.

Curling is over for the season.

One event and the ownership of a cup are still left undecided.

The Bagley is the event unfinished and the President's cup is between Dinham and C. A. Macdonald.

In the Bagley there are seven games to be played before the ownership of the trophy could be decided. The games will not be played, as curling has been declared over for this year and the seven rinks still left in the event will probably have to be contented with the possession of a cup.

In this event there was a game in one squad between McLeod and Dr. Stocker. The winner would have played Heimick, Bradley and Brewer had a game as did Harris and Macdonald. These games would have brought the event down to the fours. Stillman was already in the fours and has been for some time awaiting an opponent.

For the president's cup, Dinham and Macdonald had a game to be played off. Dinham won it one year and Walter Hall won it another. Walter Hall is not in Duluth at this time and this rink was taken over by Macdonald. The cup lies between the two rinks for final ownership and how the matter will be decided is not yet known. Both men dislike to leave the matter of a beautiful cup to the chance of a coin.

The annual meeting of the curling club will be held on the evening of the first Monday in April. The matter of a banquet at this time has not been decided upon as yet, it is expected that at this meeting the plans for the new rink will be more definitely decided upon.

SHOOT TWO BIG MATCHES

Duluth Revolver Club Closes Season in Competition With Outside Teams.

The closing shoot of the season was held yesterday between the Duluth Revolver club and the clubs of Columbus and Youngstown. Just what scores the two Ohio cities made has not as yet been ascertained. The final standing of the Duluth team has not been given out as yet, but it is very probable that the complete standings of the various clubs the local shooters have been contesting with the present season will be known within the next ten days.

The Duluth club members have engaged in sixteen matches the present season and have made a very commendable record. Following are the scores established by the Duluth shooters in the two competitive matches of yesterday:

CHICAGO FIGHTER HERE LOOKING FOR MATCHES.

Joe McCarthy, a fast and hard hitting lightweight from Chicago, is in the city in search of a battle. This boy stopped Pete Savoy, the man recently beaten by Pal Brown, in five rounds, and has also fought draws with Danny Goodman and some of the good boys around Chicago.

He is looking for trouble and states that he is not particular who he meets and will give away weight in order to get a battle. McCarthy is accompanied by Young White, a bantam, who was the sparring partner of Jack White, who is also looking for a battle.

McCarthy is a likely looking boy, cleancut and carrying a fine pair of shoulders. He has fought some of the best of the Chicago colony and has few decisions against him. According to his statement, he will meet any man weighing within ten pounds of the lightweight limit.

MAY COMPROMISE TROUBLES OF THREE I LEAGUE.

Rock Island, Ill., March 13.—A compromise, by which the trouble threatening to disrupt the Three I league may be averted, was proposed today by President M. H. Sexton of the National association, who suggested that Waterloo be kept in the circuit for 1911 but that the league disband at the end of the season. Mr. Sexton proposes that the faction showing the largest attendance during the coming season be allowed to retain the league name and organization. The league will hold a meeting in Chicago March 15, in an attempt to settle the difficulties brought on by the attempt to oust Waterloo, and President Sexton says that if the trouble is not settled by April 1 he will ask the national board of arbitration to disband the league "for the good of baseball and for the protection of players."

If a few more table guests would make it profitable for you to keep boarders, then you have business for a Herald want ad.

LION SAILS THIS MONTH

Hack Will Return to Europe But Will Come Back Next Fall.

Russian May Meet Gotch in Open Air Match on Labor Day.

If the present plans of Jack Curley, George Hackenschmidt's manager, do not go amiss during the summer months there will be a big match in this country next fall between the Russian Lion and Frank Gotch, present champion of the world, a match that will definitely and for all time settle the question of wrestling supremacy between this famous pair.

Hackenschmidt will sail for Europe from New York on March 30. This is the consummation of plans made two months ago. He will have cleaned up all of his American dates by that time. Curley will follow him over two weeks later and spend the summer abroad. They will return together the latter part of August and their first act upon their arrival in New York will be to post a forfeit of $5,000 either in New York or in Chicago in support of a challenge to Gotch.

The failure of the Lion to realize his ambition in getting on with Gotch this season has only stimulated him to try again. He suggested to Gotch some time ago that they post a forfeit for a match next Labor day when it was found impossible to get the champion to agree to an early date this spring, but Gotch did not seem inclined to accept this proposition.

Now Hackenschmidt is going to return and attempt to force Gotch's hand. The Lion says Gotch will have the entire summer to rest up and do some light training for the contest. He will then give him as large a side wager as may be consistent.

The Lion does not think the champion has treated him fairly. When Hackenschmidt came to America he learned that Gotch had retired. The champion made his statements to this effect with great positiveness and Hackenschmidt, respecting them, did not bother the champion with a single word, let alone a challenge.

Soon after Hackenschmidt's tour began Gotch began to get restless and before long changed his mind several times, first stating that he would wrestle again and then coming out with a statement that he would not. Finally he did take up the game and then it was that Hackenschmidt asked for a match.

Gotch framed up some impossible conditions, Hackenschmidt claims, and thus made the match impossible. He wanted to wrestle in May, when he knew that Hackenschmidt had to be back home in April. Gotch also claimed Hack should defeat certain men, another impossible condition.

Hackenschmidt, however, is willing to forget all of these unpleasant things and start off on next season with a big match for the title. He claims this will set at rest the oft-repeated claims of some of the game's knockers that this man or that one is being "worked up" to a championship match. It would in addition be a decided novelty and could be decided in the open air, something that Gotch all along has said he desired, though for what reason he has not made plain.

At any rate, Hackenschmidt intends to post this big forfeit as soon as he returns to this country in August or September.

CENTRAL WINS FROM AITKIN

Local Quint Takes Basket Ball Contest By Score of 22 to 12.

Saturday evening at the high school gymnasium the Central high school basket ball team defeated the Aitkin quint by the score of 22 to 12. Aside from the failure of both teams to shoot even a fair number of baskets that were attempted, the game brought out some very fast playing.

At the end of the first half the score was 11 to 7 in favor of Central, though within a few minutes of the half closing time the visitors held a lead of four points. Solheim's two clever baskets started the Central rally which carried the team by the boys from Aitkin.

Jeronimus and Solheim played strong for the locals, the defensive play of "Dutch" being one of the features. The Dutchman got two baskets from the field and gave his man no chance to shoot with any degree of accuracy. Solheim's three baskets from the field were of the difficult order.

In team work and all round play the Central boys shaded their opponents, though there were times in the game when there was very little to choose between the two teams. The game was fast and interesting and was enjoyed by a large crowd.

The lineup and summary:

Developments in Baseball as Seen By the Old Scout—Bill Rigg's Latest Idea—The Wrestling Season That Has Closed—Rube Waddell's Baseball Finish.

(BY BRUCE.)

TAKING Bill aside the other day we had occasion to ask him whether he realized the growing magnitude of the great game of baseball.

You see, Bill is an old scout, and it might be a justifiable suspicion to doubt his knowledge of some of the new wrinkles of the game. Right here it was that sweet William put one over, showing thereby that he is a very careful student of the game, even if he does have to get those old horn specs out to see the paper two inches from his nose.

"Bless me," said Bill, "they has progressed much from the days of old Hardie Richardson and Deacon White. I seen both of theso old boys play in Cincinnati in the good old days, and, son, they have rung in some new ones on us.

"The other day I was reading the sportin' sheet when I sees as how Billy Murray has been appointed chief of the scouts of the Pittsburg club. Holy hornfish! Here is a man who was last year manager of those guys they calls the 'Phillies,' and perusin' of the sportin' page I observes as how he is made the hull shout in a new department of the game. How these times do progress!

"In my time of sportin' around and chaffin' with the boys, we did not know what a scout was. Later some of the long-headed boys in the league got the notion of sending some lonesome individual around the country, trying to persuade some of the boys from the farm to sign with some of the teams.

"In them days we did not have any more money than could be gathered in by the weakest professional team of today. That lonesome guy looking around the country for one or two teams of them days, was the beginnin' of the scout notion. Here I picks up my paper and reads as how they have made a chief of scouts for the Pittsburg team. Me boy, they be progressin', and when I looks back on the old days with the little gloves that we used, the boys on the field with their flowin' mustaches and beards, and the small crowds and the small salaries, and then compares them on the scrumptious style of the boys of today, those rides on Pullman cars, the stopping at the best of hotels, the fine new parks, and the screamin', yellin' crowds of 40,000 people, and Lor' bless me old glims, that chief of scouts job that they made for Billy Murray, I do think of how time has dealt several first class hands for the game of baseball."

Billy Rigg Has an Idea.

AS A man of ideas, Bill Rigg is the Thomas A. Edison of the fall shooting game in the Northwest. Nett lake has been the region of many of his exploits, and if there is a man, woman or child among the Indians in that region of our country who does not know Bill Rigg, it is because he or she is deaf, dumb and blind.

You may remember that it was William who had the trained duck, Emma or some such name, who proved plum treasonable to her sex and species by luring the foolish sisters within range of Bill's gun.

You may have also read of the plan whereby Bill draped his canoe in bush and swamp grass, thereby hoping to crawl up on the ducks and get a shot at them before they took to the wing. By various ideas he managed to shoot a duck now and then.

It was a day of rare and sweet pure joy when Bill succeeded in killing or crippling a duck, for he would treat poor Lo and would hold a general celebration over the mark of the hunter's prowess.

Now he has been gifted with another idea. This is the pure ray supreme in the Rigg repertoire. It comes as the climax of a long line of experiments, and if it is carried out as successfully as the author of the idea hopes, he will come to this city with loads of the ducks as testifying mutely to his skill as a mighty hunter.

Listen and cogitate—Bill proposes to have his boat inclosed by mirrors. There will be only a space in the stern where the Indian can, silently as the cooing wigwag of the night wind, paddle him up to the innocent ducks, which will, according to the calculations of Bill, looking at the looking glasses, believe they see another flock swimming toward them, and will, without suspicion of impending doom, swim with the welcome-to-our-city smile on their foolish faces, out to meet the crack of Bill's gun.

In discussing the idea just the other day, Mister Rigg imparted the information that there was not the least idea in his mind regarding the success of the venture. Success is written all over the picture William paints as the idea, and when one listens to him the wonder is there as to what on earth the hunter will do with all the ducks.

I file Indians in the region of Nett lake ever heard of this idea of Bill's, and I believe that it will be carried through successfully, you may gamble that there will be a general powwow in exuberant anticipation of the times that will happen should the Rigg party ever come in laden with ducks.

Wrestling the Past Season.

SATURDAY evening Duluth witnessed one of the best matches that has ever been wrestled in this city. It was fitting that this contest between two of the greatest wrestlers in the world should come at the end of the season, for it was a most fitting climax to the most successful winter's wrestling that this city has ever witnessed.

Never have the fans of Duluth taken to the game as they have the past winter, and the reason is simply because all suspicion of crookedness and underhanded methods have been eliminated from the game during the past two years of its life in this city.

At one time the grappling game was so dead that it would have made the proverbial door nail look like a gay young thing attempting the Salome without educational or artistic atmosphere. Duluth has seen the greatest stars of the game, and has witnessed some of the best matches ever wrestled in this part of the country, during the past two years.

If wrestling retains its popular hold on the public, there is every reason to believe that even better matches will be wrestled in this city. While the past season was one of the most successful ever pulled off in this country, it is very probable that next season will be even more successful.

It is very probable that there will be a finish match between Gotch and Hackenschmidt, for Gotch informed the writer that he was willing to meet the Russian, and it is also very probable that America will see the wonderful Indian wrestler, Gamma, the man who beat Dr. Roller in such decisive fashion, and the man for whom Mr. Benedict, the English sportsman, has deposited a backing of £500 to meet Hackenschmidt and Zbyszko.

In figuring any phases of the happenings in the wrestling world for next winter, it might be suggested here that it is to be hoped Yussif Mahmout will break loose from the people who have this very excellent wrestler under their control.

It is hardly probable that he will be able to get matches so long as he stays with his present managers. The Turk is one of the very best of the great wrestlers, and it is too bad that his ability should be hidden under the figurative bushel, so to speak. Let him shake his present company and there will very probably be a change.

Locally the season is ended, and while the chances are that a great wrestler, one of the best in the country, may make his home here next winter, the coming of baseball and other kindred sports will from now on crowd most of the talk of wrestling from the sporting sheet.

Last Saturday's match was in many respects the best ever wrestled in this town, showing two great men in the exercise of a science that they have brought to a high degree of development. It pleased every spectator present and went a long way to remove the unfortunate showing of Lehto and to leave a pleasant memory in the minds of the fans.

Watching Waddell's Finish With Baseball.

WE HAVE all these past few years read of the cavorting of Rube Waddell, one of the famous characters of the game. His coming to Minneapolis the present season will bring him even nearer to our range of vision.

Employing logic as the field glass to look at the case of the wandering Waddell, it would seem that he is nearing his end of usefulness as a pitcher who can be of much material benefit to a team, except as a magnet to attract the curious fans to the park.

When Connie Mack let him go it was a sort of foregone conclusion that his days of usefulness were indeed short. This Connie man has the reputation of getting a man go when he has any ability left. Waddell was a failure with St. Louis and there is not very much reason to believe that he will be very successful in the American association.

He is a veteran who should begin to show the signs of wear and tear, even if he had taken the very best of care of himself. He has not given the least thought to his future, either physically or financially and when he gets to the stage where the minor leagues will refuse to give him employment, nobody knows what will become of him, for according to the best information in regard to his habits and general disposition, he has traded his wonderful ability for a mess of pottage.

ABUSED HIS NIECE.

Beltrami County Jury Finds Charles Stebbins Is Guilty.

Bemidji, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The jury in the case against Stebbins, accused of having abused his 12-year-old neice, brought in a verdict of guilty. Judge Stanton will sentence him this afternoon. The penalty is imprisonment from seven to thirty years. The jury in the case against Frank Van Tassel, charged with assault in the first degree, was discharged because of its inability to agree.

PELTIER'S CASE WILL BE TRIED IN MINOT.

Bottineau, N. D., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joe Peltier, once convicted of murder and now to be tried the second time, will not have his trial in Rolette county but, instead, will be taken to Minot for the trial. The original order from the Bottineau county district court, when an affidavit of pejudice was filed, was to the effect that the case be transferred to Rolette county. Because of the stir that has been created in the Second judicial district, in which Rolette is located, by reason of the impeachment of Judge Cowan, Judge Burr made a new order and Peltier's case will consequently come up in Ward county. Peltier is accused of the Somber murders in this county, committed about two and a half years ago.

Oconto Council Taxes Bachelors.

Marinette, Wis., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The common council of Oconto has jumped into the limelight in a manner that will make national legislators sit up and take notice, by imposing a tax of $6 on all bachelors between the ages of 21 and 50.

OLD MEN ARE CHIEF SINNERS

Speaker Says Age of Great Temptation Is Between 30 and 50.

Dr. Charles Byard Mitchell of Chicago spoke yesterday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. on "The Devil and a Man." He said the scandals of the present day were confined chiefly to men. The great sinners of the Bible, he declared, were old men. The young men were the Daniels and the Davids who overcame evil. The speaker said the young man was not so beset by temptations as the man between the ages of 30 and 50.

A credit man of Chicago told Dr. Mitchell that two classes of men were least to be trusted, preachers and lawyers who had given up their professions for business. "The preacher who gives up his pulpit is either a failure or a hypocrite," said the speaker.

Dr. Mitchell said he was not competent to discuss "The Devil and a Woman." He knew, he said, that some women had had some stiff tussles with the devil.

The speaker attacked vices to which men are particularly susceptible. He said he did not believe in the devil but in Jesus Christ. He said he thought there was a devil as he knew of no other way to account for so many children of evil. He found that the Bible recognized the existence of such a being and the speaker digressed to declare his belief that the casting out of devils in Biblical days differed materially from the curing of insanity in the present time. He said men had been found in modern times who were possessed of devils. He said there is a something that makes for good and that there is a something that makes for evil. He prefers to call the latter devil rather than evil. The former term, he thought, is more readily understood.

He said some babies were possessed of devils before they could talk. He thought some of the babies who disturbed his meetings by crying were so possessed.

Men succumb, he said, to avariciousness, ambition and lust. He said the greatest curse of the present time was the desire for material gain. Ambition, he declared, led many men to their graves. Fleshly lust, he thought, was more pronounced in men than in women. Men are responsible, he declared, for the existence of the social evil, the saloon and the tobacco business. One moral standard, he asserted, is outlined for both women and men by the Bible. Drinking and smoking by women, he believes, are increasing.

"No decent woman," he declared, "can smoke in public in the United States without laying herself open to suspicion."

The choir of the First Methodist church sang.

FOR A TONIC NOTHING EQUALS S.S.S.

The need of a tonic in the Spring is almost universally recognized. We have learned that a weakened, run-down system means more than "Spring Fever," as we are accustomed to refer to the physical disturbances which come at this season. Bodily fatigue, fickle appetite, poor digestion, nervousness, lack of energy, etc., prove that the proper amount of nourishment is not being supplied to the body through the circulation. The stomach, bowels and digestive members are sluggish from lack of stimulating nutrition, and in consequence the entire body suffers from the effects of a poorly nourished constitution.

The recognized importance of pure blood in preserving health emphasizes the danger of a weakened circulation. The use of a real blood-purifying tonic when the system is deranged from lack of nourishment, will often prevent the development of some serious sickness, because weak systems cannot resist disease, while healthy, well nourished constitutions are able to ward it off. No medicine is of value as a tonic except one which purifies and enriches the blood, for until this is done the body will not receive its required stimulus and disease-resisting powers.

Your S. S. S. in my opinion, is as good a medicine as can be had; it simply cannot be improved upon as a remedy to purify and enrich the blood and to invigorate and tone up the system. Last Spring my blood was bad and I was run down in health, and having seen your medicine highly advertised, I commenced its use. Today my blood is in fine condition and my general health is of the best. As filling position as fireman of a large concern here, and if I was not in good physical condition it would be impossible for me to fill the place.

WHEAT DULL AND WEAK

Values Decline After Early Bulge—Crop Reports Bearish.

Hessian Fly Scare Premature —Visible Supply Decreases.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 13.—Wheat declined slightly today. May lost ⅜c and July lost ½c. Cash wheat closed ½c under May. Oats lost ⅝c, rye and barley were unchanged, durum lost ¼c.

May flax was lifeless and there was no trading. It closed unchanged. Antwerp reported La Plata flaxseed slightly cheaper.

The market advanced with shorts covering soon after the opening. The upward movement was a continuation of the short covering that was prominent in last week's developments. When the shorts were fairly well in and the market was evened up values began to weaken and the decline, while erratic, persisted although the pressure was not insistent. The volume of trading was exceedingly small. The strength in corn gave a sympathetic tone of firmness to wheat, but this soon disappeared.

Traders were fed only the news that they had been accustomed to. The trade is getting tired of espousing the bear side and is waiting for something to turn up that will be sufficient basis for them to bull wheat. The Hessian fly is not making good. East of the Mississippi river wired Chicago the fly exists in some localities. The plant has not yet jointed and the speculators are watching the fly get into the joint. This uncertainty will last for several weeks. At present the Hessian fly scare is a joke. B. W. Snow wired that the fly is present in Southern Ohio to a limited extent and is moderately widespread in Southern Indiana and Southeastern Illinois. Scattered portions of Missouri also report the presence of the pest. Only early seeding is affected.

Crop reports generally were flattering. The plant in the Southwestern states is green and is looking in first-class shape almost everywhere. There has been plenty of moisture. The possibility of frosts or damage from insects is being considered by those people who would like to bull wheat but they have not yet found a peg upon which to hang their hopes.

The Liverpool market was higher and Paris came stronger. The rest of the continental markets were weaker. Indian crop reports are less favorable. Statistics were bearish except domestic statistics which were bullish. The visible supply of wheat in this country decreased 1,646,000 bu. The Canadian visible decreased about 200,000 bu. World's shipments were about a standoff. Wheat on passage increased nearly 2,000,000 bu.

Receipts at primary markets continue light.

The Flour Situation.

For the first time in at least two months the markets in the last few days have shown an indication of a change in speculative sentiment from the bear to the bull side, with a consequent betterment in prices. Since the lowest prices for the crop were touched about a week and a half ago there has been an advance of about 2c. The failure of the reciprocity agreement to pass the late congress was an influence of considerable importance, while small receipts, an improved cash demand and estimates that farm reserves were not as high as the government indicated have helped to stimulate the development of firmness.

It was hoped that the advance in wheat would help the flour situation. It was thought that buyers would be encouraged to abandon the hand-to-mouth policy they have pursued for a long time for one of liberal trading. So far as most markets are concerned, however, there are few signs of improvement and reports from the leading milling centers are still unsatisfactory. Buyers are quite as indifferent when they are quoted higher prices as when the tendencies were toward lower values.

Naturally more business is expected when supplies become reduced and stocks are in need of replenishment. It may be supposed, also, that as spring approaches an increase in the demand may be anticipated. There is no intimation that buyers are about to make a change in policy, however. On the contrary the trade seems to be impressed with the belief that the buyer who buys when and what he needs will in the long run fare better than he who, hoping to discount the future, buys liberally for deferred shipment.

There is no indication that any risk will be taken in moving cautiously and keeping close to actual requirements. There is a plentitude of flour offering, more in fact than is consistent with a healthy situation. Buyers seem to have no doubts about supplying themselves with all the flour they desire at or near current cost for some time to come.

Northwestern millers are quoting a nominal advance of 10c a barrel but practically all of them would accept bids on a basis of the quotations ruling previous to the announcement of the advance and most of them would make much more liberal concessions from asking rates. Good first patent cannot be bought in wood at around $5 a barrel, and it is doubtful if bids of $5.25 and $5.30 would now be accepted by Minneapolis mills for standard brands, as was the case a week ago.

No really high grade first patent can be bought at under $5.25 and from that up to $5.60 is asked. A favorite quotation is around $5.50 for leading trade brands, a price that might be shaded 10c on firm offers for prompt shipment, shipping instructions accompanying the order. Most millers are willing to take a lower price for prompt than for future shipment and all are anxious for shipping directions on old contracts preferring in some instances to secure these than book new business.

Soft winter wheat flour is extremely dull. It is meeting with very little demand. Some millers have advanced their selling limits slightly and others have made no change. Best patents are still offered principally at $4.50 to $4.75 and good straights or pastry flour at $4.10 to $4.40 a bbl. Supplies of Kansas hard wheat patents are still large and there is no demand for them for shipment from the mills.

MARKET GOSSIP

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool—World's wheat shipments this week 12,320,000 bu; last week, 12,362,000 bu; last year, 11,408,000 bu. Corn, last week, 3,024,000 bu; previous week, 4,037,000 bu; last year, 2,064,000 bu. The Liverpool wheat market opened steady and ¼d to ½d higher and following the opening further advanced ½d to ¼d. Support was attributed to the firmness in America on Saturday and less favorable reports from India re the Hessian fly and scarcity of offers of white sorts with cargoes held 1½d to 3d advance. World's shipments, although liberal, were smaller than expected with lighter shipments from Russia, with fewer Australian and Plata offers. Stocks for the week show a decrease and arrivals are smaller. The market was dull with buyers holding off, but the undertone firm and at mid-day, prices were ¾d higher than Saturday. The corn market was quiet at the start and unchanged. Later there was good support in May, which advanced ¼d. Support was due to the firmer American offers and lighter shipments to the United Kingdom this week. Our Indian agent cables that light rains have fallen in the Punjaub and more is wanted. Slight frosts has ocurred in the United Provinces from hail and rain. It is now hot and rust is feared. In Bengal the output is expected to be 77 per cent of normal.

Closing wheat cables: Liverpool, ⅝@⅝d up; corn, ¼d up. Paris, 1c to 1½c higher; flour, ⅝c to 1c higher. Antwerp, unchanged. Berlin, ⅜c lower. Budapest, ½c lower.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Shows a Tendency to Waver With Light Trading.

Chicago, March 13.—Wheat showed a tendency to waver today. Trade was light. Cables came higher, influenced by lightness of Russian shipments and by less favorable reports from India. On the other hand the weather map told of a moderate amount of moisture in the Soutnwest with lower temperature, an improved condition for the growing crops. World shipments, however, were not as large as expected and the bulls derived some help from that circumstance. The opening here was unchanged to ¼c lower. May started at 90⅞@91⅛c, with the same range as the market taken altogether, but rallied to 91⅜c.

Denials later from experts that there had been severe damage by Hessian fly turned prices decisively downward. The close, however, was steady with May 7⅛@⅛c net lower at 90⅛@¼c.

Some good buying pulled corn upward a little when wheat had a recovery. Letup in foreign inquiry weakened the market during initial trades. May opened a shade down at 50c, declined to 49¾c and then rose to 49⅞c.

Subsequently the market slumped with wheat. The close, though, was steady, with May at 49½@⅝c, a net loss of ½c.

Operators in the oats pit attempted chiefly to follow corn. On the whole, though, price changes were narrow. May started the same as Saturday night to a shade higher at 31c to 31⅛@31¼c, declined to 31c and rallied to 31@31⅛c.

Depression seized provisions because of the big run of hogs. First sales were 5@10c off with May options at $17.40 for pork, $9.05 for lard and $9.40 for ribs.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Prices Start in Firmer But Later Decline.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 13.—The strength in foreign markets made the early wheat market a trifle firmer. Later on selling pressure developed on favorable reports from the Southwest and prices declined. May closed ½@⅝c lower than Saturday; July ½c lower and September ½@⅝c lower. Local elevator stocks decreased 140,000 bu for two days. Minneapolis today received 450 cars of wheat against 621 a year ago; Duluth 9 against 86 and Winnipeg 304 against 221. May wheat opened 97½@97⅝c; high, 97⅞c; low, 96⅝c; closed, 96¾c. July opened 98⅞@99c; high, 99¼c; low, 98@98⅛c; closed, 98⅛c. September opened 92¾c; high, 92⅝c; low, 91⅞c; closed, 91⅝c.

Cash wheat was quoted firmer today. Demand was more active. Offerings liberal and premiums a trifle higher. Mills good buyers. No. 1 northern sold for 1@2c above the May contract. Closing: No. 1 hard, 99c; No. 1 northern, 97¼@98½c; to arrive, 97¼@98½c; No. 2 northern, 94⅜@96½c; to arrive, 94⅜@96½c; No. 3 wheat, 92¾@95¼c; No. 3 yellow corn, 42½@42¾c; No. 3 white oats, 28½@29c; No. 2 rye, 83@83¼c.

Millstuffs — Shipments, 1,955 tons; strong and active; some mills quoted prices little firmer, but majority reported no change. Bran in 100-pound sacks, $20.00@21.00.

Cotton Market.

New York, March 13.—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of 5 to 9 points in sympathy with easier cables than expected in response to local selling inspired by rumors of a failure in New Orleans and reports of rain in the Southwest. There seemed to be very little May for sale, however, and shortly after the opening a demand developed that left prices which sent prices up sharply with May selling at 14.61 before the end of the first hour, or 5 points above the closing figures of Saturday and about 28 points over July. The market was very nervous and while sentiment around the ring seemed to be reactionary, sellers were restrained by the strength of May and the appearance of buying orders in the hands of the leading bull brokers.

Spot closed quiet; middling uplands, 14.65; middling gulf, 14.90; sales, 600 bales. "Futures closed steady: closing bids: March, 14.35; April, 14.40; May, 14.51; June, 14.27; July, 14.26; August, 13.80; October, 12.66; December, 12.56; January, 12.54.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Bears Fail to Make Capital Out of Mexican Trouble.

Some Stocks Bought Very Heavily—Close Sluggish But Firm.

New York, March 13. — The stock market was dull and inclined to heaviness at the opening today. Canadian Pacific lost 1¼, National Railways of Mexico, second preferred, 1. Central Leather ⅝ and American Smelting and American Agricultural Chemical ½. Atchison was up ⅜.

The tone of the market was improved by active buying of Atchison, which advanced a point, and other stocks rallied slightly. Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie, National Biscuit and Pittsburg Coal preferred gained a point and Federal Sugar 3. Minneapolis & St. Louis preferred sold at 35, compared with 53¾, the previous transaction in November last. It afterwards rallied to 39.

Bear operators attempted at the outset to make capital out of the Mexican situation and the possibility of decisions today by the supreme court in the anti-trust cases, but met with very little success. After some uncertainty the market rallied gradually and at noon showed advances over Saturday's closing, amounting to a point in Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Missouri Pacific, Reading, Pennsylvania and United States Steel. The bond market was steady.

The market closed firm. Some stocks which usually do not figure prominently in the dealings were bought very heavily, but their rise was without much influence on the general market, which was very sluggish but firm. Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie was marked up 2½. American Ice 2, and Wisconsin Central 1¾.

St. Paul, Minn., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.) — Today's local elections, where license and no license and heated contests over town and village clerkships are the vital issues, drew away many members of both houses, and yesterday and today interfered very conspicuously with the progress of legislative business. Both houses held sessions, much against the wishes of many members who wanted to adjourn over today so they could go home and participate in the local contests, but no important legislation whatever was considered yesterday afternoon.

The house session was a piece of horseplay that verged on the vaudeville order.

First a motion was made, the attendance being very light, that the house adjourn until Wednesday morning. Some of the members wishing to do a little work, this was changed

VETOED BY EBERHART

Governor Opposes Street Car Passes for Policemen and Firemen.

Investigation Into Dairy and Food Commission Deficit Is Ordered.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—As expected, Governor Eberhart this morning vetoed the bill giving street railways the right to give passes to policemen and firemen in uniform. He returned the measure to the house this forenoon with his veto message, the first of the session. In the message the governor said that the cities ought to pay policemen and firemen enough so they would not need to ask for passes, and to that end the street railways ought to be made to pay their share of the taxes. Chiefly, however, he opposed the bill because it is an entering wedge that he fears might ultimately result in destroying the wholesome anti-pass law.

On motion of Representative John G. Lennon of Minneapolis, the message and the bill were laid on the table, so that the friends of the measure may decide whether or not they wish to attempt to pass it over the veto. Such an attempt may be made, but it will fail, as the bill passed the senate by a narrow margin.

Senator Pugh of Duluth, who has worked hard for the bill, expressed great disappointment over the veto this morning and said that, in working for the bill, he felt that he was work-

SENSATIONS LOOKED FOR

Lively Times Expected in the Graft Situation at Cincinnati.

First Comes in Finding County Clerk Guilty of Contempt.

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 14. — The first sensation of a day that promises to be prolific of them so far as Cincinnati's graft situation was concerned, came at the opening of court when Peter W. D rr, clerk of Hamilton county, was declared guilty of contempt of court for alleged tampering with grand jury witnesses.

The finding was reported by a committee of three attorneys who were appointed last week by Judge Frank Gorman to consider the charges. The committee found that Durr had coached court employes and others who had been summoned to the grand jury room and had suggested to them the way in which testimony should be given along certain lines. Judge Gorman did not announce what penalty he would inflict on Durr.

The contempt proceedings delayed the start of the second day's proceedings in the trial of Jacob W. Baschang,

MILITIA OFFICERS ARE ENTHUSIASTIC

Nearly 2,000 Accept Invitation to Join in Maneuvers in South.

Washington, March 14.—The enthusiasm of the officers of the militia of the various states and territories over the opportunity offered them by the war department for field experience in the present military operations in the southern border states continues unabated. Since Saturday, Gen. Leonard Wood, chief of staff of the army has received acceptances from 705 additional militia officers of the invitation to join "the maneuver division" at San Antonio, Tex., making a total of 1,950 acceptances. The states just heard from and the number of officers follows:

Alabama, 1; Arizona, 25; Colorado, 72; Connecticut, 28; Georgia, 72; Maryland, 38; Michigan, 156; Minnesota, 34; Nebraska, 29; New Jersey, 14; New Mexico, 8; North Carolina, 44; North Dakota, 16; Rhode Island, 2; South Carolina, 76; Virginia, 111.

The District of Columbia and thirteen states have not yet responded.

Maj. Gen. Carter, commanding the troops at San Antonio, has been asked by the war department to prepare a program indicating the number of militia officers he can accommodate at one time. When this is received, the department will arrange a schedule, with a view to granting, if possible, field instruction to all the officers of the militia who have accepted the department's invitation.

LIKELY TO BE TROUBLE

Chinese Do Not Take Kindly to the Acts of the Russians.

Three Distinct Situations Have Arisen in the Embroglio.

St. Petersburg, March 14.—The Russo-Chinese embroglio has developed three distinct situations, each of considerable concern to this government.

In the first place, Russia has awakened to the fact that China's deep-seated distrust and resentment is responsible more than anything else for the failure of amicable negotiations.

Next the Novoe Vremya makes the unusual intimation that there is discord in the government over the measures to be undertaken against China.

The third situation is revealed today in disquieting dispatches from the army of occupation on the Chinese frontier. These dispatches describe a disturbance among the soldiers over poor food. An outbreak was prevented only by the tact of the commanding general, who ordered the governor general of Russian Turkestan to take prompt measures to remove the causes of dissatisfaction and adequately to organize supplies for the expedition. The task of the commissariat department has been complicated by the primitive character of the country, the bad roads, muddy at the present season, and a de-

Lift in Gordon & Ferguson's Building Drops Several Stories.

Dead and Wounded Pinioned in Wreckage at Bottom of Shaft.

Safety Clutch Fails to Work When Applied By Operator.

St. Paul, Minn., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two girls and a man are dead and several injured as the result of an elevator accident in the wholesale fur house of Gordon & Ferguson, Fourth, Rosabel and Broadway streets, today.

The dead:
TILLIE BUESING.
WILLIAM ZSCHICHI.
GIRL SUPPOSED TO BE GERTRUDE SMITH.

Fatally injured:
TILLIE HELLER.

Injured: Mary Conklin, Zennette Veinier and Maude Bullow.

The elevator fell several floors and the dead and injured were pinioned in wreckage at the bottom of the shaft.

Mason Johnson, the elevator operator, told Coroner Jones that he started up with ten or eleven passengers, the usual load.

When he closed the gates after discharging passengers at the fourth floor, the elevator started to slip down. He shut off the power and applied the clutch, which failed to work. The elevator gathered momentum and when it struck the bottom of the shaft the counterbalance weight at the top dropped.

TAKEN BACK TO PENITENTIARY

Whitson Escaped and Led an Upright Life for Fifteen Years.

Lexington, Ky., March 14.—Warden G. P. Sale of the North Carolina state penitentiary, left here today for Raleigh with T. B. Whitson, who was arrested here last week, charged with being an escaped prisoner. Whitson admitted that he escaped from the pen sixteen years ago while serving a thirty-year term for murder.

Since his escape Whitson has lived an upright life in Kentucky and has amassed a comfortable fortune.

A concerted movement will be started to secure a pardon for Whitson as soon as he is returned to prison.

Thirty-Five Cattle Cremated.

Albert Lea, Minn., March 14.—Peter Nelson, a farmer, living north of this city, sustained the loss of a large barn and all its contents by a fire a few days ago. Thirty-five head of cattle were burned. The loss is several thousand dollars and there was but $1,000 insurance.

MORE TROUBLE IN EXPRESS STRIKE

Violence and Disorder Attend Moving of Wagons in New York.

New York, March 14.—Violence and disorder attended the attempt of the Adams Express company to operate its wagons today. Fifteen wagons were manned by drivers and guards and despite the threatening attitude of groups of strikers, were run out. In the fighting that followed, Thomas Boyle, a guard, was severely injured by being struck by a brick.

The company says it is moving express matter with little trouble.

AMBASSADOR'S SON WEDS WISCONSIN GIRL

OGDEN MILLS REID.

MRS. OGDEN MILLS REID.

OGDEN REID TAKES WISCONSIN BRIDE

Son of Ambassador to England and Miss Helen Rogers Married.

Racine, Wis., March 14.—In Racine college chapel at high noon today, Miss Helen Miles Rogers, daughter of Mrs. Benjamin Talbot Rogers of this city, and Ogden Mills Reid of New York, son of Ambassador and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, were united in marriage. Rev. I. Talbot Rogers, D. D., of Fond du Lac, Wis., a brother of the bride, performed the ceremony.

Ambassador and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid arrived in the city yesterday and were present at the chapel.

Simplicity marked the affair because of the Lenten season and no reception followed the ceremony.

Miss Mary Eaton and James R. Miller of New York city acted for the bride and groom respectively, while the Episcopalian service united the couple.

Among the many gifts to the couple was a huge silver piece, inscribed "Ogden Reid," from the men who worked with Mr. Reid on the New York Tribune.

This afternoon the bridal party and out-of-town guests left for Chicago on a special train, whence Mr. and Mrs. Reid will go to Mexico for a six weeks' honeymoon. They will reside in New York.

The bride is a member of one of Wisconsin's oldest families. She is a graduate of Barnard college and was for some time social secretary to Mrs. Whitelaw Reid.

The bridegroom is a director and secretary of the Tribune association, publishers of the New York Tribune. He is a graduate of the Yale law school and a member of the New York bar.

ANXIOUS TO LEARN FATE

Of Fifteen Americans Taken Prisoners By Mexican Troops.

Said to Have Been Summarily Dealt With By Authorities.

El Paso, Tex., March 14.—What has been the fate of the fifteen Americans who were taken prisoners after the defeat of the insurrectos at Casas Grandes? Reassuring evidence that the men are still alive and are held in jail at Casas Grandes pending a trial is eagerly awaited in El Paso today to offset the belief held by some that the men have been summarily shot by the Mexican authorities.

As soon as it became known the Americans had been made prisoners, a newspaper correspondent, through the insurrecto junta here, sent a message to Francisco I. Madero, the revolutionary president, who is supposed to be near Casas Grandes, requesting that information concerning the Americans be forwarded. The message has not been answered. Late last night another message requesting definite information as to the fate of the Americans was presented to the junta, with the request that it be sent to Madero.

The junta does not make known the movements of its couriers, and no assurance was given that the message would be delivered. If the courier did take the message, it is not certain he will ever return. Casas Grandes is 150 miles southwest of El Paso, and the only means of travel is by foot over rough country. The trip, however, has been made by the insurrecto couriers.

Gonzales Garza, the insurrecto secretary of state, in charge of the junta here, insists the Americans have been summarily dealt with. The friends of Col. Cuellar, the federal officer who took the prisoners, say he phobably would grant the Americans the usual rights of prisoners of war.

TO TRY TO PROVE WOMAN INSANE

Witnesses Will Testify to Mental Unsoundness of Mrs. Melber.

Albany, N. Y., March 14.—A long list of witnesses, many of them women, have been summoned to testify today to the mental unsoundness of Mrs. Edith Melber, on trial charged with the murder of her son.

Mystery continues to attach to the reason of the defense for insisting upon the attendance in court of Howard Kirk, who figured as Mrs. Melber's closest friend. Imposing exhibits of art embroidery by Kirk have been piled on the desk of the defendant's counsel.

"This poor, defenseless, mindless woman" was the way Mr. Dugan, Mrs. Melber's attorney, alluded to the prisoner at the bar. "I wouldn't if I could," he continued, "have this woman go from this room to freedom. I believe that she should be sent to an asylum, there to spend under merciful treatment what days remain to her. We will show you that her mother and her husband died from consumption and that the same disease has laid its deadly grip upon her."

Then the attorney outlined the squalid story of the accused since childhood to what he called the despairing culmination of her visit to Albany, when the deadly acid was forced down the boy's throat and his body left in a dreary marsh. He charged the prosecution with unusual haste in proceeding against Mrs. Melber, who was indicted three days after her arrest and declared that an indictment could not have been obtained except through such hurried methods.

Several of the jurymen were moved to tears during the course of the lawyer's address and evidences of emotion were also shown by the spectators—three-fourths of whom were women.

STARTED BY EXPLOSION

Strong Wind Blowing at Time Spreads Flames Rapidly.

Twelve Buildings Consumed Before the Fire Is Controlled.

Three Hotels Included in the List of Houses Destroyed.

Iron River, Wis., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The explosion of a lamp in the American hotel here early this morning started a fire that, fanned by a strong north wind, burned twelve business buildings on Main street, including three hotels, causing a loss estimated at $40,000 or $50,000. Nearly all of the buildings were insured as were their contents, but just how much cannot be learned this morning, although a report says one half. The strong wind that prevailed rendered the firemen practically powerless as all of the buildings destroyed were wooden structures and burned like tinder.

The heaviest loser is understood to be the proprietor of the Northern hotel, which was a comparatively new structure, two-story frame, with steam heat and hot water, and is said to have only been partially insured. It and its contents are practically a total loss. So far as known all of the guests in the three hotels escaped easily, although few saved much of their belongings.

Fire Started at 2:45 A. M.

The fire broke out in the American, formerly the Strege hotel, about 2:45 a. m., and fanned by the terrific wind, burned right along the north side of Main street, eating up every frame building in its path. Five buildings were destroyed on that side, the hotel, Crocker's drug store, two saloon buildings and a clothing store. Then the flames literally jumped across the street and licked up seven more frame buildings, including Garvin's general store, a tailor shop, Fox's barber shop, the Stockholm hotel and the Northern hotel. By the time the fire reached the fine Northern hotel on the corner the wind had died down and the firemen, who had been working like beavers, aided by many citizens, had the flames under control and the march of the fire fiend was halted. It was about 5 o'clock when the fire was extinguished and the citizens who had stood about fearing the total destruction of the town turned to the ruins to see whether there was anything left.

The fire started at the American house on the West side of the street, and running north burned the City Hardware store, Charles Martin's saloon, Crocker's drug store and Louis Sand's Clothing store. Then the fire jumped east into the Darwin building and destroyed I. Hubbard's dwelling and saloon, Irquhard's store building, Stockholm hotel, Edward Fox's barber shop, the Taylor hotel, making a clean sweep on that side of the street.

AFRAID TO BE ON JURY

Court Has Trouble in Securing Men to Try Camorra Cases.

If Prisoners Are Condemned Their Deaths Will Probably Be Avenged.

Viterbo, Italy, March 14.—Cavaliere Bianchi, president of the court, today set about the task of getting a jury to try the thirty-six members of the Neapolitan Camorra by invoking methods that promised results despite the terrors that has filled the hearts of the citizens at the possibility of being obliged to condemn those whose deaths would be pretty sure to be avenged unless the whole dangerous element of the society was wiped out.

When court opened today the president at once imposed heavy fines upon those known to have left town to escape jury duty and threatened that he would have others who had made excuses for not appearing when summoned brought to the bar by carbineers.

The whole forenoon was taken up in an attempt to fill the jury benches. It was a nervous day in Viterbo. The residents who had hailed the approaching trial as a boon because it would

CROW WING COUNTY HAS SUED BRAINERD.

Brainerd, Minn., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Crow Wing county has commenced suit against the city of Brainerd to collect the 10 per cent of liquor license which the county claims the city has collected and which it refuses to turn over. The attorney general, it is said, has decided that 90 per cent of the money collected on liquor licenses may be used for street improvements, but the city, it is said contends that it may also use the balance, or the remaining 10 per cent. The amount in question does not exceed $200.

All the efforts of a wouldbe piano dealer trying to attack the contest of the Manufacturers' Advertising Company have fallen flat and the Kimball piano, which is so well known to the music loving public as being a strictly first-class instrument in every respect, stands today beyond reproach and the fairness that is exercised in all their undertakings and arrangements in the contest have proven to the public that we carry out every part of our contract. Every man, woman and child knows that the Kimball Piano is today the most artistic, most reliable standard make of piano in the world, therefore the many friends that have taken part in this contest is proof enough to convince every one that the Kimball Piano is their choice.

We thank every contestant for the interest they have taken and hope that we will be able to please them all.

AUTO ENGINE AT LAKESIDE

Fire Department Will Dispense With Horses in Eastern Suburb.

Work Will Be Begun on New Hall in Near Future.

Work will be begun in the near future on a new fire hall for Lakeside, to cost approximately $4,000, to replace the ramshackle structure now housing the company and apparatus stationed in the eastern suburb.

Upon recommendation of the fire department committee, the council last night voted an additional $1,000 to the amount originally allowed for the building, $3,000. The funds will come from the permanent improvement fund.

With the new house will come a new combination auto engine and hose wagon, the contract for which was let by the board of fire commissioners several weeks ago. The contract cost is $5,000, making the total cost of the improvement at Lakeside about $9,000. The new auto outfit will be able to cover a considerable amount of ground and greatly lessen fire risks in that part of the city. The combination outfit, which was secured for New Duluth, reached the city several months ago and has been installed.

The old fire station at Lakeside has been the subject of criticism for years past. Not an annual report has been submitted by the chief of the fire department for almost a decade but that attention has been called to the Lakeside structure. It is one of the oldest buildings in the town. The sills and the floor are rotting and have become so bad that it is almost unsafe to keep the apparatus inside. Difficulty has been experienced in opening the doors, the building has settled so much. The sanitation has been so bad that the health of the firemen has been endangered. The place has been a nuisance to the neighborhood because of the odors emanating from it.

TO GROW HAIR ON A BALD HEAD

BY A SPECIALIST.

Thousands of people suffer from baldness and falling hair who, having tried nearly every advertised hair tonic and hair-grower without results, have resigned themselves to baldness and its attendant discomfort. Yet their case is not hopeless; the following simple home prescription has made hair grow after years of baldness, and is also unequalled for restoring gray hair to its original color, stopping hair from falling out, and destroying the dandruff germ. It will not make the hair greasy, and can be put up by any druggist: Bay Rum, 6 ounces; Lavona de Composee, 2 ounces; Menthol Crystals, one-half drachm. If you wish it perfumed, add half to one teaspoonful of To-Kalon Perfume, which unites perfectly with the other ingredients. This preparation is highly recommended by physicians and specialists, and is absolutely harmless, as it contains none of the poisonous wood alcohol so frequently found in hair tonics. Do not apply to the face or where hair is not desired.

Before publication we presented this prescription to W. A. Abbett, this city, and they state that they have filled it many times for their patrons who report most astonishing results from its use.

WOMAN'S REALM.

A. B. Hostetter talked to the pupils of the Salter school this morning on the commercial side of home gardening and gave them some excellent advice on growing vegetables at home for marketing. He spoke particularly of the growing of radishes, lettuce, beets and kohlrabi (which is a cross between a turnip and a cabbage), these being vegetables which are easily grown in this climate and which are easily marketed.

Some of the children of that school had gardens last summer, but made no attempt to market their produce, and Mr. Hostetter told them how to go about this business end of the gardening in the best manner.

The Commercial club is offering a prize to the school children for growing sweet corn this summer and Mr. Hostetter also explained this contest to the children, telling all who intended to make the effort to grow the corn to write him a letter at the Commercial club giving full name and address so that he could know just who wanted the seed.

He left flowers entirely out of his talk this morning for the reason that they can be planted later in the season than the vegetable seeds and he will give a second talk at the same school in two weeks when he will tell about planting, cultivating and raising flowers.

MUSICAL PROGRAM.

Cantata and Organ Recital Are a Treat.

The cantata, "A Legend of Grenada," which was the feature of the program of the Matinee Musicale yesterday afternoon at the Masonic temple, was an artistic success which was enjoyed by a large audience. Miss Gladys Reynolds and George Suffel, who sang the solo parts, were both in good voice and Mrs. J. N. McKindley's accompaniment on the piano was an artistic addition to the number. Mrs. Stella Prince Stocker directed the cantata.

The first part of the program, which was composed of organ numbers, was played by Mrs. Wingate, Miss Faith Helen Rogers and Miss Nordby. Mrs. Wingate's numbers received special praise. They were "Prayer and Cradle Song," opus 27, and Scherza from sixth sonata, opus 80, by Gullmant. Miss Rogers' "Seraphic Song" and "Funeral March" by the same composer were also well played. Miss Nordby played the opening number admirably.

REPEAT CANTATA.

School Children Will Sing at Junior Y. M. C. A.

The little cantata, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," which was presented with so much success by pupils of the Nettleton school last week under the direction of the choral society of that school, will be repeated next Friday evening at the Junior Y. M. C. A. at 8 o'clock.

ASK THE LADIES

They One and All Praise Newbro's Herpicide.

If ladies could know and appreciate what a delightful hair dressing Newbro's Herpicide is, they would all have it on their dressing tables. It is the most exquisite toilet article ever used and at the same time one of the most essential.

In order to have beautiful hair every lady should regularly apply Herpicide to her hair and scalp. This destroys the dandruff germ. By it the scalp is kept clear of dandruff and the hair stops falling.

Herpicide is free from grease, does not stain or dye and possesses an exceedingly delicate and pleasing odor.

Newbro's Herpicide is just the sort of a preparation that always appeals to a lady of refinement and cultured tastes. There is nothing that can take its place. There is nothing just like it, nearly like it or "just as good."

All reliable druggists sell and guarantee Herpicide in one dollar size bottles.

Send 10c for booklet and sample to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich.

THE EVENING STORY

"ANTICIPATED"

By Horatio Cox.

All that remained then was to burn her photograph. As for her letters—well, what few had passed were little of lover-like character; more appointments or brief notes of no importance. He had seen her daily for many weeks, and now that he had decided to end the attachment there was nothing to be done but to burn the vignette he had begged from her in the first rush of mutual attraction, and make himself free for the other understanding at which he had arrived with the object of his new choice. He sat, self-absorbed, fingering the two portraits—her's and the newer one—and then raised his eyes at some slight sound to find the original of the fire-doomed picture standing before him.

"Why—why—Kitty! I never heard you come in!"

"No; you seemed so wrapped up in your thoughts that I felt I'd just wait and see how long it would be before you noticed me. Thinking of me, too, weren't you?" with a glance at the things in his hands—now face downwards.

"Yes, I—well, yes; I was thinking of you—among other things."

"Other things?"

He turned her photograph upwards and appeared to scan it carefully.

"It seems a long time since you gave me this—since we first met, doesn't it?"

The irrelationship of the two events he alluded to evidently appealed to some waiting sense in the girl's mind.

"Well, yes, it does, perhaps; but that's not what you were thinking so deeply about, was it?"

"No," he slowly responded, "I can't say it was. Matter of fact," he went on more rapidly, "I was looking at your picture before writing a letter to you—a letter which has been in my mind for some time."

Her eyes narrowed as her gaze followed his nervous fingers place the two pictures on the table. "I see."

He glanced up quickly at some subtle change in her tone.

"And I, too," she went on, "have had something on my mind for some time and came to tell you. But suppose you tell me what you would have written; it will be less trouble, won't it? And, if you don't mind, I'll sit down while you say it."

He apologized for his remissness and drew a chair for her near the fire. She turned, however, and chose one further away and rested her elbow on the ledge of the window.

He suddenly felt at a disadvantage, and his sense of this was deepened by her air of complacency and tacit acceptance of the absence of those customary endearments which had been theirs when meeting alone. He turned from her moodily and caught a glimpse of her profile in the mirror before him and of her intent looking outward to the street below.

"Well, then; to be brief as possible, what I had to say was this—But there, I'd far rather—"

"I beg your pardon," she interrupted, turning her face towards him. "I did not quite catch what you were saying; I was looking out at a friend and thinking. What is it you would far rather do?"

"I would prefer to write."

"But surely you cannot be afraid to tell me; we are alone. Is it that you are afraid you may hurt or frighten me?"

His face expressed the relief afforded by this glimpse of the road which she had opened for him. "Yes; that's just it, it's an unpleasant thing—for you!"

"And equally for you?"

"Well, it is in one way—," he broke off, drawing his breath sharply. "Where is your woman's intuition that you do not guess?"

Again she looked outward, leaning towards the window as though the object of her regard were nearer than before.

"No," she answered, "I have no idea. Is it some money trouble?"

The boisterousness of his laugh was palpably an effort. "Money! No, nothing of the kind; it's worse—or perhaps better. That is, better for you," he added lamely. Again he turned and watched her in the mirror. "I want to say this, as gently as I can, that we must no longer look on each other as we have done. You must believe me that this is not a sudden thing for me; it has been growing and taking shape for many days, and I've only—"

"You need not say one word more!" She rose rapidly; pale-faced and with an air of vivacity curiously in contrast with the outward show of repose which had been upon her. "You have put it as gently as you could—now, if you'll allow me, I'll go. One thing remains, however; I don't ask for the explanation you ought to give me, but will you tell me this—is the reason on your side or on mine?"

"I was going to say, Kitty," and her name had some unfamiliar sound on his lips, "I was going to say I have no excuse but that I have met someone—"

"Stop!" she called out, peremptorily, with a heightened color, "that is enough!" Again a feeling of relief came to him as he found the thing was done—and so easily, too. There was a moment of restraint upon her before she spoke again.

"Then all we have to do is to part—part friends. May I have my photograph?"

He gazed at her in silence, and, reaching out behind him on the littered table, gave her the picture at which she glanced before placing it in her muff. As he handed it to her there was a finality about the simple action which obviously closed all further discussion. The thought came to him that he had not heard what she had come to say to him, but the time for confidence between them was past. "Allow me to show you to the door," was all he seemed capable of saying.

"Thanks, I know the way. Good-bye!" And she was gone.

The alert eyes of the man who hurried to greet her as she emerged into the street questioned her own.

"I felt like a coward, Kitty," he said, in leaving you to tell him all by yourself; I ought to have been with you through it all! How did he take it?"

She smiled up into his face. "After all," she said, "it's as well that way as the other."

He stopped short with a grasp on her arm.

"What is?" he asked sharply. "Didn't you make him understand? Did he refuse to liberate you?"

"He could do no other. But—oh, how funnily some things happen! He was as eager as I was!"

"He was eager! Why?"

"That's why," she replied, handing him the photograph from her muff. "Look at it!"

He looked bewildered. It was not the face of Kitty.

STREETS DUE FOR FIRST FLUSHING.

Duluth streets will get their first flushing tonight, according to O. G. Olson, president of the board of public work. It is believed that the ice and snow have thawed sufficiently to enable the work to be done efficiently, and that it will be warm enough this evening. The sewers are said to be in fairly good shape now, and it is not expected that much trouble will be encountered from clogging. Care will be taken to see that large quantities of clear water are turned into them to keep them clean. Men were busy yesterday and today scraping the downtown streets and quite a bit of the accumulation has been carted away, principally from the crossings.

FIGHT MAY DEVELOP FOR LEADERSHIP OF COUNCIL

Effort Made to Hold Second Caucus Only Partly Successful.

Mayor's Appointments and Forecast of His Annual Message.

The city council will meet tonight to organize for the coming year. A president, vice president, city clerk and harbor master will be elected; the mayor will read his annual message, and the executive's appointments to the various boards will be announced.

A fight may develop over the election of the council's president. Until a few days ago it was conceded that Frank Jordan, alderman of the Third ward and the present incumbent, would be re-elected, this having been the understanding at a meeting of the Democratic aldermen held some time ago. Last night an effort was made to hold a second caucus, after the council meeting. Several of the Democratic aldermen wouldn't attend, it is asserted, putting the whole proposition up in the air so that none of them know exactly what the situation will be at the meeting tonight. The Democrats have eleven of the sixteen aldermen, leaving no doubt as to what would be done if they agreed among themselves upon a slate.

Aldermen Shartel of the Fourth ward and John Hogan of the Fifth ward are the oldest Democrats in the council, with the exception of Jordan in point of service. Hogan has been vice president the last two terms, holding office with Jordan, who has occupied the chair the last two years. Shartel has been chairman of the council committee on ordinances and resolutions, and it has been conceded that should he desire the presidency, he might be elected. Should a contest develop it will most likely be between those three, which would likely leave the three Republicans and the two independents with the balance of power should they act together. A majority vote is necessary to elect.

Will Elect Cheadle.

Harry W. Cheadle, former city clerk and now representing the Fifty-first district in the state legislature, will be elected to the same position again. When his resignation was accepted the first of the year it was with the tentative understanding that he would accept the clerkship again after the annual meeting. In the interim C. S. Palmer, who was elected to succeed him, will continue to fill the place, as Cheadle would not qualify until the legislature had adjourned. When he again takes up his duties Palmer will be appointed chief deputy. Thomas Burke, who has been harbor master for several seasons past, will get the job again.

It is likely that George E. Duren, who was chosen sealer of weights and measures a week ago on a unanimous ballot, will be elected again. The ordinance under which he works reads that a sealer shall be elected the first meeting in March, but it was stated today that the charter states that the sealer shall be chosen at the annual meeting, which is designated to come on the second Tuesday in March. To leave no doubt, he will probably be voted for again this evening.

Mayor's Appointments.

Quite a bit of interest is being manifested in the appointments of the mayor to the various boards, particularly the board of public works, the water board and the park board. George A. Bisdel, former alderman from the Second ward, is said to be the mayor's choice for the board of public works. The appointment is made for three years and carries a salary of $1,000 a year. Strong pressure was brought to bear upon Mayor Cullum to retain R. E. Patterson, who has been on the board the last year, filling the unexpired term of James W. Preston, who resigned last spring. It is stated that a new appointment will be made, however. The other members of the board are O. G. Olson and A. J. Meidahl. It is understood that Mike Lynch, prominent in Fourth ward politics, was also a candidate for the place.

The West end will probably get a member of the park board, replacing B. Silberstein, whose term expires this month. Strong pressure will be brought to bear on the mayor by residents of the West end, who claimed that they were entitled to a member of the board, and there is little doubt but what their urgent request will be heeded, in spite of the excellent service given by Mr. Silberstein.

The West enders also wanted a representative on the water and light board, but it is not probable that they will be successful in this. The term of George Spencer expires, and it is said that he will be reappointed. Mr. Spencer is one of the prominent citizens of Duluth and has made a most acceptable commissioner. C. T. Fitzsimmons, president of the board of fire commissioners, will also be reappointed, in all probability. There is also a member of the civil service commission to appoint. With the exception of the works board, there are no salaries connected with positions on the other boards.

Mayor's Message.

The annual message of Mayor Cullum is awaited with a good deal of interest. It will be a fairly long missive, dealing with matters pertaining to the welfare of the city, both past and future. The mayor will undoubtedly make a number of recommendations along various lines, which will be referred to different council committees for investigation and recommendation.

The mayor will likely go into the municipal dock proposition at some length, telling of what has been accomplished along that line. A bill framed at his request is now before the state legislature, to enable the city to issue $100,000 of bonds for the acquisition of dock property. The question of securing control of the dock site which the state owns in the West end will probably come in for mention. It is known that the mayor is anxious that the city either secure it by purchase or by lease for a long term of years, with renewal privileges.

Mention will likely be made along law enforcement lines in connection with the police department. Playgrounds and parks will be taken up. A proposition was made some time ago that with every new division opened in Duluth, the city be deeded at least one square, or block, to be used for breathing spots and for playgrounds. It is expected that the mayor will deal with this subject to some extent. Matters pertaining to sanitation and the sewer system are likely to come in for mention, and also the work that is being done by the health department, as well as other departments of the city government.

Last year the mayor recommended that one man be selected to make all purchases for the city. Nothing came of it, and it is not improbable that he will bring it up again. The same may be said of the recommendation that all sewer, gas and water pipes be laid at least one year in advance of paving. Street car extensions have always been a favorite topic with the mayor, and there is little question but what he will deal with them quite extensively.

The commission form of government has received a great deal of attention from the city's executive in the last year and it is very probable that he will go into the subject at some length in his message this evening.

"THE MORALS OF MARCUS"

Mack-Leone Players Seen in Dramatization of Locke Novel.

The opening performance of "The Morals of Marcus," a stage version of the famous novel by William J. Locke, was given last evening at the Lyceum by the Mack-Leones.

The novelist has dealt delicately with a subject original in conception, and one that requires the very best handling. A less skillful dramatist might have made a very bungling job of the story, but with clever situations, crisp dialogue and action that does not lag from the rising to the final curtain, he has made a play that takes high rank among recent productions.

In the role of Carlotta, Maude Leone has found a part congenial to her temperament. It is a character that represents almost a barbarian in the complex society of modern London—a young woman with the innocence and frankness of a half-grown child from Asia.

Briefly, the story tells of the transplanting, through chance, of Carlotta, an uneducated but beautiful child of Assyria, to the home of Sir Marcus Ordeyne. The child is literally forced upon Marcus, who cares little for the feminine sex, little for anything, in fact, but his books.

He makes the best of the awkward circumstance or prank of fate, and takes Carlotta as a sort of ward. The story starts with this as a theme and gathers action and complexity. Society frowns at Carlotta and openly talks about Sir Marcus. His relatives storm and even humorous complications ensue.

Interest marks the attentions of the aristocratic Englishman toward the girl, his interest turning to love and deepest devotion. The end is prettily told and so well constructed is the play that the audience is never given the least excuse to doubt the improbability of such a fantasy in this somewhat unromantic world.

Sir Marcus Ordeyne is one of the best characters Willard Mack has presented. His makeup, his English accent and his facial expression depicting the proverbial inability of an Englishman to see humor in any situation, are delightful. The role brings Mr. Mack back to dress clothes.

Antoinette brings Mrs. Adams the chance for some of her best work. Her French housekeeper is quaint, as you might imagine an old woman living in the memory of a past century would be, and her accent is quite delightful to the ear.

James Rennie is Sebastian Pasquale, an Italian fond of adventure and love affairs, and G. R. Walling is Hamdi Effendi, who seeks what fate gives him.

The other parts are very well taken and the play abounds in characters that stand out clearly and well defined. The play is elaborately staged and stands as one of the best productions of the company.

Green Room Gossip.

George W. Jones, who is at the Orpheum this week in the little musical skit, "Hotel St. Reckless," is the second member of a famous musical quartet to visit Duluth this season. "That Quartet" was generally conceded to be one of the best male quartets ever heard in vaudeville. It was composed of Mr. Jones, Aubrey Pringle, Frank Morrell and Arthur Sylvester. The quartet broke up two years ago, because the members believed they could make more money separately than as a quartet. Mr. Pringle was here last fall with Pringle & Whiting, and the other two members are on the circuit and will be seen here later in the spring.

One of the best musical acts seen in Duluth in several weeks is the feature act at the Empress this week, presented by the "Eight Vassar Girls."

These talented young women present one of the most spectacular offerings that has ever been attempted in vaudeville. The act features an excellent cornet solo, some very clever whistling by one of the young ladies and a grand finale which is beautiful to look upon. The whole house is darkened and the young women dance a May pole dance in which the garlands and their costumes are lighted by myriads of incandescent lights.

Interesting and entertaining photoplays are being shown to large crowds this week at the Odeum and Lyric theaters. These two houses are the most popular of their kind in the city. The plays are always the most thrilling that well known actors can make them. In addition, each theater maintains an orchestra. A program of popular music and illustrated songs is given.

At the Odeum "Grandmother's War Story" is the feature film. "The Padre" and "Taming a Tyrant" are also very interesting plays. Miss Maddox sings "All Alone."

At the Lyric "Capt. Barnacle's Courtship" is the feature play. "A Decree of Destiny" and the "Price of Victory" are both highly entertaining. Mr. Mistachkin sings "Down by the Old Mill Stream."

Warning to Railroad Men.

Look out for severe and even dangerous kidney and bladder trouble resulting from years of railroading. Geo. E. Bell, 639 Third St., Fort Wayne, Ind., was many years a conductor on the Nickel Plate. He says: "Twenty years of railroading left my kidneys in terrible condition. There was a continual pain across my back and hips and my kidneys gave me much distress, and the action of my bladder was frequent and most painful. I got a supply of Foley Kidney Pills and the first bottle made a wonderful improvement and four bottles cured me completely. Since being cured I have recommended Foley Kidney Pills to many of my railroad friends." Sold by all druggists.

RAMSEYER TAKES CHARGE

Former Business Manager Is Superintendent of the Bethel.

Rev. J. T. Moody, superintendent of the Bethel for the past six years, is moving his household effects today from the institution on Lake avenue, and tomorrow he will sever his connection with the Bethel society, Rev. H. E. Ramseyer, business manager of the Bethel, becoming general superintendent.

Mr. Moody's resignation has been followed by resignations of almost all of those connected with the Bethel of late, including Miss Jean Fraser, city missionary; Miss Bessie Wiles, assistant to Mr. Moody, and Mr. Duvall, who had charge of the restaurant. Their successors have not yet been appointed.

Members of the Bethel board say that a question of policy was responsible for Mr. Moody's resignation. They say that he and the board differed on details of management and when the board declined to accept Mr. Moody's views, he tendered his resignation and it was accepted. Mr. Moody has nothing to say on the subject.

Mr. Ramseyer, who becomes superintendent, was formerly manager of the Branch Bethel and is well fitted for his new work. He will surround himself with efficient help and the work of the Bethel will go on uninterrupted. The building plans, which were dropped temporarily, will be taken up at once and the directors hope to push them successfully.

IN FROM THE BIG WOODS

Lumberjacks Are Arriving From the Camps on Every Train.

Men Are Again Sunning Themselves Along the Bowery.

Down on the Bowery there is a long, straggling, lounging, aimless string of men, blinking at the bright sunlight, shuffling from one foot to the other, passing in and out of saloons, forming a kaleidoscopic picture of humanity in the rough.

To the eye of the man from the East, this picture might be touched with the air of the romantic or picturesque; to the citizens of matter-of-fact Duluth, it only means that the annual incursion of the lumberjack is on.

The harvest the Bowery saloon keeper has been waiting for is here. The clothing merchant has his pickets on duty, instructed to get the men into the store if they have to be pulled in, and not to let them out until they have bought something.

Signs have been posted telling that time checks are cashed. The pawnbroker will be busy a little later, while the cheaper class restaurants usually presided over by the Chinese are crowded to their capacity at almost any eating hour, for the woodsman has an uncitified appetite.

The Advance Guard.

It is estimated that there are 30,000 men in the woods. If that is the case, the small army that has descended upon Duluth in the past two or three days is simply an advance guard of the larger body that is to come later. Every train is bringing men into the city, and many of them will be here until they have traded in good American dollars, earned with sinew and muscle, for the proverbial red shirt, a chew of tobacco, and one grand, extended whoop.

Do they present a problem in economics? It is a question that has never been solved successfully—this coming of the men to the city and spending in one short week, in conservative cases, and one short day, in extreme cases, their winter's earnings for a headache.

They in time become wards of the state—at least some of them. Men who look on life from the viewpoint of the citizen with disciplined mind, who have been reared with the idea of ultimate success held before them as a string is held with a dangling ball before the uncertain steps of a child, fail utterly to grasp the point of view of the typical lumberjack, to see his simple philosophy of life, to understand how any man with the spark of mind in him can go on laboring, slaving, with no thought to the future; to spend with improvident hand, with no thought of advancing age and the declining years when the muscles refuse longer to carry the load of labor.

It has come to be expected. In Duluth it is looked upon with little interest, but if one mingles with them for a time it is not hard to catch their viewpoint.

Few camps have broken up so far, but the men are beginning to get restless and have jumped their jobs in many instances. They have money in their pockets and money burns in the pockets of these children of fortune. Many of them move and exert themselves only when they are broke, for them the instinct of self preservation is upon them. But not all are like this. Far from it. Among them are many industrious, hard working men, who are temporarily "down on their luck." But these are not the men seen in the Bowery saloons.

Labor men state that the exodus from the woods the present spring will be one of the largest of the past few years. A good start has already been made toward the fulfillment of this statement. The men are pouring in, packs on backs or "turkeys" slung over their shoulders.

They are with us again, and for the time being the Bowery will refuse to recognize the fact that several lines of commercial endeavor report quiet conditions.

OBITUARY

Prof. A. Segley, at the head of the commercial department of Santa Clara college, was found dead at San Jose, Cal., March 13, presumably from natural causes. He was a native of Massachusetts.

Charles H. Sprague, said to be the oldest printer in the United States, is dead at Fond du Lac, Wis., at the age of 96 years. He learned the printer's trade at Hartford, Conn., at the age of 15 years, since which time he has been identified with newspapers at Toledo, Detroit, Chicago and Ishpeming. He has been living a retired life in Fond du Lac the last thirteen years. Sprague had personal acquaintance with seven presidents of the United States.

Spring Medicine

There is no other season when medicine is so much needed as in the spring. The blood is impure and impoverished—a condition indicated by pimples, boils and other eruptions on the face and body, by deficient vitality, loss of appetite, lack of strength.

The best spring medicine, according to the experience and testimony of thousands annually, is

Hood's Sarsaparilla

It purifies and enriches the blood, cures eruptions, builds up the system. Get it today in usual liquid form or chocolated tablets known as Sarsatabs.

Drink Beer With Your Meals

GOOD beer, unlike the other beverages generally used at meal time, has a value beyond its thirst-quenching and refreshing qualities. The malt contained is in itself a food, the hops provide a valuable tonic and the small percentage of alcohol is a valuable aid to digestion. Choose a beer that is absolutely pure, that is aged so perfectly it cannot cause billiousness and that has a genuinely delicious flavor. Such a beer is

UNITED DOCTORS HAVE SECURED FINE LOCATION

United Doctors Have Rooms on Third Floor of Columbia Building.

Make Free Offer to First Few Patients Accepted for Treatment.

Yesterday it was announced in these columns that the United Doctors had at last consented to establish one of their world-famous institutes in Duluth and that it would be ready to receive patients soon. The board of directors have been looking around the city for some time for a suitable site upon which to erect a permanent home for the institute, but have at last decided to postpone building until Fall.

The Duluth institute will therefore be opened at once in a convenient downtown location. Fine suites of rooms have now been leased on the third floor of the Columbia building and these rooms will be occupied by the medical offices for the first year, or until a more suitable building can be purchased or erected for a permanent home for the institute.

The work of furnishing and equipping the new institute is being pushed as rapidly as possible and it is hoped that patients can be received for treatment the latter part of the week.

One of the great secrets of the success of the United Doctors in curing diseases is their expert knowledge of medical diagnosis. So complete is their knowledge of the human body that oftentimes by the aid of their wonderful instruments they are able to diagnose a case, describing and locating every ache and pain without asking the patient a single question.

The treatment used by the United Doctors is non-surgical. They never use the knife; never mutilate the body which God built in His own image. Only the best and purest of drugs and chemicals are used by these specialists, their motto being that every sick person is entitled to the best medicines that are to be found in nature, regardless of cost. To obtain pure drugs they prepare all their own medicines in their own laboratory and thus every patient is assured a pure medicine, the best obtainable regardless of cost.

The expensive and elaborate instruments used in diagnosis and the extreme care used in procuring pure drugs and preparing them specially for each case makes the treatment used by the United Doctors more expensive than ordinary treatment, yet the large number of patients treated makes it possible to place the price of treatment within the reach of all.

Dr. Duckworth, the physician who will be in personal charge of the Duluth institute, is one of the oldest physicians in the United Doctors' staff, and one of the directors of the association. Dr. Duckworth announces that in order to introduce this wonderful system of medicines in Duluth, he desires to secure a few supposedly incurable cases at once, and in order to secure a large number of difficult cases quickly, so that he can cure them at once and thus prove to the public the wonderful curative powers of this new system of treatment, he will cure the first few cases absolutely free. The grand free offer is as follows:

All cases accepted for treatment before April 1st will be treated free of charge until they are well. Examination will be free and treatment is free, the only charges made will be for medicines used and incidental expenses of the treatment, each patient being expected to pay cash for his medicines. In case of very poor people, medicines will be furnished free also.

This is really a very remarkable and generous offer made by these great specialists. It is not an offer of free treatment for a few weeks, but free treatment until well, regardless of the length of time. This offer is good only in cases accepted for treatment before April 1st; after that date, full regular fees will be charged to all.

The Quickest, Simplest Cough Cure
Easily and Cheaply Made at Home. Saves You $2.

This recipe makes a pint of cough syrup—enough to last a family a long time. You couldn't buy as much or as good cough syrup for $2.50.

Simple as it is, it gives almost instant relief and usually stops the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. This is partly due to the fact that it is slightly laxative, stimulates the appetite and has an excellent tonic effect. It is pleasant to take—children like it. An excellent remedy, too, for whooping cough, sore lungs, asthma, throat troubles, etc.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle and add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

Pine is one of the oldest and best known remedial agents for the throat membranes. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guaiacol and all the other natural healing elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The prompt results from this recipe have endeared it to thousands of housewives in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

ON THE IRON RANGES

SEVEN BODIES RECOVERED FROM NORMAN MINE PIT

It Is Believed There Are Eight More Bodies in Debris.

Wrecker Removing Large Piece of Frozen Earth—Shovelers Also Working.

Virginia, Minn., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—One more body was recovered today from the mass of frozen earth, rock and other debris that crashed into the pit of the Norman mine here Saturday afternoon, claiming almost a score of lives. This makes seven bodies recovered and it is believed there are seven or eight more piled underneath the great mass that is being attacked by the employes of the Oliver Iron Mining company, who are straining every nerve to find the remains of their former fellow workmen who perished in the greatest disaster on the Mesaba range.

The body recovered today was badly disfigured and it was impossible to clearly identify it, nothing being found in the clothing to indicate the identity. It was taken to Gillespie's morgue and an effort is being made to ascertain the name of the unfortunate.

Wrecker Is Working.

A wrecker has been run down into the pit and is being used to pull out the larger pieces of frozen earth. About thirty shovelers are also on hand and as fast as the frozen masses are removed the men use their shovels and hands and try in every manner possible not to cut or tear the bodies of the victims of the disaster that lie concealed somewhere in the great pile.

Capt. Gill, who is in charge of operations, is personally directing operations and it is expected some more bodies will be unearthed this afternoon. The crew engaged in digging for the victims went to work at 6 this morning and work will continue until dark, being resumed in the morning. The mining officials are giving out very little information and are halting all attempts to take pictures, several amateur photographers having been held up and relieved of their films.

All reports as to the exact number of victims conflict, but it seems to be the general opinion that the number is less than twenty, probably about sixteen or seventeen.

The funeral of Jalmer Romi, whose body was one of the first discovered, was held today. He leaves a wife and several children and the case is considered a very sad one. The other bodies recovered are at the local morgue and just when they will be buried is not known.

FEDERAL OFFICER INSPECTS MILITIA

First Lieut. Kobes of Regular Army Looks Over Hibbing Soldiers.

Hibbing, Minn., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Company M was inspected last night at the armory by First Lieut. Kobes of the Fourteenth Infantry regiment of Fort Snelling. The inspection was to have been made by Capt. Bamford, but this officer has been called to service in Texas. Few of the sixty-two men of the company were absent. The men were put through a number of military maneuvers and their kits and equipment received a thorough and complete inspection. The officers present were Capt. George Healey, First Lieut. J. L. Lewis and Second Lieut. Walter Crandall, and non-commissioned officers First Sergeant Joseph B. Healey, Quartermaster Sergeant John Friday and Sergeants Ernest Roby and George T. Porter. A number of spectators and friends were present to watch the operations and a very instructive and enjoyable evening was finished up with a smoker.

An effort is being made to reorganize the Hibbing Gun club and several of the old members of the club are devoting time and attention to the work. Victor Power, William Rezac, Mike Gleason and several other prominent local shooters are taking an active interest in the proceedings.

BALLOT BATTLE ON THE RANGES

Hibbing, Chisholm, Buhl and Other Places Holding Village Elections.

Hibbing, Minn., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fair weather conditions greet the voters here today in the spring election and the indications point to a full vote being cast. The liquor question cuts considerable figure as the question of license and no license is being submitted. Both the "wets" and the "dry" are working hard.

There are two tickets in the field the administration and the citizens' both bearing the name of Dr. Welrick for president and W. C. Barrett for trustee. The administration ticket consists of President, Dr. H. R. Welrick; trustees, W. C. Barrett, William Wearne, J. J. Cox; for recorder, A. H. Kieffman; for treasurer, Dennis Haley.

The citizens' ticket: President, Dr. H. R. Welrick; trustees, W. C. Barrett, David Graham, Jacob Messner.

The contest in the township of Stuntz consists of a hot fight between J. B. Connors and Frank Ansley for supervisor; a fight for township clerk between Charles Galligan and Frank Wenberg, and the overseer of highways fight with John Gleason, Andrew Roberts, Samuel Brady, Henry Olson and Tom Wakley as candidates.

Alice Contest Lively.

Alice, Minn., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The election contest here today in this young village, formed a year ago, is a hot one, the air being full of charges about "snap" caucus and the like and friction is expected at the polls before the close. The alleged "snap" caucus named this ticket:

President, A. J. Nelson; trustees, Charles Ellengen, John Gleason, Ed. Henden; recorder, Oscar Widstrand; treasurer, A. L. Beaudette; justices, C. J. Chestnut, A. Johnson; constables, Gus Martin, L. A. Graham.

In opposition to this ticket is the Citizens' ticket, as follows: President, Solomon Barratt; trustees, George McWhinney, William Wegge, Charles Felt; recorder, M. P. Walsh; treasurer, Jerry Archambo; justices, E. Johnson; constable, L. A. Graham

Two Chisholm Tickets.

Chisholm, Minn., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two village tickets are being voted here today, the Citizens and Peoples, as follows: Citizens—President, R. S. O'Neil; recorder, Lee Rell; trustees, C. E. French, William Ritchell, Capt. Schweger; municipal judge, W. A. Masters; treasurer, F. W. Hurt; assessor, George Rice; constables, David Niemi, Fernando Coggiola.

Buhl Election Not Tame.

Buhl, Minn., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village election here today is by no means a tame affair. There are two village tickets, the "Caucus" and the Citizens, as follows:

"Caucus"—Prfesident, John Pasich; trustees, Herman Heldt, Dr. J. M. Rigg, Nels Rian; recorder, Gust Gronberg; treasurer, John Spolar; justices, James Quayle, Alex Renlund; constable, Fred C. Hill.

Citizens—President, George R. Barrell; trustees, J. M. Riggs, T. P. Corey, William McKinney; recorder, John A. Neimala; treasurer, John Spolar; justices, E. A. Barratt, John E. Miemi; constable, Nestor Peltenen.

The following tickets are being voted in the township of Great Scott: Township—Supervisor, W. J. Doyle; clerk, B. T. Jones; assessor, Severt Thompson; justices, G. H. Swan, F. A. Barratt; constable, Nestor Peltenen.

Peoples—Supervisor, A. W. Shaw; clerk, W. H. Forder; treasurer, John I. Anderson; assessor, E. A. Roberts; justices, G. H. Swan, E. A. Barratt; constable, Nestor Peltenen.

Missabe Mountain Township.

Eveleth, Minn., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Missabe Mountain township election is being held in this township today, but there does not appear to be much interest in the affair because that part of Missabe Mountain township which was taken into the limits of Eveleth precludes the possibility of the residents taking any part.

The township hall, which is now within the limits of Eveleth, will be disposed of by the action of the voters of the township on the proposition of whether it shall be sold. The hall is now being used as a kindergarten building for the local schools.

Hibbing, Minn., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Some snap shots of the scene of the mining disaster at the Norway mine in Virginia taken immediately after the cave-in by Miss Rose Henry, a member of the Junior Bostonian Theatrical company, will never be used. Miss Henry happened to be in Virginia at the time of the disaster, and was one of the crowd of anxious spectators who crowded to the scene. The mining companies will not under any circumstances allow pictures of this kind to leave the premises. The films were very nearly smuggled through, and were stopped almost on the borders of the property, but they were finally confiscated.

CHANGE IN WOMAN'S LIFE

Made Safe by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Graniteville, Vt.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms, and I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved worth mountains of gold to me, as it restored my health and strength. I never forget to tell my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me during this trying period. Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my trouble public so you may publish this letter."—MRS. CHAS. BARCLAY, R.F.D., Graniteville, Vt.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine we know of has such a record of cures as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For more than 30 years it has been curing woman's ills such as inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains and nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life.

Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

CARNEGIE DECLINES TO DONATE EVELETH MORE.

Eveleth, Minn., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The library board is informed that the request made to Andrew Carnegie for an increase of his original offer of $15,000 to $25,000 for a library here, had been rejected. Further negotiations will be continued with the ironmaster to secure his permission to allow his offer to be used in conjunction with contributions from the city and adjoining townships.

Various sites for the library were discussed. Chairman J. C. Poole of the site committee reported that he had communicated with officers of the Swedish Lutheran church, Mrs. J. Osberg and J. Englund, owners of lots facing Adams avenue between Jones and Pierce streets, and that the church members would make an offer within two weeks, while Mrs. Osberg's house and lot would cost $2,500, and Mr. Englund's property $1,500. Other sites on Pierce street and also on Jones street were discussed.

Postmaster J. C. Poole was appointed to meet with the Missabe Mountain township board today relative to the renting of the Missabe Mountain township hall, which the board is willing to sell for $5,000.

AGREEMENT FOR PEACE

Made Between the Warring Factions of Republic of Honduras.

The Provisional Government Agrees to Settle Outstanding Public Debt.

New Orleans, La., March 14.—The full draft of the peace agreement signed by the representatives of the Honduran government and the revolutionists at Puerto Cortez a week ago reached New Orleans today. Francisco Beltran, the provisional president, it is agreed, shall have the support of all the political factions of the country which are allied with the government and the revolution.

An important provision is the recommendation that the provisional government take steps to settle the public debt. This probably means that an American bond issue will be negotiated.

The congress now in session is bound to call an election for national officers in October and it is agreed that the provisional government, as well as that organized as a result of the elections of October next, will respect the promises of the administration and of the revolutionists in the present pact.

Article I of the agreement obligates the provisional government—

A—To introduce in the national congress a bill of amnesty covering military and political crimes.

B—To guarantee absolute liberty in the approaching elections for supreme and local authorities, and to guarantee to an equal degree other public liberties.

C—To recognize and pay the debts of the government and of the revolution and the losses suffered as a result of the civil wars from 1903 to date.

D—To grant pensions to the disabled and to discharge and pay the forces of the government and of the revolution.

E—To organize the government and public administration with persons of well known integrity, without taking into account their political affiliation, and to this end treating and considering the friends of the revolution and the government on the basis of perfect equality.

F—The provisional people will distribute the cabinet portfolios equally among friends of the government and of the revolution.

It was agreed that President Davila and Gen. Manuel Bonilla, either jointly or singly, may present to the provisional president candidates for the cabinet.

Question of Tax Collection Between New and Old County.

Williston, N. D., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The question of tax collection in Divide county, formerly a portion of Williams county, will very likely reach the supreme court for a final decision. The two counties are warring over the tax collection on the grounds that Divide county has no right to collect taxes for this year, levied within the boundaries of the new county, from the fact that there has been no transcript of the records as yet. In the district court the action commenced by the treasurer of Divide county was dismissed, and an appeal from the dismissal order is contemplated.

IF YOU HAVE A SICKLY YOUNGSTER TRY THIS FREE

The family with young children that is without sickness in the house now and then is unusual. It is important that the head of the house should know what to do in the little emergencies that arise. A child with a serious ailment needs a doctor, it is true, but in the majority of instances, as any doctor knows, the child suffers from some intestinal trouble, usually constipation.

There is no sense in giving it a pill or a remedy containing an opiate, nor is flushing of the bowels to be always recommended. Rather give it a small dose of a mild, gentle laxative tonic like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which, by cleaning out the bowels and strengthening the little stomach muscles, will immediately correct the trouble.

This is not alone our opinion, but that of Mrs. N. H. Mead of Freeport, Kans., whose granddaughter has been taking it successfully and of Mrs. M. T. Whiting of Lena, Wis., who gives it to her children and takes it herself. It is sold in fifty-cent and one dollar bottles at every drug store, but if you want to test it in your family before you buy it send your address to Dr. Caldwell and he will forward a supply free of charge.

Dr. Caldwell does not feel that the purchase of his remedy ends his obligation. He has specialized in stomach, liver and bowel diseases for over forty years and will be pleased to give the reader any advice on the subject free of charge. All are welcome to write him. Whether for the medical advice or the free sample address him Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 541 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

Saved His Life— Feels 20 Years Younger

MR. H. CHESTER FREEMAN.

After Mr. H. C. Freeman had become an absolute physical wreck from years of hard work, he was completely restored to health and strength by Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, the grand old family medicine.

He writes: "I honestly believe I owe my life to the use of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. After 31 years of hard work as bookkeeper and expert accountant, I suffered a complete physical breakdown and was compelled to give up my work entirely. I tried numerous so-called remedies, but instead of improving, my condition grew steadily worse. A hard, dry cough and frequent night sweats were gradually sapping what little vitality I had left. A friend brought me a bottle of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and induced me to give it a trial. Almost immediately I began to feel a change for the better. I am working harder today than ever before and feel as I did twenty years ago. Nothing in the world but Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey brought about my present condition, and I am never without a bottle of this wonderful stimulant in my room. It is my only medicine." H. Chester Freeman, 224 South Clark St., Chicago, Ill.

CLAIM THE INDIANS ARE GIVEN LIQUOR

Government Agent to Probe Charges Couderay Redskins Get Liquor.

Couderay, Wis., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. C. McRae, special Indian agent from Ashland under Agent Campbell and now acting farmer for the Couderay Indian reservation, arrived here yesterday afternoon to start a thorough investigation regarding the alleged violations of the Indian liquor laws here.

Of late it has been a regular occurrence instead of an exception to see intoxicated Indian men and squaws in town here and on their way back to the reservation. Last Saturday, it is claimed, a large amount of liquor was carried out into the reservation, and as a result the crazed bucks and squaws wound the spree up in a general fight.

The complaint was filed by several of the Indians that are strictly temperance people and want to see the liquor laws enforced regarding their fellow-Indians and the transporting of liquor into the Indian reservation. If the Indian department will push the matter, a number of arrests and convictions are looked for.

Hurley and Ironwood Officers Want Men Who Robbed Drummer.

Pender, a traveling man of $28 on the Ironwood side while he was returning from Hurley last Wednesday evening, as told in Friday's Duluth Herald, but with little hope of capturing the footpads.

Pender was badly beaten by the thugs, but notwithstanding his injuries followed them back to Hurley and gave a description of them to a Hurley policeman. That officer told him that he could do nothing, as the offense had been committed on the Michigan side of the line. Sheriff Whiteside of Hurley, however, failed to agree with his subordinate and, securing a description of the ruffians, is making every effort to have them apprehended.

The Bessemer county, Mich., officers are joining in the search.

BRUTAL MURDER IS NOW BEING TRIED

William Abelson Facing Jury at Bottineau, N. D., for Killing Shreoder.

Bottineau, N. D., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Final evidence for the state will be introduced today in the trial of William Abelson, charged with killing F. W. Shreoder, which commenced yesterday.

The murder was one of the most cold blooded reported in this section. Abelson has already admitted that he killed Shreoder, but it is expected that he will raise a defense of insanity or self-defense.

It was on the Shreoder farm, near Kramer, that the affair happened. After the killing Abelson took the body some distance from the barn, in which the affair happened, to some haystacks. Several days later he offered to sell the hay on the Shreoder farm, contending that it was his own, and while piloting a prospective customer he "discovered" the body. Blood on a coat and on the sleigh, that Abelson was known to have driven, fixed suspicion on him.

A prominent Duluthian lost his life insurance policy a short time ago—hunted everywhere for it—home, office, factory.

Told us about it. Do you know what he had to do to get a new one? Had to advertise the loss for six weeks. Had to establish his personal identity—give bonds of identification for twice the amount of the policy to the insurance company—worried for fear he would die before he could get all of these matters adjusted. He has a new policy now deposited in one of our boxes. No more worry. Cost: $3.00 per year.

WATER BOARD DECIDES NOT TO REVISE THE PRESENT SCHEDULE OF RATES

Only Change Is Elimination of Extra Meter Charge for Two Families.

Large Consumers Are Not Getting Water Below Cost.

Denying that the large consumers of water in Duluth are securing city water below cost, and claiming that the present water rates are the fairest and most equitable that can be worked out under present conditions, the water board last evening filed a report with the city council, announcing its intention of leaving the rates unchanged. The only change that is made is the elimination of the extra meter charge of 25 cents for each additional family using a meter. Hereafter the minimum meter charge will be a flat rate of 50 cents, irrespective of the number of families using the meter.

The board's report goes into conditions minutely, explaining why the Proctor connection keeps the West Duluth water from becoming warm, and how the Proctor people are using much water that was formerly wasted entirely.

The board claims that if the rates to large consumers are raised, this business would be lost to the board, and that it is better to take a small profit than none at all. Even at the present rates one large consumer of water is pumping its own water rather than pay the city rates. If these large consumers were lost to the city, it is claimed that the burden on the small consumer would be greatly increased.

The report in full follows:

"To the Honorable the Common Council, City of Duluth:

"Gentlemen: The success of municipal ownership of the water and light department of the city of Duluth has been due in a large degree to the fact that its entire business has been conducted upon business principles, as any great business must be conducted to attain the highest degree of success. The commissioners, from the time of the organization of the first board, have acted upon the principle that they are the trustees of the people and bound to use their best judgment and endeavors at all times to make this plant a great properly for the people, to give them both water and light at the very lowest possible cost.

"The fact that the plant is worth at least twice as much as the amount of the bonded indebtedness against the city on account of this plant, and that water and light are both cheap should be gratifying to the people of Duluth, because however great the success of this plant may be, the people of Duluth will to the same degree participate in the benefits.

"The chief object of a municipal water plant is to furnish water at the lowest price for domestic uses and for fire protection. We take it no municipality would undertake to furnish water solely for mechanical, power or manufacturing purposes. A plant is established and water mains are laid and maintained to furnish water for domestic uses and for fire protection. If, in the administration of the business of the department, it can reduce charges for domestic uses and for fire protection by supplying water for other uses, such as power, mechanical or manufacturing, at prices which are largely in excess of the additional cost of furnishing the same, the board regards it as its duty to take advantage of every such opportunity to so supply water, and has no doubt that more than 90 per cent of the citizens of Duluth will approve its course, particularly when it is understood that the board charges the highest price for such supply which can be obtained for the particular uses.

Five Stations Needed.

"Let it be borne in mind that on account of the topography of this city, it is necessary to maintain and operate five pumping stations to supply the people of Duluth with water for domestic use and for fire protection. Additional cost to the department to supply water for the other purposes herein mentioned, is the cost of pumping additional water for these other purposes, plus the wear and tear on the pumps. The wear and tear to cast iron or steel pipes by having an additional quantity of water flow through them is infinitesimal, as they are running full of water all the time. The deterioration to such water pipes is occasioned by rust or chemical action and accident, and not by the flow of water through them. So that whatever the department receives for water supplied for purposes other than domestic uses and fire protection, above the pumping cost and the wear and tear on the pumps, adds to the revenues received by the department to pay the interest on the bonded indebtedness and operating charges, and to that extent the charge for water for domestic uses is decreased.

"The total receipts from all sources on account of the water plant for 1910 were $277,290.

"The expenditures, which include operation, maintenance, interest charges and construction were as follows: Pumping water, $28,725; water services, which is the cost to the department of keeping up the efficiency of the operation and plant (aside from the pumping), $51,124; interest on indebtedness $105,627; construction, $85,054; or a total of about $270,530. This sum, and enough more to keep pace with the increasing growth of the city, must be produced each year to pay the fixed charges and to keep up the efficiency of the operation of the plant and make the proportion of water extensions which have been made in the past, whether it shall be paid by all the consumers who are now paying, or only by a part of them.

Sources of Revenue.

"The department is receiving revenue from the following sources:

	Receipts	Consumption cu. ft.	Rates per 100 feet
Hydraulic elevators, 15 consumers	$ 4,057.56	12,626,754	.0324
Cooling purposes, 5 consumers	1,178.70	3,688,500	.03
Carbolite company, 1 consumer	1,651.35	6,353,600	.026
Railroad tanks, 5 consumers	4,178.22	5,870,000	.071
Proctor, 1 consumer	5,754.70	19,382,133	.03
Total	$16,820.53

The cost of this service follows:

	Lakewood pumping cost	Lakewood pumping cost per 100 cu. ft.	Excess over pumping cost
Elevators	$820.73	.0065	$3,226.83
Cooling purposes	259.25	.0065	919.43
	Lakewood & W. D.	Lakewood & W. D.
Carbolite Co	$756.07	.0119	$95.28
Tanks	581.55	.0065	3,796.67
	Lakewood & W. D.	Lakewood & W. D.
Proctor	$2,366.47	.0119	3,448.23
Total			$12,296.46

"Hydraulic elevators can be operated by electricity at as little cost as is being paid for water to operate them.

"Pure water is not necessary for cooling purposes, for the carbolite company or for railroad standpipes or tanks. The companies taking water from the department for these uses can put in pipes for their own water supply from the bay and lake at comparatively small cost and provide themselves with water for these uses.

The Proctor Supply.

"A great deal of loose talk has been circulated about the supply of water to Proctor. The citizens are entitled to know the facts and the reasons why the department is furnishing water to the Proctor Power company and at the rates charged. The department established a reservoir at West Duluth in 1906 with a capacity of 10,000,000 gallons of water for the purpose of having a reserve supply for that part of the city west of the Point of Rocks, between Eighth and Fourteenth avenues west, which is also available for the entire city, lying west of any break, in case any accident or break should occur in the single pipe line which connected the West end and West Duluth system with the water supply east of the Point of Rocks which might cut off for a time the entire water supply to that end of the city. The wisdom of having this large reserve supply of water was demonstrated March 9, 1911, when a break in the 36-inch main at Twenty-fourth avenue east and Superior street would have necessitated shutting off the water from the entire city west of the break but for this reserve.

"The board realized the damages which might result from fires in that end of the city where are located many sawmills and manufacturing plants, dwelling houses and business houses, and determined the question of the capacity of the reservoir chiefly to provide ample fire protection. It was felt that one conflagration might cause more damages than the entire cost of such a reservoir. That part of the city was growing and the board appreciated that the people of that end of the city were entitled to the same service and protection as the people from other parts of the city.

"A number of months after the completion of the reservoir, application was made to the board for a water supply for Proctor through the Duluth system. This application was the first intimation that any member of the department received that Proctor would ever want its water supply from Duluth. When the application came, the members decided that the city could not expend any money on construction to supply water to Proctor, and after considerable investigation, informed the people representing the Proctor Power company that if the Proctor Power company would build its own water plant, extend its water main into the West Duluth reservoir, install its own pump and do its own pumping, the board would permit it to take water out of the West Duluth reservoir, for the Proctor supply for the rates the department is charging the company; providing the company would charge the consumers at Proctor the same schedule of rates that the consumers are paying in Duluth. This arrangement is bringing a revenue to the department of $3448 per year in excess of the pumping charges, as is shown above. In addition to this revenue which we receive, the taking of this water by Proctor out of the West Duluth reservoir gives the inhabitants in that part of the city a fresher supply of water during the warm weather, because the ordinary consumption of West Duluth alone would take over two weeks to empty the reservoir once. Before the water was supplied to Proctor the department was obliged to waste large quantities of water to produce sufficient change of water in the reservoir so it would be suitable for domestic uses. As the board views it, there is no reason for treating the people of Proctor any differently than the people of other suburbs of Duluth. If a fever or other epidemic breaks out in Proctor, it is communicated to the people of Duluth as readily as from some other part of the city. The people of Proctor trade and do business with us, and to all intents and purposes belong to the city.

Is Losing Money.

"But how does this arrangement affect the Proctor Power company? It puts in a water plant at a cost of over $10,000, installing a very heavy pump to pump water against a head of 550 feet. On the very best authority we are informed that the Proctor Power company, for supplying water for the month of November last, which is a fair sample of other months, at the rates it was required to supply water, lost $629, and in computing such loss, did not take into account any interest on the cost of its plant. This same authority suggested to a member of the board that the Proctor Power company would turn over its water plant to our department, at cost, if the department would undertake the operation and maintenance and furnish water to Proctor at the same rates Duluth consumers were charged for water, and would pay to our department several hundred dollars each month for a number of years, in addition to the amount which the department would receive from the consumption of water at Proctor at the regular rates.

Has 8,094 Accounts.

"On the first day of January, 1911, the department had 8,094 live accounts for water, but there were some more than 10,000 families water consumers, in addition to the consumption for other than domestic purposes.

"Consumers of water for domestic uses to the number of 3,346 pay to the department $1,547 per month, or $18,564 per annum. These consumers pay from 25 cents to 53 cents each per month. Six thousand two hundred and eighty-eight water consumers pay to the department $3,732.34 per month or about $44,788 per year. These 6,288 pay from 25 cents to $1 each per month and include the above 3,346. Eight thousand five hundred and ten water consumers pay to the department $6,607.42 per month, or about $79,284 per year. None in this number pays in excess of $2 per month. We estimate that there are over 300 more consumers of the 10,000 who pay less than $2 per month each, but as their sums are merged with the accounts of others, and are paying in excess of the minimum rate the separate amount which would be paid for by each is not recorded. More than 85 per cent of the users of water of this city for domestic purposes pay on an average about 75 cents each per month for water—approximately 2½ cents per day. From the above figures it will be seen that about 3,000 of the smaller consumers do not pay as much revenue to the department as is paid in the twenty-seven accounts herein first mentioned, all of which, except perhaps about one-tenth of the consumption at Proctor, is used for other than domestic purposes and for fire protection. Another consideration is that it costs the department very much more to supply 3,000 consumers with water than it does for the consumption paid for in the above twenty-seven accounts.

Many Factors to Consider.

"In determining the question as to whether rates are just and equitable, two important factors must be taken into account.

"(a) A service charge for each service connection or account which shall cover that part of the actual sost to the department to maintain the plant and keep up the efficiency of its operation to furnish water to each consumer which belongs to him to pay. There is a certain cost to the department for maintenance and operation which is the same for every service connection in the city, whether the department receives 50 cents per month for water used through such service connection or $10 per month. In order to be in a position to furnish water to the people, the entire organization of the department must be kept up and necessary supplies provided. This includes, among other items, office rent, clerks, inspectors, superintendents, foremen, engineers, managers, meter readers, laborers, supplies, telephones, insurance, etc., and it is just as important and just as expensive to take care of and maintain a water service which produces 50 cents per month revenue as one which produces $10 or more per month.

Killing the Goose.

"(b) What is the highest rate the department can charge for water furnished to the largest consumers which is used for mechanical and manufacturing purposes and still retain their business?

"This is a practical proposition in which good judgment, not theory, must be exercised. The man who will say, raise the rates to these consumers even though you cut this revenue off, is as foolish as the man who killed the hen that laid the golden egg each day, because the amount received from these consumers is large. The cutting off of this revenue would mean a very decided increase in the rates of every domestic use customer. All of these large consumers are located but a few feet above the shore. If the department's rates should be excessive it is an easy matter to sink wells for all of these purposes, because pure water is not required, and when these consumers have once provided their own facilities for supplying their uses, it will require particular inducements to cause them to again take water from the department. The board believes it is now charging the highest rates to these consumers which it can charge, and still retain this business.

"Aside from the rates charged for hydraulic elevators, for cooling purposes, for lawn and street sprinkling, for public skating ponds, and for public swimming pools, every consumer of water, be it for railroad purposes or for mechanical or manufacturing, must pay 17½ cents per hundred cubic feet for 96,000 cubic feet of water each year, or 8,000 cubic feet per month, before he gets into the class at 10 cents per hundred cubic feet, and must pay 10 cents per hundred cubic feet for another 96,000 cubic feet per year before getting in the class at 7½ cents per hundred cubic feet.

"As examples to show substantial amounts which are paid for these purposes, the Scott Graff Lumber company, which conducts a wood manufacturing plant, paid to the department for water in 1909, $474.63, which averaged at the rate of 10 cents per hundred cubic feet.

"The Clyde Iron works, manufacturers of iron products, paid to the department for water in 1909, $484, which averaged at the rate of 10 cents per hundred cubic feet used by it.

"The Fitger Brewing company, paid to the department for water in 1909, $655.33, which averaged at the rate of a little over 9 cents per hundred cubic feet used by it. This same firm pumps water from the lake for its cooling and mechanical uses because it considers the department's rates for such purposes excessive.

The Duluth Union depot, one of the twelve largest consumers of water in the city, paid to the department for water in 1909, $1,028.17, which averaged at the rate of a little over 7½ cents per hundred cubic feet for all water used by it.

"We use the figures for 1909 for these four illustrations, because the figures for 1910 were not complete when the figures given were compiled.

"It would take a good many small consumers to compensate for the loss of the revenue received from any one of these consumers.

"If the department was not obliged to pay about one-half of the revenue received from water consumers for interest on the bonded indebtedness, it is probable we could make a flat rate per hundred cubic feet for all water consumed, because the department could maintain the present rates for water for power and cooling purposes, and also for mechanical and manufacturing purposes, and could reduce the rates for domestic use and fire protection, to the extent of the interest we are paying on such bonded indebtedness.

"The conditions of each particular city must be taken into account in establishing rates, its indebtedness, its topography, and the physical conditions to be overcome in installing and extending its plant. Conditions in one city may make a rate possible which is absolutely impossible in another city.

The Only Change Made.

"The board has carefully considered its rule heretofore in force that where more than one family is served through a single meter a minimum charge of 50c shall be made to the first family and 25c minimum charge for each additional family thus served. There is a difference of opinion among water consumers as to the justness of this rule, some condemning it, others as earnestly upholding it. The board recognizes that each side has some merit to its contentions, but inasmuch as the department has to care for but one meter and render but one bill each month, irrespective of the number of families supplied through the meter, and is itself in doubt as to the justness of the additional minimum charge of 25c, for each other family thus supplied, it has decided to waive the additional 25c charge heretofore made and from April 1 to make the minimum charge 50c per meter, irrespective of the number of families supplied through the same.

"After a most careful investigation and consideration of the entire rate question the board has become convinced that it is unable to make any change of rates other than the above, which will be fairer, more in the interests of, or more satisfactory to the people of Duluth as a whole, than the rates now in force.

"Signed,
"J. B. MANLEY, President,
"H. H. PHELPS, Vice President,
"GEORGE SPENCER,
"T. T. HUDSON,
"J. B. ERD,
"Board of Water and Light Commissioners."

THE BOARD'S REPORT IN A NUTSHELL.

The present rates on water are fair and reasonable and will not be changed.

The minimum meter charge shall be 50 cents after April 1, irrespective of the number of families supplied. This eliminates the extra meter charge of 25 cents for each additional family.

Large consumers of water are not getting it below cost.

To charge large consumers more would mean losing them as patrons and entail an additional burden for the small consumer.

Proctor is not getting water below cost, but yields the city a revenue, and helps give West Duluth a pure supply.

THIS SHAMPOO BEST FOR HOME USE

"Soaps and most ready-prepared shampoos are ruinous to the hair," writes Mae Martyn in the New York Herald, "as they contain alkali which is responsible for scalp troubles and dull, scanty, falling, brittle hair—oftimes mistakably attributed to wearing false hair.

"For restoring the natural gloss and fluffiness to dull, stringy, scant hair there is nothing to compare with a shampoo made by dissolving a teaspoonful of canthrox in a cup of hot water. It makes a creamy, cleansing lather that removes every particle of dirt, dandruff and excess oil from the scalp and stops itching. It rinses off easily and dries in just a few minutes.

"This peculiar shampoo gives to the hair a most pleasing richness and fluffiness, and will have the commendation of every woman troubled with scanty, short, brittle or faded hair who uses it."

ROOSEVELT BELIEVES IN FORTIFYING CANAL.

POSTOFFICE SPACE IS TOO SMALL.

The Duluth postoffice is crowded. Every foot of floor space is now in use and the city is growing so fast that it is only a matter of time until the space allowed for the various departments will be totally inadequate.

It is believed to be only a matter of time before the postal savings bank system will be extended to Duluth and there is now no way in which it could be accommodated in the present quarters.

Every effort will be made by Congressman Miller to obtain the appropriation for the new federal building as soon as possible. Even now the need for the additional quarters will be pressing before they can be provided.

Portland, Me., March 14.—Democratic success in Maine was continued at the city elections held yesterday, candidates of that party winning the mayoralty contests in four of the five cities which voted. At Bangor, Charles W. Mullen, Democrat, was elected, but the city government remains Republican.

Augusta remains Democratic, first secured in 1906 by the present governor, Frederick W. Plaisted. Ruel J. Noyes was elected mayor. Edgar F. Hanson, Democrat, was chosen mayor of Belfast for a seventh term, and Albert O. Marcille was re-elected mayor of Biddeford by Democrats and Independents. Republicans won easily in Brewer, headed by Victor Mutty.

THURSDAY WILL SHOW.

What did the members of the Minnesota senate mean when they swore to uphold the Constitution of the state upon taking office? Thursday will show.

What did the senatorial candidates mean when, during the campaign, they declared themselves to be running for office on either the Republican or the Democratic platform? Thursday will show that, too.

Are the members of the senate intent on performing the duties of their offices, as those duties are outlined in both the written law of the state and in the pre-election pledges they themselves made, or are they in office for the sake of personal distinction and whatever else they may be able to get out of it? Thursday also will show that.

For on Thursday the Congdon reapportionment bill will be a special order, and the senate will vote on the measure which already has passed the house.

The justice, the need, the popular demand for reapportionment have been emphasized over and over again, not only in party meetings, but during the campaign and more particularly since the present session of the legislature began. They were recognized by Governor Eberhart in his speech at Brainerd and in his message to the legislature. There is no possibility that any member of the senate can be ignorant of any or all of them.

This being true, there is only one thing that can stand between any member of the senate and a favorable vote on reapportionment, and that is a spirit of self-seeking that prompts him to violate public law and private pledge alike in order to hold an office. Are there, in the Minnesota senate, any men of the kind that such a spirit would govern? Once more, Thursday will show.

An alternative to the defeat of the Congdon bill is said to be offered to the reapportionment forces in the shape of an amendment. The offer is unworthy of even the slightest consideration, for there is no room for doubt as to the kind of amendment that would be presented by men who are not willing to pass a reasonably just measure. The Congdon bill is itself a compromise. It has met with bitter opposition among certain parts of the state that feel that it does not give them all they are entitled to. In so far as that opposition is based on strict justice it has a reasonable foundation, but it cannot be denied that such action is not calculated to smooth the way of the men who have put great pains into the preparation of the present measure. Yet some members are asking that there be a new compromise, which shall take away what virtue still remains in the proposed measure. The demand is unjust, and should be met with absolute refusal.

Four years ago opponents of reapportionment said that to force the question then would be unfair to the members, as they had been elected with the understanding that they would serve out the full legal time in office. The excuse passed current then, though it was recognized as nothing but an excuse, and rather a flimsy one at that. This year no such plea can be put forward, for the present senate was elected with the plain understanding, and indeed on the proposition, that reapportionment would be made at this session. This time there can be no excuse except that of personal aggrandizement, subserviency of public and official duties to the demands of individual selfishness.

It does not seem possible that there can be men in the Minnesota senate so blind to justice, so defiant of the principle of representative government which is the foundation of our state and nation, so reckless of their personal honor, that they will deliberately tear down and trample under foot the provisions of our Constitution and their own party and individual pre-election pledges by throttling the reapportionment bill. If there are any such it will be well for the people to know who they are. And Thursday will show.

A TRIUMPH FOR TAFT.

There can be no getting away from the fact that the decision of the United States supreme court upholding the validity of the corporation tax is a notable victory for President Taft. The corporation tax provisions, as incorporated in the Payne bill, were distinctly the president's own idea. He feared the possible decision regarding another attempt to impose a tax on incomes, and went to work to find another means of raising revenue for the government, without making the source of the revenue bear an intolerable burden. Thus came about his conception of the tax on corporations, and the terms of the present law are said to have been framed substantially by the president himself.

There has been much opposition to the tax. More than a dozen suits were brought in different parts of the country to have it declared unconstitutional, and the prospects were that it would be many months before there could be a final decision in the matter. By combining these several cases as they came before it for consideration, and advancing them on the calendar, the supreme court has been able to give its decision in much shorter time than was anticipated. That the decision is favorable to the government is of vast moment to the administration, and the unanimity with which it was reached must at least be gratifying to the men who have worked so strenuously to secure such a measure.

At the same time, the decision lets the government out of an unpleasant position. When the time came for the enforcement of the provisions of the law the treasury department went ahead with the levies provided for, and collected something over $27,000,000 under its terms. It is said that had the decision of the supreme court been adverse to the government, it would have been necessary to issue bonds to secure funds to make immediate restitution of this sum to the corporations taxed. The government now is relieved of this necessity, and besides is in a position to take all steps necessary to enforce the making of returns and payment of the tax, so that there is a possibility that the income of $27,900,000 may be increased yet more by the certainty of the authority.

The technicalities involved in the question were all decided in favor of the government. These centered about the nature of the tax, as the opponents of the law claimed that it was levied directly on property, whereas the government contended that it is rather a tax on the right to conduct business. The former would have been illegal, but the latter is within the power of the federal government. The old issue of state rights also was raised, but the interstate character of modern business disposed of that plea. Such objections as were made to the publicity features of the law were met and remedied by congress and the president.

Altogether, the decision of the court is of great value to the country. It establishes a source of federal income that can bear the burden, and the settlement of the questions involved means a clearing up of some of the doubtful conditions in the business world.

THE CIVIL SERVICE REPORT.

Some important recommendations are made in the annual report of the civil service commission, just made to the president, not the least interesting of which is that which urges a reorganization of the salaries paid to employes in the classified service. The present salary classification, according to the commission, was adopted in 1853. One can only wonder how, under the changed conditions, it has been possible to secure employes in the last ten years on a salary basis that was established to fit the conditions of so many years ago.

But more significant even than this salary recommendation is the proposal, made in indorsement of the suggestions of the president and the postmaster general, that first, second and third class postmasters be placed in the classified service. The civil service was established as a means to insure efficiency in government positions. Its result has justified its adoption. Recently there has been steadily increasing complaint of the postal service, and both the general management and various local methods have been subjected to serious charges.

Chief of all the complaints has been the undeniable and undisputed one that the postoffice system, though it handles millions of dollars of government funds, has been made the plum tree of political interests: that "pull" and the ability to swing votes have been the prime factors in determining appointments to the higher positions in the postoffice. The spoils system has been the bane of the postal service, and this recommendation of the commission, if carried out, will mean that efficiency will take the place of politics in determining who are to be the head men in that service.

For many years the postoffice has been a losing proposition for the government. Recent writers have pointed out the means by which it could be made into a source of revenue, or at least be made self-supporting, and one of the most practical of these suggestions is that it be made as efficient as private business is today. As long as the men in charge of the business get their appointments through politics instead of for marked ability, there can be no such efficiency. The proposed extension of the classified service in the postoffice would change all this.

Perhaps it would be well to extend it even further than is proposed, and make the postmaster general himself show particular fitness for his work.

ONE THING THEY MIGHT DO.

Champ Clark does not agree with President Taft that there is any possibility that the next session of congress will ratify the Canadian agreement and then adjourn. The next speaker of the house says that reciprocity will be ratified first of all, and then will come legislation on the tariff and such other matters as it may seem necessary to take up without delay.

In spite of the difference in their views, it is not likely that there will be a serious clash between the speaker and the executive. It is only natural that, with the change to a Democratic house, tariff legislation should be a prominent question, and that it should come up at the first meeting of the house. President Taft realized that when he called the extra session, but it was a chance that he had to take, one that was in fact forced upon him by the action of the Republican senators. In view of his more recent statements regarding the present tariff it is to be expected that unless some extreme action is attempted he will not exercise the prerogative of the veto on any measure that may be adopted by congress.

Meanwhile, if the new congress has a mind to dip into other matters than the reciprocity agreement, it will find one ready to hand, and most imperative in its character, in the question of the parcels post. This is a bit of postal management in which the United States is disgracefully far behind the rest of the civilized world, and there is no reason for denying the advantages of such service to the people of this country any longer. Some idea of the comparative status of this and other countries in this feature of postal service can be gained from a table compiled by the Buffalo News, as follows:

	Maximum weight of parcel.	Minimum charge for parcel.	Charge for 11 lbs.
Australia	11	$0.12	$0.72
Austria	110	.06	.12
Belgium	132	.10	.16
Chile	11	.10	.17
Cuba	11	.10	.46
France	22	.12	.16
Germany	110	.06	.13
Great Britain	11	.06	.22
Italy	11	.12	.20
Switzerland	*	.03	.03
Netherlands	11	.06	.10
United States	4	.01	1.32

*No limit.

In explanation of the last line, the News says: "Our limit is four pounds. To send enough packages to make eleven pounds costs $1.32 against an average cost abroad of about 24 cents, in a single package at that."

Here is something in which every person in this country is vitally interested, and which the Republicans have repeatedly refused to give to the people. If the new congress wants to do the nation a real service in addition to that of establishing Canadian reciprocity, here is an opportunity that can hardly be excelled.

Our language is growing day by day. John D. Wells, in the Buffalo News, suggests this: "Ballinger—a verb; To move slowly."

The Mexican ambassador says Mexico does not want to be invaded by American troops. What queer people these Mexicans are, anyway.

Why should the Wisconsin legislature censure Senator Stephenson for his vote for Lorimer? Apparently it was only a case of "You scratch my back and I'll scratch yours."

GUSHING PATRIOTISM

By SAVOYARD.

What a grand thing the noble sentiment men call patriotism would be if we could cleanse it entirely of the odious quality of cant! Patriotism is something devoutly to be stored away in the heart and not brazenly exploited on the sleeve. There are few things more repulsive than your blatant, snarling tomcat of a patriot, who assumes to have a monopoly of that virtuous attribute and never misses occasion to pose as Horatius at the gate, Curtius on the brink, Manlius on the battlement, Brutus bedaggered, and who not beside. It is too suggestive of the soldier who boasts his valor, the merchant who prates his honesty, the woman who proclaims her chastity.

The early night of the day McKinley was shot at Buffalo, a large and dense crowd was assembled before a newspaper bulletin board in Washington, anxiously awaiting further tidings of the horrible tragedy, when up came a great calf of a fellow, "pretty particular drunk," as Lawyer Pleydell's servant girl says of Lawyer Pleydell's clerk in Sir Walter Scott's delightful novel of "Guy Mannering," and roared out like this: "I carried a musket and wore the blue for my country four years and am ready to do it again!" He kept on that strain to the abuse of everybody's patience until a plain spoken man accosted him with this: "Say, my friend, one would think you were glad of an opportunity such as the assassination of the president of us all to assert your patriotism." And he was, but he deceived nobody, for such a man never made a widow or an orphan on the field of battle.

And here is Lafe Young, a capital fellow, editor of a capital newspaper, a standpat senator in congress, a man of ability, of attainments and of parts, fallen into cant about the flag, and demanding that we see more of it in this here town where one is never out of sight of "Old Glory" when on the street in daylight. That brand of patriotism is tinsel, gorgeous, spectacular, bizarre. It calls to mind the abominable Pharisee, who prayed long and loud on the street corner, thanking God that he was not as the poor publican there and other better men than himself.

Nobody can meet Lafe Young and not be charmed with him. He is a little bit given to gush, but there is sterling gold in his composition, and all of us who cannot agree with his preachments would love to see him senator for a full term if Iowa shall be of that mind. There is another newspaper man also in that state, a standpat Republican, George D. Perkins, editor of the Sioux City Journal, and he, too, is senatorial timber of the finest kind. Iowa has had no abler man than he since Kasson. Though a Democrat, I would be glad if Iowa should find either Young or Perkins available, if she must have a Republican for senator.

Employing that word "available" causes a digression and here is an anecdote that many a managing editor ought to appreciate, though spoiled in the telling. The late Oliver Lucas of Louisville, Ky., a delightful man, was long the private secretary of the famous George D. Prentice who made the Louisville Journal a famous newspaper. It was the old Whig and Democrat era before the war, when politics was fast and fierce enough to be pretty nearly war. One day the great editor got a letter from a rural rooster asking to be appointed to the editorial staff of the Journal. Prentice called Oliver and dictated a reply like this: "My dear Smith (colon) I am just in receipt of your valued favor of Monday (comma) and in reply (comma) it gives me poignant regret to say that at present there is no vacancy on our editorial staff (period) Indeed (comma) unless these abominable Locofoco times mend we shall be reduced to the painful exigency of curtailing our force (period) But if oportunity affords (comma) be assured that I shall be swift and happy to avail myself of your commanding abilities and invaluable services (semicolon) for I know of no writer anywhere I would sooner have to reinforce me in the patriotic campaign we are waging against the vile and contemptible party now in control of our public affairs (period) With the highest admiration for your brilliant parts and the sincerest hopes for your future prosperity and happiness (comma) I am very cordially yours." When it was finished and signed, the writer said: "Now Oliver, put it in an envelope and get a stamp. Address it to the blank blank scamp and be sure to mail it. I would not have him on the paper twenty-four hours for a main street store. He is continually annoying me with his absurd and clumsy and interminable essays on politics and since I have been fool enough to print one or two of them he thinks he is a great writer."

That anecdote becomes pertinent when the managing editor returns your stuff with the politest of printed replies regretting that it is not quite "available." But it is truth to say that both Young and Perkins are "available" from the standpat standpoint of view.

But that is a digression and I fear unpardonable. Does Lafe Young know how it came that the flag is displayed on every public building owned by the government and thousands of others that are rented? Possibly not. It is due to some crafty and thrifty patriotism on the part of "Old Ben" Butler, who owned a bunting factory and it was more or less a monopoly in that line. Protected by an outrageous tariff, Butler concluded to make a merchandise of patriotism, and so he secured the act of congress making it imperative to hoist the flag over public buildings in Washington and elsewhere, and the tradition is that the old fellow made a pretty pot of money out of the scheme. Of course we all honor and love the flag; but why should we proclaim it from the housetops to the "abuse of God's patience and the king's English?" Do not put "Old Glory" to uses suggestive of Gessler's cap. Let us love the flag, but not gush over it.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

KEEP THE BOYS OUT OF SALOONS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

While the reciprocity bill, the long-supposed-to-be-collected wheelage tax and teachers' salaries are taking up more or less space, let us also not forget to enforce the ordinance, or law, if such is anywhere to be found, in regard to allowing the "newsies" to sell their papers.

A few years ago the police put a stop to the practice in a very effective manner and it was to society's benefit. The broom has worn out and the old one should be replaced.

The boys have again begun to invade the saloons to sell their papers in order to gain a few pennies and they should be now taught to follow the right path. Thanking you for the "boys that will be the men,"

"Shure," said Mike, "I didn't see it t... it was out of sight."

Harper's Weekly: "I see, Mr. Dobbson," said the professor of English at Pumpernickel college, "that in your essay you make use of the word 'gent.' Will you be good enough to explain to me the meaning of the word 'gent?' What is a 'gent?'"

"Why, professor," said Dobby, "a gent is a feller that lacks about two-thirds of being a gentleman!"

THE CHANGE IN THE CABINET.

Omaha World-Herald: It is a fitting climax to the history of the Sixty-first congress that the whitewashing of Lorimer by the senate should be followed by the whitewashing of Ballinger by the president.

The alleged "investigation" of the circumstances of Lorimer's election was converted into a shameful farce by the senate committee, and that farce became a national tragedy and shame when that committee's report was made the basis for the action of the senate in giving its sanction to the manner in which the Illinois tool of "The System" clambered into "the world's greatest deliberative body."

President Taft follows faithfully in the footsteps of the Lorimer crew. He puts himself at the head of the Ballinger sob squad, and competes with Bailey for first honors as the representative of a false and mawkish sentimentality.

It is a disgusting and sickening spectacle. The senate of the United States, the president of the United States, standing knee deep in a pool of tears and slobber, whiningly berating that spirit of sturdy Americanism which still, thank God, impels men to action against that which is evil and untrue in our public life!

Washington Star: The resignation of Secretary Ballinger has come somewhat as a surprise to the public, and yet it is the culmination of a situation which must logically have led to that result. The whole affair closes creditably, and congratulations for everybody are in order—to Secretary Ballinger for release from an untenable position and for having won and held unswervingly the confidence of his chief in the most trying circumstances; to Secretary Fisher for his present opportunity to demonstrate his ability to administer a difficult office, and to President Taft for an exceedingly happy issue out of his conservation afflictions, which at one time threatened to wreck his administration before it had had a chance to demonstrate.

Detroit Journal: The country will receive the news that Mr. Richard Achilles Ballinger has resigned as secretary of the department of the interior with profound satisfaction. We might have appreciated it more deeply and applauded it more heartily had the resignation come, say, a year ago.

Many innocent men have been the victims of Mr. Ballinger's unpopularity. He has made it highly embarrassing for his chief, the president. He has lamed up an unconscionable number of "ducks." The fact cannot be dodged that he is hopelessly discredited. Mr. Ballinger was never cut out for public life. It is clear. No doubt a long life and a happy one awaits him in his private capacity.

New York Globe: It is not easy to describe the impression that is made by the latest and final entry in the Ballinger case. In the first place, he is a queer person who does not feel admiration for the manly loyalty displayed by the president in standing by a man that he believes to be honest and to have been an efficient public officer. Grant even that the president is wrong in his judgment, and this does not lessen the appeal of his hot words. In the next place, however, it is hard to see, if the attack on Ballinger was the fruit of a mean, cowardly and hypocritical conspiracy, why he has named as Ballinger's successor a man who has been identified with the Pinchot organization. One is driven to the conclusion that the president does not exactly mean every word of condemnation that he utters, and that he recognizes, in spite of himself, that the aforementioned conspirators may have been as sincere in their distrust of Ballinger as he was in his faith in him.

Des Moines Register and Leader: The resignation of Secretary Ballinger is, in any view of the case, timely. An administration cannot devote its energies to vindicating its bureau heads. The mere fact that for any reason their service is questioned is enough. There are too many men against whom no question is raised to make it worth while to insist on any one against whom the public has raised an interrogation.

New York World: The resignation of Richard A. Ballinger, secretary of the interior, is to be accepted as another result of the election of a Democratic house of representatives last November.

Concerning the merits of the case there will continue to be a difference of opinion, but, as the World has said from the first, there has not been at any time a question that the scandal destroyed Mr. Ballinger's usefulness and made his presence in the cabinet an unnecessary drag upon the administration. It would have been wiser to have recognized this fact long ago.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1891.

At a conference at St. Paul, a compromise was reached yesterday on the West Duluth charter fight. A bill will be drawn by City Attorney Allen, which will pass without opposition, establishing the future limits of Duluth. After 1895, the city will extend from a point two miles beyond Lester Park to Fond du Lac. The bill will provide that Lakeside be annexed to Duluth on Jan. 7, 1893, Ironton and West Duluth on Jan. 1, 1894, and New Duluth on Jan. 1, 1895. The territory north of the city will be annexed at once. A general law is to be passed giving special powers to villages of over 2,000 inhabitants in the matter of making public improvements. One of the provisions of the compromise measure is that all of the separate little municipalities annexed to Duluth, as well as Duluth herself, shall be responsible for and settle up their own debts contracted prior to annexation.

At a meeting of the stonecutters of Duluth, it was decided to demand 45 cents an hour and eight hours' work a day. Quinby & Omelis, as the leading stone contractors at the Head of the Lakes, were asked for their views and offered to pay 40 and 45 cents an hour, according to the skill of the men, and to give a nine-hour day. This was accepted.

John W. Stewart met with a very serious mishap last night. He went into the bathroom in the dark to get some mineral water. By mistake he got hold of a bottle of ammonia and poured out a glassful. He swallowed part of it before discovering his mistake. Two doctors worked with him all night. He is now out of danger but his mouth and throat are badly burned.

W. H. Elliott of the West Duluth Gas & Water company, has returned from a trip to the South.

Mrs. E. D. Abbott of West Duluth has gone to Nashua, Iowa, where her father and mother are ill.

Judge Stearns has been notified that the citizens of Lake county have voted to recommend George Mumford as clerk of court under the new law affecting this judicial district.

Henry J. Jordan of this city has received a telegram announcing the death at Kent, Wash., of Mrs. Thomas Devine, who was a resident of Duluth up to a year ago.

The Clan Stewart has rented the old Knights of Pythias rooms in the Hunter block for three years and has completely refitted and refurnished them.

Six hundred delegates from 125 clubs in Minnesota attended the Republican league meeting at Minneapolis. Among those present from Duluth were Mayor M. J. Davis, Dr. Fred Barrett, J. H. Nordby, M. A. Hays, C. E. Lovett, C. A. Towne, H. R. Armstrong, S. A. Thompson, J. B. Sutphin and S. D. Allen.

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Howe, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Thrall of St. Paul, have returned from a three months' trip in Europe.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Corporal Punishment.

Bemidji Sentinel: We thoroughly agree with Supt. Whittier of the Red Wing training school, that corporal punishment is a saner method of correcting the unruly boys than any other method so far discovered. A boy is a good deal of an animal, and such things as solitary confinement and shackling is liable to affect his mind, where corporal punishment only causes a little physical pain and is soon forgotten. Personally, we know that if the rod had been applied more frequently some of those who are now interested in stirring up the trouble in the Red Wing school would be better men today.

All Make a Noise.

Fergus Falls Journal: Most all children, when they are spanked, make a noise which would give the neighbors an idea that they were being brutally treated.

May Be Vetoed.

Stillwater Gazette: Looks as if the passing of the bill permitting the policemen and firemen to ride free on street cars, by our legislature, was an opening wedge to abolish the anti-pass law. The majority of people do not see why one or two classes of people should be granted privileges and the balance of the public be called upon to pay. There is a possibility that the bill will be vetoed by the Governor.

Fashion Note.

Cass County Pioneer: Trousers this spring and summer will be worn much wider than usual. Possibly until late in the fall.

Better Conditions Needed.

Chisholm Tribune-Herald: The state immigration department has been asked by the legislature to furnish a list of the settlers brought into the state as a result of the expensive advertising campaign carried on for the past six years. This is putting it up to the commissioner rather hard, since probably not one valuable settler has come here to settle as the result of it all. And it is not the fault of the immigration department. What we need in advance of advertising is better conditions for the settler in the north part of the state. The establishment of an agricultural experiment farm in St. Louis county, the taxation of state lands and the building of good roads and schools is the first requisite for attracting settlers. Our lands will settle themselves without the aid of paid lecturers.

An Impertinent Question.

Winona Independent: One slight detail upon which men would like to be enlightened is this: Does the harem skirt necessitate the use of suspenders?

Baudette Is Growing.

Rainy River Region: All roads lead to Baudette these days. Newcomers who know a live town when they see it are pouring in and hotels and rooming houses are taxed to the limit. This is surely the town's growing time.

Costly Both Ways.

Red Wing Republican: It is estimated that it will cost a million dollars to raise the Maine. It cost a great deal more than that for the Spaniards to sink it.

Both Make the State.

Ely Miner: It is seriously to be hoped that the proposed bill amending the Constitution allowing each county no more than four senators will not pass as recommended by the senate judiciary committee. The measure is unfair and unjust, born of a desire to do something mean on the part of the country members against the cities. Reapportionment on anything but a population basis is contrary to the laws of the land. To disfranchise people because they live in large cities is an iniquitous scheme fostered by the granger element in the legislature out of pure cussedness. What would the country do without the cities, and vice versa? Both are necessary toward the making of a great state. A few more moves like the one mentioned, and Minnesota will become the butt end of a joke for the balance of the Union.

Must Be Lonely.

Little Falls Transcript: In the Sixth congressional district the Foley Independent must feel a trifle lonely in its opposition to the Canadian reciprocity agreement. Better come on over. Others have flopped.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: There's a perpetual resurrection for family skeletons.

A great man has to listen to no end of advice from little men.

A woman knows how much a man loves her by how much she wants him to.

A politician seems never to be ashamed of himself, but maybe he wishes he could be.

The trouble with an excuse is that it is seldom justifiable.

British Crusade Against Rats.

Consular Report: A public meeting was recently held in Guild hall in London which had for its object the discussion of a plan for the destruction of rats and other vermin in the interests not only of public health, but also of agriculture and commerce. A resolution was adopted for the immediate appointment of a royal commission to inquire into and report upon the whole subject.

One of the speakers said it was calculated that there was one rat to every acre of ground in England and Wales, and that the agricultural loss caused by rats now amounts to $75,000,000 a year. It was suggested that if rats were exterminated British importations of grain might be greatly reduced in value, even to the extent, it was remarked, of some millions of dollars annually. In the last ten years 646,000 rats have been captured and destroyed in the port of London. At present the monthly destruction ranges between 3,000 and 4,000.

Fear was expressed of the communication of disease, especially the plague, by rats brought in ships to the United Kingdom from some foreign ports, unless thorough measures were adopted for their extermination. In the bacteriological examination that was made last year in London it was found that only three rats were infected with plague, but in 1902 of 6,000 rats so examined in Glasgow, not less than 120 were discovered to be so infected.

The scope of the resolution urging an inquiry and the appointment of a royal commission was very broad, as it suggested the appointment of such commission to inquire into:

(1) The increase of vermin and the steps to be taken for their destruction. (2) The question of what creatures are or are not harmful to man and his industries. (3) The safety and efficiency of the various viruses on the market and other means advocated for such destruction.

Hasty Judgment.

"I can never consent," she was saying, "To my daughter's becoming your bride,"

"Then sad is my fate; I am doubly forsaken," the young man replied.

"For the goal of my twofold desire,
I foolishly fancied I saw—
A bride with the grace of an angel,
And a young-looking mother-in-law."

Then her voice, it was sweet with emotion:
"I'm oftentimes hasty, I find,
And if here I have erred, I should do you
But justice—in changing my mind."

SURELY BREAKS UP A BAD COLD

Most Severe Cold or the Grippe Relieved In Several Hours.

It is a positive fact that a dose of Pape's Cold Compound taken every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken will cure Grippe or break up the most severe cold, either in the head, chest, back, stomach or limbs.

You distinctly feel the cold breaking and all the disagreeable grippe symptoms leaving after the very first dose. It promptly ends the most miserable headache, neuralgia pains, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine, made anywhere else in the world which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

DRINKERS UNABLE TO RESIST CRAVING

That the Poison of Alcohol Creates —Become Slaves to the Habit.

SHOULD TAKE 3-DAY CURE.

It Drives Poison Out of the System, Removing Desire.

The habitual use of intoxicants is altogether a bad thing. The drunkard finds every avenue of employment closed to him. To the business man excessive drinking spells ruin. It robs the professional man of his talents, of his reputation and of his substance. It undermines health. It destroys morals. It is the handmaid of crime. It brutalizes its victims. It brings torture and despair to unhappy wives and clothes numberless children in rags. The history of overindulgence in alcoholic stimulants is an open book and it always reads one way. There is only one thing the man can do who is addicted to the liquor habit if he does not want to meet the fate of all other drunkards, and that is to stop it. Oh, but you say, "I can't. I have tried that. The appetite is too much for me. I can't resist the craving." Have you ever thought of the Neal Cure? It takes that craving away. The craving results from a poison alcohol leaves in the system. The Neal Cure drives out that poison. It cures in three short days. It cures without the use of hypodermic injections or dangerous drugs. The cure being effected in so short a time, can be taken without publicity. It is certain as well as prompt. It is like staying three days at a first-class hotel. If you are afflicted with the drink habit and really want to be cured or if you are interested in a friend or relative who needs teatment, write to The Neal Institute Co., corner Belknap and Seventh streets, Superior, Wis., for their free booklet giving full information and a copy of their contract and guarantee bond. It will be mailed to you under a plain sealed envelope and everything will be strictly confidential. You can be treated at Superior Institute, or the St. Paul, Minn., Institute 676 Dayton avenue, or at the Minneapolis, Minn., Institute, corner Fourth avenue south and Seventh street, whichever happens to be the most convenient to you.

COLDER

Old Man Winter is still sleeping and Miss Spring is growing into a big girl. Yesterday, the mercury went to 54 deg. and last night it didn't get below 37 deg. There's a cold wave on the way, however, and although fair weather will continue tonight and tomorrow, the temperature will lose some of its spring-like qualities. The curlers may get a chance to play off those games yet this season.

Corner-lot ball was popular a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 6:23 and it will set at 6:12 this evening, giving leven hours and forty-nine minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The low pressure condition central north of Lake Superior has caused warmer and generally mild weather throughout Northern states. During the last twenty-four hours rain has fallen over Middle Atlantic states in connection with the disturbance central off the Carolina coast. Barometric pressures are rising rapidly over Saskatchewan and Alberta attended by decidedly colder weather in those provinces. Zero temperatures prevail in Northern Saskatchewan. The first of this cold wave will doubtless reach St. Louis and Douglas counties tonight, and the weather will be rather cold during Wednesday and Wednesday night."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, March 14.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Wednesday:

Upper Michigan—Snow flurries tonight or Wednesday; much colder.

Wisconsin—Generally fair tonight and Wednesday; colder Wednesday and in north and west portions tonight.

Minnesota—Generally fair tonight and Wednesday; colder tonight; cold wave in north portion.

Iowa—Fair tonight and Wednesday; colder Wednesday and in west and central portions tonight.

North Dakota—Fair tonight and Wednesday; colder tonight, with cold wave in east portion.

South Dakota and Montana—Fair tonight and Wednesday; colder tonight.

Shippers' forecast—Protect thirty-six-hour shipments of perishables against temperature 10 deg. to 20 deg. above zero in the Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin and the Michigan Copper country.

NEARLY ENDS IN TRAGEDY

Jealous Husband Shoots Rival for His Wife's Affections.

Feud of Long Standing Ends in a Vicious Fight.

Joseph Levanto, 31 years of age, was shot but not seriously wounded by Pasquale Cachione, 53 years old, during a struggle at New Duluth yesterday afternoon. Cachione declared that Levanto had stolen his wife away from him and ruined his home.

Cachione, it is stated, has not been living at home for some time past. He returned yesterday afternoon to visit his 6-year-old son, when he met Levanto. Following a verbal quarrel the two came to blows. Levanto had Cachione down on the ground and was beating and choking him when shot. The bullet struck the fifth rib and following it around, came out through the back, inflicting but a slight flesh wound. During the fight Levanto bit a large piece out of Cachione's hand, and it is feared that his wound will prove to be the more serious.

When word of the shooting reached police headquarters a few minutes after the shooting, Chief Troyer and Capt. Fiskett started for the scene in the large Franklin touring car. It was reported that the man who had done the shooting was on his way to Duluth on a freight train which had gone through the suburb at that time. On the way out the train was searched by the officers. Failing to locate him they continued to New Duluth, where they discovered Cachione in the woods nearby. He gave himself up as soon as he caught sight of the chief and the captain. He was acquainted with the latter and was glad to see him, as the captain speaks Italian. It was learned that immediately after shooting Levanto he had fled to the woods, but returned. He explained that he left again as he was afraid that some of Levanto's friends might harm him.

Levanto's wound was dressed by Dr. Wallace at New Duluth, after which he and Cachione were taken to the city. The former was placed in St. Luke's hospital and the latter was locked up at headquarters, charged with assault in the second degree.

The two men have had trouble before. Last August they had a fight over the same cause, Cachione's hand being bitten by Levanto. Blood poisoning set in and he was laid up a long time. Cachione asserts that he formerly ran a saloon at Albany, N. Y., amassing $15,000, when Levanto appeared on the scene, winning his wife, the two starting to spend the money. Cachione took his wife to Italy, but when they came back to this country Levanto is said to have interfered again, following them here.

Mrs. Cachione has sided with her husband, according to the police. They say that she admits her guilt, and claims that Levanto with the aid of friends, kept her in subjection, forcing her to live with him. Cachione refused to cause his wife's arrest on a charge of adultery.

Cachione asked for a preliminary examination when arraigned in police court this morning, and his hearing was set for Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. His wife and several countrymen appeared in the courtroom this morning when he was arraigned.

Lumber Plant Burns.

Winnipeg, Man., March 14.—The sawmill and plant of the Red Deer Lumber company, at Barrows, Sask., was destroyed by fire yesterday. The loss is $100,000, covered by insurance.

SHOPLIFTERS ARE PAROLED

Girls Will Report to the Municipal Judge Every Month.

Olga Manttary and Jennie Ollila, the two women who were arrested Saturday on a charge of shoplifting, were allowed to go free on a suspended sentence yesterday by Judge Cutting of the municapl court.

The judge was convinced that the women were sincere in their promise to diverge from the habit which they admitted had grown on them since Christmas time. The judge maintained that confinement in the county jail would do the women no good.

They admitted that they had been in the habit of stealing from the department stores. They said that they began about Christmas time.

On motion of City Prosecutor Walter F. Dacey they were allowed to go. They will report to the judge as to their conduct once each month.

SENSATIONS LOOKED FOR

former deputy and liquor tax collector in the county treasurer's office. Following the disappearance yesterday of the record by which the state sought to prove that George Noll, a saloon keeper, had first "listed in" and then "listed out" his saloon, thus obtaining a tax refund from Baschang, came rumors today that the grand jury would be asked to look into the matter.

Attorneys Have Lively Tilt.

A lively tilt between attorneys occurred at the opening of the trial of Baschang. William Thorndyke, attorney for Baschang asked the court to exclude the witnesses for the prosecution from the office of Prosecuting Attorney Hunt. He said they were conferring together and asked that they be directed to remain in the jury room. The request of Thorndyke was denied.

The first witnesses called were employes of the brewing company, which it was said formerly "backed" the saloon of George Noll.

"Sit down and conduct this case in an orderly manner," directed Judge Gorman to Attorney Thorndyke, after another lively tilt between the attorneys.

A driver for the brewery had produced books to show the delivery of beer to the Noll saloon. Mr. Thorndyke claimed one of the entries appeared as if made at a recent date. The prosecution objected and it was at this point that Judge Gorman administered the rebuke.

AFRAID TO BE ON JURY

bring to town thousands of strangers who must be sheltered and fed, have found themselves confronted with an alarming situation. No one familiar with the workings of the "beautiful reformed society," has anything but sympathy for those who shrink from the civic duty imposed.

Progress Is Made.

Nevertheless, progress was made and early in the afternoon all but four of the necessary jurors had been secured. At this point the resources of the court failed and an adjournment until tomorrow was taken.

The scene in the court room today was much like that when the trial opened on Saturday, though there was a larger proportion among the spectators of women and of men who for one reason or another were not eligible for jury duty.

Thirty-four of the alleged instigators of or actual participants in the murder of Gennaro Cuoccolo and his wife occupied the great steel cage for prisoners and glared their hatred at the informer, Gennare Abbatemaggio, who plainly enjoyed the isolation of the smaller cage reserved for his exclusive occupancy.

The priest, Ciro Vittozzi, "the guardian angel of the Camorra," in his priestly garb, was again permitted to sit outside the cage. The prisoners followed the proceedings with real or well-feigned indifference.

Police and carbineers were scattered through the room and surrounded the building. The accused were escorted to court and returned to the prison under heavy guard.

It is hoped that the jury can be completed and the introduction of evidence begun sometime tomorrow. Meantime police officers will be busy trying to locate a long list of talesmen for whom summonses have been issued.

LIKELY TO BE TROUBLE

bendence for supplies on a long line of communications.

Slight News of Troops.

The news of the movement of the troops is vaguely referred to in the Novoe Vremeya, as the non-official publication of such news is a criminal offense in Russia. Other papers are silent on the matter.

It is stated here today that the situation created by China's quibbling has caused a realization that the Russo-Chinese relations are less satisfactory than had been thought. China's suspicion of Russia's good faith and the resentment of supposed aggression is blamed.

The sole course left open to St. Petersburg was a serious military action, which will not shrink from permanent measures in Ili province.

Military circles, the opinion of which had great weight with Emperor Nicholas in reaching a final decision, considers the occupation of Northern Manchuria along a line of demarkation from Kwanchengtze to Kirin a possibility. A correction of the frontier of Tarbagatai, in Mongolia, also is held to be a possibility. The military party frankly favors utilizing the crisis to strengthen the Russian garrisons in the Far East and to correct the frontier strategically at China's expense. This argues that Russo-Chinese relations are so strained that nothing can be secured from China amicably for many years to come.

To Restrict Military Action.

The cabinet, however, is firmly decided to restrict military action to the barest necessity. This attitude was determined upon at a conference between Premier Stlypin and Finance Minister Kokovsoff, who has taken charge of the affairs during the illness of Foreign Minister Sazanoff.

The Novoe Vremya, in an editorial article, calls for the appointment of a responsible minister to replace Suzanoff, who is incapacitated at a critical period, and reminds the premier and M. Kokovsoff that according to the Constitution the cabinet is obliged to execute promptly and fully the emperor's will in foreign affairs. The minister of foreign affairs is required, the paper says, to report to the emperor without previous conference with his colleagues, who are obliged to keep their hands off. The Novoe Vremya's unusual expression indicates that the government is not agreed.

The Novoe Vremya prints a dispatch from Mukden which states that 110 tons of gun powder, forty-two boxes of cavalry rifles and seventy boxes of infantry rifles, destined for Chinese garrisons in Northern Manchuria, have reached Mukden from Pekin. Forty-one van loads of rifles and ammunition, the dispatch adds, have been sent from Kwangchentze to Kirin.

Political circles take great interest in Japan's attitude toward the Russo-Chinese crisis.

Possible Warning to Russia.

The eventuality of action similar to that now contemplated by Russia was clearly premeditated in the Russo-Japanese compacts of 1907 and 1910. The recent speech at Tokio of H. Ijuin, Japanese minister to China, in which he declared for the integrity of China, is commented upon in both capitals as a possible warning to Russia that Japan is jealous lest Russia gain too great advantages as an outcome of the clash with China.

However, the remarks of Ijuin are somewhat discounted by the knowledge that he is inimical to Russia and was appointed to the Pekin mission to strengthen China-Japanese friendship. Telegrams from Harbin state that the Russian press in the Far East has for weeks been talking of Japanese preparations for war, and declaring that their railways and roads are being adapted to the transportation of troops. The staff of the Chinese railway and the employes generally have been replaced by Japanese and armed soldiers. Huge barracks, it is asserted, are under construction at the principal stations, and the Japanese commissariat is gathering reports of the quantity of grains held in private storehouses in Kwantung province.

Simultaneously the Chinese viceroy of Manchuria addressed a secret project to the throne regarding Manchuria and the proposing gradual limitation of rights of foreigners, a diminution of garrisons, the exclusion of gunboats from the Sungari and Yalu rivers and the increasing of the Chinese garrison to 100,000 men at an estimated annual cost of $10,000,000.

Arrest Alleged Kidnaper.

Fond du Lac, Wis., March 14.—Sheriff Graham has returned from Rochester, Minn., with J. F. Venn, charged with kidnaping Florence Trummer, 15-year-old daughter of Jacob Trummer. The wife of Venn could not come from Rochester owing to illness.

The alleged kidnaping grows out of the Trummer dicorce case, tried here seven years ago, when the custody of Florence was given to her father.

THIS SIMPLE LOTION GREAT AID TO BEAUTY

"The nearest approach to the fountain of youth," writes Mrs. Mae Martyn in the New York Herald, "is spurmax—beautifying and inexpensive. This made into a face lotion is marvelous for clearing, beautifying and preserving the complexion.

"Any woman can make this lotion by getting four ounces spurmax from the druggist, dissolving in a half-pint hot water and adding two teaspoonfuls glycerine. This gently massaged into the skin becomes invisible, does not rub off easily like powder, and for a natural aid to beauty cannot be equaled.

"This spurmax lotion is far superior to powders, cosmetics or skin foods and quickly corrects a rough, oily, shiny, sallow or lifeless condition, giving the complexion a smooth, satiny tone. Once you try it, you will have no further use for face powder."

"ST. PATRICK WAS A GENTLEMAN," PROVEN BY OLD MANUSCRIPTS

"St. Patrick was a gentleman,
And came of decent people."

An ancient Irish ballad, full of wit and close to the popular heart contains this information. The tradition preserved in the quaint doggerel bears directly on erudite researches which have been made by a French savant. Numerous and popular as are the legends of Ireland's patron saint it is generally conceded that most of the authentic information concerning him is found in two Latin manuscripts: St. Patrick's "Letters to Coroticus," and his "Confessions," which are in the nature of an autobiography of his public and official life.

The accounts begin with the little slave boy who herded sheep for a heathen master on the mountain slopes of County Antrim, Ireland. The boy was not born in slavery, however, being the son of Caepurnius, a Roman patrician and magistrate. Concessa, St. Patrick's mother, was born in the present city of Kothberg, Hungary. She gave birth to the future saint near Dumbarton, Scotland, and died in the rich Gallo-Roman city of Tours, France. Concessa was a niece of St. Martin of Tours, who was born in the Pannonion city of Sabaria, which modern Hungarians call Sarwar instead of Kothberg.

St. Patrick's grandfather was a military tribune, cultured, wealthy and powerful. St. Martin, great uncle of St. Patrick and uncle of Concessa, was a Roman army officer at the age of 15. Concessa was reputed to be one of the most beautiful young women of Europe. Her husband, Calpurnius, was sent to England to command the wall of Severus, thirty miles long. To the south was all England, and Roman civilization. To the north were the Picts and Scots, almost barbarians. The Scots attacked the wall, were successful because of the neglect of the defenders to repair breaks made by previous raiders, and kidnaped the little son of Concessa and Calpurnius, who was called Succat.

The gentle-bred Christian youth was sold into slavery and became the property of Milcho, a wealthy cattle owner in the north of Ireland. He was well treated and acquired considerable education. The Roman patrician escaped at the age of 16 and returned later as a missionary. His parents were overjoyed at his home coming and he helped defend the wall. He was twice captured in raids by the Picts and twice he escaped.

His parents' post was then shifted to Central France. Accounts differ as to what became of Calpurnius. He may have died on his way to France. Anyway, the young Roman committed his mother to the care of her powerful uncle, Martin Bishop of Tours. He then took up monastic life. Between his arrival in Tours and his ordination as a priest, ten years elapsed. When he became a priest he responded to the call that had run in his ears from early manhood and he left France for Ireland to become a missionary.

St. Patrick was born of Christian parents and the old ballad was eminently correct in assuming that he "was a gentleman and came of decent people."

BOYLE WILL SPEAK IN TWO STATES ON SAME NIGHT

Senator James P. Boyle's fame as an orator results in numerous demands being made upon him. He is unable to accept all of them, but he does accept a good many and the acceptance of two invitations to speak on the same night in different cities marks him with distinction.

Friday night, Senator Boyle will speak at the cathedral auditorium in Duluth and at the banquet of the Irish-American club at Superior. The two engagements formed a problem in transportation for a time, but it has been solved. Senator Boyle will have the first place on the program at the cathedral entertainment. As soon as his address has been delivered, he will be hurried to Superior, where he will probably be the last speaker on the program.

The entertainment at the cathedral auditorium was first arranged for Thursday and Friday nights. It will be given at night on Friday only, however, and a matinee for the children will be given in the afternoon. Senator Boyle's address Friday night will be followed by a play, "Shamrock and Rose," by local talent.

WEDNESDAY WILL BE HOUSE FIELD DAY ON TEMPERANCE BILLS

to a motion that when the house adjourn it be until Wednesday morning. Representative Rines moved as a substitute that when the house adjourn it be until 9:30 this morning. This motion was carried, 43 to 28. A little later a motion to reconsider this vote was lost, 29 to 32.

Then the house went on general orders in committee of the whole. Not a single stroke of business was done. The authors of the bills that were reached were either out of town or out of the chamber, and after a dozen or so of bills had been laid over, a motion that the committee rise was carried.

The committee had no report to make, and as the house had finished the established order of business, there was nothing before it. Representative J. N. Johnson moved to adjourn, and his motion was lost.

For a few minutes the house simply sat and thought it over. Then Representative Mattson moved to adjourn, but as no business had been transacted since the previous motion to adjourn was voted down, Mr. Mattson's motion could not be entertained. Then the house sat and thought it over for a few minutes more.

Representative Knutson saved the situation, to his own profit, by having one of his bills advanced to the calendar by suspending the rules. This permitted a renewal of the motion to adjourn, and this time it was carried, so the house adjourned to 10 o'clock this morning.

Though the attendance was a little better in the senate, it was scant enough so that no attempt was made to take up important measures. A few minor measures were passed, and then the senate went into committee of the whole and considered a number of measures of scant import. A snag was struck in the Stebbins bill requiring peddlers to take out licences, and a fight lasting an hour ensued, without result.

Wednesday afternoon will be a field day for temperance measures in the house. Saturday six temperance measures were made a special order for that day, and yesterday afternoon Representative Converse moved to add ten more temperance bills to the special order. The house being fearful that it was cutting out more work than it could manage in an afternoon, he amended his motion so as to add but one bill, making seven that will be considered tomorrow. These measures are all regulatory, and while some will go through easily, others are so drastic that there will be a hard fight on them.

The house committee on appropriations yesterday afternoon voted to recommend for passage the bill creating a state park on the site of old Fort Ridgeley, which has been urged by O. H. Clarke of Duluth.

The senate committee on public lands yesterday afternoon voted to recommend for passage Representative C. H. Warner's bill providing for monthly state land sales in a number of Northern Minnesota counties from April to November, inclusive. There is little doubt that the bill will pass.

On a report from the judiciary committee that it is impossible under the Constitution as it now stands to create a public lands department separate from the state auditor's office, the senate public lands committee yesterday afternoon voted to return the several pending bills of that nature to their authors. An attempt will be made to propose an amendment to the Constitution that will separate the land business from the state auditor's office, and thus permit the creation of such a bureau of internal development and conservation as was suggested by the Northern Minnesota Development association at its Brainerd meeting.

The committee recommended for passage Representative Harrison White's bill extending from five years to seven the period within which buyers of state lands must make the improvements required by law. The bill works back so that those who bought land in 1905 will have until 1912 to make the improvements.

The senate committee on state fair yesterday afternoon decided to introduce as a committee bill the proposal, urged by C. P. Craig of Duluth and other members of the board of managers of the state fair, that a $350,000 agricultural building be erected on the fair grounds, according to plans prepared by F. G. German of Duluth.

Rumors were rife yesterday afternoon that Governor Eberhart will veto the bill allowing street railway companies to give passes to policemen and firemen. Much pressure was being brought to bear on both sides of the measure, but the indications were that a veto would result.

Speaker Dunn yesterday afternoon appointed Representatives Campbell, Davis, H. Nelson, Bouck and Hurley members of a committee that is to investigate the insurance department and find out why expenses are eating up fees.

The house elections committee yesterday afternoon voted to put out without recommendation Representative Hopkins' bill requiring the use of voting machines in this state. The law now authorizes them, but only Hennepin county uses them.

In committee of the whole yesterday afternoon the senate advanced to the calendar Senator Pauly's bill requiring the signature of the wife before a salaried man can assign wages to be earned in the future as security for debt.

NO DISPENSATION FOR MARCH 17

Catholics Will Abstain From Meat on St. Patrick's Day.

Although it is reported that in some dioceses in the United States a special dispensation has been obtained from the pope, allowing Catholics to eat meat next Friday, St. Patrick's day, no such dispensation has been received by Bishop McGolrick and Duluth Catholics will be required to observe next Friday as every other Friday of the year as a day of abstinence. The only occasion on which the usual restriction is removed on Friday is when Christmas day falls on Friday.

RAILROAD PURCHASE

Report That Soo Line Will Acquire the Pere Marquette.

Large Increase in Stock of Soo Road Is Ordered.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Railroad development of great importance is foreshadowed by a meeting yesterday afternoon of directors of the Soo line at which it was decided to increase the capital stock of the road 21 per cent, a meeting simultaneously in Detroit of directors of the Pere Marquette road and the rumor that either the Canadian Pacific or the Soo line has bought the Pere Marquette. The new stock will be issued at par to present holders of Soo shares, in the proportion of seven shares of preferred and fourteen shares of common to every 100 shares now held. There is now oustanding $20,832,000 common and $10,460,000 preferred stock.

It was said at President Pennington's office that the new issue of stock will be used in the construction of new lines. With regard to the report that the Canadian Pacific has bought the Pere Marquette Mr. Pennington said that he has no knowledge as to that. He stated that the Soo has not to this time acquired the Pere Marquette, but asked directly if the Soo line has any intention of so doing he said that the meeting yesterday was not called for the purpose of considering the matter.

An Important Road.

The Pere Marquette road operates 1,566 miles of rails and extends through Michigan and about the lakes in such a manner as to make its strategic importance great. Its rails connect Porter, Ind., with Grand Rapids, Mich., and it enters Saginaw, Bay City, Port Huron, Detroit, Ludington and many other Michigan points identified with lake navigation. It has a floating equipment of eight lake and river car ferries on which trains of freight cars are carried across Lake Michigan, and its connection in this way at lake ports where the Wisconsin Central or Soo line's Chicago division enter, would make it valuable to that road and to the Soo line proper.

The Pere Marquette road has 427 locomotives, 373 passenger and 19,267 freight cars. Its capital stock issue of common and first and second preferred amounts to $27,000,000 and the bonded indebtedness of the various lines that make the system is $63,000,000.

Owned in the East.

The Pere Marquette headquarters are in Detroit, where H. B. Ledyard, a principal owner, and William Cotter, president and general manager, live, but the directorate contains names that show the ownership lodged largely in the East. They are George W. Perkins, George F. Baker, Norman B. Ream, Charles Steele, Fred D. Underwood, George W. Young and others.

The Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton road leased the Pere Marquette in March, 1905. In December of that year the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton having gone into receivership, the identity of the Pere Marquette was restored.

The purchase of the Pere Marquette by the Soo line would give that company, with the Wisconsin Central, nearly 6,000 miles of road. Its position, in that event, would be very strong about the lake ports and it would have several new Eastern outlets.

WOULD PARDON CONROY.

Minot Friends of Convicted Man Working to That End.

Minot, N. D., March 14.—A campaign has been started to secure a pardon for Edward Conroy, who was sentenced for twenty years in the state penitentiary from Minot on a charge of breaking into the Riverside grocery.

Several Minot people, who have investigated the facts in the case, believe that Conroy is absolutely innocent. The evidence upon which Conroy was convicted was largely circumstantial, and the more the evidence is examined, the more it looks as if Conroy was the victim of a miscarriage of justice.

Judge William Murray is one of the Minot citizens who believes that Conroy is innocent.

PROCTOR MAY REINCORPORATE

Question Will Be Discussed at Meeting of Commercial Club.

Would Proctor as a village be benefited by reincorporating under the laws of 1905?

This question will be up this evening before the members of the Commercial club and a committee appointed at a recent meeting will have something of interest to report. There has been considerable discussion on this point and the matter was referred to a committee for special investigation.

Estimates on a sewer system will be submitted by the D., M. & N. engineers, who made a survey last month, the railway donating their services for this purpose. When the cost of a sewer system is known the village assessor will be asked to give an estimate as to what tax levy would be required to finance the improvement.

The matter of extending a street car line to Proctor may come in for considerable discussion at the gathering this evening. L. A. Barnes and others from West Duluth are expected to address the Proctor club on the proposed line.

LIKELY SITE FOR NEW DEPOT

Rumors are persistent at West Duluth that the Canadian Northern will build its passenger station along its right-of-way between Fifty-third and Fifty-fourth avenues west and south of the Northern Pacific tracks.

The company has purchased several lots in this vicinity and as the location is central and easy of access, it is considered to be one of the best sites for a depot at West Duluth. Officials of the road have refused to commit themselves on the matter and no official information has been given out. West Duluth business men have been waiting for some time for an announcement as to where the new station would be located. If this site is chosen, it is probable that it will meet with general favor among West Duluthians.

Trestle work on the company's right-of-way through West Duluth has not been started as yet, but probably will be within the next three weeks, when a large crew of men will be brought from points up the line.

CONFERENCE ON SALARIES

Commercial Club Committees Discuss School Problems With Board.

A committee of the Commercial club consisting of Henry Nolte, Oscar Mitchell, W. I. Prince, David Williams and E. P. Towne, will meet with the board of education at the board rooms next Friday afternoon at 1:30, will investigate school matters with special reference to teachers' salaries and pending legislation, and later report to a general meeting of the Commercial club with recommendations as to what course to pursue in the solution of pending problems.

That was the result of a joint meeting of the municipal committee and the state and county committee of the Commercial club and the board of education at a meeting held at the Commercial club this afternoon.

The board looks to the Commercial club as a representative body of citizens, who are most interested in school affairs, and the meeting was called in order that a better understanding between the board and the public might be reached. The result of the meeting was that the committee was appointed to make a full investigation, determine just what the situation is, make public its findings and enlist the influence of the club for that course which it deems fairest to the public and fairest to the teachers, who are clamoring for higher salaries.

The Board's Position.

The board's position was set forth briefly by President W. E. Magner and Director W. G. Crosby, chairman of the committee on schools and teachers. Mr. Crosby pointed out that there are inconsistencies in the present state of affairs. The teachers want higher salaries, the board has reached the limit of taxation for the general fund, the public does not understand the limitations placed upon the different funds of the board, one bill introduced in the legislature limits the total levy and impliedly tells the board to issue more bonds, while another bill places a limit on the bonded indebtedness and provides that the city council shall have supervision over bond issues of the school district.

Mr. Magner and Mr. Crosby both stated that the tax levies of the past two years have been high, but that the board does not expect to exceed 12 mills for its total levy for several years to come. Mr. Magner said that, while he would be satisfied with a limit of 12 mills on the total levy, he would like to have more elasticity in the general fund, while Mr. Crosby said the board should be given some leeway to meet extraordinary expenses.

Oscar Mitchell, Judge Cant and Mr. Prince all declared that the appointment of a committee to assemble facts would be the best course to pursue in determining what would be fair for the teachers, what would be fair to the school system in the way of a minimum amount on which it could be properly conducted and what would be fair to the taxpayers in the way of an amount they could be called upon to pay.

Plea for Teachers.

Mr. Nolte made a strong plea for the teachers. He said that the Duluth teachers are underpaid; that many of them leave for other cities on that account, and that the Duluth teaching corps is not kept up to the efficiency it should have because of the desertions from the ranks. He said the whole secret may be in the fact that Duluth real estate is undervalued, for Minneapolis is paying higher salaries, while working under the same law that governs school matters in Duluth. He said the secret must be in greater valuation in Minneapolis in proportion to population.

On Mr. Nolte's motion Mr. Richardson, chairman of the meeting, appointed the committee, and the chairman of the public affairs committee of the club will be asked to call a meeting of his committee and invite all members of the club to hear the report. The committee will meet with the school board Friday and compile its report as soon as possible, in order that recommendations to the legislative delegation may be made as soon as possible.

The meeting today was attended by Chairman W. E. Richardson and Watson S. Moore, Oscar Mitchell and Judge W. I. Cant of the municipal committee; Chairman W. I. Prince and Henry Nolte of the state and county committee, President Magner, W. E. Everett, E. E. Cobb, W. G. Crosby, L. A. Campbell and L. A. Barnes of the school board, and Supt. Denfeld and Clerk Bronson.

TWO BOYS BURN NEAR SOO, MICH.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two sons of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lawless, living on a farm twelve miles from here, were burned to death in a blaze that destroyed the family home last night.

Mrs. Lawless, while trying to save the lives of other children, jumped from a second story window and sustained injuries from which she will die.

The springs on the beds in which the boys were sleeping became so affected by the heat that they curled about the bodies of the victims and shut off all chance of escape.

Only their ashes were found this morning by searchers.

While it is thought that the fire started from a defective flue this is not positively known.

BODY OF UNKNOWN MAN FOUND IN HAYSTACK.

The body of an unidentified man was found this afternoon two miles north of the pumping station at Lakewood, by Mrs. John Olson, who reported the finding of the body to the police. The coroner was notified and will take charge of the case.

Mrs. Olson discovered the body in a haystack by the roadside. He was evidently a middle-aged man and wore the clothes of a working man.

THE "CORNER LOTTERS" ARE BUSY ON EVERY VACANT FIELD

"We've got too many men now."

So Micky sat down on the curb and watched the other fellows play. There was a look of sadness on his face and he watched with pity the humble efforts of the man at bat to swat the ball. He knew he could "line 'er out" if he was at bat. He was sorry for the pitcher who didn't seem to be able to get 'em over, and while he didn't express any sorrow, it could be easily seen that he thought he could play any one of the positions better than any of the men in the field.

The first statement was made when he asked to be allowed to play. He saw a dozen chances where men ought to be fired, and the position given to him, but no one seemed to think that same way about it and he sat on the curb and tried to imagine that he was in the game.

It was up on Third street. The mud was deep. Stones did for bases. The milk wagon and other slow traveling vehicles interrupted play every now and then. The ball was made out of rags, but there were nine on a side and it was fun because no attempt had been made to play the game in some months.

These "corner lot" baseball games are going on every day. Every available piece of property is being used for the national game and youthful Christies and Browns are twisting 'em over while youthful Wagners and Cobbs do their best to straighten them out.

The Teddy Bears and Pirates will soon organize for the season and then these games will be no joke.

"HONEST PAT" HIS EPITAPH

Patrick O'Connor, 37 years of age, formerly janitor at the police station and the municipal court, died Sunday at the tuberculosis sanitarium, where he had been for nine days.

Because of his honesty he earned the soubriquet of "Honest Pat." Some times prisoners locked up at headquarters do not turn over their wealth to the jailer, having it secreted in their clothes where it is difficult to find. Not infrequently it gets to the floor, where it might easily be lost. It is one of the duties of the janitor to sweep out the lockup once or twice a day. O'Connor often picked up valuables in this manner and turned them over invariably to the jailer or to the owner. He was employed at the station over year. He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Levy Mason and Mrs. Lizzie Scott, and two brothers, Thomas and John O'Connor. The body was taken to Crawford's undertaking establishment. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Louis Johnson, jailer at police headquarters, returned to his duties today. He was bitten in the hand by a prisoner he was taking to headquarters early last week and blood poisoning set in. For a time it was feared that he would lose his arm, but prompt medical attention checked the spread of the poison.

Stole a Slot Machine.
Hagen Hougen, arrested last night as he was carrying a penny-in-the-slot gum machine from Mike Mucelli's confectionery stand on the Bowery, was convicted of petit larceny in police court this morning and fined $50 and costs or thirty days in the county jail. He claimed that he was drunk and didn't realize what he was doing.

Burial at Cloquet.
The body of Peter Yaker, who was killed on the railroad tracks near Brookston last Friday night, was sent to his former home at Cloquet last night for interment. There were no eye witnesses to the accident. The body was brought to Duluth last Saturday and taken to Crawford's undertaking establishment.

Has a New Graft.
Elmer Johnson, arrested Saturday afternoon on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses by representing to woodsmen that he could get them a job by advertising in a weekly paper and collecting 25 cents from them, pleaded guilty to petit larceny in police court this morning. The court wished to get more information on the case and did not pass sentence.

Sold Liquor Without License.
Mike Mainella was found guilty of selling liquor without a license, after a trial in police court yesterday afternoon and paid a fine of $100. He runs a confectionery store near Sixth avenue west and Superior street. His own testimony did not differ materially from the allegations set up by the prosecution.

Three Found Guilty.
Charles Anderson was found guilty of being drunk and disorderly after a trial in police court yesterday afternoon and fined $5 and costs with the alternative of five days in jail. Gust Berg and John Tilberg, who are said to have taken Anderson away from Patrolman A. Johnson when he attempted to make the arrest, were found guilty of interfering with an officer and fined $25 and costs with the alternative of twenty days in the county jail.

For Reckless Driving.
Frank Carlson was arrested at West Duluth last night on a charge of reckless driving. It was alleged that he drove a horse down the main street without regard for pedestrians or other vehicles. He pleaded guilty in police court this morning and paid a fine of $10 and costs. Nels Skorman, who was in the rig with him, was fined $1 and costs for being drunk.

Alexander Not Guilty.
Nicholas Alexander was found not guilty of grand larceny in the second degree after a trial before Judge Dibell in district court yesterday. Alexander was accused of having stolen an overcoat valued at $65 from Andrew Rizcek.

Wed in Superior.
Marriage licenses were issued in Superior today to two Duluth couples. They are Carl Nelson and Clara Gray and Charles E. Lee and Mrs. Nellie Patterson.

RELIEF WORK IS AT AN END

Maj. Eva Closes Up Committee's Work on the Border.

Maj. H. V. Eva, secretary of the state Red Cross relief committee, returned this morning from Baudette and Spooner. He attended yesterday to the sale of the buildings, which were used through the winter by the relief workers, and so closed up affairs that only the office force is now on the scene of last fall's conflagration. H. C. Ash, executive agent of the committee, was called to the West last week on account of the illness of a sister and Lieut. Foster is in charge. Lieut. Westberg, a bookkeeper, a stenographer and a watchman, make up the remainder of the office force.

Whereas earlier in the winter people rushed to the relief headquarters for orders for provisions and clothing, only two applications for minor articles were received yesterday and some days not a person asks for relief. Although the office employes will remain on the border for the remainder of this month, they will be engaged mostly in closing up affairs and not in administering relief.

Baudette and Spooner have risen from the ashes and are standing upon their own resources. The two towns are prosperous—more prosperous than before the fire, strange as it may seem. There was plenty of work for everybody during the winter and the business men report that their business is greater now than it was before the two towns were swept away.

Much Timber Taken Out.

The necessity of getting out the timber which was in the path of the fire was the salvation of the towns and certainly of the settlers. Operators in that district have taken out great quantities of pulpwood and ties this winter and there has been work for every man who was willing to handle an ax or a saw. Many of the settlers worked independently on their claims and they found a ready market for their lumber products, so that they were able to support themselves without the aid of the relief committee through the winter and now have a little surplus to carry them through until harvest time.

The relief committee did not give a cent of money to any man. Everybody was taken care of, but the relief was in the form of material necessities and not money, which might have been abused. Every man in the two towns who needed such relief and every settler was provided with a comfortable shelter, provisions enough to carry him and his family through to the time when he could provide them for himself, an ax and a saw and was told to go to work and work out his own salvation.

Loafers and hangers-on were not tolerated, but there were only a few. The people as a rule came out of the first shock of the disaster with a determination to surmount obstacles and undo the work of the fire as rapidly as possible. The weak-spirited settlers who first talked of abandoning their claims were inspired by the stronger minded. Those who did not have timber on their own claims to get out were employed by the larger operators, so that nobody had an excuse sit by and mourn the disaster.

Business Is Good.

The business men set about rebuilding their business places and residences. Jobbers were fair in their extension of credit and the stores were doing business shortly after the fire. The volume of their business has been growing as the number of people who worked out of the necessity of depending upon the relief committee increased. The municipal governments were able to do little except rebuild the village buildings, but with spring coming on they are preparing to replace streets and sidewalks and adopt measures of sanitation.

Street conditions in the two towns are frightful just at present. There isn't a sidewalk anywhere and the streets are veritable rivers of soft mud, through which the people splash in their daily movements. Only the drying apparatus of nature can help the situation until matters shape themselves so that sidewalks may be built and the streets put in proper condition.

Seed Distribution.

The distribution of seed is now going on, but is hampered by the condition of the roads. The seed, which is being distributed by the extension department of the state agricultural school, should have been distributed in time to be taken to the settlers before the break-up, but the conditions now existing were not foreseen and, although late planting will be the rule, it will not seriously inconvenience the settlers, it is hoped.

Applications for seed are being received, circulars having been sent to all the settlers. Applications must be in by April 1, by which time it is hoped that most of the roads will be in condition for hauling. Sufficient seed will be given each settler to plant his ordinary crops and the border country will be returned to a normal basis with the harvest next fall.

Some Money Misplaced.

The final report of the relief committee will not be ready for some time. People who have observed the work are well pleased, however. The committee adopted a definite plan of administering relief at the start and adhered to it, with the result that every cent of money is accounted for and that not 1 cent has been handed out to any person. There was some money distributed in the border towns by agents of fraternal organizations and, although some of it was used where it did good, much was misplaced and relief workers say that the necessity of all relief measures being placed in the hands of one committee of responsible men was again demonstrated, although the abuses of relief funds by agents independent of the state committee were far less numerous in the border country than in the case of any former disaster in Minnesota.

All buildings, except the warehouse and guardhouse, were sold yesterday by the relief committee and the amounts received were such that the erection of buildings proved to be a more economical plan than the use of tents.

DEDHAM HOTEL BURNS TO GROUND.

Peter Farley's hotel at Dedham, Wis., was burned this morning. The inmates escaped injury.

The hotel was a frame structure erected some years ago. The proprietor's loss amounts to $1,800. He carried insurance to the amount of $1,000.

The fire is supposed to have started from a defective chimney. Besides the hotel there was a bar in the same building.

FIGHT STOPPED AT END OF FIFTH

St. Paul, Minn., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—A prizefight was scheduled for Aurora last night, and if it was held there may be trouble for some of the officers of the law in St. Louis county.

Just before closing for the day the attorney general last night received a telegram from John W. Schenck, Aurora: "A prizefight to be pulled off here tonight. Can you do anything to stop it?"

The attorney general promptly sent the message across the hall to the Governor's office, and Archie Hayes, executive clerk, spent several hours reaching the sheriff of St. Louis county and instructing him to stop the mill. He wired the sheriff of the fight and ordered him to investigate "immediately to see that no such match is held in violation of the law."

The sheriff of the county was at Stillwater with a prisoner, but his deputy was reached by telephone and started action. No word has been received as to whether the fight was held.

Information from Aurora says the fight was started but stopped at the end of the fifth round. It was to have gone fifteen rounds.

Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy

cured Mrs. C. C. Gokey, of a stubborn case of heart disease, such as thousands are now suffering with. Read what she says:

"Before I began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy I had been suffering from heart trouble for over five years. I had grown so weak that it was impossible for me to do thirty minutes work in a whole day. I suffered intense pains in my left side and under the left shoulder blade, I could not sleep on the left side, and was so short of breath that I thought I should never be able to take a full breath again. The least excitement would bring on the most distressing palpitation. I had scarcely taken a half-bottle of the Heart Remedy before I could see a marked change in my condition. I began to sleep well, had a good appetite, and improved so rapidly that when I had taken six bottles I was completely cured.

Doctors Said He Would Die

A Friend's Advice Saves Him.

I wish to speak of the wonderful cure that I have received from your noted Swamp-Root, the great kidney and bladder cure. Last summer I was taken with severe pains in my back and sides. I could not breathe without difficulty and was nearly wild with the desire to urinate. Was compelled to do so every ten minutes with passage of pure blood with the urine. I tried all the different doctors from far and near, but they said it was no use to doctor as I would die anyway. I was at the end of my rope and was so miserable with pain and the thought that I must die that words cannot tell how I felt. One day a friend told me of the wonderful help she had received from Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. She gave me one of your pamphlets which I read and determined to try Swamp-Root. After taking half a bottle I felt better. Have now taken ten bottles and am well as I ever was, thanks to Swamp-Root. I wish to tell all suffering people that have kidney, liver or bladder trouble, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is the best medicine on the market.

All persons doubting this statement can write to me and I will answer them directly.

Yours very truly,

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

MEETING AT ROCHESTER

Minny League Magnates Will Consider Important Matters at Session.

Impression Prevails That There Will Be Few Changes.

Interesting details are expected to come to light in the meeting which opens today at Rochester, where the Minny magnates will gather to settle on the teams that will make up the league, appoint the umpires and settle several questions that have been a thorn in the side of the league for the past two seasons.

While the most level-headed baseball men in the league claim that the casting out of Eau Claire and Wausau, moribund in the baseball sense, would be a very good move for the league, there seems some degree of doubt as to whether this will be accomplished.

There may be some inside details that the scribes around the circuit have not been able to give to the public, but the only sensible view of the situation that can be gained from this slant, would dictate the dropping of two towns that have been a burden of expense since their incorporation into the association.

After the meeting today Duluth fans will know their status in baseball for the coming season. Hope has fluttered fitfully at the window of Duluth this past winter. The fans have had visions of better baseball at various times, and now on the verge of the starting of the spring training, they are facing the old situation again.

Reports from Red Wing, Rochester, La Crosse and Winona indicate that each of these towns desires to be in the circuit again. Very little news has come from either Eau Claire or Wausau. Earlier in the season it was stated that Wausau would drop out, and later again it was stated that the town would try another season. Eau Claire thought some of a league leaving after the extent of the deficit was figured up. It seems, however, that Eau Claire, too, has taken a different view of the matter.

Local Conditions.

Turning from guessing at what action will be taken at Rochester today, some attention might be given to home conditions. The old rumor about the park on J. Point has come up. J. J. Desmond, a hustler, stated the day before yesterday that he has backing for the venture and that work on the park might be started the present season.

Whether or not work will ever be started on this will depend a great deal on the baseball outlook to J. J. If something looms on the horizon and the proper assurance is given for the future, something maye be started the present season. If the meeting develops nothing of a future promise, very likely nothing will be done in regard to the new park.

Whether or not new towns are added at the meeting today, and whether or not Duluth gets a new park the present season or next, J. J. Desmond has the gratitude of the fans for the energy he has put into baseball.

Jawn took the team when it faced a deficit and has spent good money to pull it through. He has been one of the prime movers, in fact the prime mover, in the idea to get Duluth into a league where the Twin Cities would hold franchises. He is filled with better ideas for Duluth, and irrespective of what action is taken at the league meeting today, the fans should stand by him.

RED WING IS OPTIMISTIC

Fans of Down River Town Expect to Have Fast Team.

Red Wing, Minn., March 14.—With the appointment of Fred Cook as playing manager of the Manufacturers, Red Wing league ball has taken a new lease of life and on no condition will the local representatives at the Rochester meeting next Tuesday listen to a proposition which would deprive Red Wing of a berth on the Minny circuit. Financially, the Red Wing club is in better shape than any club on the circuit and more interest is shown by local fans than ever before. At the meeting of directors held last week the financial committee reported that $3,000 for the support of the club had been raised and that with the proposed deal with the Canadian cities for the transfer of the franchise buried sufficient funds to carry the team through the entire season were forthcoming.

The association's choice of Fred Cook of St. Paul as manager of the team met with the approval of the fans in general. Cook managed Red Wing's Independent club two years ago, which was one of the best in the state. He knows the inside of the game and should be able to give Red Wing a team that will be well up in the race the entire season. In all probability Mike Malloy will be sold to the La Crosse club. It is understood that the errorless wonder has received a proposition to handle the reins of the club down river. In the event that a deal cannot be made he will look after the left field position for Red Wing.

Will Build Up Team.

Manager Cook is expected to arrive in Red Wing during the next few days to confer with the directors and get a line on his duties. No time will be lost in building up the Red Wing team. Some new material has been secured which should greatly strengthen the Manufacturers. While some of the players held in reserve have not placed their signatures to the 1911 contracts, yet it is believed that the terms offered are satisfactory and that all will return to the fold.

Red Wing will have one of the best corps of hurlers in the league. Weidel, Tautsch and Rube Johnson in their initial season in the professional arena hurled fine ball and the trio is expected to show up in brilliant form the coming season. The association has a net out for a southpaw that made a great showing in the Pacific coast league last year and will give three or four promising youngsters a try out in the spring.

Manager Fred Cook will play first base. At that position he should make good. He is a swell fielding firstsacker and a heavy hitter. Cook should fill in the gap left vacant by the sale of Kelly in a most efficient manner.

CALLAHAN MAY MANAGE SOX

Rumor Says Former Star Will Succeed Duffy as Pilot.

Chicago, March 14.—James J. Callahan, semi-professional magnate and exponent of the "come back" theory, is to be crowned manager of the White Sox for the second time in his career in 1912, if the gossip that swept over the baseball rialto yesterday is to be given credence.

According to the semi-professional club owners and players, the former star pitcher and centerfielder is to assume the throne on which Hugh Duffy now sits when the latter's two-year contract with President Charles Comiskey expires this year.

Those responsible for the report hint at tips received from the training camp at Mineral Wells, in which it is intimated that Jimmy's joining the White Sox squad this spring as a player may result in a stipend more substantial than that received by the ordinary outfielder, and that instead of being a cog in the South side baseball machine it will not be long before he is the man who turns the crank and oils the "steam roller" built for the purpose of crushing the peasant aspirants of the seven other teams in the American league.

MANY EVENTS ARE ELIMINATED

Program of Olympiad at Stockholm Will Be Different From Others.

New York, March 14.—According to officers of the Amateur Athletic union there is every likelihood of a severe curtailment in the list of events to be held in Stockholm, Sweden, next year. The shortness of the period of the festival makes necessary the omission of certain of the sports which were found on the London olympic program. The inclusion of these minor sports in the English scheme was widely criticized because most of the events called out English competitiors exclusively.

The Swedish committee proposes to entrust the work of actual management to sub-committees appointed by the governing associations of Sweden. As a rule, Swedes only will be appointed officials, but the Swedish committee must at its discretion avail itself of the assistance of foreigners, as was done occasionally by the British committee.

Mention is made in the general regulation of international juries to be composed of representatives of all the nations taking part in the games, and having jurisdiction over different branches of sport. It is further laid down that the decision of protests will rest with the jury and not, as heretofore, with the executive officials.

The curtailment of the Olympic program will not affect the more popular events. Running races at all of the most popular distances are retained, but there is only one walking contest, at the distance of 10,000 meters as against those of 8,500 meters and ten miles in 1908. The 400 meters hurdle and the steeplechase are eliminated. A new event is introduced in a cross-country race at 8,000 meters, a very short distance for a race of this kind. Similar objection could be made to the relay race of 400 meters.

Changes have been made in the javelin and discus events, the free style in the one and the Greek style in the other having been given up. A new feature of these exercises is introduced in the offer of prizes for ambidexterity.

Graeco-Roman will be the style in the wrestling bouts, this being the style universally used on the continent. In gymnastics a team competition in exercises according to the Swedish system is a new feature.

Noticeable innovations in the swimming events will be a 400-meter breast stroke and a 100-meter race, as well as a diving contest for ladies. Mention is made in the rowing line of but two first-class events—the eights and the sculls.

VOLLEY BALL EXPERTS WILL CLASH AT Y. M. C. A.

One of the headline attractions scheduled for the Y. M. C. A. "pop" this evening is the volley ball contest between the noon business men's class and the solid cits who play in the 4:30 class. These teams have met twice the present season and the grave question of supremacy as yet remains undecided. It is expected that a decision will be reached this evening.

The two aggregations will present the following lineup:

Noon class—J. H. Hearding, captain; H. B. Deitweiler, F. E. Mattier, M. F. Jamar, Jr., S. Morterud, C. Helmar, W. N. Hart, E. Hunner, George Ebert and R. Mace.

4:30 class—Joseph E. Horak, captain; Julius Barnes, Anthony Fuck, Guy Warren, C. R. McLean, C. C. De Witt, Dr. Frank Lynam, Carl Heimbach and Alex McLeod.

Minny League Magnates Gather for Conference—Ollie Anderson Gets a Chance—Moran and McFarland—The Boxing Bill.

(BY BRUCE.)

AT ROCHESTER today the magnates of the Minny league, together with President Frank E. Force, are holding forth in what should prove a very important meeting for the interests of the league.

It is on the cards to decide just what teams will compose the league, to arrive at a thorough understanding regarding the obeying of the salary agreement, and to actually, not mythically, deposit the funds guaranteeing that each team remain in the league through the season.

It is advisable that action along this line be taken at the meeting, as the confidence of the fans is something that the league will need in its effort toward better attendance.

Here the main interest will lie in the attempt to get Winnipeg into the league. The course taken by the league magnates at Rochester today may have much to do with the future of baseball here.

The fans in this neck of the woods are rooting for Winnipeg, and the announcement that Eau Claire and Wausau have given up their franchises in favor of the big city of Western Canada, and Brandon, which could not possibly be a worse baseball town than Eau Claire and Wausau have been for the past two years, will be hailed with joy.

Baseball will take on more interest after the meeting of today. There will be more definite information regarding the future of the league, and managers will be in a position to know exactly what to look forward to.

Some News From Ollie Anderson.

A LETTER from Ollie Anderson, the very best umpire in this circuit last season, and one of the best indicator holders in minor league baseball today, conveys the information that he will work in a number of the exhibition games of the big teams.

This is just the chance this boy deserves. Here is hoping that he makes good and that the lamps of some of the powers higher up are cast favorably upon him. Just why he has stayed in the Minny league as long as he has is a mystery that quite a few of the fans have been unable to understand. His judgment on strikes and balls is very good, but more than that, he maintains discipline on the baseball field. That is the one thing the officials of the game should strive for. Let rowdyism prevail, and fans will quit attending the games. That very thing hurt baseball in this league in the first year of its existence.

Anderson has in his years in this league maintained the best discipline and the respect of the players on the ball field, and for that feat alone, even if he were not qualified with sound and clear judgment he would deserve the promotion that has come to him.

Anderson will be in the New England league next season, and it is a very good bet that the boy with the sorrel top and loud voice will make good.

The Gloves Should Fly Some, George

TONIGHT Owen Moran and P. McFarland, the statuesque chap from the unromantic stockyards, are scheduled to mix in one of those unsatisfactory ten round things. On the face of the showing the two boys have made, and considering the fact that McFarland will probably be somewhere in the vicinity of seven or eight pounds over the fighting weight of Moran, the man from the West should be able to get the decision over the Briton.

In a long fight there is a lot of talent who would string on the smaller man. He is a fighter of the type of Wolgast, with more science than the German, and is so good that it has been quite impossible to get Abe Attell to fight him again over the long route.

Packey McFarland is today perhaps the cleverest boy in the ring, not barring Abe Attell, Freddy Welsh or Jem Driscoll. He is a speed marvel and a grey hound over the short route. What he might be able to do over the long route with one of the tough boys, is a question that will have to be filed in the card index system and left for future reference.

Tonight's fight is attracting interest all over the country and you may be sure that the club in New York, which the inquisitive little police can't even enter, will be filled with gentry of various and divers sorts, who will see two of the greatest boys of their time in action.

About That Dear Old Boxing Bill.

FROM some information that was given out the other day by one of the members of the house of representatives, one has grounds for playing the belief that there is some show for the boxing bill to at least get by the house.

It is stated that many of the representatives have been interviewed and have stated that they see no objection in legalizing six round bouts where no decisions are given. They probably take the view that it is better to legalize the game and place it on a decent footing than to allow bush fights on the "quiet."

Boxing, with all deference to the opinion of many who do not in the least understand the game, is not brutal when conducted in the proper manner. With six ounce gloves, the proper medical examination of the fighters, and the conducting of the bouts in an orderly and decent manner, the game would gain as supporters some of the people who at the present time decry it.

Fighters, where they have the human spark of intelligence, understand that it is up to them to say whether the game will live or die, and most of the successful pugilists of the present time are young fellows living clean lives, who mind their own business outside of the ring, and avoid the bar room and evil influences.

To tell the simple truth, very simple to the man who has looked on the game with his eyes open, the fall of the sport has been due to the influence of gamblers and the fact that fighters have been surrounded with the very worst scum of humanity.

Once let fighters and athletic promoters understand that it is up to them to weed out this pernicious influence, that would kill even as harmless a game as ping pong, and the game will improve and the prejudice that now exists will be somewhat softened at least.

TOURNAMENT DATE CHOSEN

Draw for State Tennis Play Will Be Made Aug. 14.

The draw for the state tennis tournament will be made Aug. 14. This was decided upon at the committee meeting in Minneapolis, Carroll Graff returning yesterday with the information.

With the draw made on that date, play will continue throughout the week. It was decided to eliminate the junior singles, the junior players entering the regular single event. This ruling will place many of the Duluth players, eligible for the junior events, in the regulars.

From information gathered by Mr. Graff, there is reason to believe that the tournament here will be one of the biggest ever held in the state. It is possible that John Adams, winner of the cup last season, may meet George Armstrong, former holder of the cup, at the tournament here. This game would attract attention all over the state.

News was also received of the application by the state association for membership in the national association. Granting of the application would increase the standing in tennis circles of the Minnesota association.

FUNDS FOR ROCK PILE

Council Votes $900 to Maintain Work Begun By Associated Charities.

City Jail Must Be Improved or It Will Be Condemned.

The city council last night voted $900 to be applied to maintaining the rock pile at Fourteenth avenue west, to be expended by the board of public works under the direction of the Associated Charities.

This sum is intended to keep the work test at the Point of Rocks in operation for one year, ending March 1, 1911. It was granted only after a hard campaign had been waged by those interested and several appearances before the city council by members of the Associated Charities, the women's council and the ministerial association. All were urgent in their statements that the plan was one of the best devised for helping worthy men out of work and ridding the city of undesirable characters.

Figures were submitted showing that many needy men had been assisted to jobs, while numerous others had been enabled to earn meals and lodging for several days. The idea is to give them just enough work to tide them over temporarily, until they can secure work either in or out of the city. In some instances enough money has been paid them for railroad fare or to buy a job from an employment agent.

Teh annual report of Chief of Police Troyer, submitted last evening, set forth the urgent need of improvements to the city jail and the addition of another story. He stated that it is well known to the officials that unless this is provided for at the meeting of the conference next fall, the jail will be closed by the state board of control. He advocates the use of the entire proposed additional floor for jail purposes.

The chief explained that the department had exceeded its appropriation of $81,000 by $3,000 last year, but that every effort would be made to keep within the limit this year, as $92,000 was allowed by the conference committee. Several new patrolmen will be added to the force at West Duluth, New Duluth, and the West end. A new lockup is asked for at New Duluth.

By a vote of 10 to 4 the council last night ordered the comptroller to audit the bill of the Duluth-Edison Electric company for lights which were ordered in a year ago under a resolution which put the city under no legal obligation to pay for them. This does not mean that the bill is directed to be paid, but will bring the bill before the council for consideration. The various railroads running through the city were directed to maintain about fifty lights over as many different crossings.

Alderman Scott introduced a resolution giving it as the opinion of the council that the plat commission should not approve any plats which showed that the average or unit lot had a frontage of less than fifty feet. It was laid over a week for further consideration.

The committee on auditing and county conference was directed to meet with the board of county commissioners to ascertain whether or not it will be possible to obtain an appropriation from that body for the purpose of extending the Gethell road, which runs from West Duluth to Proctor over the easiest grade which could be discovered by the city engineering department.

The saloon license asked for by Frank Kohnen at 1002 Garfield avenue was not granted last night, but was held over a week for further investigation. A license at the same number has been denied to two other applicants. The residents of the vicinity protested against the granting of any license in that vicinity. They claimed that the man who ran it until the license expired recently, did not conduct a moral place, allowing it to be frequented by disreputable women.

The Duluth Street Railway company asked that it be allowed to lay a conduit in Superior street between Seventh and Eighth avenues west, and to this end an amendment to the ordinance governing this matter was introduced last night. The street railway company will put its feed wires in conduits from Fifteenth avenue west to Eighth avenue west, and from Eighth to Seventh avenues if the ordinance is passed.

The Hazelwood Improvement club sent in a copy of a resolution passed by the organization going on record as opposed to allowing any railroad to build bridges with posts which will in any way obstruct the city streets.

The council allowed George E. Duren, sealer of weights and measures, $25 a month for the care of his horse.

The board of public works was directed to circulate a petition for the improvement of East Fourth street between Sixth and Fourteenth avenues.

An ordinance was passed putting the district on the lower side of West Second street between Third and Sixth avenues in the fire limits.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT TO ISSUE BULLETINS.

The pamphlet will be published once each month from this time on. It will also contain suggestions along the line of public health. They will be distributed throughout the city free of charge.

DIES IN SPOKANE.

Former Michigan and Butte Mining Man Passes Away.

Butte, Mont., March 14.—The funeral has just been held here of John D. Sullivan, for fifteen years foreman at the St. Lawrence and Anaconda mines here, who died on Friday in a Spokane hospital from pneumonia.

Mr. Sullivan was 45 years old and was born in Michigan. He came to Butte twenty-five years ago and went into mining. His capabilities brought him positions of responsibility. He leaves a mother, two sisters, Miss Nellie and Mrs. Patrick Sullivan, two brothers, Michael of Butte and Peter of Calumet, Mich.; a wife and five children, William, aged 19; John, aged 16; Edward, aged 13; Joseph, aged 6, and Margaret, aged 3 years.

His home here has been in the big house at the Anaconda mine. Among Mr. Sullivan's close personal friends was John D. Ryan, president of the Amalgamated Copper company.

PATENT BAIT UNLAWFUL.

Fishermen Warned Against Using St. Louis Preparation.

St. Paul, Minn., March 14.—A wonderful bait, warranted to coax out bass or any other kind of fish from the farthest recess of a stream or lake is promised in the advertising of St. Louis manufacturers. A circular says that the compound is not unlawful. A fisherman in this state sent the advertisement to H. A. Rider, executive agent of the game and fish commission. Mr. Rider says that all drugs or similar means of attracting fish are prohibited in Minnesota. Users of this composition will be severely dealt with.

INVENTS AN AEROPLANE.

Former Aitkin Man, Now in Los Angeles, Seeks Capital.

Aitkin, Minn., March 14.—John Walter James has been heard from again. He is now in Los Angeles, Cal., and on his letter head he bears the title of "Aeronaut." He writes to W. B. Gwathmey asking him to organize a stock company for him, getting say thirty men to put in $100 apiece, which will enable him to build an aeroplane on which he has been working for four years. He describes his machine as being neither a biplane like the Wright Bros.' making, nor a monoplane like Bleriot's, with which he crossed the English channel, but something like a monoplane, and with this difference, that his machine will not require a forty-acre lot to get started, but will rise vertically out of any space big enough to hold it, and will be able to alight either on land or water. It will also stand still in the air like a humming bird, and if anything breaks, a safe landing can be made.

Mrs. Dietz Is Worse.

Ashland, Wis., March 14.—Mrs. John Dietz, wife of the Cameron dam defender, has taken a turn for the worse. Dr. Dodd of Ashland, who cared for Myra after she was shot, was called to Rice Lake to see her. Blood poisoning has set in and her condition is serious.

"Foley's Honey and Tar is the best cough remedy I ever used as it quickly stopped a severe cough that had long troubled me," says J. W. Kuhn, Princeton, Neb. Just so quickly and surely it acts in all cases of coughs, colds, la grippe and lung trouble. Refuse substitutes. Sold by all druggists.

An Unparalleled Record

49,491,000 TRAVEL; NOT A LIFE LOST

Harriman Lines' Passenger Report for 1910 Shows Victory of Safety Devices.

ACCIDENTS CUT TO THIRD.

Union Pacific Casualties Drop to One-Fifth; Ticket Scalping Is Reduced.

The Harriman railway lines carried 10 per cent of the estimated 1910 passenger traffic of the United States, or 49,491,000 people, without fatal accident to any of the number. This result is ascribed to the installation of safety devices and is believed to have no parallel in the railroad world.

The report, containing this data, just has been compiled in the offices of Julius Kruttschnitt, director of maintenance and operation on the system, including the Southern Pacific and Union Pacific railroads, a total of 17,000 miles.

The total number of passengers carried on a one mile basis was 8,000,000,000. The figures of the country's railroads for 1910 have not yet been compiled by the government; but in 1909 the interstate commerce commission reported the number of passengers carried as 20,000,000,000. The figures for 1910 will not exceed a billion more, it is said.

No Like Record Known.

Many other railroads have gone through a year without a fatality to any of its passengers, but it is said that no system has made this record for such a large total of passengers.

The results on the Harriman lines are ascribed to a campaign waged by the management for years to reduce accidents. The Harriman system now has more miles of automatic block signal protection than any other system in the world. Mr. Kruttschnitt himself has directed special attention to the accident problem and began several years ago to bring about a reduction by giving complete publicity to all forms of accidents and their investigation, which, it is believed, spurred both officers and employes to greater efforts to safeguard lives intrusted to their care.

Chicago Tribune, February 12th.

Union Pacific

Not a Single Fatal Accident.

The Harriman lines carried 10 per cent of the country's estimated passenger traffic for 1910. Not a single fatal accident occurred to a passenger anywhere on the system.

This achievement is described as unparalleled in railroading, and it is attributed to the installation of safety devices—chiefly, if not wholly.

If a small line gets through a year without a fatal accident the result may itself be considered accidental. A vast system carrying millions of passengers owes safety to improvements, care and efficiency.

WHEAT UP BUT DULL

Shorts Run to Cover---World's Visible Shows a Decrease.

Crop Reports Mixed, Generally Favorable—Flax Dull.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 14.—Wheat advanced ¾c today, both May and July walking forward to the high point at the close. After the dip at noon the market rallied and closed strong but dull. Cash wheat closed ½c under May, oats closed ¼c up, rye was unchanged, barley gained 2c and durum gained ½c.

Flaxseed was dull and lifeless. May sold at $2.65 after being offered at $2.65½. La Plata seed for March-April shipment closed $2.248, including an allowance of 4 per cent for dirt and impurities.

Wheat was dull and lifeless and the market's narrowness was evidence of the trade's indifferent regard to tattered and frazed issues and its disregard of the attempts to influence sentiment by bullish crop news and incipient efforts to estimate the winter wheat yield and the abandoned acreage.

Statistics pleased the bulls and the news was about evenly divided between the two camps. The visible supply of wheat in the world decreased 1,708,000 bu. Supplies afloat and in Europe increased 200,000 bu. Wheat east of the Rockies decreased 2,151,000 bu.

Although cables opened lower the American markets were strong at the opening, the foreign prices being disregarded. There was no pressure to values and when the movement of wheat was seen to be decreasing, the cash demand slightly improving, and the flour trade in a healthy condition the sentiment quickly acquired a bullish tinge. Prices went forward but around noon a counterpart appeared in the form of extremely favorable crop reports, which induced selling which stopped the bulge and caused the market to ease off.

Reports from scattered portions of the Southwestern states were almost identical. The crop said messages is in splendid condition. A Kansas City man evidently has been leaving the checker room alone during the late dull season. He got out a report today estimating the abandoned acreage in Kansas at 10 per cent. This would leave nearly 6,000,000 acres of wheat in that state, or the largest acreage in its history. It is impossible to report with any degree of accuracy or with any honest application of intelligent endeavor concerning the winter wheat so early in the season.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: The wheat market was easy at the opening and ¼d lower, being influenced by the weaker American cables. Later there was some disposition shown to support the market and shorts were inclined to cover, which checked the decline. There was some further inquiry from the continent and the close at Buenos Ayres was comparatively steady with Plata offers more firmly held and expectations of a small increase in the European visible. Toward mid-day the market was again under pressure as Plata offers became freer with a lower opening in Paris and a relief of increased shipments from Australia, as leacing there is very heavy. At this time the market was dull and ¾d lower than yesterday. Corn was quiet and after opening with some support in March declined ¼d from the opening, and at mid-day was unchanged to ¼d lower than yesterday. The weakness in America and a poor short trade were the factors for the decline. The market on the whole was dull. The visible supply of wheat in Europe this week amounts to 115,652,000 bu against 113,448,000 bu last week, thus showing an increase of 161,000 bu last week; there was an increase of 3,616,000 bu and last year an increase of 2,868,000 bu, when the total amounted to 96,748,000 bu.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Fine Weather and Weak Cables Pull Down Wheat.

Chicago, March 14.—Fine weather and weak cables pulled down the price of wheat today. This side of the Atlantic the government forecast pointed to a continuance of ideal prospects for the growing plant. According to the foreign crop summary, the outlook abroad was no less favorable than in the United States. Furthermore, it was expected that shipments from Australia to Liverpool would soon become unusually free, as loading was reported to have been very heavy. The market here opened a shade to ¼c lower with May at 90@90¼c to 90¼c, the same decline as for the option list taken altogether. A fall to 89¾@89⅞ followed.

Bullish Kansas crop reports, a big world's supply decrease, and Japanese war rumors strengthened prices later. The close was firm with May ¾@⅞c net higher at 91c.

Corn was slow and heavy. A leading bear concern readily supplied more than enough to meet the modest amounts that were wanted. May started 1-16 to ⅛@¼c down at 49⅜c to 49¾c, and dropped to 49c.

Considerable unloading later by longs kept prices from rallying as much as wheat. The close was steady with May ⅛c net lower at 48⅝@48½c.

Oats appeared to lack friends. The opening for May was a shade to ⅛c off at 30¾c to 30¾@30⅞c. After touching 30⅝c, the market weakened to 30⅜@30¼c.

Provisions eased materially under commission selling. First sales were 2½c lower to 2½c up with May options at $17.42½ for pork, $9.10 for lard and $9.47½ $9.50 for ribs.

Cotton Market.

New York, March 14.—Cotton opened steady at an advance of 6@8 points in response to higher cables than expected and reports that a leading English statistician had issued a circular confirming a previous crop estimate of 11,750,000 bales and a previous estimate of world's requirements of American cotton of 12,500,000 bales. There seemed to be little demand, however, aside from covering by some of yesterday's sellers and the appearance of leading bull brokers around the ring as sellers of May against purchases of July soon imparted an easier tone to the market with prices casing off to a net decline of 1 or 2 points during the middle of the morning.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Bulls Are Aggressive and Short Interest Scrambles to Cover.

Close Active and Strong at About Best Prices of Day.

New York, March 14.—Opening prices on the stock exchange today in almost every case were above yesterday's last figures. Rock Island preferred made the best gain, advancing a point. Pennsylvania was up ¾, American Locomotive ⅝, and Union Pacific, Wisconsin Central, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Sault Ste. Marie and American Ice Securities ½.

The market made a good demonstration of strength in the first hour, the feature of the dealings being a brisk demand for many of the minor industrials and specialities, which advanced them from 1 to 2 points. Among the standard stocks advances were established of a point in Reading, Atchison, Pennsylvania, Great Northern preferred, Northern Pacific and Lehigh Valley.

The demand for stocks was broader and more active during the morning trading than for weeks. Operators on the long side, encouraged by the manner in which the market yesterday received the supreme court decision upholding the corporation tax law became more aggressive and succeeded in advancing prices materially. Bear traders were powerless to make headway and forced covering of short contracts helped to advance prices.

Factors which contributed largely to the strength of the market were the unusually good statement of foreign trade in February and the success of new financing projects of several corporations. After United States Steel, Union Pacific and Amalgamated Copper were lifted a point, the demand slackened and trading grew quite dull, but prices were maintained at the best. Bonds were firm.

Speculation took on early in the afternoon a buoyant tone and the bulls had matters pretty much their own way. The short interest scrambled to cover as prices were marked up relentlessly. Stocks which are ordinarily neglected showed great activity. Northwestern got up 2¾, United States Rubber 2⅝, Great Northern preferred 2¼, and Union Pacific, Lehigh Valley, American Tobacco preferred and American Snuff preferred 2. United States Steel sold at 78¾ and Reading 157.

The market closed active and stronger. Following another period of inactivity the market gathered renewed strength in the final hour when some of the best prices for the day were recorded. The chief features of strength were Reading, United States Steel, Northern Pacific, Union Pacific, St. Paul, American Telephone & Telegraph, Amalgamated Copper, Tennessee Copper and American Smelting.

COPPERS ACTIVE AND STRONGER

The copper market in the East today was strong and lively. Here it was as dull as it has been for several weeks and with the exception of a few brief periods for the last year.

Amalgamted, by its absorption of the United Metals Selling company, has increased its dividend possibilities by ½ of one per cent. The earnings of the United Metals Selling company also pay the interest on the $12,000,000 worth of notes the Amalgamated sold to get the purchase money.

The sale of these notes today caused Amalgamated to take a spurt upward. The speculative movement extended to the entire list which walked forward. The market closed after an active day at its top point.

Locally the market was exceedingly dull. Keating sold from $2.75 to $3 and Summit was traded in at 62c. Amalgamated sold at $65.37½ to $64.75. Butte Ballaklava at $5.50. Calumet & Arizona at $51.50 to $51.75. Giroux at $6 to $6.25. Greene at $5.93¾ to $6 to $5.87½. North Butte at $28.50 to $29.25. Superior & Pittsburg at $15. Shattuck at $19. Butte Coalition at $17.75 to $18 to $17.75. Ojibway at $6.

COUNTY CLUB WILL MEET HERE

The attendance at the meeting of the county club at the Commercial clubrooms tomorrow is expected to be greater than at any previous meeting of the club.

All of the range clubs have appointed delegates to attend, the farmers' clubs of the county will be well represented, and an effort is being made to get as many Duluth men as possible out to the meetings.

The school trustees of the county will hold their annual meeting here tomorrow at the call of Supt. N. A. Coe, county road supervisor, will speak on county roads. Discussions will follow each paper. A. B. Hostetter, agricultural expert of the Commercial club, will introduce a discussion of "Best Methods of Agricultural Instruction."

OFFICER SHOT BY STRIKERS

Somerset, Ky., March 14.—Charles Swartz, a St. Louis detective guarding non-union firemen on No. 3 passenger train of the Cincinnati, New Orleans & Texas Pacific road, was brought here today suffering from a bad gunshot wound received near Stearns, Ky., thirty miles south of here, in a riot early this morning.

Swartz attempted to hold back a crowd which attacked the locomotive and tried to reach a negro fireman. In an exchange of shots, the detective was wounded in the mouth. It is reported that the fireman was killed and that several other negro firemen were lynched near the Tennessee line.

Lexington, Ky., March 14.—Partial confirmation of the reports of rioting at Stearns, Ky., and south of there were received here today when the engineer of a passenger train declared that three men wre killed last night between King's Mountain, Ky., and Glenmary, Tenn. One of the belated passenger trains arriving from the South today came in with broken windows as the result of an attack by strike sympathizers.

Reports from Danville stated that 100 St. Louis men, armed as guards for trains arrived there and will be sent South for duty this afternoon.
